Our Army has not yet made any confiderable Progress, being on the 6th Instant advanced but a small Distance from the Head of the Ghauts. The Enemy cannonade and skirmish with our Troops, but avoid coming to a decisive Action, endeavouring as much as they can to harrass them and cut off their Supplies. In these defultory Attacks, Lieutenant Colonel Cay, the Second in Command, has been mortally wounded, and Captain Stewart killed, with scarely any other Loss. Colonel Egerton's infirm State of Health has obliged him to give up the Command to Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, to whom we have given Orders to proceed with the utmost Vigour and Activity in his Operations, in order to give Encouragment to Ragoba's Friends, who are slow in declaring themselves in his Favour.

It is with Concern we advise you of the Death of Mr. Mostyn, who is an inexpressible Loss at this Juncture.

We have yet no Accounts of the Asia, or the Indiamen under her Convoy.

P P E N D I X, N 175, 176, and 177.

We have judged it advisable to defire the Gentlemen at Madras to give us a Latitude to havin a Part of the Forces destined for the Expedition against Myhic, after that Service is brought to an Tue, if we should then find ourselves disappointed of the Bengal Detachment, or the Exigence of our Affairs may require their Aid.

The Royal Henry will be dispatched in a few Days, when we shall transmit the Papers mentioned in our Letter of the 12th ultimo.

Bombay Castle, the 13th January 1779.

We Yesterday received your Letter dated the 22d ultimo, and had before that received that lated the 7th.

The Milcarriage of a Letter referred to in the one you enclosed from the Governor General nd Council, leaves us totally in the Dark as to the Object of your Negociation with Moodajee loosla; nor while we remain in this State of Ignorance, can we be proper Judges what Points reining to this Presidency may be necessary to be included in the Operations to be concerted with he Rajah of Berar. We have as before advised, depending upon the Services of your Detach-tent, and the Aid and Support of the Governor General and Council, concluded a Treaty with agonaut Row, and our Forces are now actually in the Field in consequence of that Engagement; therefore the Affistance of your Detachment is withheld from us, we know not how deeply the conourable Company's Interest may be affected, as the Poona Ministers seem determined to ake a vigorous Opposition. The Governor General and Council's late Orders to you, appear have been given on a Supposition that the Plan for your Detachment, as originally formed, id failed, upon which Account they had adopted another of their own to supply the Place of

Their Plan we therefore conclude must have the same Object with ours, which was to subvert a Party in the Poona Government, connected with the French in Defigns hoffile to the Company, to prevent the French from acquiring the predominant Influence in that Durbar, and to settle a Government at Poona friendly to the English, and which would look up to their Alliance for its Support and Stability. We shall not enlarge upon the great political Necessity of the Measures we have engaged in, of which we doubt not you must be fully sensible; and when to the Objects above recited, are added the Territorial Advantages gained by our Treaty, the Importance of the Undertaking must appear very striking.

That you may have every Light we can afford, we enclose a Copy of the Treaty with Ragonaut Row; and when our present Situation is considered, and how essentially the Company is interested n the Event of our Operations, to which we think the Aid of your Detachment, on which we always lepended, is necessary to ensure Success, we doubt not but the Governor General and Council vil approve of your conforming to your former Instructions alluded to in our Letter of the 9th ultimo; and as we cannot suppose it possible that our Measures can be incompatible with our present Instructions, we most earnestly press and enjoin you to march directly to Poona, without Moment's Loss of Time, instead of Ziner, as before directed.

Colonel Egerton's bad State of Health has obliged him to refign the Command of the Army in the Field to Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, Lieutenant Colonel Cay being, it is thought, mortally wounded

It is at any Rate highly proper, that your Detachment should be at this Place before the Monfoon, to fecure Bombay in Cafe of an Attack by the French next Season, which our own Force is by no Means equal to oppose; and you must bear in Mind, that there is only an Interval of little more than Four Months left you to perform the March before the Rains fet in. This Confideration is alone fufficient to press you to advance with Expedition, and to which we assure ourselves you will be strongly prompted by your Zeal for the Company's Interest, and the important Services you have it in your Power to render on this Coast.

We do not conceive that Hyder's Views can in any Shape interfere with the March of the Army under your Command, and we have defired the Gentlemen at Madras to make a proper Application to the Nizam, and to demand his Neutrality in the Contest.

The Governor General lays before the Board, the following Paper of Intelligence received Yesterday, with a Letter from the President of Fort St. George. A Letter arrived at the same from the Nabob of Arcot, which is not yet translated, but which the Governor underfords contains hands contains a Copy of the same Intelligence which appears to have been written from his Vackeel at Poona. From other Intelligence transinitted to him by General Stibbert, and through other Channels, he is confirmed in the Belief that the News contained in this Paper is but the Covernor does not think it proper to true. Alarming as this levent is, the Governor does not think it proper to propose any immediate Measures to be taken in consequence, as the Board are yet unacquainted with the Situation of the Detachment under the Command of Colonel Goddard, from whom Advices may be hovely expected, which will inform them of the Plan of Action which he may have formed on the Know. ledge of this unhappy Catallrophe.

Although it gives me the most heart-felt Pain to communicate such News as I have just received from Poona, yet withing to give my Friends the first Intelligence, that they may be put on their Guard, and take such Measures as Providence may dictate, I now enclose you a Copy of it.

I have taken every Opportunity of pointing out to my Friends fuch Measures as appeared to me proper. I inclose you a Copy of a Letter, containing my Advice in consequence of Infor mations which I some Time ago received from Poona, addressed to the Governor and Council of Madras, under Date the 3d December 1778, and also of one I wrote them with the Intelligence received from Poona; had they purfued my Plan, the Affairs there had been well fettled. Will you, my Friend, who are endowed with Wifdom, even now take fuch Meafures as shall be most advisable?

I did myself the Honour to disparch a Pair of Cossids to your Highness on the 11th Zehen, with the following Intelligence, that Scremunt Ragonaut had proceeded with the English Atmy as far as the Gaut with hostile Intentions; and that Uppa Bulwant Row, Bhum Row Bhanfa, and the Armies of Scinda and Holcar, were marched from hence towards the Gaut to oppose them, these I hope reached you safely. I again dispatched another Pair on the 1st Zehedje, with this Intelligence, that Ragonaut with the English crossed the Gaut; but those Cossids being plundered at Funderpore returned to me. I fent another Pair of Cossids on the 26th of the same Month, with Intelligence that the English were marching back towards Bombay, that is to fay, towards the Gaut; this Pair was likewife plundered at Naringpore, which occasioned a Delay in your teceiving regular Advices from me. I now dispatch another Pair; God grant that they may meet you in Safety, and make you acquainted with all the Particulars.

The late Occurrences are these: The English passed the Gaut, and employed a Month in removing of Difficulties, receiving Supplies from behind; they entrenched themselves within Palifadoes.

Ragonaut Row came at first to the Gaut, from whence he went to Drangaut, and having icduced Two Forts in the Way, returned to the Gaut, from whence he marched forwards with the English Army, consisting of Eight Bartalions of Sepoys, 700 European Soldiers, 40 Pieces of Artillery, a Colonel and other Officers, Chests of Ammunition, and Specie to the Amount of 40 Lacks of Rupees, and his own Force confifting of 600 Horse and Two Battalions of Sepoys. On the Side of the Marattas, Succarum Pundit and Nannah Purnavefe in concert, employed Two Months in preparing their Armies, they employed both Money and Grants of Jaghires to fitisty Hujjarant Packa and the other Chiefs; and although he shewed himself attached, yet the Minifters for greater Security, entered into still stricter Ties to conciliate him the more to them, and Holcar having been displeased by the Imprisonment of his Dewan Naroo Gunnase, the said Dewan was reflored, and Scinda also employed Means to induce him to espouse the Cause. A ter this the Ministers assembled all their Chiefs, both great and small, and told them to consult together, and that whatever Measures they jointly agreed on should be carried into lexecution: They all with one Accord made Answer—Ilad Ragonaut Row come with Marattas only's was all. not have made War with him, for he was our Chief; but fince he wishes to come in with an English Army, who are Foreigners and very powerful, with whose Disposition we are well acquainted, from their Conduct in Bengal, and to Svjab-ul-Dowla and several other Chiefs, which is notorious, how can we admit of it? except we should chuse to submit to the English Toke, and put on Hats and Coats; rather than so, it is better to die in Battle!—These Sentiments, which were general, they all ratified by Oaths. Afterwards Bam Row Bhanfa, Raja Pundit appa Uppa Bulwant Row, Sindea, and Holear, with an Army of 40,000 Cavalry and 15,000 Infantry marched to Felgong.

The most earnest Wish of the Bombay Chiefs was to affist Ragonaut Row; and the News of the Reduction of Pondicherry, the Arrival of the Calcutta Army at the Nurbudder, and Moodinger Boofla's Friendship, inspired them with too great Presumption; in the mean Time Mr. T. Mostyn and Jetoo Pectul went from Poona, and perfuaded them, that they had only to thew themfelves at the Gaut to be immediately joined, not only by those who were already connected with them, but also by many other of the Maratta Chiefs; that Holcar would come over to them the Moment they arrived at the Gaut, and would be followed by Hujjerant, and all the others; that by reason of a general Defection, there was no Life in the Party; that the Opportunity then prefented itself. Hearing this, the English and Ragonaut Row repaired to the Gaut, and after wasting a whole Month not one of the Maratta Chiefs joined them, but they were informed from hence by Sadashew Ramchund and Madho Goherna, that if they would advance more forward there would be a general Defection to them, but this was without the smallest Foundation. When Mr. Moyston learnt the Particulars of the Measures taken by the Marattas he perceived that the Business was at an End, and being likewise indisposed, he took Leave of the Commander in Chief, and returned to Bombay, where I learn he is fince dead.

The English quitted the Gaut and marched forwards, and the Maratta Chiefs set about Hosthies after their usual Manner, and commanded the English at a Distance, with the large Cannon under the Charge of Bum Row. The English marched Two Coss a Day, and halted every second Day, and thus in Two Days March arrived at Chicklee, which is Four Coss from the Gaut: As there were many Nullahs and difficult Passes in the Route, the Maratta Army could not encompass them, but the Contest was always on one Side. Notwithstanding this, the Manatas, wherever they saw an advantageous Spot for the Purpose, discharged their Cannon at them.
Near Chicklee Colonel Stewart, the Commander in Chief, was killed by a Discharge of a Grape Shot, and was succeeded in the Command by his Nephew, who was on the Spot. Mr. Carnac, the Second in Council at Bombay, was present, intending, when Ragonaut Row should be established at Poona, to contract Engagements with each of the Chiefs, and to oblige them to submit themselves to Ragonaut Row; and for this Purpose he carried the Company's Seal with him.

On the 21st of Zehedjee (10th of January) the English Army arrived at Jeelgong, Seven Coss from the Gaut. Siccaran Pundit, &c. were at Jeelgong, and having learnt the first Day that the English had reached Roregong, Two Coss from them, they had sent their Baggage, &c. towards Cumbandaree, and retreated themselves Two Coss; the English supposed they had sted, and the Marattas wished to draw them into an open Plain. The Day when the English arrived at Jeelgong an Engagement was fought, in which the Marattas had near 200 Cavalry killed, and the English lost 25 European Soldiers, including One or Two Officers, and 100 Sepoys. On the Second Day the English, from the Heights of Jeelgong, perceived that they were furrounded on all Sides by the Maratta Forces; they halted there Two Days, hoping to be joined by some of the Maratta Chiefs, but not a fingle Man came over to them; and the Intelligence they had been accustomed to receive from the other Army was stopped; should they wait for the Calcutta and Boosla's Army, they were on the Banks of the Nurbudder, and it would require a long Time to receive any News from them; in this Situation they faid to Jetoo Peetul, "You have brought Ruin on us, who engaged thus far on the Strength of your Promifes." It was the general Opinion of the Officers that they ought to return to Piangaut, it being impossible for them to stand against the Maratta Army. Ragonaut Row learning this, sent to Sindeah and desired to be received by him in any Manner that it could be contrived, and that even if the Maratta would make a smart Attack upon the English, he would go over to them with his 600 Horse and Two Battalions: It is probable the English got Intelligence of this Proceedure. On the 23d Zehedjee (12th January) at Midnight, the English leaving their Tents, &c. Necessaries, with One Battalion of Sepoys and 200 European Soldiers, with Seven Pieces of Cannon, at Jeelgong, set off secretly with Ragonaut Row, hoping by this Means to deceive the Marattas, who might suppose the whole Army in their Camp; and that they might by this Stratagem escape; they accordingly took the Route of Worgong. Siccaram immediately drew up his Army with the most consummate Skill, and with Nanna Purnaveese, Sindeah, and Holcar marched to attack the English, who they imagined were marching towards Poona, but found they had taken the Route of the Gaut. As soon as they saw this they flew to the Attack of the Party which had been left, and plundered the Tents and Money, and every thing they found there: The Two Battalions and the Europeans fought very bravely, but Siccaram led his own Army to the Attack, and Multitudes flocked in from all Quarters, in the Hope of sharing in the Plunder; and the Whole were destroyed. As the English and Ragonaut Row had not advanced far, they foon overtook and furrounded them in a Place where there were many Nullahs, steep Rocks, and Hollows, and taking Possession of all the Passes, attacked them with Musketry from Midnight till the Evening of the next Day; the Engagement was kept up with small Arms, and the English were not suffered to advance a Step; the English Artillery were rendered useless by the Nullas and Heights, so that they stopped their Fire; but the Maratta Cannon, which were of a much larger Size, kept up a continual Fire upon them from a Distance; the English had therefore no Resource. That Day the English lost 150 European Soldiers, 600 Sepoys, and several Officers, and the Marattas lost Two or Three Officers, namely Gaoda, Suttoola, &c. and 200 Horses and 500 Sepoys. At Night the Marattas Ropped their Fire, and set strong Guards at all the Posts, after which Siccaram Pundit, &c. went and supped at Teelgong. On the 24th Zehedje (13th January) at Midnight, all the Chiefs went to attack the Intrenchments, and begun a Cannonade; Siccaram was on Foot, and having taken Care to secure the Nulla, sent on a Party of skilful Musketeers to attack the English: Nanna, Scindia, and Holcar, were as usual very attentive to their respective Posts; the English Artillery did no Good, and the Firing was therefore stopped: On that Day the Marattas lost 75 Men, and the English 50 Europeans and 400 Sepoys. In the Asternoon a Kidmutgar of Ragonaut Row and a Kidmutgar of the Colonels brought a Letter addressed to Serement Row Pundit Purdhaun, desiring to send a Person of Credit to treat on several Points. All the Ministers having perused the Letter, ordered Victuals to be given to the Kidmutgars, gave them a Present, and sent them back with this Answer, That they might send whomsoever they pleased, that a Truce should be observed. The Ministers having then strengthened the Guards at the different Posts, returned to their Tents, and continued there till Mid-day of the 25th Zehedja (14th January); after Dinner they went to the Intrenchments, and Sindea fired Two or Three Times on the Englift, but they did not answer it either by Cannon or Musketry. At this Time Mr. Farmer, a Friend of your Highness's, with whom he some Time ago, came out, on which Sindea ceased firing, and nalled him to him: Mr. Farmer came out and spoke thus to the Ministers, We are Merchants, Rep. VI.

and have shed no Blood in your Families; Ragonaut Row took Refuge with us, and solicited our Aid, and we, supposing him the Chief of the Government, accompanied him; Fortune does not favour him; we are remediles; do you receive and settle Matters with him; the Engagement which were contracted between us are still in Force; whatever has since passed forgive; in sature we must conform to the Engagements which subsist.—The Ministers answered, Ragonaut Row is one of us; where is the Necessity for your Interference in our Negociations? The Fort of Shastor which you took Possession of, with the Wealth in it, as well as all the Money you have collessed from the Country you shall give back; you shall likewise relinquish Rambooleer, &c. as well as the Mahals of the Rackwar Goujeraut, and the Division of Broach which belonged to the Sirkar, you shall also restore the 12 Lacks of Rupces which the Colonel took on account of the Treaty: How would you be ever able to defray the Charges of the Army, and the Price of the Hosses which have been killed? but it is necessary that you pay the Amount of the latter. In suture you shall conform to the Engagements concluded under Ballajee Row Pundit Purdhan, and raise no Disturbance.

Mr. Farmer having received this Answer, returned to his own Army. During these Negociations 10,000 Maratta Cavalry arrived at Piangaut, which being joined to 5,000 which had been fent there before, destroyed all the Guards which the English had posted at different Stations as far as the Gaut, and burnt their Palifades, and plundered the whole Country from Piangaut to Punveil; this I heard from the Mouth of Nanna Purnaveele, but cannot certainly tell if it is true or false. At Noon of the 26th Zehedja (15th January) Mr. Farmer came to Sindea, and faid, I give you a fealed Carte Blanche, write your own Terms; I agree. Sindea accordingly fent word to the Ministers, I shall put down whatever you shall direct me, but it is improper to spill more Blood, which would leave Refentment in their Breasts: Whatever Points are necessary, make them agree to: When Ragonaut Row comes hither, every Matter is settled; they must restore Shaftee, the Goujerat Country, the Subjects of the Sircar, the Guicawar's Country of Four Pannahs which they took at the same Time with Shaftee, the Bengal Army which is approach. ing shall likewise return, and give no Trouble in the Sircar's Territories; and all Matters shall remain on the Footing they were under Scremunt Ballajee Row and Madho Row; they shall reftore the Jewels pledged by Ragonaut Row, and make no Demand for the Amount, and shall give all the Bonds and Deeds entered into by Ragonaut Row; nor shall they claim any thing on the Account of the Expences they have been at for Ragonaut Row. These are the Terms dictated by Sindea, which he fent to Siccaram, who held a Confultation on them, with Nanna Purnavese and Madho Row, and fettled them. I am endeavouring to procure a Copy of it, and if I succeed will fend it to your Highness. It was further stipulated, that till a Treaty was received under the Seal of the Company, and the Signature of the General, the Council and Select Committee, and Garrisons established in Shastee, and the other Mahals, the Nephew of Colonel Stewart and Mr. Farmer should remain in their Hands. The English were remediless; they had been Three Days without Victuals, and both the Soldiers and Sepoys had thrown their Arms and Accountements on the Ground.

On the 27th Zehedja (16th January) the Treaty under the Seal of the Company which Mr. Carnac had with him, and the Signature of Four Officers of the Army, Carnac, Egerton, Farmer, and Mr. Holmes, was prepared and delivered to Sindeah, who immediately fent them Provisions, on the 28th Zehedja (17th January) the English marched from thence, and Ragonaut Row remained there; the Sirkar's Guards are kept there. This not being a fortunate Day, Ragonaut Row did not come to the Camp, but will come at Noon To-morrow, which is a lucky Hour. The English represented that the Garrisons in the Maratta Forts would molest them in their Return, and therefore request an Escort, and Rahdarry Dustuck; a Dustuck and an Escort of 2000 Horse were accordingly ordered them, and they set out. Whatever may hereafter occur I shall represent to your Highness.

Copy of a News-paper from the Durbar of the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla Bahadre: Dated the 8th Mohurrem (4th February) 27th January; received at Madras the 16th of Mohurrem, 1779.

A Pair of Hircarrahs arrived on the Night of the 16th of Mohurrem, who report that Ragonaut Row, who might be faid to be imprisoned in the Hands of the English, being driven to Extremity, sent a Message through Sindeah and Holcar, to be allowed to go to that Party and make his Peace; and that accordingly on the Day of the Engagement between the Maratta and English Armies, seeing the Superiority on the Side of the Marattas, he quitted his Party with 5 or 6000 Horse which he had with him, and joined Sindeah; the Marattas regarding this Event as an interportant Victory, received the Force brought them by Ragonaut Row.

In a Word, Ragonaut Row with his Force joined with the Maratta Army, and the English having suffered a terrible Defeat, took Shelter in the Heights above the Gaut; Sindeah and Holean are the Managers of the Negociations for Ragonaut Row, and mean to exclude the English from all the Interference therein, and under the Sanction of Oaths to accommodate Matters between Ragonaut Row and the Poona Ministers. This Account is confirmed by the Poona Vackeel here.

by or a Paper of Intelligence from the Durbar of the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla: Dated the 8th of Mohurrem (27th January) received the 16th of the fame Month (4th February).

The Highness Yesterday received Intelligence from Jewajee Vackeel, of the Seizure of Ragomut Row; and perused the Arzie containing this Account, in private, and early this Morning sent for Samsaum ul Dowla, Vikhar ul Dowla, Sabut Jung, and Jewagee, who attended him in the Dewan Kana, where he held a private Consultation with them; Jewagee the Vackeel presented etters from Poona written by Kishen Row Mulhar to his Master, containing the following Particulars; That the English Chiefs at Bombay having determined on an Expedition for the Support of Ragonaut Row, took him with them, and employed some Time in settling the Cokun, and leaving him on the other Side the Gaut, Three or Four smart Engagements were fought on the deights of the Gaut, and then continued their March to the Village of Teclgong on the Poona ide of the Gaut, when the Maratta Army took Possession of all the Passes, and cutting off all their upplies reduced them to the utmost Straits, and made frequent Attacks on them, killing sundreds of them, and wounding great Numbers so as to destroy near Half of their Force, and note who were surrounded sound it difficult to save their Lives: A Detachment of the Maratta rmy was sent from thence to seize on Ragonaut Row, whom they brought back with them. Anomer Letter mentions, that when the Europeans were surrounded, and all their Provisions at an End, ey asked their Lives, and the Marattas demanding that Ragonaut Row should be delivered up to em, they sent for him and delivered him up to Sindeah, and those that remained had their Lives ared.—These are the Two different Accounts of the Matter.

When his Highness had perused the Letters and heard the Account from the Vackeel, he said to m, It is well, the Right has prevailed in that your Enemies have of their own Accord delivered emselves into your Hands, but the Naig has reduced the Fort of Cheetuldurk to great Extreity, if you now take Measures to raise the Siege it will be well, otherwise you will lose it in a onth or two.

From the Possession of the single Fort of Cotee the Naig made himself so powerful, should he suffered to reduce the Fort of Chectulburk it will be attended with the worst Consequences, wajee replied, By the Favour of God, in a short Time we shall so completely desolate the Counces of Sena and Mysore, and Balagaut and Pian Gaut on the other Side of the Carnatic, and the ovince of Bengal and City of Calcutta, as not to leave a single Cherrauk burning.

The Quarrel between the English and French is not yet accommodated in Europe. A mighty ngagement has been fought, in which lost 8000 Men, and their Army which had nearly reached irrampore, is on its Return to Calcutta.

The greatest Part of the Day was taken up in such Conversations, when the Nabob dismissed the

Written the 3d December 1778.

The Friendship which I have borne the Company and English Nation has not been equalled by other of the Powers in Hindostan, and by the Blessing of God it has been invariable and augning daily, and the Prosperity or Adversity of either is considered as that of the other.

This is impressed on the Minds of all the different Nations and Powers in this Continent, and in Consequence many of the Princes of Hindostan are desirous, through my Mediation, of obtaining the Friendship of the Company and English Nation; and whenever I have seen an Opportunity of promoting our Interests, I have instantly communicated the Plan to my Friends. Accordingly, the Peace with the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla was concluded with my Advice and Affistance; and through me the Nabob Sellabut Jung agreed to put the Fort of Guntore into the Hands of my Friends, on Condition of Support from them, and by the Assistance of the English drive out the French. For a Term of Five Years a civil War substifted amongst the Marattas, and many desperate Battles were fought between Ragonaut Row and Siccaram Pundit and Nana Purnavele, the Ministers of Sewal Madha Row the Son of Narrain Row Pundit Purdhaun. At length Ragonaut Row took Refuge with my Friends, and the Peace concluded between the faid Ministers and my Friends at Poona through the Medium of Colonel Upton's Embassy, it is well known did not continue, on which Subject it is unnecessary to enlarge; my whole Wishes have been lately turned to the Promotion of the Credit and Advantage of my Friends by adjusting of this Business. As it has already taken up a long Time, and it appears evident that if it is not heartily prosecuted, it may still be spun out to a very distant Period, and the News of War having broke out in Europe with our Enemies being sproad abroad, many of the Chiefs of Hindostan who look with a jealous Eye on the Success and Power of the English, wish to keep up a constant War in this Country, with a View, should our linearies send a Force into this Country, to join them with their whole Powers; it is therefore advifalle that my Friends employ their warm Endeavours, without Delay, in Conjunction with the

Poona Ministers, that is to say, Siccaram Pundit, &c. to establish Ragonaut Row in the Chiefship of the Marattas, preserving the Rights of Sovereignty to the Son of Naranautow Pundit Punhan, which will redound to the Company's Honour; and that they should endead your to essentially withing through me, to form a strict Friendship with me Friends, I have thought it worthy of my Friendship to give you Information thereof; and I have no Doubt that the Gentlemen of Bengal and here, and the Governor and Council of Bonystay, who are all united in the View of promoting the Interest of the Company's Affairs, and the Tranquillity of the Country, in which I heartily join with them, will judge it proper to repose so much Considence in me, as to conduct this Matter through me. I can with their Knowledge, and in Conjunction with them, give the most happy Issue to this Business, and thus leave my Friends at Liberty to employ their whole Attention against any Enemy who may arise; and should it be necessary, they may have the Assistance of the whole Maratta Force under Ragonaut Row; and it will be absolutely necessary to the other Powers of Hindostan, to keep on friendly Terms with them; and should they have conceived any Designs of a contrary Nature, they will relinquish them. My Ardour in this Business is excited solely by Motives of Friendship, and a View to the Interest of the Company and English Nation, and the Security of the Country; any Plan which my Friends may adopt, by which the Security and Rights of the Cannatic are preserved, is equally for their Benefit.

I request that you and the Council will do me the Favour to keep this Matter secret, as till it takes Effect it ought not to become public.

Copy of a Letter from his Highness, addressed to Governor Rumbold, dated the 14th February 1779.

As you are constantly desirous that I should communicate to you any Intelligence which I may receive from any of the Powers in Hind and Decan, I am induced thereby to enclose you a Translation of a Paper of Intelligence which I have just received from Poona, and Copy of a Newspaper from Hyderabad. Although I cannot communicate such News without feeling the most sensible Assistance, yet I have thought it proper to inform my Friends of it, that they may be upon their Guard. I formerly received a Hint from a Person at Poona, respecting the Adjustment of this Business, which I instantly communicated to my Friends, in a Letter bearing Date the 3d December 1778. Had my Friends at that Time left the Management of the Business to me, I hoped to have concluded it to the Honour of the Company and English Nation, whose unalterable Friend I am.

N° 177.

Mr. Francis—As we know not what bad Effects the News of this Event may produce in the Upper Country, or what Influence it may have upon the Minds and Difpolition of Nudjiff Cawn, of the Seiks, of the King, and any other Country Powers that border on the Nabob of Oude's Dominions, or on our own Provinces, I think that immediate Orders should be fent to General Stibbert to put him on his Guard, and to hold the Troops stationed in Rohilcund and in Oude in Readines to march; that he should order all absent Officers to repair immediately to their Posts (the same to be issued in General Orders here) and take such other Measures as he shall think necessary for covering that Frontier against an Invasion. The Seiks have already made Irruption in different Parts of the Nabob's Territories; and Mr. Middleton, in his Letter of the 16th December last, acquaints us, that the Maratta Army has joined Nudjiff Cawn's Camp, and that they have entered into a Treaty of Alliance offensive and desensive with him; I think it very probable that they may avail themselves of this Opportunity to endeavour to distress us; at all Events, we ought to consider it a possible Case, and be prepared against it.

Mr. Wheler—I think it highly proper that this, and every other necessary Precaution should be taken without Delay. Lastent to the Merion be taken without Delay. I affent to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—From the general Tenor of the Proposition, I expected it to contain some extraordinary cautionary Measure; but I do not find upon Examination of it, that any particular Security is proposed, than such as the existing Orders of the Government provide for. The Proposition points out the Nabob Nudjiff Cawn, as a particular Object of our Jealousy, and Mr. Middleton's Letter is quoted in Support of this Suggestion. Mr. Middleton's Letter, I conceive, intimates the direct contrary; for he says, "though I am assured of such Things, I think Matters are nearly as distant from any permanent Adjustment as ever." To found any enders we may think it necessary to issue in the present Crisis of Assairs, on Supposition or Surmise of Disassary with the neighbouring Princes, can heither be justified by the Conjuncture, nor is consistent with

It is a Treatment that must disgust them, and any Movements of our Army upon such presents must alarm their Government, and compel them to arm in their own Deseace. By Mr. Middleton's Letter, it clearly appears that the Maratta Leaders were no ociating with the Nabob Rachist Cawn on their own Account. The Invasion of the Seiks which is alluded to, appears evidently to have been the Operations of a predatory Band, as little authorized by any Government as those of the different Bodies of Faqueers this Government has seen at various Times committing little Pillages in the very Heart of Pengal, and which, from the Extent and Constitution of the Hindostan Governments, every one of its Governments is subjected to. I think with Mr. Francis, and the Governor General's Minute warrants the Sentiment, that we ought to appear leader of what is due both to the Honour of our own Government, and what is wanting to vindicate the Dignity of it.

The Governor General appears to with, that whatever Measures are determined, they should not be partial, but include the whole political Scene. In this he is certainly right; but as I can fee no Objection to decided cautionary Measures, I think in Prulence the Armies on the Western Frontiers should be immediately drawn out in the Field, and held in Readiness to march on the First Orders from this Government; and that to preclude the Freet of salie Alarms, it holds be publicly and positively declared that these extraordinary Camps are not formed to act gainst any of the Powers in the Neighbourhood, but are affembled for an Emergency that may all them into the Field, to give Weight to the different Negociations or Disputes in which we are,

r may be engaged with the Marattas, and to protect our Alliances.

The Governor General—I confess I wish the Motion had not been made, because I think it of unnecessary and unreasonable; and that a general Plan of Astion or of Desence should be instituted, which we are not yet warranted, by any Materials before us, to form. We are yet in a Darl with respect to every Circumstance which ought to influence our siture Measures, nor are yet an Object, except a general Defence against possible, but unknown Dangers. I hope of Colored Gordard's next Advices will afford us all the Lights that we can want with respect the present Motion; it is almost in Terms the same with the Instructions delivered to General sibbert on the 2d September; these were expressly given to him for the Purpose of guarding gainst the probable Essects which might be produced by a supposed Event exactly similar to at which has actually befallen us; namely, the Diversion of our Arms by a powerful foreign nearly. These Instructions are short, I therefore desire that they may be copied in this Place, that will show better than any Argument, in how little need General Scibbert stands of present nurraction. Nevertheless, as it has been proposed, and as I wish upon this Occasion especially to commodate my own Sentiments, so far as I may do it consistent with the indispensable Line of a public Duty, with those of every Member of this Board, I shall acquiese both in the dozon made by Mr. Francis, and in the additional Propositions contained in Mr. Barwell's shaute.

I cannot quir this Suly ct, though I shall most reluctantly bear a Part in any Thing which a lake a Point of Controversy, without a short Observation on the Suggestion of Nudjill's awn's Connection with the Maratta Government. It certainly will be understood by those who sall read Mr. Francis's Minute, unaccompanied by other Documents, that Nudjiss Cawn had attend into a Treaty of Alliance offensive and defensive with the Maratta Nation. The Fact is, at the Treaty of Alliance to which Mr. Middleton's Letter of the 10th December alludes, meant o more than the Conditions on which Two independant and predatory Chiefs of that Nation are treating to engage in the Service of Nudjiss Cawn. This plainly appears by a sormer after of Mr. Middleton, dated the 1st December, when these Two Chiefs composed their differences, which was effected by a pecuniary Compromise; the Maratta Leaders opened Negotions on their own Account with Nudjiss Cawn, the declared Object of which was to obtain a cligible Fitablishment in his Service, &cc. I defire to be understood, I mean not to hold out Numiss Cawn as the Friend of this Government. I consider all the Powers around us as ar Friends or Enemies merely as their Interest impel them; and I approve the Principle of Mr.

rancis's Recommendation, though I differ in the Application of it.

Mr. Francis—The Orders I proposed are purely cautionary and defensive; they are such as very Government gives on similar Occasions, and in no way tend to preclude or obstruct our future adoption of any others. Why they should give Offence to Nudjiss Cawn; why he should be equainted with our Reasons for giving them; why he should be disgusted with those Reasons, he knew them; or why we should pay the smallest Regard to the supposed Effect which deasures necessary for our own Security, and not tending to the Offence of any other Powers, may produce in his Mind, form a Question too confused and perplexed for my Understanding to ecide. I confess it appears wholly unaccountable to me, that Objections of this Nature, which learly suppose my Proposition unnecessary, should be followed by an Amendment that carries much farther than I do. I do not agree to the Amendment, because I am ignorant whether the present Disposition of the Two Brigades can with Safety be so far altered, as it would be by sembling that in Two Camps, and because we do not yet know enough of Colonel Goddard's atuation to determine what particular Measures may be necessary to savour his Retreat. The amendment calling in of the Detachment of the Two Brigades, is a Measure that ought to be dededed on here, without General Stibbert's Opinion, and without our being thoroughly apprized of Ref. 1.

the Confequences it may be likely to produce with respect to the general Defence of the West Frontier. With respect to the Connections formed between Nudjiff Cawn and some Maratta Chiefs, I think it not unlikely that they might have remained dormant, or at least they would have produced no Effect, in which the Interest of this Government would have been concerned, but the Disaster we have suffered at Poona makes a material Alteration in ever Question that relates to the suture Conduct of the Country Powers; it may revive a dorage fent to take the Command in the Field, the Case of an Invasion of the Nabob's Country we expressly supposed and stated; if it was a probable Event at that Time, how much more so is may have the Air of Altercation, I shall only offer one Observation on a Passage in the Governo General's Minute; that is, that I do not remember at what Time an Event exactly similar to the which has befallen us, was ever supposed possible by the Governor General, or by Mr. Baswell The Impossibility of any vigorous Resistance on the Part of the Marattas, and the Certainty of Success in every Attempt on our Side, have constantly been held out as Propositions not to be disputed.

Governor General—We are led into a boundless Field of Argument, which the Occasion neither requires nor warrants; the Event to which I alluded was a Diversion made by a French Invasion, at that Time expected, and, as I recollect, the professed Motive of our Orders given, a above quoted, to General Stibbert. I hope it is unnecessary to make a further Reply to Mr

Francis's Minute.

Refolved in the Terms of Mr. Francis's Motion, with the Amendment proposed by M. Barwell.

Sie

We have received Intelligence which we deem authentic, that the Detachment from Bombay under the Command of Colonel Egerton, has been defeated, and compelled to capitulate, by the Marattas: Not knowing the Effect that the News of this Event may produce, or what Influence it may have upon the Minds and Difpolitions of the Country Powers bordering on the wellers Frontier, or on our own Provinces, we deem it necessary that you immediately form The Camps of the Armies under your Command, and that you hold them in Readinc's to march of the shortest Notice: And to preclude the Effect of salse Alarms, the Governor General was advise the Vizier that these extraordinary Camps are not formed to act against any of the Power in the Neighbourhood of his Dominions; and we desire that you will publicly and positive declare the same to the Vackeels of any of the Country Powers that may be in your Camp.

We also desire that you will immediately issue Orders for all absent Officers to repair some

m FAD}$ the following Letters from Colonel Goddard, under Date the 17th, 20th, 24th, and

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to write you the 5th Instant, informing you of my Intention to move forwards towards Poona, as foon as the Supply of Treasure expected from Naigpore might reach Camp. I accordingly left Hosseingabad Yesterday, and am this Day encamped at Suiny, a Place finated between the Countries of the Bhopal Nawab and the Rajah of Berar, both of whom are in Receipt of its Revenue. This is Two Days March distant from Hurdah, a pretty considerable Town, belonging to the Paishwa, and which is laid down in Mr. Smith's Survey upon the Road to Burrampore.

By the last Advice from the Bombay Army, they have taken Post on the Top of Bhore Gaut, where they are waiting for Supplies of Stores, and upon their Arrival I understand they intend advancing towards Poona, which is at the Distance of Fifty Miles. The Forces of the Ministers are collected betwixt them and the City, but I do not find that any of the Chiefs in that Party have yet declared themselves in favour of Ragonaut Row; nor according to the best latelligence that I can obtain, is there at present any Prospect of their doing so. It is impossible to fay what Effect the vigorous Motion and Approach of this Detachment may have upon then Minds; but I have already explained to you the Reasons which have influenced me to move forward, and I flatter myself my Conduct in this Respect will meet with your Approbation. In the tacan Time, I shall impatiently look for particular Answers from your Board, to the Accounts I have transinitted, of the Situation of Assairs here, and by the Instructions they contain I shall be implicitly guided.

I think it necessary to repeat my certain Belief of the friendly Sentiments of the Berar Chief towards our Government, which his Conduct has evinced in every Respect, except that of taking an active Part with our Arms; he promifes to give every Affiftance in his Power for furnithing Provisions as we advance, and for that Purpose a principal Person belonging to him is to remain upon the Confines of this Country, and collect and forward the Supplies of Grain.

In Obedience to your Commands, I have directed the Accounts of the Detachment to be made out, in order that they may be transmitted for your Inspection; these being compleated to the if of Oslober, I have fent by the Way of Naigpore, as they were too large a Packet to trust by the public Dauks. I expect in a very short Time to have them made out to the 1st of December, when I shall forward them by the same Route, conceiving it, though more tedious, to be the fecurest Mode of Conveyance.

I beg Leave also to mention to you, that the Three Lacks, for which you transmitted me Bills of Exchange on Naigpore, notwithstanding the Expedient I was obliged to adopt, of drawing upon your Honourable Board, have only been sufficient to clear off the Troops to the End of November. A Gomastah belonging to Gopaul Doss, of the Name of Neigecor Doss, has arrived in Camp, where he proposes to reside, and promises to supply me with Cash, through the Means of the different Houses established by his Master in the principal Cities of the Decan. It is impossible for me at present to ascertain the exact Rate of Remittance proper to settle with him, as it will always be varying with Circumstances: I shall however be guided by the Precedent you have given me; and am hopeful my Conduct in this Particular will meet with your Appro-As I have not however the smallest Confidence in this Mode of Supply, on Account of the Prospect there is of my Progress being hostile, from the Opposition of the Peishwa's Forces, I beg to acquaint you, that I shall continue to grant Remittances on the Provinces for Money paid into the Treasury here, in the same Manner as heretofore, till a certain Supply can be provided through the Means of the Gomastah.

This I confider as absolutely necessary, to guard as much as possible against any immediate Exigency of the Service; and I must further entreat you to continue to afford me your Assistance, which I confider as the only certain Resource to which I can look for a Supply of Cash at this Period.

I have the Honor, &c. &c. (Signed Tho' Goddard.

Gentlemen It is with particular Concern I have to communicate to you the Death of Lieutenant Colonel Fortum, this Morning; a long and tedious Illness had reduced him to the weakest and most help-less condition, and that Event had become almost certain for these last Ten Days.

Camp, at Chumpore, 24th January 1779.

Gentlemen.

I have the Picasure to enclose for your Perusal, Copy of a Letter received this Day from the Gentlemen appointed by the Scleet Committee of Bombay, to conduct Ragoba to Poogla, and settle the Affairs of that Government. I was in Hopes of being able as foon as Letters whigh arrive from that Quarter, to communicate to you fornething of Importance relative to the Booning Forces, and the Progress they had made in Prosecution of their Enterprize; but you will percent by the Contents of this Letter, that so far from entering into any particular Detail of their Spile ation, or the Plan they mean to purfue, they nearly leave it a Matter of Doubt, whether they have not found it necessary to lay it aside altogether. The Change which they observe has taken Place within the last Two Days in their Attairs, and which they say has rendered the Directions for merly fent to me for my March to Ziner, in the Neighbourhood of Poona, now unnecessary, would almost lead one to believe that they had themselves removed every Obliacle to Success, did not the Apprehensions they afterwards express, of the Difficulties to which I might be exposed in muching to Surat or Broach, prove the Forces of the Ministerial Party to be, in their Est. mation, still very strong and powerful.

I cannot help remarking upon the Difference of Stile throughout this Letter of Messes. Curna and Egerton, to what had been before used by the Select Committee, who were always most up at for my proceeding to Ziner with all Expedition, as you would perceive by the Copies of their Letters, transmitted you the 5th Instant.

Upon the whole, I am of Opinion that a Profpect of being able to effect the Revolution in favour of Ragoba themselves, is their Motive for expressing so little Anxiety about the Arreval of the Detachment. With respect to the Bodies of Horse who are to infest and interrupt my March to Surat or Broach, they are so little explicit in the Description of them, that I am lest altogether in the dark as to their Number, or the Names of the Chiefs to whom they may belong.

I am forry that it is not in my Power to give you a more clear Account of the State of the Company's Assairs near Poona than the above, which must appear founded upon Conjecture rather than a Knowledge of real Facts, for it is plain the enclosed Letter gives no positive Information what ever; and the Testimony of uncertain Report, which says, that many of the Chiefs have gone over to Ragoba's Party, does not feem to deferve any Credit; besides that it is contradicted by the Sentiments expressed by Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, in their Advices to me.

I am now within Four Days March of Burhanpore, and on or before my Arrival at that Place, I make no Doubt of receiving Letters from the Select Committee at Bombay, which will, I should suppose, fully explain their present Views and Situation. I shall then be enabled to determine precisely my own future Operations, which I will not fail to communicate to you instantly.

In my Letter of the 5th Instant, I declared to you my Motive for advancing from the Consideration. of Berar towards Poona was in Obedience to what I conceived to be the Spirit of your Orders, and as essential to the Interests of the English Company. Let me again assure you, that my suture Conduct shall be directed folely by an Attention to these Objects.

I have already informed you of my necessitous Situation respecting Treasure for the Subliflence of the Troops; the distant Hope I entertained of receiving a Supply at Burhanpore, is now totally vanished, as I learn all the principal Merchants have deserted that Place, not so much from the Fear of being treated with Violence by the English Army, as on Account of Orders sent them 17 Scindia, to whom the City belongs, prohibiting them from furnishing any Supplies of Money

This Confideration, and the Impossibility there appears of obviating the Distress, which the low State of the Treasury threatens, by any Resource to be found in this Quarter, will in all Probbility compel me to hasten my March towards Surat; but on this Point I cannot at present determine, as it must depend so much upon Circumstances, and these I cannot perfectly know till my Arrival at Burhanpore, when you shall hear from me again in the sullest and most particular Manner.

Camp, near Piplaud, 26th July 1779.

I have the Honour to be, &c. (Signed) Tho! Goddard.

N° 180.

The Governor General—I move, That an immediate Remittance by Bill of Six Lacks of Rupees be fent to Colonel Goddard; I have had an indirect Offer made to me this Morning of Bills nearly to that Amount, from the joint Agents of Three capital Shroffs, on the Terms on which the former Bills were granted: I have not feen the Agents myfelf, but if the Board approve the Motion, I will direct them to make their Application to the Secretary, the regular Channel of fuch Negociations.

Mr. Wheler—I agree to the Necessity of this Supply; but am of Opinion, that the Shroffs should either lay before this Board, or at least before the Governor General, the Means by which they consider themselves able to sulfil their Engagements with us; to me it appears very uncertain whether they will be able to do it.

Mr. Francis—I acquiesce in the Necessity of supplying Colonel Goddard, but I can form no Idea of the Means by which the Remittance is to be effected. If the Shross undertake to remit Money to Colonel Goddard, without knowing where he is; and if it be considered, that it is at this Moment a Matter of Doubt to ourselves, whether he be actually at Surat or in the Territory of Scindia, or in Berar; I think it will appear that we have no Sort of Security for their being able to sulfil their Engagements; at the same Time the Sum with which they are to be trusted; forms a very considerable Object. I therefore agree with Mr. Wheler, in thinking that the Shross ought to be called upon, to inform us what Measures they intended to pursue; and that we should furnish them with whatever Lights we can concerning Colonel Goddard's probable Situation.

Mr. Barwell-I agree to make the proposed Remittance in the Terms of the Governor's Motion.

Governor General-I am afraid that the Confent given to the Remittance with so many uncustomary Refervations, may have the Effect of a Refusal, as it is impossible for the Shroffs to produce the Evidence required of them, neither do I imagine that they would injure their Credit by the Attempt to produce it. The Concern which I feel for the Safety and Success of Colonel Goddard's Detachment, induced me to make the Enquiries, which have produced the Offers communicated by me to the Board; I am no better acquainted with the Means which the Shroffs possess of discharging the Bills, than any other Member of the Board, nor better acquainted with their Persons or Characters, One only excepted. I was desired to conceal their Names from the Public, because I was told it might expose them to hazardous Consequences. I therefore give them with the fame Caution to the Board, they are Moolchund Doobee, Cashmecry Mull, and Munnoo Loll; if the Secretary can obtain either better Terms, or equal, from more creditable Persons, I shall agree to them, or shall be as ready to acquiesce in any furer Means of Supply that shall be recommended by either Mr. Wheler or Mr. Francis. It may be necessary to add One Observation on the cautionary Terms which have been required, that before the Bills can be delivered we must receive decided Advices from Colonel Goddard respecting the Direction of his March, after the Receipt of the News of the Defeat of the Bombay Army, and these will of course determine the Choice of the Place appointed for Payment of the Bills. That Bills should be sent, or other adequate Means of pecuniary Supply provided, I suppose to be a Conclusion in which we are all agreed. I shall further add, that the Names of some capital Cities were mentioned to me where the Payment should be made, if I recollect, they were Nagpore, Burkunpore, Arungabad, and Surat; but this is immaterial: The Names, I suppose, will be inferted in the Bills, unless they shall agree to pay them in Colonel Goddard's Camp; wherever it

Mr. Wheler—I have no Connection either with the Shroffs or Merchants of India, nor would I, if I had, venture to recommend any One or more to this Board upon the prefent important Occasion, who had not previously convinced me, that he was in the Habit and Course of Correspondence with others, who had the certain Means of paying Bills suddenly drawn upon them to the Amount of Six Lacks of Rupees. A Precaution of this Sort cannot be the Means of divulging Secrets; 'tis made Use of in all Parts of the World by private Individuals, and becomes more necessary, when the Interest of the Public is so materially connected with it.

Refolved, That a Remittance of Six Lacks of Rupees be made to Colonel Goddard's Detachment, and that the Secretary do obtain Bills on the most advantageous Terms.

The Governor General—In our present State of Uncertainty, respecting the State of the Army of the Presidency of Bombay, and the Designs which the Marattas niay form, or other Power's treouraged by the sine supposed Decline of our Institute in consequence of its Deseat, I should does its very unwise and precipitate to propose any general or decided Plan of Operations; but I think to number to nous, to use the most early Means for guarding our Possessions and Connections in those Parts, which lie the most exposed to Attack. The President and Select Committee of Fort Saint George have suggested to us One Scene of Deseace, which will be a proper Subject Rep. 11.

of Confideration, when we are furnished with more recent Advices, both from them and from Columbia Goddard. With respect to the Countries, the Defence of which more immediately depends of our Government, we are in no Danger of an Invasion except in the Dauab, and the more Fastering Parts of the Vizier's Dominions. I have always held it the best Policy to meet the Attempts of our Enemies when we have just and reasonable Grounds to expect them. On this Princy leads think it proper now to submit to the Consideration of the Board the Expediency of order. General Stibbert to cause the First Brigade to cross the Jumna, and to encamp in the most convenient Station in the Neighbourhood of Allahabad, and of the high Road leading from them to Berar, and to the Southern Parts of Hindostan. This, if the Board shall agree to it, will be sufficient for an immediate Order. I propose this Measure as the most likely to prevent any Design being formed against us, and the most ready for repelling any which may be made.

Mr. Francis—I will not venture at this late Hour to give an immediate Opinion on a Proposition of such Magnitude and Importance, particularly under the First Impressions which it has made upon my Mind, and which I fear I should not be able to command; I therefore move that it shall lie for Consideration, and that the Board be summoned to meet To-morrow at

The Governor General—There is no preffing Business in the Revenue Department. I have no Objection to meet again in this at the usual Hour To-morrow Morning; in the mean Time, as Mr. Francis has expressed his Objections to the Question proposed by me to the Board in Terms so very pointed, I yield to his Desire of availing himself of further Time to consider the Question; I hope he will also allow me the same Opportunity of considering his Objections, por fibly they may have the same Weight with me as they have with him, if they are delivered with Temper, and not abruptly intruded on the Instant at which our Determinations are to be formed The Question which I have proposed is a Subject for Consideration, not a decided Opinion offerd for the Confirmation of the Board.

Mr. Francis—I have never pressed the Governor General, nor any Member of the Board, to give a hasty Opinion on any Proposition of mine; and certainly should not attempt it on an Occasion which requires more than common Deliberation.

The Governor General—I do not wish to press the Subject; I have only requested the same Measure to be dealt to me that I deal to others. Upon this particular Occasion I wish, if possible possi ble, that our Resolutions, on the Event of which the Fate of India may possibly depend, may be formed with that cool Deliberation which they demand; and therefore that I may know the Grounds of the Objections which may be made to the Measure now proposed, that I may come fully instructed and prepared either to support, to correct, or to join in the rejecting it; I should not at any other Time or Occasion be so urgent as I may now appear, but I persuade mysels, that whoever reads Mr. Francis's short Minute immediately following my Proposal, will hold me justified in my Apprehensions respecting the Spirit with which it is likely to be debated.

Agreed, That the Governor General's Proposition lie for Consideration, and that the Board be fummoned to meet in this Department To-morrow Morning.

Extract of Bengal Secret Confultations, 2d March 1779.

THE Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

The Governor General-My Defign is to propose the most effectual Measures of Desence, and of Defence only.

I think that the most certain Means of preventing an Attack, will be to shew ourselves not only ready to repel but to meet it. The Prevalence of Opinion is ever a strong Spring of Action, and in this Part of the World it is perhaps the strongest. The unexampled Check which the English Arms have sustained on the other Side of India will not fail to create and reculate the Belief that our Power is declining; and every State which has any Thing to hope by taking the Advantage of our supposed Weakness, or to fear from the Resentment of our capital Enemy, will be ready to rise in Arms against us, unless by some vigorous Exertion and consident Display of our Strength was them ourselves supposed to the partial Michaelman which has best long the our Strength, we shew ourselves superior to the partial Missortune which has befallen us. The

A P P E N D I X, N 181.

The Neighbourhood of Illahabad I prefer for the Station of the Brigade, because of the Conveniency which it affords of depositing the Stores of the Brigade as they may be occasionally wanted: It will give Vigour and Weight to the Operations of Colonel Goddard, if he shall return to Berar and profecute his original Instructions; and in the Supposition of his Retreat to our own Provinces it will be a ready Support to him.

In the Event of any Design which may be formed against the immediate Dependencies of this Government, it may be regarded as certain, that the Countries bordering on the Jumna will be the first affected by it: These therefore require our first and earliest Attention.

To carry into Execution the Question which I have proposed in its sull Extent, will employ some Time; Circumstances may occur in the Interim which may require a Variation of the first Intention. The first Movements necessary for the Brigade may be the same, whether it be ultimately resolved to cross the Jumma, or to wait within it: And as we may hope to be speedily aided by the Presence of Sir Eyre Coote, I shall be better pleased to wait his Arrival, than to propose any decided Operations, for which there is not any very urgent Call.

For these Reasons, I beg Leave to change the Terms of my first Proposition, and recommend, that in addition to the Orders already given to General Stibbert, he be directed to march the Brigade towards the Banks of the Jumna, and to chuse such a Situation for encamping as he shall judge most convenient for desending the Duab against an Invasion; and at the same Time to examine which Part of that River will admit of his crossing the Brigade, if it shall hereaster be found necessary, with the greatest Facility.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

Resolved, in the Terms of the Governor General's Minute.

The following Letter is accordingly written to General Stibbert:

Sir,

In addition to the Instructions which we transmitted to you on the 25th ultimo, we think it necessary to direct, that you order the First Brigade to march towards the Banks of the Jumna, where you will chuse such a Situation for encamping it as you may deem the most convenient for defending the Duab against an Invasion; and at the same Time you will ascertain which Part of that River will admit of your crossing the Brigade with the greatest Facility, if it shall hereafter be found necessary.

Fort William, the 2d March, 1779.

We are, &c. &c.

Messrs. Francis and Wheler having sent in the following Minute, in reply to the Governor General's Motion of Yesterday, it is now recorded.

Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheler—Having attentively considered the Proposition made Yesterday by the Governor General, we must refuse our Assent to it for the following Reasons, which we think it sufficient to select out of many that occur to us.

1st. Because the Measure itself stands in manifest Contradiction to the Company's fundamental Maxims, and would be a fresh Instance of direct Disobedience to their positive Commands on

adly. Because the ill Success which has attended the Movement of Colonel Goddard's Detachment, on a Plan of the same Nature; and the alarming Situation to which, we have Reason to think, he is now reduced; would leave us without a Justification or Excuse, if we hazarded another Portion of the Force established for the Desence of our own Possessina, in a similar Attempt.

3dly. Because no particular Object or affirmative Reasons being assigned; in Support of a Measure apparently so hazardous, we have no specific Grounds given us to warrant our Assent

4thly, Because, whereas it is said generally by the Governor, "That he has always held it the best Policy to meet the Attempts of our Enemies when we have just and reasonable Grounds to expect them," we are warranted in opposing the Principle he now professes, by another drawn from the same Authority, and, as we think, much better sounded: On the 9th of July last, when our military Strength was yet unimpaired, and the Reputation of our Arms had suffered no Diminution, the Governor General delivered it as his Opinion, "That great as the Power is which the British Nation has acquired in India, compared with that of its Rival, its general Line of Action is and must be purely defensive."

5thly. Because admitting that we had just and reasonable Grounds to conclude, that Designs are sommed reasonable we deem to be a Supposition purely gratuitous) still no Argument is produced, to prove that this particular Measure is wisely calculated to revent an Invasion, or to shew by what Steps or Operations it is likely to produce that but of what Nature those Operations are meant to be; how far they are to be carried; or to what Objects they may be directed, is entirely kept out of Sight. As long as this Referve is continued, we cannot think it fafe or prudent, particularly after the fatal Experience we have had of the diffresting Consequences of a similar Resolution, to commit ourselves in any one Step belonging to a Series of Measures, of which we do not know the real Purpose or Extent.

6thly, Because this Measure appears to be a leading Step to the Execution of some more extensive Plan yet unavowed. It is said that many consequent Operations may be hereaster necessary;

7thly. Because, when it is declared that we are in a State of Uncertainty respecting the Fate of the Army of the Presidency of Bombay; and when, from these supposed Premises, it is concluded, that it would be very unwife and precipitate, to propose any general or decided Plan of Operations, we are equally at a Lois to reconcile that Conclusion with the Motion now before us, (and which appears to us to be the most decided Step that could be taken) and unable to judge for what Reason it is taid, that the Fate of the Bombay Army is uncertain. The Governor General has repeatedly expressed his Conviction, that there could be no Doubt of the Truth of the Intelligence from Poona; and this Intelligence affures us, that the Bombay Army was totally defeated, and had furrendered at Discretion.

8thly. Because we are convinced, that if the Object of this Proposition be to relieve or assist Colonel Goddard, or to favour his Retreat, it is morally impossible that it can operate in any De. gree to that Effect. To see the Force of this Objection, it may be necessary to consult the Maps, and to calculate the Time which must intervene between the Crisis of any Danger to which Colonel Goddard may be exposed, and that at which this pretended Relief can reach him. At the Beginning of February his Position must have been at Brampore, that is near Twelve Degrees of Longitude West of Calcutta; if from thence he has made his Way to Surat, or retreated into Berar, our Assistance would be unnecessary, nor in the former Case could be possibly receive it, if not, the Fate of his Army must be understood to remain undecided, in the Heart of an Enemy's Country, from the 1st of February not only to this Time, but to that at which our Gaden for the Movement of another Brigade can be carried into Execution, and the Impression of that Measure selt at such a Distance as Brampore.

9thly. Because admitting that such a Step might at any other Time be advisable or necessary, we deem it to be useless if not dangerous at this particular Season, considering that the Brigade cannot cross the Jumna in less than Six Weeks, supposing the Orders to be dispatched Tomorrow; and that in Six Weeks more the violent Heats of April and May will be succeeded by the Rains. But if the Rains set in with any Degree of Violence, the Brigade will neither be able to act, nor can they continue in Camp without great Distress: At the same Time the River will be so much swelled, and its Rapidity so much increased, that it may be very difficult, if not impracticable, to re-cross it in any Emergency.

10thly. Because all our Intelligence agrees in assuring us, that among the Engagements by which General Carnac and Colonel Egerton have purchased their Sasety; and for the Performance of which those Gentlemen, with the Remainder of their Army, must be considered as Hostages; it is stipulated that Colonel Goddard's Detachment shall return to Bengal. But if instead of our ratifying this Stipulation the Marattas should find their Country threatened with another Invasion, what have we to expect, but that they will treat their Prisoners with all the Severity which the Laws of War and of Nations entitle them to exercise against the Hostages of a base and faithless Nation, neither to be bound by Treaties, nor reconciled by the unexampled Lenity and Moderation with which they appear to have acted towards an Enemy invading their Country, without the Shadow of a Provocation; and for the avowed Purpose of overturning their Government?

11thly. Finally, because by croffing the Jumna, we relinquish the great and natural Desence which all our Possessions derive from the Intervention of the River, and expose a Third Detachment to the same Disaster which has already befallen the Bombay Army, and which we have too much Reason to sear may have befallen Colonel Goddard: By such unconnected partial Efforts the whole Force of the British Empire in India may be gradually wasted; and our Army, which, if united under a wife and steady Direction, we believe to be equal to every Purpose of Defence, successively beaten, and ruined in Detail.

For these Reasons, as well as for some others, which we do not think fit to declare, we object to the Proposition, and most solemnly protest against it.

P. Francis, Edw Wheler.

The Governor General—It would lead to endless Debate, and occasion a Waste of Time, which I should deem inexcusable in myself, were I to reply to every Part of this Minute; and every Part equally merits a Reply. My Opinions are so applied, that in the obvious Sense of them, as they stand in the Construction, I cannot avow them, and Facts afferted for which I believe their is no Voucher. It is sufficient that I have changed the Terms of the Question which I proposed, and accommodated it to the general Sense of the Board; every Reasoning therefore which can be now introduced upon it, is obsolete and unnecessary.

Bengal Secret Confultations 2d March, 1779.

MR. Francis delivers in the following Minute.

Mr. Francis—I had no Doubt that the Perusal of the Letters read Yesterday at the Board, would have been followed by some Proposition from the Governor General, for Orders or conditional Instructions to Colonel Goddard. His Silence on the important Question which those Letters immediately bring before us, leaves it open to me, without Irregularity, to offer my own Opinion upon it. In Justice to myself however, I must previously submit one general Consideraion to the Judgment of my Superiors.

If it were possible to answer every Objection to the Principle on which military Expeditions of this Nature are founded, and to reconcile their real or pretended Object to the Dictates of Honour, Justice, and found Policy, another Difficulty inseparably belonging to the Execution of such Enterprizes, ought for ever to deter a wife Government from engaging in them; it is that Armics carried to so great a Distance from our own Territory, are in Effect removed from under our Command; and that we are deprived even of a timely Knowledge of their Operations. To shew the Truth of this Observation, it need only be applied to our actual Situation: Colonel Goddard is at so great a Distance from us, that his Letters never can enable us to judge truly of the Circumstances he may be in at the Time we receive them; much less will it permit us to send him Assistance if he wants it; or even fuch Orders or Instructions as we can in any Degree be assured will properly apply to the Position in which such Orders may find him. Our Councils then must be directed in a great Degree by Chance or Conjecture, and the Motions of our Army governed folely by the Difcretion of the commanding Officer, or by the Necessities he may be reduced to: Such Discretion too he must exercise not only in the Choice of Means, or in the Detail of military Operations, but in determining the general Line of his Conduct, and even the Choice of his Objects. Colonel Goddard's Movement towards Poona; his March to Surat, if he pursues it; or his Retreat into Berar, if Circumstances should leave him without any other Resource; are all of them Steps unauthorized by our Orders, and whichever of them is adopted must be executed without our Knowledge.

If these Reselections be well sounded, it follows, that whatever Orders we send to Colonel Goddard must be conditional, and that a Latitude must be allowed him to accommodate the Execution of them to his actual Situation: Orders given with this Reserve may, in some Cases, be absolutely necessary for his Guidance, and cannot in any Case be productive of bad Effects: At all Events, he ought not to be left any longer unacquainted with the general Intentions of the Board.

I move therefore, That if at the Time when Colonel Goddard shall receive the present Orders, he shall not have arrived at Surat, Broach, or Bombay; or if he shall have been obliged to halt at Brampoor, or at any other Station in the Maratta Dominions; he do immediately retire to Berar, and demand a Passage from the Rajah through his Country towards the Coast of Orixa; or if he shall have been already obliged to retire into Berar, that he continue his March towards the Coast of Orixa and the Chicacole Circar.

I adopt the Measure as recommended by the Presidency of Fort Saint George, as well for the Reasons assigned in their Letter of the 7th ultimo, as because I deem it the best that can be pursued in our present Circumstances. I am also influenced in my Choice of it by the Sentiments of Sir Eyre Coote, with whose Approbation I conclude it was proposed, if not immediately recommended by himfelf.

If the Motion be carried, the Presidency of Fort Saint George must be advised of it, and the Governor General requested to write suitable Letters to Moodajee Boossa, to claim the Essect of the Friendship he has professed for us, and to give our Army all the Relief and Assistance in his Power.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Ordered, That this Minute lie for Confideration till Thursday next.

APPENDIX, N° 182.

Bengal Secret Consultations the 4th March 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

Fiquires.

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

Governor General—There cannot, in my Opinion, be a greater Inflance of Weakness and Levity, in Persons entrusted with the Conduct of great Assairs, than to enter into precipitate Resolutions, involving the most important Consequences on the First Rumour of disastrous Events. By adopting decisive Measures without any certain Knowledge of the Facts on which they are founded, a partial Misfortune may be converted into general Ruin.

I contend that we have not yet received fuch authentic Information as can warrant our taking an active Part with Safety. We are ignorant of the ultimate State of the Bombay Detachment; of the exact Manner in which their Enterprize terminated; of the Operations which Colond Goddard will have purfued in confequence; or of the real Situation of the Government of Fort Saint George: I therefore have delayed offering any Propositions to the Board on the supposed State of Affairs on the other Side of India, and I must still suspend my Opinion on the Measures most proper to be pursued until such Informations arrive—these may be hourly expected.

If Mr. Francis's Position were true, that distant Military Expeditions were in themselves irreconcilable to the Dictates of Honour, Justice, and sound Policy, Great Britain ought not to be in Possession of these Provinces, nor of any other remote Territory obtained by Conquest.

A difcretionary Power to Officers commanding diffant Military Enterprizes, is both cuflomary and unavoidable: Government may direct the Object, and preferibe the general Means of attaining it, but the dependant Operations must be left to those with whom the executive Part is entrusted; and Mr. Francis's Objection, that "Armies so far removed from our own Territories" are in Essect removed from our Command, &c." is answered by the glorious Successes which attended the British Arms in the most distant Enterprizes during the Course of Iast War, where the Commanders were much further removed from the Controll or Assistance of Government, than Colonel Goddard is from ours.

Had the Politics of Great Britain been confined within fuch narrow Limits, as Mr. Flancs would prescribe to those of this Government, her Power and Opulence must have been unknown beyond the Seas which furround her.

I cannot conceive why Mr. Francis perfifts in afferting, that Colonel Goddard is unauthorized by our Orders to proceed either to Surat, Poona, or Broach, or to retreat to Berar, as Circumfiances may render either prudent or necessary; fince my Minutes of the 25th February and 2d March clearly prove, that we have given him such Authority.

Having answered the Preface to Mr. Francis's Minute, I now proceed to give my Opinion on the Question.

However urgent the Necessity may be for the Aid which the Select Committee of Fort Saint George require from us, it does not therefore follow that such Aid must necessarily be affected by Colonel Goddard's Detachment; admitting the Necessity as stated by the Gentlemen at Madas, we are the Judges of the Means by which we can best relieve it; and this reduces Mr. France to the single Reason assigned by him in Support of the Requisition, viz. that it appears conformable to the Sentiments of Sir Eyre Coote, and was probably recommended by him: Such an Argument may very well suit the Purpose of establishing an Instituence by Party, but ought never to be urged as a Motive of public Conduct.

The Opinion of Sir Eyre Coote would have as great Weight with me as with Mr. Francis, where full Information of Circumflances might enable him to decide; this cannot be the Cafe in the prefent Inflance: With respect to our Situation, and from the Knowledge which I have of his Character, I will venture to affirm, that he will not expect that the Interests of Government should be hazarded for a perfonal Compliment.

I have Two strong Objections to the Question:

Ist. It is probable, from the Advices just received from Colonel Goddard, that he has refumed his Negociations with Moodajee Boofla; and his abrupt Recall at such a Juncture might not only deprive us of the Advantages that we may expect from that Alliance, but might willy excite the Resentment of Moodajee and provoke him to oppose the March of Colonel Goddard through his County, and thus both Designs would be rendered abortive.

County, and thus both Designs would be rendered abortive.

2d. The proposed Route of the Detachment would lie through a considerable Part of the Dominions of Nizam Ally Cawn. It is not to be expected from the known and avowed Siposition of that Prince, that he would consent to their Passage, not is this a Time to furnish him with a Pretext for open Hostilities against us.

PENDIX, Nº 182.

I might object to the Question upon Mr. Francis's own Principles; as during the whole Line of the Route which Colonel Goddard must unavoidably pursue from Berar to Rajahmundry (the only Place to which he can direct his March to the Northern Circars) his Communications would be more difficult and precarious, and his Diftance greater from Calcutta than Hoffengabad, his ate Station on the Banks of the Nerbudda.

(Signed) W. H.

The Question is put on Mr. Francis's Motion of the 2d Inflant, viz. " If at the Time when Colonel Goddard shall receive the prefent Orders, he shall not have arrived at Surat, Broach, or Bombay; or if he shall have been obliged to halt at Brampour or at any other Station in the Maratta Dominions; he do immediately retire to Berar, and demand a Passage from the Rajali through his Country towards the Coast of Orixa; or if he shall have been already obliged to retire into Berar, that he continue his March towards the Coast of Orixa and the Chicacole " Circar."

Mr. Wheler-I agree to the Motion.

. Mr. Francis-The immediate Object of the Motion is, if possible, to withdraw Colonel Goddard from a Situation of the greatest Danger; the suture Destination of his Army, if he were once in Berar, would always be subject to the Orders of the Board: Without making any further Reflecnons at prefent on the Governor General's Minute, I adhere to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell-The Reasons with which the Governor General has opposed the Direction of Colonel Goddard's March towards the Northern Circars appear to me unanswerable, and I concur with him in Opinion, that any Meafures at this Inflant that may deprive us of the Alliance of he Berar State, or create a Mifunderflanding between that Government and ours, is to be avoided. in objecting to Mr. Francis's Motion, I shall not enter into the Propriety of affording an Aid to the Prefidency of Fort Saint George; but I do not think it possible that Aid can be given by the Detachment under Colonel Goddard, unless a Treaty takes place between the Two Governments of Bengal and Berar.

The Covernor General-Had the Question been proposed in Terms similar to the Explanation given of it in Mr. Francis's last Minute, I should have given a very different Opinion upon it; wishing equally with Mr. Francis for the Return of the Detachment to Berar, and equally dreading to hear of its proceeding to the other Coast; but I should have opposed the Proposition of dending any express Orders to Colonel Goddard for this Purpose, simply on the Principle that fuch Orders could not reach him till their intended Effect were paffed.

The Question is resolved in the Ne, gative.

Mr. Francis-It refled with the Governor General to have adopted so much of the last Motion as concurred with his Wifhes and Opinion; and I should have been well content to have seen even the First Part of my Object accomplished; I mean the Retreat of the Detachment from a Situation of Danger into the Country of a Friend: Having this Object still much at Heart, I will not relinquish it, because I cannot obtain all I proposed; I therefore beg I cave to move, in the Terms of the First Part of the last Motion, viz. " That if at the Time when Colonel Goddard shall receive the " prefent Orders, he shall not have arrived at Surat, Broach, or Bombay; or if he shall have 66 been obliged to halt at Burrampore, or at any other Station in the Maratta Dominions; he do 66 immediately retire to Berar." I am inclined to think with the Governor General, that any Orders we fend now may be too late; but, fince the contrary is not impossible, we ought not to leave Colonel Goddard without Orders, which perhaps may be necessary to him, and which we are not absolutely certain will be uscless.

The Governor General-I beg Leave to stop the Course of the Question, by an Observation which I think may possibly induce Mr. Francis to withdraw it: The Object of it is already passed. Our Orders to Colonel Goddard of the 5th, and recorded in Confultation the 8th February, precifely enjoin what is now required: I will repeat to much of them as appertain to the prefent Subject: "Or in the Event of his Death, or if the Failure of the Plan laid for reftoring him to " the Administration of the Government at Poona, we say, in either of the Cases here premifed, " we authorize you to recur to the Negociations which have been fulpended with the Court of "Berar, and to conclude a Treaty with that Government, in the Manner and on the Terms already prescribed by our former Instructions." The Plan for restoring Ragonaut Row to the Adminillration of the Government at Poona has failed; Colonel Goddard therefore, from the Inflant he receives certain Advice of this Conclution, was under express Orders to return to his Negociations with Moodajee Boofla, which necessarily and inavoidably implied his Return to Perar; and from the Reluctance with which he quitted the Objects of that Commission at the Call of the Prefidency of Bombay, we may fafely conclude, that in this Influnce his Inclinations, equally with his Duty, would prompt him to return: But if the contrary shall have happened; if for Reasons which lay beyond the Reach of our present Conjecture, he shall have resolved to prosecute his March, either to Bombay. Surat, or Broach, what will be the leffect of the Order which it is now proposed to send? the Distance from Burampore to either of those Places would feareely require a Month to accordish it, but a full Month has already elapsed since the Date of the last Letter, in which he informs us of his Resolution to make an immediate Choice of his future Line, and another Month at heath and the first and the sense of at least must pass before he could receive any Orders now sent him, they would be therefore inessectual for the Prevention of such a Destination of his Force; but other Consequences might nttend it, fince, as it is expressed, it would require his implicit Obedience to it, though he have reached either of those Places, and though his Return would subject him to the Repetition of all the Dangers which have been stated as insurmountable in his Attempt to attain them; again repeat, why should we form precipitate and decided Resolutions without a Clue to guide us, when the Delay of a Day may surnish us with all the Knowledge in this Point, at least that may be need fary to guide us in the Choice of them?

Mr. Francis—The Board I am persuaded are in Possession of every Argument that I could be urge in support of the Motion. If Colonel Goddard shall have reached any of the Settlement of the Malabar Coast, it is expressly provided, that the present Orders shall not operate: If the are precisely the same with any which we have already given him (which however I do not admit the Repetition of them can do no Mischief; whereas in many Cases, they may relieve Colone Goddard from any Doubt about our Intentions.

As for the rest, I shall only observe, that I did never understand that Colonel Goddard quittee the Objects of his Commission to Moodajee Boosla at the Call of the Presidency of Bombay: I am sure I can prove from his Letters, that he took this Resolution upon the Resultal of Moodajee Boosla to concur in the proposed Plan of Alliance; even in one of the Letters before us, he speak of the Necessity he conceived there was of advancing towards Bombay, in consequence of the Delays that have arisen in the Accomplishment of the Negociation with Moodajee Boosla. I desire that the Question may be put.

to Poona, to which this Extract is little more than an Allusion, are contained in his Letter of the 5th January, in which that Resolution is first notified to us; these are his Words: "Disappointed in my Views at this Court, I have referred to the latter Part of your Instructions given to Mr. Elliott for his Guide, and compared them with the Purport of your Letter to me of the 2rl November last, in which you have thought it necessary to revoke the Order before sent me for obeying all such Orders as I might receive from the President and Council at Bombay, lest a Compliance with them might interrupt any Measures I might find it necessary to pursue in con-

" fequence of my Engagements with the Rajah of Berar.

"You have also fignified to me that it is your Intention the Detachment under my Command flould act in support of any Measures which the Council at Bombay may have formed in Reliance on it, as far as they may be consistent with the Instructions given us, and the Engagements I may have concluded in consequence of them.

"By the Determination of this Court any Difficulties which an Attention to the latter might have occasioned, are entirely removed and as I consider it further consistent with the Spin of " your Instructions, I have thought proper to march towards Poona immediately.

"I am induced to adopt this Step in confequence of having received Letters from the Sekd " Committee at Bombay, informing me that the Forces from that Prefidency had actually taken " the Field to effect the Restoration of Ragoba; that Messis. Carnac, Egerton, and Mostin, " were appointed Commissioners for settling the Poona Government, and requiring me to ad-"vance towards that Place with all Expedition, as the Presence of my Detachment is necessary to the Success of their Views. From other authentic Intelligence I learn, the Hostilities are " actually commenced; I am therefore led to believe, that whatever may be the Refult of your political Refolves, the Arrival of the Force under me in the Neighbourhood of Poona will be for the Interest of the Service, either to profecute the War, or to bring it to an honourable " Conclusion, at the same Time that I shall be ready to act, in concert with Moodajce, any Plan " that may be deemed necessary in consequence of your Determination." Here he expressive declares, that his intended March to Poona was occasioned solely by the Requisition of the Select Committee at Bombay; and the Refufal of Moodajee Boofla is mentioned only as his Justification in relinquishing the immediate Object of his Commission to comply with that Requisition. His private Letters to me are all tinctured with the strongest Marks of Discontent and Mortification at being thus defeated in his Negociation by the Presidency of Bombay, to whose Acts he imputes the Failure of it by the fudden Difinclination shewn by Moodajce to accept of the proffered Terans This however he had not absolutely relinquished, but had left it on such a Footing that the Obstacle of Ragoba being removed he might resume it; and Moodajee on his Part equals defirous, in Appearance at least, that it might take Essect, has sent back his considential Vacker with Powers to conclude a Treaty immediately with this Government and did request Colonel Goddard to wait with the Army within his Territories until the final Resolves of this Government could be received concerning it. As for the rest, having shewn that in my Sense of it, the Quei tion was unnecessary, and that it might be attended with Danger, it is unnecessary to repeat that I cannot agree to it.

Mr. Francis—I do not doubt that Colonel Goddard was immediately determined to move towards Poona, by the Letters he received from Bombay, but it appears plainly, that he did had take that Refolution until after he had received Moodajee Boofla's Refusal to co-operate with him on the Terms of the proposed Treaty. Disappointed in his Views at the Court of Berar, he then, and not till then, referred to his Instructions. This Doubt however, if there be any, may estay be resolved: Is it a Question with any Members of this Board, whether, if Colonel Godd and had not been disappointed in his Views at the Court of Berar, and if he had actually concluded the intended Alliance with Moodajee Boosle, he would in that Case have paid any Regard to the

P E N D I X, Nº 182.

Requisition from Bombay to affift in the Restoration of Ragoba; or could he have done it, confiftently with the Treaty he had concluded?

The Governor General—I beg Leave to discontinue the Debate.

Mr. Wheler—Whether Colonel Goddard has or has not already received Orders from this Board under prescribed Circumstances, to return with his Army into the Province of Berar, is not the present Question: If he has received such Orders, the Propriety of Mr. Francis's Question is fully established, for surely there can be no Harm in repeating them; if he has not, the Necessity of Mr. Francis's Question is evinced, upon Ground equally tenable; in either Case, there does not in my Opinion exist the Shadow of an Argument against the present Question. I therefore most heartily concur in it.

Mr. Barwell-I agree in Opinion entirely with the Governor General; and exclusive of the Reasons he has affigned for his Negative, I should have an Objection to the Question, as proposing a Measure which it only in Fact repeats: The Measure has already been proposed and carried in the Affirmative, in the Instructions to Colonel Goddard on the 2d of last Month, against the Opinions of both Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheler, though by a new Form it now appears as an original Proposition, proceeding from the diffenting Members to the First Question, included in

Mr. Francis's Second Motion resolved in the Negative.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

The Proceedings of the 4th Instant, read and approved.

Mr. Francis-I defire that the Governor General's Minute, entered at the Beginning of the Consultation of the 4th Instant, be read.

Read accordingly.

Mr. Francis records the following Minute in Reply to it.

While a Question of to much Importance to the public Service was depending, I would not allow myself to engage in a Debate, which was not likely to influence the Decision of the Board, and could only delay it. But since I am convinced, that the late political Measures of this Government, and of the Presidency of Bombay, will ere long be the Subject of a Parliamentary Inquiry; and that every Part of our Proceedings, which has occasioned or led to the late Difaster, will be submitted to the Judgment of the Public; it highly concerns my Reputation, if not my Sasety, that my Conduct through the Whole of the Transaction should be fairly represented, and in no Instance missunderstood; for this Purpose only I presume to trouble the Board with Observations on the preceding Minute.

1st. I agree with the Governor General, in his Idea of the Levity and Weakness of entering into precipitate Resolutions on the First Rumour of disastrous Events. On this Principle, there could be no Atonement for the Motion introduced on Monday last, to fend another Brigade acrofs the Jumna, but the early Retraction which followed it. Our Superiors will judge whether the Doctrine can with the least Colour of Truth be applied to any Acts of mine. The Evidence of our Confultations will shew, that I have at all Times, and in all Circumstances, equally pressed for the Recall of Colonel Goddard's Detachment; and that I have more than Once been reproached for an unavailing Perfeverance in this Endeavour. In perfifting to urge the Necessity of the Measure, I am moved, not so much by the Misfortune which has already befallen us at Poona, as by an Apprehension of those which are likely to follow it.

2d. Admitting that we were uninformed of the precise State of Assairs on the other Side of India, it would be no Argument against conditional Orders, expressing clearly the several Cases in which they are and are not to operate; the same Degree of Ignorance must at all Times attend our Debates concerning Objects at so great a Distance. Two Months at least must elapse, before our Resolution on any given State of Facts on the other Side of India can reach the Persons who are to be guided by it; and in the Interval a total Change of Circumstances may have happened. Is it meant, that no Orders shall be given, because the Nature of the Case will not permit us to make them positive and absolute? or how can we be assured, that any further Informa-

Instructions perfectly adapted to that in which he may find himself a Month hence?

3d. Jan supposed to affert that distant military Expeditions are in themselves irreconcilable to the Dictates of Honour, Justice, and sound Policy; and that Officers intrusted with the Conduct of South Expeditions are by allowed a distance of the Manne of the Dictates of Honour, Justice, and sound Policy; and that Officers intrusted with the Conduct of South Expeditions are by allowed a distance of the Manne of the Manne of the Manne of the Expeditions are provided to the Dictates of Honour, Justice, and sound Policy; and that Officers intrusted with the Conduct of South Expeditions are provided to the Manne of the duct of such Enterprizes ought not to be allowed a discretionary Power to judge of the Means of carrying them into Execution. When Propositions so palpably absurd are imputed to me, the Rep. VI.

clearest Proof should accompany the Imputation. The Meaning of my Argument could not have been so totally mistaken, if the Terms in which it is expressed had been recited. The Object before me was a military Expedition through an immense Tract of Countries hardly known to us, and avowedly destined to conquer Nations, from which we have received no Injury. From this Fact my Inserence was deduced, that if it were possible to answer every Objection to the Principle of Expeditions of that Nature; and to reconcile their real or pretended Object to the Distates of Honour, Justice, and sound Policy, another Difficulty inseparable from the Execution of such Measures, would remain in Force, viz. That the Distance of an Army so circumstanced, obliged us to trust the commanding Officer with an absolute Discretion, not only in the Detail of military Operations, but in the Choice of his Objects. In support of this Proposition it need only be observed, that a Month ago it depended solely on Colonel Goddard's Determination, certainly not on any Orders of ours, whether he should proceed to Poona, to Broach, or to Surat, or whether he should return to Berar.

Broach, or to Surat, or whether he should return to Berar.

4th. The Limits I would prescribe to the British Empire in India, are wide enough to answer every wise and prositable Purpose. The Force of our Arms should now be employed in securing what we have gained. All our Acquisitions may be lost while we are endeavouring to extend them. But if Maxims of an opposite Tendency are recommended, as the Foundation of a wise. Policy, such Maxims cannot be supported by the Example of Great Britain. The distant Dependencies of the British Empire took their Origin from the Spirit of Commerce and Colonization, not from Conquest; and, though it be true that our Fleets have acted with Honour in the most distant Quarters of the Globe, the Success of Naval Enterprizes proves nothing in Favor of Expeditions by Land, into the Fleart of Countries hostile or unknown to us. Later Events have demonstrated the insuperable Difficulty of such Attempts.

5th. My Assertion, that if Colonel Goddard has proceeded to Surat, Poona, or Broach, or retreated to Berar, he has acted without Orders, is not answered by faying, that we fent him Orders on the 8th February; since they probably have not reached him at this Moment: Supposing these Orders clear and to the Purpose; and though it should happen that they coincide with the Resolution he may have taken, still he acts without Orders, if he acts before he receives them.

6th. I do not affirm, that the Aid to be given to Fort Saint George must necessarily be afforded by Colonel Goddard's Detachment, or that we are not Judges of the Means by which we are to relieve that Presidency. Yet these Propositions are stated as mine, and lest, as they ought to be, without a Reply; I should indeed deserve no Answer, if, when I recommended a Measure to the Choice and Judgment of the Board, I could forget myself so far as to affert or intimate that the Board were not the Judges of it.

7th. When I adopt the Reasons assigned by the Presidency of Fort St. George, those Reasons become mine; and when I advise a Measure, expressly because I deem it the best that can be pursued in our present Circumstances, it is clear, that I am not reduced to the single Argument of its appearing conformable to the Sentiments of Sir Eyre Coote. But as on this Point I really do not understand the Governor General's Reasoning, I must leave it unanswered.

I will not look into the Heart of any Man for the secret Motives of his Conduct: Those which the Governor General is pleased to impute to me, are sufficiently answered by a Denial. That Sir Eyre Coote has formed his Opinion without sufficient Knowledge of our Circumstances, I for my own Part do not believe; but I perfectly agree with the Governor General, in thinking "that "he will not expect that the Interests of Government should not be hazarded for a personal "Compliment."

8th. I fee no Probability for my own Part, that Colonel Goddard has refumed his Negociations with Moodajee Boofla; nothing at least appears in his Letters of the 27th of January and 2d of February to incline us to think so. But let Colonel Goddard's Disposition be what it may, there feems no Likelihood that Moodajee Boofla, who refused to unite with us when our Force was entire, and the Reputation of our Arms had suffered no Discredit, should be forward to engage at this Season, against a Government sushed with Victory and strengthened by Success:

9th. I understand the Dominions of the Rajah of Berar to reach from the Nerbudda to the Coast of Orixa; it would not be necessary therefore for the Detachment to march through any Part of the Nizam's Dominions. But if this be not a Time to furnish that Prince with a Pietence to open Hostilities against us, with what Consistency can it be proposed to revert to the intended Alliance with Moodajee Boosla, one of the main Objects of which is to attack the Nizam, and

roth. In the last Paragraph of the Governor's Minute, I understand it to be afferted, that supposing Colonel Goddard to move from Brampore through Berar to the Coast of Orixa, his Communication with us would be more difficult and precarious, and his Distance from Calcutta greater than if he were not to pursue that Route. If this be not the Meaning of the Proposition, I have nothing to do with it; if it be, I must deny it, as a Matter of Fact, that any March Eastward from his present Position will place him at a greater Distance from Calcutta, or make our Communication with him more difficult and precarious.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Supreme Council.

Gentlemen,

I have had the Honour of your Letter of the 28th ultimo, informing me of the Two Battalions you have thought proper to fend under Major Camac, to reinforce my Detachment, and the Orders he has received to act conformably to fuch Instructions as I may find it necessary to give him. As the Route of Major Camac in order to join me, after leaving Ramghur and Chutta Naigpore, must lay through the Territories of the Berar Rajah, I have wrote a Letter to that Prince, informing him of this Force having been detached by you, to be employed under me, for the mutual Interests of both Parties; and from the Rajah's favourable and friendly Disposition towards the English, I do not doubt his cheerful Concurrence to their Passage through his Dominions, and every necessary and proper Assistance on their March.

I have already related to you every Transaction attending the Negociation I was empowered by your Government to enter into with Moodajee Boosla, and the Necessity I conceived there was, in consequence of the Delays that have arisen in the Accomplishment of that Business, of advancing towards the Bombay Settlement; and as I am of Opinion in the present uncertain State of Affairs, that should I find it necessary to proceed beyond Burhanpore, the effecting a Junction of the Force under Major Camac with my Detachment might be attended with extreme Hazard and Danger; I have directed him not to advance beyond the Western Boundaries of the Berar Territories, or enter the Dominions subject to the Peishwa or Nizam Ally, till he shall receive further Instructions from me. I beg to enclose you Copy of a Letter received from the Select Committee at Bombay, accompanying a Copy of the Treaty concluded on by them with Ragonaut Row, in the Name of the English Company. The Farnestness with which they repeat their Anxiety and Solicitude for the Arrival of the Troops under me, as a Measure necessary to the Company's Affairs, does not seem to correspond altogether with the Sentiments expressed by the Commissioners, in their Letter, of which I had Yesterday the Honour of transmitting you a Copy; nor indeed does the Purport of the one in any Respect throw a Light upon the irreconcileable Doubts a Perusal of the other had occasioned. You will however perceive that this Letter from Bombay bears Date the 12th Instant, and was wrote the succeeding Day to that from the Army of the 11th; of course the Circumstance alluded to in the latter could not then have been communicated to the Select Committee: I remain therefore in hourly Expectation of full and satisfactory Accounts from that Quarter, which I shall no doubt receive before my Arrival at Burrampore. I beg to acquaint you that I shall most certainly reach that City the 31st, the Narrowness and Difficulties of the Road having occasioned the Delay of a Day longer than I expected.

Camp at Suvill, 27th January 1779.

I have the Honour, &c. (Signed) Tho' Goddard.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Supreme Council.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you the 26th and 27th ultimo, enclosing I etters for Messis. Carnac, Egerton, and from the Select Committee at Bombay; fince which I have marched to Burhampore, the Capital of Khandeish, and am encamped opposite the City, upon the Banks of the Taplee River. I reached this Place on the 30th, One Day sooner than I expected, having found it necessary to make a forced March through some broken Ground and narrow Desiles, in corder to get Ground for Encampment.

Soce my Arrival I have been in constant Hope of receiving some Advices from Poona, to remove the Uncertainty I was under, from the Style of those before arrived; but except the enclosed, no Letter or authentic Intelligence whatever has reached me; and you will perceive, that I can derive no certain Information from a Perusal of its Contents.

I am forry that the Letter alluded to of the 16th has miscarried, because the Gentlemen with the Army might perhaps in it have condescended upon a Detail of Particulars, which would have discovered discovered to me the real Situation of their Affairs: At present, when I compare the Two Letters they have written me, with the flying Report that prevails at this Place, although I am left in the Dark as to the Manner in which Matters have been settled, it is however manifest that some Change has taken place in them; and there is great Reason to apprehend it has been brought about by Circumstances unsavourable to our Arms.

The First Letter, by the cautious Advice it gives against the Bodies of Horse I may meet with, to interrupt and moleit my March towards Surat or Broach, proves that if any Terms have been made, they are such as were dictated by Necessity, and a Regard to their own particular Sasety, without Reference to the Object for which the Enterprize was First undertaken; except perhaps, agreeing to relinquish the Pursuit of it; and without providing in any Shape for the probable Progress of the Detachment, I am confirmed in the Belief that the Gentlemen of Bombay have laid aside a Prosecution of their Plan in savour of Ragonaut Row, from the Name of the Place at which the last Letter is dated, as I understand it is a few Coss on the Bombay Side of Bhore Ghaut.

The Cossids who brought this, inform me, that Ragonaut Row has remained behind at Jelligong with the ministerial Forces; that the Chiefs, after a long and obstinate Conslict, in which Numbers were killed on both Sides, many of them submitted themselves to him, and promised to put him in Possession of the Regency at Poona, if he would dismiss the English Troops; other Accounts again fay, that Ragoba was taken Prisoner by Sindiah and Holkar: In short, so various are the Reports that prevail, and so little are any of them to be depended on, from the partial Channels through which I am forced to receive them, that I can fix upon no certain Opinion, except that our Troops are actually upon their Return to Bombay; and that Ragoba's Bufiness is either accomplished, or it is become unnecessary to prosecute it further.

I have halted at this Place Two Days, and am collecting a fufficient Quantity of Provisions. that I may be ready to adopt such Measures as shall be judged most expedient upon ascertaining the exact Situation of Affairs at Poona, which I expect must arrive every Hour; for although the Gentlemen with the Army have, for Reasons which I cannot account for, thought proper to conceal from me a Knowledge of Circumstances so necessary for the Interest of the Company, and the Safety of the Detachment to be known, I do not doubt but the Select Committee will explain the whole Transaction clearly and fully to me. In the Hope of receiving this satisfactory Account, I think it prudent to defer coming to an immediate Determination; when it arrives, I will address you fully.

Read the following Letter from Colonel Goddard:

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Supreme Council.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour of writing to you the 2d Instant, enclosing Copy of a Letter received som Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, since which I have looked with anxious Expectations for Accounts from that Quarter, to clear up the Uncertainty I had Reason to be under concerning the Event of Affairs.

A P P E N D I X, N° 183.

Affairs at Poona; but it is with a good deal of Concern I must still repeat to you my Surprize at their continual Silence and Reserve; having received no other Intelligence from them or the Select Committee at Bombay, except the unsatisfactory Information contained in the Letters I have had the Honour to transmit for your Perusal.

Situated as I now am in the Centre of the Maratta Dominions, and the Season fast approaching in which it would be extremely hazardous to keep the Field in an Enemy's Country, I have thought it necessary to come to an immediate Determination, and have resolved to march towards Surat with all Expedition. The Reasons which have induced me to take this Step, I beg to submit to your Consideration; and I am hopeful they will appear to you founded upon a Regard to the Interests of the Honourable Company; and to the Nature of the Instructions which you have been pleased to give me for my Guidance and Direction.

Although the First Letter received from the Gentlemen with the Army could not possibly make me acquainted with any Particulars that had passed, it however gave me Reason to believe, as I before hinted to you, that the Troops of the Ministerial Party were powerful in their Estimation: The last Letter, of the 19th ultimo, by being dated from Campoly on the Bombay Side of Bore Ghaut, amounted to a Proof that the Bombay Forces were returning to their own Settlements; and the different Intelligence I have been able to obtain here, together with the Reports made me by my own Hircarrahs from that Quarter, all seem to confirm the Belief, that a Settlement has been made with the Chiefs of the adverse Party, by no Means savourable to our Arms; this Opinion is further corroborated by a Letter I have just received from Moodajee Boossa, informing me, that a Battle had been sought betwixt the Bombay Forces and those of the Ministers, in which the latter were victorious; and that having surrounded the English, the latter sent a Deputation to the Marattas, proposing to deliver up Ragonaut Row into their Hands, and promising to adhere to the Terms of the Treaty before made with Nanah Furnese by Colonel Upton.

What I have been enumerating are all the Grounds on which I can form any certain Conjectures of the Situation of Affairs at Poona; and as I think the Intelligence fent by Moodajee deferving of particular Credit, I doubt not you will concur with me in Opinion, that the Government of Bombay must have suffained a considerable Check; and that the Presence of the Force under me may be absolutely necessary to prevent any bad Consequences that might happen to the Company's Interest on that Side of India in consequence of it, should this Event be followed by an Attack from the French, which you will perceive by the Select Committee's Letter, may be the Case next Season, and on that Account press my speedy March, from the Insufficiency of their own Force to oppose it, I cannot but anticipate a probable Suggestion, that my Arrival may not only be the Means of restoring the Affairs of the Settlement of Bombay, but of faving it from utter Ruin.

I propose marching from this Place To-morrow Morning on the Road to Surat; and as I shall use all possible Expedition, I make no Doubt of being able to reach it in a Month, notwithstanding the Opposition I may expect to meet with on the Road. I am forry however Messrs. Carnac and Egerton were not more explicit in their First Letters to me, as I might by this Time have been confiderably advanced on the Road.

With respect to the Negociation proposed to be carried on with the Rajah of Berar, nothing can be effected in that Business, till the Arrival of Answers from your Government to the Letters sent by him through me; and even admitting the Certainty of their acceding to the Alliance, the Disposal of the Detachment in the mean Time becomes a Consideration of Importance and Difficulty to determine: Should I wait Answers at this City to Letters I might write to Moodajee on the Subject, advising with him upon a Place to halt at till the expected Dispatches might arrive from Calcutta, a Period of One Month would in all Probability clapse; and should he after all prove averse to my remaining in any Part of his Territories, the hot Season would be so far advanced, and the Rains be so near at Hand, that even my March to Surat, allowing for many other Circumstances which might happen, would be rendered very inconvenient, and perhaps impracticable. I am induced to believe he would object to my continuing within his Dominions, because with the Account he has written me of the Transactions at Poona, he has proposed my returning to Calcutta by such Road as I shall find most convenient and eligible, without making any Reference in savour of his Views in concert with your Government.

In this Uncertainty respecting the Intentions of Moodajee; the unfavourable Aspect of Affairs at Bombay 1 the Probability of an Attack from the French upon that Settlement next Season; and the pressint, Terms used by the Select Committee for my speedy Arrival, to guard against the evil Consequences of such an Event; I beg to repeat to you that I consider it for the Interest of the Horourable Company, and entirely consistent with the Spirit of your Instructions, that I should pursue my Route towards Bombay by the nearest and most practicable Road, which is by the Way

I have wrote to Major Camac in consequence of Moodajee's Proposal, for this Detachment to Ceturn to Calcutta; and the Interruption the Negociation with the Court of Naigpore has met with not to advance beyond the Western Boundaries of the Company's Provinces; but to be guidely with respect to his remaining there, or returning to Bengal, by the Instructions he either has or may receive from you.

Postscript.—Since writing the above, a Letter from the Select Committee is just arrived, Copy of which I beg to transmit for your Perusal: You will perceive it contains no certain Intelligence of what has happened, except confirming my Belief of the Return of the Bombay Forces, and further proving the Expediency of my March towards that Settlement. As soon as the particular Information they promise to give me arrives, I shall do myself the Pleasure of communicating it to you.

We have just received your Letter, dated the 3d Instant; and concluding this will meet you on your March, we direct that you proceed straight to Surat, instead of to Poona or Ziner, as before directed.

Our Army we learn is now on the Return to Bombay; but we are not at present able to give you any precise Information as to the Reasons for that Measure, or the probable Consequences of it: We will however write you fully the Moment we are able to do it with Certainty.

MR. Francis delivers in the following Minute:

Mr. Francis—Having received no Advices from the Presidency of Bombay of the Circumstance or Consequence of the Deseat of their Army near Poona, nor any direct Information whatsoever of the actual State of the Company's Affairs on the other Side of India; we are lest to judge of both from Appearances, and to form our Measures on such Facts as are known to us, and on such probable Conjectures as the Lights we are possessed of may suggest. It appears to me, as well from the prosound Silence which the Presidency of Bombay have observed to us, as from their Letter of the 22d of January to Colonel Goddard, that supposing he should reach Bombay, they have it in their Contemplation to break their last Engagement with the Poona Government, and to renew the War at all Events. They now have nothing to lose, not even Honour; and we know not to what satal Extremities Despair may impel them. Uniform Experience intitles us to form any Conjectures whatsoever, however unfavourable to them, with respect to their suture Concust: The same Experience, I think, obliges us to suppose the Necessity of our guarding against the most injudicious and dangerous Measures, that it is possible for them to pursue.

In this Situation the First Thing in my Opinion to be done, is to prevent the Presidency of Bombay, from acting at all; I mean without our specific Orders and Instructions: I therefore moved That a Letter be immediately written to the Presidency of Bombay, to express our Concern Surprize at the profound Silence they have observed to us, on the late Operations and Deseat of their Army; and to prohibit them, in the most precise and positive Terms, and as they will answer the contrary at their Peril, from commencing or renewing Hostilities against the Marattas, or any other Indian Princes or Powers, except in their own immediate Deseace, without our Consent and Approbation first had and obtained.

The

The Governor General—It has perhaps escaped Mr. Francis, that his present Motion has been anticipated by Orders exactly to the fame Amount already passed, and sent in the following Clause of the 9th Article of our Instructions of the 4th of last Month; "And they themselves (that is, "the President and Select Committee) be forbidden to enter into any new Engagements without a previous Application to us, and our Sanction obtained." If it be true that their Design in favour of Ragobah hath sailed; that they have entered into a new Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Government; and that they had actually abandoned Ragonaut Row, or furrendered his Person to their common Enemy, for which Facts we have so many concurrent Authorities as to leave us with scarce the Possibility of a Doubt of their Reality; they can neither commence nor renew Hostilities against the Marattas, or against any other Indian Prince or Power, except in their own immediate Defence, without a positive Breach of those Orders. The whole Tenor of our Letter strongly expresses the Reluctance with which we agreed to support them in the Prosecution of the Measure which they had undertaken; so that it is impossible they can have mistaken the Force of this Order, or overlooked it: And is, in Desiance of it, and with the most scandalous Breach of their own facred Engagement so recently contracted, they shall have commenced a new War with the Marattas, they will have brought themselves precisely into that Situation described by the Act of Parliament, by which they will become liable to be suspended from the Company's Service, by the controlling Power of this Government. Our Letter of the 4th February, containing the Order above mentioned, may by this Time have been received; and I shall deem them accountable for every Act done in Contradiction to it. But the Order now proposed to be sent cannot reach them before the Month of May, at which Time it will be impossible for them to begin any military Operations, if they should be so disposed; and instead of preventing surther Mischief may serve them as a Plea to justify any Acts of Hostility, which they may have previously committed, in Breach of our former Orders. It appears therefore to me both unnecessary and improper to fend them any new Orders to the same Effect: Let us wait a few Days longer; we yet know no more of the Event of this Expedition than we did on the 25th of last Month, when we received the first News of it: It is scarcely possible that we should remain many Days longer in this State of Ignorance and Suspence; and therefore I wish still to wait for Materials, before we venture to issue Orders the Effect of which we cannot foresee, and which have no apparent Object, in the Situation of those for whose Guidance they are designed.

Mr. Francis—We were not informed of the Disaster at Poona, when we wrote to Bombay, on the 4th of last Month; neither does the Instructions quoted from our Letter of that Date, appear to me to amount, in any Degree, to the Meaning of my Proposition; this I think will be evident, from a bare Inspection of the Terms of the Two Orders. They may commence or renew Hostilities on their former Plan, without entering into any new Engagements. If nevertheless the Two Orders were precisely the same, I think that the important Event which we have heard of in the Interval, and of the Effects of which on the Minds of the Gentlemen of Bombay we cannot be absolutely certain, would authorize and oblige us to repeat them. In the present critical Circumstances, it is our Duty even to them, not to leave them the Shadow of a Pretence for acting in Opposition to our Intentions. Our not sending the Orders I now propose will no more enforce the Obligation they were under to obey former Orders, than our sending them will lessen it. Whatever they may have done in the Interval must be condemned or justified by the Terms of the Orders, of which they were actually in Possession.

Mr. Wheler—I agree to Mr. Francis's Motion. Mr. Barwell—To agree to Mr. Francis's Motion would imply an Opinion, that it had been zendered necessary, by a Deficiency in the Orders already given: That there is no such Deficiency is evinced by the Quotation made by the Governor General from the Orders of the 4th of last Month; yet to deny my Assent to it, I am sensible may expose me to the Charge of Inattention to the Conduct of the Bombay Presidency, which too much warrants the Suggestion thrown out by Mr. Francis. Under the Orders existing, the present Motion is premature, and anticipates that full Information on which alone the Board can maturely refolve; and which Motion, probably, instead of appearing irregular, might have been a general Vote of the Council, resulting from the Facts before them. I am against the Motion.

Mr. Francis's Motion resolved in the Negative.

PRESENT,

Esquires.

RECEIVED the following Letter from the Select Committee of Bombay.

Gentlemen,

The preceding is a Duplicate of our Address, dated the 13th ultimo.

We shall very shortly dispatch a Vessel express to Bengal, with a full Account of the unsuccessful Issue of the late Expedition; this being transmitted over Land, to convey to you as quick as possible this disagreeable Intelligence. When our Army had advanced to Fellagong, within Eighteen Miles from Poona, and it was found, contrary to Expectation, that none of the Maratta Chiefs ventured to join the Standard of Ragoba, it was judged expedient by Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, that the Army should fall back to the Head of the Gauts, to secure their Supplies of Provisions, which they could not procure as they advanced, the Country being entirely laid waste by the numerous Bodies of Horse that opposed them: The Army was accordingly put in Motion the 11th at Night, and on their Retreat were very vigorously attacked by the Maratta Horse, who carried off some of the Baggage and Provision; but after a long and warm Action, were compelled to retire. This Engagement having occasioned the Army to halt, Ragoba took that Opportunity to open a Negociation with Moodajee Sindia; and the commanding Officers having given it as their Opinion, that the Army would not stand another Attack, and refuled the Charge of conducting it to Bombay, the Committee found themselves obliged to treat with the Maratta Chiefs for an unmolested Passage. They at First only demanded, that we should give up the Cause and Person of Ragoba, which was accommodated without Difficulty, as Ragoba had already declared his Intention of putting himself under the Protection of Moodajee Sindia; they then rose in their Demands, and insisted that we should surrender all the Acquisitions made Bengal Provinces. This the Committee declared in Writing, in the most plain and positive Manner, that they had no Authority whatever to agree to; and that, if they did make such an Agreement, the Ministers would be deceived; however, as they persisted in their Demands, the Committee after that Declaration, having no Alternative, did subscribe a Paper, containing the above Conditions, and our Troops accordingly returned to Bombay. As we cannot admit that an Agreement made in fuch Circumstances, and after such a previous Declaration, is of any Validity, we shall endeavour to treat with the Marattas upon another Footing; and we have directed Colonel Goddard to march to Surat, instead of to Poona, as before ordered. We request, Gentlemen, that you will suspend all Judgment and Determination respecting this unfortunate Assair, till the Whole is fully laid before you, which shall be done as soon as possible; and in the mean Time we remain, with Respect,

Mr. Francis—As it appears to me, by the preceding Letter from Bombay, that the Opinion I had formed of their Intentions is well founded, viz. That they have it in Contemplation to renew Hostilities with the Marattas, and that it is for this Purpose they have ordered Colbrel Goddard to proceed to Surat; I beg Leave to renew the Motion which I made on Monday last in the same Terms, viz. "That a Letter be immediately written to the Presidency of Bombay, express our Concern and Surprize at the prosound Silence they have observed to us, on the late Operations and Deseat of their Army; and to prohibit them in the most precise and positive Terms, and as they will answer the contrary at their Peril, from commencing or renewing Hostilities against the Marattas, or any other Indian Princes or Powers, except in their own immediate Deseate, without our Consent and Approbation First had and obtained."

What is the second content and experioration I are nad and obtained.

A P P E N D I X, No 185, 186, and 187.

'Mr. Wheler.—I agreed to the Propriety of Mr. Francis's Motion on Monday last; and I am, in Consequence of the Letter now before the Board, fully convinced of the absolute Necessity we are under of restraining that Presidency from any further Act of Hostility against the Maratta States.

The Governor General .- As I am not aware of the Extent of the Question, I must beg Leave to interrupt the Course of the Votes given upon it, by a sew previous and necessary Observations. I have carefully read over that Part of the Letter from Bombay, to which the Question has an immediate Relation, but do not find any Thing in it which can warrant Mr. Francis's Conclusion, " that they have it in Contemplation to renew Hostilities with the Marattas, and that it " is for this Purpose they have ordered Colonel Goddard to proceed to Surat." I infer the Réverse from their Words; and, that their Meaning may not be lost by a distant Reference to them, I will here quote them: " As we cannot admit, that an Agreement made in fuch Cir-".cumstances, and after such a previous Declaration, is of any Validity, we shall endeavour to "treat with the Marattas upon another Footing; and we have directed Colonel Goddard to march to Surat inflead of Poona, as before ordered." They had before mentioned, that a Treaty had been extorted from their Military Committee, confifting of three Articles, viz. 1st. That they should give up the Cause and Person of Ragoba; 2dly. That they should surrender the Acquisitions made since the Time of Madahrow; and 3dly. That Colonel Goddard's Detachment should be ordered back to the Bengal Provinces. The Passage which I have before quoted, is a Disavowal of the Treaty, and a Declaration that they will not abide by it; that is to say, that they will not surrender Salsette, Broach, and all their other Possessions, excepting Bombay and Surat, to the Marattas, but treat with them for their Possessions. It is impossible that their Declaration can have any other Meaning; because, of the Three Articles, the First has had it's full Effect; the Third has been already broken; and the Second of course is the only one which remains undecided. I think it possible that their Resusal to ratify it may have provoked the Maratta Government, slushed with its recent Success, to renew Hostilities on them; but it is plain, from the Terms of their Letter, that it is their Intention to avoid the Renewal of Hostilities against the Marattas, unless they should be compelled to it, in the Defence of their Possessions. I must beg Leave to ask, Whether it is the Intention of the Question now before the Board, that the President and Select Committee of Bombay shall be directed to give up those Possessions? I should apprehend not; because we are not yet furnished with the Authority, which the Military Committee possessed, to conclude Treaties; and because we are not in Possession of the Treaty itself, nor of the written Declaration, said to have been given by the Committee, disclaiming their own Authority to make it; and of course we are incompetent to judge how sar the Treaty, under the Circumstances in which it was made, was binding on the Presidency of Bombay: I omit the Consideration of its Obligation on ours, it being foreign from the present Subject. The President and Select Committee of Bombay would obviously apply the proposed Order, if sent to them in Answer to their Letter, to that Part of the Letter only to which it had a Relation; and as they have no where expressed a Design of renewing offensive Hostilities, they would of course understand it as a Prohibition to withhold the Performance of that Part of the Treaty, on the Performance of which the Confirmation of the Peace between them and the Marattas apparently rested.

Mr. Francis.—I have stated my Opinion of the Intentions of the Presidency of Bombay; as I collect it from the Terms of the Letter before us, perhaps it may be erroneous. The present Motion is to prohibit them from again invading the Marattas, or renewing Hostilities against them, except in their own immediate Defence; it goes no farther.

Mr. Barwell.—There is no new Matter before the Board. The short Reply made by Mr. Francis to the foregoing Observations, is not to the Point those Observations are proposed to guard against. I must suspend my Opinion on the Orders necessary to be resolved by their Government, until we shall be fully informed. If the Presidency of Bombay, upon good and sufficient Ground, shall refuse to ratify that Part of the Act of the Army Committee, which gives up the Possessions of the Company, I shall not think myself authorized to lay it as an Injunction upon them to part with those Possessions. The present Repetition of the Question appears to me totally unnecessary; every cautionary Measure has been taken by this Government, and I do not appeared any others can be added to them, until we receive surther Advices not apprehend any others can be added to them, until we receive further Advices.

Go ernor General.—As Mr. Francis, by declining to answer the Question put to him, has left ne Construction, which I supposed, in the Words of the Motion, and as that Construction is, an my Opinion, clearly warranted by them, this alone is sufficient Reason for me to object to it. I have other Objections; these I partly have stated in the Opinion which I before gave on the last Council Day upon the same Motion. The Letter received from Bombay has indeed opened new Lights upon the State of their Assairs, but these are yet too imperfect to enable us to form a true Judgment of them; besides, as I have already observed, it is scarce possible any Orders which we can give will prove effectual. Their Line must be decided, and its Essects irrevicably paffed, before our Orders can possibly reach them.

Mr. Francis.—It appears to me that my last Minute contained a direct Answer to the Governor General's Question; at least I meant it so. A Prohibition against invading or renewing Hostilities against a People who never injured us, and who, when they had our Army in their Power, acted with such Moderation as to permit that Army to return unmolested, is evidently so just, Rep. VI.

N D I X, N° 185, 186, and 187.

and so reasonable, that I cannot conceive it should require any Argument to defend it. Such Prohibition, however, certainly does not include an Order to the Presidency of Bombay to give up any. Possessions, neither does it direct the Reverse. On that Point I desire to be understood to give no Opinion whatsoever pro or con. It would be premature at this Time, when we have neither a Copy of the Engagement before us, nor even of the Commission under which Messrs. Carnac and Egerton acted.

Governor General.—Not to give an Opinion, is to leave the Question to its natural Construction. The Presidency of Bombay have told us, that they will not give up their Possessions; which in other Terms is, that they will renew Hostilities, if the Marattas insist on this Article to the Treaty. In Answer to their Declaration, it is proposed to forbid them to renew Hostilities, which in this Construction is equivalent to an Order for them to give up their Possessions; for, as I have said before, there is not a Word in their Letter to which the Supposition of the Renewal of Hostilities can possibly apply, but their Disavowal of the Treaty, and implied Resolution not to abide by it.

Mr. Francis's Motion resolved in the Negative.

Governor General .- As a confiderable Time has elapfed fince the Board were advifed of the Resolution taken by Colonel Goddard to march to Surat, and no Reply has been yet written to him upon that Subject, I propose the following.

To Colonel Thomas Goddard.

We have received your Letter, dated 5th of February, and approve the Resolution which you have taken to direct your March to Surat; which, under the Circumstances described by you, and especially with the strong Requisition of the President and Select Committee of Bombay, we think was a Measure indispensably necessary.

We have waited thus long in the daily Expectation of authentic Intelligence from Bombay, to guide us in forming the Instructions which it might be necessary to give you, in the great Change which has taken Place in the general Line of our Political System. We have at length received a Letter from the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay, dated 3d February, which contains the first authentic Account of the unhappy Conclusion of the Expedition undertaken by that Presidency for the Support of Ragonaut Row. We send you an Extract of such Parts of their Letter as we think may be useful for your Information.

It is impossible for us to conjecture, with any Degree of Confidence, what Events may have followed the Defeat of our Arms; but from the Resolution expressed by the Select Committee to disavow the Authority by which the late Treaty was concluded, and to refuse their Compliance with the Terms of it, we think it probable at least, that they may be engaged in further Hostilities with the Maratta State, but of what Kind we may yet remain for some Time in Ignorance; nor can we form any reasonable Conclusion of the Situation in which you may be on the Receipt of the We can therefore give you no new Instructions, but leave you to act on those which you already posses; of which the following is rather an Explanation than any Addition to them.

As the Motive and Object of your March to that Side of India were to afford the Protection of the Forces under your Command to the Presidency of Bombay, your whole Attention in all your Operations must be confined to that Object, so long as the Situation of their Affairs shall require it, until we can furnish you with more explicit Orders; and we trust to your Discretion, that in the Performance of this Service you will conduct yourself with the Caution which the particular State of our Affairs on that Side of India demands; and that you do not involve either yourself or this Government in the Responsibility of the Acts of that Presidency, remembering that you still act under the sole Authority of this Government, independant of theirs, and that of course you are to exercise your own Judgment, both in the Acceptance and Execution of any Service which they shall require you to perform. Mr. Francis.—I do not think that the March to Surat was a Measure indispensably necessis. Colonel Goddard might, I think, have retreated to Berar. I acquiesce in the Remainder of the Letter, without relinquishing any Opinions which I have heretofore delivered.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Esquires. Edward Wheler,

READ the following Letter from Colonel Goddard.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, &c. Supreme Council.

I had the Honour to address you the 5th Instant, informing you of my Intention to proceed mmediately towards Surat, and fully explaining my Motives for so doing, which I statter myself were such as you would approve of. I rejoice much at the Resolution I then took, as it appears i Measure absolutely necessary, not only to the Prosperity of the Settlement of Bombay, but to its immediate Safety. The Accounts which you must long ere this have received from that Government, of the Event of their military Transactions at Poona, will have confirmed the Truth of the above Opinion, and also render unnecessary any particular Explanation I could give of the State of their Affairs; besides that except the Letters already sent you, and that which accompanies this Dispatch, every other Information I could obtain has been of a private and indirect Nature, and neither authentic nor particular enough to deferve being communicated to you.

The enclosed Letter from Messrs. Carnac and Egerton was delivered me by a Vackeel belonging to the Peishwa Madherow Narrain, with another at the same Time from his Master, corresponding with the Directions contained in the former, of returning towards the Bengal Provinces. I at the fame Time received a Letter from Mr. Farmer, forwarding that of the Commissioners, and acquainting me, that himself and Lieutenant Charles Stewart were left in the Maratta Camp, as Hostages for the due Performance of the Capitulation made with the Durbar of Poona, for the unmolested Return of our Army to Bombay.

I am released from every Obligation this Letter of Messrs. Carnac and Egerton might lay me under, by theirs of the 19th ultimo (Copy of which has been already transmitted you) desiring me to pay no Attention whatever to the Directions before fent me of the 16th; and I am also on this Account convinced, that the personal Sasety of the Gentlemen lest as Hostages will not be affected by my March. This Consideration, added to the cogent Reasons surnished by an Attention to the ruined State of the Bombay Settlement, which would of itself render the Step at all Rifques absolutely necessary to the Company's Interests, has determined me to prosecute my Intention of proceeding to Surat with all Expedition.

In consequence of this Resolution, I have wrote to the Poona Dubar, that in Obedience to the Orders of your Government, I marched with a Part of your Forces to protect the English Settlement of Bombay against any Invasion of its Enemics the French; that your Intentions, and the Instructions given me for my Guidance, were perfectly friendly to the Maratta State, as the Whole of my Conduct hitherto must have convinced them; and that I should continue to preserve the same Regard to the Friendship substitting betwixt your Government and the Poona Adininistration inviolably, protecting the Subjects of the Peishwa from all Violence, and avoiding any Act of Hostility whatever, unless compelled to it by their Opposition. I farther added, that I had now advanced to the Neighbourhood of Bombay, according to your Orders; that in Obedience to them it was necessary I should reach that Settlement; after which I should be guided by the Directions you might think proper to give me.

I beg to acquaint you with my having reached the Gul Nuddy in Four Days March, which is distant from Burhampore near 40 Coss. I shall halt To-morrow upon the Banks of it, to refresh the Aroops and Cattle, and shall proceed the next Day, with the same Expedition, towards Surat, which blace I have to make her the Ford of this Moreh, as it is party little more than 100 Coss. which Place I hope to reach by the End of this Month, as it is very little more than 100 Coss from my present Encampment.

The late Losses sustained at Bombay, and the Check given to their Arms, must inevitably for some Time put a Stop to any military Operations depending upon a Plan formed by their Government; the Measures to be pursued will therefore rest solely upon the Resolutions you may find it necessary, for the Interests of the Company, to make, in consequence of the unfortunate Event that has happened; and I shall wait with Anxiety for a Knowledge of them, to direct my future Conduct; at the same Time I beg to be honoured with your sull and particular Instructions relative to the Situation and Connection of this Detachment with the Government of Bom bay, in order to prevent every possible Obstruction to the Public Service; from a Regard to which and the Honour and Interest of your Administration, it shall be my fixed and constant Object never to depart.

To Colonel Thomas Goddard, commanding the Forces from Bengal.

Sir,

Having this Day fettled an Agreement with the Durbar, wherein it is stipulated, that the Army under your Command shall be immediately directed to march back to the Bengal Provinces, you will please, on the Receipt of this, immediately to march back in the most convenient and expeditious Manner you may think sit, and on your March no Molestation is to be offered to any Person, the Durbar sending with their Hircarrahs proper Persons to direct the different Aumildars to supply you with whatever may be requisite.

Extract of Bengal Secret Confultations, the 23d March 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Richard Barwell, Esquires.
Philip Francis, Edward Wheler, indisposed.

M. Wheler having fent in the following Minute just as the Council broke up Yesterday, a was circulated to the different Members of the Board.

. Wheler's Minute. Mr. Wheler.—The Situation to which I fee the Company's Affairs reduced, in every Part of India, fills me, I confess, with the deepest Anxiety and Concern. On the Malabar Coast, I see a War undertaken, and likely to be continued, against the Marattas, without the Pretence of a Provocation of any Kind, and from the Success of which the Company cannot, in my Opinion, derive any possible Advantage, none, I am certain, that can ever compensate for the immediate Expense and Distress which must attend it; for I am convinced that new Acquisitions can answer no End, but to entail upon us and perpetuate new Establishments; I need not point out the Consequences of a Second Defeat.

To support a War at such a Distance, and on such disadvantageous Terms, or even to maintain the Military Establishment now existing on that Side of India, is enough to exhaust all the Resources of Bengal; from which the Company will in vain expect Returns of Wealth to England.

On the other Coast, I see the Presidency of Fort Saint George already engaged, and likely to be more deeply involved, in Military Operations, on which not only the Desence of the Carnatic, but even of their own Presidency, may depend, without a Friend in Reserve, or any Mode of obtaining Supplies of Money, on which they can securely rely. Hyder Ally threatens them on one Sign the Nizam on the other; and what Reason have we to suppose, that the Attempts made by the Powers will not be followed or accompanied by an Invasion of the Marattas? On these Circumstances, the Presidency of Fort Saint George apply to the Treasury of Bengal, as to their only Refuge.

In our own Government I see an expensive and useless Military Expedition still on Foot, towards our Western Frontier, without an Object of any Kind. A Marine maintained at the enormous Expence of Fourteen Lacks a Year, which never has done, nor, as far as I can judge, ever will do the smallest Service. In the mean Time, we are to provide against Troubles in the Vizier's Country, where Two Camps are ordered to be formed for that Purpose.

We

We know not what particular Designs may be formed by Nudjiff Cawn the King, or the Seiks, or what may be the Views of the former in inviting Timur Shaw into Hindostan; but we know, in general, that the Disposition of those Powers is not favourable to us, and that, as the Power of the English, and the Use we make of it, is to them an Object of constant Jealousy and Distrust, so it is not unlikely that they may promise themselves extraordinary Advantages from the Invasion and Plunder of these Provinces. The Opinion of our Superiority in Arms has received a Check, to which we never should have exposed it. In this Situation, I see no Steps towards Peace, no Measures any where taken to recover or secure the Friendship of any of the Indian Powers; but Demands made upon Bengal from all Quarters, for Supplies of Men and Money, as if all India was united against us, and our Resources alone were equal to every Demand.

I state the general Position of our Assairs without Exaggeration, and exactly as they strike me; in Hopes that the Board will consider in the same Light that I do, the Necessity of adopting pacinic Measures, at least in some of the Quarters in which we are threatened with Hostility.

The Letter now before us from Fort Saint George cannot, I think, be read without suggesting similar Researchions to every Member of the Board. With respect to the Point on which Mr. Francis has delivered his Opinion, though it does not come in the Form of a Motion, I deem it equally incumbent on me to say, that, as Things are actually circumstanced, we cannot in Sasety or Prudence results them a Supply of Money; if we do, they will either borrow at a heavy Interest, or draw upon the Company; each of which may be productive of very bad Consequences. At the same Time, the strictest Oeconomy should be recommended to them; and this Recommendation cannot be more effectually enforced, than by an Assurance that we see no Probability of being able to continue such Supplies in suture, and that they must exert their own Essorts, and regulate their Expences accordingly.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council in Bengal to the Court of Directors, in their Secret Department, dated the 29th March, 1779.

IN a Letter from the Select Committee at Bombay of the 13th January, we were informed that their Army under Colonel Egerton had made but a flow Progress towards Poona, as none of the Maratta Chiefs had joined Ragoba; and that, in order to give Encouragement to his Friends, who were flow in declaring themselves in his Favour, they had directed the Commanding Officer to proceed with the utmost Vigour. This Letter also advised us of the Death of Mr. Mostyn; that Lieutenant Colonel Cay and Captain Stewart were killed in a Skirmish with the Marattas; and that Colonel Egerton's bad State of Health had compelled him to give up the Command of the Army to Colonel Cockburn.

Soon after the Receipt of the above Letter from Bombay, the Governor General laid before us a Paper of Intelligence of the most alarming Nature, sent by the Nabob of Arcot, and acquainted us that the like Intelligence had been communicated to him through other Channels. It informed us of the total Deseat of the Bombay Army by the Maratta Forces on the 11th January. The Particulars of this Disaster were so circumstantially related, and its Authenticity so strongly marked, that they did not leave a Doubt in our Minds concerning the Truth of it.

In order therefore to guard against any bad Consequences which this unfortunate Event might have on the Minds of the Country Powers, we immediately directed Brigadier General Stibbert to form Tho Camps of the first and temporary Brigades, and to hold them in Readiness to march at the sportest Notice. To preclude the Effect of false Alarms, the Vizier has been advised, that these extraordinary Camps are not formed to act against any of the Powers in the Neighbourhood of his Dominions. General Stibbert has also been desired to declare the same publicly to any of the Yackeels of the Country Powers that may be in his Camps.

At a subsequent Meeting we issued Instructions to General Stibbert, to order the First Brigade to march towards the Banks of the Jumma, and there six on such a Situation for encamping it as should appear the most convenient for desending the Douab.

A Letter from the Select Committee at Bombay confirms in Part the Intelligence transmitted by the Nabob of Arcot. It states that Messrs. Carnac and Egerton had thought it advisable to retire with the Army to the Gauts; that this being agreed on, the Troops were accordingly put in Motion on the 11th January; that they were immediately attacked by the Marattas, whom they repulsed; but that the Officer commanding having declared that they were not in a Condition to sustain another Attack, and having refused to undertake the Charge of conducting the Army back to Bombay, they were Rep. VI.

obliged to treat for an unmolested Passage, which was granted on their delivering up the Person of Ragoba to the Ministers. That this Stipulation being agreed to, the Marattas rose in their De. mands, and infifted that all our Acquifitions fince the Time of Mada Row should be restored to the Maratta Government, and that Colonel Goddard's Detachment should be ordered back to the Bengal Provinces. That with respect to this latter Requisition, Messrs. Carnac and Egerton to the Bengal Provinces. had informed them, that they had no Authority whatever to affent to it, and that if they did comply with it, the Ministers would be deceived. Notwithstanding such a Declaration, they persisted in their Demands; which were at last agreed to. Hostages for the due Performance of the Engage, ments on both Sides were exchanged, and we learn that the Troops are returned to Bombay. The Select Committee have defired us to suspend our Judgment on this fatal Event until a compleat Account thereof can be transmitted to us. For your further Information, we must beg Leave to refer you to our various Minutes on this Subject, and the different Motions in consequence of the Intelligence received; they will appear in the Consultations noted in the Margin.

We beg Leave to refer to the Letters from Colonel Goddard, recorded in the Consultations noted in the Margin, for a particular Account of the Progress of his Detachment, and of the Steps taken by him in consequence of the Intelligence he had received respecting the Disaster which besel the Bombay Army. In his Letters of the 5th and 9th February he acquaints us of his final Refo. lutions, in consequence of the urgent Desire of the Select Committee at Bombay, to march forward to Surat; the Reasons which induced him to this Measure are fully stated in his Letters, and deserve your Notice.

Not knowing what Events might have followed the Defeat of our Arms, and unable to form any reasonable Conclusion of the Situation in which Colonel Goddard might be on the Receipt of a Letter from us, we refrained from giving him any new Instructions, and left him to act on those which he already possessed. We approved however of the Resolution he had taken; and, as the Motive and Object of his March to the other Side of India were to afford the Protection of the Troops under his Command to the Presidency of Bombay, we directed him to confine his whole Attention in all his Operations to that Object, so long as the Situation of Affairs might require it, and not to involve either himself or this Government in the Responsibility of the Acts of that Presidency.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 5th April 1779.

Sovernor Ge-teral's Minute.

The Affembly of the Board being now rendered compleat by the Accession of Sir Eyre Coote, and the Season of the Year too far advanced to admit of our waiting longer for more authentic or more circumstantial Intelligence of the State of our Affairs on the other Side of India, to deliberate on the Measures necessary to retrieve the Disgrace which the British Arms have sustained by the late Miscarriage of the Expedition undertaken from Bombay, and to prevent the Consequences which may be still expected from it; I shall now call the Attention of the Board to this interesting Subject.

We already possess a sufficient Knowledge of the capital Points on which our future Resolutions ought to turn; these I shall briefly state:

An Army sent into the Field for the Purpose of effecting a Revolution in the Maratta State has failed in the Attempt, and been compelled to purchase its Sasety by ignominious Concessions, made without Authority on the Part of those who subscribed them, and with a Knowledge of the want of that Authority in those who exacted them. Of these Concessions we only know the following; viz.

Ist. That Ragonaut Row, in whose Cause the Enterprize was formed, should be delivered up to our common Enemy.

2d. That all our Possessions immediately dependant on Bombay, excepting Surar, were to be furrendered to the Maratta Government.

3d. That the Detachment under the Command of Colonel Goddard should return to Bengal. The First of these Conditions was performed upon the Spot.

The Second remains unaccomplished, and the Select Committee of Bombay have declared to us both their Disavowal of the Engagement and their Determination not to yield to it.

The Third Condition has been already broken, by the March of Colonel Goddard to Surat. The last Letters from Bombay inform us that their Army was safely returned thither.

By

APPENDIX, Nº 191:

By private but certain Intelligence I can inform the Board, that Colonel Goddard, with the Forces under his Command, reached their Destination at Surat, either on or about the 26th of February.

Of the Consequences of these Events the following Conjectures may be rationally formed:

1st. I think it probable, for many Reasons, that the Maratta Ministers will be content with the Advantages which they have gained in the Possession of the Person of Ragonaut Row, and will not be very strenuous in insisting upon the Personance of the Engagements made with them by Messrs. Carnac and Egerton. The Select Committee have informed us that they should treat with them upon these Points, and will probably have concluded a Peace, on the Agreement of the Marattas to relinquish their Pretensions, or that they have been referred to us for our Decision on them.

2d. If however, contrary to this Expectation, the Maratta Government shall have insisted upon the Performance of the Conditions of the Treaty signed by Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, it is probable that the Select Committee of Bombay will have refused their Compliance; that Colonel Goddard will have been called upon to assist with his Force in their Desence; and that the War has been continued to this Day, since there is no apparent Object on our Part which could lead to a Termination of it.

Or, 3dly. The Marattas may have infilted upon the Performance of the Engagements, and on the Refusal of the Select Committee of Bombay have taken no instant Measure to ensorce the Performance of them; that knowing the Invalidity of these Engagements, and expecting that they would not be ratisfied, they had exacted them only to serve as a specious Subject for present Negociation, and a Pretext for a Renewal of the War when they should be in a Condition to prosecute it with a surer Essect; and that with this Intent they may have invited the French to unite with them in availing themselves of the Advantages presented to both by our late Deseat, and the Decline of our Instuence, and to bring an Armament from Mauritius for that Purpose. We are certain that the French have a Force at that Island sufficient and more than sufficient for a Design of that Nature; and if such an Occasion has been presented to them, it cannot be supposed that they would slight it, or not use every Exertion to seize and improve it. It is the only Employment lest for their Troops, and the only Chance lest them of regaining their Instuence in India.

A Vessel sent with Dispatches from Mahé or Damaun might, if it sailed in January, arrive at Mauritius by the Middle of March. The whole Southerly Monsoon would be then before them, and if they had Vessels ready to transport the Number of Troops necessary for the Purpose of giving the first Movement to the Plan, these might be expected to arrive at the destined Scene

4thly. The Divisions of the Maratta State has been superficially covered, but by no Means healed, by the Necessity which lately united the different Parties of that State in one common Cause. The Loss of the Person of Ragoba has indeed deprived us of the Instuence which that before gave us on the Fears and Passions of the present Rulers; but his Presence is as likely to be the Cause of new Contentions and new Jealousies amongst themselves. Madajee Scindia, who is said to have the actual Charge of his Person, who has always supported a separate Interest from that of the Government which he defends, and who is regarded as the capital Instrument by which the present Administration holds its Power and Authority, may apply the Sanction of Ragoba's Name, and his Pretensions, to the Confirmation of his own Independancy, and with such an Advantage his Ambition may be excited even to the Pursuit of more extended Views. But I see no present Chance of our being able to recover the Possession of Ragoba: On the contrary, he seems lost to us for ever; nor am I certain that, all Things considered, we have much Cause to regret it; but in the Wound which the British Credit may have received in the Manner of his Separation from us.

5thly. The Conduct observed by Moodajee Boosla, since his Knowledge of the late Event, manifestly shows the Impression which it hath generally made on the Minds of the People of Indostan. Inattentive to the peculiar Circumstances which have occasioned the Deseat of the Bombay Army, or ignorant of them, he considers it as a natural and unavoidable Consequence, and a Proof that any Force which we could oppose to the Marattas must prove unequal to their Superiority of Numbers, and the rapid Movements of their Cavalry.

The Apprehension of drawing upon himself the Resentment of a Power so formidable, was the undoubted Motive of the Advice so repeatedly and strongly urged by him to Colonel Goddard, to return to Bengal; and insluenced by the same Impression he has apparently given up all Thoughts of the designed Alliance, which he was at one Time so desirous of concluding with the strong freat and extended as my Hopes were of the Advantages of such a Connection, shall I think advisable to propose the Renewal of any Overtures towards it. Whenever a prosperous State of such a Affairs, added to the Apprehensions of Danger impending on the Government of Berar, shall induce it to solicit from us the Support which we have hitherto ineffectually offered to the present Ruler of it, I shall deem it advisable, under every Situation of our Affairs, to grant it, provided it shall not be contrary to any other Engagements subsisting. For the present, I regard this State as neutral, but secretly disposed to us, and wish only to keep it so.

I shall not earry on my Conjectures to other Points of less Importance. These are sufficient for our present Purpose.

The

DIX.

The greatest Loss which we have suffered by the late Disaster is in the Discredit which it has reflected on our Military Reputation, and therefore the greatest Care ought to be taken, in all our Measures which have a relation to this Subject, that they do not appear to betray a Consciousness of Weakness; or a Distrust in our own Powers, but rather that we feel ourselves possessed of the Ability, and animated with the Resolution, to support our Interests and Possessions against

If Peace can be obtained on such Terms as may be consistent with this ruling Principle, I-sun, pose that it will be the Object of our unanimous Wishes; but if Peace cannot be so obtained, I hope we shall equally agree in the Determination to exert every Power which this Government possesses, either within itself or by its Influence over the other Presidencies, to essays and successful War, the Loss which our Credit and Influence have recently suffered. At all Events, while we feek for Peace we ought at least to be prepared for War, as the furest Means, whether immediate or remote, to obtain it.

Upon these Principles I beg Leave to offer the following Propositions to the Consideration of the Board:

1st. That we invest Colonel Goddard with full Powers, as the Minister of this Government, to treat with the Peshwa and Ministers of the Maratta State for the Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Poorunder, provided they will recede from the Pretentions which they have acquired by their late Engagements with Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, and that they will engage never to admit any French Forces into their Dominions, nor allow them to form any Establishments on the Maratta Coast; and that these Conditions be made the Alternative of Peace or War. Accom. panying is a Draft of his Instructions, Nº 1.

2dly. That the First Brigade, which has already been ordered to march to a Station convenient for croffing the River Jumina, be completely supplied with Ordnance, Ammunition, and Stores.

fit for any Service on which that Body or a Force equal to it may be destined.

I make this Distinction, because it will officially rest with the Commander in Chief to recommend both the Strength of this Corps and the Parts of which it should be composed; expressing my own Hope that it may not be found necessary at any Time to employ either our European Infantry or Artillery, but for the sole Desence of our own Provinces and the prescribed Limits of the Dominions of the Nabob of Oude.

3dly. That Major Camac be ordered to return to Korumber, or to any other Station as convenient, near, and within our own Borders, and to remain there until further Orders; and that he complete Battalions. be fupplied with Ammunition, Guns, and Stores for 4thly. That the Commander in Chief be requested to issue the necessary Orders for carrying the Resolutions of the Board into Execution on the Two foregoing Propositions.

5thly. That a Letter be written to the Peshwa and his Ministers, with the same Substance with Colonel Goddard's Instructions, according to the accompanying Draft, Nº 2.

6thly. That a Letter be written to Moodajee Boosla, according to the annexed Draft, N° 3. 7thly. That a Letter be written to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, advising them of Colonel Goddard's Instructions, and requiring them to conform to them; and in the mean Time to be prepared either for repelling any hostile Attempts of the Marattas, or for any other Service which may hereafter be judged necessary, but to undertake nothing offensively with out explicit and positive Orders from us.

8thly. That a Letter be written to the Presidency of Fort Saint George, to inform them of this Design, and, in the Event of their Success against Mahé, to order all the Troops which are now employed in that Expedition to remain there, or otherwise at Tellicherry, and to be prepared to move on the Receipt of any Orders for their Junction with our Forces on that Side of India.

These Dispositions are proposed as the necessary Preparatives to any Plan which we may be hereafter compelled to concert, with the Aid of the other Prefidencies, in the Event of a War with the Marattas alone, or joined with the French, or of an Attempt fingly made by the French of the Presidency of Bombay.

The subsequent Arrangements I leave to the Commander in Chief, to whose Province they officially belong.

Read the following Letters from Major Camac.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have the Honour to inform you of my Arrival here on the 20th ultimo, which is Fiftee Cob distant from Burwah; but from its apparent healthy Situation, the Goodness of its Water, and business of getting Provision, is much preferable to it. Ever since my Arrival, I have been very interest of getting Provision, is much preferable to it. patient for Instructions for my further Progress, but have neither heard from the Council nor st Colonel Goddard on that Head.

I have wrote to the Colonel several Times, informing him of all the Particulars relative to Detachment, and requesting his Directions also how I am to act in respect to the Countries which I am to pass through.

I have dispatched several Hircarrahs to Bimbajee, telling him of our friendly Intentions, and requesting him to send a Person to meet me, in order to obviate my March, and to give Assurance to the Inhabitants that they have not sing to apprehend from us.

Since

APPENDIX, N° 191.

Since my Arrival I have heard from Report, that the Treaty with Moodajee has not been concluded, which I am doubtful may alter the Plan of my March. When I fet out, it was expected that he would forward my Progress, and with this View it was not thought necessary to furnish me with more Ammunition than was sufficient for that Occasion; I have now only Forty Rounds per Man, and Ten Rounds in the Pouches, with One hundred and Sixteen Round and Grape for each of the Guns; which Stock is not more than we ought to be provided with for a single Action, considering how much Ammunition the native Troops usually consume. If therefore we should be obliged to act separately, or the Countries we have to pass should be hostile to us, as they are strong and disficult, and some Opposition and Skirmishing may be expected, we ought in that Case to be provided with much more. I have thought proper to mention this to you, as the Nature of the Service may now be so much changed, from the Failure of the Negociation with Moodajee.

In order that at all Events I may be able to act without any unnecessary Delay, I have ventured to send an Indent to Patna, which will compleat us to One hundred and Fifty Rounds a Man, and Two hundred for each of the Guns, which I think is the least we ought to have with us, in case any Opposition is to be expected.

Two hundred of the Drafts have no Arms; those from Berrampore were fent away without any, and were moreover stript of their Coats, though they were Property, having already paid for them; and though the Council had ordered new ones to be made up in their stead.

Our March was delayed much by the Badness of the Carriage Bullocks, as we got only Seventy from Burdwan, which were preferable to those brought from Calcutta; all the good ones belonging to the former Place being either sent out of the Way or hid; with this, and the Desertion of the Drivers, the Magazine was strewed in the Roads, and could never have been got on, was it not for the Activity of Captain Mayaffre, and Sixty Sepoys placed with him, who were obliged to act the Part of Drivers. The Guns went very well, and even out-marched the Sepoys all the Way; but the Distress of Individuals was very great; Servants of all Sorts extorted large Sums from their Masters, and took the first Opportunity of leaving them; the Gentlemen were forced to advance Two or Three Months Pay to their Coolies and Bearers, at the extravagant Rate of Eight Rupees Man, who threw down their Baggage, and left them after the first Three or Four Days; it is a Pity that these could not be brought to Punishment, and this Matter regulated for the Benesit of suture Detachments under the same Circumstances.

At the Range of Hills which parts Patchete from Naigpore, there were Two Gauts, one of Junck, and the other called Jymarah, through the Tamar and Boondo of Diffricts; these I passed in Two Divisions; and, as Troops had never marched through them before, I wrote to Lieutenant Rankins, who was surveying in the Neighbourhood, to go with one Division, whilst Lieutenant Cameron accompanied the other. I embraced this Opportunity, which might not again offer (because of the Turbulency in these Hills) to have those Passes traced, which may be effential for Military Service, and for the Benefit of suture Detachments.

I thought it necessary to halt at Jelda Three Days, to get Provisions, and to get in the Gaut Wallahs, who had made some Shew of Resistance; I was induced to this, that I might not be insulted without punishing them, in case they had the Temerity to sire on us, as we had not Time to throw away. On this Occasion Borun Sing, who behaved so ill to Mr. Daniel, was very insolent, but did not proceed further. For the Coming-in of these Gaut Wallahs, I am much obliged to Pursanah Sing, the Rajah of Ramgur, who came to me to Julda, and accompanied me through them.

Mr. Hewitt also was very obliging, and extremely assiduous in providing every Thing we stood in need of; we had much Occasion for his Assistance, for we might as well have come through a Defart as Burdwan; the Inhabitants had all left their Villages (as we were informed) by Order of a Man called Byjonate, who was sent on before by the Ranny's People for this Purpose.

We have not had Twenty Men deferted fince our March, and those were all from the Drasts; the Sepoys are all in very good Spirits, and will go wherever we want them; however, it is to be apprehended that many of the Followers will run away, though every Means has been used to encourage them.

At this Place we joined Captain Crawford's Corps, which he has already brought into very good Order and Discipline; he has supplied me with a vast Addition to my Buzar, and I expect much from his Assistance.

I, am in eager Expectation to hear from Bimbajee, and of the political State of Matters to the Westward; when any Thing material occurs, I shall not fail immediately to advise you of it.

Camp at Corambah, in Chuttah Nagpore, 11th March 1779.

I have, &c. (Signed) Jacob Camac.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have had for several Days Reports of the Deseat of the Bombay Army, and we have had it since confirmed by very authentic Letters by way of Patna and Banaras. In this Posture of Affairs I was entirely without Instructions for my further Progress, until Yesterday that a Cossid arrived from Colonel Goddard, with a Letter for me, dated at Assergant 28th of January, Two Days from Boorhampore. In this he directs me to proceed, in case Moodajee Boosla should give his Concurrence.

P P E N D I X, N° 101.

currence and Confent to my passing through his Country, and gives me Instructions for my Route to Poona. He acquaints me he has wrote to the Berar Prince on this Subject, who will forward this Letter to me with one from himself, intimating his Approbation of the Measure: That I am to obviate or over-rule any Objections he may make for detaining me, unless urged in the most pointed. Terms; and that in case of his Refusal, I am to remain at the Extremity of the Company's Pro. vinces, till I receive further Orders either from your Board or from himfelf.

Moodajee, after keeping the Hircarrahs waiting for Five Days, permitted them to come away without any Letters for me; fo that, without his Approbation or Disapprobation, I am now left to my own Judgment. Indeed, circumstanced as we are, I should be apt to deem his Silence a Disapproval. Bimbajce too has not wrote me in Answer to my Letters: He holds the adjoining Parts of Moodajee's Dominions, and though he is in a Manner independant, may be cautious of

Undoubted News is now come, dated the 5th of February, from Boorhaunpoor, that the Colonel hearing of our Difaster near Poona, was to march that Night for Surat; so that if he pursues his Intention, it will be in vain my thinking to join him. Had he kept his Ground at Boorhaunpoon or had determined on returning by Burrar, I should have thought it indispensable for me to march immediately to support him.

In this Situation, I think it necessary to pursue a middle Course, until I shall receive further Lights: Colonel Goddard may be obliged to give up his Scheme of going to Surat; he may be obliged to return through Nagpoor: Madajee may be induced through Fear, or to pay Count to the prevailing Side, to behave unfriendly to him. I propose therefore advancing slowly into Ruttempoor, professing the greatest Friendship for Moodajee and his Brother, until I hear surther from them; which will be the Means of keeping Moodajee at least at Home, secure the Colond on that Side, and further his Retreat, if necessary, through Burar into our Provinces; or push on to join him, if offensive Measures should be determined on. In the mean Time, whilst I am moving flowly on, Captain Crawford, whom I shall direct to remain for some Time at Burwa, to forward Provision and keep open the Communication, will escort to me the Supply of Ammunication, tion, which I have indented for to Patna, and will then return to Burwa, or to his Station at Chetrah.

Lest you should think it extraordinary that a Detachment so lately come out should want Am munition, I took the Liberty of mentioning it in my last. The Circumstances under which it was supposed I was to proceed then, made very little requisite, and no more than a sufficient Quantity for that Purpose was provided. Things being now so much changed since that Time, I thought it expedient that I should be completed for any Contingency; and, to prevent unneced fary Delay, indented to Patna for a sufficient Quantity. I am only apprehensive that enough of Musquet Ammunition or Powder is not to be got there, and beg that you will direct whatever has been indented for may on Requisition be supplied from Burar or Chuna. I beg also you will write to Patna to supply me with Money, which we shall be soon in much Want of.

Enclosed is the Proceeding of a General Court Martial held in this Camp on the 25th February and which has been dissolved.

Camp at Korumba, Chuta Nagpore, 14th March 1779.

I have, &c. (Signed) Jacob Camad.

Resolved that the following Letter be written to Major Camac:

We have received your Letter of the 14th ultimo. We defire that you return to Korumba, what you will encamp the Detachment under your Command, and there wait our further Orders. We are, &c.

Warren Hastings, Rich. Barwell, P. Francis.

To Siccaram Pundit and Balajee Pundit.

I have received your Letter, containing various Complaints of the Conduct of the Govern and Council of Bombay, and other Particulars, which I fully understand.

This Letter not having been as usual accompanied by one from the Peshwa, I think it not cessary to inform you of it, lest, should one have been written and miscarried in the Way, the might appear an Impropriety in my not returning an Answer to it.

I have heard by various Channels some Particulars of the late Events on that Side of Indiand have received some little and imperfect Intelligence relative thereto from the Gentlemen Bombay; but, till my Knowledge of those Matters is more complete and authentic, I must suspen my Judgment respecting the Rectitude of the Conduct of the Members of that Government.

hear, with the greatest Surprize, that the Chiess of the Army from Bombay have made a Convention with you without the Authority of this Government, which you well know was indispensably necessary for an Act of that Nature, and that the Conditions of it are very injurious to the Rights of the Company and the Honour of the English Name. I have not yet received a Copy of it; but, whatever it may be, it is incumbent on me to take the earliest Occasion to disavow it, and declare it null.

This Declaration ought to be unnecessary to you, to whom the like Information was given in Form on the Deputation of Colonel Upton.

The past cannot be recalled; but for the future it is my firm Wish, that, as I laboured before, however ineffectually, to conciliate the Differences which had arisen between you and the Government of Bombay, and which prevented the Execution of the Treaty made through Colonel Upton, Peace may be yet restored, and all past Grievances buried in Oblivion. For this Purpose, I and the Counfellors of this Government have authorized Colonel Goddard to negociate and conclude with you, in the Name and Behalf of the Company, a new Treaty, confirming that made by Colonel Upton, on these Conditions, viz. That you relinquish all Claims derived from the unauthorized Act of our Army, and which could not even have received the Sanction of the Prefidency of Bombay; and that you also engage never to grant the French, who are the Encmies of our Nation, any Settlement or Residency in the Ports of the Peshwa, nor to admit the Forces of the French into any Part of his Dominions, nor to form any Alliance nor any Connection with them, either for Traffic or otherwise.

On these Conditions, we offer you the Friendship of the Company and the English Nation for ever. If you reject them, we are remediless, and blameless of the Consequences, whatever they may be, as Peace or War depend upon your Determination.

For further Particulars I must refer you to Colonel Goddard, to whom I have granted full Powers for the Purpofes above described, and desire that you will regard him accordingly, as the Representative of this Government, and his Acts, done under this Authority, as the Acts of the Company and of the English Nation.

To the Peshwa in Substance the same as the foregoing.

Draft of a Letter to Moodajee Booslah.

I have received your Letters. They are long, and dictated with the same Wisdom and Friendip with which all your former Letters have been written; but as the great Object of them all is ow entirely at an End, it is unnecessary to recapitulate the Substance of them. Beneram Pundit arrived, and has delivered to me the Paper which you entrusted to his Charge: At his Desire, in bedience to your positive Injunctions, and the other Oath which I understand he swore to perrm them, the Paper was delivered and opened in the Presence of Rameaunt Moonshy, and read me by him. Having fully understood the Contents, I have returned the Paper to Beneram undit, at his particular Request, that it might be sent in its original State to you; this also being, I understand, a Part of his Instructions. Respecting the different Points contained therein, they e fuch as will not admit either of Negociation or Comment; I conceive them to have been innded as an implicit but decifive Answer upon a Subject in its own Nature so delicate, and renered more so by the past Interchange of our Sentiments upon it, and our known mutual Wishes, at you apparently chose this indirect Method of declining to engage any further in it, rather an to relinquish it by an abrupt Declaration, which might have been construed unsuitable to the riendship and Cordiality which have hitherto substitted since so long a Period, and which I hope ill ever subsist between us, and between your Family and the Company and English Nation; herwise it was certainly unnecessary to have sent a Person honoured with so high a Degree of our Confidence as Beneram Pundit possesses, upon so long and perilous a Journey, merely to ive me the Information which might have been expressed by a Letter containing no more than a ngle Line. What is past, is past—Of the Design which I had formed, I shall totally relinquish

I future Thoughts; but of your past Kindness I shall retain a lasting Remembrance.

When I first wrote to you that an English Army had been appointed to proceed to the other de of India, and defired you to affift it in its Progress, you immediately returned an Answer tpreffing your chearful Compliance; and, not contented with bare Professions, which are oftener in Mask of Deceit than the Indication of Sincerity, you wrote at the same Time to the Comander of our Forces, inviting him to pass through your Country; you sent a Person of Rank id Trust to wait on the Borders of your Dominions with a Store of Provisions for their Sub-Hence; you caused them to be entertained, in the long Stay they made in your Country, with all lospitality, and have continued the same Conduct to them since their Departure. These are not implimentary or equivocal, but real and substantial Acts of Friendship; as such, it is especially this Time incumbent on me to express the Sense that I entertain of them, as it is my Wish, and all be my Care, to make every suitable Return to them, whenever any future Occasion of your ffairs shall demand it.

I have ordered Major Camac to remain within the Borders of Bengal, and not to proceed any Irther; but have not yet determined whether he shall return to Calcutta, or join any other Part our Army; this must depend on suture Contingencies. Possfeript.

N D I X, N° 191.

Postscript .- Since I wrote the above, I have received a Letter from Major Camac, informing me that Orders had been fent him by Colonel Goddard to proceed forward and join him, provided it should be agreeable to you, without whose Instructions he was to take no Step: That for this Purpose the Colonel had written to you, requesting that you would either send a Passport to Major Camac, or intimate to him your Disapproval of his Proceedings; in which latter Case he would lay aside the Design—That the Cossed sent to you by the Colonel having been detained Five Days at Naigpoie, and then bringing with him no Letter or Instructions from you, he had conceived it a tacit Confent to his March, and that for private Reasons you might not choose to trust it to Writing; and that he was therefore marching on flowly.

As this Measure is by no Means agreeable to me, I have written to Major Carmac to return within our Borders.

Agreed to the Propositions contained in the Governor General's Minute; and Refolved, That the following Letters be written to the Select Committee of Bombay and Fort Saint George, and to Colonel Goddard; and that the Governor General be requested to write, in the proposed Terms, to the Peshwa and Moodajee Boosla.

Gentlemen,

We have received your Letter of the 21st February.

We wish that you had not apprehended the Person of Gazidy Cawn, as it has the Appearance of at least an Act of Violence to him, which no Pretext can justify, and which may furnish Occasion for Jealousies, that at this Time you should be particularly careful to avoid. We must therefore earnestly recommend to you, instantly to grant him his Liberty, peremptorily insisting that he do immediately quit the English Territories; and, if you have an Opportunity, we further recommend that you forward him on his Way to Mecca.

We have deemed it neceffary to invest Colonel Goddard with full Powers, as the public Minister of this Government, to treat with the Peshwa, and the Minister of the Maratta State, for the Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Proondur, provided they will recede from the Pretentions which they have acquired by the late Engagements of Meffrs. Carnac and Egerton, and will agree not to admit any French Force into their Dominions, nor allow that Nation to form any Establishment on the Maratta Coast; impowering him to conclude a Treaty of Peace with them on these Conditions; Acceptance or Refufal of which must determine the Alternative of Peace or War.

Our First Object in this Negociation is to obtain a Peace on honourable Terms: In the mean Time, we recommend to you to be prepared, either for repelling any hostile Attempts of the Marattas, or for any other Service which we may hereafter judge necessary; and we do formally forbid you to undertake any offensive Measure without explicit and positive Orders from us.

Gentlemen,

We have received your Letter of the and, in Consequence of your urgent Defire to be furnished with a Supply of Treasure from hence, we have resolved to send you Fisteen Lacks of Current Rupees in Gold; Ten Lacks of this Sum we shall dispatch immediately by the Stafford, and the remaining Five Lacks will be forwarded by the first fase Conveyance in August: We shall take an early Opportunity of replying to the other Parts of your Letter.

We have deemed it expedient to invest Colonel Goddard with full Powers, as the public Minister of this Government, to treat with the Paishwa and Ministers of the Maratta State, for the Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Proondur, provided they will recede from the Pretensions, which they have acquired by their late Engagements with Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, and that they will engage not to admit any French Forces into their Dominions, nor allow that Nation to form any Establishments on the Maratta Coast; and that the Acceptance or Refusal of these Conditions must determine the Alternative of Peace or War.

Having thus informed you of our Defigns, we defire, in the Event of Success in the Enterprize now carrying on by your Government against Mahie, that you will order all the Troops which are now employed on the Expedition to remain there, or otherwife at Tellicherry, and to be prepared to move on the Receipt of any Orders for their Junction with our other Forces on the Western Side of India, in the Event of its becoming necessary.

Having under Confideration the late Advices from Bombay, we have deemed it necessary to invest you with full Powers, as the public Minister, and the Ministers of the Maratta State, souther Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Proondur; provided they will recede from the Preten sions which they have acquired by the late Engagements of Messes. Carnac and Egerton, and will agree not to admit any French Forces into their Dominions, nor allow that Nation to form any Establishments on the Maratta Coast; and we empower you to conclude a final Treaty of Peace with them on these Conditions; the Acceptance or Refusal of which must determine the Alternative of Peace or War.

The

APPENDIX; Nº 101.

The Points in which we are willing to allow you a Discretion to relax are these:

1st. To yield up the Balance which may yet remain due to the Company, of the Sum of Twelve Lacks of Rupees, which the Maratta Government were bound, by the 6th Article of the Treaty of Proonder, to pay as an Indemnification for the Expences of the War undertaken in Support of Ragonaut Row, and for which Affignments were taken on Jambooseer, and must of course be relinquished with this Concession. The Second Point is the Amount of the Lands in the Neighbourhood of Broach, slipulated by the Fifth Article of the Treaty of Proonder to be ceded to the Company, yielding a complete Rent of Three Lacks of Rupees. The Words which the Translation render "complete Revenue," are in the Original, Jumma Cabmil; which have been interpreted by the Ministers, the Jumma or Rent at which the Lands are rated in the public Account of the Revenues; and the Lands which were offered by them amounted to Three Lacks, according to their estimated Amount, although their real Produce has been stated to us by the Presidency of Bombay to amount to no more than Rupees 209,200.

We think this not a Point worth contesting, at the Hazard of an Object so important as Peace, if it should prove an Impediment to it; and we therefore empower you to accept of the Lands tendered as above.

The Nature of our Connection with Ragonaut Row being very materially changed by the Surrender of his Person to the Marattas, we cannot insist on the literal Confirmation of those Articles in the Treaty of Proonder which were slipulated in his Favour, nor, ignorant of his present Condition, can we prescribe any express Terms which should be required on his Behalf, but generally recommend to you to obtain such Provisions for him as you shall judge the most fuited to his present Circumstances, for his personal Sasety and Subsistence, making the former an indifpensable Engagement.

Upon the Whole, Sir, our Object is Peace, if it can be obtained on fecure and honourable Terms. By concluding a Peace on fuch Terms, you will render a most acceptable Service to the Company, and merit our highest Approbation.

We inclose you a Letter of Credence investing you with this Power, and a Copy of the Treaty of Proonder for your more particular Information.

We are, &c.

To Colonel Thomas Goddard, commanding the Detachment from the 1st Brigade.

We the Governor General and Supreme Council of Bengal, in virtue of the Authority and Powers vessed in us by the Legislature of Great Britain, and by the Honourabie East India Company, to direct and controul the Political Affairs of all the Company's Settlements in India, relying on your Fidelity, Prudence, and Integrity, do depute, authorize, and empower you, in our Names, and on Behalf of the Honourable the United East India Company, to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace and Friendship between the Chiefs and Rulers of the Maratta State and the English East India Company, on such Terms and Conditions as shall be for the mutual Honour, Benefit, and Satisfaction of both Parties, and remove all the Cause of Enmity now substituting between that State and the Government of Bombay; and we hereby give you sull Powers to this Effect, declaring that we will ratify and confirm whatever shall be so concluded by you in our Names and in our Political Confirmation of the Market of the M by you in our Names and in our Behalf, according to the Instructions with which you have been furnished for that Purpose.

Given in Fort William, under our Hands, and the Great Seal of the United Company, this Fifth Day of April in the Year One thousand Seven hundred and Seventy-nine.

> Warren Hastings, Richard Barwell. P. Francie.

From Madajee Bhofilah: Received 20th February 1779.

Your agreeable Letter bearing Date the 3d Zehedja, 23d November 1778, conceived in Terms, calculated to carry our Friendship to the highest Pitch, recapitulating the Contents of my former Letters, and adding, that my Views and Sentiments perfectly coinciding with your's, gives a Certainty of Success to our common Designs; that you have therefore appointed Colonel Goddard in the room of the late Mr. Elliott, and given him Directions to act in concert with my Forces; that I will not therefore let slip the Opportunity which now presents itself of exalting my Name above those of the most illustrious Chiefs; that I must not neglect the present Moment, as an Opportunity once lost is hardly ever recovered; and adding, that a Word to the wife is sufficient: This Letter reached me on the 20th of Zehedja, 9th February, by the Route of Cuttack, Rep. VI.

followed by a Duplicate, and afforded me the highest Degree of Pleasure, conveying with it the Proofs of the utmost Sincerity and Warmth of Friendship, and convincing me of the Wisdom of your Plans, your Magnanimity, Penetration, and Forelight, which are the firmest Support of Government, and give a certain Assurance of Success in the most arduous Undertakings.

I likewise understand what you write respecting the savourable Opportunity which presents itself; the Case is this:—Men of Understanding, who are experienced in Assairs and skilled in all the Duties of Government, before they engage in any Undertaking, make it their Business maturely to consider the probable Event, and take their Measures accordingly, omitting no Means which the most confummate Prudence can dictate to ensure Success: All your Letters abound with these Sentiments; and where both Parties enter upon an Undertak. ing upon mature Judgment and Forelight, and from a Knowledge of the probable Event, fuch Undertaking will be crowned with Success; the Sentiments of each will meet the Approbation of the other, and their Views will coincide in every Instance, and every Plan be pursued which may promote the common Interest, every Design freely communicated, and no Reserve observed.

When Colonel Goddard had crossed the Nudbuddar, and was arrived at Hoshingabud, which is dependant on me, he deputed Mr. Watherstone to me, and agreeable to your Instructions informed me of his Arrival, that he had received Instructions from Calcutta to concert a Plan of Operations with me, and requested to be informed of my Sentiments, and that it was expedient I should not let the present Opportunity slip;—in Reply thereto, actuated by Sentiments of the sincerest Friendship, knowing that you had placed the most implicit Considence in me, I faid, "This is a Business of the greatest Difficulty and Delicacy: I am perfectly acquainted with " the State of all the Powers in the Country, and with the Affairs of the Decan, which is my "Country; that an Army was called together at Poona of 70,000 Horse, and that immediately on Intelligence of the Connection formed between us they would be increased to 100,000, " and that, actuated by a Love of their Country, their Families, and a Regard to their Fame, the Chiefs would difregard their Lives, and make aftonishing Exertions to oppose any Attempt "that should be made against them; that therefore to meet them in Arms would require at the least an Army of 50,000 Men from hence, in Addition to the English Force, and large Ma-" gazines of Provisions and Stores; that the affembling such an Army and Military Stores would require an immense Treasure, and moreover a long Space of Time would be required to conciliate the Minds of the different Chiefs, and to draw over the most considerable to our " Party; that being now arrived at Hoshingabad, and calling on me to join him, it was impos-" fible for me to comply; that if this had been intimated to me in former Letters, I should have " been on my Guard, and employed the 10 or 12 Months which have elapsed in the Negocia-"tion, in raising Forces and collecting Military Stores; but that all the Letters I had received from Calcutta were to this Effect—That the Detachment was fent to Bombay for an Appre-" hension of the Designs of the French, and desiring that on its Arrival on my Territories I " would take Care to supply it with Provisions and all other Necessaries, and send a small Party " to accompany it to the Borders of my Country: Now that I learn this important Defign, how can I at so short a Notice carry it into Effect? Every Step that is taken should be taken with " Firmness, and on mature Reflection; that therefore I thought it advisable to fend Beneram Pun-"dit and Ramkund to Calcutta, and to charge them with my Instructions respecting the final Conclusion of this Matter; that after their Arrival there, and settling the Points of Negocia-" tion, and the Receipt of Letters from Calcutta addressed to me and him, a Plan of Operations " should be settled; till that Time, if he chose it, I would have him remain at Hoshingabad, " and take with him a Part of my Forces, &c. and reduce the Fort of Mundilla, which had re-" volted from me, and that whatever Money he collected should be divided into equal Proportions " between us; that if he did not agree to this Proposal, either let him proceed to Bombay, as " there was now no Danger from the Maratta Forces, who were all gone to oppose the English " at Boregaut in the Cokun Country; that the English, from Bombay with their Army, were " arrived at the faid Gaut, and were followed by Ragganaut Row; that he should go thither: In a "Word, that he should remain wherever he thought proper, but that wherever he should fix he " should wait for further Advices from Calcutta."

Mr. Watherstone having maturely considered and understood all these Particulars, returned satisfied to the Army.

I dispatched Copies to you by the Route of Benaras, with Letters containing the Particulars of this Negociation, which I hope you have before this Time received; Colonel Goddard likewise has doubtless written you on the same Subject. I have not yet heard from Colonel Goddard's Army, nor do I know if he will remain at Hoshingabad, go towards the Fort Mondilla. or proceed to Bombay; we shall see what he writes. You will give the necessary Directions to Colonel Goddard,

Beneram Pundit and Ramkund have left this, charged with Letters of Commissions to you, and will proceed by the Route of Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Control of Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and on their Annual Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and the cuttack is the content of the Cuttack; they have Orders to use every possible Expedition, and the cuttack is the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack is the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack is the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack is the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack is the cuttack in the cuttack is the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack in the cuttack is the cuttack in the cutt and on their Arrival will represent to you whatever I have given them in Charge, and will make some important Propositions to you; by the Spirit of Wisdom you will discover, that the Foundation of them is like the Wall of Alexander, and built on the sincerest Foundation, and will pay due Attention thereto; and, Beneram Pundit having suffilled the Purport of his Mission, you will send him back without Delay, that agreeable thereto I may plan the Execution of the most important Affairs. I impatiently wait your Reply.

From Dewagur Pundit: Received the 26th February 1779.

Your friendly Letter, containing feveral friendly. Intimations and Hints respecting your secret Views and Designs; the Appointment of Colonel Goddard, on the Part of the Council, to concert and adjust all Matters, with the Advice and Concurrence of this Government; and briefly touching on Knowledge of the Scason of Action, and not to let the fortunate Opportunity which presents itself slip, with other Particulars of the most important Nature, arrived in a happy Hour; and by its Contents, which I perfectly understood, afforded me the greatest Pleasure: And Mr. Watherstone likewise, who came here on the Part of Colonel Goddard, made the like Representations, and was answered in the Manner which the Situation of the Times, and the Knowledge of the State of Affairs in Decan in general, and at Poona in particular, rendered it expedient. It was therefore judged proper to depute Beneram Pundit, accompanied by Ramkund, a Follower of the late Mr. Elliott, to Calcutta, and to concert the Operations agreeable to the Answers which should be received from thence. This Determination was communicated to Mr. Watherstone, who then departed for the Army encamped at Hoshingabad, on this Side the Nubader. Time will shew, whether, conformably thereto, the Army halts at Hoshingabad, or Gurra Mundillah, or proceeds towards Bombay; whichever Measure is adopted, I will communicate to you. What you write of your Hopes of the fortunate Issue of your Designs, with the Concurrence and Assistance of this Government, founded on your Knowledge of the Magnanimity and Fortitude of my Master, and my Wisdom and Abilities in Government, I perfectly understand.

By the Bleffing of God, the excellent Plans you form are always built on the most solid and judicious Grounds; and your Magnanimity and extensive Views are without Parallel in Indostan and Decan. And from the Commencement of this Undertaking I have constantly written and declared to the English Chiefs, the Measures which my consined Abilities and Judgment pointed out to me as most likely to bring it to a fortunate Issue: Accordingly, with the Approbation of Watherstone, a Letter in the fullest and clearest Terms was dispatched to you; and Beneram Pundit, and Ramkund, a Follower of Mr. Elliott, were dispatched by the Way of Cuttack, charged with Letters, and several Points of Negociation, for the final Settlement of the Groundwork of the important Designs in Hand; I doubt not but he will shortly arrive, and fully represent to you the Particulars with which he is charged; and, having attained the Ends of his Mission, that you will, without Delay, give him his Dismission, by which Means it is possible the common Designs may be brought to a satisfactory Issue. Your Reply is impatiently expected; and that this Matter be settled on such firm and solid Grounds, that the Advantages thereof may be felt by the latest Posterity, and the Warmth and Sincerity of my Friendship and Attachment proved to a Demonstration.

For further Particulars I beg Leave to refer you to the Maha Rajah's Letter, which is full and explicit.

From Beneram Pundit: Received the 5th March 1779.

I did myself the Honour to address several Arzies to you before I lest Naigpore, informing you of Mr. Watherstone's coming thither, and after various Conserences returning to the Army, which I hope you have received.

I took Leave of my Master on the 24th Zehedja, 13th January, and began my Journey, accompanied by Salla Ramkund, the late Mr. Elliott's Moonshey, and arrived at Cuttack on the 7th Juster, 24th February. Lalla Ramkund is gone to perform religious Ceremonies at Jaggarnaut, and I am detained here a little by some Business with Rajah Ram, but shall shortly renew my Journey, and soon have the Pleasure of presenting myself before you, and explaining all the Particulars of my Commission fully to you.

On the Day of my Arrival here I received Letters from the Maya Rajah and his Dewan, to your Address, which I now do myself the Pleasure to enclose to you: I hope they will shortly reach you, and make you acquainted with their Contents. My Brother Bissenber Pundit will communicate to you the News from Poona. At Saranagan I met with Yatakee, the Servant whom you sent to erect a Monument for the late Mr. Elliott; I went 2 Coss out of my Way to visit the Tomb of the blessed, and likewise waited on the Chief of the Rajah Bishenaut Sing, and pressed him warmly to afford his Assistance, and to supply Necessaries for the Completion of the Monument; but, as Stone-cutters and other Artificers cannot be had in that District, and must be brought from Simbulpore, I went thither, and made it my Request to the Dewan Akber, that he would surnish Yattakee, on his Application, with Artificers, and every thing he should require for the Completion of the Monument. He obliged me by his Promise of a cheerful Compliance, and sent a Man to the Spot. I have no Doubt but the Business will now go on briskly, and will be shortly completed.

From Modajee Bhosslah: Received 5th March 1779.

I some Time ago, after the Arrival of Colonel Goddard at Hoshingabad, and Mr. Watherstone's coming hither, the former of whom had been appointed from Calcutta to act with my Advice and Concurrence in the Defigns projected, wrote you very fully, in repeated Letters, whatever Prudence, Forefight, and a perfect Knowledge of the real State of Affairs, and the Force of the Armies in the Decan, which is my own Country, pointed out to me, and likewise communicated to you whatever I learnt on these Subjects; I likewise dispatched Beneram Pundit and Ramkund, with Letters sull of Advice and important Plans for the suture, by the Way of Cuttack, who I doubt not will after some Time arrive at Calcutta, and, having explained to you all the Particulars with which they are charged, will form fuch folid Engagements as may be the Foundation of a firm Treaty, which shall descend to the latest Posterity; and that Beneram Pundit, having procured all the Necessaries for the carrying it into Execution, may be immediately dispatched to this

I fent Word to Colonel Goddard by Mr. Watherstone, to write to the Bombay Gentlemen, who had brought Ragganaut Row with a moderate Army into the Neighbourhood of Poona, and com. menced Hostilities with the Forces of Pundit Pundhaum, who were prepared to receive them, to fuspend their Operations, and that he himself should halt some Time in Mundilla and Guna Districts, by which Time Beneram Pundit would return from Calcutta with decifive and fatisfactory Answers, by which he ought to regulate his Motions; and that this Advice was founded on the State of the Times: In Reply, he wrote me that he had written what was proper to Bombay, to put a Stop to Hostilities, and that Letters from Calcutta having been sent to the same Effect, he had no Doubt that they would lay afide their hostile Designs, and would act with a Samorcand Policy; that he could not halt in the District of Guna Mundilla without Orders from Calcutta; that he was marching to the Westward to Binhampore, where he would wait in Expectation of the Result of the Negociations at Calcutta, and the Return of Beneram Pundit: In a Word, he profecuted this Delign in Preference to all others, and marched from Hoshingabad, and I have not since heard from him how far he has advanced.

Certain Intelligence has lately been received here from Poona, that several Engagements have been fought between the Bombay Army and the Forces of Pundit Pundhaun, and that in the End the English inconsiderately and rashly quitted the Gauts with Ragganaut Row, and descended into the Plain, when the Marratta Army of 50,000 Horse, judging it a favourable Opportunity, began an Engagement with them by a Cannonade from their large Artillery, which will throw a Ball One or even Two Coss Distance, and kept themselves secure behind their Guns; the Engagement was very hot, and in the End the Maratta Army furrounded the small Body opposed to them, and took Possession of 3 P of Artillery, their Tents, Baggage, and Artillery Bullocks, and killed great Numbers. As all Communication was cut off from the English Army, they were reduced to the Necessity of sending an Agent to treat with the Poona Ministers; Time will shew what Terms are agreed on, and what will be the Refult of this Business; to the Time when the Advices came away, the English continued surrounded. Whatever I may hear further, induced by the sincerest Friendship, I shall write. Doubtless you have received the same Advice from other Quarters. I am in all Events steady in Friendship.

I received Two Parcels of English Papers from Colonel Goddard, one containing Accounts, the other, Letters for the General at Madras: I have dispatched them both: you will receive the Accounts, and the Letters will be sent from Cuttack to Madras.

Postscript. Since I wrote the above, certain Intelligence is arrived from Poona, that the English being straightly besieged by the Maratta Army, they delivered up Ragganaut Row to the Poona Ministers, and have entered into Engagements to conform to the Treaty of Ballajee Row.

From Modajee Bhosila: Received 6th March 1779.

Your agreeable Letter, containing the joyful News of the Success of the English Alms in the Reduction of Pondicherry, the Seat of the French Power in India, on the 27th Ramzaun, 18th October 1778, and congratulating me thereon, afforded me inexpressible Pleasure; before the Receipt of your Letter, I had received Intelligence of this happy Event by the Decan Newspaper, and communicated it to Mr. James Anderson, and directed Beneram Pundit to write to you, from whose Letters I flatter myself you received this pleasing Account. I most sincerely congratulate your illustrious Monarch, the Company, and yourself, on this Event; may the Almighty render it joyful to you, and let it be followed by Bleffings innumerable!

From Dewagar Pundit: Received the 5th March 1779.

Your agreeable Letter, containing an Account of the Success of the English Arms in the Reduction of Pondicherry, the Seat of the French Power in India, arrived by the Route of Cuttack; and afforded me inexpressible Pleasure. The Maha Rajah likewise received the greatest Joy from the News of your important Success against your Enemies the French. I sincerely congratulate you and all the Chiefs of your Nation thereon.

I have already written to you in repeated Letters, whatever the Situation of Affairs pointed out as advifable; and Beneram Pundit and Ramkund have been dispatched to you by the Way of Cuttack, charged with Letters from the Maha Rajah, and will on their Arrival explain to you all the Particulars of their Commission. I entertain the greatest Hopes, that, actuated by Wisdom and solid Judgment, and the Dictates of sound Policy, the Propositions to be made to you will meet with your Approbation and Assent; and that you will shortly dismiss Beneram Pundit with the Accomplishment of the Objects of his Mission.

From the Maha Rajah's Letters you will have full Information of whatever, prompted by the State of Affairs, was written to Colonel Goddard, or communicated perfonally to Mr. Watherstone, as well as the Advices received from Poona, of Hostilities between the English of Boarb y and the Maratta Army; the Distresses of the English Forces, their small Army having been furrounded by the numerous Troops of the Marattas, and in the End their having been reduced to the Necessity of sending a Person to treat of Peace and an Accommodation with the Ministers.

I am firmly refolved, in all Events, fleadily to pursue the Dictates of the strictlest Friendship towards you, who are strictly united in Friendship with the Maha Rajah my Master. I wan mapatiently the Return of Beneram Pundit, with the Accomplishment of the Objects of his Mission.

Postfcript.—The same as that to the Rajah's Letters.

From Dewagar Pundit: Received the 5th March 1779.

When Advices, to the Effect mentioned in my former Letter, arrived from Poona, I inflantly dispatched Letters, by swift Cossids, to Colonel Goddard with the Intelligence; and set forth that his proceeding any further towards Benhampore was highly unadvisable; that it was expedient, that in Compliance with the Advice which had been given him from hence, he should halt some Time in the District of Guna Mundilla, and relinquish for the present his Design of advancing; for the Maratta Forces would certainly oppose him in the Neighbourhood of Benhampore. You will therefore be pleased to write what you judge proper, to induce him not to advance, but to concert his Measures with us.

As the Hurry and Precipitation of the English at Bombay, and their Imprudence, Temerity, and Difregard to your Directions sent them from Calcutta, forbidding them to commence Hostilities (which Colonel Goddard has affured me, by Letter, you did send them) have brought Assairs to this pass, you will not be too precipitate and hasty in the Prosecution of your former Designs; should they be delayed Months, till a fortunate Opportunity presents itself, it is a Matter of no Moment; but it is necessary that the Fabrick be built on the most solid Basis, that it may not be subject to any Shock. The Form of this Fabrick, the Basis on which it is built, and the Purpose for which it was intended, should be kept the most prosound Secret till the Time of Action, and not trusted to a single Person, except such as are entirely in your Considence, and heartily attached to you; for even Walls have Ears.

All the Particulars have been confided to Bala Ramkund, who possesses Wisdom, Prudence, and complete Knowledge of Business, and is firmly attached to your Government, and versed in all the Views and Designs of this. He, in Concert with Beneram Pundit, will in private fully communicate them to you.—The Plan which has been formed, has been entirely built on a complete Knowledge of the Affairs of the Decan: Being convinced of this, you will without Delay intimate your Affent to me, that it may be carried into Execution without Hurry or Precipitation. Let a constant Correspondence be kept up between us: I am at all Times, and on all Occasions, sincerely attached to you; and whatever I write you will give implicit Belief to, and, regarding it as directed by the warmest Friendship, you will act agreeably thereto. Although it may appear presumptuous in me to write in this Manner to Chiefs who possess such Magnanimity and extensive Views, yet the sincere and hearty Friendship I bear takes from me the Power of restraining my Pen, and guides it as the Heart distates; what I write slows spontaneously from the Heart.

POSTSCRIPT.

As within these Ten Months near 50 Letters have been received from you, prompted by the warmest Friendship, and with a View to Futurity, I have, without Reserve, communicated to you kontinually every Particular respecting the State of the Decan, in which I am completely versed; had not these been my Motives, what else could have induced me have writ to you so fully and clearly on all these Matters?

Copy of a Letter from Madajee Bhosila to Beneram Pundit: Received by him at Cuttack.

You are fully acquainted with all my Affairs, and Sentiments, and Schemes; not the leaft Circumstance is hidden from you: Proceed with the utmost Dispatch to the Place of your Destination, and apply diligently to the Settlement of the Business in Hand. Although I wrote repeatedly to Colonel Goddard, to halt some Time in the District of Gana Mundilla, he has paid no Regard thereto, but is marched towards Benhampore. I have just received certain Intelligence from Poona, that a great Battle has been fought with the English of Bombay, who had passed the Gaut, and that the English were worsted, and are surrounded by the Maratta Army, and have sent a Person to treat of a Peace and Accommodation with the Poena Ministers, and that Ragonaut Row is encompassed with the English; we shall see what will be the Result. In the Beginning of this Business, what I said from the Dictates of Penetration and Foresight, and a competent Knowledge of the Armies of the Decan, was difregarded as of no Confideration; it is now come to pass as I predicted; Time will shew what Plan Colonel Goddard will adopt and communicate to me. I have dispatched Letters on the Subject of these Events to Calcutta, do you repair thither with all Expedition, as the most material Point of all my Desires and Plans is the raising Sepoys, which at the least must amount to 50,000 choice Men, under the Command of Country Officers; and moreover firm Allies and Chiefs of Note are requisite to join the Party, all which depend on large Sums of Money; you will take effectual Methods to accomplish this material Object. For the rest, nothing, however trisling, is concealed from you; you perfectly understand them, and will accomplish them all; write me an Answer without Delay. You will settle the Plan on fo folid a Basis, that it may not be subject to any Change or Shock, and that our mutual Pains may not be throwed away unprofitably. As I have received a great Number of Letters from the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowla, and have written him as many, as you know, and as you likewise brought a Message from him to me, it was for these Reasons that I have constantly written him whatever came to my Knowledge respecting the Affairs of the Decan, and to this I have been prompted by the most fincere Friendship alone, having had no other View in so doing. Exert all your Endeavours for the Success of this, as is the Duty of a good Servant.

From Maha Rajah Modajee Bhofilah: Received the 18th March 1779.

I have been made happy by the Receipt of your agreeable Letters, under Date the 10th, 14th, and 19th of Zehaida, and 9th and 11th Zehedja, and perfectly understand all their Contents. I am greatly indebted to your Friendship for the Enquiries you made regarding my Health, which you heard had much suffered. I thank God, who has been pleased persectly to restore it to me. The repeated Account you give me of the pleasing Event of the Capture of Pondicherry, on which I have before congratulated you, affords me the highest Pleasure: May the Almighty give you Joy of it! With respect to your Letter expressing your Desire for the establishing of a Dauk, by the Route of Midnapore and Morebinge, by Reason of the Directness of the Road; the Cossids who go that Way represent it as filled with Difficulties and Dangers. The Route of Cuttack, although longer, is therefore to be preferred. In the other Letter you express yourself very fully on your fecret Views and Designs; the Recapitulation of all the Particulars would take up too much Time; but they are in Substance, that I will not fusfer the present favourable Opportunity to escape, but will concert all the Operations with Colonel Goddard, and carry them into Execution; and that by fuch Conduct our common Interest will be effectually promoted. All this I perfectly comprehend, as I am completely Mafter of the State of Affairs in Decan, which is my own Country, and no Particular thereof is hidden from me; I therefore explained myfelf very fully to Mr. Watherstone, and also wrote my Sentiments to Colonel Goddard. I also difpatched Beneram Pundit and Lalla Ramkund with Letters to you, and hope that they are by this Time arrived, and have explained to you all the Points of their Commission. Your perfect Knowledge in the Art of Government, and in the Management of Negociations, will, I doubt not, lead you to approve of the Points which will be proposed to you.

Since the English at Bombay, by their ill-judged and rash Measures, and by the Precipitation with which they attempted to carry them into Execution, have received a severe Check from the Maratta Army, and been obliged to deliver up Ragganaut Row to the Poona Ministers, and to relinquish Shastie, &c.; to give Two Hostages, and to return to Bombay under an Escort from the Maratta Army, and to conclude a Treaty, stipulating that Colonel Goddard should return; and, as an Army consisting of near 100,000 Horse is affembled at Poona, in high Spirits and Considence, should Colonel Goddard march on, he will undoubtedly meet with the severest Opposition: I have therefore written repeatedly to him to return, but have yet received no Answer, and am filled with Uneasiness as to the Event, should he continue at Burhampore; the Times absolutely require that he should return. Should you have received these Advices at Calcutta, you doubtless have or will give him Instructions to return: You will likewise direct Major Camac, whom you have dispatched to this Quarter, to stop; for in important Undertakings, and Matters of Dissiculty and Danger, Magnanimity and Fortitude alone are not sufficient; other Points, such as the assembling numerous Forces, collecting warlike Stores, and a large Treasure, are equally requisite, to enable the Parties to prosecute them with Success, in spite of all Oppositions, otherwise Disgrace will be the inevitable Comequences. The present Situation of the English at Bombay may serve as an Example. On the Arrival therefore of Beneram Fundit and Ramkaunt, having learnt the Business of their Deputation, and the real State of Affairs at Bombay, you will form a folid Plan for the projected Operations, which you will communicate in Writing to me, or fend both the Deputies back to me, that I may warmly engage in the Pursuit thereof.-Further Particulars you will learn from my Minister Dewagur Pundit's Letter, written with my Concurrence.

Your Application to me for Aid and Affistance is a Proof of the fincere and warm Friendship you bear me; but every Step which I take in this Business must be on mature Deliberation, Reflection, and on folid Grounds, that so there may be no Cause for drawing back.

From Dewagur Pundit: Received 18th March 1779.

Your agreeable Letters, accompanied by Karetahs for the Maha Rajah my Master, the Contents of which are very voluminous, and to every Point of which I shall reply in the Sequel, arrived in a happy Hour, and afforded me the highest Pleasure; I perfectly understand every Thing The News of the Capture of Pondicherry, by the Magnanimity of the English Forces, gave me great Joy: God give you Joy of it!

Your kind Enquiry after the Health of the Maha Rajah, who you had heard was greatly indisposed, is a Proof of your warm Friendship; although he was very severely attacked, yet the Almighty has been gracioully pleased to restore him to persect Health, and he has in a great Mea-

As it has ever been the Characteristic of the Bhosila Family to keep their Friendship inviolable, and pay the most scrupulous Regard to their Word and Engagement, and as it is my Practice to communicate to every illustrious Chief who will place Confidence in my Judgment and Advice, the Advantages and Disadvantages attendant on any Object in View, I therefore communicated to Mr. Watherstone, and wrote to Colonel Goddard, whatever my poor Judgment pointed out to me as eligible.

Beneram Pundit and Ramkaunt have been likewife dispatched to you with Karetahs and Letters, and will fully communicate with you on all the Points entrusted to them; I have no Doubt that actuated by your Knowledge of the Art of Government, by your Penetration, and Forefight into the probable Events of any Meafure, you will approve and affent to all the Propositions they will make you. As I am warmly interested in the Business in Hand, I shall observe upon all the Correspondence, and from first to last, and offer my Opinion as a sincere Friend on the Measures which Policy points out for the future.

Your first Letters treated of the Disputes in Europe between the Courts of Great Britain and France, and of the Commencement of War, and of the Poona Ministers having received a French Envoy, notwithstanding the Treaty sublisting between the English and Pundit Purdham, their granting him the Port of Chowl, and furnishing him with an Arfenal; your having in confefequence dispatched a formidable Detachment under the Command of Colonel Lessie for the Security of Bombay, and intimating your Defire, that, in case they should pass this Way, they should be assisted with Provisions and other Necessaries, and a Body of Forces fent to conduct them through these Territories. As the Ties of Connection with Bengal, by Reafon of its Vicinity, had been long formed, and Beneram Pundit was stationed with you folely for the Purpose of cultivating and improving those friendly Ties, you were answered, That no Objection would be made to your Detachment marching through these Territories, and that they should be assisted to the utmost possible, and accompanied to the Borders by a Person of Credit.

Intelligence was given to the Poona Ministers, and they were informed, that, whilst they were in a Treaty of Friendship with the English, their receiving a French Vackeel, and intriguing and forming Connections with that Nation, in Breach of their Engagements with the English, was highly improper and unjustifiable. The Answer from Poona was, That they had not given any Encouragement to a French Vackeel; that the Person who came there, came solely for the Purposes of Traffic; and that even him they fent away, for the Satisfaction of the English, and were steady at all Times to their Treaty with them; that we would write Assurances of this to Calcutta.

Letters were accordingly written from hence to Calcutta to that Effect, as well as to Colonel Goddard and Colonel Leflie, and the fame was communicated to Mr. Watherstone and Mr. James Anderson. In Answer thereto Mr. Watherstone replied: "We have not the smallest "Idea of giving Support to Ragonaut Row, nor any Intention of acting hostilely against Pundit "Peishwa or the Poona Ministers; but we are going from an Apprehension of evil Designs, formed by the French against Bombay, and the other Possessions of the English. If the Poona If formed by the French against Bombay, and the other rollemons of the Line against them.' Ministers give Assistance to the French, we shall certainly commence Hostilities against them.' Ministers give Assistance to the French, we shall certainly commence Hostilities against them.' In Reply to this, we set before him the State of Decan, which being our Country, we were perfeetly acquainted with, and told him that to advance would be highly impolitic, as they would undoubtedly be opposed by the Maratta Armies in the Way; that they had better halt some Time in the District of Mundillah, &c. in Expectation of Instructions from Calcutta. In the mean Time, before Colonel Goddard reached Hoshingabad, several Letters were received from you, intimating that having several private Matters to communicate, which it would be improper to commit to Writing, you had therefore deputed Mr. Elliott, a Gentleman of superior Understanding, and entirely in your Considence, to repair hither, who would fully explain the Motives of, his Deputation, and would concert all Measures, and settle all Points in Conjunction with us; and that, having established a perpetual Friendship between the Two States, he would write you Word thereof. Two or Three Months passed in Expectation of Mr. Elliott's Arrival, and in the Interim several Letters, all tending to the same Point, that Mr. Estiliott would shortly arrive, and fully explain your Views and Sentiments, were received from you. As that Gentleman died in the Journey, and the News of his Deputation reached Poona and Hydrabad, and threw both those States into the greatest Apprehensions, we received Letters from both, desiring to know for what Purpose Mr. Elliott was coming hither; but, as we were totally unacquainted with your Designs, what could we write, or what Plan could we fall upon?

The Poona Ministers, and the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla, becoming daily more apprehensive our Designs, Letters were accordingly written to you after the Decease of Mr. Elliott, that the Standard of our Friendship and Union having been seen throughout Hindostan and Decan, and been the Cause of inspiring our Friends with Confidence, and our Enemies with Dismay, that we ought therefore to make our Advantage of it; or in other Words, that you should depute another Person in the Room of the Deceased, to conclude the Negociations, that, being informed of your Views, we might pursue a Plan for their Accomplishment, and remove the Doubts entertained by the Powers of Decan.

In what was written from hence "that no triffing Change of Circumstances, which are in Fact no more than Trials, should induce the Ruler of a State to relinquish his Designs; and that Figure ness and Steadiness in the Pursuit of his Object, and a steady Adherence thereto, was truly plasse worthy, and the distinguishing Characteristic of great and exalted Minds," the Meaning was this—that it was not consistent with the Statements of magnanimous and illustrious Chiefs to set aside the Treaty subsisting between Pundit Pursuan and the English for a trifling Change of Circumstances, namely, that a French Agent came to the Poona Ministers; when they would not receive him, but fent him away. You will not understand it to have meant any thing else. Since by Mr. Elliott's Decease in the Way we were deprived of all Knowledge of your Views and Designs, how could you write that ours totally coincided with yours, notwithstanding we were totally unacquainted with them? As you repeat in all your Letters that you place entire Considence in my Judgment and Penetration, you will therefore pay the greatest Attention to any Plan which shall issue from me, considering it as formed on the most solid, not on a weak Foundation, or liable to be shaken by every Blast.

In all your Letters to this Time, you write that Colonel Goddard, when he arrived in these Territories, would conduct himself by my Advice. After the Arrival of Mr. Watherstone at Naigpore, I told him, actuated by my Knowledge of the real State of Assairs in the Decan, the Multitude of the Maratta Forecs, the Dangers of engaging in Hostilities with them, and the Difficulty of overcoming them; the Impropriety of acting precipitately in Assairs of so important and extensive a Nature, the Necessity of a numerous Army, the Alliance of the principal Powers of the Country, and a large Treasure, for the Accomplishment of the Designs; all which Points must be provided for, and the Operations clearly laid down, and every Step taken therein be on solid Grounds. That from all these Considerations it would be proper to depute Beneram Pundit, who was charged from thence to explain the Objects of Mr. Elliott's Deputation to Calcutta, and that in the mean Time the Detachment ought not to advance further, but to halt in the Mundillah District, and send Orders to the English at Bombay to put a Stop to their Hostilities, which were very impolitic. Beneram Pundit and Ramkaunt were accordingly sent by the Route of Cuttack, and having been now gone more than a Month, I statter myself they will soon arrive, and explain to you every Matter entrusted to them; and that you, actuated by Friendship, sound Judgment, and the Knowledge of the Art of Government, will approve of their Proposals and comply with them.

Colonel Goddard would not consent to halt in the Mundillah District, but wrote for Answer, that he could not think of it without Instructions from Calcutta, and must go on; and he is now arrived at Burhampore.

In the mean Time, repeated Advices have been received from Poona, that the English of Bombay having passed Boregaut came into the Plain, where they engaged with the Maratta Army; that being surrounded by the Multitude of the Enemy, consisting of 80,000, their Supplies cut off, and they subjected to a severe and constant Cannonade, they were obliged to treat of Peace, and to deliver up Ragonaut Row, with his Family and Dependants, to the Poona Ministers; to leave Two creditable Hostages with the Army for the Relinquishment of Shastie, &c; and to enter into a new Treaty, by which they engage for their peaceable Behaviour in suture, and for the Return of the English Detachment on its Way from Hoshingabad; which Treaty having been ratisfied, they returned to Bombay. On the Receipt of these Advices repeated Letters were written from hence to Colonel Goddard, requesting him not to advance, as the Maratta Army, colosisting of near 100,000 Horse, and being now freed from their Apprehensions of the Bombayers and Ragonaut Row, would immediately sollow him and surround him; that it was therefore expedient he should return, and on no Account think of proceeding; but no Answer has been yet received from the Colonel, and we are lest in the greatest Uneasiness of what may be the Event. In the PPENDIX, Noigi.

Interim, Karetahs and Letters have been received from you by the Route of Cuttack, Midnapore, Morebunge, of Beneras, and also through the Channel of Colonel Goddard; Two Letters of Congratulation on the Capture of Pondicherry; Two on the Subject of establishing a Dauk through Midnapore and Moregunge, provided it should be found safe and expeditious; Two, containing Information of your having dispatched Major Camac with Two Battalions of Sepoys by the Wav of aingur and Chutteah Naigpore, and intimating, that on his Arrival on the Borders he would take Advice from hence with respect to his proceeding to join Colonel Goddard; Three very voluminous letters with your secret Views, and of their coinciding with ours; and setting forth, that from our late Letters, and the Advices you received at the same Time from Colonel Goddard, you perceive that Delays have arisen in the Execution of your Views; that you place the greatest Dependance on ear hearty Support, and implicitly rely on the Fortitude and Magnanimity of the Maha Rajah, and on my Wildom and Penetration; that from Sentiments of the warmest Friendship you are engaged to fat in the Buliness, and now require our Aid and Support for the Completion of it; that it is therefore incumbent on us not to delay it to a future Opportunity, but engage warmly in fuch Measures as will raise the English * Name in Hindostan.

It is necessary to look back and attentively consider the Circumstances you allude to: That since, in the Term of a full Year that this Correspondence has subsisted, nothing has been hinted at in your Letters but the Enmity of the French, and in the mean Time Mr. Elliott was deputed hither, perforally to explain your Sentiments, which on his Decease were entrusted to Beneram Pundit, on the Substance of whose Letters, and the Answers from this Quarter, you were to form your ultimate Plan of Operations; and that till that Time Colonel Goddard was to conduct himself by your Advice: And Answers were immediately written in the fullest and most explicit Terms, in the Presence of Mr. Watherstone, from which I hope you have a clear Insight into every Particular; and soon after Beneram Pundit and Lalla Ramkaunt were dispatched with Letters to you. And as moreover we have never failed in the Performance of the least Duty of Friendship, have given our Advice on the Meafures proposed, pointed out the Advantages and Disadvantages to be expected, and proposed Plans for the present and future, which our Knowledge of the Cultoms and of the Affairs of Decan, and the Multitude of the Maratta Forces on Foot, enabled us to do, pointed out the Means of effecting the Object in View, the Necessity of taking every Step with Firmness and Solidity; notwithstanding all this, and that the English at Bombay have by their Rashness and Precipitation, and ill-formed Measures, reduced themselves to their present Situation; and the Maratta Army amounts to near 100,000 Horse ready for Action, and the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla Bahadre is staunchly attached to their Party; yet you write confidently that we should, at such a Time, engage warmly in the Pursuit of your Designs, and act therein in concert with Colonel Goddard. Whilst we are not provided with Warlike Stores, with fufficient Forces or Treasure to meet the other Party, how can we engage in this dangerous Undertaking, upon the Strength of mere personal Bravery alone? Or how can Colonel Goddard advise us to such a Measure? The Event would be attended with Disgrace, in like Manner as the Expedition of the Bombayers has been. On the Arrival of Beneram Pundit and Lalla Ramkaunt, all these Matters will be made clear to you, and we shall receive from you fatif-factory Answers: You will also write to Colonel Goddard to return, and will give Major Camac Directions to flop, as this is not a Sealon for this small Body to give Proof of their Bravery by advancing. On the Arrival of Benerain Pundit and Lalla Ramkaunt, after you are acquainted with the Points of their Commission, and have learnt the State of the English at Bombay, you will form a folid Plan on the most judicious Grounds, for the Completion of the important Objects in View, and inform us thereof by Letters, or fend both the Deputies back.

You will regard this long and explicit Letter as dictated folely by Candour and the warmest Friendship, and a perfect Knowledge of the Affairs of Decan.

From the first Arrival of Colonel Goddard, my Sentiments have been inviolably the same, and with these, and the Products of Resection and Penetration, have all my Letters been filled, this was the Substance of all my Letters to you before the late Occurrences happened at Bombay, and I shall continue without Referve to give you my Sentiments and Advice.

Postscript.

Since I wrote the above, Letters have been received from Colonel Goddard at Burhampore, that he has received Advices respecting the English at Bombay, but that it is necessary he should go to adjust the Affairs of Bombay; that he can on Account confent to return. As we have not been wanting Governor General, who is of the same Opinion.

(Signed) J. H. D'Oyley, Persian Translator.

If this is meant as a Quotation, it is a very imperfect if not a falle one. The Words of the Letter to which I suppose it alludes, are these: "The Eyes of the World are on us both; they have seen me struggle through Difficulties to the "Point, at which by your Aid I have ensured the most glorious success, the Termination of which, by the Blessing of "Gdd, will afford Peace and lation." However, However, and immortal Reputation."

It may not be unnecessary to remark, that I have compared the Persian Translation of the above Words with the English, and find it to be as literal as the different Idioms of the Languages will allow. I have also read it to the Governor General, who is of the same Oninion.

APPENDIX, Nº 191.

in the Duties of Friendship, or in giving him good Advice, if he will not take it we lrave no Remedy.

From Siccaram Pundit; received 28th March 1779.

In former Times Seremunt Ragonaut Row, instigated by certain villainous Persons, was guilty. Acts condemned by all Religions and Laws, the Particulars of which Acts you are too well acquainted with to make it necessary for me to repeat them. By the Support of the Governor of Bombay he raifed Commotions in the Neighbourhood of Surat: As foon as you heard of these im. proper Acts, and the unjustifiable Designs of Dada Sahib, you deputed Colonel Upton and Captain McPherson to Seremunt Peishwa Purdhaun, to bring about an Accommodation, which was necessary for the Happiness of the People, and a Treaty was concluded under the Seals of the English Co. 4 pany and Seremunt Peishwa Sahib; and as it is universally allowed that Friendship is preferable to any thing in the World, particularly with the English Nation, who are famous throughout the Universe for their good Faith and steady Disposition; and as it was believed by all the Powers of the Country, that a fincere Friendship and Union had been formed between the English Company and Seremunt Peithwa Sahib, in tuch a Manner that it should be of perpetual Duration in spite of all the Attempts of our mutual Enemies to destroy it; and as on the 14th Rujjub Letters to this Effect were received from you, that as long as the Peishwa continued to fill the Musaud there should be no Failure in the Engagements contracted, and that an English Detachment had been dispatched over Land for the Reinforcement of Bombay; although you must have known, that from the most distant Period to the present Time no English Forces had ever passed that Way overland, and that they would be opposed in the Dominions of the Sircar. But to pass over this: Your other Officer of this Detachment, in the First Instance, on his croffing the Summum took Possession of the Fort of Culpte, in the Sircar's Dominions, at the Instigation of Ragonaut Row's Vackeels, whom he carried with him, and afterwards proceeded forwards in the Design to injure the Sircar's Territories. In Pursuit of this Plan he attacked the Bundlecund Chiefs, between whom and the Family of the Peishwa the most intimate Friendship has subsisted for a Term of 50 Years, and you engaged that our Friends and Enemies should be common, and plundered theirs and the Sircar's Country. Necessity obliged the Officers of the Sircars, for the Security and Protection of the Territories entrusted to them, to follow and observe the Motions of the Detachment. The Particulars of this you must have heard from other Quarters; but what is most surprizing is, that the Governor and Council of Bombay, in concert with Ragonaut, have raised Disturbances, and suddenly sent their Forces to the Ghauts, which are only 20 Coss from Poona, and another Detachment of Europeans are raising Commotions in Cokun. I implicitly relied on your Sincerity and good Faith, which is in the Mouths of all Ranks of People, otherwise I should have dispatched an Army to Hindostan, and settled Matters.

The Governor of Bombay, who was from of old the Disturber of Peace and Friendship, notwithstanding your positive Injunctions to settle all Points between us, and not to afford an Asylum to Ragonaut Row in any Part of the Company's Territories, paid no Attention thereto. I also wrote him repeatedly to sulfish the Articles respecting the Sircar, and to receive those which had Relation to the Company. To this likewise he turned a deaf Ear, and in Opposition thereto wrote you Fictions mixed with some Truth. He made Use of the Opportunity of the Arrival of a French Vackeel here to confirm his Representations; but God knows what he wrote to you on the Subject. I on the first Hint from you gave him his Dismission, without having any Conference with him. Keep Justice in View, and be yourself the Judge, who was the Cause of the Troubles which have arisen. We are now about to attack the Forces which are arrived at the Ghauts. The Detachment sent by Land to this Quarter, is in the Neighbourhood of Bopaul. I enclose to Lalla Sewuk Ram, who will deliver it to you, a Persian Copy of a Letter, under the Seals of Ragonaut, and the Honourable General of Bombay, addressed to the Sirdars of this Government, and other Powers. You are endued with Wissiom, which has induced me to write these Particulars. Consider maturely on whose Side the Blame lies. There is no Remedy against the Decrees of Providence, and God is the Disposer of States and Wealth. I have never deviated from the Duties of Friendship and Union.

Delivered for Translation the 28th March 1779.

The Almighty Creator of the Heavens and the Earth, the Enlightener of the Sun and Moon, who spread out the Carpet of the Earth, and placed on it Animals, Vegetables, and Mountains composed of the Four Elements; who formed the human Race, and the whole Universe, and gave Beauty to the Seven Climates of the Globe, ornamenting them with Monarchs and illustrious Characters, the Feeder both of the Great and Small, agreeably to their different Stations, is Witness of the following Proposals, which from first to last are compounded of Religion, good Faith, Sincerity, Candeur, and the Knowledge and Fear of God, and under the Sanction of his mighty Name, this mutual Treaty, on the Conditions following, shall remain unshaken from Generation to Generation, to the End of Time.

subjection, or created by the Power of Maha Rajah Savajee Bhoofila; and it is the indispensable Duty of all the Subjects or Servants of the said Raja, on all Occasions to preserve the Rights of the aforetaid Rajah, by Submission and Obedience to the Government of his Descendants, whether by the Male or Female Line; it is therefore incumbent on me to place on the Mushud of the Rajah, the nearest lineal Descendant of that Family, and to use all my Endeavours for the Support of his Government and Power; and from the very First to the present Period this Conduct has been invariably pursued by my Family to the illustrious Line on the Mushud, which is in Fact the same Family, and no Step has been taken, inconsistent with the Duties of Obedience and Religion. Whenever there remains no lineal Descendant of the said blessed Rajah, by the Favour of God, my Family is worthy of the illustrious Rank of the Mushud of this Raje; the hereditary Right is in no other. On this Point your Aid and Assistance is more particularly necessary.

Minister, who unjustly makes Opposition thereto, and calls in another; as for Instance the Nabob to his Party, regarding both of them inimical, and receiving them, whatever Places or Territories dependant on such Chief (the Nabob) shall come into our Possession, after separating the Soubah of Berar, which belongs to me, and relinquishing of the Remainder, such Places and Territories as belong to our Ally in this War; what is then left shall be divided in equal Proportions between us,

3dly. If any Enemy arifes against you, and on your written Application, Assistance is afforded you from hence; or if any one looks with an hostile Eye on me, and at my Application I receive Assistance from you; in case of the Arrival of Forces to the Assistance of either, it is sit that the Person making the Application should defray the Expence of the Expedition. In the Sequel I have fixed on a Mode for the Regulation of this, which is, That when Forces go from hence to your Aid, their Pay be settled conformably to the Treaty of the Nabob Mohabut Jung Bahadre, viz. To every Horseman One Rupee per Diem, and to particular ones Five Rupees; to Semuldars and Sirdars according to their respective Rank and Station, from 20 to 100 Rupees, and even more, should their Rank demand it. And when your Troops come to my Assistance, they shall receive, One Battalion per Month, when in Cantonments or fixed at any Place, 10,000 R'; when in Motion 13,000; besides this, an Allowance to the Officer suitable to his Rank; and whatever Profits may arise from the Operations of our joint Forces, exclusive of the Soubas or Dependencies of either Party, after debiting the Party receiving Aid, for the Expence of the Force afforded him, shall be divided in equal Proportions between us; and whoever joins himself to us in these Designs, from amongst the Sirdars of Note, with a good Body of Forces, we are both bound to satisfy him in Proportion to the Assistance he has brought us.

4thly. Let the Ties of Friendship and Union, from Generation to Generation, be firmly knit and established between us, and our Friends and Enemies common to each. Should it happen that one who is my Friend should be an Enemy to you, I will interfere and make him your Friend. In case the Enemies of either will not hearken to Proposals of Accommodation, we will form a Plan in Concert, and by some Means or other bring them over to our Views; first trying the Mode of Advice and gentle Persuasion, and if that fails, by Force and Chastisement; but in a Word, the moderate Way ought first to be tried. In like Manner, should any one who is a Friend to you be in Enmity to me, you shall make him my Friend.

5thly. Should any one interrupt the Settlement of the Raje, and the Nabob affords him no Kind of Aid or Support, in this Cafe, after having made ourselves fully acquainted with the Merits of the Case, we will in concert determine, whether it will be advisable to keep on sciendly or inimical Terms with the said Nabob.

6thly. The Soubah of Oussa, commonly called Cuttack, has been from ancient Time a Dependency of mine, and the Borders of the said Soubah join your Territory; whenever at any Time Disputes shall arise between the Borderers of our Territories on any trisling Matter, in this Case it is incumbent on both Parties to make strict Investigation thereunto, and whoever may be found culpable, should be punished by the Party to whom they belong. This will tend greatly to the Promotion of Friendship and Harmony between us.

7th. From the Soubah of Bengal the Sum of Twelve Lacks of Rupees for the Sircar, and Two Lacks of Rupees for Durbar Charges, altogether Fourteen Lacks of Rupees; and Presents of various Kinds, were annually remitted, from the Time of the Nabob Mohabut Jung to the Time of the Nabob Meer Mahomed Jassier Khan's Government, and were regularly discharged to this Government: Cossim Ally Cawn, in the Time of his Soubadarry, fulfilled the Engagement for One or Two Years, after which he broke through this established Custom, and God, who rules by Justice, brought on him the Fruits of it, and the Country of Bengal devolved to the English; on this Account a Vackeel from hence has constantly resided with you, and from the Knowledge I have of your religious Principles, good Faith, Uprightness, Integrity, Knowledge of the Deity, and Piety, under the Auspices of which your Ships of the greatest Burden, like the Mosques of the Upright, sail over the light Waves, and give you immense Wealth, and which is even become a Proverb throughout the World, I am perfectly satisfied that you will settle this Matter: It is therefore incumbent on you to adjust this Matter; and knowing the Right, that you sulfill it, although weighed in the Scales of these great Designs, which are to give us Territories and Wealth in Decan and Hindostan, the Tribute of Bengal is an Object unworthy of being-mentioned; but as it was acquired by my Ancestors, and is my Inheritance, and it is necessary to preserve this before all, and then to apply to other Plans; your Consent and Approbation to this is therefore necessary.

8thly. Let a lineal Descendant of Maha Rajah Chuttebutty Sewajee Bhosila continue on the Mushud of the Sittara Rajah; but till the Power and Authority of the Raje is established nothing is done: Let us therefore unite, not in Appearance only, but in Reality, and together with other Allies, who are warmly attached to us, pursue every Measure to establish the Rajah firmly in the Raje; and inflicting exemplary Punishment on every one who shall oppose or obstruct this Establishment, let us use our Endeavours to put the Affairs of the Raje in a prosperous and flourishing Situation. In this Case, our giving Stability to the Raje and Rajah will redound greatly to your Honour, and will on my Part be complying with the Duties of a Subject, in like Manner as I have ever done, by an Attention to the Family on the Raje; and as long as any Descendants of Maha Rajah Chatterbutty is on the Mulnud of Sittara, my Religion points out to me Obedience; and with such Conduct God is well pleased. As by these Acts the Raje will owe great Obligations to the English, in return for these Kindnesses, I . 1 procure Grants to them of Ports on the Sea Coast, such as Bustie, Salsette, and their Dependencies: and moreover One or Two Forts fit for the complete Settlement of the Affairs of the Raje, and the Establishment of the Rajah upon Sittara. One Half of the Wealth of the Opponents of these Measures, and of the Income of their Territories, which shall come into our Hands, shall be appropriated to defray the Expense of the English Forces which come to support the Measures; and whoever will become our Ally in this Expedition shall be completely rewarded by both Parties, and the Ecroetual Treaty which shall be concluded between you and the Rajah on the most solid Basis shall be engraved by me on a Tablet of Brass, and shall be returned by you under the Signatures of the august King, the Directors of the Company, and the Council; let it be ratified likewife by folems. Oaths, that no Deviation may ever arise therein. And if the English are engaged in War, the Forces of Maha Rajah Chatterbutty shall be fent to their Aid, and nothing demanded for the Expences; and if Hostilities break out against the Raje, English Forces shall be tent on Application for its Support, and nothing required for their Expences: As the Armies of the Raje have from ancient Time made Expeditions to Hindostan, and the Villaet Afghans quit their own Border, which is at Keybur and enter Hindostan, where they have Once or Twice made dreadful Attacks on the Armies of Decan, and defeated them; the Assistance of the English is peculiarly required to chastize them, and the Rajahs of Hindostan; and whatever Advantages are derived from the Expedition, either in Wealth or Territory, Half of it shall be given to the English: I will cause a Treaty to this Effect under the Seal of Maha Rajah Chatterbutty to be delivered to you, on condition that the Rajah's Authority is established.

Bengal Secret Persian Correspondence.

To Moodajee Bhosila: Written the 6th April 1779.

I HAVE received your Letters: They are long, and dictated with the same Friendship and Wisdom with which all your former Letters have been written; but as the great Object of them all is now entirely at an End, it is unnecessary to recapitulate the Substance of them. Beneram Pundit is arrived, and has delivered to me the Paper which you entrusted to his Charge; at his Desire, in Obedience to your positive Injunctions, and the Oath which I understand he swore to perform them, the Paper was delivered, and opened in the Presence of Ramkaunt Moonshy, and read to me by him. Having fully understood the Contents, I have returned the Paper to Beneram Pundit at his particular Request, that it might be sent back in its original State to you; this also being as I understand a Part of his Instructions. Respecting the different Points contained therein, they are such as will not admit either of Negociation or Comment: I conceive them to have been intended as an indirect but decisive Answer upon a Subject in its own Nature so delicate, and rendered more so by the past interchange of our Sentiments upon it and our known mutual Wishes, that you apparently choice this indirect Method of declining to engage any further in it, rather than to relinquish it by an abrupt Declaration, which might have been construed unsuitable to the Friendship and Cordiality which have hitherto subsisted since so long a Period, and which I hope will ever subsist between your Family and the Company and English Nation; otherwise it was certainly unnecessary to have sent a Person, wo noured with so high a Degree of your Considence as Beneram Pundit possesses, upon so long and perilous a Journey, merely to give me the Information which might have been expressed by a Letter containing no more than a fingle Line. What is past is past; of the Design I had formed, I shall totally relinquish all suture Thoughts, but of your past Kindness I shall retain a lasting Remembrance brance. When

A P P E N D I X, Nº 192.

When I first wrote you that an English Army had been appointed to proceed to the other Side of India, and desired you to affist it in its Progress, you immediately returned an Answer, expressing your cheerful Compliance, and not contented with bare Professions, which are oftener the Mask of Deceit than the Indication of Sincerity, you wrote at the same Time to the Commander of our Forces, inviting him to pass through your Country, you sent a Person of Rank and Trust to wast on the Borders of your Dominions with a Store of Provisions for their Subsistence, you caused them to be intertained in the long Stay they made in your Country with all the Dues of Hospitality, and have continued the same Conduct to them since his Departure. These are not complimentary or equivocal, but real and substantial Acts of Friendship: As such it is, especially at this Time, incumbent on me to express the Sense that I entertain of them, as it is my Wish, and shall be my Care, to make every suitable Return to them, whenever any source Occasion of your Affairs shall demand it.

I have ordered Major Camac to remain within the Borders of Bengal, and not to proceed any Exther, but have not yet determined whether he shall return to Calcutta, or join any other Part of our Army, this must depend upon future Contingencies.

Postscript.

Since I wrote the above I have received a Letter from Major Camac, informing me that Orders had been tent him by Colonel Goddard to proceed forwards and join him, provided it should be agreeable to you, without whose Instructions he was to take no Step; that for this Purpose the Colonel had written to you, requesting that you would either fend a Passport to Major Camac, or intimate to him your Disapproval of his Proceeding, in which latter Case he would lay aside the Design; that the Cossis sent to you by the Colonel having been detained Five Days at Naigpore, and then bringing him no Letter or Instructions from you, he had conceived it a tacit Consent to his March; and that for private Reasons you might not chuse to trust it to Writing, and that he was therefore marching on slowly. As this Measure is by no means agreeable to me, I have written to Major Camac to return within our Borders.

To Siccaram Pundit and Balajee Pundit: Written 6th April 1779.

I have received your Letter, containing various Complaints of the Governor and Council of Bont-bay, and other Patticulars, which I fully understand.

This Letter not having been as usual accompanied by one from the Peishwa, I think it necessary to into m you of it, lest, should one have been written, and miscarried in the Way, there might appear an In repricty in my not returning an Answer to it.

I have heard by various Channels some Particulars of the late Events on that Side of India, and have received some little and imperfect Intelligence relative thereto from the Gentlemen of Bombay; but till my knowledge of those Matters is more complete and authentic, I must suspend my Judgment respecting the Rectitude of the Conduct of the Members of that Government. I hear, with the greatest Surpaize, that the Chiefs of the Army from Bombay have made a Convention with you without the Authority of this Government, which you well know was indispensably necessary for an Act of that Nature, and that the Conditions of it are very injurious to the Rights of the Company and the Honour of the English Name: I have not yet received a Copy of it; but whatever it may be, it is incumbent on me to take the earliest Occasion to disavow it, and to declare it null.

This Declaration ought to be unnecessary to you, to whom the like Information was given in form on the Deputation of Colonel Upton.

The Past cannot be recalled; but for the Future it is my sirm Wish, that as I laboured before, however inessectually, to conciliate the Differences which had arisen between you and the Government of Bombay, and which prevented the Execution of the Treaty made through Colonel Upton, Peace may be yet restored, and all past Grievances buried in Oblivion. For this Purpose I and the Counsellors of this Government have authorized Colonel Goddard to negociate and conclude with you, in the Name and on Behalf of the Company, a new Treaty, confirming that made by Colonel Upton, on these Conditions; viz. That you relinquish all Claims derived from the unauthorized Act of our Army, and which could not even have received the Sanction of the Presidency of Bombay; and that you also engage never to grant the French, who are the Enemies of our Nation, any Settlement or Residence in the Ports of the Peishwa, nor to admit the Forces of the French into any Part of his Dominions, nor to form any Alliance, nor hold any Connection with them, either for Traffic or otherwise.

On these Conditions we offer you the Friendship of the Company and of the English Nation for ever. If you reject them we are remediless, and blameless of the Consequences, whatever may be, as Peace or War depend on your Determination.

For further Particulars I must refer you to Colonel Goddard, to whom I have granted full Powers for the Purposes above mentioned, and desire that you will regard him accordingly as the Minister and Representative of this Government, and his Acts done under this Authority as the Acts of this Government, of the Company, and of the English Nation.

ENDIX,

To the Peishwa: Written the 6th April 1779.

In Substance the same as the foregoing.

To Madho Row Sindeah: Written 28th April 1779.

I have been favoured with your Letter on the Subject faid to have been formed by the Bombay Government, with other Particulars, which I perfectly understand.

I have heard by various Channels some Particulars of the Events you allude to, but having yet received no authentic Accounts of the Motives by which the Governor and Council of Bombay have been actuated in the Measures they have adopted, I must suspend my Judgment of their Conduct in which this Government had neither Share nor Knowledge.

The Astonishment I was in, to learn that the Chiefs of the Bombay Army had made a Convention with the Maratta Government, of a Nature so highly injurious to the Rights of the Company and dishonourable to the English Name, could only be increased by the Information, that a Chief so renowned for Wisdom, and who has invariably shewn a Desire of Friendship with the Company, should join in accepting a Treaty from Persons entirely unempowered to person an Act of that Nature, and in dictating such Terms as it is the highest Disgrace to any Persons assuming the English Name to have consented to: Neither those Persons, nor the Government they are immediately under, had any Au. thority to form Treaties with the Powers of India and Hindostan. This Information was given in Form to the Maratta State on the Deputation of Colonel Upton; had it been otherwise, and the Government of Bombay had been in Possession of such Powers, where would have been the Necessity or Propriety of deputing Colonel Upton to fet aside the Treaty which that Government had formed with Ragonaut Row, and to conclude a new one on the Part of this Government, which alone of all the Company's Settlements in India has the Power of performing such Acts? In this Case the Treaty concluded by them must have been preserved; but in the present Instance it does not appear that the Gentlemen who figned the Papers presented to you at Tellegong had even the Authority of the Government of Bombay for such an Act; so that it was in every Respect an idle and ineffectual Engagement: It is therefore incumbent on me to take the earliest Opportunity of declaring to you, that the Treaty you allude to is in itself absolutely null and void. It is probable that you were not fully acquainted with the Powers of the English Government in Cases of this Nature; but those on whose Behalf you appeared are without a Shadow or Plea for Complaint, fince in accepting the Convention of the Chiefs of the Army they must have opposed their own certain Conviction of its

The Past cannot be recalled, but for the Future, it is my firm Wish, that as I laboured before, however ineffectually, to conciliate the Differences which had arisen between your Government and that of Bombay, and which prevented the Execution of the Treaty made through Colonel Upton,

Peace may yet be restored, and all past Grievances buried in Oblivion.

For this Purpose, I and the Counsellors of this Government have authorized Colonel Goddard to negociate and conclude with the Managers of the Maratta State in the Name and on Behalf of the Company, a new Treaty confirming that made by Colonel Upton, on these Conditions, viz. that they relinquish all Claims derived from the unauthorized Act of our Army; an Act so dishonourable that I may not consider any one as a Friend who shall advise the Execution of it; and that they also engage never to grant the French, the Enemies of my Nation, any Settlement or Residence in any of the Ports of the Peishwa, nor to admit the Forces of the French into any Part of his Dominions, nor to form any Alliance, nor hold any Connection with them either for Traffic or otherwise.

On these Conditions we offer the Friendship of the Company and English Nation for ever; should they be rejected, we are remediless and blameless of the Consequences whatever they may be.

It is well known it is my Wish, as it is consonant to the Orders of my Superiors, to live in Peace with all the Powers of India, whilst they will permit me so to do, and I am more particularly anxious to continue on good Terms with you, with whose Worth I am so well acquainted. To this, and the constant Inclination you have shewn to maintain a Friendship with the English, I trust that you would exert your Influence in promoting Peace on the reasonable Terms now offered; and will effect the Conclusion of such a Treaty with Colonel Goddard as I have proposed above, and thereby ensure the Restoration of Friendship and Harmony between the Peishwa and Company, and your own good Name.

To Siccaram Pundit: Written 7th May 1779.

I wrote you some Time ago in consequence of the Reports which I had heard of the Events on that Side of India, and expressed my Sentiments on them as fully as the imperfect Intelligence I had received would admit of, declaring to you that the Treaty faid to have been concluded between you and the Chiefs of the Bombay Army, of which I had likewife heard, was null and void; fince that Time I have received your subsequent Letter, enclosing me a Copy of the Engagement in question, and the Admithened Foundation and the Chiefs of the Bombay Army, of which I had likewife heard, was null and void; since that and the Aftonishment I was in to learn from the Perusal of it, that the Chiefs of the Bombay Army had made a Convention with you, so highly injurious to the Rights of the Company, and dishonourable to the English Name, could only be encreased to find that you had accepted a Treaty from Persons entirely sinempowered to form an Act of that Nature, and had dictated such Terms, as it is the highest Difgrace to any Persons assuming the English Name to have consented to; as you could not be ignorant that neither those Persons, nor the Government they are immediately under, had any Authority to form Treaties with the Powers of India, since this Information was given to you in form on the Deputation of Colonel Upton. Had it been otherwise, and the Government of Bombay had been in Polieffion of fuch Powers, where would have been the Necessity or Propriety of deputing Colonel Upton to fet aside the Treaty which that Government had formed with Ragonaut Row, and to conclude a new one on the Part of this Government, which alone, of all the Company's Settlements in India, has the Power of performing such Acts? In this Case, the Treaty concluded by them must have been preserved; but in the present Instance, it does not appear that the Gentlemen, who signed the Papers presented to you at Tellegong, had even the Authority of the Government of Bombay for an Act; so that it was in every Respect an idle and inessectual Engagement, and I here repeat my Disavowal of it, it being of itself null and void.

Nor can you have any Reason to complain, since in accepting it, you must have acted against your own Conviction of the Invalidity of such an Act.

It is well known that it is my Wish to live in Peace with all the Powers of India, whilst they will permit me to do fo. I have already informed you of the Terms on which you may secure the perpetual Friendship of the Company and English Nation; should you reject them, we are remediless and blameless of the Consequences, whatever they may be; but I make no Doubt, when you reflect on the Reasonableness of the Terms offered, you will cheerfully comply, and conclude with Colonel Goddard such a Treaty as I have proposed, by which Friendship and Harmony may be restored and perpetuated between the Peishwa and Company, and your good Name established.

To Moodajee Bhosila: Written the 13th May 1779.

Accompanying I have the Pleasure to send you a Duplicate of my last Letter, the Original of which I hope you have long ago received. As the rainy Season is approaching, I have directed Major Camac to return into the interior Parts of the Provinces.

You must doubtless have heard the full Particulars of the late Events, which have happened on that Side of India, and of the unfortunate Conclusion of the precipitated and ill conducted Expedition, set on Foot by the Presidency of Bombay, of the improper Convention made by the Chiefs, who accompanied the Bombay Army, and of the Arrival of Colonel Goddard at Surat. On these Circumstances I think it needless to enlarge or comment, any further than to inform you that this Government do not conceive themselves bound to abide by Engagements contracted by Persons who, not having even the Sanction of the Government of Bombay for such Act, it can be regarded in no other Light than a private Act of Individuals, and have therefore disavowed and declared it absolutely null. So far is such an Act from being binding on us, that even the Government of Bombay have not Authority without our Concurrence, to engage in any such Measure, the sole Authority in all political Matters being vested by the King and Parliament of England in the Governor and Council of Bengal.

This was made the Foundation of Colonel Upton's Deputation, and public Notice given thereof to the Ministers, who can therefore have no Right to complain of our Disavowal of a Treaty, which they accepted against their own Conviction of the Insufficiency and Invalidity of it; nor can such Disavowal reflect any Discredit on our good Faith, since no State can be supposed to be bound by the unauthorized Engagement of Individuals of it. As I wish for Peace, as long as it can be preserved with Honour, I have offered to the Ministers to renew the Treaty concluded through Colonel Upton, upon Condition that they formally relinquish all Claims founded upon the aforesaid Convention, and engage never to hold any Connection with our Enemies the French. If they agree to the reasonable Terms, it is well, Peace and Harmony will be re-established, if they reject them they only will be to blame for the Consequences, for which I am now fully prepared.

As from the intimate Friendship which has long subsisted between us; and as Reserve does not become the Bosom of a Friend, and as the Interests of our respective Dominions are the same, I have communicated all these Particulars for your Information.

Beneram Pundit has read to me the Substance of a Letter which he has written to you, in consequence of some Conversations which have passed between us; and what he has said respecting my Sentiments, entirely coincides with them. As he has been much indisposed for some Time past, and wishes to change the Air for that of Benares; and as there are no Affairs at present depending between us, that can make his Stay necessary, I have given him my Permission to go thither.

To the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla: Written the 3d June 1779.

I some Months ago wrote you very fully on the Subject of the Intrigues of the French with the Poona Ministers; the Dispatch of a Detachment of English Forces for the Reinforcement of Bombay; and my Determination to overlook the bad Conduct of the Ministers, and to preserve Friendpilh the Chiefs who accompanied the Bombay Atmy, and with the Arrival of Colonel Goddard at Surat. On these Circumstances I think it needless to enlarge or comment, any further than to inform you, that this Government do not think themselves bound to abide by Engagements contracted by Persons not having even the Sanction of the Government of Bombay for such an Act; it can be regarded in no other Light than a private Engagement of Individuals; and have therefore disavowed it, and declared it absolutely null. So far is such as an Act from being binding on us, that even the Government of Bombay have not Authority, without our Concurrence, to engage in any such Measure; the sole Authority in all political Matters being vested by the King and Parliament of England, in the Governor and Council of Bengal.

This was made the Foundation of Colonel Upton's Deputation, and public Notice given thereof to the Ministers; who can therefore have no Right to complain of our Disavowal of a Treaty which they accepted against their own Conviction, of the Insufficiency and Invalidity of it; nor can such Disavowal reflect any Discredit on our good Faith, since no State can be supposed to be bound by the unauthorized Engagements of Individuals of it. As I wish for Peace as long as it can be preserved with Honour, I have offered to the Ministers to renew the Treaty concluded through Colonel Upton, upon Condition that they formally relinquish all Claims founded upon the aforesaid Convention, and engage never to hold any Connection with our Enemies the French. If they agree to the reasonable Terms, it is well; Peace and Harmony may be re-established; if they reject them, they only will be to blame for the Consequences, for which I am now fully prepared.

I have explained myself thus fully to you, because I wish to preserve inviolable the Friendship and Engagements which have so long subsisted between you and the Company; and I am fully convinced that you, actuated by the same Motive, will take every Means for the Continuance and En-crease of it.

Bengal Secret Consultations; the 3d May 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell,
and
Philip Francis,

Esquires.

Mr. Wheler at Beercool for the Benefit of his Health. Sir Eyre Coote forming Military Arrangements.

READ the following Letters from Colonel Goddard:

Gentlemen,

It is with particular Satisfaction I can inform you of the Arrival of your Forces under my Command at Surat Yesterday Morning. I before acquainted you, in a Letter from Berhampore, with my Intention of pursuing the Route to that City, and my Reasons for so doing; which I explained afterwards more fully in my Address of the 9th Instant. These Letters having been transmitted in Triplicate, will, I hope, have reached you safe; and the Conduct I have pursued on the Occasion, be such as to merit your Approbation.

Not doubting but the Poona Durbar, as it was their Interest so to do, would endeavour to molest and interrupt my March, I thought it advisable to proceed with all the Celerity in my Power; and it is owing to the Expedition I have used, that the Troops reached this Place without Opposition; for the Day of my Arrival, I received a Letter from Mr. Farmer, in the Camp of Mahadjee Scindia, enclosing another from the Select Committee, which informed me of the Ministers having detached about 20,000 of their best and most chosen Horse to surprize me: I therefore conceive they have been disappointed in their Views of attacking me in the Heart of their own Country; and will now in all Probability, to prevent an Appearance of Hostilities on their Part, return without shewing themselves in my Neighbourhood, as no Intelligence of their Motions has yet reached from any other Quarter.

I am happy in the Opportunity now afforded me, of recommending to your Notice the good Behaviour haviour of the Troops in general, who have performed the March from the Nurbuddah to this Place, with a Cheerfulness and Alacrity that gives the most favourable Presage of their future Services; in particular from Burhampore, which is a Distance of near 300 Miles, we have arrived at Surat in Twenty Days, including Three halting ones. I must observe to you, that I experienced, in the most eminent Degree, the good Effect of those Principles of Moderation which had before directed me, in the Affistance I received from the Inhabitants on the Road, who continued in Pos-fession of their Villages, and voluntarily supplied me with Provisions and Grain. This Readiness on their Part, was of particular Use at this Time; because, although I had before my leaving Bur-hampore, collected a sufficient Quantity to supply the Troops on the Road, the Rapidity of my March was such, that many of the Carts upon which I was obliged to transport it, were unable to accompany me; so that but for this continued Supply I received daily, my Progress would have been a good deal retarded, from the Necessity there would have been of adapting my Motions to the Length or Road they could travel.

I cannot acquaint you with the present Views of the Bombay Government, having received no Advices from them, fince their being informed of my near Approach to Surat; but as I have from Time to Time communicated to them my Progress, I hope to hear from them every Day, when I shall immediately make known to you their Instructions. At the same Time, I am slattered with the Expectation of receiving your full Instructions relative to my Situation in Command of your Forces acting under this Presidency.

I am forry to acquaint you with the Death of Captain William Campbell of the Fourth Battalion of Sepoys, who joined the Detachment by the Way of Naigpore, reduced at that Time by a Disorder he caught on the Journey from Calcutta; but which did not destroy him till within a Day's March of this Place.

I beg to inform you, that the Troops are encamped upon a convenient and healthy Spot of Ground, Two Miles above the City, upon the Bank of the River Taptee.

· I have the Honour to be, &c. (Signed)

Tho' Goddard.

Camp near Surat, 26th February 1779.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you the 20th ultimo, informing you of my Arrival at Surat the preceding Day, fince which nothing material has occurred worthy of communicating.

I have received a Letter from the Select Committee at Bombay, expressing their Desire to see me with the earliest Convenience; on which Account I purpose setting out immediately, leaving the Troops encamped in the Neighbourhood of this City, in order that no Time may be lost in laying before you the State of Affairs at this Settlement, and coming to a Resolution upon the Measures most proper to be hereafter pursued. I find it rather troublesome to settle the Rate of Exchange with the Merchants of this City, who seem inclined to take Advantage of the pressing Want they think I am in of a Supply of Money; but as my Situation is by no Means so necessitious or without Resource as it was, I shall not come to any Terms with them that are not very moderate and proper, which I am in Expectation of being foon able to effect.

When the Troops were in the Neighbourhood of Burhampore, I received a Sum of Money of Nuggeen Doss, the Gomastan of Gopaul Doss, in my Camp, at the Rate of 99 Naigpore Rupees for each 100 Siccas payable in Calcutta. The Amount for which I have drawn the Bill is 60,000, the Exchange is 2½ per Cent. dearer than what the Bills you transmitted me on Naigpore were received at; and the Man urges in Excuse for this Increase, the Difficulty he had in procuring even this small Supply at Burhampore, where his Master has no established House, and the advanced Price he was obliged to pay the Merchants for what he could collect at that Place.

Camp near Surat, the 2d March 1779.

Gentlemen,

I did myself the Honour of addressing you from Surat the 2d Instant, acquainting you with my Intention of fetting out immediately for Bombay: Owing to the Vessel's not being in Readiness so soon as was supposed, and the unexpected Length of the Passage, I did not arrive at this Place till the 15th. Having made the Select Committee a Report of the State of the Forces under my Command, ordered from your Presidency for the Assistance of this Settlement, I received a Letter from them informing me of the Miscarriage of a Letter from you, enclosing a Copy of your Instructions to Mr. Elliott, which they therefore requested I would furnish them with, and also give them such Information respecting my Embassy at the Court of Berar, as might tend to discover to them the Nature of the intended Connection with Moodajee Boosla.

Conceiving it for the Interest of the Company's Affairs that they should have as thorough a Knowledge as possible of this Business, in order to prevent their adopting Measures which might counteract the Views of your Government, I wrote them a Letter in Reply, of which the enclosed is a Copy. I cannot at present acquaint you with the political System the Gentlemen at Bombay mean to embrace, or the Plan of Operations intended for the Forces under my Command; as far as it may rest with me you may be affured of my acting consistent with the Instructions given me for my Guidance, and to promote the obvious Advantage and Improvement of the Company's Settlements in the Western Quarter of India. It is with particular Satisfaction I can declare to you the Considence I place in the Courage and Attachment of the Troops under me, who are prepared and willing to carry into Execution whatever may be resolved upon. I purpose setting out to join the Army at Surat very soon, when I will without Loss of Time communicate to you the Plan adopted for the immediate of the constant of the company and divine the approaching mine Section.

ate Disposal of the Troops, and during the approaching rainy Season.

The Select Committee have transmitted you a particular Account of the late Expedition to Poona, which is referred to your Consideration and Decision, together with the several Transactions that have occurred fince and consequent to that unfortunate Affair. It is therefore unnecessary for me to fay any thing further upon this Business, which they will themselves no Doubt take Pains to explain fully to you. You will find from their Relation of Circumstances that the Situation of this Govern. ment respecting the Marattas is as follows: The Authority by which the disgraceful Convention was concluded at Pilligong, has been declared illegal and inadmissible, and of course it remains uncomplied with in all its Parts. The Vackeel from Mahadjee Scindia has been given to understand so, and has returned with this Answer to his Master: If the Marattas accempt to obtain a Performance of the Articles by Force, the Committee may think themselves justified in commencing Hostilities; as I am however of Opinion, notwithstanding a Report which now prevails of their having attacked a small Fort belonging to us called Bancoote or Fort Victoria, that the Government of Poona will be fatisfied with the Advantage they have gained, and not wish to provoke upon themselves a War, the Con. sequence of which might be fatal to their Party; I do not apprehend a Rupture on their Side, unless actually joined by an Armament of the French. The Operations in this Quarter will therefore depend upon the Decilion you may give, and the Measures you may find it necessary to adopt for the Regulation of Affairs here; and I beg to assure you of my entire Devotion to your Desire, and my Resolution to promote the Views of your Government, for the Honour and Interest of the Company in their fullest Extent, as far as lies within my Power. I before took the Liberty of soliciting your particular Instructions relative to my Connection with the Administration of Bombay, on which Subject I hope to hear from you every Day, as well as regarding the Negociations with Moodajee Boofla, which continue in the same State I formerly described to you.

I beg to acquaint you with my having drawn on you in favour of Perwarry Doss, Banker in Surat, for Six Lacks of Bengal Sicca Rupees. The Rate of Exchange, which was the most favourable I could get, although I wrote to Mr. Boddam Chief at Surat on the Subject some Time before my Arrival was fixed at 95 Surat Rupees for each 100 Siccas.

A young Gentleman named William Charles Alston, a very near Relation to Lieutenant Alston of the Bengal Establishment, has solicited my Leave to join the Detachment as a Volunteer, which I have permitted him to do; but without any Allowances, till I can be honoured with your Commands respecting him. As he appears to be a young Man of Spirit, and promises to make a good Officer, I beg to recommend him to your favourable Attention.

Bombay, March 21st 1779. I have the Honour, &c. (Signed) Tho Goddard.

Gentlemen.

I am favoured with your Letter of the 17th Instant, requesting a Copy of the Instructions given by the Bengal Government on the Subject of an Alliance with the Rajah of Berar, and any other Information respecting an Embassy at his Court, which may tend to discover to you the Nature of the intended Connection with him.

Mr. Ravenscroft, Secretary to your Committee, having acquainted me, that since the Writing of your Letter a Copy of these Instructions is come to Hand; I do not suppose it is necessary for me to fend you one: Should you however require it, I will order one to be immediately prepared, and transmitted to you.

As the Perusal of these Instructions will fully explain to you the Object of the Governor General and Supreme Council in the proposed Negociation with Moodajee, it would be superfluous in me to enter into any particular Discussion of their Plan, which is so clearly and pointedly laid down by themselves; what therefore remains for me to do is to relate to you, as far as may be necessary to influence the political Transactions of this Government with the Maratta State, the Progress made in the Treaty; the Situation in which it was left upon my March from the Nurbuddah; and how it may be considered to stand at this Time.

In some of my Letters formerly addressed to your Committee, and in particular in those of the 3d and 10th January I observed, that the Measures previously adopted by your Government in favour of Ragonaut Row, had been the Means of preventing Moodajee from acceding to the Terms wished for by the Gentlemen of the Administration at Bengal, which he otherwise shewed himself in every respect disposed to embrace. This Sentiment appeared through his whole Conduct, while the Army remained in the Neighbourhood of his Country; and indeed he frankly owned the Interests of Ragonath Row and his own interfered too much with each other to admit of their being supported by the English at the same Time. In the Letters which I transmitted from him to the Governor General, he recommends in the strongest Terms the relinquishing Ragoba, and making Peace with the Poona Durban; but the Part he so warmly takes in favour of the latter, he professes to arise folely with a Regard to his own Views in concert with us: He at the Time of writing this Letter, and indeed indeed repeatedly fince, has declared to me that he only waited for Answers from Calcutta, containa Compliance with his Proposals, to renew and conclude the Negociations upon the Terms of Alliance mentioned in the Instructions: These Answers ought to arrive by the End of this Month, when the Sincerity of Moodajee's Declarations will be at once put to the Test; for any Objections he could now start, would prove his Disinclination to the proposed Business, and the little Dependance that is to be placed in him. The grand Obstacle of Ragonath Row is effectually removed, and indeed every leading Circumstance has happened favourable to the ambitious Views of the Berar The Bengal Army is arrived at Surat ready to take the Field in his Cause, whenever the Terms of Alliance can be adjusted; and though he tried by every Means to prevail upon me not to advance to this Side of India, I used every Argument the Situation of your Affairs, consistent with the declared Object of the Bengal Government, could suggest, to prove to him the Necessity of such a Measure, and reconcile it to his own future Schemes and Expectations.

In a Letter from the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council of the 23d November, Copy of which I had the Honour before to enclose for your Perusal, they begin by absolutely forbidding me to obey any Orders but what I might immediately receive from themselves; but in order to guard as much as possible against every Accident, they afterwards direct me to comply with whatever Instructions I might receive from you (should you have adopted any Measures depending upon the Support of my Detachment) provided they were not incompatible with the Instructions I had received from them, or the Negociations entered into with the Rajah of Berar.

At the Time your Letters reached me, with Intelligence of the Treaty made with Ragoba, and of your Army having actually taken the Field in consequence of it, pressing at the same Time my expeditious March, the Negociation with Moodajee had been put a Stop to, for the Reasons I have above affigned; I therefore found it consistent with the Orders of the Supreme Board, and considered it every Way for the Interests of the Honourable Company, to leave the Business with Moodajee in the Train I have above described, waiting for Replies from the Presidency of Bengal to the Reference and Representation made them by the Court of Naigpore, and to proceed with all Expedition towards this Settlement, either to affift in bringing the Designs you had undertaken to a successful Issue, or to act in concert with you, in the Prolecution of any Mealures that might be necessary to the Advantage of the Company's Affairs, and confiftent with the Spirit of the Intentions of the Bengal Government, in detaching their Forces across the Peninsula of India. I was unfortunately disappointed in my Hopes of effecting the former, but I am full of Confidence that my Expectations respecting the latter will be answered in their amplest and most desirable Extent.

Belides the Letters transmitted through me from the Court of Berar, others to the same Purport were sent to Bengal, under Charge of a confidential Person belonging to the Rajah, who before resided there in Character of his Ambassador, another Person of considerable Trust accompanied, and still remains in my Camp on the Part of Moodajee, and through him I have from Time to Time received Letters from his Master. When the News of what happened at Tillagaon first reached him, he communicated to me fuch i articulars as had come to his Knowledge, and earnestly pressed me not to advance. Of his own Business he only observed, that he was waiting with Anxiety for the Dispatches from Calcutta. I have not heard from him fince the Letter I wrote him from Burhampore, informing him of my Determination to proceed towards Bombay, and that in the mean Time Leisure would be given for the Arrival of the Answers from the Bengal Government.

I have endeavoured as much as lies in my Power to give you in the above Account an Idea of the State of the Berar Negociation; should I have omitted any Thing which may occur to you to ask; or should there be any public Papers relative to this Transaction, the Perusal of which would tend to explain it more fully to you, I am ready to give every further Information you may judge

Bombay, 19th March 1779. I have the Honour to be, &c. Tho' Goddard. (Signed)

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you in a Letter dated the 21st ultimo, acquainting you with my Arrival at Bombay, and inclosing Copy of my Letter to the Select Committee, on the Subject of the Negociations at the Court of Berar; fince that Time the Gentlemen of the Committee here have received a Letter from your Supreme Board, and I also have been made happy with your Favour of the 5th February, accompanying Credentials, appointing me your Minister at the Court of Poona; this new Mark of your Regard and Confidence fills me with Sentiments of Gratitude, to which I am at a Loss to give Expression, and will be best shewn by the Zeal and Fidelity with which I shall exert myself in the Execution of so important a Trust. I cannot however omit mentioning the superior Satisfaction it gives me to find that my Conduct in proceeding to this Side of India has exerted your Approbation; and I am full of Hope that the Letters I afterwards wrote you, experience of Assistance of A plaining more particularly my Motives for advancing on account of the Situation of Affairs here, will have made you of Opinion that fuch a Measure was not only proper, but appeared absolutely necessary to the Security and Preservation of this Settlement.

The Receipt of your Letter to the Select Committee, and of that to myfelf, the Contents of which I communicated to them, has at length fixed their Resolves, and they have come to the Determination mination of suspending all Operations, till the Arrival of Dispatches from your Supreme Board, in consequence of the Representation transmitted you of the State of Affairs by Mr. Horsley, or till your may have wrote, subsequent to your Knowledge of the Discomsiture at and Retreat from Zilla gong.

I have received no Advices from Moodajee of a later Date than that mentioned in my Letter to the Select Committee, and am therefore in Expectation of hearing from him every Day, when I will immediately communicate to you the Sentiments he may express, and the Proposals he may make for the Promotion of the Plan already so particularly explained to him by me. Since leaving the Nurbuddah I have continued to write him in the most encouraging Terms, and at this Time! have addressed him, forwarding Letters from the Bombay Government, expressive of the Zeal and Readiness with which they will assist and co-operate in the Execution of any Measures that may be determined upon consistent with the Views of the Supreme Council of Bengal, with whose Intentions in favour of the Rajah they have been made acquainted, as well as with the full Powers delegated to me by you, to conclude the Terms of an Alliance with him in your Name.

As I conceive the Situation of Affairs in the Maratta Empire to be widely different from what you had Reason to expect it would be when your Letter was wrote, I have judged it proper to defer making known to the Court of Poona the Powers you have vested in me, or formally demanding their Consent to the Requisitions you have enjoined me to make, upon the Supposition as I conceive of Ragoba's Success, till I can be honoured with your further and particular Instructions on this Head; and this Delay I am induced to use the more readily, as it can be productive of no real Inconvenience, the Period intervening betwixt the Arrival of an Answer from you, and the Scason for Action, leaving sufficient Space to follow and perfect any Measures you may chuse to direct should be pursued.

As the further Consideration of political Matters, and of course, the Military Operations of the Army, are suspended till your Resolves can be communicated to us, I propose, during the Recess from public Business, to set out to join the Troops at Surat, and put them in complete Readiness for the Service in which I hope they may soon be employed. I beg to assure you, that I shall implicitly attend to the Spirit of the Instructions contained in your Letter of the 5th February. And have the Honour to be, &c.

N° 194.

The Governor General informs the Board, that Mr. George Horsley, deputed from the Government of Bombay, is arrived.

Read the following Letter from Bombay:

We have been so much taken up with a Dispatch to the Honourable Company, in consequence of the unfortunate Issue of the Expedition of Ragoba, that we have not been able to send away before this the Vessel for Bengal, with the promised Accounts for your Information; but as the Scason is now become so much more favourable for a quick Passage, we statter ourselves there will be but a small Loss of Time by her Detention.

That your Information may be as complete as possible, and every Material may be before you.

to enable you to form your Judgment, we have thought it the best Method to send you at full Length, Copies of our late Address to the Honourable the Secret Committee, and of every Paper therein referred to, which relates to the late Transactions, or our present political Situation.

We have been so particular in our Dispatch to the Secret Committee, in the Relation of every Circumstance that can tend to your Information, that any thing further we can now say, would only be a useless Repetition; we shall therefore submit the Whole to your Determination, with a firm Reliance of meeting with a candid and impartial Judgment, and confine ourselves in this Address to what has offered since the Date of our Advices to the Honourable the Secret Committee; premising only, that exclusive of any general Opinion or Directions you may please to give, in consequence of the Papers which will be now before you, we request your particular Decision on the Conduct of Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, and the Charge given in against them by the President, in his Minute of the 29th January.

A List of the Papers now transmitted is enclosed, in which they are enumerated in proper Order.

Since our Dispatch to England, the President laid before us a Plan of the Measures which appeared to him proper to be pursued in our present Situation. A Copy of this Paper is also transmitted under N° 3; and subjoined thereto is a Copy of our Proceedings and Determination, on the Day it was taken under Consideration. We

We have, as you will thereby observe, submitted the Propriety of the proposed Measures to you, and determined to suspend the Execution thereof till we receive your Sentiments, which we hope you will transmit with all possible Expedition: And as, in whatever political System you may think proper to adopt for this Presidency, you may possibly require Information on certain Points or Details of local Knowledge, which, as we cannot foresee, we cannot now supply, we have, in order to prevent any Loss of Time in Correspondence, judged it expedient to fend round to Bengal a Gentleman well informed in the State of the Company's Affairs, and the present political Circumstances of the Presidency; and having made Choice of Mr. George Horsley for this Commission, he now waits on you with these Dispatches.

We request you will permit Mr. Horsley to be informed of the Measures you may think proper to adopt respecting this Presidency, and allow him to represent to you any Particulars which his local Knowledge may suggest, or may appear to him material to be attended to in your

Deliberations

The Marattas have discontinued the Attack of Fort Victoria, but we have not yet received an Answer to the Remonstrances made to the Poona Durbar on that Occasion, nor to the Letter written to Mhadjee Scindia, in consequence of the 11th Resolution subjoined to the Piesident's Review of Maratta Assairs. We however propose to continue temporizing with him, and to endeavour to preserve the Distinction between him and Nanah Furnese.

We most heartily join with our President in the Encomiums bestowed on Colonel Goddard, in his Minute of the 30th ultimo, for his judicious and decisive Conduct in quitting the Negociation with Moodajee Bouncello, and his ready Determination of coming to our Aid, as well as the Activity and Military Skill with which he performed the March. We are happy to find by your Letter of February, without further Date, that his Conduct has also met with your Applause, and we beg to be permitted to remember him, and solicit from you some diffinguished Mark of your and our Sense of his Services.

We have defired the Colonel to be prefent at all our Political Proceedings; and at our Meeting the 31st ultimo, when we had assembled to consider on the President's Motion of the 30th, he laid before us your Instructions to him of the 5th of February, and your Commission as Minister Plempotentiary to the Court of Poona. We now, as already mentioned, send a Copy of our Proceedings on that Day, to which we beg Leave to refer.

On the 17th ultimo we received your Letter of the 16th November, enclosing a Copy of the Infructions to the late Mr. Elliott, and on the 29th we received your Letter of the 8th February.

It would now be quite unavailing to express our Regret that we had not more timely Information of the Extent of Mr. Elliott's Commission, but this is a Circumstance which we hope will have its due Weight, when a Judgment is formed of our Conduct in undertaking the late Expedition at the Time we did.

As the whole of our Conduct will now be before you, we confider it unnecessary to make any Reply to your last-mentioned Letter; but we were exceedingly concerned to find ourselves taxed at the same Time with Negligence, in letting favourable Opportunities escape, and Precipitation in embarking in the late Expedition when Circumstances were not favourable. With respect to the latter Charge, we must trust to the Statements now transmitted for our Justification; and the former being quite general, deprives us of the Advantage of making a circumstantial Defence; therefore we can only say in general, that we acted to the best of our Judgment, according to the Situation of Affairs and the Powers given us, and that our deferring the Expedition Two Months longer than intended, was unavoidable, on Account of the unusual Severity and Duration of the Rains, which rendered the low Country between this and the Gauts impassable for Troops and Artillery earlier than the Time our Forces were sent into the Field.

We have now the Honour to transmit Second Copies of the Dispatch from the Honourable the Secret Committee, received the 8th of February by Colonel Capper.

We have directed Mr. Horsley to touch at Tellicherry, to bring you the latest Intelligence of the State of the Operations against Mahé.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Esquires. Philip Francis, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. Mr. Wheler at Beercool, for the Benefit of his Health.

THE Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

The Governor General judging from some Intimations which have been casually made at the loard, in Conversation upon the Dispatches lately received from the Select Committee of Bombay, hat our Sentiments, without a previous and liberal Communication of them, might differ not so such in the Judgment which we might severally pass on the Occurrences themselves, or in the conduct of the Persons by whose Agency they were produced, as in the Choice of the Subjects which should form the Substance of our Reply to their Letter; I have thought it proper, and hope shall perform by it an acceptable Service to the Board, to enumerate and distinguish the several Points which are presented to our Notice in the voluminous Papers composing these Dispatches, and which may appear to require either the Instructions or Animadversions of the Board upon

As my Design in this Undertaking is to shorten the Labours of the Board, and to obviate a Difference of Opinion on an Occasion which seems to me to demand the united and most respectable Application of the Power of this Government, I hope that it will be received with Candour, or at ealt that it may escape Controversy: Is either in the State of Facts, in Deductions from them, or in he Opinion which I may deliver of the Conduct to be observed by this Government in relation to hem, I may not obtain the Concurrence of every other Member of the Board; I repeat, that I do ot mean to offer Propositions for their Determination, but Subjects for their Selection.
To these I shall proceed, and arrange them in their Order of Time.

- 1st. The Plan formed by the Select Committee of Bombay on the 21st of July 1778, in Concert with Moraba Furnecie Buchela Proonder and Tuckajee Holcar, for the Restoration of Ragonaut Row to the chief Administration of the Maratta State.

APPENDIX,

If in this Catalogue I have omitted any Matter of consequence offered to our Deliberation in the Papers now before us, the Recollection of the other Members of the Board will supply the Deficiency; these will at least be sufficient to shew, how extensive, various, and complicated a Duty is imposed on us by these Dispatches, if we must of Necessity enter on the Consideration of all the Transactions and Events which are related in them; if we must pass Judgment on every Instance of personal Conduct, either directly or indirectly brought by them to our Notice; and if we are to prescribe Rules for their Conduct on every distinct Subject, under every Variation of Circumstances which may eventually attend it.

If the Board shall judge it incumbent on them to enter into so laborious a Discussion, I shall submit, though reluctantly, to bear my Part of it; reluctantly, because it will occupy more of our Time than we can spare from the more substantial Objects; and because I foresee that it will lead to Altercation amongst ourselves; it being impossible that we, who have but begun to agree in Opinion on our public Measures, should all become of one Mind on Twenty-two distinct and interesting Propositions, and because it would be unavailing and inconclusive.

To censure or to commend is all that we can do, except in one single Instance; for our Censures cannot impress Restraint, nor our Commendations avert the Effects of past Missortunes, or preclude the Judgment which awaits the Instruments of them from higher Authority. Our effectual Authority is limited to political Engagements and military Operations, undertaken without our previous-Licence. The Treaty or Convention, or whatever Name it may bear, which was concluded at Worgaun, certainly falls within this Description, and it is in our Power if we please to punish the Authors of it by a temporary Suspension; but is it necessary? An Act so fatal to the Interests of the Company, and so disgraceful to the Reputation of the British Nation, cannot fail to excite the most rigid Scrutiny into the Conduct of every one concerned in it, and the Causes which produced it, by those who have the Power both to judge and to punish, which perhaps in this Case we have not in Effect.

The Charge preferred by Mr. Hornby against Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, and referred expressly to us for our Judgment upon it, is but a small Portion of a long Series of great apparent Misconduct, every Part of which has an equal Claim, and many greater, to our Consideration of them. There was no need of this Reference to us, nor are we competent to receive it: The Charge might have been tried by a Court Martial; and if the President and Select Committee had deemed it necessary, for any Cause not so properly cognizable by a Court Martial, or capable of Proof before it, or for any other Reason, to remove Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, from their military Command, or from the Service, they might have removed them, and ought to have done it in such a Case, without any Form of Trial, by the Powers vested in them by the Company. It does not consist with the Dignies of this Company. in them by the Company. It does not consist with the Dignity of this Government, to assume a Jurisdiction which it cannot legally exercise, nor effectually without the Consent of those who, possessing ample Powers themselves, have desired to consign them to us, whether because they doubted the Equity of their own Conduct, or dreaded the Responsibility annexed to it; and therefore sought to lighten the Weight of it by sharing it with us; for I cannot conjecture any other probable Motive for so extraordinary an Appeal.

If in the above Reflections I have expressed the Sentiments of the other Members of this Board, nothing remains for our Consideration but the Question of what shall be done, and the Review of the past Events so far only as they relate to it.

We have already disavowed the Convention of Worgaun: Would to God that we could as easily efface the Infamy which our national Character has sustained by the Confession inserted in it, as we can justify, on the strictest Principles of Honour, Justice, and public Faith, our Refusal to ratify the substantial Parts of it!

The separate Agreement made with Madajee Scindia stands on very different Ground: It was not a Concession extorted by the Maratta Government against its Conviction of legal Sufficiency in those who yielded it, but it was the Price at which they purchased the Safety of the Army; and was so absolutely their own spontaneous Act, that it appears that the Ministers of Madajee Scindia were even corrupted to influence his Acceptance of it. It is true that they had no Authority to make such a Compromise, and we may therefore refuse to ravisy it, in strict Conformity to the Letter of our own Law; but I doubt whether this will avail us in the Opinion of the World, or we can reconcile it to the Obligations of Justice and Honour, which were thus pledged for the Retribution of the most signal (though humiliating) Act of Kindness that a Nation could have received from the Bounty of an Individual; unless we can be allowed the Rule of Asiatic Policy, in doing to all Men what we know they would under similar Circumstances do unto us.

I am compelled therefore in Conscience and in Duty to declare, That unless Madajee Scindia shall have forfeited his Right by any subsequent Act, he is intitled to the Performance of his Engagement, and we ought to ratify it.

Except this be made an Addition to the Instructions already given to Colonel Goddard (and I must own that I do not think that it will contribute to their Success, but the contrary) I know of no other Point of immediate Negociation or Action that can be prescribed either to him or to the Select Committee of Bombay, until that Commission shall have been concluded either by a definitive Treaty of Peace, or by a decided War.

This is not a proper Time to determine on the Measures which may be necessary in the Case first supposed.

A. P. P. E. N. D. I. X. N. 1967

the Maratta Rulers shall finally reject our Offers of Peace, we must endeavour to make the most of a State of War, and for that Purpose I cannot recommend a better Plan of Operations; than that which is contained in Mr. Hornby's Minute of the 30th March: It appears easily practicable by the Force which we posses; it will yield us if successful the Possession of the very Lands which were the Objects of our late Engagements, and distress them in the Means of supporting the War, by the Loss of so considerable a Portion of their Revenue, at the same Time that it will increase our own.

Whether these, or whatever others, may be the Grounds of our present Resolutions, I hope the Board will see with me the Propriety of conveying them in such a Form and Temper as may give Encouragement and Confidence to the Presidency of Bombay, instead of adding to their Depression. They are the immediate Guardians of the Company's Property on that Side of India; and it is by their Agency we must defend and support the general Rights of the Company, and the Honour of the British Nation, unhappily involved as they appear to be in the Consequences of their past Miscarriages. In an Emergency so critical and important, we have (as I conceive) but this Alternative; riages. In an Emergency to critical and important, we have (as I conceive) but this Alternative; Either to transfer the Power (if we can do it) into fitter Hands, or to render it as complete and as efficacious as it can be made in theirs. To mark our want of Confidence in them by any public Act, would weaken their's in us; to load them with harsh and unoperating Reproaches; would indifpose them to our Authority; at the same Time that it would absolve them from its Effect; and to bind their Deliberations by absolute and undiscretional Orders, might eventually disable them from availing themselves of any fortuitous Advantages which the Confusion of the Maratta Government is more likely to offer them than any Plan which we could prescribe to them, or which they could form on the Letter of our Instructions. In a Word, such a Conduct, by inflaming the Passions of Men whom we are not to regard as exempt from the common Infirmities of Humanity, would prove the furest Means of converting the Powers which were still left in their Hands into the Instruments of Opposition, and even of the Defeat of the very Measures which require their Agency, and cannot be accomplished without it: Let us rather excite them to exert themselves for the Retrieval of their past Missortunes, and arm them with Means adequate to that End; restricting their Powers where the Object is determinate, and permitting a more liberal Extension of them, in Cases which are too variable and uncertain for positive Injunctions. Their Admission of Colonel Goddard to a deliberative Seat at their Board, and the Request which they have made to us to allow of his being appointed to the chief Command, if it should be vacant, of their military Establishment, which would give him an effective Voice in their Select Committee, present to us an Occasion of their adopting the Principle which I have recommended, with the most ample Caution for the safe Application of it. I hope and persuade myself that we have all the same Opinion of Colonel Goddard's Merits: I for my own Part have a Pleasure, and will add a Pride, in declaring, that though I have often traced back his Conduct in my Reflections to the Period on which he first obtained the Command of the Expedition, I have not been able to detect one Error committed by him, or Advantage neglected, either in his military Conduct, or in the Line of his political Negociations. His Command has been alike distinguished by the Spirit of Enterprize and Activity, Qualities which he was universally acknowledged to possess, by Prudence and Circumspection, by a conciliatory Temper, a friendly Demeanour to the Inhabitants of the various Countries through which he had to pass, and a strict Attention to the good Order of the Troops under his Command, by a happy and ready Decision in the Choice of Expedients, and an implicit Obedience to the Orders under which he acted, of which the Proceedings of the Select Committee afford not the least remarkable Instances: By acquiescing in the Presidency of Bombay, and by blending the Powers already vested in him with those of the Select Committee, we shall add Vigour to their Resolutions, and a Security against their Effects, at least so far as our Confidence in him may be justly placed.

The following Draft of an Answer to the Presidency of Bombay has been formed on the Principles recorded in this Minute; and are submitted in the Form of a finished Letter rather for the Means of Dispatch, than in the Presumption of its proving exactly conformable to the Opinion of the Board, on every Subject which it contains, or which it may be judged advisable to comprize in it. I have not yet drawn up any Letter to Colonel Goddard, as that will depend on what is written to

To the President and Select Committee of Bombay.

We have received your Letter of the 4th of April, with its Enclosures, by the Hands of Mr.

We do not think it necessary to enter on the Review of your Proceedings, but shall confine our present Inquiries to the Choice of such Means as may best conduce to retrieve their unhappy Consequences; leaving the past to the Scrutiny of higher and more effectual Authority.

We must defire to decline the Reference which you have made to us, of the Charge preferred by your President against Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, as a Point on which we have no Jurisdiction, and which is cognizable only by your Authority, either with the Powers immediately vested in your Body by the Court of Directors, or through the regular Trial of a Court Martial.

Having already given full Powers to Colonel Goddard to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Government, and having no Cause to alter the Terms which we have prescribed in our Instructions for that Purpose; we have only to repeat, that we look to the Issue of the Control of the Cont our interactions for that I dispose, and the Termination of all our political Views on your Side of India, if it shall prove successful.

But if the Ministers shall reject the Proposals which we have ordered to be made to them, and shall reduce us to the Necessity of defending the Rights and Interests of the Company, by an open War, we cannot prescribe a better Plan of Operations than that which is laid down by your President in his Minute of the 30th March, which in such Case we authorize you to carry liberally into dent in his Minute of the 30th March, which in fuch Case we authorize you to carry morally into Execution; and even to qualify it by such Variations as shall not subvert the general Design of it, Execution; and even to qualify it by such Variations as shall not subvert the general Design of it, which we understand to be the Reduction of such Countries as lie along the Sea Coast, forming a which we understand to be the Reduction of such Continent, and defensible against the Incur-Line of Cavalry: And we further authorize and empower you, with the Reservation hereaftermentioned, to enter into any Treaty or other Engagement, with the Chief of the Guicawar Family or others, for the above Purpose, and on the Grounds described on the aforesaid Plan; observing the following Cautions, to which we require your strictest Attention: That your Engagements shall be offensive only for the Objects of your immediate Operations, and in all other Respects purely defensive: That your Engagements with the Guicawar Family shall be with the Head of it, and with him exclusively: That you shall not assume a Mediation between the Brothers, or take any Part whatever in their domestic Disputes, further than to support the Party in Alliance with the Company, and his Possessions against foreign Invasion; and that you do not commit the Dignity of the Company, or pledge the national Faith in formal Treaties with Persons of a Rank or Power unsuitable to such a Distinction.

We are sensible of the Attention which you have shewn to our Views with the Government of Berar, in joining the Overtures lately made to Moodajee Boosla by Colonel Goddard, and in your Resolution to avoid whatever might again interfere with this Negociation. We confess we at this Time entertain little Hope of his concurring with our Deligns: He will wait for Proofs of our Superiority before he will hazard the Confequences of a decided Connection with us; and every Offer made to him, while he is under the Influence of fuch a Policy, will but ferve to increase his Reserve, as he will naturally construe it to proceed from the Consciousness of our Inability to support ourselves without a foreign Assistance; and this is an additional Motive for our preferring a Scheme ourieives without a foreign Affitance; and this is an additional Motive for our preferring a Scheme of military Operations practicable by our own Force, and unincumbered with the Weight of a timid Ally. If, notwithstanding, Moodajee Boosla shall have answered the Letters which have been written to him by a Declaration of a Willingness to accept the proffered Alliance, we shall leave it to be concluded under the Instructions already given in charge to Colonel Goddard; if on the contrary, as we expect, he shall directly refuse, or hesitate, or make new References to us, we have in such as we expect, he shall directly refuse, or hesitate, or make new References to us, we have in such to him by the Government of Berar, nor then, unless it shall be strictly compatible with the Statuss to him by the Government of Berar, nor then, unless it shall be strictly compatible with the State of our other Connections then sublifting, and with your Participation, in the Manner which we shall prescribe hereafter.

Although we think ourselves strictly justifiable, in resuling to ratify even the smallest Tittle of the Treaty or Convention of Worgaun, yet, from a fair Review of your Proceedings, we are compelled to regard the separate Agreement made with Madajee Scindia in a very different Light: It was not a Concession extorted by the Maratta Government against its Conviction of legal Sufficiency in those who yielded it, but it was the Price at which they purchased the Safety of the Army; and was so absolutely their own spontaneous Act, that it appears, that the Ministers of Madajee Scindia were even corrupted to influence his Acceptance of it. It is true, they had no Authority to make such a Compromise, and we may therefore resulte to ratify it, in strict Conformity to the Letter of our own Law; but we doubt whether this will avail us in the Opinion of the World, or we can reconcile it to the Obligations of Justice and Hopping, which were thus placed for the Dataibusian of the made some Obligations of Justice and Honour, which were thus pledged for the Retribution of the most signal (though humiliating) Act of Kindness that a Nation could have received from the Bounty of an Individual. We must therefore declare, that unless Madajee Scindia shall have forfeited his Right by any subsequent Act, he is intitled to the Performance of this Engagement, and we ought to ra-

We hope he may be prevailed upon to depart from the Letter of this Stipulation, and to accept of what he may deem an Equivalent for it; and we authorize you to treat with him for fuch a Compromife, declaring on our Behalf, that we disavow the Authority of Mr. Carnac and Colonel Egerton, to execute the Engagement with him, which was executed by them; but that in Confideration of the figual Service afforded us by his Mediation and Influence at the Time in which it was made (and make, as we understand) the pledged Condition of that Service, we deem it in this Construction equal to a formal Obligation, and therefore empower you to treat with him for the Accomplishment of it, in such a Manner as shall prove satisfactory to him, and more consistent with our national Credit than the literal Performance of it; but if he shall insist on the literal Performance of it, and he shall not have forfeited his Right to it by the Renewal of Hostilities against us, or by any Breach of Government, if any such exists between us, we see no Alternative; it must be fulfilled.

Although the Conduct of Madajee Scindia may not seem to confirm your Opinion of his Disposition towards us, or rather of the political Necessity which seems to incline him to ensure our future Alliance, yet we think the Arguments which you have affigned for this Belief so well grounded, and it agrees so well with the Knowledge which we ourselves possess of his State Views and Ta-the the we entirely adopt it, nor do we find it difficult to reconcile the Demands made on us under his Influence by the Ministers, and immediately by him, for the Performance of the Conditions of the Convention of Worgawn with that Disposition, or with the obvious System of Policy which his present Interest demands.

We suppose it probable that he will avoid any direct Engagement with us, till the Urgency of his Affairs'shall require it, or until he can gain the Advantage of the Negociation, by waiting for the first Advances to be made on your Part. If from the Opportunities which you have of a nearer and more intimate Knowledge of his personal Character and Necessities, you shall judge this Conclusion to be well grounded, it will be advisable to treat him with the same temporising and indeterminate Conduct, and pursuing the Plan of Military Operations which we have recommended, to wait for the Offer of his Alliance rather than solicit it. Proposing this as a general Caution, we authorize you to enter into such Engagements with him as shall not be contrary to any before concluded, and which you shall judge most advisable; making your suture Security, Peace, and an adequate Revenue, your chief and indispensable Objects, and the Grounds of your Engagements with him.

To sum up what we have written; our first Desire is to obtain Peace on the Terms proposed by our Instructions to Colonel Goddard of the 15th April, and it is only in the Event of the Failure of this Design that we have formed the subsequent Instructions, or will allow of their Operation.

In these the Plan of Military Operations recommended by your President, is to have the sirst Place with its dependant Engagements with the Guicawars; the next in Order is the Negociation with Modeice Roose cand the last the proposed Engagement with Madaice Scindia.

with Moodajee Boosla; and the last, the proposed Engagement with Madajee Scindia.

The Execution of the projected Treaty of Peace with the Poona Ministry we leave to the sole Charge of Colonel Goddard, according to the Instructions which we have already given him.

The Negociation and Treaty of Alliance with Moodajee Boosla we also leave to the sole Management of Colonel Goddard, on the Authority of his Instructions of the 16th November, until the Period of their Suspension, by the Refusal or such Hesitation of Moodajee Boosla as he shall deem sufficient to warrant his declaring the Negociation suspended. But in the future Renewal of this Negociation, and in all other Negociations, Treaties, and Plans of Military Operations, it is our Wish so to blend the Powers of your Government with our own in the Direction of them, and in every formal or occasional Instrument which they may require for their Ratification, as to preserve the Credit and distinct Responsibility of both, and to make both the Pledges for the faithful Observance of them; for this Purpose we need not recommend that Colonel Goddard be consulted, when his Presence, or the Nature of the Subjects will admit of it, on all Measures which have a Relation to our present Instructions, as you have already been pleased to allow him a deliberative Voice in your Council, and we are happy to find that you are so well satisfied with his Conduct and his ready Disposition to assist in the Execution of your Designs, as to leave us little Occasion to lay down a clearer Line for the Employment of the Forces under his Command, than that which we have already described.

We have directed Colonel Goddard to execute whatever Service you shall think it proper to require, which shall not be contrary to our Instructions, or to any existing Engagements; a Caution which we hope will be unnecessary, but with which we do not consider ourselves at Liberty to dispense while the principal Responsibility ress with us; and we must require, that for the formal Representation of this Government in any Treaties or other Engagements which you shall form in virtue of these Instructions, Colonel Goddard do affix his Signature thereto, without which we shall not allow them to be complete or valid.

We very readily and cheerfully acquiesce in the Desire which you express to invest Colonel Goddard with the chief Command of your Military Establishment whenever that Office shall be vacant, reserving to ourselves the Right of recalling him to our Service in the Event of any Appointment from Home by which he may be superseded in the Command, and your Intentions in conferring it upon him be thereby deseated. As he will by such a Determination become a regular Member of your Government, according to the Institutions of the Company, and have an effective Voice in your Councils, we do not consider it necessary that he should, in that Capacity, be invested with a greater Authority than any other Member of your Select Committee; and we do therefore in such Case revoke the Powers which we have given him to that Effect, with this single Reservation, viz.

That although he will be bound by the Resolutions of the Majority of the Body of which he is Member, yet we require, that in order to preserve a formal Distinction of the Powers of this Government in the Instruments which appertain to his Ministerial Agency, he do affix his separate and formal Signature to it as the Representative of this Government.

Fig. Eyre Coote delivers in the following Minute:

Sir Eyre Coote—The President and Select Committee of Bombay having referred to us the Decision upon the Conduct of the Field Deputies and Commanding Officers of their Expedition to Poona, to place Ragonaut Row in the Regency of the Maratta State during the Minority of Madarow Narrain Peshwa, and to remove Nanna Furnese, upon Account of his apparently hostile Dispositions against Rep. VI.

APPENDIX, N° 196.

us in favour of the French, I shall, in as few Words as possible, give my Sentiments upon the Conduct of these Gentlemen, in as far as the Papers submitted to us can lead me to the Truth.

The Refolution of the 21ft of July was suspended for various Causes until the 12th October, when it was brought before the Select Committee by a Member, who was afterwards appointed President of the Committee of Field Deputies, urging its very material Necessity to the very Existence of the Company upon that Coast, adding "That the Government of Bengal had given them suspended them with the necessary Resources to do it with Vigour and "Effect." In this the Governor concurred, and the Measure was enacted by them, forming a Majority of the Select Committee; Mr. Draper differing. The Execution thus sell to the chief, not to say sole Management of the Proposer. It is to these Two Gentlemen therefore that we must look for the Degree of its Success, if it shall appear that their Powers were sufficient to bring it to the intended Issue; should these prove ample, the whole Weight of all the Consequences of a Failure must fall upon them. These Consequences were, the immediate Loss of the Benefits expected by a Completion of the Expedition, the Expence of the Men and Money in the Attempt, the Discredit of giving up our Ally, the Loss of that Ally, the Shame of an unwarrantable Retreat, the Blemish thrown upon our national Honour and military Reputation; not to mention the favourable Juncture this Missortune may afford to the French, who certainly have a very considerable Power at the Islands ready to make an Attempt upon our Possessions, which they otherwise would not think of doing with any Propriety, in the Situation that their Assairs are now reduced to in India. These Consequences are therefore of the most serious Nature. If these Gentlemen had Powers to pievent them, let Facts, taken from their own Desence, shew how far their Conduct was suitable to those Powers, and their Powers to the Object.

The Governor, by whose Vote the Measure was adopted, remained himself the Majority of the Select Committee at Bombay; the Committee for appealing to for Decision, for granting or revoking Powers, in short, for the grand Regulation of the Whole. The proposing Member appointed President of the Committee of Field Deputies, and possessing a double Voice, became Arbitor of the Measures that came within the Authority delegated to the Field Deputies. These Two Gentlemen who enacted the Measure, thus retained in their own Hands the compleat and sole Direction of the Whole in every Point, grand or minute. The President of the Select Committee at Home, the President of the Field Deputies Abroad; should the one want more Powers, or meet with any Difficulties whatever, he had but to appeal, and have; should the other perceive any Thing short of his Wishes, he had but to say, and it could be done.

It was impossible to be more powerful, but at the same Time impossible to undertake more Responsibility. They began by a clear, at least a dangerous Purchase of the Share of this Power, vested in the Field Deputies. The Measure for appointing Field Deputies, (for every other Name to that Committee must be a fictitious one) was in the most immediate Opposition to the Company's positive and repeated Orders: To elude which, the slimsey Pretence of a salse Name was adopted. They were to all Intents and Purposes a Committee of Field Deputies; an Office not only forbidden by those under whose immediate Orders the Scleet Committee were employed to act, but an Office immediately exploded and reprobated by all Governments as the most frustrating Clog that can be thrown upon any military Operation, a Restraint under which no Man that has any Jealousy for his own military Reputation, or any Regard for the Interests of his Employers, should or could act under; and of all Commissions that ever were issued, there never could be framed a more despotic one to those it was granted, and more injurious and humiliating to a Commanding Officer than the One in question. The Words are, "to conduct and concert all Operations, political and military, and Obedience required from all Officers and Servants." This was to glaring, that even Colonel Egerton, who made no Objections to the Establishment of Field Deputies, could not avoid opposing it, and protesting against its being issued in General Orders, as it would in fact annihilate his Command; further, he complained of this to the President at Bombay, who saw it so strongly, that he wrote to the Field President as follows: "Recommending to him upon whose "Conduct so much depended, to wave publishing it in General Orders, as the Promulgation of " fuch a Commission in the Army might bear the Appearance of setting up an Authority in the "very Camp to supersede that of the Commanding Officer; and also agreed in most of the Obiections that the Colonel made against the Instructions as well as the Commission, wherein he "had flated, that the Rights given by the Company to their Commanding Officers are infringed." The Governor added, that these Points must have escaped himself and the "Field President when "passing the Orders at the Select Committee." In the Answer that the Governor returns to the Colonel by the same Dispatch, he evades replying to his Complaints, of which Circumstance he acquainted the Field Prefident.

Here their Conduct stands in a striking Point of View; whether considered in its monstrous Partiality to One of Two Colleagues in a Committee; whether in not contributing to that Harmony which they confess needful, and had enacted in a separate Article of the Commission, for the Dispatch of the Business they were sent upon; whether in trampling upon the Rights annexed by their Superiors to particular Stations; or finally, whether in aiding to correct an Error laid before them, and acknowledged by themselves as an Act of Injustice, arisen from Omission or Ignorance, causing, as they are pleased to state, Dissentions in the Committee, to the Detriment and Delay of a public Transaction of the most weighty Nature. Thus confessing themselves the Authors, of Faults that they do not afterwards hesitate to charge others with, having the Power to correct it, seeing the Rise.

and Progress of the Error, and its bad Effect, yet evading to amend it. Nor simply this, for in a further Letter to the Field President, he expresses his great Satisfaction at his concurring in the Pro-further Letter to the Field Frendent, he exprehes his great Satisfaction at his concurring in the Propriety of supporting these acknowledged faulty Orders.

The Governor again writes to Colonel Egerton, "that if any Difference should arise between him and the Field Deputies, regarding his Military Rights, which he is sure can be but trisling, the Opinion of the Field Deputies must preponderate." Sure they can be but trisling, after having confessed that the Commission annihilate his Command, and the Opinions of the Field Deputies, consisting in fact of the President alone, to preponderate in a Decision upon their own Powers.

That same Dispatch he confirmed to the Field President his casting Vote and cluded filling up

That same Dispatch he confirmed to the Field President his casting Vote, and eluded filling up the Vacancy caused by Mr. Mostyn's Illness, "relying singly upon him;" who concurs in supporting the full Powers of the Commission and Instructions against every Attack or Objection that may be made against them.

Under these inordinate Powers, nothing being left to the Commanding Officer, except the Mode of pitching Tents and forming the Quarter Guards, shall the Committee of the Field Deputies be exonerated of the Blame of the Delays in performing a March of 24 Miles in 25 Days? They who had the concerting and conducting of all Military Operations, might have concerted and conducted a more rapid March, without ever having borne Military Commissions: They might have discovered that 19,000 Bullocks to 2,600 Men was somewhat disproportionate, possibly little tending to accelerate the Progress of so small a Force; which indeed could scarce be deemed an Escort to such an Equipage. They charge Colonel Egerton, and state, that an Attack upon the Enemy's Guns might have been of fingular Use; yet, as appears by the Diary, never ordered or recommended it; nor even, as they did upon other Occasions when they wished to save Appearances, induce the Governor to write a Letter recommending what they wanted the Commanding Officer to do.

Again, they complain of Apprehensions of Want of Provisions; but it does not appear they ever took active Steps to procure any, until they proposed the unfortunate Retreat; nor could it be, as Mr. Draper justly observes, want of Incentive that deserred their Activity, for they had been Witnesses to the Loss sustained by the Delays at the Presidency of Three friendly Chiefs, who during that Time were taken from their Party; and having declared that the Gain of Fisteen Days would have brought the Army without Opposition to Poona, yet had they not had Power sufficient to regulate and controll the Army; the Select Committee at Bombay might and ought, upon perceiving the unmilitary Delays in the Progress of the Troops, to have recalled or changed those who appeared blameable. But now we approach to the Essect of these extraordinary Field Deputy Powers, and the Use they were put to.

A Deputation of the Members of Administration come forth from their Seats in Government, with a declared Purpote of benefiting and gaining Credit and Territory to their Employers, vested with the highest, even unwarrantable, Powers to support these Purposes; at the Head of a British Army, the highest, even unwarrantable, Powers to support these Purposes; at the Head of a British Army, well appointed, having a Prince by the Hand to seat him in the Regency of the Empire, arrived within Fisteen Miles, One Day's March from the Capital he was to govern, where it was to be supposed were many Friends, who were only until their Arrival restrained from standing forth, nay some of whom, to the Amount of 4,000 Horse, had already come over to join their own Army in uncommonly elevated Spirits, as testified by all its Officers, having Eighteen Days Provision in Hand; the Enemy a depressed though numerous Rabble, the chief Leader among whom they knew was only keeping up the Mask of Enmity, for his Shot were ordered to be all thrown short, the Council of the Foe having the Day before sent Submission to Bombay, offering to pay the Charges of the War, and gratisy the protested Ally Charges of the War, and gratify the protected Ally.

In this Situation, how did they exert the Powers delegated to them for the Object in View?

A Retreat was ordered without confulting the Commanding Officer of the Army, Colonel Cockburn; who upon receiving the Order, together with Captain Hartly, represented how dangerous it would be to attempt a Retreat with Troops who had never been accustomed to it. And failing in that, Mr. Holmes, a Civilian, joined Messrs. Cockburn and Hartley, and proposed treating with the Marattas where they then were, as better Terms might be expected before the Enemy knew any thing of our Intention to retreat: But this met with the same Fate as a Proposal made the Day before; Ragonaut Row who folicited them to defer Submission for One Day, as he was treating with his Friends among the opposed Army, and might yet save all; but he was answered, that not an Hour could be granted him.

After all this, Mr. Cockburn's Opinion being then asked by the Field President, he answered, That he had not a Doubt of carrying the Army to Poona, if ordered; but the Resolution for the Retreat was not to be altered; fatal Infatuation! The next Day after the First Stage of the Retreat had been effected from Tellagoun to Worgaum, in Despite of a fruitless Attempt of them to prevent it, a Carte Blanche was sent to the Enemy, and they proceeded to give up, not only what was entrusted to their Management in the present Expedition, but they added all the Acquisitions made by the Bombay Presidency during the Reign of the present Peshwa, nay, they extend their Concessions to this Presidency, by ordering our Troops to return; again they enter into a private Treaty, of their own free Will and Accord, with one of the Enemy, making further Surrenders in Consideration of Benefits said to be received at his Hands in the good and savourable Terms of the General Treaty. In the General Treaty we acknowledge ourselves to be the Infringers of former Treaties, although the former treaties and the former treaties are the former treaties. although we set out in our Manisesto with declaring that we acted upon their Infringements, and in the private Treaty we acknowledge ourselves deseated, although no such Deseat existed. In Addition

PPENDIX. Nº 196.

Addition to this Reward for supposed Services, they submit to another humiliating Act that social the First: They, acting under a Commission in the King's Name, bribe the Chubdars, the menual Servants of the Enemy, with a Thousand Rupees, and others among them with 41,000 Rupees, to purchase what they thought their own Sasety; and finally, give Two Gentlemen as Hostages, for what they declare was out of their Power to perform. The Loss of Life or cruel Sufferings these Hostages may be reduced to, they must be answerable for.

Is there any Thing that we can do adequate to such a Case? The Eyes of the Nation are upon us: our Feelings for our Country's Honour will be the Measure of our own: Our Power extends to a Removal from their Stations; Removal from Station, setting Loss of Character out of the question, amounts only to a Cessation of Salary; and shall a mere Cessation of Salary be a Requital for the Facts here stated, if they should prove true? No, let the Acquittal or Punishment such an Investigation may bring on, become a national Object. I propose, that a public Trial be recommended Home; our Martial Law must decide upon the Merits or Demerits of the Two Commanders of the Army, or such other Officers whose Conduct upon this Expedition may require elucidating. nothing less than our national Tribunals can acquit or punish the Civil Gentlemen engaged in it, who, by the excessive Powers they took, preserved the whole Responsibility to themselves.

I wished to have ended here, but some further Circumstances remain unnoticed, not equally touch. ing our Country's Welfare, but Transactions among themselves closing the above Scene. When the Field Deputies returned to Bombay, the Field President commenced his separate Justification, by throwing the whole Blame of what had happened upon the bad Conduct of the Officers under them; by the Delays they had caused in the Progress of the Troops, by the improper Division of the Army at the Retreat, and by the Opinions given by them after the Retreat; referring at the same

To these Points I shall give but a few Words:

1st. The bad Conduct in Delays; it was in favour of the Field Deputies, as well as in the Select Committee at Bombay, to have corrected; therefore, if they were aware of the bad Effects of such Delays, having the Incentives they professed for Promptitude, they remain the more culpable for not altering it,

2d. Whatever the Division of the Army may have been on the 12th, it is clear that the First Stage of the Retreat ordered, was effected, notwithstanding the very early Attack of the Enemy; mor was the Loss great, considering the Number of the Foe, the Length of the Action, and the immediate Quantity of Baggage to be covered upon very unfavourable and broken Ground.

3d. The Opinions of the Officers upon the State that the fatal Retreat had reduced the Army to, from high Spirits to Dejection, if true, were justifiable; if false, the Field Deputies, being upon the Spot for better Information, should not have been guided by them; the Army was under the Command of the Field Deputies.

4th. As for the Defence the Minute of that Day affords, it appears to me to have quite a contrary It is afferted by Colonel Egerton to be an Afterwork; and the Language of the First Part is so different from the other Productions of that Period, that it might with some afford a presumptive Proof of the Truth of that Assertion, which in fact is not fully removed by the Evidence called to contradict it: However, letting this drop, for it is too trisling after what has preceded, I will only fay, that if they really thought, as they pretend, that by continuing the Retreat they might have regained Safety instead of Submission, they make themselves doubly criminal for acting against their better Knowledge, whilst under no Instuence but their own Will.

Mr. Mostyn's Death, and Ragoba's Duplicity, have also been mentioned as Causes for our Failure.

Could Mr. Mostyn's Death give Cause for a Retreat, declared to have been ordered upon a Report of a Commissary of Provisions? or could Ragoba's Duplicity make Eighteen Days Provision appear insufficient to perform One Day's March to Poona? No, say they, but this Duplicity (the bad Effects of which we must suppose were only discovered the Day of the Retreat) caused him to state more Friends than he had, and prevented his managing those he possessed to the best Advantage. Admitting it to be true that he had mismanaged his Friends, it should, when we were so far advanced, have produced an opposite Effect to that of ordering a Retreat; it ought to have stimulated us to redoubled Vigour; had we marched into, and possessed ourselves of the Capital, which the Commanding Officer declares might have been done, there cannot be a Doubt that the Chiefs who had engaged themselves to Mr. Mostyn, and many more, would have joined Ragoba's Party. All their Excuses are equally frivolous, for the Governor himself is obliged to condemn and lament the Retreat.

Had Ragoba's Friends been really so ill managed by him, as it is thrown out, the Ministerial Party forming the whole Strength of the Maratta Empire, would not have been so alarmed at the Appearance of 2600 Men, as to be induced to make the submissive Offers above-mentioned to the Governor. They must have feared a Junction, and that of a very large Division of their Party. Our Backwardness may have made our Friends suspend Action, but could not overset or alter the Principles or interested Views that first induced them to an Alliance with Ragoba. The Committee of Field Deputies when at Bombay, probably to support their own Conduct after what had passed, joined the Governor in a Measure (Captain Hartley's Promotion on the 1st February 1779) which might at any Time prove fatal to military Service, but more particularly at that Juncture, as it could not fail giving universal Discontent. It was a Measure that must make every Man who feels as a Boldier Sympathize with those unhappy Men of real military Merit, who have the Misfortune of serving under such Regulations.

I must look upon Colonel Goddard's Arrival at Bombay as a most fortunate Circumstance at this Juncture; his distinguished Merits as an Officer I need pass no Encomiums upon, as his Actions fufficiently declare them, and I think it absolutely necessary in the present districted Situation that the Military upon the Bombay Establishment are reduced to, that he should have the Rank given him of Brigadier General, in order to enable him to carry on the Service with more Weight and Dignity. It is not in the Power of the Governor General and Council, or the Presidency of Bombay, to appoint him Commander in Chief of the Forces there, or to give him an effective Voice in the Select Committee, as Colonel Egerton cannot be looked upon in any other Light than Commander in Chief (though prevented from acting as such) until the Sentence-of a Court Martial, or the Court of Directors, decide upon the Charges laid against him.

Under these Circumstances, I have only to recommend that the Government of Bombay shall give Colonel Goddard a deliberate Voice in their Committee, and consult him upon all military and political Points. And that we continue to him those Powers which he already possesses from this Government, and further invest him with such others as we may find necessary for carrying on our

We are further called upon to give a Decision on the Measures which the Governor and Select Committee of Bombay now think necessary to be pursued.

The Resolution of the 21st July is at an End, Ragonaut Row being no longer in dur Power.

Scindia holds off, and declines engaging with us, which is the more to be lamented, as his Endmity, which must now be deeply rooted in his Mind, is owing to the deceitful and unworthy Treatment he has received from us. The Services he has rendered us, and his strong Attachment to the English Interest, make it a national Consideration to fatisfy him by an Equivalent to the Benefit he might have expected from the Possession of Broach, which cannot be ceded to him upon the Chair of a Count that the Field Deputting many not important and the molecular to the the Claim of a Grant that the Field Deputies were not impowered to make.

Moodajee Boofla's Claim is held forth as proper, on account of "destroying the Bramin Ustr-pation," and restoring the original Ram Raja Government, which can only tend to unite, increase, and strengthen the Maratta State. This very Consideration, however it may weigh with the Bombay Council, would prevent me, if no better can be urged, from ever concurring in it.

Our real Interests are to keep theirs divided, always preventing over Growth of Power in any of their Parties; thus endeavouring to hold the Scale in our own Hands, we remain ourselves in a great Degree the Umpire. This is the freest Road to the Support of our Dignity and Profit, as well as the furest Means of retaining undisturbed what we now possess.

I therefore think, that at present we should not seek to renew a War, but negociate with the various Maratta Interests an honourable Peace, conformably to the Directions already given Colonel Goddard upon that Head. But if by refusing this they force us to continue Hostilities, I must in this Case suppose a Junction of all their Parties, and of course an Union of all their Forces; and I do not think with Colonel Goddard, that his Detachment, confidering the State it is now in, together with the Bombay Troops, are equal to ensure Success in a Contest with the united Maratta Powers; and I need not ask any Man who is versed in the Politics of this Country, what would be the Consequences of a Defeat. I do not doubt he must concur in my Opinion, that it would endanger the Whole of the Company's Possessions.

Colonel Goddard has lost near a Thousand of his original disciplined Men, and those he has recruited are raw, unformed, and in no Shape to be depended on. He has reported to the Select Committee at Bonnbay, "that One Half of his Sepoys have refused to receive their Pay for the Month of January; unless that for the Month of February is at the same Time discharged; and " he seems to think, that this has proceeded from a Disposition among the Men to return Home, if they could furnish themselves with Money enough to bear their Charges to their own Country; "However he was of Opinion, that he should be able to put a Stop to this Spirit on his Return to Camp." "But we (say the Select Committee) have every Reason to fear the Increase of it."

Whatever Sway Colonel Goddard may have over his Troops, there is no foreseeing how far such a Disaffection may carry them, not having a Body of Europeans with them to infuse a Spirit of

Our utmost Vigour should therefore be exerted to support our military Reputation in this Country, and by one united Effort, put a glorious and speedy End to the War: For however uncertain the Success of War may be, we ought to leave it as little to the Result of Chance as possible, considering the greatest Stake we have to risque; for which Reason we should also form Alliances with the Country Powers, especially with Hyder Ally, whose more particular Interest it is to join us in any hostile Attempts against the Maratta State; and if a War should be indispensably continued, I would leave it to the commanding Officer, who is responsible to us for his Conduct, to adopt Mr. Hornby's Plan, or not, as he may think most advisable for promoting the Distress of the Enemy. In so far I may agree in it, though not, as Mr. Hornby expresses it, for the Sake of Revenue; and as to the other similar Proposals of seeking War for Plunder, the Honour of the Nation and Company, inseparable from my own, will never permit me to subscribe to-Rep. VI. [C] Ther

PPENDIX, N° 196.

They call upon us for Thirty Lacks between this and October, to fave their Possessine we have Money or Credit here, I never will let any of the Company's Rossessions suffer for the Want of it; but the very Motive that will induce me to fend it, will prompt me to prevent its falling into Hands that Experience has proved will make so ill an Use of it: Therefore I will not consent to any Sum being fent, until I fee it accompanied by a proper Person, who shall be answerable to this Government that it be applied to the Purpose for which it may be granted.

As Commander in Chief of the Army, a Reference upon so military a Subject seemed to call for my particular Discretion: This, added to the great Variety of Matter it afforded, and its weighty Consequences, will, I hope, be sufficient Apology for the Length of this Minute.

Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis-I ought to apprize the Board, that in the following Minute I have not offered any Opinion on the Measures which may be proper for us to adopt hereafter, for effecting a folid Peace on the Malabar Coast, because I looked upon that Part of the general Subject as already provided for, at least disposed of for the present, by the Powers and Instructions which we have given to Colonel Goddard. My Resections reply only to the Facts already past, and which I understand to be referred generally to us for our Judgment upon them.

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute.

Mr. Francis-It is needless at this Time to enter into a Consideration of the Justice of our Quarrel with the Maratta Government, or of the Extent and Quality of the Powers under which the Presidency of Bombay have acted, in violating the Treaty of Poona. Those Questions have been sufficiently discussed in the Governor General's Minutes and mine, before Sir Eyre Coote's Ar-

The following Observations are confined to the Policy of the Measure within itself, and on its own Principles, and to the Propriety of the Means made use of to carry it into Execution.

1st, It appears by the Bombay Confultations of the 10th December 1777, and by their Letter to us of the 20th January 1778, that they were unanimously determined not to engage in any active Enterprize in favour of Ragoba, unless they were solicited thereto by Saccaram, Moraba, Buthaherba and Tookoojee Holcar, by a joint Application under their own Siccas and Hand Writing, and that this was a Condition fine qua non.

Yet on the 21st of July following they resolved to march to Poona with Ragoba, without having received any Application from the Persons above-mentioned, or entered into any specific Engagements whatsoever with any of the Maratta Chiefs. After the Expedition had failed, Mr. Hornby says, "It was evident, that there was not one Chief in the Empire who would draw a Sword for Ragoba."

It follows therefore, that in undertaking to act without having previously settled Terms of Cooperation with some of the Maratta Chiefs, they departed from their own fundamental Principles, and, as far as Success depended on such Co-operation, had no Right to expect it.

2d. It further appears, by their Proceedings of the 12th of October 1778, that when they took their Resolution in July, they reckoned upon the Hopes of Assistance from Moraba, Butcheba, and Tucoojee Holdcar, with 30,000 Horse, yet in October they determined to carry their Plan into Execution, when every Expectation of such Assistance must have failed them, considering that the Two First of the above Chiefs were under Restraint, and the latter greatly suspected.

3d. In July they appear to have relied on the Affistance of Colonel Leslie's Detachment, and to have confidered the fecuring a Junction with him as effential to the Success of their Plan; for which Purpose they then sent him Orders to march to Ziner; yet, on the 12th of October, while our Detachment was still in Bundelcund (the same Station which it occupied in July) that is at so great a Distance that a Junction could not possibly have been effected before February following, they determined to carry their Plan forthwith into Execution.

4th. With those Facts before me, I have a Right to conclude, that the Select Committee, in attempting to march to Poona, have acted in Opposition to their own professed Principles. I mean, that whereas at First, and up to the 12th of October, they appear to have thought certain Conditions necessary, as well to justify their engaging in the Measure in question, as to insure the Success of it, they at last plunged themselves into the Execution of that Plan when every one of these Conditions had failed them.

5th. Their Ignorance of the real State of the Poona Durbar, and of the respective Power and Influence of the Persons who composed it, is a remarkable Circumstance, and should serve as a suture Caution to the Company and to this Government, against trusting implicitly to any Intelligence we may receive from that Quarter. While the Plan was in Agitation, it fuited their Purpole to represent Nana as the most powerful, and, to us, the most formidable of all the Maratta Chiefs; that he was devoted to the French, and had engaged to put them into Possession of Choul. Whatever his Inclinations might be, of which we have no better Evidence than of the rest, it is clear that they were mistaken in their Opinion of his Power. Mr. Hornby, in his Minute of the agth of February, says, "The Lead that Scindia has taken in the Administration, and the Con"dition" is in to which he has reduced Nana, to be no more than a Creature of his, were never those " roughly known till the Facts discovered themselves on this Occasion; yet they are to be traced " in Mr. Mostyn's and Mr. Lewis's Advices ever fince the Resolution effected by Madjee Scindia's " Means in June last, when Nana fled to him." On which Mr. Draper observes, " That he can-"not enough lament that we have to lately become acquainted with Scindia's being the "principal Person in Power notwithstanding the Residence of Messis. Mostlyn and Lewis at "Poona."

In the Execution of the Measure, the Board I think will see such Errors at the Outset, as might have been alone sufficient to defeat it.

1st. The Appointment of Field Deputies, under the Title of a Committee for concerting and conducting all Military Operations. The Success of Military Enterprizes depends upon a Unity of Command, without which there can be neither Decision or Dispatch. Debate and Execution cannot move together; constant Experience has shewn the bad Effects of Field Deputations. The Company, in a former Instance, severely condemned the Appointment of some Gentlemen at Madras on a similar Service, and no one Argument is suggested to shew that such an Appointment was necessary on the present Occasion. If the Select Committee deemed their commanding Officer unequal to the Conduct of an Expedition of Threescore Miles, they ought not to have employed him. To place a Civil Authority over the immediate Execution of Military Operations might create many Mischiefs, and could correct none.

Mr. Hornby himself seems to have entertained the same Opinion of the Measure that I do. The Commission given to the Committee requires the Obedience of all the Company's Servants, Civil and Military; yet Mr. Hornby, in his Letter of the 23d of December to Mr. Carnac, fays, that "in his Opinion there can be no Necessity for publishing it, and that the Promulgation of fuch a Commission might bear the Appearance of setting up an Authority in the very Camp to supersede that of the commanding Officer, and give Ideas among the Troops, as well as to "Colonel Egerton, very different from those of the Select Committee. He confesses that the "Words to concert and conduct all Military Operations, are too comprehensive; that they escaped him at the Time the Commission passed, and he thinks must have escaped Mr. Carnac also."

Considering that the Body of the Commission itself does not exceed a few Lines, it seems extraordinary that the effential Part of it should pass unobserved by those who drew it up. But, when ther it escaped those Gentlemen or not, Colonel Egerton has sufficiently cleared himself from any Concern in the Measure; before he left Bombay he protested against being accompanied by Field Deputies; the Commission was framed after his Departure, and he protested against its being published in the Army as soon as he saw it.

ad. The immoderate Quantity of Baggage and Train of Cattle which attended the Army, and which is faid to have amounted to Nineteen thousand, seems to have been unnecessary for so short a March, and wholly inconsistent with the Plan of an Expedition which could only have.

succeeded by Rapidity and Surprize.

3d. The allowing Ragoba to move with a separate Camp, instead of keeping him constantly under the Eyes of the Commander in Chief, scems to me a capital Mistake. In consequence of it, the Motions of our Army were made to depend on those of Ragoba, who kept aloof when he thought fit, and was left at Liberty to negociate with the Enemy for himself, and in case of a Misfortune, to betray us to them.

For these Defects in the executive Part of the Plan, I deem the President and Select Committee entirely answerable.

In reviewing the Conduct of the Expedition,

1st. It appears to me, that on the Face of the Accounts transmitted to us, the only questionable Part of Colonel Egerton's Conduct, while he continued in the Command, is the slow March of the Army from Panwell to the other Side of the Gauts, by which much Time feems to have been loft; yet this makes no Part of the President's Charge against Colonel Egerton; and if it had, the Trial of it should have been immediately by a Court Martial at Bombay; nothing but an Examination of Evidence on the Spot could determine whether the Delay was unavoidable or not. It is strictly a Question of military Service, and subject to military Jurisdiction.

2d: Colonel Egerton refigned the Command on the 6th of January. From that Time he was no longer answerable, as commanding Officer, for any thing done in the Committee; the casting Voice rested all Power in Mr. Carnac. On the 1st of January Mr. Carnac speaks of him "as to-"tally overpowered by Fatigue, and utterly unable to move about." On the 5th of January Mr. Hornby, in a Letter to Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, says, "from the Accounts I receive of Colonel Egerton's Health, I find I must look even at present to you, to your Zeal for the Success of your Enterprize, and to your Activity, necessary to insure that Success for the Accomplishment of all our Hopes in our present Undertaking.

3d. On the 11th January, Mr. Carnac ordered the Army to fall back, when Colonel Cockburn declared he had no Doubt of carrying the Army to Poona. At that Time Mr. Carnac's Power was not questioned.

4th. On the 14th January Colonel Cockburn's Opinion was required by Mr. Carnac, who dilsented from it, yet gave no positive Order for the Retreat. With respect to Mr. Carnac's Powers, it is to be observed, that when they were first questioned by Colonel Egerton, on Occasion, Mostyn's Illness, a Decision in Support of them was given by the Select Committee at Bombay. Mr. Hornby, in his Letter to Mr. Carnac of the 27th of December, says, "the Decision alfeady fent concerning your casting Vote, can leave no further Doubt on that Subject. I think it much more for the Advantage of the Service to rely singly on you."

Mr. Carnac himself tells Tookajee, that he had the Company's Seal and full Powers. He gave full Powers to Mr. Holmes to settle Terms with Madajee Scindia; and he executed the Convention as an Act of the Committee; in which, whether Colonel Egerton concurred or not, Mr. Carnac's Voice alone was decisive.

With all these Circumstances in View, it remains to be determined, whether Mr. Carnac is warranted in affirming, that his Authority did not extend "to the giving an Order to the Army to "march at all Events." Be that as it may, it is certain he gave no Orders for the Retreat after the Engagement.

There could be no Disobedience of an Order which never was given. But if Mr. Carnac had even deemed his Authority competent to the Case, he could not have directed the Order to Colonel Egerton, who had refigned the Command Eight Days before, and whose continued Sickness made it impossible for him to resume it.

6th. It appears that Colonel Cockburn and Colonel Dagon were called upon for their Opinion respecting the Practicability of a Retreat; and that they agreed in their Opinion: Yet, that of Colonel Cockburn's is published alone, and Colonel Dagon's suppressed at Bombay, and withheld from the Governor General and Council. The Mystery of this Proceeding can only be cleared up by a public Trial on the Spot, when Colonel Dagon's Evidence may be called for

7th. The Deputation of Messrs. Farmer and Holmes to the Marattas, and the Convention, are Acts of the Committee; the Necessity of which it is possible, and I think only possible, might be supported by the actual Position and Circumstances of the Army, if we had the Means of examining viva voce Evidence to that Point. But it is impossible to reconcile those Acts to the Opinion of those who thought a Retreat practicable; and that it ought to be attempted.

Sth. On the Return of the Army to Bombay, the President exhibits a specific Charge jointly against Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, "for having refused to take Charge of specific the Army healt to Bombay."

The Computation the Army healt to Bombay. conducting the Army back to Bombay." These Terms express a direct Disobedience of Orders. Were such Orders given, to whom were they given? and by whom were they disobeyed? These are Questions of Fact which can only be decided by a Court Martial. To decide them in any other Manner would, in my Opinion, be equally irregular and unjust.

The Charge once exhibited, ought to have been followed by an immediate Arrest and Trial. In-stead of pursuing that obvious and regular Course, the President holds out a Menace to the Parties, that if they will not decline all military Duty, and submit their Cause to the Determination of the Governor General and Council, he will move to suspend them the Service; that is, unless Two Officers of the highest Rank in that Service, formally accused by himself of the highest military Offence, consent to wave the Right to a public Trial, he will punish them without one. Many painful Reflections occur on this Proceeding: We see a Charge preferred, and a Trial refused; we see Punishment ready to follow Accusation, without the intermediate Steps which Justice always takes on Enquiry and Proof: In short, we see the regular Trial evaded, and the Cause referred to a Tribunal which has no Jurisdiction over it; and which, if it were otherwise competent, could not try for want of the Examination of viva voce Evidence.

From such Appearances, what Conclusion can arise in the Minds of indifferent Men, but that Things have been done which would not bear the Public Eye, and that a Trial is refused in order to conceal them; that a Hope was entertained at Bombay of obtaining a Decision here, which might be guided by other Principles than those of Justice; and that the sole Object of the Reference to this Government, was to fave one Party by a Sacrifice of the other?

Whether Messrs. Egerton and Cockburn are guilty, or not, or in what Degree they are guilty, remains to be enquired; if under any Influence of Menace and Authority, they really and bona fide evaded their Claim to a Court Martial, they were very ill advised. Some Allowances, however, should be made for the Situation of Men so placed under the Weight of Power, and so treated as they were. At all Events they disavowed or retracted their Assent to the Reference long before it was made, and Time enough to revert to and claim their original Right, a public Trial: No Conditions, tending to deprive them of it, should ever have been proposed, much less should such Conditions have been extorted from them by Menaces.

> (Signed) P. Francis.

Mr. Francis-I now beg Leave to submit some Propositions purely to the Consideration of the Board, which I came prepared with, and which are conformable to the Sentiments expressed in the latter Part of my Minute. I mean, if the Board should approve of them, they should make Part of our Letter to Bombay.

1st. That we highly disapprove of the Reference made to us, to decide on the Conduct of Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, over whom we have no Jurisdiction and that if we

Oath, concerning many Facts necessary to establish the Truth of it, would be an immediate Bar to our Proceeding.

2d. That the former Charge exhibited by the Presidency against Messrs Egerton and Cockburn, for having refused to take Charge of conducting the Army back to Bombay," ought to have been followed by an immediate Arrest and Trial. It is a Question of Fact, which could only be determined on the Spot.

3d. That to prefer a Charge, and to refuse a Trial, is in our Judgment a Proceeding wholly inconsistent with Justice, and liable to many dangerous Consequences. A Precedent of this Nature if once permitted to pass without Condemnation, tends in the first Instance to leave the Character and Safety of Individuals at the Mercy of Men in Power, and ultimately to weaken the Hands of Government itself, by destroying that Considence which Individuals have been taught to repose in the Justice and good Faith of Government, and which alone can engage them to act with Spirit and Vigour in the public Service.

4th. That the Menace held out by the President to the Officers, against whom he himself had delivered a formal Charge of Disobedience of Orders, viz. "That if they would not decline all "military Duty, and submit their Cause to our Determination, he would move to suspend them the Service," is in our Opinion a high and arbitrary Proceeding, and calls for the most public and solemn Condemnation from this Board; that the Claim of Messes. Egerton and Cockburn to be tried by a Court Martial, was a Claim of Right, and accrued to them the Moment a specific Charge was exhibited against them; that any Attempts to induce Men under a public Charge to wave their Right to a public Trial, is equally inconsistent with the Justice and Dignity of Government; but that the Intention of passing by all Trial whatsoever, and of proceeding instantly from Accumation to Punishment, so plainly expressed in the Menace held out by the President, is in our Opinion highly criminal, and that as such, we shall think it our Duty to represent it to our Superiors.

5th. That, admitting that Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, whether surprized by the Menaces of the Piesident, or induced by any other Motive whatsoever, had at first submitted to the Conditions imposed on them, yet having disavowed or retracted such supposed Assent long before the Reference to this Board was actually made, the Advantage taken thereof was unjust in itself, and not to be reconciled to the fair and open Purposes of public Justice; that they were in full Time to revert to their original Right, and that their Claim to it ought not to have been

6th. That we are much concerned that so much Time should have been lost by a useless and dilatory Reference to us, of a Question which ought to have been tried upon the Spot, where all the Parties and Witnesses were present, and while the Recollection of every Particular was fresh in their Minds; that however the Right of Messes. Egerton and Cockburn to a Court Martial is not weakened by this Delay; and for this Reason, as well as because we think that many Circumstances relative to the late Transactions at Bombay, and necessary for the Company's Information, can only be brought to Light by a public Trial, we are of Opinion that a Court Martial should be immediately ordered for the Trial of Messes. Egerton and Cockburn, on the formal Charge preferred against them by the President.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 31st May 1779.

THE Governor General begs Leave to call the Attention of the Board to the following Paper, which is a Translation of one of the Inclosures of a Letter received, within these few Days; from Nana Furneese, and appears to have been delivered in the Form, and for the Purpose, of Credentials, on the Part of the Military Committee, or of Mr. Carnac, representing it on the Occasion of the Overture made for a Treaty of Peace when the Army lay at Wargaum. As no Mention is made of this Letter in their Diary, nor of any other of the Correspondence which passed between them and the Ministers at the Time in which the Negociation passed, nor of the Powers or Orders given either to Mr. Farmer or Mr. Holmes, the Board will probably deem it incumbent upon them to require Copies of such Instruments, and for that Purpose to demand them from Mr. Horsley; or in the Case of his not having it in his Power to supply them, that they be required from the President and Select Committee of Bombay, as essential to complete the Proceedings of the Military Committee.

REP. VI. [D]

APPENDIX, Nº 197.

Copy of a Letter from John Carnac, Esquire, Commander of the English Army, sent to the Presence, after which Peace was established, bearing Date the 24th of Zehidja 1192 Hegira, and sealed with the Company's Seal.

Having given me full and complete Powers from Bombay, they have fent me here: I have therefore many Things to treat with you privately about; if you fend me a Letter, I will dispatch a Gentieman to your Presence, who will represent every Matter to you, by which you will become acquainted therewith. What shall I write more, but to desire that you will preserve Friendship and Favour?

Agreed, To the Governor General's Proposition, and ordered accordingly.

Mr. Barwell-The long Detail of Facts which has been transmitted by the Presidency of Bombay, and which was so necessary for our Information, contains much Matter foreign to the proper Objects of our Discussion; for I regard not any Points referred to us as proper for Discussion, to which our Orders cannot reach; the Knowledge of them may indeed be effential for forming a just Judgment of the State of their Government, and in this Light, and in this alone, shall I consider all that is submitted to us, touching the Demerits of Individuals; these appertain exclusively to the Administration of the Governor and Council of Bombay, who certainly ought, whatever may be our Opinion, to act upon their own Powers: I shall therefore decline giving my Sentiments on any Matter that belongs properly to their interior Government, and confine myself simply to the important Subjects of Peace and War, which fall under our Cognizance.

1st. I think we should wait for the Effect of Colonel Goddard's Negociations for Peace.

2d. Should these Negociations fail, the next Consideration is, in what Manner to gain the greatest possible Advantages to the Company (rom a State of War?

3d. We should adopt Mr. Hornby's Plan of Military Operations, and on the Reluctancy of Moodajee Boosla, treat with Madajee Scindia, and direct Colonel Goddard to carry such Plan into Execution?

4th. Whether we shall give Colonel Goddard a Brevet of Brigadier General, a Rank that will enable him to command the Forces, even in case the Suspension of Colonels Egerton and Cockburn, should be remitted?

5th. Whether having disclaimed the Convention of Worgaun, we shall now gratuitously bestow on Madajee Scindia, Broach, or an Equivalent for Broach, as expressive of our Sense of his Friendship for the Services he rendered our Army in that Convention?

To the Second Quere, I am of Opinion, Colonel Goddard should act under his present Instructions, and a Latitude be given him to decline further Negociation with Mhadoojee Bouncello.

To the Third Quere, I am of Opinion we should adopt Mr. Hornby's Plan, and engage the Guicawar to take Part in a State of War; and that Colonel Goddard should be directed to give fuch Plan Effect.

To the Fourth Quere, I am of Opinion Colonel Goddard should be honoured with the Brevet of Brigadier General, as proposed by the Commander in Chief.

To the Fifth Quere, I am of Opinion, we ought to express our Sense of Madajee Scindia's Services, and gain him, if possible, to our Party.

Warren Hastings. P. Francis.

Bengal Secret Confultations, the 7th June 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Esquires. Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

To Wm Bruere, Esquire, Assistant Secretary, &c.

On the Diary of the Poona Committee under the 13th January, you will find that a Committee was then held to deliberate relative to Overtures to be made for the peaceable Return of the Army; and Two Letters are noted as having been fent, and one received, on the same Day (as I conclude) on this Subject, but no Copies are entered; if any were preserved, Mr. Farmer carried them away with him. On the 14th January Mr. Farmer was sent to the Maratta Durbar, and the Message with which he was charged appears on the Diary under that Date. An Account of his Negociation is contained in the Letters that passed between him and the Committee; and I know of no Letters, or Writing of any Sort, that have passed between the Committee and the Maratta Durbar, from the Time Mr. Farmer was fent until the Conclusion of the Convention. Mr. Holmes was deputed on the 15th to Madajee Scindia. The Resolution to send him, and the Powers given him, are comprized in a Minute of that Day. I have always understood, that Mr. Farmer and Mr. Holmes acted under these Minutes as their Instructions and Authority; nor have I Copies of either in any other

PPENDIX, Nº 197.

With regard to the Paper you have communicated to me, as Copy of a Letter from J. Carnac, Esquire, &c. I can only say, that as I am entirely unacquainted with the Degree of Importance or Authenticity allowed it by the Board, it is impossible for me to judge of the Necessity or Propriety of troubling them with any Remarks on it.

I am extremely unwilling to intrude unnecessarily on the Board, yet I hope they will pardon me, if, on a Subject so important as their present Proceedings are, to the Presidency of Bombay, I take the Liberty to represent through you, that, when the Select Committee requested, that I might be allowed to represent to the Honourable the Governor General and Council, such Particulars as may appear to me material to be attended to in their Deliberations, they did not expect I should be refused all Information till the Resolutions of the Board were taken, and all Deliberation at an End. I believe too a different Procedure was observed on a former Occasion. I do not ground any Claims on this, though I own it gave me Hopes, that with Talents far inferior to those of the Gentleman who last waited on this Government from Bombay, I should however have found my Advantages from the Candour of the Governor General and Council not less than his. I dare say the same is meant to be shewn me.

Calcutta, the 7th June 1779.

I am, &c. G. Horsley. (Signed)

Ordered, That the above Letter lie for Confideration.

Governor General-As Objections have been made to our entrusting the Sclect Committee at Bombay with any discretional Powers, and as it is my earnest Wish, that on a Subject of such Importance as the present State of Assairs at that Presidency, our Resolutions may be unanimous, I hope to qualify and accommodate the different Opinions which may have been formed on this Point, by an Expedient to be substituted in the Place of the last Clause of the Draft which I have offered to the Consideration of the Board.

It is only in the Case of War and Negociation that we have Authority to confer discretional Powers on the other Prefidencies. To deprive that of Bombay of all Share in the Conduct of Meafures which we cannot execute without their Affiftance, might check their Zeal, and thereby expose us to the Risque of additional Miscarriage and Disgrace.

On the other Hand it is afferted, that the Use which they have already made of the Powers which they have been allowed to exercise, hath destroyed their Claim to a Continuation of them, and would render us inexcusable if with such a Warning we admitted it.

The following appears to me the only Expedient for avoiding both Extremes, and reconciling those opposite Considerations; viz. "That all Negociations which have no Relation to the Objects of Colonel Goddard's Instructions of the 16th November and 5th April, be conducted and executed " by the Select Committee, but that no Treaty concluded by virtue of this Authority shall be " final, until it has been ratified by this Government."

This Limitation, while it precludes the evil Consequences incident to a full Latitude of Conduct, will still preserve to the Select Committee that Respect and Considence from the Native Governments of India, which are indiffenfable to the Exercise of the regular and constitutional Powers vested in them by the Company.

I cannot prescribe a better Line for the Direction of their Military Operations, than that which I have already recommended.

A negative Controul, limited to the Points in which they are already bound, either by our express Orders, or by the Obligations of public Faith, is all that can be allowed to our Officer, while he acts only in Aid of their Measures; nor can they complain of it as a severe or unreasonable Restriction, since it is in effect no more than a Security for their stricter Performance of what they ought to do without it.

Much depends upon our present Resolutions; much more upon their general Tendency than on the Rectitude or Wildom of the specific Points contained in them. In Effect, whatever Opinion we may entertain of the Integrity, Knowledge, or Ability of the Men who have the actual Charge of the Government of Bombay, it is on them that we must primarily depend for the Retrieval of the Losses which the Interests of the Company, and the National Honour, have suffered from the miferable Issue of the late ill-stated Enterprize. While we debate, even while the Materials which are to serve as the Grounds of our Deliberations are on their Passage to us, the Scene may be entirely shirted, and present a new Face of Assairs to the View of those to whom we prescribe in dark Conjectures Orders which they may be unable to execute, and which if too flrict may prevent them from availing themselves of the Advantages which Fortune may offer to them; or they may involve them in additional Difficulties instead of extricating them from the past.

ENDIX, N 197.

Their present State is such, that without a vigilant Attention to Circumstances and Events' as they arife, and a prompt Application of them to their own Occasions, it will not be possible for them to raise themselves above a Degree of languid and burthensome Security. I will not add what, in nov Opinion, they are capable of effecting by great Exertions, and a reasonable Latitude allowed them to act in, because it would be impossible to convey that Conviction to the Minds of others which I feel impressed on my own, without hazarding Conjectures on all the Variety of Combinations into which the State of Assars presented to us may be resolved, and displaying an oftentatious Scheme of Policy, which could yield no Advantage, and which it would therefore be imprudent to avow.

Put whetever may be within their Power sided with the Manne which we have affected at

But whatever may be within their Power, aided with the Means which we have afforced them, or may yet fupply, it is certain that we of ourselves can do nothing; and if, either from an unseasonable Refentment or Distrust, we wholly disable them from acting, or, which would in the Event prove the fame, allow them only to act and to think under an humiliating Contract, no good Confequences can refult from fuch a Policy; the worst may attend it, and we alone shall stand accountable for them.

I will not examine whether the Select Committee of Bombay have or have not the Power of beflowing the Chief Command of their Military Establishment on Colonel Goddard in the Case of a Vacancy, or of the Continuance of the Suspension of Colonel Egerton: They are the most competent Judges of the Powers of their own Constitution. I readily wave the Proposal of allowing the Admission of Colonel Goddard on their F.stablishment in Favour of that made by the Commander in Chief, to grant him a Brevet Commission of Brigadier General on our own, to which I give my hearty Affent, in the Persuasion that it would be attended with the same good Effect.

With the Proposal which is the Object of this Minute, I submit the following Alterations in the Draft which I have recommended of the Letter to the Select Committee of Bombay; viz. 6th Paragraph, the concluding Sentence, "nor to refume it, but on Advances made to him by the Government of Berar; nor then unless it shall be strictly compatible with the State of our other "Connections then substituting, and with your Participation in the Manner which we shall prescribe "hardfore" to be emission.

14th Paragraph. After the Word "fulpended," let the following be added: "The future Renewal of this Negociation we referve to be determined by our express Orders, but without re-"voking the Credentials and Instructions already granted to Colonel Goddard respecting it. In all other Negociations, Treaties, &c."

15th Paragraph. The Conclusion of this Paragraph beginning with the Words, "and we must require," to be omitted, and the following substituted in its stead:

"And for the same Reason we require, that all Treaties which shall be concluded by you in vir-" tue of these Instructions, be referred to this Government for its final Sanction and formal Ratifi-" cation of them; and that a Clause be inserted in every Treaty so concluded to that Esska." 16th Paragraph to be wholly omitted.

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute, and begs Leave to observe, that it refers to the Proceedings of the 24th ultimo, and not to the Governor General's Minute above recorded.

Mr. Francis—It is not possible that any Member of this Board can be more weary of Controversy than I am, or more desirous to avoid it. When the Board agreed to revert to the Treaty of Poona, we in effect endeavoured to reinstate ourselves in a Position from which we never should have departed. Without looking back to the Steps by which that Ground was loft, I willingly joined in the Attempt to recover it. I have no Doubt that Peace may be obtained on the Terms of Colonel Goddard's present Instructions, provided he enters heartily into our Views; provided this Government itself be in earnest in the Pursuit of its professed Object; and provided we do not suffer our felves to be entangled in the desperate Schemes of the Persons who now constitute the Government of Bombay, or thwarted by their Opposition. I deem the Re-establishment of Peace on the Malabar Coast to be essential, not merely to the Prosperity of the India Company, but to their Existence; the Sum total of the British Interest in India is involved in this Question. Let a War upon the Coast be conducted how it may, the Difference between Conquest and Descat, in my Judgment, is little more than the Delay or Acceleration of the Ruin of all our Resources; nor is it clear to my Apprehension, which of these Two Events will soonest produce the Essect I expect equally from both.

Taking the Truth of their own Representations for granted, it is not easy to describe a Situation more completely destitute of all the Means of supporting a War, than that of the Presidency of Bombay. The annexed Account shews, that during the last Five Years they have received little less than a Hundred and Sixteen Lacks of Current Rupees, directly out of the Revenues of Bengel, yet their bonded Debt accumulates daily, and now amounts to Thirty-eight Lacks.

By the Month of October Mr. Hornby fays their Finances will be utterly exhausted. In the Interval they will want a Supply of Thirty Lacks. Of this Sum the President proposes to borrow Twenty, but doubts the Possibility of raising so large a Sum; and if it could be borrowed, he says they have no Funds to pay even Interest.

Colonel Goddard, in his last Letter of the 25th of April, tells us, "that it is impossible in that Country, and he fears in its Neighbourhood, to find Men fit to recruit the Vacancies which have happened in his Battalions fince leaving the Jumna." But Mr. Homby himself tells us, and we have every Reason to believe it is true, that the Bengal Sepoys will not stay at so great a Distance from their native Country. He says, that "if they were to have no Cause of Dissatisfaction on account

ecount of their Pay, there is Reason to fear their Numbers will every Day diminish by their going Even before the late Rupture with the Marattas, and long before the Difaster which attended it, the Presidency of Bombay told us, in their Letter of the 7th December 1777, that "fince their late Acquisitions it was become very necessary, and they had accordingly recommended it to the Company, to augment the European Corps; that notwithstanding "they gave every Encouragement, it was very difficult to raise good Sepoys on that Coast, and that it would require so much Time to raise and discipline a further Number of Sepoys, so as in the " least Degree to be considered as effective Troops, that it would be much better in every Respect to " send them a Reinforcement of disciplined Sepoys, if Europeans could not be spared."

We should do well to consider how long we can maintain a War on such a Footing before we engage in it. I will not suppose the Case of new Miscarriages. Let it be admitted, that Success and Conquest are as certain as the most sanguine Expectation can imagine: It does not follow, that the Objects proposed to be obtained by them are such as we ought to aim at in our present Circumstances, or that Victory will pay its own Expences. By extending our territorial Possessions, we create irreconcileable Enmity in the Minds of those Powers whom we immediately rob of their Property. We fill every other Indian State with Jealousy and Alarm; and the Territory we acquire comes wasted and depopulated into our Hands. To defend a new Line of Frontier, new military Establishments must be formed; and those Establishments must not only be paid for out of the Revenues of Bennush be formed; gal, but the very Men who compose them, raised and recruited here to supply a Service, which we know they will take the sirst Opportunity of deserting.

Such, in my Conception, is the Situation in which a successful War against the Marattas alone will place us. But if our Success, or the apparent Prospect of it, should compel them to call in the French to their Assistance; if, rather than relinquish their Country to us, they should resolve to make it the Seat of War, let us consider in what Manner the Contest is then to be maintained, and to what Issue it may lead us. Nothing less than the extreme and instant Necessity of Self-preserva-tion can ever reduce the Marattas to so desperate a Resolution, as that of inviting a European Army into their Country; if once they are introduced, it may be a difficult Task to remove them: The Events of War in that Case may not be so clearly at our Command as they are thought to be at present; and let it be remembered, that on those Events, if they are forwarded by our Acts, we shall wanronly stake the Fate of our Empire.

The Question does not end here. In the present State of Things, much more than the immediate Interests of India may depend on the Care and Œconomy with which we conduct the Company's Assairs. A regular Return of Wealth from the Revenues of these Provinces is undoubtedly expected at Home. The Nation now perhaps looks to Bengal, as to its last and greatest external Resource: But, if this Demand upon us from Home were not so pressing, and so likely to increase, as I think it is, it is Time for us to consider, whether there be in Great Britain a fundamental Force equal to the Tenure of unbounded Acquisitions at this Distance from the Seat of Empire; or whether we are not arrived at a Point, at which common Prudence dictates to us to fix, once for all, the Limits of our Dominion: If my Judgment were to prevail, it should be our Object to contract them.

These general Considerations belong properly to the Opinion which I mean to give on the principal Questions before us, and will be found applicable to the Subject.

To avoid a useless Debate at the Board, I think the first Question should be put generally, and decided by a Majority of Votes, viz. "Whether we shall or shall not enter into a Discussion and Censure of the late Transactions at Bombay?" If it be determined in the Affirmative, the Communications are supported in the Affirmative and the supported in of the late Transactions at Bombay?" If it be determined in the Affirmative, the Commander in Chief's Minute and mine, will furnish what I deem sufficient Materials for that Part of our Letter. To these, however, the other Members of the Board may propose such Additions or Alterations as they think proper.

The Second Question, I should think, to be decided in the same Manner is, "Whether we should "declare our Opinion to the Presidency of Bombay, that Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel "Cockburn should be tried by a Court Martial, for the Reasons assigned in the Paragraphs which " I submitted to the Board on Monday last?"

The remaining Questions brought before us by the Governor General's Minute, require more Care and Deliberation than need be given to the Condemnation of any thing that is past.

I think we ought, in the first Place, to decide generally, Whether we shall or shall not send any new Instructions to Colonel Goddard, before we hear the Result of those we have already sent: My Opinion is, that we should wait for Advices from him, in Reply to our Letters of the 5th of

With respect to the proposed Instructions, I am against our engaging in, or giving our Sanction to the Plan of Military Operations proposed by Mr. Hornby.

First, for the Reason assigned by the Commander in Chief, in which I entirely concur, and which I beg Leave to recite in his own Words, viz. "As to the various Plans proposed of seeking War "for Plunder, the Honour of the Nation and the Company, inseparable from my own, will never permit me to subscribe to them." Secondly, because if I thought that a War on this or any other Plan, might at a future Day be unavoidable, still I would not, at the present Point of Time, hold out to the Presidency of Bombay, the most distant Idea of Encouragement and eventual Support in the Profecution of fuch Measures, being thoroughly convinced from my Knowledge and Experience of the Temper that predominates there, that it would furnish them with Means, of which [E] REP. VI.

N D I X. E

I fear they might avail themselves, to embarrass Colonel Goddard's Negociations with the Poonal Durbar, and to prevent a Peace. By plunging the Company into a War, it is possible that a Hoyle may be entertained of recovering personal Credit; that instant Dissipulties may withdraw the Company's Attention from Things already done; and that, in the Course of Events, new Questions may be lost the Confederation of former Miscarriages, and former Miscarriages, and former Miscarriages. arise in which the Consideration of former Miscarriages, and former Misconduct, may be lost. But these are Motives of Action which have no Relation to the Public Service; and which neither can nor ought to have any Influence over our Deliberations.

Thirdly, Because the Motive assigned for not censuring the late Transactions with the Severity they deserve, viz. "That it would be improper to add to the Depression of Men by whose Agency we must defend and support the Rights of the Company and the Honour of the British Nation," amounts to a Declaration or Admission, that the same Agency which has already produced so much Dishonour and Distress, must still be trusted and employed in the Direction and Conduct of the proposed Operations; but to this I can never assent. I see Wisdom, nor Firmness, nor Union in their Councils, and I have no Reason to believe that their Disposition is pacific.

Fourthly, Because I see no Ground for Apprehension that the Marattas will renew Hostilities with us, even for the Recovery of the Territory ceded to them by the Convention, provided we are content to stand upon the defensive. They have no general Principle of Union among themselves but that of Self-defence. Neither Party however can now act against the other with Effect before October; in that Interval a Peace may be obtained, if we on our Part are heartily in clined to it: At all Events we lose nothing by waiting for the Result of Colonel Goddard's Negociations. If, in Addition to his present Instructions, it be thought advisable to impower him to gain the Friendship of Madajee Scindia, by an equitable Compromise in lieu of the private Engagements already fettled with him, I shall readily agree to it, because I think that, with prudent Management, it may be the Means of forwarding a general Peace, without which I would not make any Concession.

I have heretofore stated my Reasons at large for objecting to the Alliance proposed to be accomplished with Moodajee Boosla by the Deputation of Mr. Elliot, and Colonel Goddard's subsequent The Plan having failed I should be forry to see it re-Appointment to the same Commission: fumed. I dread the Idea of invading our Government, which is now too great to act on any but simple Principles, in a Labyrinth of Asiatic Politics. Let us be contented with what we have; let us keep the Peace; let us leave our Neighbours to settle their Differences among themselves without our Interpolition; and I am thoroughly satisfied that no Indian Power will ever mo-

To these general Reasons I cannot add a stronger Argument than that which the Commander in Chief's Minute has furnished me. He observes that "Moodajee Boossa is proposed, because his Elevation will restore the old Maratta Government, and thereby strengthen, aggrandize, and unite the Maratta Empire, which very Reason seeming so strong with the Council of Bombay, if no better can be given, will prevent his ever concurring in it." Even the Governor General's Opinion comes strongly in Support of Sir Eyre Coote's Sentiments and mine on this Subject. Its thinks that "Moodajee Boosla will wait for Proofs of our Superiority before he will hazard the "Consequences of a decided Connection with us." When that Superiority is obtained, we shall consequence the superiority is obtained; we shall consequence the superiority is obtained. stand in no need of the Connection; and if our Scheme of Military Operations be not practicable by our own Force, I agree entirely with the Governor in thinking, that we shall gain nothing by incumbering ourselves with the Weight of a timid Ally.

Before we determine whether we shall send any farther Supply of Money to Bombay at this Time, and to what Amount, I defire that the Accountant General may lay before us an Account of the Sums already remitted to that Presidency for their exclusive Service since April 1778, distinguishing the annual from the extra Supply. Also a State of the Sums remitted to Colord Goddard, or drawn for by him fince he fucceeded to the Command of the Detachment. From these Accounts we may be able to judge how far we are bound to comply with any new Demands from Bombay; how long Colonel Goddard's present Funds will last, and at what Time it may be necessary to make him farther Remittances for the Pay of his Army. At present I will not confent to send a Rupee to Bombay for the Purpose of carrying on War, and making Conquests, nor will I consent to it at any Time, but under the Condition insisted on by the Commander in Chief, that Means are taken to prevent the Money falling into Hands which Experience has proved will make so ill Use of it. A considerable Part of the Money which we sent them last Year to defray their necessary Expences has been given to Ragoba and Scindia, nearly to the Amount of £. 50,000. The Truth is, they have dreamt too long of inexhausstelle Wealth from Bengal. under the Influence of this Dream they have embarked in Schemes of the most dangerous Nature, and wasted the Company's Property with unexampled Profusion: It is high Time that they should be awakened from ir.

PPENDIX. No 197.

Abstract Account of the Yearly Balance of Supplies made to the Presidency of Bombay, from the 30th April 1774, to the 1st May 1779; after deducting such Sums as have been during that Period brought to the Credit of the faid Presidency on Account of Cotton, &c. and including the Amount of Salt Petre, &c. from the Commercial Department up to the 1st May

Governor General-I am equally defirous with Mr. Francis to avoid Controversy. This Sentiment I not only profess, but I will evince it by refusing to bear a Part in it. This must serve for my Excuse, if any Excuse is necessary, for declining a Reply to Mr. Francis's Minute; at the same Time that I must declare my Disagreement not only with its general Tenor but with many Parts of it, which appear to me not so necessarily to arise out of the Subjects immediately before the Board as to be the Continuation of former Debates.

The Sentiments which have been expressed, by the several Members of this Board, have led us into a wide Field of Debate, from which it is officially incumbent upon me to endeavour to withdraw our Attention to such precise Points as may bring this Business to a Conclusion.

In my First Minute, I communicated all the Points of Consideration which were brought before us by the Dispatches lately received from Bombay; leaving it to the Choice of the Board which of these we should reject, and which we should select for the Subjects of our Instructions to the Presidency of Bombay and Colonel Goddard; and I concluded with the Proposal of a Drast of a Letter to be written to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, to which I have since made some very material Alterations.

I now beg Leave to call the Attention of the Board to the Motion which is thus regularly brought before them, and to request that they will be pleased to decide upon it. The Letter involves many distinct Questions, which may be determined by an Approbation, a Disapprobation, or an Amendment of each Paragraph, taken as a separate Question. Perhaps it may be deemed more expedient to the Dispatch of Business to propose distinct Questions, and from the Sense of the Board collected upon these, to form the Letter to Bombay, and such other Instructions as may depend upon them. I submit to this Mode, if the other Members of the Board shall prefer it.

Resolved, That the amended Draft of the Letter, proposed by the Governor General to be written to the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay, be entered in this Place; that a Copy thereof be delivered to each Member of the Board; and that their Opinions be collected upon every Paragraph in the Manner recommended in the preceding Minute.

To the President and Select Committee at Bombay.

Gentlemen, 1. We have received your Letter of the 4th of April, with its Enclosures, by the Hands of Mr. Horsely.

2. We do not think it necessary to enter on the Review of your Proceedings, but shall confine our present Enquiries to the Choice of such Means as may best conduce to retrieve their unhappy Consequences, leaving the past to the Scrutiny of a higher and more effectual Authority.

3. We must desire to decline the Reference which you have made to us, of the Charge preferred by your President against Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, as a Point on which we have no Jurisdiction, and which is cognizable only by your Authority; either with the Powers immediately vested in your Body by the Court of Directors, or through the regular Trial of a Court

4. Having already given full Powers to Colonel Goddard to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Government, and having no Cause to alter the Terms which we have prescribed in our Instructions for that Purpose, we have only to repeat, that we look to the Issue of that Commission as our primary Object, and the Termination of all our political Views on your Side of India, if it shall prove successful.

5. But if the Ministers shall reject the Proposals which we have ordered to be made to them, and shall reduce us to the Necessity of defending the Rights and Interests of the Company by an open

APPENDIK, INTIGÉ.

War, we cannot prescribe a better Plan of Operations than that which is laid down by your pre-fident in his Minute of the 30th of March, which in high Case we authorize you to carry him into Execution, and even to qualify it by such Variations as shall not subvert the general Defigu of it, which we understand to be the Reduction of such Countries as lie along the Sea Coast, forming a Line of Territory with our present Possessions on the Comment, and defensible against the Incursions of Cavalry. And we further authorize and impower you, with the Reservation here after mentioned, to enter into any Treaty, or other Engagements, with the Chief of the Guicawat Eamily, or others, for the above Purposes, and on the Grounds described in the aforesaid Plan. observing the following Cautions, to which we require your strictest Attention: That your Engagements shall be offensive only for the Objects of your immediate Operations, and in all other Respects purely defensive: That your Engagements with the Guicawar Family shall be space with the Head of it, and with him exclusively: That you shall not assume a Mediation between the Brothers, or take any Part whatever in their domestic Disputes, farther than to support the Party in Alliance with the Company, and his Possessional Earth, in formal Treaties with Possessional Earth, in formal Treaties with Possessional Earth, in formal Treaties with Possessional Earth. commit the Dignity of the Company, or pledge the national Faith, in formal Treaties with Perlois of a Rank or Power unsuitable to such a Distinction.

6. We are sensible of the Attention which you have shewn to our Views with the Government of Berar, in joining the Overtures lately made to Moodajee Boosla by Colonel Goddard, and in you Resolution to avoid whatever may again interfere with this Negociation. We confess we at this Time entertain little Hope of his concurring with our Designs; he will wait for Proofs of our Superiority before he will hazard the Consequences of a decided Connection with us; and every Offer made to him, while he is under the Influence of fuch a Policy, will but serve to increase his Reserve, as he will naturally construe it to proceed from the Consciousness of our Inability to support ourselves without a foreign Assistance; and this is an additional Motive for our preferring a Scheme of military Operations, practicable by our own Force, and unincumbered with the Weight of a timid Ally: If notwithstanding, Moodajee Boosla shall have answered the Letters which have been written to him, by a Declaration of a Willingness to accept of the prossered adliance, we shall leave it to be concluded under the Instructions already given in Charge to Colonel Goddard; if on the contrary, as we expect, he shall directly refuse, or hesitate, or make new References to us, we have in such Case directed Colonel Goddard to break off the Negociation.

7. Although we think ourselves strictly justifiable in refusing to ratify even the smallest Tittle of the Treaty or Convention of Worgaum, yet from a fair Review of your Proceedings, we are compelled to regard the separate Agreement made with Mahdajee Scindia in a very different Light: It was not a Concession extorted by the Maratta Government against its Conviction of legal Sussi. ciency in those who yielded it, but it was the Price at which they purchased the Safety of the Army; and was so absolutely their own spontaneous Act, that it appears that the Ministers of Mahdajee Scindia were even corrupted to influence his Acceptance of it. It is true, that they had no Authority to make fuch a Compromife, and we may therefore refuse to ratify it, in strict Conformity to the Letter of our own Law; but we doubt whether this will avail us in the Opinion of the World, or we can reconcile it to the Obligations of Justice and Honour, which were thus pledged for the Retribution of the most fignal (though humiliating) Act of Kindness that a Nation could have received from the Bounty of an Individual. We must therefore declare, that unless Mahdajee Scindia shall have forfeited his Right by any subsequent Act, he is entitled to the Performance of this Engagement, and we ought to ratify it.

8. We hope he may be prevailed upon to depart from the Letter of this Stipulation, and to accept of what he may deem an Equivalent for it; and we authorize you to treat with him for such a Compromise, declaring, on our Behalf, that we disavow the Authority of Mr. Carnac and Colonel Egerton to execute the Engagement with him, which was executed by them; but that in Consideration of the signal Service afforded us by his Mediation and Influence, at the Time in which it was made, and made (as we understood) the pledged Condition of that Service; we deem it in this Construction equal to a formal Obligation, and therefore impowered you to treat with him for the Accomplishment of it, in such a Manner as shall prove satisfactory to him, and more confistent with our national Credit than the literal Performance of it; but if he shall insist on the literal Performance of it, and he shall not have forfeited his Right to it by the Renewal of Hostilities against us, or by any Breach of Engagement, if any such exists between us, we see no Alternative;

9. Although the Conduct of Mahdajee Scindia may not feem to confirm your Opinion of his Dilpofition towards us, or rather of the political Necessity which seems to incline him to ensure our future Alliance, yet we think the Arguments which you have affigned for this Belief, so well grounded, and it agrees so well with the Knowledge which we ourselves possess of his State Views and Talents. that we entirely adopt it; nor do we find it difficult to reconcile the Demands made on us, under his Influence, by the Ministers, and immediately by him, for the Performance of the Conditions of the Convention of Worgaum, with that Disposition, or with the obvious System of Policy which has present Interest demands.

10. We suppose it probable, that he will avoid any direct Engagement with us till the Urgency of his Affairs shall require it, or until he can gain the Advantage of the Negociation, by waiting for the first Advances to be made on your Part. If from the Opportunities which you have of a nearer and more intimate Knowledge of his personal Character and Necessities, you shall judge this Constitution elassion to be well grounded, it will be advisable to treat him with the same temporizing and intermediate Conduct, and pursuing the Plan of Military Operations which we have recommended; to wait for the Offer of his Alliance rather than solicit it. Proposing this as a general Caution, we authorize you to enter into such Engagements with him as shall not be contrary to any before concluded, and which you shall judge most advisable; making your future Security, Peace, and an adequate Revenue, your chief and indispensable Objects, and the Grounds of your Engagement with him.

11. To sum up what we have written; Our sirst Desire is to obtain Peace, on the Terms propoled by our Instructions to Colonel Goddard, of the 5th of April, and it is only in the Event of the Failure of this Design, that we have formed the subsequent Instructions, or will allow of their Operation.

12. In these, the Plan of Military Operations recommended by your President; is to have the First Place, with its dependant Engagements with the Guicawars; the next in Order is the Negociation with Moodajee Boofla, and the last, the proposed Engagement with Mahdajee Scindia.

13. The Execution of the projected Treaty of Peace with the Poona Ministry we leave to the ible Charge of Colonel Goddard, according to the Instructions which we have already given him.

14. The Negociation and Treaty of Alliance with Moodajee Boofla we also leave to the sole Managenent of Colonel Goddard, on the Authority of his Instructions of the 16th of November, until the Peiod of their Suspension, by the Refusal, or such Hesitation of Moodajee Boosla as he shall deem ufficient to warrant his declaring the Negociation suspended. The suture Renewal of this Negociaion we referve to be determined by our express Orders, but without revoking the Credentials and nstructions already granted to Colonel Goddard respecting it; in all other Negociations, Treaties, and Plans, of Military Operations, it is our Wish so to blend the Powers of your Government with our own in the Direction of them, and in every formal or occasional Instrument which they may require for their Ratification, as to preserve the Credit and distinct Responsibility of both, and to make both the Pledges for the faithful Observance of them. For this Purpose we need not recommend that Colonel Goddard be consulted, when his Presence or the Nature of the Subjects will admit of it, on all Measures which have a Relation to our present Instructions, as you have already been pleased to allow him a deliberative Voice in your Councils; and we are happy to find that you are so well satisfied with his Conduct, and his ready Disposition to affift in the Execution of your Deligns, as to leave us little Occasion to lay down a clearer Line for the Employment of the Forces under his Command, than that which we have already described.

15. We have directed Colonel Goddard to execute whatever Service you shall think it proper to require, which shall not be contrary to our Instructions, or to any existing Engagements; a Caution which we hope will be unnecessary, but with which we do not consider ourselves at Liberty to dispense, while the principal Responsibility rests with us: And for the same Reason we require, that all Treaties which shall be concluded by you in virtue of these Instructions be referred to this Government for its final Sanction and formal Ratification of them, and that a Clause be inserted in every Treaty fo concluded to that Effect.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 10th June 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Edw Wheler, Esquires. Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

Sir Eyre Coote delivers in the following Opinion on the Governor General's amended Draft of the Letter proposed to be written to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, recorded in Consultation the 7th Instant.

Sir Eyre Coote.

Paragraph 1st. Agreed.

2d. Agreed.

3d. Agreed; provided the following Addition be made:

"To which we recommend their being immediately brought, not upon the limited Charge given in by the President, which solely points to one Part of their Conduct, but upon a general Charge for Misconduct upon an Expedition that has failed." REP. VI. The

P P E N D I X, N 197.

The Words "either with the Powers immediately vested in your Body by the Court of Di." rectors, or "I object to, knowing but of Two Powers over the Military vested in the Court of Di." vernment in India, Suspension and a Court Martial.

Paragraph 4th. Agreed. To this I object.

As a Military Man, I would not venture my Character in giving full Applause, or implicitly adopting Mr. Hornby's Plan of Operations, knowing so little of the Nature of that Service, when at this Distance.

If by refusing Peace they force us to continue Hostilities, I must in this Case suppose a Junction of all their Parties, and of course a Union of all their Forces. And I do not think with Colonel Goddard, that his Detachment, considering the State it is now in, together with the Bombay Troops, are equal to ensure Success in a Contest with the united Maratta Power. Our utmost Vigour should therefore be exerted to support our military Reputation in this Country, and by one united Effort put a glorious and speedy End to the War; for however uncertain the Success of War may be, we ought to leave it as little as possible to the Result of Chance, considering the great Stake we have to risque. For which Reason we should also form Alliances with the Country Powers, especially with Hyder Ally, whose more particular Interest it is to join us in any hostile Attempts against the Maratta State: And if a War should be indispensably continued, I would leave it to the Commanding Officer, who is responsible to us for his Conduct, to adopt any Part, or the Whole of Mr. Hornby's Plan, or not at all, as he may think most advisable for promoting the Distress of the Enemy.

It is impossible to prescribe (as is here proposed) any military Operations at this Distance, the Scene shifts while we debate upon it; what we now prescribe may be utterly impracticable when this Letter arrives: It must therefore be left to the Commanding Officer upon the Spot, who is bost qualified to avail himself of the Situations that Fortune may present to him. I therefore object to "prescribe this Plan to be carried literally into Execution."

Paragraph 6th. I have no Objection to, as it is only a Remark upon a former Measure.

Paragraph 7th. I can never agree to give up what the Grantors had no Power to bestow. Bengal may next be given away by the next unfortunate Bombay Detachment, as properly as Broach in this. The Question is not the Motive upon which it was ceded, but the Power: If the Want of Power is an Objection upon the Terms of the general Treaty, it must equally apply in the other. The Motive can only operate to induce us to grant some Equivalent in the one which there is no Opening for in the other; and in fo far to the 8th Paragraph I agree.

But in both these last Paragraphs, I object to the conferring the Management of one Part of the Treaty with the Marattas upon Colonel Goddard, and the other to the Select Committee at Bombay. They have finished their Part already, as we have too fatally experienced; what remains to be done belongs to this Government, of which Colonel Goddard is the Representative Plenipotentiary at Poona. If it is thought necessary, let his Powers be entirely revoked; but permitting others to infringe upon them, can never be good Policy, or promote Dispatch.

Paragraph 9th. This I agree to, provided the Negociation be conducted by the same Agent who is to treat with the Maratta State.

10th. "Pursuing the Plan of Military Operations which we have recommended," feems to me but a frustrating Concomitant with "waiting for the Offer of his Alliance." I doubt whether this would lead him to treat with, us.

Paragraph 11th. Most fully agreed in.

12th. To this I object, as I cannot admit Mr. Hornby's Plan to take place of that of the Commanding Officer; and secondly, an Alliance with Madajee Sondia should take place of that with Moodajee Boosla, because the latter seems to be given up. We bave but little Hopes, and he waits " till we prove our Superiority decidedly."

13th. I fully agree in.

14th. After acknowledging the Conduct of that same Government to have been of such a Nature, as to leave it to a higher Authority to punish, it would be utterly inconsistent to blend the Responsibility of the Acts of the Two Presidencies. To this I can never assent, as in the miserable Situation to which they have reduced themselves, I look upon the Responsibility of future Measures to lay folely with us, which the 15th Paragraph confirms.

Governor General—As the General has objected to the indefinite Term "Powers," in the Third Paragraph, I beg Leave to submit to his Approval the inserting of the Words "of Suspension" tollowing it; as this Correction will limit the Sense of the Board to the specific Powers possessed by

The General approves of the Correction.

Mr. Wheler-There are many Points in the Governor General's amended Propositions which I would affent to, and some of the Alterations made to those Propositions by the Commander in Chief coincide likewise with my own Ideas; but taking the Paragraphs separately, they still remain blended with a Variety of Proposals which I can never affent to. I shall quote only one Instance: The Commander in Chief's Amendment of the 3d Article still leaves it in the Power of the Governor and Council of Bombay, either to suspend Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, or to try them by a Court Martial. Was I to alter this Paragraph, I should urge the Necessity of a Court Martial, as the only Means of clearing up the Suspicions that at present hang over over thesh. For these Reasons, and because I have been favoured with the Sight of the Draft of a Sector prepared by Mr. Francis, which coincides more fully with my own Sentiments and the Principles on which I have acted, I must object to every Paragraph of the Letter now before the Board; except the Fourth and Thirteenth.

Mr. Francis—Having compared the Governor's amended Draft of the Letter to Bombay with the Minutes in which my Opinion on the different Points before us is recorded, I find it unnecessary to follow the Paragraphs in the Order proposed by the Resolution, since there are but Two in which I can entirely concur; I mean the Fourth and Thirteenth: Nor do I see how it is possible to give a partial Assent or Dissent to the Remainder. I therefore object to the Whole of the proposed Letter, except the Fourth and Thirteenth Paragraphs.

But that the Time and Attention of the Board may not be any longer wasted in Debates, which I think have no fixed Point of View, and lead to no Decision, and that I may not appear to condemn the Plan offered by the Governor, without stating what I would prefer in its Place, I beg Leave to propose another Draft of a Letter to Bombay, drawn up on those Principles on which I think the Commander in Chief's Sentiments and mine are agreed, and preserving the Two Paragraphs of the Governor's Draft in which I concur.

The Board will observe, that I recede wholly from the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of entering into a particular Discussional Control of the Idea of the Ide fion or Cenfure of the past Conduct of the Gentlemen of Bombay. In doing this, I mean to relieve the Board from a heavy Task, not essential to the public Service, and to preclude a Debate which if we were once to enter into, I fear would never end. So far forth I also meet the Opinion of the Governor General and Mr. Barwell.

Proposed Draft of a Letter to the President and Select Committee of Bombay.

1. We have received your Letter of the 4th April, with its Inclosures, by the Hands of Mr.

Horsely.

2. After peruling these Papers with the strictest and most deliberate Attention, we have determined not to enter into a particular Discussion or Censure of the Measures which have involved you in your present Distresses. You must answer to a higher and more effectual Authority than our's for the Difficulties to which you have reduced the Government entrusted to your Care, and for the unexampled Dishonour you have brought upon the Company's Arms. We leave your Conduct in the Course of these Transactions to be examined at Home, as we doubt not it will be, with the utmost Severity. If on our Side it had been possible for us to select any Part of your Proceedings, either in the Plan or Execution of your Measures, on which we could have bestowed our Approbation, we should readily have done it.

3. Having already given full Powers to Colonel Goddard to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Government, and having no Cause to alter the Terms which we have prescribed in our Instructions for that Purpose, we have only to repeat, that we look to the Issue of that Commission as our primary Object, and the Termination of all our political Views on your Side of India, if it shall prove successful.

4. The Execution of the projected Treaty of Peace with the Poona Ministry we leave to the fole Charge of Colonel Goddard, according to the Instructions which we have already given him.

5. Until we shall be advised by Colonel Goddard of the Result of his Negociations in consequence of his present Orders, we do not think it advisable to bind ourselves, even by a conditional Determination, to profecute the War on the Plan proposed by Mr. Hornty, or on any other. Supposing that our Views and Wishes, which are all directed to an honourable Peace, should be defeated, it is not from a partial Effort on your Side of India alone, that we can form any reafonable Expectation of a decifive Success against the united Power of the Marattas; for in the case of War we must suppose their Strength to be united against us. We will not therefore precipitate a Resolution in the Consequences of which all India may be involved. We shall wait for Advices from Colonel Goddard, and be determined by the Lights and Information with which he may furnish us.

6. Having thus dismissed the Consideration of what is past, and deferred our Decision on suture Measures, we come now to the only Point in your Dispatches on which we cannot decline giving you a precise and formal Opinion.

We disapprove and cannot admit of the Reference &cc. &cc. (in the Yerms of Mr. Francis's Propositions mutatis mutandis, with the following Addition at the Conclusion) "or on such other Charges as the President and Select Committee may think fit to prefer against them for their Conduct in the Course of the Expedition."

With regard to the Form and Extent of the Charge against Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, I have no Objection to the Terms recommended by the Commander in Chief.

Mr. Barwell—The Resolution of the 7th Instant precludes the Consideration of the Propositions made by Mr. Francis until the Subject of that Resolution is dismissed. I shall therefore, agreeably to the Resolution, proceed directly to give my Opinion upon each Paragraph of the Letter proposed by the Governor General to be written to the President and Select Communication Bombay.

I approve of the First and Second Paragraphs.

I approve of the Third, and adopt the General's Amendment and proposed Addition.

I approve of the Fourth Paragraph in the Words of it.

I approve of the Points in general proposed to be effected by the Instructions contained in the Fifth Paragraph, concurring with the Commander in Chief in his Proposition expressed as follows: "And if a War should be indispensably continued, I would leave it to the commanding Officer, who is responsible to us for his Conduct, to adopt any Part or the Whole of Mr. Hornby's Plan, or not at all, as he may think most advisable for promoting the Distress of the Enemy." And I agree with the Commander in Chief, for the Reasons he has assigned, that we ought not to prescribe this Plan to be carried literally into Execution, but to leave a Latitude of Action to Colonel Goddard to avail himself of the Situations which Fortune may present to him.

I acquiesce in the Sixth Paragraph.

The Seventh Paragraph appearing liable to the Construction of allowing Force to one Part of the Convention of Worgaum and denying it to another, is objectionable. I should not have proposed an Amendment, but as it has struck a Member of the Council in this Light, and as I conceive it to be meant, as it has already been declared by this Government, to disclaim entirely and completely the Acts of the Military Committee at Worgaum, I would recommend that it be so done in express Terms.

With respect to the 8th Paragraph, I concur with the Commander in Chief, that to render the Ne. gociation entrusted to Colonel Goddard complete, it will be proper to include in the Commission he holds from this Government every Point that shall become an Object of Negociation between this Government and the Maratta State, touching the unauthorized Acts of the Bombay Committee at Worgaum; and I therefore propose with the Commander in Chief, that Colonel Goddard be instructed to express the Sense in which this Government is pleased to regard the Services of Madajce Scindia at Worgaum, by offering him such a Gratification as may be afforded him by the Bombay Government, or for Means which he may possess from the Operations of War, in case Peace is not concluded upon the Instructions he is already furnished with. These Orders to Colonel Goddard will properly come in the Place of the Instructions of the Eighth Paragraph to the Bombay Prefi. dency, as necessary Information.
I agree to the Ninth Paragraph.

I acquiesce in the Proposition of making Colonel Goddard the Channel of any Negociation with Madajee Scindia in the present Conjuncture of Assairs. I would recommend that the Tenth Paragraph be wholly omitted as uneffential.

I agree to the Eleventh, and I agree to the Twelfth and Thirteenth Paragraphs.

I likewise agree entirely to the Fourteenth.

I agree entirely to the Fifteenth.
Governor General-Whatever Resolutions may be passed upon the various Matters which the Dispatches received some Time since from Bombay have brought before the Notice of the Board, I most earnestly recommend and entreat that they will instantly decide upon one, on the proper Application of which the Prosperity of the Company certainly does, and their very Existence may depend. The Instructions sent to Colonel Goddard prescribe certain clear and simple Conditions as the Alternative of Peace or War: There is no Latitude for a long Negociation; Colonel Goddard is to offer Peace to the Maratta Government, on its Agreement to revert to the State in which we relatively stood by the Treaty of Proonder; to renounce its Claims for the Convention of Worgaum, and to exclude the French for ever from its Dominions. If they accept of these Term, there is Peace; if they refuse (and they must either accept or refuse) War.

Let us suppose either of these Events to have taken place, and to consider in what State they will place us. If Peace is concluded, the Object of our Negociation is obtained, and we have nothing left to look for but the quiet Arrangement of our Affairs in their former Channel, to which they will revert of course without our Interference, and the Return of Colonel Goddard's Detachment, or such a Provision made for its Services as may suit a State of Peace, and the necessary Defence of the Company's Interests against any probable or expected Attempts of the French. These are Points which do not press for immediate Decision or Deliberation, because our Resolutions upon them, whatever they were, could not be carried into Effect before many Months were elapsed.

But the Case is widely different if War be the Result of our Offers to the Maratta State: In such a Case, our Sasety may depend on instant Action, and their's on Delay: Our Troops may act immediately, their's must wait for their accustomed Season, which never commences till the Expiration of the Duserra, or the End of September; and an Advantage may be successfully, and if I may be allowed to trust to my own Judgment, I will say, easily taken of the preceding Interval, to occupy such Posts, or to seize such Parts of their Territory as may bring great Distress upon them before they are in a Capacity to relift; and give us Strength and the Means of profecuting the War, when both Parties shall be engaged in it, proportionate to their Loss of both.

I have certain Intelligence, or such as I deem certain, that Madajee Scindia is no longer in the Neighbourhood of the Capital, where it was supposed he would be compelled to remain for the Support of his Influence, but was some Time since arrived with his Colleague Tuccojee Holcar, and Ragonaut Row, at Berhampore, on his Way to the Eastern Frontier of the Maratta

PPENDIX, Nº 197.

Dominions; and it is the current and general Report, that it is his Intention to invade the Dominions et andly, the Nabob of Owde, after the Expiration of the Rains. Whether this Report be derived from any Ground of Authority, or held out for Intimidation, or it be only the Part of a Plan depending on a Series of Contingencies, or arife from mere Conjecture; it is a Conclusion which we ought to credit, fo far at least, as to be upon our Guard against it, and even to prevent it.

For these Reasons, I am wholly against the Draft proposed by Mr. Francis, because in the Event of a decided War, it will bind our own Hands while those of our Enemies are free; and it will leave the Presidency of Bombay encumbered, and oppressed with the Weight of that very Force on which we depend for its Preservation.

I will never suffer the Object to be lost, for which the Detachment now commanded by Colonel Goddard was first appointed. It was not to assist the Designs of the Presidency of Bombay in their Execution, but to support them in the Consequences of it. Though the Detachment was for a while diverted from its Destination, on the Supposition that the Designs of that Presidency had either wholly failed, or was relinquished, yet it has fince reverted to it, and is now precisely in the Situation in which it was originally meant to place it. I will not fay what might have been the Fate of Bombay, had not Colonel Goddard most feasonably arrived for its Relief.

The Question is now, Whether it shall answer the Purposes of its Destination? or whether, after so successful a Termination of an Enterprize pronounced impracticable, it shall be wholly precluded from answering the Ends of its Appointment, and be converted to the Means of completing the Ruin of the Company's Interests, which it was provided, and is ready to retrieve? If Peace has attended the Negociation intrusted to Colonel Goddard, these Ends are attained, at least in as great a Degree as we are warranted to profecute them: If the contrary, let it be employed to promote them. It will be but an ill Excuse for our Forbearance, that we waited for regular and official Information, if in the Interval in which our Troops might enable them to avert the Dangers attendant on an actual State of War, or to begin it with Advantage, any fatal Miscarriage should befal them, and through the Want of Authority to act. Hitherto the Instructions given to Colonel Goddard, and the Letter which accompanied these to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, preclude the Dangers of which I have expressed Apprehension, since those Instructions and Advices clearly prescribe the which I have exprehed Apprenention, lince those Instructions and Advices clearly prescribe the Circumstances which are to place them in a decided State of Peace or War; and authorize them of course to act conformably to either State. The Arguments which I have used do not therefore arise from any Necessity of giving them new Instructions, or supplying the Defect of those which we have already given them: What I have said applies folely to the Proposal made by a Member of the Board, "to wait for Advices from Colonel Goddard, and to be determined by the "Lights and Informations with which he may furnish us," even in the supposed Refusal of the Maratta Ministry to accept of our Offers of Peace; or in other Words, "to refrain from committing "Hossilities, while we are threatened with them and War is actually denounced against us." Hostilities, while we are threatened with them and War is actually denounced against us.'

The other Propositions contained in Mr. Francis's Draft, do not appear to me to be regularly before the Board, and the Day is too far advanced to enter on new Subjects of Debate.

I now proceed to the Questions which are before the Board.

To the First and Second Paragraphs of the proposed Draft, I agree; and to the Third I agree, with the Amendment and Addition proposed by the Commander in Chief.

To the Fourth I agree.

To the Fifth Paragraph I agree, with the Amendment proposed by the Commander in Chief.

To the Sixth I agree.

On the Seventh and Eighth, I can never depart from the Opinions which I have expressed in these Paragraphs; but I shall not oppose the Sentiments of the other Members which tend to the same Conclusion as my own, though differing in their Principles.

I abide by the Ninth Paragraph as it stands; and I agree to the Tenth and Eleventh.

The Twelfth is of no Consequence, and may be omitted.

To the remaining Paragraphs I agree.

Sir Eyre Coote delivers in the following Minute.

Sir Eyre Coote-Under the fullest Conviction of the just Praise given to Colonel Goddard, I beg Leave to propose, and hope it will meet with the Concurrence of this Board, that we join with the Government at Bombay in recommending him to the Court of Directors, for the Appointment of Commander in Chief at that Presidency upon the sirst Vacancy.

And in the intermediate Time, "I think it absolutely necessary, in the present distressed Situation that the Military upon the Bombay Establishment are reduced to, that he should have the "Rank given him of Brigadier General, in order to enable him to carry on the Public Service "with more Weight and Dignity;" and therefore propose that a Brevet Commission of Brigadier General for that Service be now granted him.

> (Signed) Eyre Coote.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 197.

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute:

Mr. Francis—I have Objection to our recommending Colonel Goddard's Conduct to the Attention of the Court of Directors; but I would leave it to them to determine what Reward he may deferve. In particular, I would not point out the Succession to the Command at Bombay; because I think it would look like pre-judging the Event of Colonel Egerton's Trial, supposing he should be brought to a Trial in consequence of our recommending it, of which I have some Doubt.

The Board have already given Colonel Goddard the Rank of Colonel on the other Side of India; and I do not think that the Occasion calls for our investing him at present with a higher Rank: Supposing he should return to Bengal, the Rank of Brigadier General, if he once holds it, will not be not think that the Occasion calls for our investing him at present with a higher Rank: Supposing he should return to Bengal, the Rank of Brigadier General, if he once holds it, will not be not be a straightful to a straightful cannot see the supposition of the the supposition permit him to act again in that which belongs to him on this Establishment; and I cannot consent to superfiede Officers superior to him, merely because they have not had the good Fortune to be employed as he has been.

Exclusive of these Considerations, I doubt whether we have a Right to bestow the Rank in question. There is no Instance within my Knowledge of such a Rank given in India. The Court of Directors, as I have always understood, have reierved to themselves the Power of appointing Ge. neral Officers in their Service.

(Signed)

P. Francis.

I agree, and subscribe to the above Opinion.

(Signed)

L. Wheler.

Governor General-I heartily concur in both the Propositions.

Mr. Barwell-I approve of both the Propositions.

Resolved, That a Brevet Commission of Brigadier General be granted to Colonel Goddard for the Service on which he is now employed; which Commission shall cease on his Return, or on the Return of the Troops under his Command, to either of the Provinces dependant on this Government or the Government of Owde.

Ordered, That the Secretary prepare a Letter to the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay, conformably to the foregoing Minutes.

Warren Hastings, Edw Wheler.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 14th June 1779.

PRESENT,

Warren Hatting Richard Barwell, Esquires, The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

The Secretary begs Leave to lay before the Board the Draft of a Letter to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, drawn up from the Minutes of the 10th Instant.

Question put.

Is the Letter approved?

Sir Eyre Coote—I approve it.

Mr. Wheler—I do not approve of the Letter.

Mr. Francis—I do not approve of it.

Mr. Barwell—Any particular Approbation of this Letter on my Part is totally unnecessary. I am bound by the Sense of the Majority to approve it. I think the Question irregular, because it brings in a new Mode on Points already determined, to a Second Decision. I must therefore take the Question to be, Whether the Letter conforms to the Resolutions of last Council Day? I think Governor General—I approve.

Refolved, That the above Draft of the Letter to the President and Select Committee at Boms bay be immediately copied fair, and transmitted to that Presidency.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 14th June 1779.

MR. Francis delivers in the following Minute:

I diffent from and protest against the preceding Letter, for the following Reasons, in Addition to those on which I opposed the Measures now adopted at the Time they were debated ist. Because I deem it unbecoming the Dignity of the Governor General and Council, and a most unmerited Demonstration of Tenderness and Partiality to the Majority of the Scleet Committee of Bombay, with such Evidence of their Misconduct as we have before us, to pass by the Whole of their late Proceedings without the smallest Expression of Disapprobation or Concern; as if nothing were in que stion, but some common and trissing Occurrence, by which neither the Interests of the Company, nor the Credit of our Arms had been essentially wounded. When the separate Opinions of the Members of this Board shall appear before our Superiors, I doubt not they will think it an extraordinary Circumstance, that no Part of the Spirit which breathes through those Opinions should be preserved in the collective Act of the Council:

2d. Because, considering the Claim of Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, to be tried by a Court Martial, as a Claim of Right, I think we should not have confined our Interposition on this Point to a cold and languid Recommendation of fuch Trial; but should have insisted upon its being granted in Terms that could admit of no Evalion; much less should we have weakened even that Recommendation, by referring to an Alternative, of which the Select Committee may now avail themselves, under Colour of our Authority. This, I conceive, is no Time to remind them, that they have other Powers vested in them; that they are at Liberty to wave all Trial, if they think proper, and to punish the Parties by an immediate and direct Act of Power

3d. Because, admitting it to be true, that Messrs. Egerton and Cockburn consented at first to relinquish their Claim to a public Trial, and that they had no Right to retract such Consent once given; still I think we should not have passed over in Silence the unwarrantable Acts and Declarations of the President, by which it was extorted from them. They who think least favourably of the Conduct of these Gentlemen, should consider how far the Precedent may be extended, and what Security it leaves to the Military Service in general against the arbitrary Acts of a Party, occasionally prevailing in the

4. Because the several Plans of Alliance or Co-operation, proposed to be executed with the Guicawars, or with Madajce Scindia, or with Moodajee Boofla, must be offered and negociated after we ourselves are actually committed by a Declaration of War, and engaged in the Profecution of it. In such Circumstances I conceive we shall treat with all or any of the abovementioned Chiefs for their Affistance, under great Disadvantage. When once they see us engaged in a War, which at all Events we must carry on, they will either stand aloof until they see the Success of our Operations, or sell us their Assistance on Terms which we should not yield in any other Situation:

5th. Because no Consideration whatsoever is given to the Case of the Two Gentlemen, who remain as Hostages in the Hands of the Marattas, and whose Lives may be hazarded by an abrupt Declaration of War:

6th. Because, exclusive of all other Reasons already urged against our precipitating the Company into a War with the Marattas, if that Extremity can be avoided by any honourable Means, I deem it inconsistent with the Principle of Colonel Goddard's Instructions of the 5th of April (in which the Re-establishment of Peace is professed to be our Object) to send him Orders, which leave no Room for Accommodation, and which ought to have accompanied the Instruction, if the Board had originally been determined not to wait for the Refult of his Negociations, nor even for an Answer to our Letter. I deem it useless, even in View to a Prosecution of the War, since in all Probability the Advices we expect from Colonel Goddard may arrive in Fifteen or Twenty Days; and though a Rupture in that Interval may be forwarded, and all Means of Reconciliation pre-cluded, in confequence of the present Orders, our Troops cannot take the Pield before September. No possible Advantage can therefore be gained by this Precipitation, unless it be thought an Advantage to denounce War before we are able to act, to give the Enemy the earliest Notice of our Intention to invade their Country as foon as the Seafon will permit:

Lastly, I am unable to reconcile it with the Opinion of every Member of the Board, except the Governor General. Of Mr. Wheler's Sentiments and mine, I presume no Doubt can be formed. Mr. Barwell says, he thinks we should wait for the Effect of Colonel Goddard's Negociations for Peace; but if we now decide the main Question, of Peace or War, the Information which Mr.

Barwell thinks we ought to wait for, can be of no Use to us.

The Commander in Chief, in whose Sentiments I have entirely concurred, declares it to be his Opinion, that we should not seek to renew a War, but negociate with the various Maratta Interests an honourable Peace: That Colonel Goddard's Detachment, confidering the State it is now intogether with the Bombay Troops, are not equal to enfure Success in a Contest with the mitted Maratta Power, yet it is with this Force alone that, under the present Orders, we are to commence a War which will affuredly unite the whole Power of the Marattas against us. No Measures previous to a Declaration of War are taken to divide them; no Alliance formed; no general Plan of Operations proposed: In short, every thing that belongs to Deliberation, and which ought to prepare and lead to a Decision, is left to follow it. But if in the Outset of the Contest, and before any Measures can be taken to support or co-operate with Colonel Goddard, the Army under his Command should be defeated, and if the Consequences of a Deseat should endanger the Whole of the Company's Possessions, as the Commander in Chief very justly thinks they would, on what Principle should we justify a Resolution capable of producing such Consequences, from which, at the present Point of Time, no immediate Advantage can be derived, and to be carried into Execution by a Force which the Commander in Chief thinks is not equal to Success? The Terms on which we are to engage in this War are very unequal, when the utmost we expect from a Victory is some Accession of Territory on the Malabar Coast, and when a Defeat may endanger the Whole of the Company's Possessions.

Mr. Barwell—Mr. Francis has very accurately quoted my Words, which are, "I think we "fhould wait the Effect of Colonel Goddard's Negociation for Peace," putting upon them the following Construction: "That if we now decide the main Question, of Peace or War, the Infor- "mation which Mr. Barwell thinks we ought to wait for, can be of no Use." I beg Leave to refer to the Whole of the Sentiments I have expressed in the Minute referred to; these are sufficiently explanatory of the Sense of my Words, by which I proposed to have conveyed no other Meaning, than that Colonel Goddard's Negociations for Peace must have produced their Effect, and if that Effect was Peace, it precluded the Operation of any Orders we might judge necessary on the Supposition of a War. But the Consideration of Measures in the Case of our being in an actual State of War, I did not intend (as is apparent from my Minute) to suspend, for Information to be received from

Bengal Secret Consultations the 28th June 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Esquires. Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote indisposed.

Read and approved the Proceedings of the 21st Instant.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Minute, which he has received from Sir Eyre Coote.

Sir Eyre Coote—Although I regret that I have been already induced to write more Minutes fince my Arrival here than I did in all my former Transactions in India, yet I find myfelf so particularly pointed at in the last Paragraph of Mr. Francis's Protest of the 14th Instant, that I cannot now avoid faying fomething, in Reply to the Affertions it contains.

Colonel Goddard is no where, in the Letter to Bombay or to himself, limited to act (in case he should be driven to the Necessity of continuing the War) solely with the Body of Troops that accompanied him from Bengal, but left most fully to such Plans, whether Alliances or otherwise, as his Judgment may direct most to distress the Enemy: And for this Purpose the sullest plenipotentiary Powers are granted him; such Powers as will ensure Peace, if Peace is to be granted upon any but dishonourable Terms, and upon those, I hope we never shall accept of it.

Upon the Whole, so far from admitting that the Reply to Bombay is contrary to the Spirit of my Minute of the 24th May, I think it most compleatly concurring with every Point in it: And I must fay, that if any one Letter gave me more Pleasure to sign than another, it was the one in question, as, in my Opinion, none could be better adapted to answer the public Service.

However, as I do not intend now or hereafter to devote my Time to controverfial Writing, I shall leave my Conduct to the Decision of my Employers, to whom alone, with my Country, I an answerable.

Eyre Coote.

Ghyretty, (Signed) June the 27th 1779.

Mr. Francis-This is the only Minute of Sir Eyre Coote's which appears to be occasioned by, or to have Relation to, any thing faid by me. The only Observation I shall venture to make upon it, and which I hope will not lead to any further Debate, is, that although Brigadier General Goddard is not restricted to act solely with the Force under his Command, it appears from our Letter ittelf, that we place but little Dependence on any Accession of Strength which he may derive from Alliances with the Country Powers. With respect to Moodajee Boosla, we expressly say, "that we prefer a "Scheme of Military Operations practicable by our own Force, unincumbered with the Weight of a timid Ally." But our whole Force, I mean that with which Brigadier General Goddard is to act, is avowedly not sufficient to ensure Success.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 31st May 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Esquires. Philip Francis, Enquires.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

Mr. Wheler at Beercool for the Benefit of his Health.

Received the following Letter from Mr. Horsley.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

The Dispatches I brought you from Bombay are very circumstantial; yet the Facts they refer to are so numerous, and the Proceedings upon them so extensive, that I cannot help fearing some Particulars may be liable to be misconceived. I take the Liberty therefore of requesting your Permission to have Access to your Records, as far as they relate to the Business I am charged with; and I hope you will allow me to represent to you any thing they may suggest as requisite for your fuller Information regarding the Affairs of the Presidency of Bombay.

The Object which seems of the first Importance to the Select Committee, is to establish such a Degree of Confidence between your Government and them, as may render the Powers of both most efficacious for the general Advantage. They affure themselves that they shall find you equally disposed to promote a Spirit of Harmony, and to abolish all Appearances of an Opposition of Interests, which it will ever be their Study to avoid, and which they are convinced can never really exist. While I am employed in cultivating such Sentiments, and in removing any Misapprehensions that might prevent or interrupt the good Understanding between the Two Boards, I know I am engaged in the Manner most agreeable to the Gentlemen whose Commands I am charged with, and it will be in Proportion to my Success in these Endeavours, that the Termination of my Commission will be esteemed either fortunate for the Service, or honourable to myself.

Calcutta, 31st May 1779.

The Board do not think proper to allow Mr. Horsley an unreserved Access to all their Secret Proceedings relative to the Presidency of Bombay; but shall avail themselves of the Reserence made to them by the President and Select Committee of Bombay, to apply to him for Information on any Points, of which their actual Knowledge may be defective.

Ordered, That the Secretary do furnish Mr. Horsley with Copies of all Letters to the Select Committee of Bombay, and of all the Resolutions of the Board, which have an immediate Relation to that Presidency in its Secret Department; and that he inform Mr. Horsley the Board will be very glad to receive from him any new Lights upon the late Transactions on the present State of that Presidency, which his Knowledge of them may suggest, or which shall appear to him necessary; and to assure him, that that Weight will be given to his Representations which is due to them.

PRESENT, The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Esquires. Philip Francis, Edw Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

Read the following Letter from Mr. Horsley:

The Honourable the Governor General and Council.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen, I did hope to have been permitted to attend you at your last Meeting, to assure you, that the Members of the Select Committee of Bombay are unanimous in wishing to have the Line of Conduct [H]REP. VI.

resolved on for them by your Board, laid down as clearly as possible; and that whatever it may be, whether for Peace, or War, or Negociation, on which either may depend, they are determined to give every Affistance in their Power for the Accomplishment of your Views.

I wished to remind you, that the Powers of the Governor General and Council had never been disputed at Bombay; which while it shews the Sense of our Government as to the Necessity of an Union between the Two Boards for the successful Management of the Company's Affairs at our Pie. sidency, I hope will not render you less attentive to the same Object; but on the contrary induce you to concert Measures for forming such an Union of Powers and Interests, as the most effectual Means of promoting the Schemes of Policy you may think proper to adopt.

Could I suppose you less convinced of the Advantage of such a Conduct than the Gentlemen at Bombay, I should intreat you to consider, whether you might not deseat your own Intentions by rejecting the Union the Select Committee wish for and desire, on no other Terms but of the greatest Deference to the Lead you are entitled to take in marking the Points to which the joint Endeavours of the Two Boards are to be directed, and the Principles on which they are to be pursued.

The Sentiments of every Member of the Select Committee, which I can take upon me to answer for in the most unreserved Terms, are these:

That your Board has an unquestionable Right to give them Directions with regard to Peace, War, and Negociation:

That however the Opinions of the Select Committee may at any Time differ from those of the Governor General and Council, yet they can only promote the Welfare of their Settlement by con. forming to yours:

That it is in this Way only they can hope to make the most of Peace, or carry on War to Advantage:

That therefore it is for their Interest to co-operate with you on all Occasions, whether for Peace or in War.

I hope, Gentlemen, I may without Offence say, that while they acknowledge your Right to direct the Principles on which the political Concerns of the Presidency of Bombay shall be conducted, they are not ignorant what their own Rights are as to the actual and exclusive Power of their Govern-

Circumstances are now so entirely changed, that it is to be hoped you will not suffer the Memory of former Disagreements to be any Impediments to the Confidence you may be disposed to place in the Government of Bombay. On the first Opening of the Council General's Commission, the Meafures already taken at Bombay in Maratta Affairs, fell under your severest Censure, both as to the Principles and Execution. The Justification which the Governor and Council might have derived from Success, even if they had no other, they were debarred from by the Resolutions of this Board: In this Case what remained for them but to defend themselves and their Measures as far at least as Argument would support them? The Case is now very different; instead of having taken on their own Authority any Measures which they must now defend, they have referred every Thing to you: They have postponed the Exertions which in their Opinion their actual Situation authorized, which were the most necessary to their own Affairs, and the most efficacious, as they thought, for supporting the System of Politics they understood you had adopted. This they have done for no other Purpose, but that it might not be said, that they had prevented this Board from making its own Choice, but that they might receive Directions from you grounded on the fulless Knowledge of the present State of Affairs; and preserve from all Risk, that Union and Considence which they consider as superior to all other Advantages.

Uninformed as I am, I may perhaps trouble you on Subjects on which my Representations are the most unnecessary; and I would wish very much that this might be one of them: Yet the general Good of the Service, as well as the particular Interests and Rights of the Government of Bombay, appears much involved in the Resolutions you may take with regard to the Powers you may bombay, appears much involved in the Resolutions you may take with regard to the Powers you may think proper to continue to Colonel Goddard, or confer a new one on him; and in the Consistency of them with the Powers referved to the Government of Bombay by Act of Parliament, and specially entrusted to the Select Committee by the Court of Directors, that I should think myself wanting in my Duty, if I did not intreat to be heard whenever these Points may come under your Consideration,

N° 200.

Mr. Horsley being directed to attend, that the Drast of the Letter to Bombay may be communicated to him, is admitted and allowed to peruse the Letter.

Mr. Horsley—I wish to take the Letter proposed to be sent to Bombay Home with me: great Length of it, and the Variety of the Subjects on which it treats, renders me cautious of offering ing any thing suddenly for the Consideration of the Board; and the more so, as there are several Parts of it which I fear will appear to me more detrimental to the Service the longer I consider them.

Agreed. That Mr. Horsley be permitted to carry the Draft of the Letter to the Select Committee at Bombay Home with him.

The following Letter to Brigadier General Goddard having been circulated and approved; it was written in Cypher and dispatched.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

The President and Select Committee of Bombay have transmitted to us by the Hands of Mr. Horsley, a full and clear Detail of their late Proceedings, with their Opinions on the present State of Affairs in that Part of India, and the Propolitions of their President for retrieving the unhappy Consequences of the Deseat of that Enterprize.

After the most attentive Consideration of these important Subjects, we have formed several Resolutions on the Measures to be pursued for re-establishing the Interest and Credit of the Company. The most essential of those Measures we have determined to entrust to your Conduct: These we shall herein describe to you, and give you such clear Information of our Views as will enable you to carry them into effectual Execution.

We shall also communicate to you such Parts of our Instructions to the Select Committee, as will require your acting in concert with them, either deliberately or executively, or as have any Relation to the Objects more immediately committed to your separate Charge.

We have already given you sull Powers to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Government; and having no Cause to alter the Terms which we have prescribed in our Instructions for that Purpose, we have only to repeat, that we look to the Issue of that Commission as our primary Object, and the Termination of all our Political Views on that Side of India, if it shall prove successful.

But if the Ministers shall reject the Proposals which we have instructed you to make to them; and shall reduce us to the Necessity of defending the Rights and Interests of the Company by an open War, we leave you a Latitude of Action, under the Instructions of the President and Select Committee of Bombay, to avail yourself of the Situation which Fortune may present to you: And if a War should be indispensably continued, we also authorize you to adopt any Part or the Whole of Mr. Hornby's Plan, laid down in his Minute of the 30th of March; or not at all, as you may think most advisable for promoting the Distress of the Enemy.

Should this Plan be carried into Execution we have laid the Select Committee under the following Restrictions:

1st. That their Engagements shall be offensive only for the Objects of your immediate Operations, and in all other Respects purely defensive.

2d. That their Engagements with the Guicawar Family shall be made with the Head of it, and with him exclusively. 3d. That they shall not assume a Mediation between the Brothers Futty Sing and Govind Row, or take any Part whatever in their domestic Disputes, further than to support the Party in Alliance with the Company, and his Possessions against foreign Invasion.

4th. That they do not commit the Dignity of the Company, or pledge the National Faith in formal Treaties with Persons of a Rank or Power unsuitable to such a Distinction.

We leave the proferred Alliance with Moodajee Boosla to be concluded under the Instructions already given to you of the 16th of November; but we hereby direct, that if in his Answers to the Letters which were written to him by you and Mr. Hornby, or in any other Letters which you may have received from him at the Time of the Arrival of these Instructions, he shall have either refused or hesitated to accept the Proposals which have been made to him, or shall have made new References to us, you do in such Case declare the Negociation at an End, and that you do on no Account resume it without our express Orders.

We likewise hereby authorize you to treat with Madajee Scindia, both on the Subject of the separate and secret Agreement made with him by the Military Committee at Worgaum; and also in the Event of a War, if you find him disposed to our Alliance to enter into such Engagements with him as you may judge to be for the Advantage of the Company, and not incompatible with any Treaty before concluded.

We think ourselves strictly justifiable in refusing to ratify even the smallest Tittle of the Treaty or Convention of Worgaum. Although we absolutely disclaim the Acts of the Committee, and deny their Validity, and will not admit of any Pretensions sounded on those Acts, yet they cannot cancel any Rights which have their Basis in essential and intrinsic Benefits reaped by our Nation: This Right we must acknowledge to be possessed by Madajee Scindia; and we therefore declare, that unless he shall have forfeited it by any subsequent Act, he is entitled to a full Compensation for any Disappointment which he may suffer by our Denial of the Acts of the Committee.

P P E N D I X, Nº 198, 199, 200, 201.

You will therefore express to Madajee Scindia the Sense in which this Government is pleased to regard his Service at Worgaum, by offering such a Gratification as may be afforded him by the Government of Bombay, or from Means which you may posses from the Operations of War, 19 case Peace is not concluded upon the Instructions you are already furnished.

Although the Conduct of Madajee Scindia may not feem to confirm the Opinion which the Se. lect Committee of Bombay entertain of his Disposition towards us, or rather of the political Ne. cessity which seems to incline him to insure our future Alliance; yet we think the Arguments they have assigned for this Belief so well grounded, and it agrees so well with the Knowledge which we ourselves possess of his State Views and Talents, that we entirely adopt it, nor do we find it dissipately by him for the Performance of the Conditions of the Convention of Worgaum with that Disposition, or with the obvious System of Policy which his present Interest demands.

We suppose it probable that he will avoid any direct Engagements with us until the Urgency of his Affairs shall require it, or until he can gain the Advantage of the Negociation, by waiting for the first Advances to be made on our Part. If from the Opportunities you may have of a nearest and more intimate Knowledge of his personal Character and Necessities you shall judge this Conclusion to be well grounded, we direct you to treat him with the same temporizing and indeterminate Conduct rather than solicit it. Proposing this as a general Caution, you will make the suture Security of our Possessions, Peace, and an adequate Revenue, your chief and indispensable Objects and the Grounds of our Engagements with him.

To sum up what we have written; our first Desire is to obtain Peace on the Terms proposed to you of the 5th of April; and it is only in the Event of the Failure of this Delign, that we have formed the subsequent Instructions, or will allow of their Operation. This Negociation we have committed to your fole Charge.

The separate Negociation with Madajee Scindia bears such a Connection with the fore going, that we have thought it necessary to leave this also to your sole Charge.

We also trust entirely to your Management the Negociation of the Treaty of Alliance with Moodajee Boosla, on the Authority of your Instructions of the 16th of November, until the Period of its Suspension by the Refusal or such a Hesitation of Moodajce Boossa as you shall deem sufficient to warrant your declaring the Negociation suspended. The suture Renewal of this Negociation we reserve to be determined by our express Orders, but without revoking the Credentials and lastructions granted you respecting it.

All other Negociations, Treaties, and Plans of Military Operations not herein expressly committed to your sole Management, we leave to be formed and concluded under the regular Powers of the Government of Bombay; and we hereby direct you to execute whatever Military Service the Select Committee may think proper to require of you, and which you shall judge practicable; provided it shall not be contrary to our Instructions or to any existing Engage-

Notwithstanding the exclusive Powers we have granted you for the Purpose of negociating and concluding the Treaties before specified, we direct you in all possible Cases to avail yourself of fuch Advice and Information as the Select Committee can afford you before you determine on the Execution of any Treaty separately committed to your Charge.

We observe, with the highest Satisfaction, the Approbation which the Select Committee of Bombay express at your Conduct, and the ready Disposition which you have shown to affish in the Execution of their Designs. It is with Pleasure that we have resolved to join with them, in recommending you to the Court of Directors for the Appointment of Commander in Chief at that Presidency, whenever there may be a Vacancy; and, in the intermediate Time, we think it highly expedient, that you should hold the Rank of Brigadier General, in order to enable you to carry on the Public Service with more Weight and Dignity, for which Purpose we have granted you a Brevel Commission of Brigadier General, for the Service on which you are now employed.

Supposing this Letter to be conformable to that already resolved on to the Select Committee at Bombay, I acquiesce.

I acquiesce under the same Supposition.

We have directed the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay, to furnish you with a Copy of the Cypher in which this Letter is written, and which we request you will take particular Care of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 11st June 1779.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Warren Francis, Richard Barwell, Efquires. Edward Wheler, Sir Eyre Coote indisposed.

Read the following Letter from Mr. Horsley !

The Honourable the Governor General and Council.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Had I been permitted to wait on you, and to make my Representations to you on the Subjects on which I had desired to be heard, previous to your taking your Resolutions, I was prepared to point out to you the great and insurmountable Objections which I thought lay against Colonel Goddard's separate, independant, and plenipotentiary Powers, as marked in such of your Letters to Bombay as I had then seen; but I could not be at all prepared for the great Extension meant to be given to those Powers. Now, upon the first Communication of the Drast of your proposed Letter to the Governor and Select Committee of Bombay, for what Purpose it is communicated, I must acknowledge, I am far from certain; though I should flatter myself that I should not be laid under the Necessity, either of deserting the Rights and Interests of the Government, by which I am entrusted, or of hazarding my Opinion and Arguments against such Authority as yours, if the Service could receive no Benefit. From the hard Choice I am to make, I will therefore take the Liberty of stating somewhat at large, though hastily, the general Objections I conceive to be against the Powers you wish to confer on Colonel Goddard, as well as the particular Parts of the proposed Letter to Bombay, which seem to me likely to prove detrimental to the Public Service; I shall flatter myself to meet with your Indulation of Birth and the Public Service. gence in using that Freedom which a Question of Right requires.

However unwillingly I may enter on this Question, yet I perceive it may have its Use. Upon the Information of a Person so inconsiderable, that no Contrariety of Opinion can produce Dispute, or the most remote Appearances of Opposition, you will be able to judge of the Disserences you may give Rise to, by the Orders you are now about to send to Bombay. What I have to offer will be allowed its own Weight and Importance at least; and in that Case, I may perhaps have the Satisfaction to think, that I have contributed to move the Grounds of Animolities and Contention, which might have had the most ruinous Consequences to the Service.

Permit me, on the other Hand, to hope that your Board will make some Allowance for the Disadvantage the Government of Bombay are under, on a Subject of so great Moment to them. The Sune Arguments from them would certainly carry a Force which I cannot pretend to give them; they would probably be able to offer more and better, and state them more forcibly: At present how-ever the Task can only be performed by me, and it is my Duty to execute it to the best of my Ability.

I must however previously beg, Gentlemen, that you will be pleased to recollect, that in claiming for the Government of Bombay the Rights they hold under Act of Parliament, as well as by the special Orders of the Court of Directors, and their plain and evident Intentions, I do not take upon me to fay, what Lengths the Government of Bombay may think proper to go in Support of them: I know their Moderation fo well, that I am fure the Public Welfare will be their first and principal Care, however they may think their legal Rights invaded, or with whatever Difrespect they may conceive themselves treated.

The general Objections I take the Liberty of offering to your Consideration on the Subject of the Powers you propose for Colonel Goddard, separate from the Government of Bombay, independant ot it, and plenipotentiary on the special Concerns of that Presidency, are, that they are illegal; that they are inconfishent with other established and acknowledged legal Powers; that they are inexpedient, and tend to produce the most dangerous Consulion in the Company's Assairs.

The legal Power of this Government over the other Presidencies, I presume is all comprized in One short Clause in the regulating Act, and is defined to be that of superintending and controlling in the Cases of War, Peace, and Negociation, by granting or withholding their Consent and Approbation of the Measures of the other Governments. They have no direct Agency at Bombay, the executive Powers of the Government there being lodged, as before the Act passed, in the Governor and Council. The very Words, "Superintendance and Controul," in themselves imply an intermediate Power, and in this Case the Superintendance and Controul is said to be so far, and in so much as is above expressed, that is, no sarther, and no more. The Means by which the Governor General and Council may enforce their legal Orders, even in case of Disobedience, are marked with the and Council may enforce their legal Orders, even in case of Disobedience, are marked with the greatest Piccisson; they may suspend the Governor and Council from their Offices: It is not faid [1]

they may appoint Agents of their own to carry their Orders into Execution. Five Persons nominated in the Act are intrufted with these Powers of Superintendance and Controul, which are limited not only by the express Words of the Act, but by the absolute Necessity imposed by the Distance at which they must be exercised. Can it be supposed that while other lesser Powers are so exactly defined, the greatest of all, that of transferring the Power of the whole Council General to one Man, and exercifing it on the Spot by Delegation, can belong to this Board, without the smallest Mention made of it in the Act of Parliament? The Governor General and Council I believe would demur to yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, to any Perfon who could proto yield the Civil or Military Government of Bengal, Bahar or Orixa, and the Civil or Military Government or Military Governme that the General Authority of the Court of Directors would better support a Claim of this Soit, than the limited Authority of the Governor General and Council justify an Extension of it like that now proposed.

The Court of Directors are bound to furnish His Majesty's Ministers with all Information concerning the State of their Revenues, and all Civil and Military Affairs of their Governments: The Governor General and Council are directed and required to pay Obedience to all fuch Orders as they may receive from the Court of Directors: And the Governor and Council of Bombay are directed and required to pay Obedience to the Orders that they may receive from the Governor General and Council on certain particular Subjects, and to a certain defined Extent and Degree. I do not find that His Majesty's Ministers, the Court of Directors, the Governor General and Council, or the Governor and Council of Bombay, can of their own Authority appoint Subflitutes or Deputies to exercise their great Trusts. The only Thing similar to such a Power in the whole Act, is the Right the Court of Directors possess to authorize the inferior Presidency to act in Peace, War, and Negotiation, without waiting for the Consent and Approbation of the Governor General and Council; and this Privilege given to the Court of Directors, who are specially confined in the Exercise of it to confer this extraordinary Authority only on the legal Agents of the Company at the inferior Presidencies, affords one of the plainest and strongest Arguments of Induction that can be, that the Governor General and Council cannot take from the Governors and Councils of those Presidencies their Agency in their several Governments.

In short, the express Words of the Act give the Governor General and Council a Negative in the political Concerns of the other Presidencies, and as expressly say they shall claim no more; and the evident Intention is, that while Bengal is confidered as the most valuable of the British Possessions in India, and has a Preference given it suitable to its superior Importance; no one Government is to be left to the Mercy of another, the Members of which have perhaps no Interest in its Welfare or Biasses contrary to it.

Give me Leave, Gentlemen, in this Place to remark again to you, that the Governor and Council of Bombay, fo far from flanding on their strict legal Rights, where they have conceived it for the Good of the Service to yield a greater Authority to your Board than the Act obliged them to do, have fince the first Establishment of the Council General, constantly allowed you to take the Lead in their Assairs, and have followed your Directions with regard to War, Peace, and all Points of Policy, for which I know only Two Reasons that can be given; they might easily hope to gain your Considence, by making this Sacrifice to that Jealousy on your Part with which the present Intercourse between the Two Boards first began: Or from a Principal of Moderation (which is not entitled to the less Praise on account of the little Shew so humble a Virtue makes in the World) they determined to yield every Thing of their own, rather than risk any Interest of the Public.

I must crave your Patience, Gentlemen, while this very painful Subject leads me to point at the Inconsistency of the Powers you propose to confer on Colonel Goddard, with other established and acknowledged legal Powers.

Such are the Powers granted by the Court of Directors to the Select Committee, who are evidently thereby fet above the Controll of any Delegate from hence. The Select Committee do not fay they are set above the Superintendance and Controul of your Board; they have acknowledged your Powers, and referred to them; yet I would wish it to be remembered, that they are so far fuperior to the Superintendance and Controul of Colonel Goddard, or any other Delegate from hence, that were they disposed to start Questions of Right and Power, perhaps the special Orders of the Court of Directors (a Case provided for by the Act) might bear an Interpretation of still greater Latitude. I hope I shall not be misunderstood; I only wish to justify myself, and the Government for which I act, by shewing from Example the Difference between their Claims and those which Men of unruly Tempers might affert.

By the special Appointment of the Court of Directors, the Select Committee is impowered to transact all political, military, and naval Affairs, and likewise all such as may require Secrecy. Every Person in the Service of the Company, or enjoying their Protettion civil or military, are enjoined implicitly to obey all Orders of the Select Committee, under Pain of Suspension from the Service, or of sorfeiting the Company's Licence and Protection: And if the Select Committee shall think fit to suspend any Person or Person the Service, such Person or Persons shall not be restored otherwise than by the said Committee, except by Order of the Court of Directors. By the separate, independent, and plenipotentiary Powers granted by volute Colonel Goddard, having to transfest the most important of the political military, naval, by you to Colonel Goddard, he is to transact the most important of the political, military, naval, and secret Assairs of the Presidency of Bombay: He is invested with the independent Command of the Assairs of the Presidency of Bombay: an Army within the Limits of that Government; and yet at the same Time, by the Orders of the Court of Directors, he is enjoined to obey implicitly all Orders of the Select Committee, under Pain of Suspension from the Service, and of becoming incapable of being restored but by the Select Committee, or by the Order of the Court of Directors.

These Orders, authorized as the King's Ministers are to require all Information concerning the Government of this Country, we can be certain were communicated to them. Could it have escaped them and the Court of Directors, and the many able Men whose Hands they must have passed through, if the Establishment of a Select Committee had been subject to Inconsistencies like these? could it be foreicen and suffered, that the Commander in Chief of all His Majesty's Forces in India, as well as the Company's, might by the unlucky Concurrence of the contrary Authorities of the Governor General and Council and the Select Committee, be rendered subject to the Controll of any Servant, civil or military, whom you might appoint your Delegate? For the absolute Inconfillency of these Two Appointments, the Select Committee and your Bombay Plenipotentiary, appears with double Force from the Terms of Sir Eyre Coote's Appointment to the chief Command ot all the Company's Forces in India; according to which, whenever he is present at any of the Company's Settlements where there is a Select Committee, he must have a Seat as Second at any such Select Committee, and a Vote on all Questions and Occasions whatever. In consequence of this Order, I believe Sir Eyre Coote lately fat at Madras in the Select Committee there; and I refer to yourselves, Gentlemen, whether you could then have conceived it possible, that he or the Board, in the Powers of which his were at that Time involved, could have been made subordinate to any Person acting under deputed Powers from hence? The Respect due to his distinguished Rank and Character, the Memory of his former great Services, and his Seat in the Council General, must no Doubt add confiderable Weight to the Sentiments he might express in the Select Committee; yet the actual constitutional Rights of the Committee remain the same, whether he is a Member or no; and while he is of the Number, he is himself bound by the Resolutions of the Majority. Now in this Respect therefore the Powers conferred on Colonel Goddard are greater than even Sir Eyre Coote's could be, if he were on the Spot himself; for as he must be of the Select Committee, he could posses no Powers separate, independant, and plenipotentiary, within the Limits of their Government.

If Sir Eyre Coote were now at Bombay, Colonel Goddard's military Command would indeed be lost in the Commander in Chief's, yet he would still controll his General in the Cabinet, if the Powers he exercites are legal. But I correct myself. I believe there is no Person in any Branch of the Service, much less Colonel Goddard, so shameless as to act under such Powers; no one who would not carry all the Wax and Parchment from which he derived his Authority, and lay them at the Feet of the great Man, to whose Name and Services they were a Reproach. But will a great Government, through Choice, adopt Measures which are only to be corrected by the Sense every Individual must have of their Inconsistency?

I have run through these Two Parts of my Subject; I have chosen rather to enumerate Heads of Argument, than to extend my Letter to a Volume: By giving myself full Scope, I wish to relieve myself as soon as possible from a Task, where I find my Judgment so much in Opposition to the Respect I owe you; for in spite of all my Deference for your Opinions, I must conclude, that as far as the Act of Parliament, and the Orders of the Court of Directors, are legal Obligations on your Board, in the same Degree are the Powers proposed to be granted to Colonel Goddard illegal. That the Sense of His Majesty's Ministers and the Court of Directors, as far as they can be judged of from the Orders to which they have given their Sanction, are on my Side; because those Orders are evidently contradictory and inconfistent upon other Principles: That granting the Powers proposed to be given to Colonel Goddard legal (which would feem to me the most prodigal Concession that was ever made in Argument;) yet the Indecency and Impropriety (pardon me the Expressions, Gentlemen) of this delegated Authority, are so striking with respect to the Person who is unquestionably in the Second Degree at least of public Trust and Authority here, and in general through him to your whole Board, as well as to another public Body, which however inferior will still I hope be thought entitled to some Marks of Respect or Attention, that some further Modification of these extraordinary Powers, which I am yet unacquainted with, must be intended.

I did slatter myself, that in a Time like the present, I should not have seen so great an Indispofition as I have, from all Union of Powers and Interests with us on the Part of this Government. On the Part of the Select Committee, I must declare, I do not know a fingle Instance, in which they have had any Opportunity of expressing their Inclination of joining themselves to you, on your own Terms, and for your own Purpoles, wherein they have been wanting. I think you cannot produce one yourselves. However, Bombay must submit: Confidence and Harmony cannot be brought about by the Efforts of One Party only. You will have all good Wishes from our Side of India, for the prosperous Course of Affairs, according to your own System, for the Sake of the Public, and we shall hope these at least will give you no Offence. The Sentiments of the Select Committee seem indeed to differ from yours (I am sorry to say it) as far as Things most opposite, as Union and Dissension. The Question concerning the Powers of this Government over that of Rombay, when he decided have in a Question of an Haure, have if the Motter wells, comment over Bombay, may be decided here in a Quarter of an Hour; but if the Matter really comes into Difpute, the Debate must be managed across the Continent of India, and in the mean Time the Service must suffer. I should have hoped you would have thought this a Hazard, which it was worth some Consideration to avoid. You conside, and I can assure you very justly, that the Select Committee will make it an Object of their's: Perhaps they may even make no Opposition to the Powers affumed by your Board; yet can it be expected that they will unite those they still possess, cordially or confidentially with a Body that treats them with every Mark of Distrust? The slightest Apply ance of a Separation of Interests between this Government and us, will probably have the worst Constequences. The intriguing and subtle Character of the Marattas is well known. No People are nare quick-sighted in remarking Divisions; on the Use to be made of which all their own Politics turn. They must perceive the most evident Marks of it between you and the Government of Bombay; they will possibly presume on it; and nothing is more likely therefore than this very Circumstance, to some you into a War you say you wish to avoid. The Marattas have not forgot how they made Peace on their own Terms before, when they were ready to have purchased it with any Concession we could have desired. They account for this themselves I believe on Principles very different from those of Moderation, on which I presume the Governor General and Council acted.

The Attention paid you by the Government of Bombay, in the most essential Points, intitle them to expect some Marks of it from you, with regard to their constitutional Rights. They certainly hoped, that the Considence reposed by you in Colonel Goddard, and that shewn him at Bombay, which while they thought due to his Merit, they flattered themselves would have been received here as it was meant, as the Expression on their Part of their Readiness to give their Considence to any Person on whom the Governor General and Council had bestowed their's: They hoped, I say, that this mutual Confidence in the same Person, which they thought persectly well placed, would serve as a Bond of Union between the Two Boards. They expected that Colonel Goddard's deliberative Seat in the Select Committee would enable them to inform themselves constantly of the general Sentiments and Principles of this Government, from a Person they believed well acquainted with them, more particularly and fully than they had ever yet been able; and to these they wish at all Times to pay all Manner of Deference. But if a Conduct of this Sort procures them no adequate Return from those with whom they have expressed the most unreserved Inclination to unite; if this Government refuses all Manner of Connection with them but that of unlimited Rule; if this Superiority is to be exercised with so little Moderation, that it is to be granted away at all Times, and to all Persons, I cannot tell what Course is left for the Governor and Council, that is both safe and honourable for themselves, and useful to the Service. They must either renounce and desert their Trust, or they must engage in an Opposition, which must have the most dangerous Consequences. The Governor General and Council I hope will do them the Justice to acknowledge, that they forced them to this difficult Alternative.

I must presume, Gentlemen, to take Notice of the particular Parts of the proposed Letter to Bombay, which seem to me likely to prove detrimental to the public Service: I should wish to leave, as much as possible, what I have said above to be applied generally to those Parts of the Letter which refer to Colonel Goddard's Powers; yet I foresee I cannot enter on Particulars without returning to the same Argument. And in the first Place give me Leave to repeat the Request I made you in my last Letter, that you would please to make the Directions you fend to the Select Committee on this and all other Points as clear and express as possible; in which Respect I own there appears some Desiciency to my Understanding: And I fear extremely, that whenever Assairs go amiss, the Select Committee may fall under your Censure for counteracting your Designs, or misapprehending your Intentions, when they may perhaps be altogether ignorant that you had ever communicated either Design or Intention.

You are pleased to say, Gentlemen, (Par. 5.) that in case of War you leave a Latitude of Assion to Colonel Goddard under the Instruction of the Select Committee: I think the Select Committee will be very much at a Loss, observing how you have disposed of their whole Department in favour of Colonel Goddard, to know what Subjects they are on which you chuse that they should give Colonel Goddard Instructions; especially when in the same Paragraph they are informed, that you have left the Latitude of Assion, not to them, but to Colonel Goddard. That he is to avail himself of the Situation which Fortune may present: That it must rest with him who is responsible to you for his Condust to adopt any Part or the Whole of Mr. Hornby's Plan laid down in his Minute of the 30th March, or not at all, as he may think most advisable.

The Governor and Select Committee will wish likewise to be informed, whether in that emphatical Parenthesis which informs them, that Colonel Goddard is responsible to you for his Condust, your Meaning is, that he is not responsible to them. The Select Committee may perhaps think it proper to direct Colonel Goddard to publish in his Army the Orders of the Honourable the Court of Directors, which enjoin all the Servants of the Company, Civil and Military, to obey the Select Committee within the Limits of the Government of Bombay, and vest immediately in them a Power of Suspension, as you may have very justly observed in your Letter. Less they should do this, I must take the Liberty to say, that I think it would be but common Justice to Colonel Goddard, to instruct him what Degree of Obedience it is your Pleasure he should pay to the Orders of the Court of Directors if you expect him to disobey them. If he receives a Counterpart of your Letter to the Select Committee of Bombay, that Expression implying, that he is to be under the Instructions of the Select Committee, I should suppose must be a very embarrassing one to him.

In the last Paragraph but one of your proposed Letter, you inform the Select Committee that you have directed Colonel Goddard to execute whatever Service they shall think it proper to require, which he shall think practicable, and which shall not be contrary to your Instructions to any existing Engagement. Permit me to observe to you, on this Mark of Attention to the Select Committee, that while your whole Instructions are directed to one single Point; that is to say, to compel them to yield up their whole Authority into the Hands of Colonel Goddard; while they are removed from all Charge

3nd Care of Engagements either actually existing or likely to take place; and even refused all Right of judging of the Propriety of executing either in Whole, or in Part, or at all, a Plan of Operations proposed by their President, they cannot suppose you really mean, that they shall be Judges of the Propriety of any Service whatever.

I have faid that your Instructions to the Select Committee are directed to one single Point, viz. to compel them to yield up their whole Authority into the Hands of Colonel Goddard. I think this is the Light in which they must appear to any Person who takes a general View of Colonel Goddard's Charge.

He commands an Army independantly of the Government of Bombay within their Government; of course he pays, augments, and diminishes Cantons, removes, or remains with his Army, at his own Choice and Pleafure.

The Execution and Negociation of the projected Treaty of Peace with the Poona Ministry is given to his fole Charge; that is to fay, a Treaty, every Article of which relates peculiarly or principally to the Prefidency of Bombay.

The separate Negociation with Madjee Scindia is left also to his Charge, though the Point on which this Negociation turns, is on a Claim of his to a Possession of the Presidency of Bombay, acquired at a Time when that Government was entirely independant of this, and of which, therefore, the Governor General and Council can have no more Pretention to dispose, than of the Caftle and Island of Bombay.

If in the Event of War Madjee Scindia shall be disposed to take Part with us (I presume both Presidencies are included in that Word) Colonel Goddard is authorized to form our Engagements with

If the Poona Ministers shall reject the Proposals which are to be made to them, a Latitude of Action is left to Colonel Goddard. He is to avail himself of the Situation Fortune may present. It rests with him to adopt any Part, or the Whole of Mr. Hornby's Plan of Operations, or reject it altogether; and in fine, it is implied, that he is responsible only to your Board.

In all other Negociations, Treaties, and Plans of Military Operations, you profess your Wish so to blend the Powers of your Government with that of Bombay in the Direction of them, and in every formal and occasional Instrument which they may require for their Ratification, as to preserve the Credit and distinct Responsibility of both, and to make both the Pledges for the faithful Observance of them.

Example before them, in what Manner the Powers of the Two Governments are meant to be blended. I will not venture any Observation on a Passage in which (far as I am removed from Trusts that awake Ambition) I feel all the Bitterness of the Irony.

It is a Matter of the utmost Concern to me, to be obliged to offer any Objection against a Refolution of your's, which seems intended to distinguish Colonel Goddard, for whose Character I have the highest Respect, and whose Merits I know to be no where more sensibly felt, nor his Honour more heartily wished, than at Bombay. But I must acknowledge that I am utterly ignorant of the Right by which you have thought proper to dispose of the Rank of Brigadier General specially confined to our Settlement; and I am the more alarmed at it, because I do not see that the Acquiescence of the Governor and Council can be sufficient to procure Submission to it, even if they should be disposed to yield Pre-eminence to you, in an Instance wherein their Authority is fully equal to your own, whatever your Superiority may be in other Cases. The Military Commissions granted by the Governor and Council of Bombay, and by the Governor and Council of Madras, are unquestionably of the same Validity as your's, and the Rank they give equally established in the King's Company's Troops. That they or the Officers of those Presidences therefore can submit to this Innovation, I own I think impossible. Had you been pleased to strant your Brevet to Colonel Goddard, without limiting it to our Establishment, I am certain the Distinction conferred on him would have been received with universal Approbation at Bombay; but as the Promotion appears at prefent, it will be understood only as a Precedent for rendering all Rank in our Military Service precarious. The like Partiality will be expected to be extended in favour of every Officer of your Establishment, if this Innovation is submitted to; and this Interpretation will be the more natural, as the independent Command you have given to Colonel Goddard over your own Troops, and his present Rank, superior to that of every Officer on our Establishment except Colonel Egerton, will make your Measure appear quite unnecessary, except it be to answer some concealed Purpose. In case of the Arrival of any Officer at Bombay of a Rank that might entitle him to command Colonel Goddard, but for the local Rank you confer on him, I do apprehend he would not give up his Pretentions out of Respect to Colonel Goddard's Brevet. The Governor and Council of Bombay will ask, and I think the Question will deserve an Answer, Whether you would admit the same Right in them to give to one of their Officers acting on Detachment here a local Rank which he did not hold in our Establishment; and if you would not, they would be glad to know on what you ground the Distinction in your own Favour? Of all the Steps that could be taken, this appears to me that which is likely to be productive of the greatest Confusion, Animosity, and a Train of Consequences that will not admit REP. VI. [K] of being tempered by the Moderation of the Government of Bombay, which, in other Cafe to the perhaps be expected to afford the same Remedy.

The Governor and Select Committee had joined in a very earnest Recommendation to you or Colonel Goddard, for some Distinction expressive of your and their Sense of his Services; I contest I should have thought it a very striking Instance of your Determination to unite with them in nothing, that a Recommendation, which seemed perfectly agreeable to your own Sentiments, the party of the par not feem to you even to deserve the common Civility of an Answer, had I not been equally sentible that, while every Diffinction you are pleased to confer on Colonel Goddard is a Spoil seized from the Government of Bombay, and from the Servants of that Prefidency, it would have been extremely difficult to have made them any Compliment on the Occasion, which would have looked ferious.

Had you been pleased, Gentlemen, from the first to have made the Government of Bombay the Instrument in your Plans of War, Peace, and Policy, as far as they were connected with our Pic fidency I believe you would have had no Cause to repent it: And had you tried the Force of Recommendation, when there was Reason to doubt of your Authority to give Orders, I am suce you would not have found it less effectual. Even in the more immediate Concerns of the Bengal Government, which it might be necessary to manage within the Limits of the Bombay Presidency, or where Bombay Agents were established the Members of the Government, they would not have conceived you could have thought it an overstrained Mark of Attention to their Rank, Trust, and the Consequence necessary to be preserved to them in their political Connections with their News. hours, to commit the Company's Interests to them in Preference to inferior Agents: But hewever this might be, they could hardly have expected to fee the Management of their own most immediate Concerns wrested from them; still, I believe, they might have acquiefeed with a Sort of Cheerinhnels, had this been done only by youricles, or in Circumstances of Place and Connexion, which naturally threw their Business into the Hands of your Agents. But when they see your itincions Commissions moving up and down and across the Continent, for no other Purpose than to make or break Treaties for them, or manage their Affairs, which without Presumption they have suppose their Situation, their Experience, and their Trust, make them at least as fit to manage themselve, their Right of the Question, I cannot say how far you may expect them to carry their Moderation; but I think you cannot need be told what their Feelings, and those of every Man connected with them, are.

I know not what Success my Representations would have had; but if you had been pleased to have suffered me to be informed of the Objects of your Deliberation before your Resolutions were formed, I should think it would have been no Disadvantage to have been acquainted how far the Hopes and Expectations of the Members of the Bombay Government went, with regard to the Measures you would adopt, in order to blind the Powers of the Two Governments.

I should have represented to you, as I have now done, the Necessity which I conceived there was for Colonel Goddard and his Army being allowed dependant on the Government of Bombay.

With regard to the proposed Treaty with the Maratta Ministers, and the eventual Alliance with Madajee Scindia, I should have stated my Reasons for thinking these would, with most Propulsi, be committed to the Select Committee, or at least that their Right to judge of the Articles specially relating to their Settlement should be respected. I am sensible that the Event of both is imported to each of the Presidencies, and therefore that the Select Committee had no absolute Right to inat on the Management of them being left folely to their Board; and I could have informed you, that in case you determined not to allow the Government of Bombay to act for you, they were so well convinced of the Detriment that would probably follow to the public Service, by employing lepa ate Agents, and reposed so entire a Confidence in Colonel Goddard, that I had every Reason to behave they would defire him to charge himself with their Interests as well as yours. Perhaps I might not have made you so sensible as I wished of the Difference between your seizing and the Select Conmittee yielding, but I should have endeavoured it.

The Management of the Treaty with Madajee Scindia, for an Equivalent in lieu of the Gratification promised him at Worgaum, I confess, I should have thought an inalienable Right of our Government, as it is a Subject of our own peculiar Concern. I should have wished too that it might not be taken out of the Hands of those with whom it at present rests, as Madajee Scindia's difcerning that his Claim received Countenance from this Government, and is treated as a Matter of fo much Importance by you, will probably make him more untractable, and lets inclined to acce, t of moderate Terms. I should have urged that there seemed no Reason to doubt of the Intentions of the Government of Bombay to act agreeably to the Sentiments of your Board, fince in fact Mr. Hornby had himself first prepared the Measure of treating with Scindla for an Equivalent, and expressed in very strong Terms his Sense of the Difference which ought to be made between the Derbar and him. With regard to the Cessions promised to each, give me Leave, Gentlemen, now to suggest to you, that in my Opinion some Caution ought to be given against yielding any Thing to Scindia, till it is certain whether we are to have Peace or War, and what Part he resolves to take. I should wish therefore very much that this Matter were left open for your future Determination, if you resolve still to withhold your Considence from the Select Committee; because, highly as I know Colonel Goddard to be thought of, and however well inclined I left the Members of our make Government to him, yet on the Footing you have put Things betwixt them, I think it is impossible they can be on good Terms; and in Times of Ill-humour and Diffension, I observe that Secrets are generally ill kept among the discordant Parties. In this Case it is of great Importance that Madjee Scindia should not know what you have resolved on. I submit to you these Reasons for thinking this Treaty, if left in the Hands of the Government of Bombay, would be managed to better Advantage, and be more likely especially to answer the End of procuring the Release of our Hostages. The Gentlemen at Bombay would best judge with regard to the Advantage of neating there or at Madjee Scindia's Durbar, and if at the latter, would probably render it sub-fervient to the Purpose above-mentioned, by employing Mr. Farmer in it, who I believe you, Gentlemen, will think well qualified for such a Trust. With regard to the Negociation and Treaty of Alliance with Moodajee Bouncello, I might have acquainted you that I was perfuaded the Select Committee would be well fatisfied to fee them left in the Hands of Colonel Goddard. The Difference between these and the other Subjects of Negociation is very great. The Government of Bombay had never any Intercourse with the Court of Berar. The Plan of an Alliance with Moodajec Bouncello, was entirely your own; Colonel Goddard was deputed to him long before he arrived within the Limits of our Government, and the Intercounte that has already passed between them is a good Reason for continuing the Negociation in the same Channel. I should indeed have thought that the Respect with which public Bodies commonly treat the Rights of each other, would have rendered it advisable to give some Sort of Explanation of this Kind to the Select Committee, and to have recommended it to them to have commissioned or instructed Colonel Goddard with regard to the particular Interest of their Government, according to the Principles you might determine on for them.

As to the Plan of Operations proposed by Mr. Hornby, or any other that might be formed in case of War, I should certainly have supposed they would have been left subject to the Judgment and Diferetion of the Select Committee, whom I think you had feen as defirous of receiving Colonel Goddard's Sentiments on all Occasions, and of regulating themselves accordingly, as you could possibly defire. I should have made no Doubt either of his general Responsibility to our Govern-

I should have represented to you the Probability of the Command in Chief of the Forces at our Prefidency being vacated, either by the Sentence of a Court Martial or by a Vote of Sufpension, and that the Select Committee would probably think the Office too important in the present Times and Circumstances to remain vacant, or be filled by mere Chance; I should have wished very much that Colonel Goddard were left free to accept of this Appointment from the Governor and Council of Bombay, which he cannot now do, according to the separate and independent Powers you propose giving him, as they would be incompatible with his Seat and Voice in the Select Committee, which he would have of courte, on being invested with the chief Command of the Bombay

Your Letter to Bombay feems framed on very different Principles; it is a flat Refusal of all Union of Powers and Interests with the Government of Bombay: It places insurmountable Bars between the Select Committee and Colonel Goddard, and renders him and his Army rather Objects of Apprehension and Jealousy than of Hope and Considence; it seems to provide that the Dissensions shall spread as wide as possible. Every Officer must, perhaps every private Soldier and Sepoy may, become fensible of the personal Injury afforded to him in the Instance of Colonel Goddard's Brevet. That ill Consequences must follow is no very hazardous Prediction; but that they are to be expected at a Time when our Situation and Strength is such, as to give the fairest Prospects of honourable Peace or fuccessful War, is a Circumstance of which I cannot but feel the Aggravation; and the only Confolation I see, if these are your ultimate Resolutions, is, that when it becomes a Subject of Enquiry how so great an Undertaking as the March across the Continent of India, though performed with Success, came to fail in all the good Effects that might have been expected from it, the Cause will be as evident as the Fact: That this Enterprize, by the Orders now proposed to be given, was diverted from its public Purposes, or directed to them but as secondary Objects: That to display and flatter that Supremacy which this Government is pleased to assume, was made the sirst; and that purfued at the Expence of Divisions, by which the joint Force of the Presidencies was ruined, which were foreseen, and might have been easily avoided.

I flatter myself you will pardon the Trouble I give you. The Freedom I have used I hope will not give Offence, fince my only Inducement to it is the Opinion, that it may be useful to the Service, either now or hereafter, that you should be acquainted with Sentiments which are not those of the Members of the Bombay Government only, but I believe I may venture to say are adopted generally on our Side of India; and unless you received them from some Individual sheltered under the Humbleness of his Station, I thought it probable you might still remain uninformed of them, since it would hardly suit with the Decorum and Gravity of a public Body to enter into so minute a Discussion, particularly if they could not entertain some Hopes of being attended to, which foon after the Receipt of the Letter proposed to be written to Bombay, I should think very

I begyou to believe, that if any Expressions have escaped me that you may judge at all wanting in the Relpect I owe you, they have been entirely owing to Accident, and the Halte in which I have been obliged to write this long Letter, for fear your's to Bombay should be sent before mine was finished. Permit me to your Acceptance of the same Apology for all other Errors and Inaccu-

The Secretary lays before the Board a Letter from Mr. Horsley, addressed to himself a follows:

To William Bruere, Esquire.

I must request you to return me my Letter to the Honourable the Governor General and Council dated the 18th Instant, or that you will please to be at the Trouble of making the following Correct

tions in it before it is publicly read, which is all I want it for:

Towards the Conclusion of the last Paragraph but Two you will observe these Words: "That this mighty Enterprize was directed to no fuller Purpose but as a secondary Object." Instead of which I desire to substitute the following: "That this Enterprize, by the Orders now proposed to be given, was diverted from its public Purpoles, or directed to them but as secondary Objects."

Calcutta, June 21st 1779.

I am, Sir, &c. (Signed) G. Horfley.

Agreed, That the Secretary be directed to make the proposed Alterations in the Letter_from Mr. Horfley.

GOVERNOR GENERAL—Although the Letter to the Select Committee of Bombay 15 no. entirely conformable to the Line which I recommended, yet as the Sentiments which it contains come the nearest to my own, I acquiesced in them preserably to the other Opinions which were delivered upon the Occasion on which it was written; but I as little approve the Arguments which Mr. Horsley has opposed to it, as I do the Manner in which they were conveyed. Mr. Horsley has affumed one Fact for the Ground of his Objections to our late Resolutions contained in the Drak of the Letter to the President and Select Committee of Bombay; namely, that the Instructions intended to be given to Colonel Goddard, relate to the Assairs of that Presidency, and to Points of Duty effentially and exclusively appertaining to the Select Committee at Bombay, which by this Construction is subjected to the Control and Authority of Colonel Goddard.

This Construction is neither warranted by the Subjects of our Letter, nor conformable to our Intentions. The Letter proposed to be written to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, comprizes Two general Subjects which belong effentially and exclusively to us. The First relates to the Negociations for the Renewal of the Treaty of Peace already concluded between us and the Maratta State, in which the Presidency of Bombay has only dependent Concern, and for the Formation of a Treaty with a Power with which that Presidency hath not, nor ever had any Connection; and the Second to the Operations of Colonel Goddard's Detachment, which, though designed for the Protection and Benefit of the Presidency of Bombay, must yet in their Lifects involve the general Interest of the Company to whatever Purposes they may be applied. This Force is our own, and therefore the Right of directing its Services rests unquestionably with us, and we alone are answerable for the Uses which are made of it. This single Remark appears to me to be a fufficient Reply to all the Arguments contained in the long and elaborate Letter from Mr. Horsley; and if it is conformable to the Sense of the other Members of the Board, it may be expressed as their general Observation upon it, with the following Resolution which I recommend: That the Secretary be desired to inform Mr. Horsley, that they did not require his Animadversions upon their Measures, although they should have been pleased to have received from him any Lights which he could have afforded them, and for which they were referred to him by the President and Salest Committee and Salest Com by the President and Select Committee upon the Subject of Assairs of Bombay; that they have therefore thought it proper to repeal the Resolution which they passed on the 31st May, to furnish Mr. Horsley with Copies of all Letters to the Select Committee of Bombay, and of all the Relofolutions of the Board relative to that Presidency in its Secret Departments; and that he has their Permission to return to Bombay whenever he has fulfilled the Terms or Objects of his Mission.

Agreed to the Governor General's Propolitions; and ordered, That the Secretary do notify the same to Mr. Horsley.

APPENDIX, N° 202.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 21st June 1779.

READ the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard:

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, and Supreme Council.

Gentlemen;

I had the Honour to transmit you an Address the 14th Instant, which went by Sea under Charge of Mr. Raitt, and will I hope have arrived safe before this can reach you. I am solicitous about your receiving that Dispatch, because accompanying it I have forwarded all the Returns and Paymaster's Accounts of Disbursements to the End of March, with other Papers for your Inspection.

I have nothing material to communicate to you of the Situation of Affairs here, as they remain nearly in the fame State as when I wrote you from Bombay. If the Chiefs at Poona have renewed their Demands upon, or made any late Proposals to the Bombay Government, it is unknown to me, and for myself I have had no Correspondence with them since my Arrival. According to the Resolutions I informed you I had thought it proper to adopt, I shall wait your Instructions before I enter upon any Measures whatever. I am in the mean Time endeavouring to obtain the best Intelligence of what is transacting around me, and consulting the Means most proper to be used in Prosecution of the Plan you may determine upon, whenever I can receive your Orders.

By confirmed Advices from Poona, the Diffentions subfifting among the Leaders open a Field for successful Intrigue, exclusive of any Use that might be made of supporting Ragoba's Preten-Freten-fions, the affifting which would, it is probable from past Experience, be the Means of uniting Parties rather than arming them against each other; and indeed, in his present Situation, might be altogether impolitic, although the Consinement of Sicceram, who was always suspected of Partiality to the Interests of Ragoda, might give Reason to believe that Nanhah Furnese had removed every Object of Suspicion, and strengthened his Power beyond the Dread of any future Opposition. This Appearance of Security is in Reality most deceitful, for his whole Dependance is placed upon the Support of Scindia; and this Chief, besides his known Reputation for Cunning and Duplicity, has exhibited a recent and manifest Proof of the Arts by which he means to maintain his own Influence in the Government, in the Part he took and still takes regarding Ragonaut Row, whom he preserved from Nannah's Resentment, after the unfortunate Issue of the Expedition from Bombay had left him exposed to the Malice of his Enemies, and whom he at this Time retains in his own Hands, to hold out in terrorem, should he find the Party to which he is at present engaged assume an Independence dangerous to his own ambitious Views. Ragonaut Row was sent from Poona, under the Charge of fome of Scindia's Troops, and by the last Intelligence was within a few Miles of Burhampore, in the Neighbourhood of which it is faid he is to refide during the Rains. It is difficult to reconcile the Conduct of Scindia on this Occasion, upon any other Grounds than what I have above supposed; his Professions to Ragoba have been most fair and flattering, and he has even gone fo far as to give him Hopes of befriending his Caufe. This however, it is plain, he means nothing less than doing, and while he even suffers them to exist, his only Motive is politically to check the dangerous Presumption for an Administration at prefent subject to his Controul, but when Circumstances might so far favour at a future Period as to let his Power at Defiance.

With these Principles of Distunion substituting among the Marattas, a more promising Occasion than the present cannot offer itself for interfering in their Affairs; and though a Plan of Conquest to extensive as the settling their Government, or disposing of the chief Authority in it, might not, after the Opportunity lately lost, be considered as political, or consistent with the Company's Interest; I am affured that the Appearance of Hostilities on our Side will obtain a Compliance from them of any Demands you may think it necessary to make, either of Territory or Money; to reimburse the Expences of your Armies upon the Claim established by the Treaty of the Bombay Government with Ragonaut Row, or upon any other you may choose to found on their former Breach of Faith, and the hostile Conduct of their Subjects on my March.

I have hazarded these sew Remarks on the Supposition only of a Failure in your intended Negociations with the Rajah of Berar, whom I still hope, notwithstanding the doubtful Part his Fears of the Ministers after their Victory at Juliagong may have led him apparently to take, an Attention to his own Interest, and the Dread of your just Resentments, will fix firm in the Measures he once I am persuaded proposed to adopt. I the less regret my want of Power at this Time to be fully explicit regarding Moodajee's present Sentiments, because they must long ere this be clearly Rep. VI.

discovered to you; and since the Return of his Vackeel, who went away instructed in every Point necessary to be communicated to his Master, I have received only One short Letter from the Rajah, wherein he repeats his anxious Expectation of Dispatches from your Government by which his Conduct will be directed. His Silence towards me may perhaps be accounted for from the Distance that now separates us, and Motives of Fear lest his Letter should be intercepted and fall into the Hands of the Ministerial Party through whose Country they must pass.

It is necessary that I now say something of the Province of Guzerat, whose favourable Situation, no less than Fertility and Extent, points it out as a most valuable and tempting Acquisition to the Company on this Side of India. It is unnecessary to trouble you with an Account of its Revenues and Riches, as these must be well known to you: What I mean to explain, is the Ease with which a Conquest might be now made of it; and the obvious Advantages will strike you them

Futty Sing Guicawar, who at prefent possesses the greatest Part of the Province, and shares it with the Marattas, although supported by their Power, has yet but a very weak and declining Authority, added to the Claim of Seniority by which an elder Brother, still living, diminishes the Force of his usurped Title. Another Brother, Govind Row, who holds Ahmedabad and its Dependencies, has always been at Variance with him, and is at this Time by no Means well inclined to his Interests: This has been secretly intimated to me since my Arrival. I am also well aware of the Use that might be made of the Nawab of Cambait: Many of the Principal Men of the Province have besides communicated their Discontents and Readiness to join the Forces of the English against Futty Sing. To these Advances my Replies, although tending to remove every Belief of Hostilities being intended against Guzerat, were calculated to give Encouragement in the Event of our Troops marching into it.

From the Circumstances just mentioned, and other Observations I have been able to make, I am persuaded that the Appearance of Arms, without any actual Exertion of their Force, would be sufficient to bring this Province into the Subjection of the Company; but should it be found otherwise, it is so situated for the Convenience of Supplies and Communication by Water, that it might with Ease be wrested from the present Possessor, and maintained against him, though the whole Force of the Maratta Empire was joined to his Support.

I beg to acquaint you, that I have received no Letter from your Board of a later Date than the 5th of February, which leads me to apprehend they may have been intercepted on the Road.

Camp near Surat, 20th July 1779.

I have the Honour, &c. &c. (Signed) Tho Goddard.

Ordered, That the above Letter lie for Consideration.

APPENDIX, N° 203 and 204.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 2d August 1779.

READ a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard as follows:

Gentlemen,

I have within these few Days been honoured with the Receipt of your Letters of the 18th March and of the 5th of April: A Triplicate of the former, and Duplicate of the latter, has only yet come to hand; I am therefore apprehensive the Originals may have met with some Accident on the Road, which has been the Cause of your Resolutions not reaching me before. This Delay cannot however be productive of any Inconvenience, as you will have found by the Letters addressed you from Bombay; and particularly by the Contents of one wrote so recently as the 22d ultimo, that I had determined not to take any Steps whatever, till I had received your final Instructions upon a Knowledge of the Situation of Affairs on this Side of India, subsequent to the unfortunate Failure of the Bombay Enterprize.

As I am now fully informed of the Objects you wish to accomplish, I shall neglect no Means consistent with Propriety and the Honour of the English Name, and conformable to the Spirit of your Orders, which can be conducive to restore that Peace and good Understanding betwirt the Marattas and the Government of Bombay you so much desire, and establish the Alliance of that Nation with the Honourable Company on a permanent Foundation.

Having had no Correspondence with the Poona Government since my Arrival, I am the less able to form any certain Conjecture of the Conduct they will follow, when your friendly Inclinations are communicated to them; but if a Conclusion may be drawn from the general Tenor of their Behaviour since the Superiority they lately acquired, there appears some Reason to suppose they will gladly embrace the Opportunity now offered them of securing the Advantages Fortune has given them, by entering into an Alliance with the English.

The principal Obstacle that now strikes me, will be the Disposal of Ragoba. It is not to be supposed they will consent to restore him into our Hands; and I do not at present conceive any other Means by which his personal Sasety can be provided for. However, of this I shall be stereaster better enabled to judge; and I shall literally conform to your Orders in making that an indispen-

My prefent Diftance from Poona, and Ignorance of the real Disposition of the Maratta Court, rendering it improper for me to leave the Army till that Point is afcertained, I have, as the only leading Step as I can now take, wrote a Letter in the Name of the young Peishwa; Copy of which I beg to inclose for your Perusal. I have at the same Time addressed Nanah Furneese, the acting Minister, and at prefent possessed of all the Nominal Authority in the Maratta State.

Minister, and at present possessed of all the Nominal Authority in the Maratta State.

I beg to affure you, I shall neglect no Means of obtaining from the Poona Court decisive Information regarding their real Disposition, which I will make a Point of doing in Time to communicate it to you, and receive your final Instructions upon a Knowledge of their Sentiments, before the Season of military Operations arrives.

Should their Reply be favourable to the pacific Plan you have laid down, the clear Time already prescribed in your Letter of the 5th April, has made me fully Master of the Views of your Government, which I shall constantly have in Mind. And in the mean Time I have wrote to the Gentlemen at Bombay, to explain to me the Situation in which the Proondur Treaty now stands; and how far the several Articles contained in it have been complied with.

It is at present unnecessary to say more, than in a few Words to assure you of the grateful Sense I have of the Considence you have reposed in me, which I shall endeavour to evince the Truth of by the unremitting Ardour with which I shall prosecute the Object you have directed my Attention to.

Suffer me only to add, that should Obstinacy or Presumption on one Part, render my Essorts ineffectual, every Circumstance in the Situation of Assairs concurs to promise an Issue no less savourable to the Interests of the Company by a Recourse to Arms, than the Mode you have adopted of Negociation.

I shall not fail to communicate to you from Time to Time the smallest Occurrence of any Consequence.

After the usual Address and Compliments, it proceeds as follows:

At this Time Letters have arrived from the Governor General and Supreme Council of Bengal, in which they write, that Friendship and good Understanding has long subsisted betwixt them and the Rulers of the Maratta State; according to which, a Part of their Armies under my Command have marched in Peace through your Dominions; and Differences having now arisen betwixt your Government, and the Gentlemen of the Council at Bombay, they have appointed me to remove all Cause of Difference, and restore the Harmony formerly subsisting betwixt you; for which Purpose they have made me their Minister, with full Powers to conclude a Treaty of Alliance on their Parts betwixt the Honourable East India Company and the Maratta Government, which shall be for the mutual Interest and Honour of both Parties, and endure like the Wall of Alexander to the latest Generation. I send you inclosed a Copy of the Writing by which they have delegated these Powers to me for your Perusal and Satisfaction.

From the friendly Inclinations expressed by my Government, and my own Wishes to promote a good Understanding betwixt you, I am also well assured that you, agreeable to the Dictates of Wisdom, and a Regard to the Happiness of Mankind, will concur in the same amicable Sentiments, since it is a Circumstance samed throughout the whole World, that the English, as they are sincere and open in their Intentions, always continue firm, and persevere in their Enmittees and Friend-

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 8th July 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Esquires, Philip Francis, Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

RECEIVED the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you the 2d Instant, acquainting you with the Steps I had taken in Obedience to your Orders of the 5th April, for negociating with the Poona Government, which I hope will have reached you safe, and my Conduct been honoured with your Approbation.

The Intention of this is to communicate to you as early as possible an Event, extraordinary as unexpected, of which I have just received Intelligence.

Ragonaut Row, whose Surrender into the Hands of the ministerial Party, seemed to have established them securely in their Government, and completed their Success over the Forces of Bombay, has found Means to escape from their Power, and is arrived within a few Miles of Broach; from the Neighbourhood of which Place he has wrote me, that, confiding in the Friendship of the English, and trusting to me for Protection, he had seized an Opportunity of surprising the Party belonging to Madjee Scindia, who were conducting him to the Northward of the Nerbudda, and that there Leader, Hurry Bawajee, died a few Days after of the Wounds he received in the Contest.

Upon receiving the first News of Ragoba's Escape, I was alarmed at the Consequences it might be productive of, to the Negociation now on Foot with the Maratta Leaders, and apprehensive less the shewing him any Countenance at this Time, might be construed into an Act of Hossility, inconsistent with the Sentiments I had so recently expressed to them in your Name. But when I came to reflect more fully on the Matter, I was convinced that it not only corresponded with the Spirit of the Instructions received from you, touching the Provision for his personal Safety, but that it might be reconciled to the Poona Durbar upon every Principle of Justice and Humanity; and that, in the present Situation of Affairs, it would be of the most important political Advantages to get Possession of the Person of Ragoba, as any Concession made hereafter on our Side regarding him, would be an Instance of Moderation, for which we might exact a suitable Return, and befides the Apprehension of his being supported by us in his Claims on their Government, would make the Ministers the more eager to come to an Accommodation upon Terms which it would then be lest to us to dictate.

I have therefore confented to Ragoba's Solicitation, and affured him he shall find an Afylum in my Camp, and personal Security from all his Enemies, and that I shall immediately write to you, and acquaint you of his fortunate Escape, and receive your further Orders how to act. I have not thought it necessary to be more particular with him till we meet; I have only cautioned him to restrain his People from committing any Violence upon the Subjects of the Maratta State, under the Sanction of the English Name, as I shall not at present support him in it.

I have not yet received an Answer to this Message, but I think no Time should be lost in communicating to you a Circumstance of so much Importance.

I therefore now write you in this general Manner, and shall defer Particulars either till I see Ragoba, or till he should have determined to come in to me, or throw himself again on the Government

We have had the Honour to receive in Triplicate your Letter of the 5th April, and Colonel Goddard having also announced to us your Appointment of him as Minister from your Government, to treat with the Peishwa and Ministers of the Maratta State; we shall, according to his Defire, give him every Information in our Power, that may be of Service to him in his Negociation, and pay strict Attention to your Orders respecting the Commission of Hostilities.

Our Dispatch of the 4th April will have acquainted you of our having given Permission to Ghazudy Cawn to proceed to Surat, in order to take Passage for Mecca; but we understand, that owing to some Dissertance between him and Chillaby, the Owner of the Ship bound to that Port, he did not profecute his Pilgrimage, but still remains at Surat. We beg Leave to observe, that his Removal to Bombay was perfectly fatisfactory to him; and that upon his expressing a Desire to return to Surat, he was immediately accommodated with one of the Honourable Company's Vessels.

The Intelligence of Ragoba having effected his Escape from Madjee Scindia, has been fince confirmed by a Letter from the Chief of Surat, with this further Circumstance, that he was directing his Course to that City; and a subsequent Letter from Colonel Goddard informs us of his safe Arrival within the Honourable Company's Protection. As this Event may be productive of very important Consequences, we lose not a Moment in apprising you thereof; and for this Purpose we now dispatch the Jappy Snow Express to Bengal; and, at the same Time, to soward a Packet for your Honourable Board, received from Colonel Goddard.

We inclose Copies of the Letters, above noticed, from the Chief of Surat, and Colonel Goddard. That no Step of ours might tend to frustrate the Negociation you have been pleased to commit to Rep. VI. Colonel Colonel Goddard, we immediately upon Receipt of the former Letter, sent Directions to Mr. Boddam to desire Ragoba to seek an Asylum in some other Place, as we could not consent to receive him under Protection, even till your Pleasure was known; but we at the same Time intimated, that if Colonel Goddard should think proper to receive him, it was a Point that must be determined by his own Judgment, and he must be responsible for the Consequences. A Copy of our Letter to the Chief of Surat, on this Subject, is also transmitted.

The Circumstances of Ragoba's Escape are very unaccountable, and have much the Appearance of Connivance on the Part of Madjee Scindia. It is faid he is accompanied with 4 or 5000 Men, and that he has brought all his Guns with him, to the Number of Twenty.

We beg Leave to notice to you, that One or Two of your last Letters, on political Matters, have been addressed to the President and Council, instead of the Committee.

If you should make us any further Remittances by Bills on Surat, much Time will be faved at this Season of the Year, by sending the Bills under Cover directly to the Chief and Council.

As several of our small Vessels are now absent on different Services, we have directed Mr. Horsely

Honourable Sir,

I dispatch this Pattamar express to acquaint you, that this Noon I received a Letter from Mr.

"Ragonaut Row and Iris Family, with Imrut Row and an Army of about Five thousand Horse and Foot passed by Cabbeer Waik opposite to the great Tree at Souelterrah about One o'Clock this Day; he was going on towards Surat, and fent over his Hircarrahs to know where Mr. Gam-" bier was, and has wrote to him. It feems he has cut off Scindia's Decan, who was escorting him "to a Fort in the Malva Country; and Ragonaut Row got Intelligence he was to be made a Prifoner, which was the Cause of this Affair happening. It was about 15 Days ago this hap-

I have not as yet feen any thing of the Letter that Mr. Bouchier mentions to be fent me from Bowa Pier Ghaut; but the Colonel has had Letters from Ragonaut Row last Night much to the same Purport; and Ragonaut Row is expected at this Place as To-night or To-morrow. The President has laid before us your Letter of the 5th Instant to him.

We can foresee numberses Difficulties and Inconveniences should Ragoba be again taken under our Protection, even till we could receive the Orders of the Governor General and Council on the Subject; and that it might be an insuperable Obstacle to any Accommodation being effected with the Poona Government by Colonel Goddard: We therefore direct that you do desire Ragoba to seek an Asylum in some other Place, as we cannot, circumstanced as we now are, consent to receive him. But it is necessary to apprize you that should Colonel Goddard, to whom the Negociation is committed, think proper to receive him, it is a Point which must be determined by his Judgment; and he must be responsible for the Consequences.

READ the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard:

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to inform you in a Letter of the 6th Instant, of the Escape of Ragonaut Row from the People who were placed over him by Scindia, and his Arrival in the Neighbourhood of my Camp. He has fince repeatedly solicited Permission to come and receive my Protection, which I have granted him; and this Morning he paid me a Visit with his adopted Son, Amrut Row, a young Man of about 17 Years old, and Badjerow, a Child of 4 Years, born to himself since the Adoption of the former.

I have already in general Terms suggested to you the Advantages which it appears to me may be derived from this unexpected Event, and that you may be at no Loss respecting the probable Consequences

N° 207 and 208. APPENDIX,

Consequences it may have at this Time, on account of the Line of Conduct I have laid down, I beg Leave to affure you that I shall prosecute the Negociations for Peace with the same Ardour and Affiduity as before it happened; and that from the Nature of the Circumstance itself, as well as the Alarm it has given at Poora, I have Reason to believe the Maratta Ministers will not only be more disposed by it to adopt pacific Measures, but will also be glad to accept of such Terms as you shall dictate to them.

In your Letter of the 5th April, you have directed that the Provision for Ragoba's personal Safety alone be made an indispensable Engagement, and this you did when himself and Family were in the Power of his Enemies, whose Interest and Object it would have been to remove him. Now that the Scene is totally changed, that Affairs on this Side of India are reverted to the fame Situation in which they were before, in the inglorious Convention made at Tilliagony, which the Government of Bombay have themselves disavowed in the first Instance, and which you also have directed me in your Instructions to propose to the Ministers, as a leading Article that is to determine the Alternative of Peace or War; their relinquishing any Claim to it appears an Argument sounded on Reason and sound Policy; that we should avail ourselves of the favourable Opportunity that now presents itself, from the Possession of Ragoba's Person and Family, but above all from the Presence of your Forces under my Command; and the invincible Accession of Strength it gives to the Arms of the English in the Country, to conclude a Treaty with the Maratta Nation upon Terms the med honourable and beneficial to the Company, and which from the superior Advantages acquired by it may ensure to them a permanent and undisturbed Possession of their Territories on this Side of India.

I do not doubt, but when the Intelligence of Ragoba's Escape shall have reached you, you will have immediately dispatched fresh Instructions for my further Guidance. These may arrive long before the Scason for military Operations begins; and in the mean Time, admitting the Ministers are open to Negociation, I shall adhere literally to the Proposals you have already entrusted metals make, using only the Latitude you have given me respecting Ragoba, to demand such Conditions in his Favour as the Nature of his present Situation will admit of, and by these Means I shall be able to protract the Negociation, without materially interrupting it, until I can receive your

The advantageous Points, which the Poffession of Ragoba's Person puts it in our Power to infit upon, in Addition to the'e you have prescribed, appear to me, Ist. The Payment of the Debt due from him to the Company.

2dly, The Reimburlement of the Expences of the Bengal Army; and, Lastly, The Cession in Perpetuity of Bassein, Choule, or those Places which were agreed to be delivered up by him, in the late Treaty he made with the Bombay Government.

In return for these Concessions on their Part, Ragoba might relinquish all Pretensions to the Peishwaship, or to the Direction of Affairs in the Maratta State, and sit down contented with a Provision from the Sircar, adequate and proportioned to his Rank and Birth, but possessing no public Polt or Employment under Government. The Viciffitudes of Fortune Ragoba has felt, and to critical Situation from which he has lately escaped, would easily reconcile these Conditions to he Acceptance: Besides that, if consistent with the Objects of your political Views, he must of Necessity acquiesce; he has made no particular Overtures to me since his Arrival, but has thrown himfelf entirely upon your Government, to which I have referred him for every thing, venturing is present to assure him only in your Name, of personal Sasety and Protection.

It becomes necessary now, that I should endeavour to explain to you the Circumstances by what an Event so extraordinary as Ragoba's Escape was effected; and as I derive my Knowledge of the principally from himself, and People affected to his Interests, it may be in some Measure suspected of Partiality; at any rate, the Conduct of Scindia on this Occasion seems almost inexpli-

To him the Surrender of Ragoba's Person had been made by the Committee; and he, from Reasons of Policy, which I have accounted for in a former Letter, took upon himself the Management of the M nagement of all Business with Ragoba afterwards. I cannot help being of Opinion, that the Brahma has proved too artful a Politician for the Soldier, however contrary it is to the Characteristic of the latter to be overcome by the Weapons of Deceit, which he is famed for practifing fo well."

Standard Reference every Appearance of ceremonious Respect, even so much as to leave him that the contraction of the result of the contraction of the result of the contraction of the Troops who had accompanied him from Bombay, and all his Artillery except Two Field Pieces, which he requested from him. With this Force of his own, consisting of about 1500 Horse and Foot, with above Twenty Pieces of Ordnance, Ragoba marched from Poona towards the Northern Jaghiers, where Scindia had agreed to pay him an Allowance of 12 Lacks of Rupers yearly, attended only by about 4000 Horse belonging to the latter Chief. Many Causes of Discontent arose upon their Route to the Nerbudda, owing to the improper Behaviour of Hursy Bowajee, who commanded Scindia's People, and was entrusted with the conducting Ragoba; for on the Requisition made by the latter for his stipulated Allowance, he put off the Payment under various Pretences, and failed in assisting him with Provisions, Forage, &c. for his Troops. Ragoba allowance, the Calculate of the Sainting him with Provisions, Forage, &c. for his Troops. received Advice, that Scindia had seized upon and put to Death Two of his principal Jemidars, and had detained in Confinement many of his Mute-suddies and People, contrary to a Promise he had made, that they should be sent after him. To these Seeds of Resentment on the Part of Ragoba, he learnt that Scindia's Chief, suspicious of some Designs, had wrote to his Master for a Reinforcement; ment; and he further adds, that credible Information had been given him of the Intention of Scindia to confine his Person in some Fortress in the Northern Districts. The Plan therefore of his Escape was, I am well convinced, pre-concerted, though he pretends to say that Accident effected it, for that on their Arrival at the Ghaut of Burwa upon the Nerbudda, as his Artillery was conducting to the River in order to cross, the Road led near Hurry Bowajee's Tent, and the latter alarmed and suspecting some Treachery, ordered his People to fire, which they did; afterwards the Action commenced, in which he came off victorious, and the Troops of Bowajee fled, who was himself wounded, in endeavouring to make his Escape more than a Mile from where the Tumult first arose, and died a few Days after of the Wounds he there received. I have been as particular as I could be in the Detail of this Circumstance, because I make no Doubt it will be represented by the Mini-sterial Party in the blackest Colours they can invent, to colour, perhaps, their own Cruelties here-

APPENDIX, Nº 207 and 208. Nº 209.

The Conduct of Madajee Scindia still remains a Mystery, and the little Precaution he seems to have taken on this Occasion to secure the Person of Ragoba, is a Subject of great Astonishment.

By Accounts from Poona fince the News of this Transaction reached them, the Chiefs are greatly incensed with him, and have declared they must consider him as responsible for the Loss of Ragoba; so that it is probable at any rate this Event will tend to encrease their mutual Jealousies and Diffentions, and lead to the more successful Accomplishment of your Views regarding the Maratta Government.

I beg to enclose for your Perusal a Letter I have wrote to the Peishwa and Ministers on the Subject of Ragoba's Escape.

Since my Letter of the 6th Instant, informing you of the Escape of Ragoba from the Power of the Ministers, and his sase Arrival within the Company's Authority, I understand that he has visited and been received by Mr. Gambier at Broach.

As this Event cannot but be intimately connected with the Conduct of the Negociation committed to me by the Government of Bengal; I am concerned at the Circumstance of Ragoba's having been acknowledged by any Person holding so public and distinguished a Station under you, because it may preclude me from pursuing any particular Line I might think consistent with the Instructions of my Government, and it may besides be diametrically opposite to the Spirit of them, and be the Means of rendering my Endeavours to execute their Commands in the important Charge with which they have intrusted me, abortive and inessectual.

I need not observe to you, Gentlemen, the Propriety there would have been if the Application made by Ragoba, in the first Instance, had been immediately and altogether referred to me, because I am sensible you will concur in the Opinion, that exclusive of the political Reasons I have given above it has a Mark of Respect due to the Supreme Government of India, that any Overture from a Member or Subject of the Maratta Empire should have been previously received by their

As I am, however, perfuaded that Mr. Gambier must have acted on this Occasion without any particular Instructions from your Committee, and as it is probable he may not have been informed to the Name of the Nature and Extent of my Appointment from Bengal at the Court of Poona, I am led to request you will be pleased to signify it to him, and to the Gentlemen composing your Council both at Surat and Broach, in order that nothing may hereafter happen from an Inattention to that

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I was honoured with your Commands of the 10th Instant, last Night; the Pattamars give the leasons for their not making greater Dispatch, was owing to the Badness of the Roads from the lain.

You will have been fully acquainted by the general Advices of the 14th Instant, of the tep Ragonath Row had taken in foliciting the Protection of the Bengal Camp, and that the Tame ad been afforded him by Colonel Goddard. He now resides at the Gardens of Mahomed Baug, n Consequence of an Application both from the Colonel and Ragonath Row, to procure the same or his Family's Accommodation during the Monsoon, and in consequence came into Town for hat Purpose the 15th Instant. He is now entirely under Colonel Goddard's Protection, with whom every Transaction will pass and all Responsibility rest. I shall in no Respect interfere, but solely ict in any good Offices from the Application that may be made by Colonel Goddard.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 2d August 1779.

Letter from General Goddard-18th June 1779.

Gentlemen,

Had the Honour to write you the 12th Instant, acquainting you with the Escape of Ragoba, and his Reception in my Camp. He has at this Time solicited me to forward an Address to your Government from himself; which I have done myself the Pleasure of transmitting to the Honourable the Governor General.

In a long Conference I have had with Ragoba fince my last, he has explained many Circumstances relative to his Situation preceding the late Event, that discover more particularly the Views of the several Parties in the Maratta State than the Intelligence I before obtained from other Channels less informed in these Points; though at the same Time they tend to confirm in general the Opinion I have already given in a former Letter, of the Sentiments of the principal Leaders. He affirms, that the Prospect of a foreign Invasion is the only Bond which unites Nana Furness and Madajee Scindia; and if that was once removed, the latter would soon prosecute his ambitious Projects of making himself sole and absolute Master of the Maratta State, otherwise they will be found to act in concert with each other. With respect to the Sentiments of Tookajee Holcar, he is affured of their being amicable towards himself, and attributes the Whole of the late Conduct of that Chief, to his Fears of Madajee Scindia and the Ministers, remarking, that Tookajee's Character is noted for Excess of Timidity and Irresolution.

He affigns as the Reason for his chusing to deliver himself into the Hands of Madajce Scindia, the implacable Enmity he knew was borne him by Nana Furnese, and the Necessity there was of his being at that Time sacrificed for the Sasety of the English Army. This Measure was, he says, resolved on with the Concurrence of the Committee, the Morning preceding that Night when the satal Retreat was attempted; and as Madajee Scindia had attempted to send in a Person next Day, to treat upon the Terms of a Peace, he is convinced, if that ruinous Step had not been taken in the Interim, they might have obtained Conditions far more honourable and advantageous, than those they were at last compelled to accept. It appears indeed most probable from the Circumstance of the Troops having met with no Repulse at that Time, and the Joy the Ministers would receive at being delivered from an Enemy whom they could not but consider as formidable, that the Conclusion of Ragoba is justly founded.

From the ambitious Defigns of Madajee Scindia, Ragoba knew that he should find in him a Protector from the Resentment of the Ministers; and here his Policy was not deceived, for that Ched took upon himself the Management and Conduct of his Business, and an Agreement was made between them in Writing, that Ragoba should receive an Allowance of 12½ Lacks of Rupecs per Annum, and should be put in Possession of Jansee, with a Tract of Country in its Neighbourhood, and the District of Bundlecund, from whence he was to draw that Amount, exclusive of every Expense attending the Collections and Government of the Country. On Pretence of this, Scindia was conducting Ragoba across the Nerbudda, when he found Means to make his Escape in the Manner I have described in my former Letters; and for the Reasons I have also hinted at, that Madajee Scindia had broken through many Parts of his Agreement, by putting to Death some and confining others of his principal Officers and Adherents; and that added to his own Knowledge of the Ticachery and Ambition of this Chief, Ragoba was credibly informed, he intended to act a persidious Part, and secure his Person in the Fort of Jansee. Indeed it is not to be doubted, but this was his Intention, and however a general View of this Transaction might give room to suspect that the Escape of Ragoba was connived at by him, the positive Declarations of the former, and a minute Attention to the Circumstance that attended it, removes every Idea of that having been the Case.

Interests, and the future Hopes he still derives from the Support and Friendship of the English; before I enter upon which, it may not be improper to assure you, that although I wished him to declare his Sentiments without Disguise or Reserve, I gave him no Encouragement beyond his own personal Security, and that of his Family; or that might make him believe he would be aided in he Pretensions upon the Sovereignty of the Maratta States, or receive any further Assistance from your Governments, than what a sincere Wish to restore Peace and Tranquillity to the Assairs of the Decay founded upon Principles of Justice and Equity, might dictate. He began by extolling the Trassand Bravery of the English Nation, which had raised them to be the Sovereigns of Hindostan; and particularly magnified the Arms and Councils of Bengal, which had been crowned with uninterrupted Victory. Considing in these, he had come once more to throw himself upon their Protection, and would submit to whatever Fortune they might think proper to allot him; as it was from their Fortune and Assistance alone, that he could derive any Hope of suture Success. He acknowledged.

that when the Bombay Troops took the Field, he had affured that Government, that his Standard would have been joined by numerous Partizans, which proved not to be the Case; but in this Matter he was himself deceived. At the same Time he added, that he is of Opinion, if the Army, instead of retreating, had pushed forward with Vigour, many who were inclined to his Cause, would have been encouraged to come over to him. Another Reason he assigned for the Backwardness of those who secretly favoured him was, the Tenor of the Treaty made with the Bombay Government, establishing his Authority in the State, by which it was made merely of a temporary and nominal Nature, while the Marks of real Sovereignty, the Title of Peilhwa, and the Privilege of having the Sicca struck in his Name, was conferred upon another. His undeterminate and unsettled System, while it held the Minds of Men suspended betwixt their Hopes on one Side, and their Fears On the other, must, he said, naturally deter them from declaring themselves, however strong their Inclinations, till some decisive Blow was struck to turn the Balance of the former.

He talked much, but in general Terms, as I did not think it proper to question him particularly on that Head, of the ample Concessions he was ready to make in Favour of the English, if they befriended his Cause; and from the Nature of the Circumstance itself, there is not a Doubt, in the Event of such a Measure being adopted, but the Advantages would be all our own. He added a Circumstance respecting the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, that in his late Route towards the Nerbuddah, a secret Emissary came to him from that Prince, pressing him to make his Escape from Aurungabad by any Means in his Power, and he would protect him against the Maratta Ministers. The Cause of this Conduct in Nizam Ally Cawn is, some late Offence he has received from that Party, who in the former War with Ragonaut Row ceded to him a Tract of Country, upon Condition of his aiding them in it, and fince getting Ragoba's Person into their Hands, though they have not actually taken any hostile Steps for its Recovery, yet they have made known their Intention of resuming it the first Opportunity. The Policy therefore of Nizam Ally Cawn must be, to find them Employment, which may divert their Attention from that Object, and leave him the undisturbed Possession of the Country before ceded to him, by alarming their Fears of being attacked from a foreign Quarter; and on this Prefumption, and the Resentment he may be supposed to feel for the Injury intended him, Ragoba ventures to declare, that Nizam Ally Cawn will not join the ministerial Party, but be ready to act against them.

With respect to Hyder Ally, he has been at constant Variance with the present Poona Administration for some Years, and has frequently affisted Ragoba with Sums of Money, for the Support of himself and Family.

I have been thus minute in laying before you the Particulars of Ragoba's Conversation, that you may be clearly and completely informed of his Sentiments, with the Foundation on which he builds his future Prospects, and while you derive from their Description a more ample Knowledge of the weak and distracted State of the Maratta Government, adopt such further Measures as your Wisdom shall dictate as best suited to improve any Advantage that may be derived from the late Resolution.

Camp, near Surat, 18th June 1779.

I have the Honour, &c. (Signed) Tho Goddard. (Signed)

P. S. Since writing the above, I have received Intelligence from a Person at Poona, whose Authority I can depend upon, that the Consternation there, on account of the Escape of Ragonaut Row, is excessive, and is augmented by some late considerable Encroachments Hyder Ally has made upon the Southern Boundaries of their Dominions, so much so, that they are preparing to arm against the Approach of so dangerous an Enemy.

This is also confirmed by Intelligence from Bombay, which I think it necessary to communicate to you, that the Peishwa and Madjee Scindia have wrote Letters to that Presidency, advising them of their Intentions to march and punish Hyder; and expressing a Wish for settling their mutual Disputes, and that the Person intrusted with that Dispatch may be sent forward to your Government. I mention this, because it shews in how altered a Style they speak, from the Language used by them after their late Victory, and proves the just Grounds of the present Apprehensions that fill their Minds. I may now expect to hear from the Ministers myself every Day, and to have an Opportunity of writing you in the most full and satisfactory Manner: In the mean Time, as the Circumstance of Ragoba's Escape may induce you to make some Additions to the Instructions already given, I shall protract the Conclusion of any Thing decisive in the Negociation with the Durbar, until I can hear from you; and I am of Opinion it will require small Effort on my Part to effect this, as Causes of Delay will I apprehend spontaneously and necessarily arise of themselves.

When I quitted Bombay with an English Force, and the English retreated from Tellegong and I went to Tocojee Holcar, and Madajee Sindea at that Time, I executed whatever Engagements those Chiefs chose to impose on me, and they on their Part entered into Engagements REP. VI. [0] with me. They gave me a Country of 12 Lacks and a Half of Rupees exclusive of the Talook of Jhansee with the Selcundee and Charges of the Forts and Mahals, and engaged to give me a further Country to the Amount of 10 or 15 Lacks of Rupees. Madajee Sindeah gave me a Body of his own Forces, under the Command of a Chief named Hurry Bawajee, through whose Haugh tiness and Disinclination towards me many Articles on that Part of Sindeah were not sulfilled by him. For Example, Two of my People, one named Racese Mahomed, a Jemautdar of Gardees, the other Curruck Sing, a Jemautdar of Peons, whom he took from me on an Engagement, that he should not touch their Lives, but keep them close Prisoners; these he put to Death, and others of my People, whose Liberty was stipulated for in the Treaty, he nevertheless kept in Confinement. Thus they were guilty of several Breaches of Engagements. It was my Wish to have repaired to your Presence, but as this would have been a Violation of Treaty, I was obliged to decline it.

When the Engagements were violated by them, in Confidence of your steady Friendship and Regard, I chastised the Troops of Sindeah, and by forced Marches reached Surat, and waited on Colonel Goddard who is here on your Part. The Restoration of my Affairs now rests with you, and I have no Doubt but you will call my faithless Servants who have ruined my Affairs and thrown the whole Country into Consulton to a strict Account, and will re-establish them on a firm Footing: For this Purpose it is expedient that you issue Orders to Colonel Goddard for my Restoration.

APPE'NDIX, N° 211.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 2d August 1779.

THE following Minute from Sir Eyre Coote having been circulated, the Minutes which are entered after it were delivered by the Members of the Board.

Sir Eyre Coote—Having lately received fome Advices mentioning Preparations at the French Islands for a Descent upon some of our Possessions in India, particularly Bombay, to which I the more readily give some Credit, knowing that that Presidency and the Circars are the least secured; I am induced to propose that the Governments of Fort Saint George and Bombay be recommended to reinforce the Army under General Goddard with the following Proportion of Troops, which, from the last Returns, I think they may with Propriety comply with: viz.

From Madras.

1 Battalion of Europeans,
3 Ditto Sepoys,
50 Artillery.

From Bombay.

300 Europeans,
2 Battalions of Seapoys,
Artillery.

As the Works of Pondicherry are now destroyed, the Quota from Madras may the more easily be spared. The Troops they have at Mahé 1100 Sepoys, One Company of Grenadiers, and 50 Artillery, may immediately embark to join General Goddard; the rest may be completed from the Southern Stations, and will certainly be with him before any Operations of the Enemy can be commenced.

The Forces of Madras and of this Establishment are, in my Opinion, fully sufficient to protect our Possessinos on this Side of India; moreover, we are in daily Expectation of a great Addition to our Strength from Europe. I therefore also recommend that Drasts be sent from hence to complete the original Number of General Goddard's Detachment.

The Advantages we may expect to derive from this proposed Reinforcement will be the Security of Bombay against any Attack of the French, by having so strong an Army in the Field, the expediting of the much desired Peace with the Marattas (if this is not already accomplished) and the rendering our Force on the Malabar Coast of such Respect as to check any Designs which either the Marattas or Hyder Ally (the only Country Power from whom we have any Thing to dread on that Side of the Continent) may be inclined to form of taking Part with our national Enemies.

On the Whole, I submit this Plan as the Means which in my Judgment will insure the Peace and Safety of all our Possessions; for while we have so respectable a Force in that Quarter where we may expect the first Efforts of the French, we may be certain that it will confine their Atterition to it, and prevent them from disturbing our more valuable Territories in the other Part of

(Signed) Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis—I move that the Commander in Chief may be requested to inform the Board of the Particulars of the Intelligence he has received from the French Islands, and the Authority on which it is founded. The Board have yet no Materials before them to judge of the Propriety of the Measure recommended.

(Signed)

Philip Francis.

Mr. Barwell-The cautionary Measures proposed by Sir Eyre Coote, appear to me so well calculated for the Security of the Company's Possessions, that I am induced to give them my immediate and hearty Concurrence.

(Signed)

Richard Barwell.

Governor General-I agree most heartily to the Proposal made by the Commander in Chief.

(Signed)

Warren Hastings.

Mr. Wheler-Seen, and will endeavour to prepare my Opinion against the next Meeting of the Board.

(Signed)

Edward Wheler.

Sir Eyre Coote delivers in the following Minute:

I must own I feel myself not a little injured by Mr. Francis's Requisition; and will venture to ay, that a fimilar Instance cannot be found upon the Company's Records, and that it is unknown n any Service for a Commander in Chief, or any General Officer, to be called upon to support his Dpinion and Affertion, by giving up the Authors of his fecret Intelligence upon which these may be founded. I therefore peremptorily refuse it; and if the Opinion I have given on the 27th hould not guide the Board in the Mode of Defence proposed for Bombay, I hope I shall stand exonerated should any fatal Consequence happen to that Place.

Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis—Nothing can be personally of less Moment to me, than whether my Proposition be tarried or not. As a Member of the Government, I think it my Duty to oppose the establishing a Precedent, which I deem inconsistent with the Forms and Spirit of our Institution. Every Member of this Board has an equal Right to be informed of the Facts or Grounds on which a Resolution is aken. No separate exclusive Trust is vested in any one of us, nor is any one of us at Liberty to Eclegate the Trust vested in him to any one of the other Members: But if, as in the present Inbence, I am not to know what the Intelligence is on which the Board resolves to act, nor by what Authority such Intelligence is supported, I certainly am no Judge of the Necessity or Propriety of the Measures said to be sounded upon such Intelligence, and am so far forth deprived of the Exercise of the Trust reposed in me by Parliament. I did not mean however that the Commander in Chief should give up his Authors, if it was necessary to conceal them.

For these Reason, which I hope will not be thought to imply Disrespect to any Member of the Reason.

Board, I adhere to the Motion.

Mr. Wheler—I must join Mr. Francis in expressing my Wishes, that Sir Eyre Coote would be bleafed to communicate to the Board the Intelligence he has received, of Preparations making at he French Islands, and upon which he founds his present Motion to reinforce General Goddard; pecause I think, that before the Board pass their Determination on a Subject which may affect the Safety of the British Possessions in India, they ought to have every Information before them it is apable of.

I entirely agree with Sir Eyre Coote, that it is possible the French may be induced to make some Attempts on our Possessions in India with their Forces from the Islands; and if they have a consilerable Body of Men there more than sufficient for the Purposes of Defence, I hardly see any other

He to which it can be applied.

I agree likewise with Sir Eyre Coote, that Bombay is likely to be the Object of their Attack; pecaule, if they acquire that Place, they will at one and the same Time have a Port for their Fleet, Jocks, and Allies in their Neighbourhood, whom we have every Reason to suppose are, by repeated rovocations, made our Enemies. But I confess it does not occur to me, how the sending a Rein-orcement to General Goddard at Surat, and weakening Bombay itself, by detaching the greatest art of the Garrison, can contribute to the Sasety of that Place.

To illustrate this further, I need only take a View of the Situation of Bombay, that of General oddard's Army in respect to it, and the Mode of Attack to which Bombay is open. It is certain, hat this Atttempt can only be made by Sea, and equally to, that the French should for this surpose have either a superior Fleet to ours, or expect to find the Garrison of Bombay so weak, that it must fall before our Fleet could relieve it from any other Part of India. And if they co resolve on this Attack, it is hardly within the Bounds of Probability that we can receive any Intelligence of it, or the Governor of Bombay, before the Fleet and Army are within Sight, conficquently the Place will be invested by Sea and Land before any Succours can be thrown into How the Garrison of the Island of Bombay is to be relieved by Troops under General Good. after this Event, I do not understand; more especially as I am informed that it would be attended with great Difficulty, and much Time, to march the Troops from Surat to the nearest Part of the Continent opposite to the Island of Bombay.

I conclude therefore, that the Troops at Surat can be of no Service in case of an Attack on Born bay; and that we ought therefore, so far from sending Troops to the former Place, to bring down if possible the Troops that are there into the Neighbourhood of Bombay, for which I am told the Island of Salfette is very convenient. Nor do I conceive that, even if it should hereaster be expensed. dient to act against the Marattas, the Situation of our Troops will be at all altered for the work

On the Second Question, of sending Troops from the Coast. When I consider the great Extent of Country they have to cover and defend; the small Number of Europeans they have for that Purpose; the low State of their Finances; the Neighbourhood of powerful Enemies in Hyder Ally and the Nizam; and the Probability of the French Force being employed, either against the Circars, or to act in Concert with the former, I am equally against weakening or detaching the Force of that Prefidency.

On the Third Question, of sending Drafts from hence, to complete the original Number of General Goddard's Detachment, I fee many, and what appear to me, infurmountable Difficulties.

Such Reinforcement must consist of Native Troops, Sepoys, who if prevailed on to embark, the Season of the Year renders the Voyage next to impracticable.

By Land the Difficulties are equally great; the Army under General Goddard was near a Year raperforming its March, though he met with no Opposition; I do not conceive that a Detachment. Drafts will be more likely to march with Safety across India, than General Goddard's Detachmer but rather that they will be exposed to greater Difficulties; in the mean I ime the Expence is conand enormous, and the Money must be drawn directly from, and spent out of, Beng il.

I am equally at a Lofs to judge how the Army, proposed to be transported from the Coast of Malabar, is afterwards to be maintained there, or by what Means Remittances can be effected to support such an Army, and the Expences of a War on the Malabar Coast; but I am confident that these Remittances would, if practicable, prove the Ruin of the Company's valuable Pessisions en this Side of India.

I am therefore equally against this, as the other Propositions, and give it as my Opinion, that the true and only Line of Policy to be observed in the present State of Affairs in India, is, to concentr our Troops on the Malabar Coast to the Neighbourhood of Bombay, which I deem the furth Means of preserving that Place against the Attacks of the French, and that we should push whatever Advantages we actually possess, to their proper Objects of obtaining a lasting Peace on that Side of India.

General Coote-I entirely agree with Mr. Wheler, with regard to the Situation our Army should be placed in for the Security of Bombay. When I proposed reinforcing General Goddar', for the Defence of that valuable Settlement against the French, I could not have the smallest that that our Army was to remain where it now is; and the very Mode of reinforcing it with Part of the Bombay Troops, is a fufficient Proof that it was not my Plan in any Respect. The Preservation of Bombay is the first Object. The best Method of defending it, I will venture to say (and apply to the Opinion of the first Officers in Europe) is by an Army in the Field, so flationed, as to t able to give the Garrison immediate Succour, either by throwing fresh Troops into it from Time to

Time, or engaging the befieging Enemy.

The Situation that Bombay is now in, from the best Intelligence I have received (and I may be I have Intelligence that I can depend upon) is fuch as renders it, in my Opinion, abi-lutch re ceffary that fomething should be done for the Preservation of it; public as well as private R: ports from Europe mention a French Armament being destined, and actually failed, for the Ear Indies. By the last Accounts from the Cape, a 74 Gun Ship put in there, with a greater Number of Sick on Board than could be supposed to have arisen from her Complement of Men, and the Report was, that they were all the Sick of a Squadron to which she belonged. A 74 Gun She sailed into the Mauritius when our Cartel Ship was lying off the Harbour. This Ship, before the Man of War arrived, was under Orders to go to the Island of Bourbon, there to remain till the dismissed her; but immediately after the Arrival of the 74 Gun Ship, a Party of French was that it board, in order to affift in weighing her Anchor more expeditiously, and she receiving Orders from a 36 Gun Frigate (lying close by her, and which had been placed there as a Guard upon he.) to fail due North, till such Time as the Frigate street a Gun; she failed 20 Leagues in that Directors and in the Middle of the Night the Shires. and, in the Middle of the Night, the Ship fired a Gun, and then she shaped her Course for Madien. so that it is very natural to suppose, as least the Seafaring Gentlemen whom I have converted with G the Subject, think that she was ordered to shape that Course, to prevent her falling in with . We French Ships that might be bound for the Island. When I was at the Cape they most undoubted? had 5 or 6000 regular Troops at the Islands; and I am well informed, that they have been had reinforced, but with what Numbers I do not know; I am likewise informed, that the Duc de Laturio Legion

P E N DIX, Nº 211.

Legion is on board the Fleet, which I suppose is come to Mauritius; Part of them perhaps may be left behind at Senegal, for it is a Part of the fine Fleet, if not the Whole, which took Senegal. As to the Protection of Bombay, it can receive none but what we give it. It cannot come from Sir Edward Hughes, nor the Forces under his Cenvoy; they were not arrived at the Cape when the last Accounts came away, though expected there. The Troops he brings out are raw Troops, and will require tome Time for Refreshment at the Cape; the least that can be allowed is Six Weeks; they must ge the outward Paffage, and make Ceylon, after which they cannot get to Bombay, supposing them de termined to make the Trial, till after Christmas; therefore that Settlement, in cate of an Attack from the French, must either defend itself, or submit to the Enemy. It is my Business, as the Commander in Cluef in India, to propole fuch Meafures for the Defence of the Company's Settlements. and to recommend the Difpeful of their Strength in fuch Manner as will most effectually contribute to that End. When I have done this, I have done my Duty. It is with the Boards, wherever I may have the Honour of fitting, to determine the Propriety of my Propositions.

Mr. Francis—The Question is much altered by the Explanations with which the Commander in Chief has favoured the Board. If it be intended that Brigadier General Goddard shall move down with his Force from Surat to Bombay, and take the most advantageous Position which his Judgment shall point out to him for covering Bombay against an Invasion, I approve of the Idea, and join m it, but I beg Leave to fay, that this Intention does not appear upon the Lace of the Motion No Orders are propoted to Brigadier General Goddard to move from his prefent Station, nor any general Instructions recommended to him, upon the Supposition that the French may appear upor that Coast. From the Terms of the Motion, I should conclude that the Reinforcement was to proceed from Bombay to Surat, and there to join General Goddard; understanding the Motion in that Senfe, I mult confess, I thought it hable to the same Objections, which have been stated by Mr. Wheler; if it is not so, there can be no Difference of Opinion on this Past of the Proposition The Commander in Chief is undoubtedly the best Judge, whether the Force which he means to crow out of Bombay will be more usefully employed for the Purpose of defending that Place, by Johnso Brigadier General Goddard's Army in the Field, that is, in a Station calculated to cover Bombay, or by being kept in the Body of the Place. On this Point, I fubmit to the Commander in Chief's Nothority. I agree that the Madras Troops now at Mahé shall proceed to Bombay, or to the heighbourhood of that Place, and there join General Goddard, but not to Surat. With respect to any further Detachment from the Forces of Madras, I must declare that my Opinion entirely concurs with that of Mr. Wheler, and that if I recede from it, it is folely from the Confidence I place in the fuperior Judgment of the Commander in Chief, who affures us that the Forces of Madras and of this Ettablishment, are fully sufficient to protect our Pessessions on this Side of India, after making the Detachment in question to the other Coast. With respect to our reinforcing Brigadier General Goddard's Army by Drafts from hence, I am forry that fuch a Meafure should be found necessary, because I deem it a very great Addition to the Weight and Difficulty of maintaining a War on the Malabar Coast. I should acquiesce however if the Mode of conveying the Drafts from this to the other Side of India were stated and ascertained: I foresee great Difficulty in the Attempt; and no Probability that our Sepoys, supposing them arrived at their deflined Station, will continue to serve for any Length of Time at 10 great a Distance from Home. The Defections I fear will at leaft keep Pace with the Supplies, and the Operation will be Agreed to the Motion of the Commander in Chief, for reinforcing the Army under General

Governor Conetal-The first Duty of this Board upon the Subject now before us, and the first express Object of the Commander in Chief in his Minute, is to provide for the Defence of Bombay in the Event of an Invafion from the French; fo far the Opinions of the Board from to be united, and perhaps we shall agree in what I now recommend to that Essect, viz. That in our Advices to Brigadier General Goddard, we inform him of the Substance of the present Resolutions: That our Deligns in endeavouring to furnish him with this Addition of Strength, is to enable him to give tuch effectual Assistance and Support to the Government of Bombay in the Case of a French Invation, as may defeat it: That therefore he must regard this as his first Object, until there shall be no longer any actual Ground of Apprehension from the French; and make such a Disposition of the Detachment under his Command, as to infure his Co operation with the Garrifon of Bombay; et the frate Time that he is not to withdraw his Attention from the other Points which we have Given han in Charge. This I propose for that Part of our Instructions to him, which relates to the Subject in a charge before the Board. For the other Subjects contained in his Letters, these certal charge in Matters of Information, which require no Reply, but in his Letter of the 12th I'me, there are Three Points proposed by him for his Negociations with the Administration at Forma, which require some Order of the Board upon them. From the Advantage which he conto less we have derived from the Eleape of Ragonaut Row, and from our having obtained the Poi-3 filon of his Person from the weak and diffracted State of the present Rulers and Partizans of the Covernment at Poone, and from the Encroachments which Hyder Ally has lately made upon their Perders, General Goddard feems to be of Opinion that the Mmifters are neither in a State to sup-11 st a new War against us, nor of course to refuse their Asient to any reasonable Demands which Rop. VI. $\{P\}$ may be made on them as the Conditions of Peace. The Points which he proposes to be demanded from them are these, viz.

1st. The Payment of the Debt due from Ragonaut Row to the Company.

2d. The Reimbursement of the Expences incurred by the Expedition under his Command; and, 3dly. The Cession of Bassicin, Chowl, and the other Places which were agreed to be ceded by the last Treaty with Ragonaut Row.

I do not think it necessary, nor would I propose that he should be expressly enjoined to make these or any other specific Demands, besides those which he has been positively commanded to make in his Instructions of the 5th April; neither do I suppose that these Instructions can be deemed to preclude him from gaining any other Advantages which a fortunate Concurrence of Circumstances might enable him to obtain: In Answer therefore to this Part of his Letter, I would recommend that it be written to him, that we still abide by the Letter of our Instructions of the 5th April, which are to form the Rule of his Conduct in all his Negociations with the Administration at Poona; but that if it should be in his Power to obtain greater Advantages for the Company, and he shall not have concluded a Treaty with that Government at the Time of his receiving the present Dispatches, we authorize him in such Case to use his Endeavours for that Purpose; and particularly approve of the Three Points recommended in his Letter of the 12th June: That we think is most probable, either that the Maratta Government will have accepted of the first Offers which were made to them long before the probable Receipt of this Letter; or that either depending on their own superior Strength, or expecting the Arrival of a French Armament, they may have refused to relinquish any Part of their Pretensions derived from the Convention of Worgaum. In the first Cale, at is not likely they will yield to any new Demands on our Part, if they have thought themselves in a Capacity to enforce their own; but in the latter we conceive it not improbable, either that a Da appointment of their Expectations, if these should not be speedily realized, or the Effect of their mutual Jealousies, produced by such Expectations, may induce them not only to with for Peace, but even to solicit it, and to offer large Concessions to obtain it: And it is on this Supposition puncipally, that we approve of his looking to the further Acquisition of the Terms which he has recommended to us.

Mr. Barwell—I have already given my Opinion upon the Proposition of the Commander in Chief: I did not limit that Opinion to any partial Object, but had in view the general Interests of the Presidency of Bombay, and a final Settlement with the Maratta Government. I approve entirely of the Instructions now proposed by the Governor General, which seems not to have omitted any Point to which it is necessary General Goddard should give his Attention; none strike me at present; should any afterwards occur to my Recollection, I leave to myself a Latitude for extending these proposed Orders.

Mr. Francis—At a Time when the French are expected to attack Bombay, every Reason which heretosore induced the Board to wish for a speedy Accommodation with the Marattas, must acquire additional Strength.

I am forry that any Circumstance foreign from the immediate Execution of his Instructions, should have engaged Brigadier General Goddard's Attention, or diverted it from the Object we have so or & gently recommended to him.

His refolving to protract the Conclusion of any thing decisive in the Negociation with the Durbar until he can hear from us, is unauthorized, and may be attended with fatal Confequences. If a Peace be not concluded before the expected Arrival of the French on the Maldoar Coast, we may be morally certain, that we shall then have both the French and the Marattas to contend with. The Entrance into India, which has been happily thut, will again be opened to our natural Enemies. The Marattas will be ready to receive and affift them; and if once they get Footing upon the Continent, their being driven out again will depend upon the Event of a new Contest, in which we are far from having a certain Prospect of Success. For these Reasons I would direct Brigadier General Goddard to adhere literally to his Instructions, and close with the Marattas as speedily as possible. As to the Views now held out to us by Ragoba, or any new Advantages supposed to be attainable by our having him with us, I would positively order Brigadier General Goddard not to engage in them on any Account. Ragoba is a desperate ruined Man, whose Situation may make it indifferent to him what Terms he consents to, or what Promises he makes; but he has no Power, and can perform nothing. In the mean Time the Negociation with the Durbar, which it is so much our Interest to conclude, will be protracted; the French may arrive from the Coast; the Marattas of course will take Advantage of that Circumstance, and either refuse to treat with us at all, or insist on Conditions which they would not pretend at the present Moment. With respect to Ragoba, I would adhere to the Orders given to Brigadier General Goddard in our last Letter of the 8th July; viz. "We entirely approve of the Offer which you have made with Ragonaut Row, and direct that you continue to afford him the Protection of the Camp, to long as he shall continue to demand it; of your Negociations, to which you will give your entire Attention, without Regard to any other "of your Negociations, to which you will give your entire Attention, without Regard to any other Confideration."

"For the rest we leave you to act under our Instructions of the 5th April, in which we see no Cause to make any Alterations on account of this Event."

ENDIX, Nº 211.

Governor General-If I have not been sufficiently understood, I should have thought it unnecessary to have added an Article to General Goddard's present Instructions, had he not himself suggested Doubts where I think he ought to have entertained none. I have proposed to refer him to his present Instructions for the sole Rule of his Conduct, and have only said what I believe agrees with every Member of the Board, that if he can obtain better Terms in Addition to those we have already prescribed, he may do it; but we do not enjoin it, nor is he to suffer the great Object of his Negociation to be suspended or impeded by the Prosecution of any other Views. Much might be said in Answer to the other Parts of Mr. Francis's Minute. I wish to avoid a Debate: I thall therefore only briefly observe, that it is not with the Maratta State that Brigadier General Goddard has to treat, but with the Partizans of a Government diffracted and totally deprived of its constitutional Form and Powers; and that the Event supposed of the Arrival of a French Armament, while our Negociations with them were in Suspence, would be more likely to excite a decided Division among them, and to throw the principal Strength of the Maratta Nation into our own Hands, than to unite it against us; when it is remembered, that the first Invitation of the French proceeded from the first Member of the Civil Government at Poona; and must, if ever it takes place, give him an Ascendency over the Men who now rule by the Sword.

Mr. Whelei—I agree to the Governor General's Proposition, as it now stands explained. Sir Eyre Coote—I agree to the Governor General's Proposition.

Mr. Francis-Undoubtedly General Goddard will not refuse any extraordinary Advantages that may be offered to him; the Danger is, that while he is pursuing them he may miss the Opportunity of concluding upon the Terms already prescribed to him.

Agreed to the Governor General's Propositions; and resolved, That the following Letters be written to Fort St. George, to Bombay, and to General Goddard:

From the Accounts which have been lately received of the Strength of the French at the Islands, we have Reason to apprehend that an Invasion is intended against the Presidency of Bombay: We therefore deem it of the utmost Importance to provide for the Sasety of that Settlement. by reinforcing the Army commanded by General Goddard with a respectable Body of Troops, and to direct him to grant the most effectual Support and Protection in his Power to the Government of Bombay, for defeating any hostile Attempts which may be made against them.

The Commander in Chief has informed us that One Battalion of Europeans, Three Battalions of Sepoys, and 50 Artillery, may be spared from your Establishment, now the Works of Pondicherry are demolished, without any Risk or Inconvenience to the Service; and that the Residue of the Forces under your Presidency will be sufficient for the Protection of your Possessions; besides which, as you may daily expect a considerable Addition of Strength from Europe, we earnestly recommend it to you, to issue immediate Orders to the Officer in Command of the Forces at Mahé, to detach from thence as great a Number of Men as he can spare at this Time to join General Goddard without Delay, and the Remainder of his Forces when Mahé shall be dismantled. We also request that you would be pleased to complete the Reinforcement recommended by the Commander in Unici to the General Goddard as expeditiously as possible from the most convenient Stations of your Array; allowing him to fix the Rendezvous.

We are, &c.

Gentlemen

From Accounts which have been lately received of the Strength of the French at the Islands, we have great Reason to apprehend that an Invasion is intended against your Presidency; we deem it therefore of the utmost Importance to provide for its Sasety, by reinforcing the Army commanded by General Goddard with a respectable Addition of Troops: We shall direct him to be prepared for the expected Event, and to make it his first Object to afford you the most effectual Support and Protection in his Power, for defeating any hostile Attempts which may be made against you.

The Commander in Chief has informed us, that one Battalion of Europeans, Three Battalions of Sepoys, and 50 Artillery, may be spared from the Fort St. George Establishment; and that you can likewise contribute 300 Europeans, Two Battalions of Sepoys, and 100 Artillery for this Service, without any Inconvenience or Distress to the Garrisons where your Army is now stationed. We have written to the President and Select Committee at Fort St. George on the Subject of their Supply; and carnefly recommend it to you to iffue immediate Orders for your Quota of this Reinforcement to be affembled, and to join General Goddard at such Place of Rendezvous as he may appoint, without Delay.

We are, &c.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

We have to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letters of the 12th and 18th from your Camp near Surat.

N° 211'. ENDIX,

We receive great Satisfaction from the circumstantial Intelligence which they contain respecting the State Dissensions, and probable Views of the different Parties existing in the Maratta Go. vernment. We do not disapprove of your endeavouring to obtain the additional Concessions proposed in your Letter of the 12th June; nor did our Instructions of the 5th April (though restricted to certain Points) preclude you from availing yourself of any Occasion which might be prefinted to you, to exact other Conditions by which the Interest or Insluence of the Company might be certainly promoted, provided they did not impede or retard the Accomplishment of your original Commission. In this Sense, and with these Provisions, we repeat that we shall approve of the Addition of the Demands recommended in your Letter of the 12th June, to those which we have already prescribed in our original Instructions, if you shall not have concluded a Treaty with the Maratta Government before the Receipt of this Letter.

From Advices which have been lately received of the State of the French Forces at Mauritius, and from other concurring Caules, we have Reason to apprehend that an Attack has been meditated against the Settlement of Bombay: We have therefore thought it expedient to apply to the Picfidency of Fort St. George and Bombay, to reinforce the Army under your Command as toon as possible by Detachments from their Establishments, consisting of the following Corps and

From Bombay,

300 European Infantry, 2 Battalions Sepoys, oo Artillery.

From Fort St. George,

"I Battalion of European Infantry, 3 Battalions Sepoys,

50 Artillery.

We have desired the Select Committee at Fort St. George to issue immediate Orders for the March of as great a Part of their Quota from Mahé as can be immediately spared, and for the others to join you when the Works are demolished: The Remainder of the Number will be detached from the most convenient Stations of their Army.

We mean further to recruit your Corps with such a Number of Sepoys, drafted from Bengal, as may be requisite to augment it to its original Complement.

Our Design in endeavouring to supply you with this additional Reinforcement of Troops is to enable you to give such effectual Assistance and Support to the Government of Bombay in the Case of a French Invasion as may deseat it; you must therefore regard this as your first Object until there shall be no longer any actual Ground of Apprehension from the French; and make such a Public of the Deseated and Support of the Proposition position of the Detachment under your Command, as will ensure your Co-operation with the Garrison of Bombay; at the same Time you are not to withdraw your Attention from the other Points which we have given you in Charge.

We have acquainted the President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George, and at Bombon ! that you will fix the Places of Rendezvous for the Junction of these Trough with Army; we therefore desire, that you will make him acquainted as early as possible with the Situation which was shall judge the most convenient for that Purpose.

We are, & (Signed) W. F.

Approved.

Mr. Francis—I cannot approve of the First Part of this Letter, for the Reasons assigned by me in the Course of this Debate: With respect to the Second Part, I still think that supposing the Apprehension of Bombay's being attacked to be founded on Fact, Brigadier General Goddard ought to be ordered to remove from Surat towards Bombay.

Warren Hastings. Edward Wheler.

The Commander in Chief having delivered into the public Department a List of Officers recommended by him to fill the Vacancies in General Goddard's Detachment, the following Minutes passed in consequence.

Mr. Francis-I beg Leave to ask the Commander in Chief, in what Manner, and by what Route, the Drafts are to proceed to join General Goddard?

Sir Eyre Coote—By Land. Mr. Barwell-The Question asked by Mr. Francis speaks that Solicitude which I feel 3 ftrongly as he does for the Success of this Measure, so important to the recruiting General God dard's Detachment; but this Solicitude, instead of having influenced me to propose the Question urged by Mr. Francis to the Commander in Chief, has imposed Silence upon me. I trust in the military Knowledge of the Commander in Chief, and in the political Conduct of the Governor General, to controul and influence the Indian Princes to convey the proposed Recruits to Brigadier General Goddard's Camp; and I make no Doubt; that when the Measure is ripe for Execution, and such Precautions taken as to ensure a Probability of Success, timely Information will be given to the Government. If it should become a Question, whether in Policy or Prudence the Plan of supplying those Recruits is proper, I think this a very improper Time to urge the Question proposed by Mr. Francis. It allows the Operation of various Acts, which the Want of Unanimity in our Countils may encourage the Ill-disposed to oppose against the Success of the best concerted military and political Plan; I could therefore wish the Question might rest upon the present Answer given by the Commander in Chief, and wait the Fullness of Time for a more particular Reply. I am equally concerned with Mr. Francis, and equally anxious for the Prosperity of the Buttish Dominions, and I can solemnly assimm myself totally unacquainted with the minute Parts of the Plan of furnishing these Recruits; indeed I do not think they can have been perfectly digested, and where they are liable to Variation from the political Views of the different States through which the Recruits may pass, I see not the least Advantage at this Juncture that can arise from an Exposition of the Steps that shall be taken to ensure the Junction of these Troops with General Goddard's Detachment, but much Mischief: I therefore wish it may be left to the Governor General and Commander in Chief to communicate Particulars as soon as such Communication shall not subject the Measure to be defeated.

Mr. Francis—Mr. Barwell is at Liberty to judge for himself. In the Execution of the public Duties of my Station I shall be guided by my own Judgment. In Reply to the Observations contained in the preceding Minute, all that I shall say is, that there is no Select Committee in this Board, nor any separate Trust vested in any of its Members exclusive of the rest. I do not mean to ask any further Questions on the Subject: It is sufficient for me to know, that the Party of Recruits is to proceed by Land. As to the Possibility of keeping the Measure a Secret, I deny it: A Detachment of Troops cannot move from any Part of these Provinces, without its being publicly known which Way they are going. I shall deliver in Writing my Opinion of the Measure as I now understand it, and will not take up the Time of the Board any longer at present.

Mr. Barwell—I would not be mistaken in what I have said on Mr. Francis's Question. I never meant to assert that the Measure was to be a Secret, but that it was proper and necessary the Means of executing it should remain so, and remain with those executive Members of Government, to whose particular Province the answering a Vote of the Board depends. I do not suppose this Council competent to direct the Commander in Chief the particular Manner an Army is to be led into the Field. They are responsible only for their Resolution, which orders that Army on Service; he for the proper Measures of executing that Service. The Resolution for the Drasts is passed; it remains now to be executed in the most expeditious and best Manner.

Governor General—I must decline taking any Part in the present Debate, meaning to offer my Sentiments upon the Expediency of the Measure to which it alludes, whenever it shall be brought ormally before the Board, which I hope will not be till the Instant of its Execution.

Bengal Secret Confultations, the 13th September 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Edward Wheler, Esquire, and

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.
Mr. Barwell and Mr. Francis indifposed.

THE Governor General proposes the following Draft of a Letter to be written to Brigadier General Goddard, being an Answer to the first Part of his Letter, dated the 24th June, and recorded in Public Department Consultation, 2d Instant; the other Part thereof, respecting Remittances, having been already replied to.

Sir,

Although the Instructions which we have already given you, are such as would enable you to decide the Event of Peace or War, on the Answer which you might receive from the Ministers at Rep. VI.

ENDIX. Nº 212.

Poona to the Advances which we have made to them for the Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Poona; yet as we were willing to allow them as much Time for their Deliberations as could be spared from the Season of Action, in case that contrary to our Expectation they should reject our Offers of Peace, and to leave you at full Leisure as Circumstances would admit for obtaining the Objects of our Instructions by Negociation; we did not restrict you to any specific Period of Time for demanding their Answer, or making your Declaration thereon.

We ought to conclude that by this Time, or at least by the Time of the Receipt of this Letter, the Maratta Ministry will have accepted or rejected our Proposals, and consequently a State of the Proposals of Letter, will have ensued.

But as there is a Possibility that they may be a second of the Proposals.

clared Peace or Hostility will have ensued. But as there is a Possibility that they may have found Means to protract the Negociations, and you may still remain in a State of Suspence, we direct you in this Case to repeat our Offers to the Peishwa and Ministers, and to demand their final Determination upon them in the Space of Twenty-four Hours from their being presented; declaring at the same Time, that you shall consider their Refusal or the Delay of their Answer beyond the Time. as a Declaration of War, and act accordingly.

You will fend this Requisition to Poona by some Person of approved Fidelity and Firmness, that the Orders which you may give in confequence of the above may be punctually executed.

For the rest, we refer you to our former Orders.

Fort William, the 13th September 1779. We are, &c.

Sir Eyre Coote—I approve of the Draft. Mr. Wheler-I object to it.

Agreed to the above Draft of a Letter to Brigadier General Goddard; and ordered that it be transcribed fair, and fent to him immediately.

Refolved, That the following Letter be also written to Bombay:

Gentlemen,

We have kept you fully advised of the Instructions under which Brigadier General Goddard has been ordered to act in his Negociations with the Poona Government for a Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Poona; and although we have every Reason to suppose from the Powers with which he is invested, that the Result will have been a formal Determination on War or Peace with that Government before the Arrival of any Directions which we can now fend him; yet it is possible they may have found Means to protract the Negociation; and as in that Case we think they will have had full Time allowed them for Deliberation, if they were at all inclined to establish an amicable Connection with us, we have this Day sent Injunctions to General Goddard to repeat our Offers to the Peishwa and his Ministers, and to demand their definitive Answer within the Space of 24 Hours; declaring their Refusal or Delay beyond that Time, to be equivalent to a Declaration of War, and that he shall act accordingly.

If he shall be reduced to this Extremity, we recommend it to you to grant him every Aid in your Power, and to endeavour by every Means that may be necessary to render his Success speedy and effectual.

Bengal Secret Confultations, the 16th September 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haftings, Governor General, Prefident, Edward Wheler, Effuire, and Lieutenant General Sir Tyre Coote, K B. Mr. Barwell and Mr. Francis inditpofed.

READ the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard:

I have not done myself the Honour of addressing you since the 24th ultimo, in Hopes of reeiving the expected Answers from the Poona Durbar, which are at length arrived, and I have inclosed Copies of them to the Honourable the Governor General.

Although they breathe throughout manifest Inclinations for Peace, I think it necessary to prepare ou for a different Event, and to state certain Cases that may happen; solliciting your particular Intructions how I am to act under them.

When the confidential Person said to be dispatched from the Durbar arrives, which I do not supsofe will be before the End of this Month, I shall make known to him the Terms you have directed ne to propose, as preliminary Articles; to which if he consents, on the Part of his Government, very remaining Point will be easily accommodated; however from that known Practice of the Marattas, and the Delay they introduce in all public Transactions, I have Reason to apprehend this Man will have no full Powers from his Court, and that of course he must refer me for an Answer o my Proposals to the Paishwa and Minister; in which Case it will be the latter End of August or Beginning of September before I can know their final Sentiments, should they then please to ommunicate them; though it appears to me most probable they will wish to protract the Negocia-ion by some evalive Reply, and attempt to amuse us with the Prospect of a Peace, till the Season s too far advanced to effect any thing material in the Field.

To obviate the Inconveniency this would cause, I have in my present Letter to the Paishwa and Minister, proposed to them, that should the Conditions I have to offer on the Part of my Governnent be consented to by them, they will fignify the same to me, and settle the Mode of an immediate nterview betwixt the Minister and myself, as the only Means by which an End can be speedily and uccessfully put to the present Business. If they heartly concur in the Wishes for a Peace, it sill be shewn by their Compliance with this Proposal; and should they decline it, even admitting hey do not object to the Terms of the Treaty itself, it would be a Mark of Disingenuity that might

Although I have a reachy requested your Orders how I am to act, in case the Ministers should disover an Inclination to amuse with studied and unnecessary Pretexts for Delay, let me again entreat ou will be pleased to give me your particular Instructions on this Head, and explain how far it is your ntention, upon a Conviction of their Duplicity and Deceit, I should make known to them your aft Resentment of their Behaviour, the hostile Part I am authorized to take, and the particular deatures I am surface that may surface the political Advantages that may sure the particular deatures. Acatures I am further to purfue, in consequence of the political Advantages that may suggest themelves from the Situation of Affairs already submitted to your Consideration.

As it may appear strange, when the Paishwa and Minister have expressed themselves in Terms of the ighest Friendship to the English, and have consented to my Desire of sending a considertial Person to eccive my Proposals, that I should still entertain the Idea of their Views being of a hostile Nature owards us, and be so particular in obtaining your conditional Instructions for my Guidance, I think t necessary to explain the Reasons why my Suspicions prevail of their Infincerity, which, exclusive of he Argument furnished by the Character universally given the Marattas of a cunning and treache-ous Nation, are principally occasioned at this Time by the Intelligence I have received from most redible Authority at Poona, that the Person sent by the Minister is intended more as a Spy to comnunicate to his Master what is transacting, than as a Vackeel to negociate; that Nanna is making every possible Preparation for War, and is soliciting for that End the several Powers in his Neighbourhood o join against the English. A Copy of a Letter recently written from Nizam Ally to him, in Reply to an Application of the above Nature, has been fent me from Poona, which I have transnitted to the Honourable the Governor General. I also understand that Three French Letters have been received through their Agent Neamut ulla Cawn at Poona, but their Contents I cannot learn. All these Circumstances, added to the Reluctances with which the Minister will be brought to relinfurth the Advantages claimed by the late Treaty, make me with to be prepared for the Reverse of what I hope may happen taking place.

With respect to what the Paishwa and Minister have mentioned relative to Ragonaut Row, Ne. fore addressed them particularly on the Subject of his Reception, Copy of which Letter I have transmitted for your Perusal: I have Reason to think they will be far from resenting my Treat ment of that Chief, from the Purport of a Letter this Instant received from the Paishwa; Copy of which I have forwarded to the Honourable the Governor General; in which, after mentioning the ill Effects Ragoba's Arrival had occasioned in the Sircar, and bordering upon Guzerat, he takes Notice of the Means I had used to induce his Collectors to continue in them without Apprehension of being molesled, and recommends them to my surther Care and Protection.

When I received your Orders of the 5th of April to open a Negociation with the Poona Durby, I applied to the Government of Bombay for every Information they could give me regarding the State in which the Treaty of Poorunder then flood, and how far the feveral Articles of it had been complied with by the Ministers. To this Requisition I have fince received a full and fatisfacting Reply: and among other Papers which they inclosed for my Perusal, was a Copy of a Letter trees the Select Committee of the Honourable the Court of Directors, dated August the 31st 1778, and

The Purport of this Letter being known to you, I shall only beg Leave to remark, that as it contains Sentiments and even Directions the most friendly and favourable for the Interests of Ragonaut Row, the Part I have taken in affording him Protection, exclusive of the immediate political Advantages attending it, will, I statter myself, prove in every Respect acceptable to you, and confissent with the Views of the Honourable Company.

I am also the more anxious to receive your Orders respecting the Terms to be stipulated in his Favour at the present Negociation, which I make no Doubt you would wish should be as his nourable and as advantageous as possible.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

Tho Goddard.

Camp near Surat, the 15th July 1779.

Read the feveral Papers mentioned in the above Letter as being fent to the Governor General, which are entered in the Persian Correspondence.

Read a Letter from the Paishwa, and Nana Furnesse the Minister at Poona, to the Governor General, which is also entered in the Persian Correspondence, under Date

From Nanna Purnaveese; Received 14th September 1779.

I have already addressed you on the Subject of the bad Conduct of the Governor of Bombay in Non-execution of the Treaty which Colonel John Carnac, &c. English Chiefs, of their free Will and Accord, instigated by the Sentiments of Friendship, executed under the Seal of the Company, and delivered to the Sirkar through the Channel of Toocojee Row Holcar, and Madajee Row Sciadeah; and also stated to you the Affair of the hostile Conduct of the Chief of Bauncote, who in Violation of a Treaty concluded under the Government of the deceased Scremunt Nanna Saib and Row Pundit Purdhaun, prohibited the Passage of the Grabs of the Sirkar; and having seized Two of them laden with Grain, such them at Sea, and sent a Grab of War with military Stores against the Fort of Soorundurk, belonging to the Sirkar; which having cannonaded and made War on the Sirkar, leavelied by Letter to the Governor of Bombay. I surther related in this Letter the Particulars of the evidence of Designs of Scremunt Dada Saib, and of his having contrived by Artifice to elique from Hurry Babajee, a Chief who was sent to guard him; and of his having taken the Route of Surat and Browth with other Particulars; which I doubt not you have received and understand. But I shall now to peat, for the greater Security, that Scremunt Dada Saib Ragonaut Row, after the Conclusion of Peace between John Carnac, &c. English Chiefs on the one Part, and the Chiefs of the Sirkar on the other, and the Execution of a Treaty under the Seal of the Company, came here, and agreeable to Engagement set off for the Talook of Jansey; on the Way upon the Banks of the Nerbudda, different and Party to escort him, into his Power, and changing his Route, set out for Surat: This you have doubtless heard.

You are invelted by the illustrious King of England, and the English Company, with the Suprems Authority. The Governor of Bombay still continues to pursue the same Line of improper Conductor as formerly, and acts in direct Opposition to the Engagements concluded by John Carnac, &c. English Chiefs; notwithstanding that all your Letters, from the Conclusion of Peace to the present Time declare, that no Deviation shall take place in the common Friendship; and that the golffaith of the English; which is universally acknowledged, shall never receive a Blemish. To who Cause then am I to attribute the Violations of Treaty and bad Conduct of the Governor of Bombay?

I have lately received a Letter from Colonel Goddard to this Effect: That he has received Letters from the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah; that for the Adjustment of the Disputes which have asistabetween the Chiefs of Bombay and the Maratta Chiefs, to the Destruction of that Friendship and Harmony which had so long subsisted between the Two States, to remove all Causes of Enmity, and to re-establish Friendship on a solid Basis, full Powers had been given to him, that a trusty Ages.

N D I X, E N° 213 and 214.

In the Part of the Sirkar should be sent, as he has many Particulars to communicate. This Letter was accompanied by a Copy of Commission given to Colonel Goddard under the Seal of the Company and Signatures of the Supreme Council of Calcutta, for my Inspection.

Be pleased, Sir, to consider maturely and with Equity, the Causes of Enmity between the Governor of Bombay and the Chiefs of this Government; they are Two-fold. In the first place, Colonel John Upton, your Ambassador, when Peace was concluded, and the Treaty executed, although I repeatedly pointed out to him the Necessity that some Person of Credit on the Part of the Governor of Bombay should join in it, declared to me, that Amaud-ul-Dowlah Bahadre was invested with the Supreme Power by the King of England and the Company, and that his Orders were binding on the Chiefs of all the English Settlements. Secondly, Colonel John Carnac Bahadre, and other English Chiefs, with the Advice and Concurrence of the Governor of Bombay, in concert with Seremund Dada Saib, transported themselves into the Neighbourhood of Poona, and were in the End obliged to return to Bombay, overwhelmed with Shame for their fruitless Attempt,
These are the Two Points which have excited the Enmity of the Governor of Bombay. No other Cause has been given from this Quarter; and no Breach of Friendship has taken place on our

The Government of Bombay's present Plan is, by a Misrepresentation of Facts, to excite Doubts in your Breast, although there is nothing in this World which I value equally with Friendship and Sincerity of Heart. I therefore request that you will not give Credit to the Representations which he may make to you with a Design to create a Breach in our Friendship. My Eyes are turned to the Candour and good Faith of the English Nation; it is therefore incumbent on you to iffue positive Orders to the Governor of Bombay, that conformably to Treaty he desift from affording the English Protection to Seremunt Dada Saib, that he refuse him all kind of Support, and, agreeable to John Carnac's Treaty, relinquish all the Places belonging to the Sirkar, create no Ditturbances in the Government Territories, and make it a Point with the Chief of Bancote, whose Character is univerfally infamous, that he, according to established Custom, leave the Passage free to the Vessels of the Sirkar.

These Measures will promote the Ease and Happiness of the People, and augment the Friendship between the two States.

As you are known to be possessed of Penetration, Justice, and Honour, it was unnecessary to point out these Steps. I have written the above Particulars merely for your Information. Let your Measures be guided by Equity, and the approved Maxims of Government. Fortune and Empire are the Gifts of God.

From the Peshwa; received the 14th September 1779.

Your agreeable Letter, expressive of sincere Friendship, and intimating that you have heard by various Channels, and have also received some little and imperfect Intelligence relative thereto from the Gentlemen of Bombay; that they have, without the Knowledge or Authority of the Company, engaged in Measures destructive of the Friendship and Harmony which subsisted between the two States, and concluded a Treaty highly disadvantageous; but that you cannot form a Judgement respecting the Rectitude of the Conduct of the Bombay Chiefs, until you obtain more Tothselete and authentic Intelligence, that there is no Alteration in your Friendship, and that you have now invested Connection Goddard with full Powers to re-establish the Friendship and Connection nave now invelted Chonel Goddard with full Powers to re-establish the Priending and Connection between our States, with other Particulars which I understand arrived, and from a Perusal of it I received the greatest Pleasure.

I have very frequently given you Information of the bad Conduct of the Governor of Bombay, and of his Distegard to the Stipulations of the Treaty. I have on every Occasion steadily pre-erved my Friendship and Engagements with the English Nation, and placed implicit Considence and the Consequence and since the Chiefe of Rombay have in Distendings of Orders are n the Seal of the Company; and fince the Chiefs of Bombay have, in Disobedience of Orders, engaged in Measures without your Knowledge in open Violation of the Duties of Friendship, why are they not brought to Punishment by the European Laws?

When John Carnac and others of the English Chiefs, in concert with Dada Sahib, lately come to this Quarter, I received a Letter from the Governor of Bombay, informing me that that Measure was determined on with the Concurrence of the Governor General, and all the Members of the Supreme Council of Calcutta. When John Carnac made Proposals for Peace through the Channel of Tocojee Row Holcar and Madajee Row Sindeah, and delivered to the Sirkar a Treaty under the Seal of the Company, a Letter was received from him, declaring, that he possessed full Powers from the Company's Chiefs over all Matters, and, notwithstanding their hostile Acts, I, actuated only by Sentiments of Friendship, gave them an Escort, who conducted them in Safety to Bombay; yet to this Day the Chiefs of Bombay have not performed any of the Conditions of the Treaty, or paid any Attention to their Engagements. I place the utmost Considence on the Seal of the Company, and the Acts of the Company's Chiefs, and entertain no Sentiments but those of Friendship and Sincerity, which are Qualities suitable to illustrious Personages.

You also wrote that I should give no Place or Encouragement in my Territories to the French Nation; on the Perusal of which I was filled with Astonishment. If you are possessed of Friends hip and Candour towards me, what should induce me to cultivate the Friendship of the French? REP. VI. [R]

A P P E N D I X, Nº 213 and 214.

When a Person on their Part came formerly here, induced by Friendship for you, I complied with your Desire, and sent him away. If this Matter has been misrepresented to you by Persons who are the Disturbers of the common Friendship, and by their false Colouring has created Suspicions in your Breast, there is no Remedy; there is no Alteration in my Friendship, and your Letters are filled with Assurances to the same Effect. Write therefore in positive Terms to the Chiefs of Bombay, that they execute the Terms of the Treaty without the least Failure; that they give no Protection to the Enemies of the Sirkar, nor excite any Disturbances. Dada Sahib, who has again broken his Engagements and gone towards Surat and Broach, you formerly directed them to shew no Countenance to. I now request that the most positive Orders may be fent on this Subject to all the English Company's Chiefs, forbidding them ever to protect him with their Instituence.

I have received a very friendly and candid Letter from Colonel Goddard, inclosing a Copy of the Commission which he has received from you and the Supreme Council of Calcutta, and desiring that I will send a trusty Person to confer with him; and I have accordingly dispatched a Vackeel to him.

Be pleased to give express Directions to Colonel Goddard to carry the Treaty into Execution, and to give Orders for that Purpose to the Chiefs of Bombay, and they must not give an Asylum to Dada Sahib, it being prohibited in the Treaty, nor pay Attention to his Representations. I am at all Times desirous of Friendship.

N° 1. Copy of a Letter from the Peishwa Pundit Purdhaun Sewac Madho Row Narrain, to Colonel Goddard.

Your agreeable Letter, full of Friendship and Candour, and informing me of your having received Letters from the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, Governor General, Mr. Hastings, and all the Members of the Supreme Council of Calcutta, to this Essect, That between the Maratta Chiefs and the Chiefs of the English Nation, who are famous throughout the Universe for their Fidelity and steady Adherence to Treaty, the Bands of Friendship have long subsisted, and that they have now invested you with sull Powers for the Purpose of confirming and giving additional Strength to the Ties of mutual Friendship and Connection; and you therefore request that I will send a trusty Person on my Part. This Letter, together with Copy of your Commission, I have received, and the Perusal of it affords me the highest Pleasure.

As I out of a Regard to Friendship, and from a Reliance on the Seal of the English Company, which the greatest of the Chiefs of the English Nation hold in the highest Respect, have no other View than Friendship and Regard; you will therefore pay Regard to the Acts of the Company's Chiefs, and to the Seal of the English Company which is affixed to the Treaty; and those Laws duals, who without the Knowledge of the Company have disobeyed the Sales under which they acted, and engaged in improper Measures, it is expedient to punish according to the European Laws.

Look with the Eyes of Friendship and Equity into the Matter, and see who has been guilty of the Violations of Treaty, and from what Motives the Enemies of the Sirkar were protected under the English Power, Quarrels raised, and Insults offered.

I have lately received Letters from Mr. Hastings, expressed in the Terms of the warmest Friendship, informing me of the Powers with which you have been invested; and agreeable to your Desire, I am about to dispatch a Person of Trust to you; he will soon arrive: Whatever you have to say, say it to him, and write in such Terms to the Chiefs at Bombay, that they faithfully persorm the Terms of the Treaty, and not protect by the English Power any Insurgents of this Government, or create any Disturbances.

I formerly wrote you that Dada Sahib Ragonaut Row was proceeding to that Quarter, and that you should not afford him the English Protection; and I now repeat my Desire, that in regard to our Friendship and intimate Union, you will not, as specified in the Treaty, give an Asylum to Dada Sahib, or afford him any Support. Send a Pair of Cosside before to secure the Road, and conduct my Vackeel to you. I am well acquainted with your Wisdom and Penetration.

For the Security and Protection of my Territories which lay in your Neighbourhood, that the Ryots may not be distressed or alarmed on Account of Ragonaut Row, and that weak and bad Men may be prevented from joining with him, I have sent an Army towards Goondrebarry. I write this for your Information.

No. 3. Copy of a Letter from the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah to Nanna Purnaveele, in Reply.

I have received your Arzie, and understand its Contents, to wit, that the evil-minded English, having given their Protection to Seremunt Dada Sahib, and afforded an Afylum to the turbulent Gauzi ul dien Khan, and collected Magazines of military Stores, have entered the Path of Hostility with the most malignant Designs; and from the Invitation which you have given to me; I understand it to be your Desire that a formidable Army of mine, under the Command of one of my most renowned Brothers, should be sent to act in concert with your Forces and those of Madho Row Sewac, against that pusillanimous Race, and to root them out. As it is the Season of the Rains, ny Forces, agreeable to established Custom, have received their Dismission, and are gone to their respective Homes, and cannot be now Pecaled; particularly at this Period, when from the excessive neavy Rains, and the Badness of the Roads in consequence, and the Inundations of the Rivers, the fourney could not without Difficulty be performed by Cossids the most acquainted with it: I have herefore determined, that as soon as the Rains are at an End, I will send a distinguished Chief. with resolute Army, and good Train of Artillery, or if I find it possible, I will repair in Person to you, and rouse that bad Race from their Dream of Security, and overthrow all their ambitious Designs: You will therefore, depending on my Friendship for Pundit Purdhaun, which is universally known, ind regarding my Interests as the same, begin your March with the Forces and Artillery of the Sirkar, taking Care to have very large Cannon with you, in Conjunction with Madho Row Sindeah and Subahdar Holcar, about the Time when I shall set out, and contrive your Marches so that we may meet in the Zillah of Kojestabunyaud, and then pursue such Measures as we shall deem idvisable. It is said by Molana Nizamee, that when Two Hearts are united, they are able to break 1 Mountain in Pieces, and dissipate the most numerous Bodies.

For further Particulars I refer you to the Letters of Sooraje Bund and Kishen Row Billaul. Whatever further Plan you may form, make me acquainted therewith, and I will write my Sen-

N° 4. Copy of a Letter from the Peishwa Pundit Purdhaun Madho Row Narain to Colonel Goddard.

I some Time ago informed you by Letter, that Seremunt Dada Sahib, after the Conclusion of the Peace between the Two States, through John Carnac, &c. English Chiefs, set out from hence for his Residence at Jansey, and in the Way, after crossing the Nurbudda, got Hurry Babajoe, who was a proposited to escort him, into his Power, and changing his Route, proceeded towards Surat: This Letter has doubtiens reached you.

I have just learnt that he is arrived at Surat, and has injured and molested the Territories of the Sirkar in the Neighbourhood of Gojeraut; and that you hearing this, have taken Measures to latisfy the Gomastons of the Sirkar. As the Ties of Friendship between me and Jelladut Jung Bahadre are firmly knit, and you likewise are possessed of Friendship and Attachment to this Sirkar, and as you have likewise received Letters from the Governor to promote the Increase of Friendship to provide for petween us; it is therefore incumbent on you, in Consideration of this Friendship, to provide for he Security of those Territories, and to support the Gomastahs of the Sirkar.

We observe, with some Degree of Pleasure, the Notice taken by the Maratta Government in their Letters to you, of the liberal Attention which you had shewn to the Interests of that State, in the Protection given to their Aumils in Guzzerat, against the Irregularities of Ragoba's Dependents; and we recommend a Continuation of the same Kindness and Moderation in all your Conduct towards them.

Ordered, That a Copy of such Parts of the Peishwa, and Nana Furnesse's Letter, as relate to the Opposition made to the free Passage of the Maratta Vessels at Bancoote, and the Attack of the Fort of Soorundurk, be sent to the President and Select Committee at Bombay; and that they be required to transmit a full and clear Explanation of the Facts alluded to.

The following Letter is accordingly written to the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay:

Gentlemen,

In a Letter which we have lately received from the Government of Poona, we are advised of Acts of Hostility, committed in the Name of the English, by a Person said to be Chief of Bancoott, who is accused of seizing two Grabs, belonging to the Marattas, off the Malabar Coast, and of sending a Force to attack the Fort of Soorundurk; we inclose an Extract of the Letter, as far as it relates to this Complaint; and as we have not received any Communication from you of the Facts alluded to, which could enable us to give a satisfactory Answer to it, we request that you will furnish us with an Explanation of the Particulars.

Sir Eyre Coote gone to visit the different Station of the Army.

READ the following Letter from General Goddard.

I did myself the Honour to address you the 15th ultimo, acquainting you with the Letters I had received from the Maratta Government, consenting to send a considential Person to me, whose Arrival I expected towards the End of July. In this Hope I was however disappointed; for, by delaying a Month on the Road, he did not reach Surat until the 14th Instant. He received his sirst Audience on the 15th, and as it was my Object to bring the Matter to a Point as speedily as possible, for which he seemed equally inclined with myself, in the Second Conference, which happened the Day following, I sully explained to him the friendly Sentiments of your Honourable Board, and the Proposals you had authorized me to make to the Poona Government. In order to give you the clearest Idea in my Power of the State of the Negociation, and enable you to form a Judgment of the Ministers Inclinations, I have taken the Liberty of inclosing, for your Perusal, the Particulars of the Conversation I had with the Vackeel, on the Subject of my Embassy to his Master, which together with a few Remarks I shall here subjoin, from Observations made on the Man's Behaviour and Expressions, will, I am hopeful, convey to you the most full and satisfactory Information.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 21;

I am of Opinion, in the first Place, that the Minister is perfectly disposed to make a Power with the English; but the Considence and Spirits arising from his late Success against the Bombay Troops, had, it is plain, given him Hopes of obtaining one, upon Terms very different from what I have proposed; and on that Account he will not be easily reconciled to the Savissice demanded from him, of relinquishing his Claim to all those Advantages acquired by the late Convention with Mr. Carnac; I therefore expect, notwithstanding the positive Declaration I have made, of the Necessity there is that he agrees to this preliminary Article previous to the Settlement of any Treaty, that he will endeavour to stipulate for certain Concessions to be at the same Time made on the Part of the English: It appears to me probable that he will demand the Person of Ragonaut Row to be delivered up; but as this would be totally inconsistent, and impossible to be complied with, I shall absolutely decline conferring on it, or any other Point whatever, till the preliminary Articles are first fully agreed to.

I hope the Particulars I have already condescended upon with the Vackeel, which appear in the inclosed Journal, as they were intended to shew the sincere Intentions of your Government, and to remove any Causes of Doubt or Apprehension the Minister might have Reason to entertain, will not be considered by you as in the least derogatory, and prove the arduous Zeal with which I have, and still shall continue to prosecute the Object of a Peace, so strenuously recommended in your In-

There appear Two very powerful Motives why the Minister is at this Time solicitous for a Peace; the one is acknowledged by the Vackeel in the Wish expressed by his Master to be at full Laberty to oppose and check the Progress of Hyder Ally; and the other, of no less Force than the former, arises from the Differences that subsist betwixt Nana Furnese and Madajee Scindia. Though the Name of the latter was not publicly introduced by the Vackeel, it was mentioned in the Course of Conversation; and he made no Scruple of saying, that Nanna was exceedingly incensed against him for his late Conduct respecting Ragoba, and wished for nothing more than to get him into his Power. This Speech of the Vackeel's is corroborated by a Variety of other Reports; and it is certain, that Scindia has lately made some considerable Requisition of the Minister, which the other is by no Means inclined to comply with. He has not either visited Poona since the Escape of Ragonaut Row, though invited and pressed by the Minister to go there.

As these several Circumstances all conspire in Favour of my present Negociation, I shall so far pay Attention to them in the Prosecution of it, as to use them to proper Advantage without materially interrupting or preventing the Conclusion of the Treaty you have entrusted to my Management. It is needless to observe to you, since it will appear in the accompanying Proceedings, that Nanna Furnese is the only oftensible Person who, with the Name of Minister, stands forth on his Occasion to negociate on the Part of the Paishwa and Maratta State. The Authority which was before divided amongst a Number, seems now, since the Consinement of Moraba and Saccaram Parson, to be solely centered in himself; and the only Control he has to appeal in from the Papoo, to be folely centered in himself; and the only Controul he has to apprehend, is from the overgrown Power of Scindia, and the other military Officers of the Government.

I have noticed in the Diary now fent you, that no Overtures respecting Ragoba were made by he Vackeel on the Part of his Master, and the Reasons which occurred to me on that Head. I udged it proper, in relation to this Subject, to repeat to him what I had before written to the lasthwa; and to express my Satisfaction at the Prospect there now was of finally adjusting all past distinctions, in an easy and amicable Manner; but as I am hopeful of receiving Letters from your Board every Daylia consequence of the News of Ragoba's Escape, I was happy at his Silence on a Subject that saved me the Necessity of making any particular Declarations, and did not therefore wish to press him any further on that Subject.

As regular Day kes have been placed all the Way to Poona, I may receive Answers to the Letters now dispatched to the Ministers in Eight Days. They must however arrive in Twelve Days Time; when it may be known with a Degree of Certainty, what the Result of my Negociations may be. In the mean Time should any thing occur worth communicating, I shall not fail to ad-

I have endeavoured in the present Address, and the inclosed Paper, to be as full and as explicit as possible. You will perceive, that after condescending upon Particulars in the most ample Manner, in order to satisfy every possible Doubt and Apprehension, I have proposed to him the Two preliminary Articles; upon the Acceptance or Refusal of which my future Negociation must depend. Should he give his full Consent, I am persuaded the remaining Points to be discussed will be easily settled; but should he, which I must consess there is some Reason to suppose he may, reject the First of them, it will not be in my Power to treat further. In this Case you must be sensible how anxiously I shall look for the conditional Instructions I before entreated you would furnish me with, and how necessary they will be for my further Guidance and Direction.

I have before repeatedly addressed you respecting the Supplies of Money; on which Subject I have not been honoured with any Letter from your Board, since the One of the 16th February, inclosing a Bill of Exchange for Three Lacks on the Gomastah of Gopaul Doss. Uncertain as to the Event of my Negociation, and foreseeing the probable Occasion there might be of all the Treasure collected on this Side of India the next cold Season, I have endeavoured to avoid being obliged to use any Part of it towards defraying the Expences of the Detachment till after the Rains; but I have, contrary to my Inclination, been necessitated to receive from the Company's Treasury at Surat, Four Lacks of Surat Rupees; as the Merchants of this Place, after the greatest Trouble and Difficulty, could only furnish me with Money for Bills drawn upon you in their Favor amounting to Three Lacks and Forty-four thousand Rupees.

The Rate of Exchange at which these Bills are granted, is 100 Morshedabad Sicca Rupecs for 93 Surat Rupees, which is Two per Cent. worse than was given the Merchants of this Place before the Place before the Regions assured in a second policy counseless for Regions assured in a second policy. and One per Cent. better than Gopaul Doss's Gomastah received, for Reasons assigned in a form.

Letter, but which is, upon the Whole, when every Circumstance comes to be considered, vourable as could have been expected.

I have the Honour to be, &c. Tho' Goddard (Signed)

Head Quarters, Camp near Surat, 16th August 1779.

Subject of the Conferences betwixt Colonel Goddard and the Vackeel from the Government. Poona, August the 15th 1779.

Lutchman Row, Vackeel on the Part of the Maratta Government, having arrived, together with Nehab Chund Mounchy, a confidential Person, and in a Manner connected with him in that Embaffy, and having received their first Audience they produced Letters from the Paishwa Madhurow Narrain, and the Minister Nanna Furnese, addressed to me, and importing that they had fent Luckman Row, a Person of Understanding, and possessing their full Considence, to whom they begged I would truly communicate whatever I wished to say.

As the Expression used on this Occasion implied no Powers to treat or conclude being vested in them, I first demanded of Luckman Row, if his Government had employed him in the same ample Manner the Supreme Council of Bengal had authorized me to fettle and agree in their Name, as they would see from my original Credentiale then produced; or if not to the Extent given me, how far they were empowered to treat?

In Reply to this, they observed, that their Orders were to receive whatever I had to propose to them, that though they might not possess Powers to agree to every Point, there were some which they were intrusted to confent to on the Part of the Minister, and whatever was of a Nature contrary to these must be referred to him; to which they added, more than Eight Days would not be required to obtain an Answer, as Dawkes were stationed all the Way to Poona.

Willing to bring Matters to as speedy a Conclusion as possible, I asked the Ambassador if he would enter upon Business immediately, or if it was his Inclination to defer it till the next Meeting? It was therefore fettled that the Conferences should be deferred till next Day, when the Business should be particularly entered upon and discussed; but as in the Course of Conversation many Things were generally touched upon, from which fome Judgment may be formed of what may be expected during the Progress of the Negociation, I shall note them down with the Remarks that occur.

The Vackeel, after declaring in the Name of his Government, the strongest Inclination to live upon Terms of Friendship with the English, added, that an Alliance had subsisted for many Years between the Two States; that at the Time of Narrain Row's being put to Death by Ragonaut Row, and the Pursuit of the latter by Siccaram Baboo, Nanna Furnese, and other confidential Chiefs, to punish so atrocious an Act, Mr. Mostyn, then Resident on the Part of the Bombay Government, was left behind at Poona; that he took Advantage of their Absence, and was guilty of many underhand Practices; and having fled to Bombay, the English seized the Opportunity of the Security of the Maratta Government to possess themselves of the Island of Salsette; that lifterwards Ragoba marched to Surat and was joined by Colonel Keating with an Army of the English. He observed, that the Governor General and Council of Bengal, highly displeased with these Proceedings, had fent Colonel Upton to fettle the Differences that had arose betwixt the Ministers and the Bombay Respecting this Treaty he said, that on Colonel Upton's first Arrival, the Ministers told him that Treaties of Peace were then subsisting betwixt the Maratta State and the Government of Bombay: let us adhere to that; what Occasion to make a fresh one? Colonel Upton in Reply said, That the Treaty he would enter into with them should be of so strong and binding a Nature, that it should last to the latest Generation. They then proposed that some Person on the Part of the Bombay Government should be present; to which Colonel Upton objected, saying, it was by no Means necessary; that however a Letter was received from the Gentlemen of Bombay, declaring themselves beyond by whatever Colonel Upton might conclude on the Bert of the English bound by whatever Colonel Upton might conclude on the Part of the English.

Respecting Salsette, he observed that on demanding Restitution of that Island, Colonel Upton told them, that he could not agree to that without the Authority of his Government. It was settled therefore that a Reference should be made to the Governor General and Council, and both Parties mutually abide by their Decision. This Man says, that Colonel Upton assured them in the most solemn

The above is the Substance of what was mentioned by the Vackeel in the First Day's Conference.

I only replied in general Terms, That it was the fincere Wish and Intention of my Government to perpetuate that Friendship he talked of as subsisting betwixt the English and Marattas; and since his Master professed to be directed by the same Sentiments, I made not the smallest Doubt but we should soon agree upon the Means by which that might be effected: That what I had to propose was folely folely with a View to accomplish that End, in the Manner best calculated for the mutual Honour and Interest of both Parties, totally to remove all Doubts and Animolities from the Minds of either, and establish in their room the most perfect and good Understanding and friendly Confidence.

Little more past at this Time, but the Vackeel's begging Leave to ask one Question, which was, If the Seal of the Company was not always to be confidered as facred? adding, that all his Government defired was, that Justice might be done them on this Occasion. The Vackeel then took his Leave.

From what the Vackeel has dropped To-day, I plainly perceive he means to lay the Stress of his Argument upon the following Circumstances: The Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, notwithstanding which the Government of Bombay entered into a War with the Marattas, and the little Security the Paishwa has therefore, that in case of a Peace being now concluded, they will not again commence Hostilities. What he alludes to, speaking of Justice, must be the Terms of the late Convention, by which the Bombayers deservedly suffered.

Though I mention Vackeel, the Person oftensibly so does not carry on the Conferences. conducting the Business of this Negociation is wholly left to the Nehal Chund, who seems to be a Man of Acuteness and Abilities, and behaves himself with great Propriety and Judgment.

August 16th 1779.

The Conference of this Day, after the feveral Compliments, began with the Vackcel's reviving the Subjects of the preceding one, regarding the Detention of Salfette; the Injustice of which he founded on the Mode by which it had been surprized. As this, and some other Circumstances he was about to mention, happened previous to the Treaty of Poorunder, when all past Disputes were finally adjusted, I thought it necessary to stop his further Prosecution of these Subjects, by observing that referring thus to ancient Feuds and Differences, were we to indulge it mutually, would lead to an endless Train of Argument, and carry us further from the Point we wished to attain, an honourable Peace, than we first fet out; that for my own Part, if I looked back to any Thing it should be to our former Friendship; and that I considered whatever had passed previous to Colonel Upton's Treaty, to be no longer the Subject of Consideration and Debate. I then asked him, If his Government did not think themselves bound by the Articles of that Treaty? He replied, They did, till the late Engagements made with Mr. Carnac at Worgaum.

I then thought it proper to open myself more fully to him, and explain the Sentiments of my Government, and the Proposals they had empowered me to make; which I did in the most ample Manner, using the several Arguments contained in the Plan I had prepared for my Guidance in this Negociation, to prove the Propriety and Justice which dictated them, and the mutual Advantage that must be the inevitable Consequence of their being accepted.

Regarding the Proposal of receding from the Pretentions the Marattas had acquired by the Engagements made with Mr. Carnac at Worgaum, the Vackeel observed, That the Seal of the Company, the same Seal which had been used in the Treaty of Poorunder, was in Possession of that Gentleman; that he had affured him, that whatever he agreed to under the Impression of that Seal, must be binding upon the English; and that they themselves, sensible of the facred Light in which we held it, had fully trusted to the faithful Performance on our Part of all Mr. Carnac's Engagements, confistent with which Belief they had been guided by the moderate Conduct they had purfued.

I replied, They judged rightly of the Force in which we confidered an Agreement entered into under the Seal of the Company, from which it was never known that the Government of Bengal had in the smallest Degree departed; that they had not done so in this Instance, and they could not, consistent with their own Honour, the important Interests committed to their Charge, and the Dignity of the English Name, consent that a Treaty solemnly entered into and inviolably observed by themselves, should be set aside without their Sanction and Authority.

To this the Vackeel pertinently remarked, That his Master could not help being of Opinion, from what had formerly happened when the Bombay Government possessed themselves of Salsette, and the Arguments now used, that had the late Attempt proved successful, a very different Judgment would have passed upon their Conduct.

I observed, The Government of Bengal had never interfered with the Maratta Affairs, previously to the Settlement made by Colonel Upton; that of course the Occurrences preceding that Period could not be admitted in Comparison of the present Instance.

I then exemplified the Justice of the Sentiments of my Government, by supposing an Instance of a similar Nature was to happen in the Maratta State, would the Peshwa, who had entitled the Care of his Provinces to one of his Sardars, consent to relinquish them to another Person, because the Chief in whom he had confided had been constrained to enter into an Agreement for that Purpose, from his having purfued a Conduct contrary to the Orders, or at least without the Authority of his Master? I pointed out to the Vackeel, that the Governor General and Council of Bengal were supreme in all Matters of Government, and that particularly respecting Peace or War with the several States of Hindostan, the sole Power was vested in them. I then told him to advise his Master, if he put any Value on the Friendship of the English, to embrace the Proposal now made him; that exclusive of its Justice and Propriety, which I had fully explained, his Acquiescence in it would be the strongest Proof he could give of his wishing to remain on Terms of Amity with us; and that unless he did agree to it, I could not, confident with the Orders and Instructions of my Government, co.

fider him as a Friend and Ally of my Nation.

His conclusive Reply on this Subject was as follows: That he acknowledged the Arguments had advanced were not without Reason, but that by their Consequence his Master was deprived or that Justice which he alone solicited and expected; that it was true he had no Cause of Complent against the Governor General and Supreme Council of Bengal, though their Name was used as a Sanction to the Manifesto published by the Bombay Government and Ragoba; since, I had declared it was done with their Authority: But still he faid his Master and the Minister were of Opinion, that the Seal of the Company, into whatever Hands entrusted, ought to be considered by us as invio. lable, and that the Governor General and Supreme Council of Bengal would shew the facred Regard in which they held it, by adhering strictly to the Terms of the late Convention with Me Carnac; since, although it might be attended with Loss to themselves, it would also be a lasting Proof of their Conduct being influenced by the most rigid Principles of Justice and good Faith.

I then repeated all the Arguments I had before used, with assuring him in the End, that as my Government considered the Proposals they had impowered me to make to be entirely consistent with Justice, and for the mutual Interest and Honour of both Parties, I had not the smallest Doubt but the Peshwa and Minister would also upon mature Deliberation and Resection view them in the same Light, and give their Consent accordingly; should it unfortunately be otherwise, I was under the Necessity of telling him that I was not impowered to treat wish the Maratta State until this Condition should be acceded to; and requested he would intimete this this Master.

With respect to the Second preliminary Article relating ito the French; the Vackeel gave me every Assurance on the Part of his Master that Words could express, promising to acquiesce in whatever might be proposed for the Satisfaction of the English, in adjusting that Point. He whatever might be proposed for the Satisfaction of the English, in adjusting that Point. denied the Connection his Government had been accused of holding with that Nation, and justified their Behaviour to Monsieur Saint Lubin in the following Manner:

When the Disputes first commenced betwirt the English and Marattas, Intelligence of it was carried to the French King, who judging this a favourable Opportunity, sent Monsieur Saint Lubin with Letters to his Master. The Custom of all Monarchs, and particularly where the Embassy came from so distant a Kingdom, betwirt which and the Maratta State no Enmity existed, surely came from Societ I while the Proposition of the Maratta State no Enmity existed, surely the was permitted to the consideration only the was permitted to the consideration on the consideration of the conside intitled Mr. Saint Lubin to a Reception. From this Confideration only, he was permitted to visit the Durbar, and received with every proper Ceremony and Respect; but when it was known to the Minister that these Circumstances had given Offence to the Bengal Administration, Saint Lubia was immediately dismissed. The Man affirms, that no Part of the Proposals made by the French were attended to; that no Agreement whatever was concluded; and that even afterwards, when it was certain that the English were marching from Bombay to support Ragoba, and Saint Lubia wrote to encourage the Minister with Promises of being protected by the French, his Offers were rejected, and he was told in Reply, that the English and Marattas were ancient Friends, and though temporary Differences might arise betwixt them, they would soon be reconciled, and did not desire the Interference of any Foreign Power.

Notwithstanding these positive Declarations and the specious Language used by the Vacket, Notwithstanding these positive Declarations, and the specious Language used by the Vacket, the Proofs of the Minister's former Connection with the French seems to be perfectly clear, and the Empfaries of that Nation have, and still continue to labour very strenuously, to prevail with the Maratta to unite with them against the English. But though I am persuaded that a Correspondence is at present carried on betwixt them, I am still of Opinion that the Minster, finding by repeated Experience the Folly of trusting to their Promises of Assistance, will wish to depend no longer upon so precarious a Support, and readily and seriously agree to shake off all Connection with them.

In speaking of the mutual Advantage that would result to the English and Marattas from a sincere and firm Friendship, the Vackeel observed, these Two were the only powerful States now less in Hindostan and Decan, and that unless the Marattas were the Enemies of the English, the latter would meet with no one to oppose their Arms, nor could any other Power but the English content with the Marattas.

On this Occasion, he seemed to have forgot the Progress made, and the Encroachments still making by Hyder upon the Maratta Dominions, though in the Course of our Conversation, he obviated this Circumstance, by declaring that the March of the Army from Bombay had put a Stop to the Operations against Hyder last Season; but that it was the Intention of the Minister had to conclude a Peace with the English, and afterwards recover the Country wrested from them by Hyder; hinting at the same Time a Hope of being assisted by the English in this Business.

My Reply to this was in general Terms of Friendship, intimating, that where a sincere and simmather and substituted betwixt Two Nations, they would ever consider the Enemies of one another.

Although, till the Assent of the Minister was given to the Two preliminary Articles I had proposed, I could not treat upon the remaining Part of the Treaty, I judged it proper to affure him that as it was the Desire of my Government to establish, an honourable and lasting Peace with the Maratta State; I was convinced the Points now left to be discussed would be attended with no Difficulty, and that I hould read the contract to the discussed with no Difficulty, and that I should readily agree to whatever was just and equitable respecting them.

He observed of Jambooseer, that when Assignments were given upon it of the Twelve Lacks, it was settled that a Person should be sent to superintend the Collections of that Purgunnah on the pass

Part of the Marattas, but the Government of Bombay afterwards refused to admit him. With respect to this, I told him it could make no Difference, as the Annual Amount of its Revenue had been regularly carried to the Account of the Maratta Circar, charged with the Sums for the Payment of which it had been given over, and that it was better that no Person had resided at Junbooseer from the Marattas, fince Differences could not but have arisen, which were now happely avoided.

He faid of Veriow, &c. ceded to the English by the Guicawars, that Futty Sing had wrote, acknowledging that he had no Power to grant Sunnuds of those Places without the Authority of the Peshwa; that his Letter had been shewn to Colonel Upton, and, according to the Treaty, these Districts ought to have been restored.

I remarked, that as these Letters of Futty Sing must have been produced to Colonel Upton previous to the figning of the Treaty, wherein it is stipulated that they should be given up when Proofs were brought to the Effect he mentions, it was plain that these Letters were not then judged sufficient Authority, and as no further Proofs had been since adduced, my Government considered the Right of the English to the Possession of those Places legal and unquestionable.

It gave me a good deal of Surprize, that both in this Conference and that of the preceding Day, no Overture whatever was made by the Vackeel respecting Ragonaut Row, nor his Name mentioned by him, but in general Terms when relating Circumstances that had happened. This Silence regarding a Person who cannot but be the principal Object of their Negociation, I must ascribe to the Desire of Nanah, and his Instructions given to the Vakeel accordingly, to obtain a Confirmation and Personnance of the Engagements made with Mr. Carnac, by which Ragoba would again be delivered into their Hands. would again be delivered into their Hands.

READ a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard as follows:

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c.

I have been honoured with your Two Letters, of the 14th June and 8th July; the former of which, on account of the expected Cypher from Bombay not arriving before, I did not obtain an Explanation of till within these few Days. With respect to the Subject of the latter, the several Letters I have had the Honour to address you since that of the 6th June, to which yours is an Answer, will have fully satisfied you in every Part of my Conduct that might have been affected by the Injunction contained in it relative to Ragoba; and I hope you will find Cause to approve of the Line I have hitherto laid down to be observed towards that Chief, as consistent with your Pleafure now fignified to me.

Many of the political Points expressed in your Letter of the 14th June, will have been in a good Measure discussed and explained by the Contents of those I have already written you. I think it necessary however at this Time to be as full upon them as I possibly can, and to sum up in one View what may have been at different Times communicated to you.

To begin then with what more immediately relates to the Negociation for Peace. In my Letter of the 10th ultimo, I gave you an Account of what had passed at the Conference I had held with [T] REP. VI.

the Maratta Vackeels, the Opinion I had thence derived of the Inclinations of their Government, and the Hopes I had of receiving politive Answers to the Proposals transmitted to the Ministers in Twelve Days at farthest. Twice that Period has elapsed without receiving any Reply whatever; this Delay may have been occasioned by Artifice or Design in the Ministers, or it may be attributed to some Disturbances which I know have happened on the Road to Poona, and make it probable our Correspondence has been intercepted. At any rate I have thought it expedient to ob. viate all in my Power any Inconvenience arising from further Delay, and with that View have dispatched Lalla Nessaul Chund (one of the Maratta Agents, by his own Desire and Concurrence) express to his Master, fully informed in every Particular. He has undertaken to return in Twenty Days at farthest, fo that I have Reason to expect to be soon able to give you certain Information of the Event of my Commission at the Court of Poona. In the mean Time I will acquaint you with fuch Particulars as have occurred in the Course of my Negociation, from which any Conclu. fion may with Probability be drawn of the Views of Government, and of its Success or Dilap.

I before told you of my firm Opinion that Nana was inclined to make a Peace, nor have I yet feen any Cause to alter that Opinion; on the contrary, I am persuaded that whatever Obstacles may be thrown in the Way, will originate from Madajee Scindia. This Chief, notwithstanding the Sentiments entertained of his favourable Disposition towards the English by the Gentlemen of Bombay, appears to me their most inveterate Foe, and I should expect much sooner to see a particular Connection with the Minister than with him. Their relative Situation to each other is this; the one with the Name of Minister and the Share of Authority is almost entirely under the Controll of the other, who possessing in Jaghire, some of the first Provinces of the Empire, receiving a most Princely Revenue, and at the same Time having it in his Power from Circumstances to succeed in obtaining new Demands from the Minister, whenever he finds it for his Convenience to make them, enjoys every substantial Advantage he can wish for, and has in Reality the Direction of every public Business of the State. It is easy to see, in this Point of View, which of them has most Reason to be satisfied with his Situation, and whose Interest it is to wish or endeavour at any Change. Scindia gave remarkable Proof of the Independance he has assumed, by keeping Possession of Ragoba's Person himself, although the Minister was earnest for having it delivered up to him, and even offered a Crore of Rupees in Exchange. Nanah may be faid to owe every Thing to Scindia. It was by his Affiltance he rose superior to the Blow that had been struck at Poona in the Beginning of last Year; through his Means he annihilated the remaining Influence of Moraba and Siccaram, and fixed himfelf alone in the Seat of Government: These Services might merit the most grateful Return; but the Sentiments that would dictate this, do not belong to a Politician, and Nana is one. He fears the Power of Scindia, and as it is now the only remaining Check to his Views of absolute Rule, he earnestly wishes, and is led to entertain Hopes of being able to free himself from that also. enumerated these Arguments to prove that it can never be the Intention or Inclination of Scindia, while the Government exists in its present Form, to wish for any Alteration, or connect himself with the English in order to effect it. This is further evinced by his having never made any Overtures to me fince the Power given me to treat with the Maratta State became known, and by the Affurances given me by Ragoba, that he had no Hope or Dependance whatever in Scindia, who would then only be induced to take an active Part in his Favour when he found he either actually had or was likely to succeed without his Assistance.

To suppose that we can offer Advantages to him superior, or indeed adequate to those he at prefent enjoys, does not, from the above Statement, feem reasonable or consistent; and when we further reslect, that by uniting himself with us in admitting into the Empire a Rival, from whose Jealousy and Power he would believe he had every Thing to suspect and fear, I am persuaded you will be of Opinion, that no separate Alliance can, under the Circumstances I have described, be entered into with him.

My Negociation has been entirely with the established Government of the Maratta State, as you will have perceived, by the Accounts transmitted you of it; and I have understood the separate Convention with Scindia, and the Release of the Hostages, as necessarily included in the Ministers Confent to relinquish all Claims upon the Treaty of Worgaum. Should this preliminary Article be agreed to, with the Advice and Concurrence of Scindia, it must rike place in all its Parts, and should the Minister be inclined to comply with it, contrary to the Inclination of the other, it might prove the Occasion of a Rupture between the Parties, in which Case both would be equally solicitous for the Countenance and Affistance of the English.

From the Circumstances above stated, and because the Negociation with the Minister is so far advanced, I have thought it most consistent with the Object of your Instructions on this Head, not to commence any exclusive Intercourse with Scindia, until the Answers which may arrive from Poona, or other Causes of Convenience may point it out, for the Interest of your Affairs to do so; when I shall strictly adhere to the Mode you have been pleased to lay down for my Guidance in conducting it.

With respect to an Alliance with Moodajee Boosla, the Answers I have received to all my Letters, written fince my Arrival at Surat, and particularly to one, informing him of the Commission you had been pleased to entrust me with at the Court of Poona, as they contain nothing but general Expressions of Friendship, and earnest Wishes for the Accomplishment of a Peace with the Marattas,

A P P E N D I X, N° 216. N° 217, 218-220.

Hem to warrant my confidering the Negociation at Nagpore suspended until such Time as you shall be pleased to honour me with your Instructions for its Refusal.

Permit me to repeat the Declarations I have before made, of exerting myself in the most strenuous Degree to obtain the Object you continue to hold forth as the Termination of all your political Views on this Side of India; nor am I without Hope of being able to overcome the Difficulties which have prefented themselves to counteract it; as it has been my first Endeavour to convince the Minister of the sincere Wish you entertained of Peace, and the mutual Benefits that must result from it, without suffering him to encourage the most distant Idea that you could be induced to make any dishonourable Sacrifice for the Attainment of it.

My most arduous Task has been to restrain Ragoba's Followers, who after accompanying him to this Place, looked for a Reward of their Services, little in his Power to give. Some of them disperfed through the Villages neighbouring to Surat, committed Depredations upon the Subjects; which at so critical a Juncture as this, when every Act committed by Ragoba's People, though neither by his Authority or that of the English, would naturally be attributed to both, might have proved of the most fatal Consequence to your Interests. To obviate this Evil, and to enable Ragoba to discharge the most burthensome and useless, and satisfy the principal People, whose higher Demands could not be cleared off altogether, I have found it necessary to advance him since his Arrival in the Beginning of June 50,000 Rupees per Month, with which Supply he also supported the Expences of his Family, the whole of which are now with him.

Previous to Lala Neshaul Chund's Departure, at his own earnest Solicitation, that he might be able to satisfy his Master on the Point he had most at Heart, I judged it requisite to inform him in general of the Intentions of the English regarding Ragoba, as far as I thought my Instructions warranted, and seemed to render necessary at this Time for facilitating the Object of Peace. I assured him they would never consent to any Restraint being used towards his Person; that he must be permitted to reside wherever he might choose, with a sufficient Allowance from the Maratta State, and that on these Conditions he should not be suffered to carry on any improver Correspondent State, and that on these Conditions he should not be suffered to carry on any improper Correspondence, raise any Commotions in their Dominions, or if he did, he should forfeit the Allowance from

I had previous to your Letter consulted the Sclect Committee on the Subject regarding their Presidency in my Negociation, and had received every satisfactory Information; which Circumstance I communicated to you in a former Letter. Let me now affure you, that I shall continue to avail myself of their Advice and Information, in executing the Trusts separately committed to my Charge; and should all my Endeavours for Peace prove ineffectual, and a War become necessary, I shall chearfully and zealously co-operate with them in every Plan that may be determined on for the Interest and Honour of the Company, and execute whatever military Service they may require consistent with your Instructions, and the Provisions you have been pleased to make for my Guidance. It is also with particular Satisfaction that I can at this Time take upon me to affure you of the prepared and ferviceable State of the Troops under me, complete in military Stores, Artillery thoroughly repaired, and provided with every Requisite for taking the Field, and entering upon Service immediately.

I have so often had Occasion to express my Acknowledgment for the distinguishing Marks of your Favour, that I want Words to declare at this Time my grateful Sense of the new Honours you have been pleased to confer upon me. I am conscious how unequal Language would prove, to convey the full Idea of those Sentiments of Gratitude you have inspired me with: I shall therefore not attempt the Description, but trust to the Zeal, Perseverance, and undeviating Attention with which I shall labour to promote the Honour and Interests of the Company, for your future Testimony of my having exerted all my Abilities and Endeavours to merit the Reward you have so liberally

READ the following Letters from Brigadier General Goddard:

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Supreme Council.

I have been honoured with your Letter of the 2d August, and feel myself particularly happy at he Satisfaction you express in the Receipt of my Addresses of the 12th and 18th June; I beg to affure you that I shall pay the strictest Attention to the additional Instruction you have been pleak to give me respecting Ragoba, in my Negociation with the Maratta Ministers, and shall use them only under the Latitude you have thought proper to confine me.

At present, on Account of the Answer to my Proposals sent by Nehal Chund, the Maratta Agent, not having yet arrived, the Business must remain a few Days in Suspense; and indeed from the Nature of the Intelligence communicated to me from Poona, which I have Reason to consider most authentic, the Reply I may expect to the Offers already made, will in all Proposability be such as to preclude me from the Opportunity of renewing the old or making fresh Demands.

I have in a former Letter mentioned to you the ambitious Views of Scindia, and the jealous Apprehensions entertained of that Chief by the Minister's Considerations of mutual Interest, have been the only Bond of their Union, as the one found himself too weak to maintain his Authority without the Assistance of the other; and Scindia again, though not daring to take the Power into his own Hands, derived from the Weakness and Dependance of the Ministers sufficient Resources to gratify his Avarice and Ambition in their full Extent. Nana Furnese, since the compleat Triumph he obtained last Year, and the Removal of the Chiefs, who before shared the nominal Administration with himself, has discovered an Inclination to shake off all further Subjection to Scindia, which is not unknown to the latter; so that it would appear an open Quarrel between them is almost unavoidable. We must endeavour to trace the Cause why this Event, so natural to expect, has not yet happened. The close Connection of Scindia with Holkar, and the Fear of their united Forces, together with the strong Party the Instructe of these Chiefs has created in the State must deter Nanah from publicly declaring his Enmity; and till he does that, and the Rupture becomes avowed and open, Scindia will not unite himself with the English, or take Part in any stepect against the present established Government.

The fecret Wishes of Nanah ought, one would think, to have induced him to make a Peace with the English at this Time, which would be so much for his own Interest, and not by entering into a War, give that Weight to his Rival which his military Strength must ever claim in Time of Ne. cessity. It appears, however, he has taken a contrary Part. He has made Concessions to Scindia to bind him to his Service; and has prevailed on him to visit Poona, where they are no concert, making every Preparation for Hostilities, and settling the Plan for the ensuing Campaign. We must therefore look for another Key to his Conduct; and this I conceive to be the Prospect the Minister has of Assistance from the French. The Promises made him of the Arrival of their Armaments, and the confirmed Belief this Opinion has received from our moderate and pacific Proposals, which they it is probable attribute to our Apprehensions of being attacked by the French

I am happy at the Prospect of the Accession of Force you have been pleased to make under my Command; and have, in Obedience to your Directions, written to the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay, fixing upon the general Rendezvous at Surat; to which Place I have entreated the former to send their Proportion of Troops with all possible Expedition. The convenient Situation of Surat, open to a Communication by Sea so near Bombay that Dispatches or Succours may at any Time be sent to and from it, and in Addition to these, the firm Footing it gives us on the Continent, where, in case of the Arrival of a French Armament, the Presence of the Army would be an effectual Check upon the Minister Goicawar to prevent their forming a Junction with the Invaders, have determined me in the Choice of it. And I hope you will from these, and another Consideration, which it is unnecessary to mention, approve of the Measure.

these, and another Consideration, which it is unnecessary to mention, approve of the Measure.

I think it proper to inclose for your Perusal, Extract of a Letter from the President and Select Committee of Bombay, on the Subject of your Resolution of the 14th June, and of my Answer to it. I make no Doubt they either have or will make known these Sentiments to you themselves; and my Intention in communicating them at present, is principally to point out to you the sair Prospect there is, that no Dissernce in Opinion will retard or injure the Public Service, and my fixed Determination to avoid every Subject of Contest and Contrariety of Interest whatever.

I have only to add, that although the Spirit of this Letter may feem to breathe an approaching War, I would not be positively understood in that Sense; for although the Intelligence I have received, and other Circumstances which have come to my Knowledge, are such as to justify these Suspicions, I do not think myself authorized to deliver a decided Opinion, till I hear from the Maratta Agent whom I sent to Poona; and a very sew Days must furnish me with the Knowledge so be derived from his Intelligence.

N° 218.

Gentlemen,

I have the Honour to acknowledge your Letter of the 13th ultimo. The Letters I have from Time to Time transmitted you, giving an Account of the Situation of Affairs here, and of the Progress and Prospect of my Negociations with the Maratta Ministers, will have been sufficient to xplain to you the doubtful and uncertain State in which it was found when your Letters arrived. t may not however be amiss to mention some further Particulars that serve to justify the Suspicions aggelted to you in my last Letter, and which I cannot help still entertaining, of the hostile and ersidious Inclinations of the Minister, and at the same Time prove the fair and sufficient Opportuities given him of preventing the Evils of a War, and, should he longer persist in the same design-ng Conduct, the just and necessary Grounds on which we are compelled to undertake it. I will take no Notice of the authentic Information, both public and private, sent me of the holtile ntentions of the Maratta Chiefs; it is sufficient that I at present remark such Parts of the Minifter's Behaviour, as may lead to a Discovery of his real Designs. When the considential Persons first arrived from him, I communicated through them without Loss of Time the Proposals you had directed me to make on the Part of your Government, and soon afterwards from an Apprehension that by trusting intirely to an epistolary Correspondence, he would have it in his Power to practise the Art of Delay, so common a Part of Maratta Politics, I resolved to dispatch Nehal Chund, one of the Agents of Poona, fully and minutely instructed in every Point necessary to reconcile him to, and promote the Success of my Negociations; with this I acquainted you in a former Letter; the Man faithfully promised to return himself, or transmit an Answer in Twenty Days. When your Letter of the 13th ultimo reached me, twice the stipulated Period had elapsed, and in the Course of this Delay, although repeated Advices had been received from the Minister by Lutchmanrow, the remaining Agent, he communicated to me no Information by which I could suppose the Proposals were agreed to, on the contrary, he gave me to understand the Reverse, by telling me, that frequent Consultations had been held upon the Subject of my Proposals, and that particular Answers had been prepared to each, which would be fent by Nehal Chund; he had also at Two different Periods intimated to me that this Man had received his Audience for Leave of his Master, and would fet off for Surat immediately. This Declaration he repeated on the Morning of the 18th to me more confidently than before; but upon my interrogating him closely, he acknowledged that he did not expect he would leave Poona till after the Celebration of the Dussorah, which would happen on the 19th, so that by Calculation of the supposed Letters, mentioning his having been dismissed, he must have afterwards remained at Poona at least Fifteen Days.

From the manifest Duplicity and Artifice this Behaviour of the Maratta Agent discovered in his Master, and from a Consideration of the Circumstances above enumerated, as well as of the Distance to Poona, being near 150 Cofs, the Difficulty and Delay to which one Person would be subjected in travelling it, which might be productive of suture political Inconvenience; conscious also that the Object you had in View would be equally well answered at the Point to which Matters are now brought, and which could not be known to you at the Time you wrote, if I purfued a different Mode of putting the Sincerity and Friendship of the Ministers to a Test than that contained in your Letter of the 13th ultimo. I adopted the following, which I hope will meet your Appro-

On the Morning of the 18th Instant, when Lutchmanrow the Maratta Vackeel waited upon me, and communicated to me the Circumstances respecting Nehal Chund's Leave and Departure, as mentioned above; I declared to him the Doubts I could not but entertain of the hostile Inclinations and Defigns of his Master from the Delay that unnecessarily arose in transmitting the Answer to Proposals by Nehal Chund, as well as the evasive Excuses given by himself regarding it. That notwithstanding these just Grounds for Suspicion, the English were still ready to shew their sincere Inclinations for Peace, and grant every Indulgence they possibly could consistent with a Regard to their own Honour and Safety, and that therefore I would wait 15 Days more, in which Time he taid a Letter might arrive in Reply to one he would dispatch that Instant, at the Expiration of which, if Nehal Chund did not arrive, or a fatisfactory Answer to the Proposals I had transmitted by him in the Name of my Government, I should consider this Delay as a Declaration of War, and act accordingly.

I at the fame Time delivered Lutchmanrow Letters for the Peshwa and Minister, and to the same Effect. The Period to which I have thus limited them expires the 3d November, and as so many Days yet remain to that Date, I am not without the fullest Hopes that the Emissary Nehal Chund will previously arrive; at the same Time, I see great Reason to apprehend that the Proposals I made to the Minister, if acceded to by him, will be complied with only upon Conditions that it may not be in my Power to give my Confent to.

I HAVE been favoured with your Two Letters, and perfectly understand the Contents.

The First of them I understand to have been written under Circumstances which having been fince totally changed, it is unnecessary to reply to it further than to inform you, that Letter having been written to me at the same Time, containing the same Demands but in fuller Terms. I have replied, in Conformity to the Resolutions of this Government, by a total Disavowal of the Convention of Worgaum, as made without any Authority from this Government, and resulted to abide by a Tittle of the Terms contained therein.

It will be my constant Rule, as it has been the invaried Practice of the Rulers of the English Government, to adhere most rigidly to the Faith of public Treaties.

You must have learnt from your Vackeels here, the Anxiety I was under for your personal Safety from the Time of the unfortunate Event which put you into the Power of your Enemies, until the joyful Tidings reached me of your fafe Arrival at the English Camp at Surat. WE likewise have received Advices from the Governor General and Council, dated the 14th June and 8th of July; wherein they communicate to us the Line of Conduct they have taken respecting this Presidency, and the Powers and Instructions they have given to you.

Though we think those Powers an absolute Infringement of the Rights immediately inherent in us; yet from our Regard to the Public Service, which must suffer Injury by any Contest between us and the Governor General and Council, we have determined, first making due Reservation of our Rights, not to oppose the Operation of their Orders, but shall unite with you with the same Confidence and Cordiality as before in promoting the Success of whatever Measures Circumstances may render it necessary to adopt.

In like Manner we confider the elevated military Rank they have given you, confined to the Sphere of our Jurisdiction, as another Point in which our Rights are invaded; yet as it has taken Place, we feel Pleasure in this Distinction being conferred upon you, and congratulate you upon it.

Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Thomas Goddard to the Honourable President and Select Committee of Bombay; dated September 29th 1779.

Whatever may be your Sentiments regarding the Resolutions taken by the Governor General and Supreme Council, and the Line of Conduct they have been pleased to prescribe for our mutual Guidance, it affords me the highest Satisfaction that no Injury can thereby happen to the public Service, from the Declaration you have made of uniting with me, with the same Confidence and Cordiality as before, in promoting the Success of whatever Measures Circumstances may render it neceffary to adopt. Allow me on my Part to repeat the Affurances I have already given of being wholly guided in my Conduct by a fixed Regard to the Interests of the Company and of your Government, and cheerfully concurring in every Operation that may conduce to this useful and defirable End.

I beg to offer my fincere Thanks for the Congratulations you have made me on my late Appointent; and on this Subject, without prefuming to enter, in the most distant Degree, into any Sort of rgument on the Propriety or Legality of the Measure, I cannot but observe, that as the slattering ncomiums you were pleased to bestow upon my Conduct must have proved a powerful Recomlendation in my Favour to the Government of Bengal, of which I am myself fully sensible, they can also on this Occasion to have been influenced by the Spirit of that Paragraph respecting me, ontained in your President's Minute, which in all its Parts has so justly merited and received their attention and Approbation.

Read a Letter from the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay.

We cannot but most fensibly feel the Invasion upon the Rights and Powers immediately vested in is by the Honourable Company, and thus illegally, as we conceive, transferred to General Goddard, by your Instructions of the 14th of June; your charging him exclusively with the immediate Interests of this Prefidency, with the Power of making Peace or War for us at his own Choice, and with an Army under his own independant Command, to profecute whatever Measures he may think proper to adopt, are Inflances of delegated Authority both unconflitutional, and in the highest Degree injunous to the Rights absolutely inherent in us, under the Subordination due to you by Act of Parliament. Those Rights, Gentlemen, being established on fixed and ascertained Grounds, it is needlets to enter into a Detail or argumentative Defence of them; we must appeal to a higher Power to restore to us the free Exercise of them; and in the mean Time, from our Regard to the Public Service which must suffer Injury in the Contest, we shall not oppose the Operation of your Orders; though we still hereby make a solemn Reservation of our Rights thus violently infringed, and which are not in the smallett Degree impaired or lessened by our Concession in this Instance.

As Moodajee Bouncello is a Power immediately connected with your Government, we have no desire to interfere in the Negociation with him, further than the Interests of this Presidency may be affected thereby or render necessary, even though it may be carried on within the Limits of our own Authority.

We have ever treated General Goddard with the Confidence and Attention due to his Station and Merits, and of our own Motion invited him to our Councils: Nor shall we now be less ready to consult with him on any Measure that may have a Relation to your Instructions; though this does not appear very material, as he is placed independant of our Resolutions.

Though any Distinction that could with Propriety have been conferred on General Goddard would have given us Pleasure, your granting him an elevated Rank, confined to the Sphere of our Jurisdiction, is another of the Points wherein we think our Rights invaded, and may be productive of many bad Consequences, which we shall be very glad may not happen; our Opinion of General Goddard's Merits, as an Officer, and our Respect for you, would no Doubt have led us to entrust to him the Conduct of all military Operations, had the Opinion been left to us; but as he is totally independant in this Point, the Extension of Power in conferring such an Appointment appears as inexpedient as it is unauthorized.

We shall to the best of our Comprehension observe your Directions in the Points where any Degree of Agency is left to us. The reputed Head of the Guicawar Family is totally instane, and disordered in his Mind; and the Priority of Right to the executive Office of Government has been disputed between the Two Beethers. Futty Sing and Govin Row, one claiming as the all long disputed between the Two Brothers, Futty Sing and Govin Row, one claiming as the elder born, the other as Son of the Wife of first Rank; but the Pretensions of the former have been generally supported by the Poona Durbar.

We have no Account of the State of General Goddard's Negociation; but we enclose Copy of a Letter we sent him at his Desire under the 3d of July, giving an Account of the State of the Treaty of Poorunder, and the Articles which remained unperformed.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 29th November 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Esquires. Philip Francis, Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

READ the following Letter from Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We had the Honour to receive your Letter of the 2d August, acquainting us with your Reasons for thinking the French at the Islands meditate an Attack on Bombay, and requesting in consequence that we would detach One Battalion of Europeans, Three Battalions of Sepoys, and Fifty Artillery Men, from the Forces belonging to this Presidency, to join the Army commanded by Brigadier General Goddard, whom you should direct to grant the most effectual Support in his Power to the Government of Bombay, for defeating any hostile Attempt which may be made against it.

We shall always be led by Inclination, as well as Duty, to co-operate with you to the utmost of our Power, in any Plan you may adopt for the Security of the Company's Possessions; but in the present Case, we hope there will be no Necessity for such great Succour to assist the Gentlemen at Bombay, even should they be attacked, since we understand their Force is very equal to their Protection against any Attempt that can be made by the French in their present State; and we are inclined ourselves to this Opinion, because having written to Bombay in the Month of July, to inform the President and Council of the Intelligence we had received relative to the Intentions of the French, they do not in their Answer express the least Apprehension of the Insufficiency of their Force; and we should suppose further, that had they any Doubt on this Head, they would have detained the Asia Man of War, which was sent from England purposely to affist in their Defence, and which they allowed to leave Bombay in the Month of August, to join the Admiral at this Place.

But after all, we conceive the French at the Islands will not be in a Condition to fit out an Armament against Bombay, without considerable Support from France; and, as far as we can learn from private Intelligence, their Nation is too much pressed both in Europe and in the West Indies, to spare any Reinforcements for this Country.

Brigadier General Goddard, in a Letter to General Sir Hector Munro, dated the 15th August, after mentioning that he is authorized to make a Requisition of the Force at Mahé, writes as follows: "At present it is impossible for me to speak with any Certainty of the Effect of my Nego-" ciation with the Maratta State, or whether I may have Occasion for this Reinforcement or not; " but I shall make it my Care to have every thing prepared for the Transportation of the Troops; "I hope you will previously furnish the Officer who is in Charge of them with such Directions as may prevent any Cause of Delay in their Embarkation, should Circumstances so sall out as to " render their Junction necessary."

We have likewise a Letter from our Commandant at Mahé, enclosing a Copy of one from the Governor of Bombay to him, in which he writes: "Brigadier General Goddard acquaints me, "that he has been advised from Bengal, that the Troops under your Command at Mahé will be " instructed to obey his Requisition to join his Army, should he not succeed in his Negociations

" with the Marattas."

From these Letters we should conceive, that the Object of the Reinforcement was principally to fupport General Goddard's Negociations with the Marattas, and this is certainly a Matter of fo much Importance that we are disposed heartily to concur with you in promoting it. We have sent Directions to Colonel Braithwaite to obey any Requisition that may be made by Brigadier General Goddard for the Troops at Mahé, which consist of One Company of European Infantry, One Company of Artillery, Six Companies of Grenadier, and Eight Companies of Battalion Sepoys. We think it proper to mention, however, that we are under some Doubt, whether the Sepoys will voluntarily embark on this new Service, since they have been absent from the Coast Nine Months; and though they went to Mahé (by Sea) with uncommon Alacrity, and have behaved remarkably well there, they have expressed an anxious Desire to return to the Coast; and Colonel Braithwaite fome Time ago said, that if they were detained from it much longer he was apprehensive that a considerable Number might desert. We are inclined, notwithstanding, to believe they will be prevailed on to proceed if the Service requires it; but should they not, we have desired the earliest Notice may be given us, that we may replace them with an equal Number which can be sent from our Northern Garrisons to Anjengo in a very short Time, and embarked from thence.

As to any further Reinforcement than the above, we are apprehensive our Situation will not admit of it, at least for the present. The Non-arrival of the Fleet leaves us at great Uncertainty concerning the King's Troops, and the Season being now too late for the Ships to come on the Coast, we are at a Loss where or when to expect them. We must observe likewise, that the Conduct of Hyder Ally makes it absolutely necessary for us to be as much as possible on our Guard. The Language he holds in his Correspondence, and the great Preparations he is making for War, manifest a strong Intention to break with the Company; and we believe he only waits a favourable Conjuncture, which may soon happen. A War with Hyder, let the Event be ever so successful on our Part, would distress the Carnatic beyond Measure, and prove a most expensive Burthen on the Company. We sincerely hope therefore, that General Goddard may conclude a Treaty with the Marattas and thereby free the Company from the Necessity of engaging with the Two most powerful States of India at the same Time, which will probably be the Case if he sail in his Negociation. Should we be at Peace with the Marattas, Hyder will be afraid to disturb us; for, exclusive of our Strength, which he would then have no Hopes of resisting, the determined Enmity which the Marattas bear him, would induce him rather to court our Friendship than to provoke us into Hostilities; and this is precisely the State wherein only we can expect to preserve that general Tranquillity in the Carnatic, which is so necessary at all Times, but especially at this Juncture.

We earnestly request you will be pleased to send by the First proper Conveyance the Five Lacks of Rupees which were promifed us in August last, and which are much wanted to answer our extraordinary Demands.

Fort St. George, 30th October 1779. We have the Honour to be, &c. John Whitehill, (Signed) &c. Select Committee.

Agreed, That the following Reply be written to the President and Select Committee of Fort Saint George.

We have received your Letters, dated the 6th, 7th, and 30th October.

The Honourable Company's Ship Ganges arrived the 13th, and the General Barker the 14th Instant, and have brought with them the French Recruits mentioned in your Letter of the 6th October.

Your Detention of the Recruits configned to this Presidency by the Honourable Court of Directors, has been a very serious Disappointment to us; the Reasons which you have assigned for this Act is not satisfactory; a Course of Three Weeks, during which the Recruits were or might have been on Shore at Fort Saint George, was sufficient, with proper Refreshment, at least to have but them into such a Train of Recovery as to have fitted them to undertake the Remainder N their Voyage to this Port; and the additional Argument which you alledge, namely, that you have not received any List of them, was and ought, as we conceive, to have been understood as a Properties of that they did not appertain to your Presidency. Your Scruples excited by this Uncertainty, might have been easily removed by the Reslection that you had already a Number of our Recruits of the last Season, more than equal to that of the present Importation, and that the latter might therefore have been spared without any Diminution of the Proportion altogether assigned to you.

The Cod ship I of the more sensibly because it has fallen on us at a Season in which is

We feel this Loss the more sensibly because it has fallen on us at a Season in which it could hot be retrieved in the ordinary Way for many Months to come; and of this you yourselve should have been aware, when you promised to send us our full Proportion of the Recruits arrived and coming in the Fleet as foon as you were acquainted with their Destination. This Promise affords but too much Ground for the Apprehension that you propose in like Manner to detain all the remaining Recruits which have been designed for this Presidency.

We were greatly distressed by the like Detention of our Recruits the last Year; but yielded to the apparent Necessity, which was then urged a Plea for it, and confided in your Promise to restore them as foon as the Siege of Pondicherry was concluded; notwithstanding this Promise, and our Demand for them in Letter of the 4th February last, they are still withheld from us.

Our full Complement of European Soldiers is considerably below the Proportion which it ought to bear to the native Troops of this Establishment, and with all the Supplies which it has hitherto been in the Power of the Company to fend us, we have rarely exceeded One-half even of that Complement; but if you avail yourselves of the Advantage which your Situation puts into your Hands, of intercepting our Recruits on their Way to us, you eventually hazard the Loss of all the Company's Possessions in this Country, and of their Existence with them.

Such a Diminution of our proper Strength is at this Time particularly distressing, and may be attended with instant Danger; it will either impose upon us the Necessity of supplying the Den. ciency by new Levies of Native Troops, and increasing the Proportion between them and our European Soldiery, or of leaving our Means of Defence inadequate to the Extent of our Territory and Connexions, or the many Calls to which we are become liable, for the Maintenance of the Company's general political System, and the Support of our Part in the War with France, and the Maratta State, which we now regard as inevitable.

From these Considerations, it is indispensably incumbent on us to demand, in the most peremptory Manner, and we do accordingly so require you, immediately to send us all the Recruits, both or the last and of the present Season, who were designed by the Court of Directors for their Service on this Establishment, and whom you have detained; and that no Doubt may remain, either of their Identity or Destination, we inclose you authentic Copies of the List of the Military who were Passengers on each Ship, as far as our latest Receipts of them. As the present Scason will not admit of these being transported by Sea, we shall send Officers by the General Barker, to receive Chaige of them, and to conduct them to Calcutta, either directly by Sea or by marching them first to Ganjam, as shall be deemed most advisable; and we desire that you will cause them to be delivered over to such Officers immediately on their Arrival, and grant them every requisite Assistance for conducting the Men in Safety to the Place of their Destination.

We are forry that you deemed it inexpedient to furnish the Detachment under the Command of General Goddard at Surat, with the Reinforcement of Troops which we required; but we hope that your Orders to Colonel Braithwaite, to join him with the Forces under his Command, will prove effectual.

Fort William. 29th November 1779.

We are, &c. &c.

Refolved, That Officers be directed to hold themselves in Readiness to proceed by the General Barker, to Fort Saint George, there to receive Charge of all the Recruits belonging to this Prefidency, and to conduct them to Fort William, either directly by Sea, or by Land to Ganjam, in order to proceed from thence in Vessels which will be provided for them.

Ordered, That all the Officers belonging to this Establishment, who are at present at Fort Saint George on Leave of Absence, do return to Bengal by this Opportunity.

Intelligence from Naigpore; dated the 21st of Jammadeassanie, 7th of July.

A DVICES from Poona say, that when the News of the near Approach of Dewajee Pundit, the Vackeel of Modajee Bhosila, was received by Nanah Purnaveese, he proposed to go out and meet him, together with Sewal Madho Row. When Dewajee heard it, he immediately sent a Madho Row was Message to him, desiring that he would not give himself that Trouble, on Account of him, who was at all Times his Servant. On this Nanah laid afide his Design, and sent Hurry Pundit Purkeah to meet and conduct Dewajee to him: Hurry Pundit accordingly went and met him, and on the 8th of Jemmadeeassanie (24th June) they arrived at Poona, and went to the House of Naroo Pundit. The Day afterwards he waited on Sewal Madho Row, and was very kindly received.

The Forces of Sindeah and Holcar pursued Ragonaut Row a great Way, but could not over-take him; he got safely to Surat. The said Chiefs sent Directions to their Forces, to canton Eight Days Journey on this Side of Goujeraut, and that other Forces should be sent to join them.

It is reported here, that the English Forces being joined, are encamped 16 Coss on this Side of Surar. There is the Prospect of Hostilities in Two or Three Months. Colonel Goddard is returned from Bombay, and joined the Army.

We hear that Modajee's Vackeel, who was with the English at Surat, has lest them, and joined

' From Maha Rajah Modajce Bhosila: Dated the 4th Rujjib, 19th of July; received the 6th of October 1779.

I have been favoured after a long Silence with your Two agreeable Letters, written after the Arrival of Beneram Pundit, and your becoming acquainted with the Particulars of the Paper in his Charge; and received the greatest Pleasure from the Perusal of them. You write that they are long, and breathe forth the Sentiments of Friendship, Wisdom, and Judgment; but that the great Object of them all being entirely at an End, it is unnecessary to recapitulate the Substance of them: That having fully understood the Contents of the Paper delivered to you by Beneram Pundit, you had, agreeably to my Desire, returned it to him: That from the Contents of it, you understand it to have been meant to convey a clear and explicit Information of my Intentions to relinquish the Plan proposed by you, which my Friendship would not allow me to make known to you by an abrupt Declaration, otherwise it was unnecessary to have written Volumes on a Subject which required no more than a single Line: That what is past is past, and that of the Designs which you had formed, you shall relinquish all suture Thoughts, but that of my past Kindness in the Services I rendered the English Army on their Arrival at Hoshungabad, in feading a Person of Rank and Trust to wait for them, and in furnishing them with Provisions and whatever they stood in need of, and in shewing them all the Dues of Hospitality, you shall ever retain a grateful Remembrance; and that you shall be happy to make every suitable Return to these Obligations whenever any future Occasion of my Affairs shall demand it: That you have written to Major Camac to remain within the Borders of Bengal, and not to proceed any further, but have not recalled him to Calcutta, not having determined what Part of your Army he shall join, which will depend on future Contingencies,

The pleasing Contents of these Letters, which though written under the Veil of Obscurity, yet at least declare your steady Adherence to the Friendship and Connection established between us, I fully understand.

With these Letters there was none from Beneram Pundit, who is acquainted with the most secret Negociations between us, nor have I yet received the Paper I entrufted to him; but this is of no Confequence, it will arrive.

Since on becoming acquainted with the Contents of the Paper I fent you, you totally relinquished your Deligns, and regarded it as a clear and explicit Answer, and giving up all your Views, confined yourself solely to the Preservation of Friendship between us, it would be equally uscless and improper in me to repeat to you my Sentiments, Views, and Intentions, with respect to future Affairs, and would even carry the Appearance that I was acting a deceitful Part, watching my own Opportunity, and promoting the Cause of my Countrymen; yet, the strict Ties of Friendship, Candour, and Considence, which have taken place in the Course of our last Year's Correspondence, (during which Space I have received more than an Hundred very friendly Letters from you) will oblige me to the Performance of what I conceive an indispensible Duty of Friendship, viz. to communicate to one's Friend the Consequences which are likely to attend any particular Measure, and the Advantages or Disadvantages attendant thereon, whether such Friend chooses to pay Attention thereto or not.

The Case slands thus: As on the Decease of the incomparable Mr. Elliott, all our Views remained under the Veil of Secrecy, you sent for Bissember Pundit to a private Audience, and entrusted the Points of Mr. Elliott's Commission, which were of the most delicate Nature, to him, to be written to me, and informed me, that those were the secret Matters which were intended to have been verbally communicated to me by the late Mr. Elliott; and that, having maturely considered them, I would adopt Measures to carry them into Essect, and write to you for whatever was required for that Purpose.

On perusing this Letter in private, I perceived the most extensive Designs and Views of universal Conquest. In the first Place, I found it impossible with my Pen, which is a Mode the Secrecy of which cannot be depended upon, to express my Assent or Disapprobation; and Secondly, I conceived beyond the Abilities of Vackeels to negociate an Assair of such Importance, as the Views of every Person are enlarged or contracted according to their Character and Rank in Life, and therefore earnestly wished, agreeable to your Intimation, to send my Minister Dewagur Pundit Twelve Days Journey towards Cuttack, and that it might suit you to come and meet him, that so all Points might be clearly settled in a Conference without the Interference or Knowledge of a Third Person. As this, by reason of a Variety of Causes, did not take place on either Side, I was under the Necessity of committing those important Matters to Writing, under the Sanction of the Mighty God, (who reads the Hearts of his Creatures, and from whose Omniscience nothing, however secret, tan be hid) in which I paid the strictest Attention to the Rights of the illustrious Family on the Rauze, and acknowledging my Obedience due thereto, proposed Measures, which I judged indispension the necessary for the Re-establishment of the Affairs of the Rauze.

These Proposals, considered as the Production of the most complete Knowledge in the Mysle ries of Government, were well worthy of Approbation: It is probable that the Reader of it to you did not lay the Strefs he ought to have done on the important Objects it contained, to carry Conviction to your Mind; or Beneram Pundit did not represent my Propositions to you in their real and proper Colours.

What is to be done? I cannot convey my Soul into the Body of another; or perhaps, learning from the News-papers the ill-concerted Plans of the Chiefs of Bombay, you fuffered yourfelf to be led by your Indignation thereat, from the Paths of Equanimity and found Policy; and confidering it is inconsistent with your Magnanimity to accept of the Assistance of your Friends, you is jected the Propositions I transmitted you, and regarding the Expences of that Plan as entirely unnecessary and fruitless, determined to depend solely on the Bravery and Magnanimity of the English!

What can I say? or to what End shall I swell my Letter on this Subject? Were I present with you, I would, from Motives of the sincerest Friendship, set the Matter before you in its time Light, and point out to you the imminent Dangers attendant upon these Measures; and you would, I am convinced, give your Assent thereto. Had my Ambition the Wings of an Eagle, one Flight would bring us together, when every Point would be cleared up.

Although the Marattas are in Possession of near 300 Forts, built of Stone, furnished with all Kin. of warlike Stores, and can in case of War collect into one Body near 200,000 Cavalry; besides it Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and others also, who are all alarmed at the Incroachments of the Fig. lish into the Decan, and are waiting a favourable Opportunity to repel them; and although the Mode of making War, and Activity is such, that they will in one Night gain a Distance of 50 Cols both eating and fleeping on their Horses; harrassing an opposing Army on all Quarters, and cutting off all its Convoys and Supplies, making the most furious Attacks on it whenever they find an Opportunity; retreating and returning to the Charge; laying Stratagems by pretended Flight to draw Parties of the Enemy to pursue them, and then rallying and cutting them off, by which Policy they have defeated all the Chiefs and Rajahs of Hindostan, to wit, Scsoo Dhayeah, Hadah, Cotchousa, and Ranna, &c. as also the powerful Ameers in a Multitude of Battles, and reduced all those Countries to their Subjection, and have at all Times afforded their Affillance to the King; yet not withstanding all this, the English propose, without having made Preparations or collected the Necdfaries of War, to overcome them by a trifling Essort, and to reduce them to Obedience. This is really aftonishing.

You write that one Line was sufficient to have given an Answer to the proposed Designs, and that there was no Necessity to have written so voluminously, that is to say, "Your Forces are arrived at Hoshungabad, my Troops shall join them, and shall settle the Business."

This causes me real Surprize, and the End of it would have proved a Parallel to that of the Plan of the English at Bombay.

To oppose a Mountain, a Mountain is requisite, what Effect would be produced by throwing Pebbles at it? Should a Person attempt to extinguish a raging Fire, which had seized on a Jungle of Reeds, by throwing on it a Handful of Water, should we not be induced to smile at his vain Attempt, when nothing less than an Ocean of Water would be sufficient? Persons experienced in the Affairs of War and Slaughter, and skilled in the Maxims of ancient States, make the Considerations above recited the Guide of their Conduct: By the Bleffing of God you are known to have great Experience in Business. Regard what I have above written as dictated folely by warm Friendship; and on confidering maturely, you will approve thereof.

As I had received your Letter, informing me that you had given up all Thoughts of profecuting this Business, but remained firm in your Friendship, and repeating your Obligations to me, and had likewise got Letters from Colonel Goddard and Mr. Weatherstone, asking my Advice with respect to the Measures to be adopted, which was accompanied by a Letter from the Governor of Bombay, I judged it advisable to dispatch Dewagur Pundit to Poona; which I accordingly did. He arrived there in Safety, and had several Conferences with the Prime Minister, Nanah Purnavele, who is a Man of great Wisdom, and steadily attached to his Word and Engagements. In the Course of these, he represented my Integrity and good Faith, and took an Opportunity to mention, in a proper Manner, the Apprehensions conceived with respect to the French.

As Letters from Colonel Goddard, addressed to Row Pundit Purdhaun and Dewagur Pundit, informing them of the Powers with which he was invested from the Company to make Peace with the Marattas, and asking Dewagur Pundit's Advice, as to his future Measures, had been received at Poona, Answers were returned thereto. The Substance of Dewagur Pundit's Reply, and the one which he caused Pundit Purdhaun to write, you will fully learn from another Letter which relates the Whole, as written me by Dewagur Pundit.

You will therefore write to Colonel Goddard to make Peace; a Measure highly proper, which will be the Means of establishing Tranquillity in the Country, removing all Causes of Apprehension from the Designs of the French, and preserving the Faith of Treaty to the latest Posserity I wish to act as the Guarantee to this Treaty between Pundit Purdhaun and the English Chiefs, that it may be inviolably preserved.

You will therefore regard all these Measures which I have taken, as the most convincing Proofs of my Friendship and Attachment to the English, and will send me an immediate Answer; for which I am very anxious.

APPENDIX, Nº 223.

Postscript.

With respect to what you mention of my not having given an Answer to Major Camac, the Case was this: Cossids belonging to Colonel Goddard brought a Letter addressed to Major Camac from Burhanpore; which Cossids requested a Letter from me to Major Camac; but it being Night, they departed without my Leave.

This proves the Ignorance of the Cossids.

Had I received a Letter from Major Camac, I should have returned a proper Answer to it. What you now write, with respect to your having suspended his March forward, is highly proper.

2d. Postscript.

The Note inclosed in your Letter, was defigned for the Preservation of Secrecy, by informing me of the Impropriety of communicating such Matters to Ramkaunt; but that I was the best Judge of my own Affairs. The Circumstance is this: After the Decease of Mr. Elliott, Ram-kaunt was the only one of his Followers who made his Appearance before me; and as a Person sent by you, of whatever Rank or Condition, is dear to me, I regarded him equally with Beneram Pundit.

Actuated by fincere Friendship, I regard my own Interest as best promoted by your Advice: Such Advice is good as is founded on the Welfare and Interest of one's Friend, not on Self-interest.

From Moodajee Bhoosila; received the 31st October 1779.

Your friendly Letter informing me of your having recalled Major Camac, &c. (here follows a Repetition of the Particulars of the Governor's Letter of the 12th of May) arrived in a happy Hour; and by its Contents afforded me the greatest Pleasure.

Your unreferved Communication on the State of Affairs, and of your Views and Sentiments, which is a Proof of fincere Friendship, gave me the greatest Satisfaction, and encreased my Attachment to you.

Some Time ago, on the Receipt of Letters from my Minister, Dewagur Pundit (whom I had thought proper before Colonel Goddard marched to Surat, to dispatch at the Defire of the Ministers to Poona) which Letters contained the Particulars of the Convertations he had had with Nanna Purnavcese; in which, actuated by Friendship, he had used every Argument to convince him of your distinguished Virtues, and particularly of your Sincerity and good Faith, and of the Steadines's of the English Nation; as well as what he heard from Nanna Purnavese, what he saw of the State of the Maratta Armies, Forts, &c. and of the Measures which appeared to him most eligible to be pursued in future. I sent them, accompanied by his Reply to your Letter, to Calcutta; from which you must have gained a compleat Knowledge of every Matter. Those Letters were dictated solely by Friendship to the English, without Regard to any other Consideration.

On the Receipt of your last Letter, I dispatched it, together with your Letter addressed to him, to most expedient to induce them to adhere to the English Friendship.

In the mean Time Letters were received at Poona by Pundit Purdhaun, Nanna Purnaveese, and Dewagur Pundit, advising them, that he had been invested by the Governor General and Supreme Council of Bengal with full Powers to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace and Friendship with the Marattas; and that as it was his Wish to establish a good Understanding, and to remove every Ground of Quarrel and Dispute, he desired that a Person of Trust might be deputed from thence to negociate with him, having no Doubt but that on his Arrival, all Matters would be amicably settled; that he himself would repair to any Place that should be fixed on for an Interview, where every thing might be personally adjusted: A Letter to Pundit Purdhaun was likewise received from you, expressing your Desire for an amicable Accommodation. All these Letters agreed in Substance with those from this Quarter; in consequence of which long Conferences were held between Nanna Purnaveese and Dewagur Pundit, on the Mode of re-establishing Harmony and Friendship; the full Particulars of which you will learn from the Letters of Dewagur Pundit. A Person of Trust was deputed on the Part of Pundit Purdhaun to Surat, to negociate with Colonel Goddard, and Dewagur Pundit wrote his Sentiments very fully to the Colonel; you will therefore write to Colonel Goddard such Instructions as you judge expedient, to remove all Grounds of Disputes and Hostilities. The Earnestness and Zeal with which, prompted by my Friendship to you, I have all along acted, and still act in this Business, and the constant and unreserved Communications which I have made to you on every Event, you are, I doubt not, fully sensible of; an equal Return of Confidence on your Part, in communicating your Sentiments to me, will be highly advantageous; and I doubt not but you will therefore let me frequently have the Pleafure to hear from you on this Subject, as well as respecting your Health.

Your Permission to Beneram Pundit to go to Benares for the Recovery of his Health, was very proper. I understand what Beneram writes, and fince I began this Letter, I have received Two other Letters from you of the same Tenor as your former ones, to which I have fully replied both before and in my present Letter. Beneram Pundit has Orders to return to you as soon as his Health REP. VI. [Y] shall be established. The Recall of Major Camac into the Provinces of Bengal was highly proper and expedient.

What you have repeatedly written on the Subject of Caution and profound Secrecy, I perfectly understand: All Men of Wisdom, and more particularly Rulers of a State, will preserve their Secrets in a equal, nay even in a superior, Degree, to their Lives.

As Mr. Esliott died in the Way, and there was no Person lest but Ramkaunt who was acquainted with the Languages, and was in Fact intelligent and well versed in Business, for which he had great Abilities, I thought it advisable to join him with Beneram Pundit; and to these Two alone I communicated both verbally and by Letter whatever I had to fay to you; but except these Two, no one has been made acquainted with any Part of our Defigns, nor shall any one in future.

Bengal Persian Correspondence.

Translation of a Letter in the Hindostanny Language, from Lalla Takur Doss: Dated the 21th of Shabaun, 3d September 1779; received the 12th October 1779.

HAVE been honoured with your gracious Letter, accompanied by Karetahs, from the Nabob Governor and yourself, addressed to Madho Row Sindeah, and Mhatah Sada Shinkur, Moonsley. I caused the Karetah to be delivered to Pateel Sahib by the said Moonshey: Pateel Sahib sent at to Nanna Purnaveese, who returned it Five Days afterwards in a Letter from himself. Pateel Salab having perused the Letter, tore it, and gave Orders to prepare an Answer.

Appa Sabajee was some Time ago sent from hence to Poona, to receive his Dismission from Nanna Purnaveese to repair to Calcutta; but on the Arrival of Dewagur Pundit at Poona, by ha Advice his Commission was suspended. Some Time afterwards Patcel Sahib declared it as his Opnion, and that he would fend a Message through Apajee, that Lalla Takur Doss should be jound in Commission with Apajee, and sent to Calcutta; on this, Mhata Sada Sinkur said, "As the Measure will not meet with the Approbation of the Rulers of the Raje, if it is resolved to " establish a firm and perfect Friendship, let the Correspondence with the Calcutta Chiefs on this Subject be conducted through me, who am an old and experienced Servant." Pateel Sahib hearing this, continued filent. The Moonshey related all these Particulars to me; and added, that his Dispofition was fuch, that there was no Dependence on him; that he was puffed with Pride, and an arrogant Opinion of his own Abilities; and that it was to be apprehended, that after Proposals thould be made he would not abide thereby, which would draw the greatest Difgrace on him.

You write, that whatever Acts are done by Colonel Goddard are valid, and will be ratified: This I understand. The Colonel has accordingly entered into a Correspondence with Pateel Sahib, and Nanna Purnaveese; and a Vackeel is gone to Surat, on the Part of the Peishwa. Pateel Sahib, under the Influence of Avarice, submits entirely to the Authority of Nanna Purnaveese, who has the sole Direction of Affairs. The Chiefs have published a Declaration, that they will make War resingly any one who shall enter this Country.

against any one who shall enter this Country.

Some Time ago Intelligence having been received of the Arrival of an English Fleet at Bombay, a Vakeel on the Part of Nanna Purnavecse, and Apajee, on the Part of Pateel Saheb, went with Piefents to Bombay, where they were to continue; but have fince returned hither with the Prefents.

Colonel Goddard has written feveral Letters to the Peishwa and Nanna Purnavecse; the Two first to the following Essect (See Modajee's last Letters). In the Third he proposes an Interview, by which all Points might be settled; to which Answers have been returned. If an Interview is settled between the Colonel and Nanna Purnaveese, Pateel Sahib will likewise repair to it.

Nanna Purnaveese is satisfied, that the English Chiefs should make their own Terms, upon Condition that they deliver up Ragonaut Row to him, or keep a ftrict Watch over him.

Nanna Purvaneese sends frequent Invitations to Pateel Sahib to repair to Poona, who constantly replies, that he is coming; but the Fact is, that he is employed in preparing a Place of Strength for his own Security, and his People have all Orders to the same Effect. After this is completed he will go to Poona.

Nanna Purnavecle is defirous of fending Pateel Sahib to the Carnatic, and Hurry Pundit ag 1718 Ragonaut Row; and although Pateel Sahib disapproves of the Designs, yet there is great Realist to believe that Nanna Purnaveese will send him thither.

Goolzar Khan, formerly an Officer of the Peishwa, but who is now attached to the Interest of Ragonaut Row, has connected himself with the Kellahdar of Ascer; has raised 10 or 12,60. Horse, and invaded Khandase; and levied large Contributions on the Villages under the Peishwa's Government: He is also confirmed to the Peishwa's Covernment: Government: He is also constantly augmenting his Army. In consequence of this, Pateel Salab wrote to the Forces stationed in the Neighbourhood of Burhampore, who were formerly stational with Ragonaut Row, to take Measures to reduce Goolzar Khan: This Body, confishing of 4 or 5000 Horle, were defeated by Goolzar Khan: Nanna Purnaveefe, receiving Advice of this, dif-patched the Brother of Bhum Row Panta, with 7000 Horle and Foot against him, who likewise received a Defeat. Afterwards Bah tree Rutt Sindeah, with a good Army, on the Part of Peteel Sahio; and on the Part of Nanna Purpayeefe, a Body of Gardies, French, &c. were fent against him. In the Two aforementioned Engagements, great Numbers on this Side were killed, and Cool in Khan's People have taken Possession of their Houses, and placed Guards in them. Goolzar Khan is making vigorous Efforts to continue the War; and it is faid that Ragonaut Row has fent a Party of Forces and fome Artillery to his Affillance.

Baboojee Holcar is lately arrived in this Diffrict from Hindoftan; levied Seven Lacks of Rupees on the City of Indode; and removing all Tocojce Holcar's Officers, is making large Contributions on the Country, and raifing Forces: He is connected with Ragonaut Row.

It is reported that Amrut Row, the adopted Son of Ragonaut Row, is gone on a Negociation to Nanna Purnaveese has sent a Body of his Forces to take Possicinon, and secure the Ghauts and Roads on the Side of Tellegong.

All the Chiefs here to outward Appearance are united in the Ties of Friendship; but in Reality after the Fashion of Hindoslan, the greatest Hatred and Jealousy prevails amongst them all. In fift, Troubles exist in every Quarter. Hyder Naig, Nizam Ally Khan, &c. as well as the Maratta Chiefs, are all making the greatest Preparations.

Dewajee Pundit, the Dewan of Modajee Bhofila, lately arrived at Poona, and entered into Engagements with Nanna Purnaveele, with whom he is in high Favour. Dewajee represented to Nanna Purnaveele as follows: "What have all those Men done for you, on whom you have expended Lacks of Rupees for their Services? Had you aided me with Money and a Body of Forces, " the Affairs of the Country would long ere this have been fettled on the best Footing; and the " large Sums due from Bengal on account of the Chout would have been recovered. I am at " all Times a duteous Subject of the Sirkar, and the Sums above mentioned were the Property of " the Sirkar; but as you never once gave me the least Hint that it was your Wish, we were under " the Necessity of entering into a specious Friendship with the English, and accordingly directed " our Vackeels to conciliate the good Will of the English."

Nanna made Antwer—" Write to Modajee to raile Troops; as whatever may happen, our Interests are one; but should be fear that the English in consequence of his encreasing his Forces " would be displeased at him, let him write to them, to conciliate their Friendship; a Measure

" which I myfelf am likewife contriving to effect."

Dewajee affented thereto; at the same Time observing, "The English Nation is a Thorn in our Side, which it is necessary to get rid of." Nanna replied, "I am not inattentive thereto, and " shall leave no Means untried for that Purpose."

Modejee Bhofila has a Vackeel with Pateel Sahib, and a conflant Correspondence is kept up. Pateel Sahib, hoping to prevail on the Kellahdar of Ascer to deliver up the Fort for a Sum of Money, means shortly to fend him a Kellaat.

Of the Two Surat Gentlemen who were Hostages with Patcel Sahib, for the Performance of the Treaty, one was left at Poona on account of Sickness; he is now arrived at the Camp; he is allowed near 40 Servants, 15 Talingas, and from Pateel Sahib has 26 Hoisemen to keep up his Dignity.

They are both treated with the greatest Honour and Attention, and are suffered to amuse themselves with Hunting in Company with the Horsemen. You are acquainted with one of these Gentlemen, by Name, Farmer.

The Dewan of these Gentlemen went on some Business to Poona: Nanna Purnavcese suspecting that he came as a Spy, threw him into Prison; which when Pateel Sahib heard, he wrote to Nanna Purnavecle, and obtained his Release from Confinement, and Return to the Camp.

From the Day when Ragonaut Row escaped from the Hands of Patcel Sahib, the latter has appeared very much ashamed, and also greatly apprehensive lest Nanna Purnavcese should entertain Suspicions of him; and when the Time of Payment of the Sums slipulated arrives, should difpute the Claim on the Plea that he let Ragonaut Row go.

Nanna Purnavcele threw into Prison the private Intelligence Writer, whom the Gentlemen at Surat fent to Poona; and the English in return, as foon as they heard it, imprisoned a Person who was at Surat on the Part of Nanna.

Letters have been received here from Timur Shah's Vackeel at Shajehanabad to this Effect: That Timur Shah at the Invitation of the King Shah Allum is coming to Hindoftan to drive out the Europeans and fettle the Affairs of the Country: If you are defirous of Friendship with him fend an Arzie to him. Pateel returned for Answer to Timur Shaw's Vackeel, I am coming into Hindoftan, and on my Arrival will inform you of my Sentiments.

To-day being the 21st of Shabaun, (3d of September) a Shakka from his Majesty, and a Letter from the Nabob Abdulaed Khan were received. Thus much I have learnt of their Contents, that Rajah Baboo Pundit, on the Part of his Majesty, and on the Part of Abdulaed Khan, Rajah Ram Cushmeery, have been dispatched with Kellaats for the Decan Chiefs.

As long as Nanna is at the Head of Assairs, Pateel Sahib will reply to the Karerahs you transmit me, with Deceit and Artifice; no Considence should be placed in him, for he has no Idea of good Faith and Integrity.

Bengal Secret Correspondence.

From Dewagur Pundit; Received 31st October 1779.

ACKNOWLEDGING the Receipt and recapitulating the Contents of the Governor General's Letter of the 12th of May.

This Letter reached me in a happy Hour at Poona, afforded me the greatest Pleasure, and made me acquainted with every Matter.

Your unreserved Communications on the late Events, and of your Sentiments, is a most pleasing Proof of that Friendship which is so firmly established between you and the Maha Rajah my Master, and was highly proper, it having encreased our Regard for you an Hundred fold.

I have already written you Volumes between the Time of Colonel Goddard's Arrival at Hothungabad, to his Departure for Surat; in which I touched on the improper Measures adopted by the Bombay Chiefs for the Support of Ragonaut Row: the Inexpediency of the March of Major Camac; the Multitude of the Forces of Decan; their Mode of conducting War; the Conjunction of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, &c. with them in their hoftile Intentions; together with my Sentiments on the Measures you ought to adopt in future; to which I was induced by my steady and sincere Friendship for you; which also led me to inform you and Colonel Goddard of my Intention to repair to Poona: And after my Arrival there, and having had frequent private Conferences with the Ministers, I dispatched a Letter for you to my Master, containing a full and particular Account of these Conferences; of my unreserved Sentiments thereon; of the real State of Affairs in Decan; and of the Expediency at all Events of Peace and Friendship with Row Pundat Purdhaun; which Letter you have doubtless received before this Time, together with Letters from my Master, and are fully acquainted with the Contents. You have likewise undoubtedly, by this Time, been made acquainted with the repeated Letters of Advice which, prompted by Friendship, I wrote to Colonel Goddard, and the Answers which he returned to me, to Pundit Purdhaun, and his Ministers; to wit, that by Letters from Calcutta he had been invested with full Powers to negociate and conclude a Peace with the Marattas; that he enclosed a Copy of his Commission; and it being his Wish to introduce a friendly Intercourse, and to remove all Causes of Dispute of Quarrel, he proposed that a trusty Person should be sent to negociate with him on the Part of Pundit Purhaun; and that in consequence of this Letter Nanna Purnavese had dispatched a trusty Agent with Letters to him.

In the mean Time another Letter was received from Colonel Goddard, saying, That as much Time would be lost in the Journey backwards and forwards of a Third Person, he earnestly wished for a Personal Interview; and that he would repair to any Place which should be fixed on for that Purpose. The Ministers in answer thereto, with the Advice of Sindeah Holcar and other Chiefs, wrote to Colonel Goddard pressing him in the most friendly Terms to repair thither. It is highly probable, that should Colonel Goddard come, all Causes of Quarrel and hostile Acts contrary to Treaty will be entirely removed, and all Matters be conducted in future with Friendship, Integrity, and good Faith; which will be productive of Happiness to the People, and of innumerable other Advantages. Actuated by the most zealous Friendship for you which possesses whole Heart, I employ every Degree of Wissom, Penetration and Foresight with which the Almighty has endowed me, and to which you give such liberal Praises for the Accomplishment of this desirable End. My Journey to Poona was solely with the View of establishing Friendship be-

Your late Letters to my Master and me, in which, prompted by your Friendship, you unreservedly communicated to us the State of Assairs, and your Determination to preserve Peace, asslong as it can be done with Honour to your Government, being sent me from Naigpore, I in several private Conterences with Nanna Purnaveese, pressed the Contents of them on him in the most forcible Manner; and your Letters to Pundit Purdhaun, expressing your Desire to preserve the former Treaties, arriving at the same Time, and agreeing exactly with your Assurances to my Master and to me, I seized the Opportunity of enlarging considently to Nanna Purnaveese on the Subject of your distinguished Virtues, your Magnanimity, Foresight and Penetration; your Skill in the Mysteries of Government; your good Faith, Candour, and Integrity; your Adherence at all Times to Justice; your exemplary Piety; your Deliberation in resolving in any Measure, and your Steadiness in the Pursuit of it; and in short, on every one of those great Qualities which I have become acquainted, with in the Course of our Correspondence, and from the Relation of the Vackeels who have passed between us: I also proposed to him a Mode of re-establishing Peace and Friendship, from which the most important Advantages would accrue. To this he replied; "It has ever been a Maxim with skilful Rulers of States, that the Preservation of Peace and Friendship with their powerful "Neighbours".

APPENDIX, Nº 225;

Neighbours, is infinitely preferable to War and Contentions; the one securing Peace and Happianes, and the other bringing Distress and Calamity to the People whom God has committed to their Care; and that whoever injures them, and from worldly Motives quits the Paths of Integrity and good Faith, and thereby plunges them into Missfortune, will surely feel the Resentment of God, their peculiar Protector.

God, their peculiar Protector.

"These Considerations have ever kept me in Awe, insomuch that I never suffer the Treaties out of my Sight, and daily call myself to an Account; and I have the greatest Attachment to all such as make Integrity and good Faith the Rules of their Conduct, and with such wish to be connected. The Praises which you give to the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, and which I have likewise heard from other Quarters, are due to his Virtues. But hear what I have to say to this Subject, and reply thereto. It is this:

"By Reason of the Vicinity of their Settlements, and the Traffic carried on to the Islands by Boats laden with the Merchandize of all Nations, the Ties of Friendship were knit between the Family of Pundit Purdhaun and the English Chiefs, an Intercourse of Letters and Vackeels established very early, and also several Treaties concluded between them on certain Conditions: In the Time of the Troubles excited by Ragonaut Row, when he took Resuge with the English at Bombay, by the Deputation of Colonel Upton, who came from Calcutta with full Power to negociate, notwithstanding the Existence of ancient Treaties, several Articles which may be found in the Treaty were added. Of these new Articles then concluded resect impartially, and declare on whose Side has the Breach arisen.

The Arrival of a Trader of the French Nation to dispose of Merchandize here, was construed into a Deputation on the Part of his Nation; and Letters written on the Subject, although there was not the least Truth in the Supposition or Grounds for it: Notwithstanding this, solely from my Desire to oblige the English Chiefs, I hove that Merchant disgracefully from the Durbar, although the Measure was quite contrary to every Maxim of Government, intending thereby to give them complete Satisfaction. When such Marks of Friendship were shewn on this Part, their listening to the Persuasions of Ragonaut Row, and conceiving the greatest Advantages might be derived from him, their furnishing him with Warlike Stores, a large Train of Artillery, and a formidable Army, and precipitately advancing to Boregaut, and marching from thence, spreading the Flames of War around, can surely never be reconciled to Integrity and good Faith: Yet notwithstanding this, in the Midth of a furious War, when the Bombay Chiefs made Proposals for Peace, and certain Conditions being mutually agreed to, and Ragonaut Row delivered into our Hands, they requested to be allowed to return to Bombay with their Followers, we furnished them with an Escort for their safe Passage, and with every thing that could afford them Convenience, and shewed them every Instance of Kindness. At the Time when the Bombay Chiefs began Hostilities, repeated Letters, with an Account of these Transactions, were written to Calcutta. Since the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah has Authority over all the Settlements, how could the Invasion of the Bombay Chiefs be of their own Accord?"

To this I replied, All these hostile Acts were highly disapproved by the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah; and all the Measures adopted by the Gentlemen of Bombay, were contrary to the Advice and Instructions of the said Nabob and his Council; and of this Affertion the following is a Proof, that the Army which was arrived at Hoshungabad remained on the Banks of the Nerbudda, whilstthese hostile Transactions were carried on almost in their very Sight, and never made the least Attempt to join the Bombay Chiefs. Nanna Purnavese answered, "Had it happened that our Army had been deseated by that of Poppher and all Marie a had been defeated by that of Bombay, and all Matters had succeeded to their Wish, would they or would they not have received the highest Commendations from the Council of Calcutta, " for their Services and the Advantages they had procured? If this Measure was really undertaken without the Approbation of the Nabob Amaud ul-Dowlah and his Council, why does he not, fince he has the Power of confirming and difmissing in all the Settlements, punish the Chief of Bombay for his Disobedience of Orders and Contempt of Authority, which would carry Conviction with it? As the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah has in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late Letter which I have made in a late I letter which I letter which I have made in a late I letter which I from him, expressed his Intention to adhere to Treaty, and has invested Colonel Goddard with full Powers to negociate and fettle all Points in an amicable Manner; and as Letters have like-"wise been received from the said Colonel, proposing the Renewal of Engagements, and desiring that a trusty Person may be deputed to confer with him on several Points; and declaring, that in receiving Ragonaut Row, he has no improper Defign, but has done so solely from a Conviction that it was for the common Interest, as it would prevent him from exciting Troubles in any other Quarter, and offering to repair in Person to any Place that shall be fixed on for an Interview, where the Sentiments of each Party may be made known and discussed, and all Points amicably fettled. I have in consequence dispatched a trusty Agent with a friendly Letter to him, and pressed him in the warmest Terms to come hither: Should he come, I am ready to settle all Matters agreeable to Treaty. I shall not be the Cause of a Breach of Friendship, for I regard the Union of the Two States as productive of innumerable Advantages to both. Do you write

It to this Effect to Colonel Goddard, and to the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah."

I have accordingly written to Colonel Goddard and to Mr. Weatherstone, pointing out to them the Advantage of Peace, and the Expediency of their repairing here; and actuated by the warmest Friendship to you, I have, though highly disagreeable to me, taken on myself the Part of a News-writer, to make you acquainted with every Transaction and Occurrence here; and I have Rep. VI.

no Doubt but you will regard it as a most convincing Proof of my Zeal and Attachment to you You will, I hope, write Instructions to Colonel Goddard to re-establish a friendly Connection, to a here to Treaty, and to give no Affistance to Ragonaut Row; for in my Judgment, such a friend Connection will be the Caufe of Happiness and numberless Advantages to both Parties.

The Sum of this voluminous Letter is briefly this: The fole Adviser and Manager of the Asian December 2015 fairs of Row Pundit Purdhaun's Government is at this Time Balajee Pundit; a Man possessing and possessing analysis and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing analysis and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing analysis and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and possessing and poss Firmness beyond all the other Ministers of this State; he is intelligent, penetrating, and true this Word; and so faithful an Observer of his Engagements, that he would never deviate in the least Instance from them, although by so doing he had a Prospect of the greatest Acquisitions of Territory or Wealth, or even could be thereby enter into immediate Possession of such Advantages After long Conferences and Arguments with him, he said to me, "The good Faith of the English Chiefs, on every Occasion, is so well known, that it becomes a Proverb throughout the Country "The Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, who is a Person of Integrity, Truth, and upright Conduct and possesses Authority to regulate the Measures of all the Settlements, and of confirming and dismissing the Chiefs of them, writes in his late Letter, That he is steady to the Treaty concluded through Colonel Upton, who had full Powers from the Governor General and Council "for that Purpose. This Assertion surprizes me; and my Astonishment increases when I is the English of Bombay acting in direct Violation thereof; and the said Nabob taking to Means to punish them, or to shew his Resentment for their Disobedience and Contempt of his Au. "thority, yet writes me, that he continues firm to the Treaty of Colonel Upton. What can I say to this? or in what Light can I regard it? As the Prosperity and Well-being of a State depends " on a strict Adherence to its Engagements, no Advantage will ever be gained by a Chief from "the Breach of them; nor will any of his Measures in such Case be crowned with Success,"

I replied, The English will never deviate from the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton. To this Nanna Purnaveele answered, "Colonel Upton's Treaty is here, consider it, and you will be that some of the Conditions of it we fulfilled, and others have been eluded, and still remain in "Dispute." When the Treaty was produced, I perceived that there were several Points on which ke had a Right to demand Satisfaction, and which appeared evident Breaches of Treaty; and that to leak them in their present unaccomplished State, would effectually prevent the Establishment of a fincer Friendship, it being primarily necessary to clear the Path of all Thorns and Obstructions, while being done, every Matter might be settled to the Satisfaction of both Parties; my Friendship to the Satisfaction of both Parties; you, therefore, will not suffer me to express my Approbation at these Points being left unfulfilled and I shall therefore point out to you the several Particulars to which I allude, and which are thek stated by Nanna Purnaveese.

When, notwithstanding the Existence of solemn and ancient Treaties, they took the Opportunity of the Absence of the Minister, who was gone towards Burhaunpore to make themselves Masters of Salfette by Stratagem; I would ask, how this can be reconciled to the Faith of Treaty, and upon what Grounds they acted?

When it was made an Article in the Treaty, that they should not afford an Asylum to any of the •Dependents of the Raje, much less give them Assistance; in what Light shall we consider their Reception of Ragonaut Row; the Encouragement they gave to him, and the War which they entered upon under his Directions? and what can be faid on such a Subject?

In Opposition to this Conduct on their Part, in disregarding an Article of such material Confe quence, that the Violation of it intirely destroyed the Treaty, and necessarily produced the most violent Tumults and Disorders, I merely from a Desire to oblige the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, acted contrary to every Maxim of Government, in refuling Countenance, and violently expelling from the Durbar, a creditable Merchant of the French Nation, who came hither to trade, although there was not the smallest Mention in the Treaty prohibiting Chiefs of the French Nation being received here. Let these Two Circumstances be fairly weighed in the Balance of Justice, and see which Scale predomination. nates. Colonel Upton, who was invested with plenipotentiary Powers from the Governor and Council, inferted in the Treaty, that no Afylum should be given by the English to Ragonaut Row: Notwithstanding which, the Governor of Bombay takes every Measure to support his Cause, and will not discontinue his Violation of Treaty: See and consider then, on whose Side does the Blame fall.

In the Affair of Shashtie, which is a peculiar hereditary Possession of ours, all the Acts of the Government of Bombay are clearly opposite to Justice and good Faith. As the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah is well versed in the Maxims of Government, and had we not demanded the Restoration of the manual description t would have been a Proof of the greatest Weakness and Imbecillity; we referred the Determination of the Matter to him—Let me ask you what Equity he shewed in the Decision.

The Governor of Bombay, regarding the various Treates contracted between Row Pundit Punditions and the Missister Contracted between Row Pundit Punditions and the Missister Contracted between Row Pundit Punditions and the Missister Contracted between Row Punditions and the Missister Contracted between Row Punditions and the Missister Contracted between Row Punditions and Punditions an haun, and the Ministers of the King of England, as the Playthings of Children, taking Ragonal Row with him, repaired in an hostile Manner to Boregaut; we delayed entering on Hostines for a full Month, on the Principle that the said Chief would certainly, in the mean Time, recent Orders from Calcutta, forbidding him to prosecute so unjustifiable a War; but when they are wanted beyond the Charter are prosecuted to unjustifiable as war; vanced beyond the Ghauts, we were remediless, but we constantly wrote to Calcutta a full Account of the Transfer count of the Transactions and Events. - Consider this Matter with Impartiality, and declare of which Side were the Flames of War excited.

The Declaration in their Letters to your Master and you, that they are desirous to abide by and preferve the Engagements, as far as they can with Honour, is highly right and commendable. As they wish to support their own Honour and Dignity, by promoting the Prosperity and Success of the Affairs of their State, it is likewise equally incumbent upon them to keep in View the Honour and Dignity of the Rajee of Row Pundit Purdhaun, which has ever been to illustrious, that it is needless to dwell on the Subject. If the Honour and Dignity of both States are regarded as One, and their Interests as the same, they will inviolably preserve the Faith of Engagements, and promote the daily Increase of Friendship, and not when the Circumstances of the Times shall render it expedient, speciously to enter into Engagements at the same Time that they secretly mean to lay in wait for an Opportunity of breaking them to their own Advantage. As the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah possesses Integrity and good Faith, let him maturely consider the above Articles, and be himself the Judge; let him make Compensation for the Non-performance of Terms which cannot be now fulfilled, and write to Colonel Goddard, on the Advantages of an Union between the States, and directing him to prosecute it; and I, on my Part, am ready to join therein with the utmost Good-will.

Actuated by the warmest Friendship to you, I have committed to Paper whatever occurred to me in the Perusal of the Treaty, what I heard from the Ministers, and what my own Judgment, free from Partiality, pointed out, together with my Sentiments thereon.

Respecting the Recall of Major Camac, &c. literally the same as what the Rajah says on those Subjects.

Colonel Goddard formerly wrote, that he was coming for the fake of a Meeting, at which all Points should be cleared up, and every Matter sinally adjusted. In consequence thereof, the Ministers pressed him in the warmest Terms to come; in Answer to which, Balajee Pundit Purnaveese has lately received a Letter from the Colonel, that he has freely conferred on all Matters with the Agent who was fent to him from Poona, who has written a particular Account thereof, that if he receive an Answer thereto, and any Mode of Accommodation is determined on, he will repair to any Place between Surat and Poona, to have a Meeting there with Nanna Purnaveele.

Nanna Purnaveese gave the Letter into my Hands, which I found to contain what I have written above. As he formerly of his own Accord wrote that he would come hither in Person to settle all Matters, which was earnestly wished at Poona, and now wrote in the Manner before recited, Nanna Purnaveese said to me, "it was his own Proposal to come hither, and now he hesitates, what is to be said on this Subject; there is no Ground for Hesitation. I am of a Disposition abounding with Candour and Integrity, and never violate the Faith of Engagements; notwithstanding their repeated Breaches of Treaty, I am ready to accommodate Matters through Colonel Goddard; and will never, as long as Attention is shewn to the Honour and Dignity of this Family, relinquish my Hold of their Friendship." From all that I have heard from the Poona Ministers, it appears they are inclined to Peace; it is therefore incumbent on you to accommodate Matters in an amicable

It was my Intention to have staid here till after the Arrival of Colonel Goddard, and his Interview with the Ministers, and to have settled all Matters personally, by such a Treaty as should not in future have been exposed to the smallest Deviation, and afterwards to have returned to Naiopore; but on the Reccipt of the Letter from Colonel Goddard, which made it appear very uncertain if he would come, and at any Rate that there would be a confiderable Delay; and as moreover it is a Custom in my Family at the Season of the Dussarah, to dedicate Ten Days and Nights to the Honour of God, and as I wish to pay the greatest Attention to this Duty, which draws down Blessings on me for the rest of the Twelve Months, I am about to set out for Naigpore: You will therefore write to Colonel Goddard, if you judge proper, to pursue the Line of Peace, and to come hither to an Interview with the fullest Considence and Security, and will regard me at all Times as your most warm and zealous Friend.

I HAVE received your agreeable Letter which you dispatched at the same Time with your Reply to Row Pundit Purdhaun, but which by Accident did not reach me till Fifteen Days afterwards,

and received the greatest Pleasure from its Contents.

Induced by Regard to you, and the Intercourse which has subsisted for some Time, I wrote to you in a Stile dictated by Friendship: After which you wrote me, that in the present State of Affain my Journey to Poona was a very eligible and well-judged Measure, and highly pleasing to you, and expressed your Wish, that as I was perfectly acquainted with the Negociations carrying on, and with your Sentiments, and was privy to the Representations made by Mr. Weatherstone, that I would state the Facts to Row Pundit Purdhaun and Nanna Purnaveese, and remove all Doubts and Suspicious from their Minds, being convinced that I was earnestly desirous of promoting Peace and cions from their Minds, being convinced that I was earnestly desirous of promoting Peace and Friendship between your State and that of Row Pundit Purdhaun, by every Means in my Power, You add, that the confidential Agent dispatched by the said Row will shortly reach you, and that as the fending Mr. Weatherstone would occasion much Delay, you had judged it best not to dispatch him, but that after the Arrival of the Deputies, if it can be so managed, you will repair in Person to this Quarter, and will have a Meeting with the Minister Nanna Purnaveese at any Place which shall be fixed on for that Purpose, and in my Presence settle the Terms of a mutual Peace and This of the Nanna Purnavees and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Page 2018 and the Purpose and Purpose 2018 and the Purpose Friendship. With regard to Ragonaut-Row, you write that you have kept him with you, but not as considering him the Enemy of this State; that your Motives for detaining him have been that by so doing you should promote the common Interest: My Friend, my coming to Poona was solely from Friendship and Attachment to the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, and Regard for you; that by my Endeavours all Misunderstandings and Heartburnings might be removed, and the Ties of Friendship so firmly knit, as to stand every future Shock. For this Purpose all Particulars were explained to Mr. Weatherstone, and also written to Calcutta; to repeat them would be therefore fuperfluous.

The Conduct of the Negociations with the Maratta State, and of the Correspondence with Pundit Purdhaun and his Ministers, for the Establishment of Friendship and Alliance; the Proposal that a Person of Trust should be deputed, and the Resolution of repairing hither in Person after the Arrival of such Deputy, to remove by a personal Interview all Causes of Misunderstanding; the restoring the Affairs ruined by the Conduct of the Bombay Chiefs, and by that Means acquiring immortal Honour in the Eyes of all the English Chiefs, were not Acts of a common Stamp, or to be undertaken by every one: "You alone were equal to them, and by the Blessing of God every Point will be settled. All your Plans are maturely digested, and consistent with sound Policy, and I who am at all Times your sincere Friend and Well-wisher, in my Conferences with the Minister Nanna Purnaveese, have not forgotten the smallest Tittle of your distinguished Virtues, but have placed them in the clearest Point of View; and should you come here and have an Interview with placed them in the clearest Point of View; and should you come here and have an Interview with the Ministers, every Matter will be settled in the most satisfactory Manner.

No Obstacle remains, and every Thing is for good Faith and a steady Adherence to Treaty, a you will more fully learn from the Letters transmitted to you from Row Pundit Purdhaun, and his Minister Nanna Purnaveese. After the Arrival of Row Pundit Purdhaun's Deputy, you will Minister Nanna Purnaveese. After the Arrival of Row Pundit Purdhaun's Deputy, you will doubtless determine to repair hither, that by Means of a personal Conference, all Matters may be compleatly settled without the Intervention of Vackeess or Letters; you will suffer no kind of Delay to arise, which may obstruct the Execution of a Measure which has been already sufficiently weighed, and is ripe for Accomplishment, and of the very first Importance.

I stated to Nanna Purnaveese in the strongest Terms what you write respecting Ragonaut Row, and convinced him of the Propriety of your Measures.

A Karetah and Letters from the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, addressed to the Maha Rajah my Master, and to me, which were transmitted to Naigpore by the Way of Cuttack, were sent from thence to me at Poona; the Purport of which is, that he is ready to confirm the Ties of Friendship and a mutual good Understanding with Row Pundit Purdhaun, in any Manner that shall not bring Dishonour on the English Government. In Answer thereto, with the Approbation of Nanna Purdish naveese, I have written what was required for the Preservation of Friendship, and of the Faith of Treaty, and I doubt not but you have received Instructions from Calcutta, conformable thereto. In a Word, you will regard me at all Times and in all Places as fincerely and unchangeably attached to you, and ready to fulfil every Duty of Friendship. May you ever enjoy Peace of Mind and unchangeably attached Falling and unchangeably attached Falling and unchangeably attached Falling and unchangeably attached Falling and unchangeably attached Falling and unchangeably attached Falling and unchangeably attached to you, and ready to fulfil every Duty of Friendship. disturbed Felicity !

Extract of a Letter from the Nabob Wallah Jah: Received 21st September 1779.

THE hostile Measures of Hyder Ally Khan towards the English, his warm Attachment to the French, and his Endeavours to induce the French to make War on the English, I have clearly feen for these Twenty Years past, and I have repeatedly given my Friends Intimation thereof, and have at several convenient Opportunities collected Magazines, and proposed to my Friends that we should rid the Country of an Incendiary, who, whilst suffered to remain, would ever be the Cause of Trouble, and that there would then be no future Cause to apprehend the French Intrigues in Hindostan, and the perpetual Tranquillity of the Country would be insured; but the artful Profes fions of the faid Khan ferved him as a Veil to screen his real Defign.

War breaking out in Europe between the Courts of Great Britain and France, we lost no Time in getting Possession of Pondicherry, which Hyder Ally was prevented from succouring by several Reasons. At the Time when the Siege was opened, he was employed against the Fort of Chattaldurk, the Chief of which was his most considerable Opponent; he was also so ill with a Fistula as to leave little Hopes of Life: The Maratta Army was on that Side of the River Kistna, and to crown all, it was the Season of the Rains. By these Reasons alone he was prevented giving A fallance to the French. Afterwards, when the English determined to reduce Mhye, he did every Cost in his Power to deter them from the Attempt, and absolutely forbad them to attack it, sending publicly hostile Messages and Letters to them. All these Particulars I have already written you an Account of, and the Governor and Council here, and Sir Eyre Coote, are well acquainted there with. Hyder Ally was prepared to support the French; but for the English to begin Hosbites against Mhye, not doubting but the French would be able to hold out until a Reinforcement should arrive from Mauritius, when he would join them, and throw the Blame of the Breach on the English. By the Bleffing of God, through the Valour and Activity of the English, Mhve wa immediately reduced; and the News of the Attack and Reduction by the English reached Hyder at the same Time. Vexed and boiling with Indignation at this Intelligence, he immediately marched with his veteran and numerous Army against Kurpah, a Dependency of the Carnatic, and reduced it; and throwing Abdul Huckkeem Khan, the Fougedar of that Place, with his whole Family, into a difgraceful Confinement, he first them to Serungpatam. He then fent a numerous Body of Forces against the Zemindar of Winkutgerry, who is a Ryot and Aumil of mue, to demand in a haughty Stile a large Sum of Money, who ravaged that Country. As from Mullewar to Pulnar is dependent on the Carnatic, he fent Bodies of his Horse to infest the Borders, and obliged the Naibo of the Districts to submit to Contributions, by threatening them with an Invasion. The Ryots being alarmed, neglected the Cultivation of the Lands, and Numbers of them fled from their Habitations. Hyder Ally waited in Hopes that, provoked by these Infolences, I should be induced to take some Step which might give him a Plea to invade my Dominions; he also looked for the Arrival of a French Force from the Mauritius, with which he was determined to join and make open War against us. Being disappointed in this Expectation, he expressed himself in Terms of the highest Displeasure to the French Vackeel, and to the French Gentlemen who went to him from Pondicherry and Mhye, saying, "Your Forces are not yet arrived; you have broken your Engagement with me; had I confided in you, and commenced Hossilities, the whole Burden of the War would have been left on my Shoulders." It was at this Time that he dispatched a French Gentleman on a Ship of his own to the Mauritius, to require Forces to be fent him from thence, engaging to pay their Expences. As soon as I heard of this Circumstance, I made it known to my Friends. This Intelligence, which I first learnt from News-papers, is now confirmed by the Relation of Captain Fenwick, who saw Hyder Ally's Ship at the Mauritius. From this it is evident, that the French Forces will be received into Hyder Ally's Dominions, and from thence, in concert with him, will invade the Carnatic.

Hyder Ally, by the Reduction of Kurpah, has encompassed the Carnatic, and opened for himfelf a Road into the Circars of Guntore, Ellore, and Rajimundery, and by Means thereof no Intelligence from the other Side of Kurpah can reach the Carnatic but with his Permission. From several News papers received from Hyder Ally's Camp, and by the Letters from my Officers, which mention, that large Bodies of his Cavalry are assembled on the Borders of my Country, and that they are taking every Means to facilitate the March of an Army, by clearing the Roads; it appears clearly that his Designs are hostile towards us. I have never entertained the Ambition of possessing myself of another's Country; my sole Views, from the first, have been to secure the Tranquality of my own Country, and to root out all the Friends of the French who are our Enemics. The favourable Opportunity which once presented itself, is lost for the present, until by the Favour of God, and the good Fortune of the English Nation, to whom the Almighty has ever been propitious, a glorious Peace is made with the French in Europe; it is highly expedient to preserve Tranquillity in this Part of the Country, because my Friends, by the Return of Ragonaut Row into their Protection, will once more be engaged in a War with the Marattas.

The Conduct of the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, in his Negociations with Mr. Hollond, carries an unfriendly Appearance, fince he has positively refused to dismiss the French from his Service, and, on the contrary, has settled a Lack of Rupees per Month, for the Pay of that Body, together with 5000 Country Infantry attached to them; and, placing the greatest Confidence in them, makes them the advanced Body of his Army. He is also desirous of contracting a Friendship with Hyder Ally Khan, and he is engaged in a strict Treaty of Friendship with the Poona Ministers; and any Marks of Support shewn to Ragonaut Row, will increase his Disniclination to the English: Induced thereto by the sincerest Friendship, I have communicated my Sentiments to you without Reserve.

Postfcript.

As, by the Favour of God, you, my Friend, and your Council, are possessed of Wisson, and a Knowledge of the true Interests of this Country, and have invariably shewn a Desire to the utmost of your Power, to preserve the Tranquillity of the Country; and I, on my Part, actuated by the Sentiments of Friendship, have made it my constant Rule to communicate to you my Sentiments on the Measures most conducive to the Interests of the Company and English Nation, and now repeat, that since Matters are in this State, that Enmity is declared with the Marattas at Poona, and the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah is ready to take an adverse Part, and Hyder Ally Khan, who bears an invincible Hatred to the English, is on the Eve of Hostilities, and all these Powers, not-withstanding their Dislike to each other, have united, for the Purpose of opposing the English; it therefore appears to me advisable that a determinate System be immediately adopted. I will give you such Particulars relative to these Three Powers as have come to my Knowledge, and you will then act as you shall deem best, to bring the Quarrel with them to a happy Conclusion.

Peace with the Marattas will at once procure the End defired; for if this takes place, the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah will be laid under the Necessity of relinquishing his Enmity, and the Marattas will join the English to chastise Hyder Ally Khan. It is not in the Power of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah to join in Friendship with the English, in Opposition to the Marattas, nor would an Union with him, if it could be effected, prevent a War with the Marattas.

In the First Place, Hyder Ally Khan would never enter fincerely into Friendship with the English. The Particulars of his hostile Conduct I have frequently communicated to you, and you have also seen them. It is therefore unnecessary to repeat them afresh. An Union with Hyder Ally Khan would would only ferve to augment the Enmity of the Marattas and Nizam-ul Dowlah; if therefore a speedy Accommodation is made with the Marattas, it will put an End to the Defigns of the T_{wo} other inimical Powers; of those of Nizam ul Dowlah, by the Awe which the Junction of the English and Marattas will occasion him; and of those of Hyder Ally by the Chastilement he will receive from their Joint Forces.

I have received certain Advice that Hyder Ally Khan has sent an Agent to Poona, to solicit the Maratta Friendship, who presses the Poona Ministers to keep up their Enmity to the English, and prossess his Master's zealous Assistance, and offers the Payment of 40 Lacks of Rupees to settle his former Accounts, and an Annual Peishcush of 11 Lacks of Rupees, and to restore the Country on the other Side of the Burmudder, which he wrested from them. The Marattas have not yet agreed to the Terms, nor have they refused. They wait, meaning if a firm Peace is concluded with the English, in Conjunction with them to chastise the said Khan, or if the English should not choose to enter into that Scheme, to execute it in Conjunction with Nizam-ul-Dowlah; but if Peace should not take place, then they will through Necessity agree to the Terms proposed by Hyder Ally, I have accordingly received repeated Intimations on this Subject from the Principal of the Marattas, to the End that I might bring about a firm Friendship between them and the English, and enter into an Engagement that I will join in the Chastisement of the common Enemy, alluding to Hyder Ally Khan.

I have written this for your Information. I enclose you Copy of a Letter which I have lately received from the Nabob Baffalet Jung, from Adoonie, informing me of the Distress Reis under by Reason of the Non arrival of Colonel Harper with the English Forces, and the open Remity declared against him by the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah and Hyder Ally Khan, by Reason of his Connection with the English, and their having forbid him to relinquish Muitezzamagur, or hold Friendship with the English; he also tends me Copies of Letters, which he has received from those Chiefs which I likewise send to you. From these you will clearly perceive the hostile Designs entertained by Nizam-ul-Dowlah and Hyder Ally Khan against the English and Baffalet. The Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah has therefore given the Fort Maccool with a Jaghier, in lieu of Kurnole, to Rummust Khan, the Talookdar of that Place, to satisfy and induce him to come to him. The said Talookdar not being able to support himself against Hyder Ally Khan, agreed to the Terms proposed to him, and sent off his Family; he continued himself at Kurnole till the 26th of Rujph, but I do not know if he is still there, or has since left it. The Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah has determind to send Lally, a Frenchman, with 6000 Sepoys, 300 Europeans, and 1000 Cavalry, to Kurnole, and has given the said Talook in Jaghire to the French, which has greatly strengthened their Power. It is a constant Custom to send the Troops into Cantonments during the rainy Scasion, but this Year they have not been suffered to depart, but kept together in a State of Readiness.

Letter to the Governor General from the Nabob Nizam ul Mulk Bahadar; received 3d December 1779.

AT the Time when Ragonaut Row took Refuge at Bombay, and the Chief of that Place made Preparation for his Support, induced by the Consideration of the solemn Engagements which through the Council of Madras has been formed between my Government and the English Company, I wrote you Information, that in the Treaty subsisting between me and the English Company, amongst many other Articles, this was one, That the Enemies of this Government were the English; and their Enemies mine: And that Ragonaut Row, in consequence of the Friendship and Connection between my Government and that of Row Pundit Purdhaun Madho Row Narain, was my Enemy; and therefore the Protection given him in Bombay, and the Measures adopted for his Support by the Chief of that Place, was highly improper and unaccountable to me. In Reply to this you wrote me, that the Faith and Engagements of the English Company were introduced by the Protection of the English Company were introduced by the English Company we imitable, and that no Breach of the Treaty established through the Council of Madras, should take place in any Quarter; and that the English Company were in Friendship with Row Pundit Purdhaun in the same Manner as with me; and had not the least Idea of breaking those Ties on account of Ragonaut Row. Implicitly relying on the Candour of your Professions, I waited to see the Effects of them; but every subsequent Event has been in direct Opposition thereto, and every Act of which I have been a Witness, in Breach thereof: Witness the Endeavours used by the Chief of Bombay for the Support of Ragonaut Row, and the vigorous Exertions he has made to give them Effect; the Consequences of which are well known. As it was my firm Resolve to adhere sleadily to my former Engagements, and to abide by your Declarations, I withheld my Affistance from Row Pundit Purdhauf against all Solicitation, though bound by the Laws of Friendship to have afforded it to him; and before the Troubles actually broke out, I wrote very fully to the Poona Ministers urging the strongest Arguments to thesh, and thereby effected the Dismission of the French Ambasadors, who were at that Time at Poona endeavouring to establish a Friendship between that Nation and Row Pundit Purdhaun and my Government, before they had been able to esseet any thing; nor would I give any Countenance to the Advances which they likewise made to me: Yet I understand that not-withstanding all this, the Chief at Bombay has formed new Designs for the Support of Ragonaut Row; and that the said Row, upon Expectations, has again repaired to Surat; and that Colonel Goddard, who is come to Surat from Calcutta, is likewise joined with the Bombayer, or in the same Design: Moreover, Mr. John Hollond is lately come to me on the Part of the Governor of Madras; and exclusive of other Propositions of the most dangerous Tendency, desires that the Pasificush of Rajomundury, and other Circars, may be totally given up by me. And it further appears to be the Wish of the Governor of Madras to obtain Posessin, it can be quietly done, of the Circar of Murtezzanagur, which my Brother Armeer ul Oruah Sujah ul Mulk Bahadar holds in virtue of a Treaty concluded by the English Company. As the Propositions are unreasonable, and contrary to Treaty, and cannot be attributed to unjustifiable Views, I have answered Mr. Hollond, that such Propositions are incontestable Proofs of a hostile Disposition; that if it is determined to break the Treaty, it matters not to me; let them prepare to carry their Designs into Execution; and whenever they think fit to take the Field, that I am prepared for all Events that may happen; and thank God that the Breach of Treaty falls on them. Mr. Hollond has accordingly transmitted in Account of all these Particulars to the Governor of Madras; we shall hereafter see what Answer he will return. By the Blessing of God you, Sir, are endowed with an enlightened Underlanding and clear Penetration, and are at the Head of all th

E N D I Χ,

Copy of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard, to the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombar.

SINCE my Address of the 29th, I have received a Piece of material Information from Poone, which I have Reason to think may be relied upon, and therefore communicate it to you the out Loss of Time.

The Particulars of it are, that the Minister and Scindia, in conjunction with Hyder, Eddin

Ally, and Moodajee Boofla, mean to make a general Attack upon the English, at their several Settlements, and have entered into, and scaled written Agreements for that Purpose.

However the Probability of their executing literally a Plan of this Nature, may be suspected, I can now scarce entertain a Doubt of the hostile Views of the Minister; and as the Seatage of the Minister; and as the Seatage of the Minister. for Military Operations opens immediately after the Deeffora, to which Festival a short Perol now only remains, I beg to represent the Necessity of having the Army put into a Condition of instant and active Service, by collecting such Force as may be sufficient, either to attack ourselve, or to resist the Attacks made by them. For these Reasons, I request to urge the Expediency of bringing up the Troops from Mahé, without Loss of Time; and to propose that the Detachment from your Presidency be also ordered to join me immediately.

It will be abfolutely requifite, to provide against future Exigencies, that a Magazine of Military Stores be prepared, as contiguous to the Scene of Operations as possible: I therefore hope you will give Orders for collecting a sufficient Quantity at this Place, as well as at Broach, to answer any Demands I may find it necessary to make; and should there be any Field Artillery in either of those Garrisons, which can be spared from their necessary Defence, let me request that you will be pleased to authorize the Chiefs to deliver them up to my Requisition, should I find it necessary, for the Good of the Service, at any Time hereafter to have them with me.

I shall write more fully very soon: And have the Honour to Be, &c. &c.

Extract of a Letter to General Goddard.

We Yesterday received your Letters of the 29th and 30th ultimo, and immediately dispatched your Packets for Madras and Colonel Braithwaite.

We can scarcely give Credit to the Information that has been given you of the Combination formed against the Company's Settlements: It may have been fabricated at the Durbar, now at this Crisis of your Negociation, to try what Effect it may have upon your Measures. Such Artifices form no inconsiderable Part of Maratta Politics. But as you acquaint us you can scarcely entertain a Doubt of the hostile Views of the Ministers, we shall be prepared to give you all the Support in our Power, in case it may be requisite.

HAVE already informed you of the diffrested State of my own Astairs, the Importunities which I labour under from my Creditors, and the Connection of Tulkajee with the French, Dutch, and Hyder Ally Khan. It now appears by evident Tokens that the Preparations of the French to disturb the Tranquillity of the Country are completed. The French have Vackeels with Nizam ul Dowlah, and Hyder Ally Khan, and a Sirdar at the Head of a Body of Men with the Marattas; and by Means of their Connection with these several Powers, are employing every Art to bring them into an entire Compliance with their Views; the Tanjoreans they are sure fure of, as they are strictly connected with the French, and will as soon as the Disturbances commence, supply them with all Kinds of Stores and Necessaries. Hyder Ally Khan is in Alliance with them to support them with his Troops, Money, and the whole Produce of his Country. I alone who have from the Beginning uniformly partaken of the Prosperity and Adversity of the English Nation, remain in every Situation their firm Ally; but the Injury done to my Rights in the Tanjore Country (on which the Company issued their Orders without being acquainted with the real Circumstance of the Case, and which Lord Pigot oppressively carried into Execution in so improper a Manner) has been highly destructive to my Credit.

Intercepted Letter from Nejifhkan to General Bellcombe, without Date.

I FORMERLY wrote to you the State of Affairs here, and transmitted to Mr. Chevalier through the Channel of Mr. Visage and Roy Manick Chund, an Engagement, which I learn from Mr. Chevalier's Letters he received and forwarded to you. I understand that at that Time you were at Mahé, and are since returned to Pondicherry. I have communicated all Matters to Mr. Visage, and Roy Manick Chund; agreeable to what they will write you, send an Army here without Delay. Now that you are returned here, it is improper to delay the Commencement of Hostilities. Be fully satisfied with respect to me, and communicate to me the Affairs of that Quarter. Roy Manick Chund is firmly attached, and acts the Part of a good and zealous Servant. Let me frequently have the Pleasure to hear from you.

Intercepted Letter from Nejifhkhan to Mr. Chevalier, without Date.

On the late Intelligence of News from Europe, and that you, my Friend, though destitute of Forces in Bengal, had exerted such Bravery and Execution as to escape singly from the Country of your Enemies, and were fafely arrived at the Place of your Destination; I was greatly rejoiced, and offered up Thanks to God. You are well acquainted with all the Affairs of this Quarter, any Delay will now be highly impolitic. I am ready according to my Engagements. You must form your Plan without Delay.

I have fully communicated on the State of Affairs with Mr. Vifage and Roy Manick Chund; having, conformably to what they will write you, speedily formed your Plan, make me acquainted with it. Manick Chund is with me; write me fully by the Dawk. I am come to Akberabad, and have summoned all the Chiefs under me to repair hither, and wait only for you. Every Delay is impolitic; let me have immediate Advices from you.

From the Nabob Vizier; received 16th June 1779.

I wish not to dwell on the strict Ties of Friendship, and the solemn Treaties which have substituted for so long a Time between the illustrious English Chiefs and my Family, since they are so well known as to make the Repetition of them totally unnecessary: In fact, there is not the least Distinction of Interests; and our Success, Prosperity, and Advantage, are in common. On this Account I conduct all the Affairs of my Government agreeable to the Advice and Concurrence of the English Chiefs.

Copy of a Letter which I have just received from Litafut Ally Khan Bahadre, and of a Letter which he wrote to his Vackeel Nissar Ulla Khan, I inclose for your Perusal and Information, and that of my Friends Intezam-ul-Dowlah, General Sir Eyre Coote, Bahadre Sciful Moulk, and the other Gentlemen of the Council: From their Perusal you learn the Particulars depending on the Favour of God, and the Friendship of the English Chiefs. I suffer no Thought of any one else to disturb my Mind; but am perfectly satisfied, and at Ease.

But you are wise and penetrative; reslect on the Tendency of these Accounts. His Majesty's Ministers have entered into a strict Connection with the People of the South, and have persuaded them to repair to Hindostan: They are likewise intriguing and laying Schemes, with a determined Resolution to ruin my Affairs and those of the English Company. I am the faithful Servant and loyal Subject of the Circar, and hold no Connection with any one: The Friendship of the English I keep ever in View. Write me a full Answer to every Particular. Mr. Hosea likewise writes you very fully on this Subject.

APPENDIX, N° 235.

To Rajah Chite Sing; written 25th September 1779.

I Have received your Letter: From the Contents of which, as well as from the Letters of Mi. Graham, and the Copy of a Letter which you wrote to that Gentleman, and which he transmitted for my Inspection, it appears but too clearly, that instead of a cheerful Compliance with the Requisition of this Government in the immediate Payment of the Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees, as your Share of the Expence of the War for the present Year, a Requisition which the great Burthen of Expence under which the Company labour for the Defence of the Country, renders necessary, and to which you, as a Subject of theirs, are bound to contribute, have thought proper, under the Plea of Inability, which is well known to be futile, to endeavour to amuse the Resident with vague and distant Promises, meaning probably to protract, if not entirely evade, Payment of the Sum required of you. In a Letter which I lately wrote you, I informed you in express Terms, that this Government neither could nor would recede from fo reasonable a Demand; and added, that in case of Non-compliance on your Part, Mr. Graham was authorized to summon a Detachment of our Forces to enforce our Orders if it should be found necessary. This I hoped would have opened your Eyes, and induced you to relinquish a Conduct which must, if pursued, bring the greatest Disadvantage on you; but since even this Intimation of our Determination has proved ineffectual, I now think it necessary to inform you, that we have desired the Commander in Chief to dispatch Major Camac with the Detachment under his Command to Benares, there to wait our further Orders: He will accordingly begin his March immediately, unless the Resident in the mean Time, from the actual Receipt of the Sublidy, shall inform him, that it is unnecessary for him to proceed further; and you will be pleased to observe, that should you force us to a Measure so contrary to our Wishes, the whole Expence of the Detachment, from the Time of its March, will be required from you, exclusive of the Subsidy for the War.

From Rajah Chite Sing to the Governor General; received the 25th September 1779.

I have been honoured with your gracious Letter, urging me in the strongest Terms to the Payment of Five Lacks of Rupees on account of the Share of the Expences of the War for the prefent Year, and understand your Pleasure. Regarding your Highness as my Master, in the Representation which I sent you of my Poverty and absolute Inability, I had no Views of preserving my my Property and deceiving you by false Pretences; but I had really no Property lest but what is apparent to every Body, such as Elephants, Horses, &c. 'which for the Support of my Credit I am obliged to keep, since that Credit is the Gift of your Highness's Bounty; but since you have been pleased to direct that I should raise the Sum by any Means I can, I regard it as the Essect of my evil Destiny, that the Representation of my Situation had no Weight, and submit to the Necessity of this once complying with your Order notwithstanding the Greatness of my Poverty which exceeds all Description. I will make good the Sum gradually by the Disposal of my Essects and by Loans, the Particulars of which I cannot fully explain to you.

Since you have honoured me, your most faithful and obedient, with the greatest Marks of Favour and Regard, even to the honouring me with the Title of your Son, I am hopeful, from the Continuance of that Regard, that you will in suture continually keep in View my Welfare and Interest, and will be kindly pleased to excuse me from Scivices which are beyond my Ability to perform, on a Compliance with which my Support, nay even Life and the Prosperity of

From Rajah Chite Sing; received the 16th December 1779.

Your gracious Letter, directing me to pay without Delay the Sum of Five Lacks of Rupecs as my Share of the Expences of the War for this Year, honoured me by its Arrival and made me acquainted with your Pleature. My Protector! before the Arrival of your Orders I had paid 150,000 Rupees to Mr. Thomas Graham, and immediately on the Receipt I fent the Balance of 35,000 Rupees to the faid Gentleman: I was not forgetful of it for one Inflant. As the Troops were fent here, I have given that Gentleman their Pay from the Day of their March till the Day that the Sum was discharged, which was not quite 15 Days. I am hopeful, that considering me to be attached to you from of old, you will protect and support me by your Favour and Friendship, that my Honour and Dignity may be encreased by it.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 13th December 1779.

READ the following Letter from the Resident at the Vizier's Court.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Members of Council.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I have delayed thus long addressing you on the Subject of the First Object of my Business at this Court, in the Hope of being able to inform you that I had obtained from his Excellency sufficient Supplies for the Exigences of the present Year. I have had frequent Conferences with him upon this Subject, but have found him uniform and determined in a Refusal of any more Tuncaws than those obtained by Mr. Middleton prior to my having Charge of this Appointment. The enclosed Paper N° 1. will shew you what they are, and for what Services they are granted. N° 2. is an Estimate of the whole Demands upon the Nabob for this Year. From these Accounts it will appear, that the whole Amount required for the Expences of the Year is Rupees 1,36,12,198. 12, and the Amount granted, Rupees 68,82,000.

1,36,12,198. 12, and the Amount granted, Rupces 68,82,000.

I have in vain laid before him the ruinous Confequences of a Difmission of any Part of the Troops who are now employed under the Command of British Officers, the certain Deficiency in the Collections, and the laying of his Country open to foreign Marauders.

I have in vain urged him on the glaring Impropriety of refusing Tuncaws upon the same Districts as last Year; and giving them to his own Troops, without Discipline, to support his Government, and always ready to plunder every Country to which they have been sent. His Answer has been invariably, that while he had the Means of providing for the Demands of the Company, he has never resulted it; but he is now deprived of that Ability by the Drought, which has obliged him to give Deductions to the Amount of Twenty-sive Lacks of Rupees; and even now the Aumils are desirous of being released from their Engagements, upon the Plea of Inability to comply with them; his Family, and that of his Father and Grandfather, after repeated Promites made to them and broken, are still unprovided for; that he did not believe the Council meant to seize the Expences of his Table and Houshold, which was all that was now lest him. When I quitted him, I declared I did Rep. VI.

not imagine the Governor would ever confent to the Reform of the new Brigade, and the other present Establishments for his Collections; that if they were not dismissed, they must be paid, and from the Sources of that Country, for the Protection of which they were raised. That I would least him, for the present, to consider the Means of granting the Supplies, in the Hope of an Answer more likely to be pleasing to our Government. A Day or Two after I received a Letter from him a Translate of which, N° 3, I think it necessary to lay before you. As I have never been able to induce his Excellency to adopt any other Sentiments than those he first declared, and have received another Letter from him, expressing much Dissatisfaction at my Urgency on a Point he had deter. mined on, and would not give up unless he should be compelled by the Governor and Council, I have thought it needless to press him further at present, but at his Request have transmitted a Letter from him to the Governor General, setting forth his Distress.

In this Situation, it only remains for me to lay before you the following Extract of Mr. Nathanici Middleton's Letter of the 5th Instant, the Day on which Charge was delivered to me.

"When I have of late pressed his Excellency for further Assignments, he has pleaded Inabelian to answer the very heavy Demands which will this Year fall upon him, on account of the Drought which has unfortunately happened, to the almost total Destruction of the Khurress Harvess, and "the consequent Diminution of his Revenue. I am concerned to confess, there are but too good Grounds for this Plea. The Misfortune has been general throughout the Whole of the Vizier' Dominions, obvious to every Body; and so very fatal have been its Consequences, that no Person of either Credit or Character would enter into Engagements with Government for farming the "Country, without a very heavy Deduction in the last Year's Jumma, which his Excellency has been " compelled to allow to all who have hitherto been appointed to Farms; and some who have engaged, even under these Circumstances, have to my Knowledge made most urgent Applications to the Nabob and his Ministers, to be released from their Obligations, and allowed to relinquish "their Farms, which they found they could not hold but at a certain Loss to themselves. You "will be foon convinced, by undoubted Testimony, and loud Complaints from every Quarter, of the Reality of this Misfortune, which has necessarily been the Means of delaying the general Settle. ment of the Country, and of preventing my hitherto getting Assignments for more than Rupres " 68,82,000; but how far its Operation and Effects precludes the Nabob from answering the De. "mands upon him on public Account, you will be the best able to judge, from the Statements you will obtain of his estimated Revenue."

As it appears from the Whole of this Extract, that Mr. Middleton had met with Obstacles, from a Reafon affigned, which no human Forefight could prevent, I hope your Honourable Board will not imagine I have been remiss or inattentive; nothing but a compulsive Order from me, upon an undefined Right, could obtain the Collection of a Rupee more than I have Tuncaws for; and nothing but a decifive and speedy Instruction from you, when the Time elapsed, may not occasion a material Loss in the Revenue, can possibly procure the Grants necessary for the current Disburie ments from my Treasury.

Upon this Principle it is needless to add, that no Bill from the Presidency can possibly be answered, fince the Demands on the Treasury upon the present Establishment exceed the expected Income; and the last Drafts of the Honourable Board, and their Order for the Payment of Two Lacks and a Half of Rupees to Captain Popham, which has been complied with, have so effectually drained the Treasury, that I have not yet been able to pay the first Brigade for October. Upon the Estimate of the present Year, that of the Troops under the Command of British Officers, paid by Mr. Wombwell, exceeds the last Years, by Rupces 4,25,533. 12. 6. and the Excess of the Estimate of the temporary Brigade is Rupces 8,13,559. 13. 9. The Paymasters, upon being applied to by ma declare, that the Reason of this Excess is, that the last Year's was only what was supposed would be the Expence, and the present Year's Estimate is made upon the actual Disbursements of last Year. As his Excellency did not start any Objections to particular Articles of these Estimates, but to the Whole, from a Want of Revenue to pay them, I have not thought proper to curtail any Thing-Your Letter under Date the 25th August last has occasioned the Inclusion of the Army Donation.

and the Loss by Exchange I thought but a proper Demand.

Notwithstanding what has passed, I should not relax in my Endeavours to prevail upon his Excellency to grant the Tuncaws required, but he seems to be unmoveable in his present Resolution. He is now preparing for his Departure to meet the General, and I imagine will not return before the Arrival of decisive Instructions from your Honourable Board.

Lucknow, 19th November 1779. I have the Honour to be with Respect, E. Purling. (Signed)

From the Vizier; received the 16th December 1779.

In a former Letter, I represented you all the Particulars of my Distresses, and delivered it to Mr. Middleton, and wrote to the same Purport to Rajah Gobind Ram: I am consident that you and the Gentlemen of the Council will attend to my Honour, and I consider my Country and Property as not in the least separate from the Company, from you and the Gentlemen of the Council; as his Time Mr. Purling, who is arrived, at the Representations and Instigations of interested Persons, reats me in a Manner never before practifed by any Gentleman who has been here. Although I epresent to him that every Thing shall be done to his, the Company's and Gentlemen's Satisfaction; out that such a Mode of negociating, to which he is instigated by Self-interested Persons, is not proper: That he should write to the Governor and Council every Thing I say to him, and that what wer Answer they may send, he should conduct himself thereby; but to this he does not agree, and ets according to his own Pleasure. I have wrote all these Particulars to Rajah Gobind Ram, who will nake them known to you. As I know the Basis of my Government to be founded on the Favour of God, and your's and the Gentlemen of the Council's Protection I hope you will fend me an Answer agreeable to my Request, keeping my Honour in View; and also write to Mr. Purling, that as you and the Gentlemen of the Council pay Regard to my Honour, he also must in like Manner attend thereto, and not at the Infligation of interested Persons adopt Measures, which bring Disgrace and Discredit upon me. Should Mr. Purling converse with me in the same Manner as he did sesere, I cannot put up with the Disgrace, but leaving all my Country under his Management, vill repair to you and the Gentlemen of the Council.

Fort William, 31st Dec* 1779.

To the Nabob of Oude; written the 15th December 1779.

I have received your Excellency's Letter informing me, &c. (recapitulates the Contents of the Letter) I have likewise seen a Letter from your Excellency to Mr. Purling, the Resident at your

Court, to the same Essect:

It is a Cause of equal Concern and Surprize to me, that you should object or hesitate to grant l'uncaws for the Charges of an Establishment which was formed at your own particular Solicita-ion for the Defence of Rohilchund and the Doaub, at a Juncture when your ancient and natual Enemies the Marattas are actually in Arms, and ready to enter your Dominions upon the irst Opening which shall be given them; nothing in my Opinion will deter them from it, but the Presence of a formidable and well-regulated Body of Troops to oppose them. The dangerous Consequences of their entering your Country, and finding it in a defenceless Condition, are too obvious and striking for me to mention. Yet this must certainly be the Case if the Company's Forces allotted to its Protection be withdrawn or disbanded. You are not to imagine, because you have enjoyed an uninterrupted Season of Peace for some Years past, that you have no Enemies to interrupt you, and may therefore rest in Security without the Expence of maintaining this Force: On the contrary, it is to their Power that you owe this Tranquillity; and the neighbouring States, whose Annual Incursions and Ravages in the Territories of your late Father of blessed Memory, were the Cause of the Company's Troops being first applied for, and stationed in your Dominions to repel them, will not fail to disturb you again as soon as this Bulwark is removed, and the Nakedness of your Country shall invite them. Exclusive of this important Consideration, I think it proper to inform your Excellency, that I understand a mutual Obligation between us to have been implied in the Formation and Maintenance of this Establishment. The Company are bound on the one Hand to protect your Dominions by its Means, and you are bound on the other to defray the Charges of it; while these Terms are complied with on both Sides, neither has a Right to complain, but you could never suppose when you applied to us to appoint this Force to your Service, that the Company would be at the Pains to raise and discipline so large a Body of Men, and to augment their Establishment by the Addition of such an extraordinary Number of Officers as were necessary to command them, if they were liable to be burdened with the fole Weight and Expence of this Force by a fudden Re-lolution on your Side to discharge them without previous and timely Notice given to us, and our Consent received; and this too at such a Distance from the Company's Possessions, as the Countries in which they are now stationed.

I am convinced that a Resolution so pernicious to the real Interests of your Government, so repugnant to the intimate Connection which subfists between us, and so dangerous in the End both to your Possessions and the Company's, cannot have been suggested to you by any but secret Enemies to your State; and that on a mature Consideration of the Case, their Advice will appear to you as invidious as it does to me.

I therefore recommend to you in the strongest Manner, not only to shun the evil Councils of such false Friends, but to difmiss them from your Service and Confidence, as unworthy of both; I beg you to consider that it is equally my Inclination and Interest to provide for the Support of your Government, and the Defence of your Dominions, against the Power and Invasion of a foreign Enemy. For this Purpose General Sir Eyre Coote has thought it advisable to visit the different Stations of the Army in your Country, and he will be constantly attentive to take Means for your Security, while your Dependance is placed on the Company's Alliance and Affiltance; but if you are determined to withdraw yourself from both, and to dissolve the Union which has so long lubsisted between your Family and this Government, I expect that sufficient Time and Notice of your Intention be given to prevent our being involved in Troubles from the hasty Execution of it. I cannot consent to your dismissing the Company's Troops at such a Distance from Home, and at fuch a Crisis, nor can I at present agree to recall them. As much Time at least must be given to dispose of this Force, when you shall have no further Occasion for their Services, as was allowed for the raising of it; I therefore request that you will attend to the Representations of Mr. Purling, who has been ordered again to apply to you in the Name of this Government, for Tuncaws for the necessary Disbursement of the current Year; and although your Revenues have sufficient a Diminution by the unfortunate Failure of the Harvest, yet I am persuaded that they will be sufficient, with Œconomy and Attention, to answer every Service required from them; and that you will therefore cheerfully comply with the Demand which Mr. Purling is ordered to make: At all Events, the Desence of your Country is the first Object to be attended to; and the regular Payment of a well-disciplined Body of Troops, is indispensably necessary for this End. Add to this, that your Engagements with the Company are of such a Nature as to oblige me to require, and insit on your granting Tuncaws for the full Amount of their Demands upon you for the current Year, and on your reserving Funds sufficient to answer them, even should the Desciency of your Revenues compel you to leave your own Troops unprovided for, or to disband a Part of them to enable you of effect it.

Extract of a Letter from General Sir Eyre Coote to the Governor General and Council.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

THE Day before Yesterday I encamped near Allahabad, where the Vizier did me the Honour of a Visit; and Yesterday Morning, in my Way hither, I returned it, and was received by his Excellency with every Mark of Respect and Distinction.

This Morning he called here, and we had some general Conversation, which principally turned upon the Subject of his Attachment to the English, and his Readiness to shew the Sincerity of it upon all Occasions.

It is to be wished we had employed the Influence which such favourable Sentiments must have given us, more to the Benefit of the Country and ourselves; but I fear the Distresses which evidently appear on the Face of the one, and the Failure of Revenues to the other, are not to be wholly ascribed to the Vizier's Missianagement.

Nine Annas to the Company, and Seven Annas to the Ranna. The mean Amount of the gross Revenue of the Company's Share collected in Time of Peace, in the Ten Years preceding, after deducting the Charges of Collection, which shall be ascertained by Aumils chosen by each Party, shall be fixed and paid by the Ranna, as a perpetual Tribute to the Company, and the Lands and Forts shall be ceded to the Ranna.

From Maha Rajah Lokinder Sewae Rajah Ranna Chatter Sing Bahadre Dullar Jung: Received 7th June.

At the Time when the late Colonel Leslie arrived I was honoured with a friendly Letter from you, since which Time I have been constantly wishing for the Happiness of an Interview; and till I hear the pleasing News, I cannot enjoy Peace of Mind. I am hopeful that, actuated by a sincere Friendship, you will honour me with frequent Letters which will afford me a high Degree of Satistical.

P P E N D I X, N° 238.

I exert myself in complying with whatever the Gentlemen of this District defire of me, which I doubt not you have heard from them.

Totuffil Hoffein Khan, who is lately gone to your Presence, is fully acquainted with all my Assarrance I have a lately gone to your Presence. both past and present, and has doubtless represented the Particulars to you: I have now write, further Particulars to him, which he will relate to you.

He has full Power from me to manage my Affairs; and I on my Part am ready to the utmoft of my Power to promote the Company's Affairs. Confidering me as inseparably connected with then I time have the Honour to hear often from you.

List of Requests sent to Tofussil Hussein Khan.

You must obtain an Engagement under the Seal of the Company to the following Effect, and fend it to me.

Maha Rajah Lokinder Sewae Rajah Ranna Chatter Sing Bahadre Dulleer Jung, who has the most dutiful Attachment to the Interests of the Company's Sirkar, in Consideration that the faid Lo. kinder Bahadre is a Sharer of the Prosperity and Adversity of the Sirkar, let not at any Time any Molestation be given by the Sirkar to the Places forming his Raje: Let them be entirely exempted and let not the Sirkar in any Inflance be displeased against him; and let no Officer of the Sukar suppose any Distinction to exist; and on his Application let them not fail to afford him Aid and Support: Let him not be oppressed from their Factories or Officers: Let them ever keep in View his Prosperity, Welfare, and Honour. Let this be guaranteed by an Oath to God.

Whatever Country of his Raje the late bleffed Nabob Sujah-ul-Dowlah Behadre bestowed on him let a Sunnud conformable thereto be granted him by the Company's Sirkar, of the 56 Mahals, with the Forts in the District of Gowalier, to the Junction of which to his Raje the late blessed Nabuh had fet his Signature; of these, Sunnuds were obtained for 41 Mahals Two Talooks; the Sunnuds for the remaining 15 Mahals were not prepared when the Nabob died, which caused the Sufpension of them. I am now hopeful, that a Sunnud for the whole of the 56 Mahals may be granted me from the Company's Sirkar.

Whenever the Forces of the Sirkar are employed in Conjunction with my Forces on an Expedition on this Side the Jummun, whatever Countries to the Banks of the Nerbudda shall fall into the Possession of the Sirkar, One Half thereof shall be relinquished to me for the Expence of my Forces, and the other Half shall remain under the Government of the Sirkar, and be One Year kept under the Khalfa; and the Collections made that Year being made the Ground of a permanent Settlement, they shall be given over to me to make the Collections, and pay them to the Sir. kar. Let whatever Expence may be found necessary for the Support of Tannahs, &c. be deducted; and whenever Necessity requires the Assistance of the Sirkar's Forces, let them join me on my Application for that Purpole. My own Forces shall be supported from my own Share, and no Charges required from the Sirkar.

If at this Time a Delay must arise in the Objects proposed above, let the several Mahals in an annexed Lift, which are on this Side the Jummun, in the Possession of the Enemy, be granted to me; and let it be stipulated in the Treaty, that the new Mahals which have been now bestowed by the Sirkar, shall not be at all molested.

To Maha Rajah Chatter Sing: Written the 5th July 1779.

I have had the Pleasure to receive your friendly Letter, with a List of Articles inclosed for the Formation of a Treaty between us; and perfectly understand the Contents.

I am much pleased with the Sentiments of Friendship with which your Letter abounds, and greatly approve of your Plan; but as I wish to form a Treaty with you on so firm and folisl a Basis. as to leave no Room for future Explanations, I would advise that you send a Person in whom you can conside, with full Powers to conclude the Treaty; or if you think proper, I will send a trusty Person to you for that Purpose. I request you will send me an immediate Answer, as the Scalou is passing. Knowing me, &c.

From Maha Rajah Sewae Ranna Chatter Sing Lokinder Bahadre: Dated the 5th Shabaun, 15th August; received 23d September 1779.

After affuring you of those Sentiments of Friendship and Regard which I bear you, and which . form my greatest Happiness, be it known to your enlightened Mind, that my daily Thanks are offered to the Almighty, who has established this Friendship between us.

Your agreeable Letter, which I anxiously expected, has by its Arrival assorded me the greatest Pleasure, and by its Contents compleated my Wishes. You write, that you entirely approve of the Prof. Is which I transmitted you; that I will therefore dispatch a trusty Agent without Delay, who being joined with a confidential Person on the Part of your Sirkar, they may in Conjunction finally fettle all Matters. This afforded me inexpressible Pleasure.

As I regard Your Favour and Regard as my firmest Support, and the warmest Attachment to you as my highest Interest, I shall study to the utmost to improve the Connection so happily formed with your Sirkar, from the Period of which I date my Happiness. The Country Powers of this Quarter are highly displeased with this Connection; but as I am now under the auspicious Shadow of the English Fortune, I have nothing to do with any of them; and I am fully convinced that, supported by your Favour, any ill Designs formed against me can meet with no Success.

Immediately on the Receipt of your friendly Letter I prepared to dispatch a trusty Agent to you; God willing, he will shortly arrive at your Presence, and will fully communicate all Matters to you. I have also written briefly to Tussus Hussein Khan, who will inform you of the Parti-

Juiars.

Knowing me at all Times dependent on your Favour, let me be honoured with frequent Letters from you, which will inspire me with Confidence, and afford me the highest Pleasure.

Postscript.

As Tuffusil Hussein Khan, who is perfectly acquainted with my Sentiments, is at your Presence, here did not appear to me the least Necessity to dispatch any other Person to you; yet in Combiance with your Desire, I have dispatched Meer Muzhir Ally, who will repair to your Presence by the Route of Cawnpore; but my Dependence for the Settlement of all Points is on the aforesaid than in whom I place implicit Considence. I have mentioned this for your Information.

Chan, in whom I place implicit Confidence. I have mentioned this for your Information.

The prefent Situation of Affairs in this Quarter is as follows: Umpajee Kinkulla and other Agents, who were in the Zilla of Jyepore, at the Infligation of Madho Row Sindeah, the principal Minister at Poona, have advanced to my Borders, and have gained over to their Party Sewajee Uppetul, and the other Officers of Malwa; they purpose shortly to invade my Country, and to commit Hostilities against me. Having the good Fortune of the English on my Side, their Attempts will, I doubt not, fail of Success; yet it is necessary to take Means to oppose them, that the Country nay not fuffer Injury.

Whenever they have invaded my Territories, they have gained nothing but Shame and Defeats, and will again be overcome. I therefore request that you will write to the Gentlemen in Authority in this Quarter, that whilst Meer Muzhir Ally Khan is with you, they will afford me their Assistance, should I find it necessary to apply to them, to enable me to instict on those bad Men the Punishment of their evil Conduct. At present they have collected but a small Force, and may be easily defeated; but should they be allowed to gain Strength, and to begin Hostilities, the Flame of War once lighted up, may require great Essorts to quench it; all I require is, that on my Requisition, a small Party of your Forces may be sent to join me, that an immediate End may be put to their Attempts. To root out a Shrub requires but little Exertion of the Strength of one Man, but suffer the same to take deep Root, and the utmost Essorts of an Hundred will be insufficient.

Extract of a Letter from the same to Tuffusil Hussein Khan.

I am greatly surprized that you desire me to send a trusty Agent; for whilst a Friend like you, zealously attached to my Interest, and versed in Affairs, is in Calcutta, what Necessity can there be for desiring another Person to be sent? but as I did not think it advisable to resuse Compliance to the Desire of the Nabob, and to the Advice of Friends, I have thought myself obliged to send a Person, who will shortly arrive and inform you of the Affairs of this Quarter; but notwithstanding his Arrival, I leave the Regulation of all Matters and the whole Negociations to you; you will do whatever you judge for my Interest.

Extrast of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 2d December 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,

Warren Halemon, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Edward Wheler,

Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

CONSIDERED the Governor General's Minute, entered in Consultation 12th November, with the Heads proposed for a Treaty to be concluded with the Rana of Gohud.

November.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following amended Draft of a Treaty proposed to be executed with the Rana of Goad, and desires that it may be substituted for the former entered in Consultation the 12th ultimo, as it contained such Alterations proposed by the Minister of the Rana as the Governor General deems reasonable; and to the Treaty in this Form, the Minister who is now present declares his entire Concurrence.

Articles of Agreement made and concluded at Fort William in Bengal, between the Honourable the Governor General and Council for the Affairs of the Honourable English East India Company, on Behalf of the said Company, on the one Part, and Maha Raja Luckindar Bahadur, Rana of Goad, for himself and his Successors, on the other Part; viz.

Signed, fealed and concluded at Fort William this Second Day of December, in the Year of our Land One thousand Seven hundred and Seventy-nine.

Mr. Wheler delivers in the following Minute prepared in consequence of the Governor General's former Propositions; which he thinks equally applicable to the present.

Mr Wheler—I feel myself a good deal at a Loss in giving my Opinion on the Subject of the Treaty proposed by the Governor General with the Rana of Gohud, as I think a Matter of so much Importance should not have been introduced without being accompanied with the necessary Information, to enable the Members of the Board to judge of its Expediency.

The Rana of Goad is, I believe, almost a new Name upon our Records.

I am entirely unacquainted with the Situation of his Capital, except by confulting the Map; the Extent of his Territory, his Revenue, the Force he is able to bring into the Field, and his personal Character, are Points, on which I am equally uninformed; nor do I believe any Englishman, whose Authority can be depended upon, has ever been within the Territories of Goad, to ascertain them; yet these are Points on which the Board ought to have the most accurate Information, before they proceed to decide on the proposed Treaty, otherwise they may engage in a War with the Marattas, either to support or make Conquests for a Man, who has neither Means nor Capacity to enable him to bear any Proportion in the Risque or Charge which may attend such a War.

Uninformed therefore as I am, I can only give my Opinion on the general Principle of the proposed Alliance, which is, that having for its Object War, Conquest, and Increase of Territory, I conceive it to be contrary to the true Interest of the Company and British Nation, and to the fundamental Policy of the former; and in fact changes the Condition of the Company here, from a commercial to a military State; that it is likewise, in direct Opposition to all our Instructions, and peculiarly inexpedient at this Time, when our Treasury is exhausted, these Provinces drained of their Specie; when the Nation is engaged in a dangerous War in Europe, and the Company is threatened

How, under fuch Circumstances, the Condition of the Company is to be mended, by hiring our their Troops, and making Conquests for a petty Rajah, situated at so great a Distance from their Frontier, does not in anywise occur to me: I rather think that such an Alliance, and the Measures proposed in consequence, are calculated to draw the neighbouring Marattas upon us; to expose our extensive and unguarded Frontier to Waste and Ravage, and to involve the Company still more in Danger and Expence, without any adequate Prospect of Advantage. I am therefore against the Treaty.

Edw Wheeler. (Signed)

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute upon this Subject. Mr. Francis,

The Rana of Goad is a Prince, with whom the Company have hitherto had no Connection and whose Name, I believe, is unknown to them. I myself confess to have no other Information con REP. VI. [Ee] eerning verning him, than what I have been able to collect within these few Days. I see by Major Rennille Map, that his Capital is fituated in Latitude 26 D. 20 M. Longitude West of Calcutta 9 D. 40 M. Gwatior; the Place of which he wants to get Possession, is a strong Fortress in the Hills, about so Miles distant from Etawa, on the other Side of the Jumna. From some Officers who have been in that Part of the Country, I understand that the Rana is very poor; that his Country is wild rocky, and uncultivated; and that his Army is little better than a Rabble, ill armed and cloathed, and without regular Pay or Discipline. The Governor General's Motion gives us no Information on any of these Points; yet, in the Consideration of a Question of such Importance, as an immediate Alliance, offensive and defensive, to be followed by a future Guarantee of future Acquisitions, it feems effencial to us to know, what are the Strength and Refources of the Prince with whom we are going to engage; the Situation and Extent of his Country; together with the Circumstances and Disposition of the Powers who border upon it, and in whose Differences with him, whatever they may be, we shall probably become Parties in consequence of our present Engagements.

Whether the Conquest of Gwalior be the Rana's sole and real Object, or whether another Ex. pedition into Bundlecund may not be in fact the Consequence of our sending Troops to act with him, is in my Judgment very uncertain. Colonel Leslie set out under Instructions, first to pro. ceed towards Bombay, and afterwards to Berar. Inflead of doing either, he marched into Bucche. cund, took Possession of the Capital, and remained there very quietly till he died. I think it not at all unlikely, that the Officer who may command the Expedition now projected, will follow the Example of his immediate Predecessor. There is nothing to be gained in the Country of Goad, or its Neighbourhod, whereas the Diamond Country offers every Temptation, it is the high Road to Fortune, and therefore the most likely to be pursued.

Having no authentic Information before me, on the State and Condition of the Rana of Goad. I must draw my Conclusions from the best I have been able to obtain; of course they cannot be in favour of a Man fo circumstanced as I believe the Rana of Goad to be: At the same Time I have no Difficulty in declaring, that if all the Facts were reverfed, it would not incline me to affent to the The Event of those Treaties in which we have hitherto engaged, does not furnish me with any Encouragement to enter into new ones, formed on the same Principles, or to follow that Line of Policy; I deem it unwise and dangerous in every Sense. It is inconsistent with the Reference of Bengal to employ our Forces in distant Schemes of Conquest, whether for ourselves, or others; it is inconsistent with the Sasety of Bengal, to send our Troops beyond the Jumna, and much more to bind ourselves to let them remain there at the Discretion of any of the Country Powers. The Distance is too great, and the Rana of Goad too inconfiderable, to fuffer me to suppose it possible that the Impression of any Efforts of his, or of ours in conjunction with him, can be felt on the Malabar Coalt, or create a Diversion that can be of the smallest Service to Brigadier General Goddard.

But this, in my Judgment, is not the most material Consideration. The Extent of our public Frontier, to speak moderately and without the Hazard of Exaggeration, is full as great as we are able to defend; and if it were not to, a System of Invasion and Conquest is equally unnatural to the Condition of the East India Company as a mercantile Body, and to that of the Territory they

What fort of Conclusions must arise in the Minds of Men at Home, who are capable of judging of such Questions, when they see that with all our pretent immense Possessions, and with all the Resources which we ought to derive from them, it is necessary to their Security that we should endeavour to enlarge them.

On the same Principle, and from the same Causes on which such Measures are deemed necessary now, the future Necessity of them must increase with every new Acquisition; we must continue to conquer as long as we continue to acquire.

They who think fuch a System of Policy essential to the Safety of the Company's actual Possesfions, must admit, that our Situation in India is not only very precarious, but incapable of being fixed once for all upon a limited and folid Foundation. But I am far from admitting, that our Establishment here is of that Nature, or that the Measures in question have any Tendency to strengthen or secure it.

Mr. Wheler's Minute, to which I entirely subscribe, has anticipated a great deal of what I intended to have said. I shall therefore only add, that the System of which this Measure makes a Part, counteracts the fundamental Principles of the Company's Policy, and cannot be pursued without direct Disobedience to their positive and repeated Orders and Instructions to this Government, nor without oversetting a Principle laid down by the Governor General himself; and ment, nor without oversetting a Principle laid down by the Governor General himself; and ment which I entirely concur with him, that, notwithstanding the Superiority of the British Force mental Line of Action is and must be purely the Desensive.

The Terms of the proposed Treaty are liable to many Difficulties and Objections. I shall by mention one. Guarantees between Princes and States are usually (I believe always) reciprocal. There is a manifest Reason, I confess, for not calling upon the Rana of Ghode to guaranty, as regularly as he ought to do, the Possessions or future Acquisitions of this Government; but it is such a Reason as reduces the Rana very low, and ought to deter us from entering into any Alliance with him. It may involve us in the constant Support of his Quarrels with his Neighbours; but it offices us no Compensation or Assistance in Return, supposing the Company's Possessions in any other Part of Lidia were invaded, nor is it in his Power to afford it.

Whether this be a just Observation or not, I need not insist upon it; because my Opposition to the

he proposed Treaty is founded on Principles which do not oblige me to canvas the particular Adantage or Difadvantage of every specific Article contained in it.

On that general Ground of Argument, which Mr. Wheler has taken, and to which I have inly added a little without improving it, I entirely disapprove of the Proposition, and protest gainst it.

Mr. Barwell—The general Object of the proposed Treaty appears to me pointed to the present Circumstances of our Government, and that of the Marattas. It strikes me to be well calculated to live Strength to both the offensive and defensive Means we hold within ourselves, as to weaken hose of our immediate Enemies the Marattas. In a State of War with that Power, every Enemy that is raifed up to their State, is an Advantage to our own Plans of Conquest; Acquisition of Terpitory, and a Design to engage the Forces of the Company in distant Expeditions, to which the Ob-ections of Mr. Wheler and Mr. Francis particularly point, are not meditated by the present Preaty. It is the Desence of these Provinces, and the Diffress of the common Enemy, that appears o me to have led to this Treaty. If Acquifition of Territory, or any Advantage shall arise from such 1 Policy, the Company and the Nation will be benefitted without any of those Risks that seem to be egarded with to wach Apprehension in the foregoing Minutes. I agree to the proposed Treaty.

Governor General—I had no Suspicion that the Members of this Government could be ignorant of the Confequence, much less of the Existence of the Rana of Goad; it was therefore unnecessary or me to have instructed them on these Points, nor was I forward to introduce a Measure of selfpparent Necessity, with Arguments which I know would be contested, and the Measure itself of ourse opposed. We were upon the Eve of a War with the Maratta State, a War which is no less ne Effect of the Company's decided Orders, than of the Meafures of their Servants, to which this Fovernment has given its Sanction. From General Goddard's Advices, it may be almost positively oncluded, that we are actually in a State of War with them, and possibly with other Powers comaned with them; had this Government remained in total Inaction, had no Measure of this Kind een adopted, I should have expected to have been reproached with suffering the Company to be rawn into a War with perhaps the first Power in India, without any Alliance to support it, or to briate the predatory Incursions of such an Enemy. I am now reproached with forming such n Alliance, and on Grounds which will only apply to a State of perfect Peace and domestic Security; here the Acquisitions of Territory, or the Increase of Revenue the Object, the Operations of the Treaty would not be limited to the Scalon of War. If War has taken place, or shall take place ith the Maratta State, the Treaty fecures the Support and Affishance of a powerful Prince, whose Dominions adjoin to our Frontier, and lie in one of the principal Roads through which the Marattas must pais to invade us; and the Objects proposed by the Alliance are such as are most likely to weaken the Maratta State, by depriving it of its Refources, and dividing its Attention; at the same Time the Principal in the Treaty with us, is a Man on whose personal Interests and Enmity to the Maratta State, we may depend for his faithful Adherence to it. He succeeded to his present Posfessions by the Death of his Father, who lost his Life and the Fortress of Gwalior at the same Time, in an Engagement with the Marattas, with whom the Son has been ever fince in a State of Warfare. It is notorious, and will be probably known to many well-informed Perfons at Home, that the Marattas have made various Attempts to reduce the prefent Rana, with numerous Armies, conducted by their most eminent Leaders, and once by Ragonaut Row in Person, and have been as often repulsed with Diferedit to their Government and Honour to the Rana. That he was the Protector of Two of the most important and obnoxious Characters in Hindostan, Gauzo O'Dien and Cossim Ally Cawn, are Facts fo notorious, that I cannot yet suppose any Member of this Board to be ignorant of them; and these alone are presumptive, but very strong Proofs of the Power of the Man whose State could prove an Asylum to such Fugitives. His personal Abilities are equally known, they are univerfally acknowledged and proved by his Actions.

I have faid that the Objects of the Treaty, and the Operations dependent on it, are refricted to a State of War with the Marattas. A War in which, with respect to the immediate Commencement of it, independent of former Causes, they must be the Aggressors by rejecting the Offers of Peace which we have made to them. It after all, my Supposition shall not be realized by the Event, but a Peace enfue, the Treaty becomes in itself null, being reduced to the simple Tie of Friendship, which alters nothing of the relative State in which we are at prefent with the Rana; and all the Consequences which Mr. Francis concludes that it will entail upon us, which, suppose a War with the Marattas, are certainly more likely to happen from such a War, if we have no Support, than with a Provision to avert them. I have had such frequent Occasion to complain of the unsair Manner in which Mr. Francis quotes my Words and Opinions, that I shall make no other Reply to his Affertion of the Contradiction of the prefent Meature to my own Principles, than that the Expression which he has quoted appertains to a different Occasion and a different Object, and bears no more Relation to the present Subject than the Dispatch of Treasure to Bombay or Surat.

Mr. Francis—Neither Mr. Wheler nor I have professed to be ignorant of the Existence of the Rana of Goad. But, when a Treaty of Alliance, offensive and defensive, is proposed to be concluded with him, I presume it is not enough to know that he exists. I for my own Part should have held myself indebted to the Governor General, as I always am, for any Information he might have thought proper to give me of the Circumstances and Situation of this Raja. It is probable that I might have endeavoured to obtain it myfelf from other Quarters, if at any Period fince my Ar-, rival in Bengal, I had thought it possible that an intimate Connection of Interests between the Connany and him would ever have been proposed. When a similar I reaty was in Agitation with a much grader

A P P E N D I X; Nº 230.

Prince, (I mean Moodajee Boofla) the Governor General introduced the Proposition with a ven particular Report of his Situation, Views, Family Connections, Refources, and Interests. Lights with which the Governor General's last Minute have furnished me, do not tend to establish favourable Opinion either of the Rana's Character or Strength. I do not wish to be connected with a Man, who is only known by the Protection he afforded to Persons so obnoxious to this Govern ment and to India in general, as Cossim Ally Cawn and Gauzy O'Dien Cawn. And as to the Strength which enabled him to give them that Protection, I believe it to be purely defensive. He is a Hill Raja: I conclude he has strong Holds in the Mountains, and that it is not easy to come at him. Admitting it to be true, that at this Time, and to support a War which it is said is the Effect of the decided Orders of the Company, Alliances with some of the Country Powers might be useful and necessary, it does not follow that all and every Alliance deserves that Character, It is not at all unlikely, that we may find ourselves incumbered and embarrassed with the Burthen of a useles Ally. I mean to use the Words applied by the Governor General not long ago to our answers of them. Connection with Moodajee Boofla; as I am sure I express the Sense of them. An offensive Union with Hyder Ally or the Nizam, or even with the Raja of Berar, if he could be separated from his Countrymen, might indeed on the Principles of the present War, be of Importance to its Success. The Rana of Goad is too inconsiderable to be of Weight in either Scale; but if his Strength were greater than it is, it would not necessarily follow that we should gain any Thing by uniting it to ours. Before such a Junction can be effected, we must cross the Junna, and relinquish all the Security and other Advantages, which the Intervention of that great Barrier affords to all our Post. fessions, and to those of our Ally. By the same Act we divide our Force, and make it difficult, if not impracticable, for the different Parts of it so separated to assist each other. Every Operation ne undertake on their Side of the River, so far from adding to our Strength or distressing the Friend, is only laying ourselves open to Wounds in a Quarter where, if we stayed within our own Battier, we might be invulnerable. We relinquish a Situation of superior Strength to meet our Friend, if we do meet him, on equal Terms. I shall trouble the Board with but one Word more. The Governor General, it is true, has often complained of unfair Quotations, and this Complaint, I am informed, has been echoed in England; but I do not admit that it has ever been made with Reason. Let an Instance of any Moment be pointed out, and I am ready to join Issue upon

Governor General—I have never made the Complaint against Mr. Francis of an unsair Quotation, but I have pointed out the Instance, and proved it to be unsair. The present Instance is before us I do remember, that when we were first informed of a War then supposed to be declared between Great Britain and France, I said, That our Part of the War must be purely defensive, because they had all to gain, and we to lose. I do not know whether these were the Words; but I am sure that this was the Substance and Sense of the Maxim which is now quoted as a Contradiction to the Proposal which I make of withstanding a predatory Enemy, already in Possession of a great Part of Flindoitin, by distant and offensive Operations. For the rest of Mr. Francis's Minute, I do not think it necessary to reply to it, having, I think, in all our Contests generally allowed him the last Argument; and I think the Subject was sufficiently discussed in the preceding Minutes.

Mr. Francis—I admit that the Maxim which I have attributed to the Governor General was introduced on the Occasion he mentions; I nevertheless understood it to be a general one, at least a certainly could not be confined to the Case of a War with France, since at the same Point of Time, we strongly recommended, and by our Assistance promoted, the Siege of Pondicherry:

Governor General—Let it be added, that I at the same Time proposed a Measure which from its Tendency led to the Possibility at least of an offensive War with the Marattas, and this Proposition was made in the same Minute in which the Maxim now attributed to me was introduced; and I will venture to say, will not be understood from these Minutes, neither from those of Mr. Francis, or my own.

Agreed to the amended Draft of the Treaty. Ordered that it be ingroffed fair, and executed.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 14th February 1780.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

Edward Wheler,

Mr. Barwell indisposed.

Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Minute, with a Letter and Inclosure, from the Commander in Chief.

Honourable

N D I X, N° 239.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have had the Honour to receive your Letter of the 6th Instant, inclosing a Drast of a Treaty proposed to be entered into between the Honourable Company and Maha Raja Lookindein, Rana of Gohud; acquainting me that Captain Palmer is deputed to interchange the Ratification, and requiring of me in the mean Time to comply with any Application the Rana may make for the Company's Forces to act against the Marattas.

In Reply; while I beg Leave to affure you that the Company have no Officer more disposed to obey and enforce your Commands, and that I stall punctually comply with those now before me; yet as a Member of the Board I must, in Vindication of myself, and in Discharge of my Duty to my Country and the Company, not only protest against this Order, but against the Treaty itself; and request they may both be recorded upon the Proceedings relative to this Object.

My Protest against the present Order is founded upon, and limited to the immediate State of our Politics respecting the Marattas with whom Hollistics are long fince ceased, and with whom we have at this Instant an Agent negociating in Behalf of our Government to establish a firm and honourable

In Opposition to this, when the present Order may be obeyed, we commence Hostilities and declare War at the very Moment perhaps when the Treaty is concluded between us, and in a Mode not as it ought to be; when we may, if obliged to renew the War against the Marattas by a vigorous Effort upon them from all our Prefidencies, in a Manner fuitable to our military Fame, and likely to put an immediate and fuccefsful End to it: No, we must by this Order carry it on under the Patronage of a petty Prince, a Tributary to Nudjiff Cawn, Supposed not to possess above Six Lacks of Revenue, and Three to Four thousand Troops, and commence a War at his Insligation and Pleafure, while our own Policy and Interest leads us to aim at Peace.

My Exceptions to the Treaty I have separately stated in the inclosed Protest.

But with regard to the Order, I repeat and beg to be understood that I intend the fullest Compliance, while I disclaim in the strongest Manner any Assent to the Measure.

Allahabad, 21st December 1779. I have the Honour to be, &c. (Signed) Eyre Coote.

Allahabad, 21st Dect 1779. Sir Eyre Coote—As a tacit Reception of the Treaty proposed to be concluded with the Rana of Gohud, publicly fent me by the Board, might subject me to a Suspicion of affenting to a Measure, that I would upon no Confideration fubfcribe my Name to, I think myfelf obliged, in Support of my own Character and Conduct, for which alone I can be responsible, to give in the following Protest against it.

Against the 1st Article: I do not think that an Alliance, of the solemn Nature proposed, with a Prince of fo low an Estimation among those of Hindostan as the Rana of Gohud is said to be, can prove any Credit to the Company, as neither his Name or Power can ever benefit them, but on the contrary, his Weakness and Poverty make us constantly bear the Labour and Burden of his Avarice and Ambition, without reaping Benefit, or even Reimburfement; in short, raise him at the gratuitous Expence of our Blood and Treasure, not to mention the Sacrifice of our Fame.

Against the 2d Article: I must observe, that in case of a War with the Marattas, which it pre-juppoles, it places the most extraordinary and unprecedented Power in the Hands of a Foreigner, that ever was devised by any Government for their own Destruction.

From the Posts nearest to him, which are our advanced Posts, and most effectial Stations, he may draw off and require what Numbers he pleafes, and that by a fimple Application to the Officer commanding those particular Posts, without Reference to our Government: And here permit me to ask, what must be the Situation of the unfortunate Officer, who having established those Stations for the Defence of our Provinces, and the reft of the Army perhaps entirely relying for our Security upon their being fully occupied, they are drawn off without his Knowledge or Confent? and if he should afterwards learn it, reinforce them; this again is liable to the same Reduction. He thus remains remediless, laid open to the Incursions of the Enemy, without Means to save his Character or Credit, while alone responsible.

The Command of the advanced Part of our Army is hereby in fact transferred to the Rana, and enables him legally, and by our own Confent, to become, if his Interest can be gained, the most powerful and dangerous Instrument against us that it is possible to construct; and how far his Poverty may make him attainable to our Enemies, and in how much he is therein a fafe Power to entruft our Lives and Fame with, I leave to unbiaffed Reflection to determine.

Further, when once possessing our Troops, without the Knowledge and Consent of our Government he is also enabled legally to deprive us of the Power of recalling them; for they are to remain as long as he shall require it, and return when he shall dismiss them; and after all, the Expence of them not even infured to us, for there is a bare Promife to pay, without the least Mention of Se-

Against the 3d Article: It is to be observed, that the Treaty swerving from its ostensibly declared Object, of affifting in his Defence against the Marattas, upon a Pre supposition of both Parties being sugaged in a Maratta War, now launches into a general War upon all foreign and do nother kne-REP. ENDIX, Nº 239.

mies; thus at once plunging us into a War with all Hindostan, even against our own Allies, should the Rana be pleased to bring them under the other Objects of his Policy.

Against the 4th Article: It is extraordinary, that after our Men and Treasures shall have been em.

ployed, as proposed in the 3d Article, against all foreign and domestic Enemies; we are only to reap the Benefit of Acquirements from the Marattas, for the Article of Division is restricted to them alone. If the Sword is to be drawn against whomsoever the Rana may direct, we should at least be entitled to benefit equally by whomsoever may fall under it. The perpetual Tribute herein mentioned, is, like the Payment of the Troops, left without the Shadow of Security.

The 5th Article, while equally inconsistent with the rest, in oversetting the foregoing Proposals.

gives the Rana a Pre-eminence, entitling him to an Attention and Consideration from us, which he is not restricted by. We give him the Command of our Army, which is to obey at his Summons; but we are to address him, and his Government, not in like manner, to command his Officers to

But this Self Humiliation is immaterial, in comparison to a further Point in this Article. By the 2d Article, a War is pre-supposed between the Marattas and the contracting Parties, and upon our Forces affilting his, he is to pay for them; but here, if it is judged expedient to employ the combined Forces beyond the Rana's Dominions, each Party is to bear his own Expences. This totally overfets the former Article, for by that the combined Forces of the Rana, and the Company, are to be employed either in his Defence, which may be at Home, or to acquire Territory, which must be abroad, that is, beyond the Dominions of the Raja; and under both these Descriptions we are to be paid (if we can get it) by the 2d Article, and bear our own Expences by the 5th. And if we are to suppose our Forces not combined, in the Position of the 2d Article, then, we are to proceed alone, wherever the Rana may direct, which to any Person who may have any Feeling left for our Credit, is the worse Option of the Two. Again, by the 5th Article, when the combined Troops may have marched to Oogein, or Indoor, to feek the Enemy and deliver Battle, he may then, agree ably to Treaty, leave us to stand the Brunt alone; Point of partial Convenience to him, by which, without supposing him to betray us, (which he may also do, agreeable to Treaty) our whole Army may be lost. Further, when our Troops are returning, which supposes a Peace made, in which he is to be a Party, by the 8th Article he may even then stop our Troops, though perhaps under the most urgent Orders to defend our Southern Provinces; he may detain them to go amusing him-felf in foreign Conquests, while we may be in the utmost Want, of them at Home.

The 6th Article places the commanding Officer in a very disagreeable Situation, limiting his Power to the mere Execution, while the Service required may be very dishonourable for our Troops to be engaged in.

The 7th Article, of a Complexion with the rest, does not omit, in whatever Case it may be, to leave the Rana a compleat Authority over his own Troops even in the Midst of Battle; so that by a Difference of Opinion, they may prove the Destruction of our Army, instead of an Aid

So that by the 2d Article, our Troops are taken from the advanced Posts, without the Participation of our Government, or Knowledge of the commanding Officer, who stationed them for the Defence and Security of these Provinces, and then detained against the Power of recalling them; by the 5th Article stopt, if under March for our own Defence; and lastly, may be lest unsupported even in the extremest Danger, if we do not blindly follow his Opinion.

The 8th Article may make the trifling Object of the Possession of an hereditary Fort, though it must undoubtedly be obtained by our Arms, an Obstacle in all Situations to our making Peace with the Marattas; a Restriction, the Impolicy of which might, upon a foreign Invasion, soon be selt. And here it may be observed, that Gwalior is not a Fort belonging to his Family, but the royal Having now stated my Objections to every Article of the Treaty, for the 9th has no public Object in it, I can see the Whole in no other Light than as dangerous to ourselves, a Breach of Treaty to the Vizier, and impolitic in the strongest Degree, without a single secured Benefit. I therefore protest against the Whole, and leave the Consequences upon those who may carry it into Force.

At the same Time I must distinguish, that although I disapprove of the Treaty now proposed, vefting in a foreign Prince such a Command of our Army as might be fatal to ourselves, and prevent any Officer of Reputation taking Charge of it in these Quarters, a Power that no Ally should have, yet I am ready now, and at other Periods, to enter into any convenient Agreement with the Rana, for co operating with mutual Benefit in Time of War, without subjecting ourselves to the severe Restrictions of the proposed Treaty.

But any Agreement with him I confider as highly improper, until we have certain Information of

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 17th February 1780.

PRESENT.

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,
Mr. Barwell indisposed.

• The Governor General proposes that the following Reply be written to the Letter and Protest from Sir Eyre Coote, entered in the last Consultation:

Sir.

We have received a Letter from you, inclosing a Protest dated the 21st December last, against the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Gohud, which you had thought it necessary to make as a Member of the Board, in Vindication of yourself, and to send down to be recorded in our Proceedings relative to that Object.

The great Irregularity of an absent Member's reviewing the Acts of Government, and protesting against them, after they have been formally and finally determined by a legal Vote of the Board, obliges us to take Notice of your present Letter, and to acquaint you, that the Treaty with the Rana of Gohud became binding on the Faith of the Company from the Date of its Execution in Calcutta; and that the whole Board, as well as every Person subordinate to it, were obliged in Duty to give it Effect, so far as it might be their Province respectively to bear any Concern in the Accomplishment of its Stipulations. In your present Situation, absent from our Councils, we can only regard you as Commander in Chief of the Army, and not responsible for any Steps taken without your Participation. In this Light we transmitted a Copy of the Treaty to you, not for your Opinion upon it, but because it became necessary to make you acquainted with its Contents, and to entrust some Clauses to be carried into Execution under your Orders.

We shall be at all Times willing to receive your Opinion upon any Measures which you may either think fit to propose, or which may be yet open to our Consideration, and to allow every Degree of Weight to the Arguments on which it may be founded, that is due to your military Knowledge, and to the Respect which we personally bear to your Character; but you must be sensible that, in the present Case, they come too late to be attended with any Effect. The Impropriety of your present Claim cannot be more pointedly shewn, than by the following Clause in the Conclusion of your Minute: "Yet I am ready now, and at other Periods, to enter into any convenient Agreement with the Rana for co-operating with mutual Benefit in Time of War, without sub- jecting ourselves to the severe Restrictions of the proposed Treaty." This is in Effect a Proposition for cancelling a Treaty already executed with every Formality and Sanction which could be given to it, for the Purpose of admitting another in its stead, which may be proposed by yourself at some sub- future and indefinite Period; a Privilege which, if allowed, would annihilate all the Powers which the Board possess of making Alliances.

the Board posses of making Alliances.

We do not know whether the Rana has yet made any Application to you, for a Detachment of our Troops to assist him; but if he shall, we think it proper to repeat our Injunctions, that such a Proportion as you shall deem sufficient to perform the Service proposed, be immediately granted; and we hope, if any Requisition has already been made to you for this Purpose, that you will have complied with it previous to the Receipt of this Letter.

Fort William, 17th February, 1770.

We are, &c.

Mr. Françis—Without departing from the Opinion I delivered, concerning the Treaty with the Rana of Gohud, while that Measure was under Deliberation, I agree in the general Reasoning expressed in this Letter.

Mr. Wheler subscribes to this Opinion, and agrees to the Letter.

Resolved, That the Letter be written accordingly.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 6th December 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

THE following Minute from the Governor General was fent in on Saturday last; and agreeably to his Directions circulated to the Members of the Board:

Governor General—Having, in consequence of a Treaty, passed the Board for an Alliance with the Rana of Gohud, required of his Vackeel to produce the Powers with which he was invested for executing it on the Part of his Master, he delivered to me a Paper which I shall lay before the Board at their next Meeting, containing simply the Rajah's public Seal; and which, with his Letters declaring the Vackeel to be deputed for the Purpose of concluding such a Treaty, are deemed sufficient and ample Authority, according to the Forms and Usage of Indostan; but as the Rana has not set his Name to the Paper, and with us the Signatures of the contracting Parties are held indispensable to the Validity of all public Engagements, I informed the Vackeel of this Desect in his Powers. He requested that they might, with the Addition of his own Seal and Signature, be admitted for the present Execution of the Treaty; and to remove all Doubt, and authenticate it according to our Forms, he made me a Proposal, which I now lay before the Board, under his Hand and Seal, for sending a Person on the Part of this Government to witness the Rana's sinal Execution of it, and exchange the Ratification; and I recommend it for their Approbation.

(Signed) W. H.

Arzie from Muzhir Ally, Vackeel of the Rana of Gohud.

As I understand from what you said, that the Customs of your Country require that the contracting Parties should sign their Names to the Treaty to give it Credit and Validity, I am therefore hopeful, and make it my Request, that since the Rajah in his Letters to you has affured you of the Validity of my Powers, you will for the present accept of a Furd, with my Signature, and the Seal of the Maha Rajah, and that a Gentleman of Trust may be sent to the Maha Rajah, that all the Points which have been settled here may be sinally concluded there in the Presence of such Gentlemen; and that in like Manner as I have represented many things on the Part of the Maha Rajah, such Gentlemen may obtain Satisfaction in all Matters, and see the Maha Rajah set his Signature to the Treaty. This will be highly pleasing to the Maha Rajah, and gain me Credit with you.

I agree to the Propositions.

Richard Barwell.

Mr. Francis—If the Vackeel be not invested with safficient Powers to execute the Treaty on the Part of his Constituent, we ought not to have proceeded with him so far as we have done: The Extent of his Powers should regularly have been ascertained in the first Instance. For my own Part, I am perfectly satisfied with the Rajah's Seal, and the Contents of his Letters. It is not likely that he should refuse to ratify a Treaty by which he is intitled and empowered to require the Assistance of our Forces for the Defence of his Country, or for the Acquistion of Territory; without any other Limitation or Description of the Amount of such Force, to be sent immediately on his Equisition, except that it should be proportioned to the Exigency of the Service, of which the Rana is to be the Judge. The deputing a Gentleman on purpose to Goad, to see the Treaty ratified, is my Opinion a very useless, and I am sure it will be a very expensive Measure. I am therefore entirely against it: I do not even know that the Rana's Signature is wanted. The Public Seal, on both Sides, is the true Authentication of their Public Acts respectively.

(Signed)

P. Francis.

Agreed.

Resolved, That a Person be deputed on the Part of this Government to the Rana of Goad for the Purpose of seeing the Treaty executed, and for exchanging the Ratissications.

The Governor General now produces to the Board the Paper mentioned in his Minute above recorded, under the Seal of the Rana of Goad.

Governor General—I move, That Captain Palmer, my Military Secretary, may be deputed to interchange the Treaties with the Rana of Goad according to the Proposal of the Minister, entered in the former Part of this Day's Consultation.

Mr. Wheler—It having already been agreed by a Majority of this Board to fend a Person on the Part of this Government to witness the Rajah's final Execution of the Treaty, and exchange the Ratifications, I affent to the Governor General's Motion in favour of Captain Palmer.

the Ratifications, I affent to the Governor General's Motion in favour of Captain Palmer.

Mr. Francis—I should have thought it would have been more easy and less expensive, to have fent an Officer from the nearest Station, but I have no Objection to Captain Palmer.

Mr. Barwell-I agree.

Resolved, That Captain Palmer be deputed to the Rana of Goad to witness his final Execution of the Treaty entered in Consultation the 2d Instant, and to exchange the Ratification with him.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,

Tarren Hammes,
Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

The Secretary lays before the Board Two Drafts of the Treaty with the Rana of Goad, engroffed in the English and Persian Languages, and reports that Meer Muzzer Ally, the Minister of the Rana, is in waiting.

Agreed, That he be admitted.

The Treaties are now figned by the Board and by the Minister of the Rana of Goad.

Ordered, That they be sent to Captain Palmer to be ratified by the Rana in his Presence according to the former Resolution of the Board.

Warren Hastings. P. Francis. Edw Wheler.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 13th December 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,

Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Edward Wheler,

Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

The Governor General proposes, that Captain Palmer be permitted to draw the same Allowances during his Deputation to Goad, as were assigned to Mr. Elliott on his Deputation to Berar; and that Mr. Thomas Short be appointed Assistant to Captain Palmer with the same Allowances as were granted to Mr. Farquhar, Assistant to Mr. Elliott.

Mr. Wheler—I have not yet considered the Business or which Captain Palmer is going to undertake, in the same Light or of the same Importance with that which was intrusted to the Charge of Mr. Elliott; at this Distance of Time I do not perfectly recollect whether the Allowances given to that Gentleman were not objected to by me: However, I do not mean to revert to a former Opinion upon a Subject so personal as the present, though I would wish the Allowances Rep. had been such on this Occasion as I should have judged safe to have acceded to, which, as they are now stated, I must beg Leave to decline.

Mr. Francis—Mr. Elliott's Allowances amounted to Current Rupces 3,318 per Month, those of his Assistant to 555, in all 3,873. I think they are much too high for the present Occasion, and that as Captain Palmer is only deputed to see the Treaty with the Rana executed, he cannot have any Use or Employment for an Assistant.

Mr. Barwell—I think the Allowances of Mr. Elliott were regulated by those allotted to Colonel Upton on his Embaffy to Poona; and however large they may have appeared to the Court of Directors, I have Reason to think, that neither Colonel Upton nor Mr. Elliott were enabled to make any confiderable Saving from their Allowances; the Circumstances in which Captain Palmer is placed are nearly the same, and the Appearance he must make must be regulated upon the same than the life than and Captain Palmer are because the same transfer and the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are because the same transfer are the same t Principle. The Difference of Rank between Colonel Upton and Captain Palmer can be no Rule to direct the Judgment on this Occasion. He is the Servant of the Government in the same Line as Colonel Upton was, and he must support the same Character; I therefore assent to the Motion.

Agreed, That Captain Palmer be permitted to draw the fame Allowances as Mr. Elliott, viz. Lieutenant Colonel's Pay, and double Batta per Month, Sonaut Rupees 1,488. Fixed Salary 1000, and Contingencies, including Moonchies, Servants, &c. 500.

Agreed, That Mr. Short be appointed Affistant to Captain Palmer with the same Allowances as Mr. Farquhar, viz. the Pay and Batta of a Captain per Month, Sonaut Rupees 512.

From Maha Rajah Ranna Chatter Sing: Received 13th March.

AFTER expressing the Earnestness of his Desire to have a personal Interview with the Governor, and lamenting the Impossibility of his enjoying that Happiness at present, he proceeds thus:

This is the State of my Affairs. At this Time a War is on the Eve of breaking out between me and the Marattas, occasioned by my having retaken a District of which they had dispossessed me, and which they will doubtless endeavour to recover, in which case I have no other Hope but in your Aid. I flatter myself that when I find it necessary to apply to you, you will grant my Request and oblige me with an Army, for the Support of which I will agree to such Terms as you shall be pleased to intimate to me.

I have given Wully Ulla his Dispatches, and directed him to proceed to your Presence; from him you will be informed of every Particular relative to this Quarter. I was fome Time ago honoured with a royal Firmaund to take Possession of the Fort of Goalear, to which 22 Mahals are attached. Regarding this as proceeding from the Bounty of the Almighty, and as a Means of raising me Credit, I, with very little Trouble, reduced the said Fort and Mahals to my Obedience, and obtained a Sunnud thereof from the Vizier of the Empire. Knowing that this would afford you Pleasure, I could not omit to communicate it to you. I hope that regarding me in the Light of a sincere Friend you will frequently favour me with the News of your Welfare.

To Rajah Chatter Sing Lochinder Behadre; dated the 16th May 1776.

THE Defire which you express of an Alliance with me, gives me Pleasure; but it is impossible. to afford you Affistance at this Time: I however recommend your living in Terms of Friends thip with the Vizier, and consulting him; you will favour me with frequent Accounts of your Health.

From the Nabob Mobarck ul Dowlah.

Shiek Wully Oatah, the Vackeel of Maha Rajah Sewae Ranna Chatta Sing, the Rajah of Gohud, has pretented me with a Letter from his Master, and a Nuzzir of Five Rupees. Having perused it, I enclose it for your Information. As I hold no Connection nor Correspondence with the Western Chiefs, and place my sole Reliance and Dependance on your Favour, be pleased to inform me of the Conduct you think it proper for me to pursue; if you would have me write an Answer, favour me with a Draft, agreeable to which I will write and deliver to the Vackeel. As he is very pressing to be dispatched, that he may return to his Master, I request you will oblige me with an immediate Reply

Enclosure in the above.

Letter from Maha Ranna Swae Chatta Sing Lokindur Bahadre, to the Nabob Mobarck ul Dowlah; received the 7th Zehedja.

After the usual Compliments:

I have long entertained an earnest Desire to enjoy the Happiness of an Interview with you. Language is too weak to express how greatly I am desirous of this Event. May the Almighty grant the Accomplishment of this Wish.

My Situation is as follows: I am on the Brink of a War with the Marattas, having recovered from them a Place which they had formerly deprived me of; they will doubtless resent this I was formerly united in the Bonds of Friendship with your Highness's Ancestors, and had great Hopes from the Nabob Sajah ul Moulk Hissam ul Dowlah, Mier Mahomed Jassier Khan Behadre, Mohabut

Jung. The Renewal of these Ties is greatly to be wished.

I some Time ago addressed a Letter to the Governor Mr. Hastings, Jelladut Jung Bahadre, requesting his Aid; to which he replied, That as the strictest Union subsisted between us, whenever I should require it, Orders should be sent to the Chiefs stationed in this Quarter to assist me with their Forces: I therefore beg Leave to request of you, who are the Master of that Country, that you will exert yourself in this Business with the Governor, who will pay Attention to your Desire. I have no Doubt of his immediate Compliance with your Application, and that he will be kindly pleased to grant me the Services of a Brigade of his Forces whenever they may be requisite. I will discharge whatever shall be fixed for the Expence of the Troops. I am hopeful, that regarding me as zealously attached to you, you will make me happy by frequent Letters.

I received a royal Firmaun for the Fort of Gonwalier, with 22 Mahuls, confirmed by a Sunnud from the Vizier. This I mention for your Highness's Information, and for further Particulars beg Leave to refer you to Sheik Wully Oatah, to whose Representations I request your Credit and At-

Bengal Secret Consultations, 6th December 1779.

THE Governor General thinks it incumbent on him to lay before the Board the following Paper of Intelligence, which was inclosed in a Letter to him from the Commander in Chief:

Extract of a Letter from Futty Gurr; 20th November 1779.

I have likewise just now received from Goad the disagreeable News of the Marattas having made themselves Masters of the Fort of Arhaund (which I had the Honour to inform you some Time ago was invested) and put the Garrison to the Sword. The same Account informs me, that they are preparing to attack another Fort; and that the Rajah is by no Means in a Condition to oppose them; his Troops being not only inferior in point of Number to the Enemy, but also dispirited and ready to mutiny on account of the long Arrears due to them, which he is at present anable to pay. In this Situation of his Affairs, the speedy Conquest of his whole Country must be the Consequence of the Enemy pushing their Advantage with that Briskness which the defenceless State of it seems to invite.

N \mathbf{D} Χ. Nº 243.

Governor General—Having communicated this Intelligence to Meer Muzzer Ally, the Range from the Manager from the Range Minister, he informed me, that he had received no Letters from his Master since his Arrival; and therefore concluded, that the Danger stated as impending on his Country from the Maratta Invasion, had been much exaggerated; but thought it probable, that the Fort of Arhaund, men. tioned in the Intelligence, had been taken by the Marattas; that it was fituated on the Southern Ex. tremity of his Dominions, and not capable of much Relistance. There can be no Doubt that Maratta Force has entered the Territories of the Rana of Goad, though of itself not likely to be productive of any material Confequences. It appears to me to be the Part of a Plan, which I was lately informed, by a Channel which I have hitherto experienced to be of good Authority, had been concerted by the ruling Administration at Poona, for the general Conduct of the War against the Company; namely, that Nana Furnesse and Hurry Punt Furkia were to conduct the War against General Goddard; and that Moodajee Scindia and Tucoojee Holcar were to unite then Forces, and proceed immediately against the Rana of Goad to reduce his Country, and afterwards enter the Doab, and the Dominions of the Nabob of Oude, or into the Countries dependent on Bengal, as the Circumstances of the Times should direct them preferably to either. have since heard that this Plan has been changed, and that all the Chiefs above mentioned had united their Forces, and were preparing to march directly against General Goddard. It appears, however, equally necessary to guard against any Attempts which may have been projected against the Rana of Goad, and to strengthen his Hands to enable him the better to act in concert with us, if that Design, from whatever Cause, shall have been suspended: I therefore move, That a Copy of the Treaty, which it has been agreed to conclude with the Rana of Goad, be immediately transmitted to the Commander in Chief, with Instructions to comply with any immediate Requisition which the Rana of Goad may make for a Detachment of our Forces, proportioned to the Exigency of the Service required by it; of which he will of course be the Judge.

Mr. Wheler—I am against the Motion. Mr. Francis—If the Board were disposed to make a right Use of the Intelligence contained the preceding Letter, I should have thought it a fortunate Circumstance that we had received a before any thing had been finally concluded with the Rana's Vackeel. The Rana of Goad's Situation, by this Letter, appears to be confiderably worse than what it was represented to me: One of his Forts was taken; the Marattas were preparing to attack another; and the specify Conquest of his whole Country was likely to be the Consequence: If this be the Case, we are going to execute a Treaty with a Prince who may have neither an Army nor any Dominions left. His Army is dispirited and ready to mutiny for want of Pay, which he is unable to give them. If he cannot pay his own Troops, how will it be possible for him to discharge the Subsidy which he engages to pay for ours? Instead of enlarging his Territories by Conquest, which is the professed Object of the Treaty, our first Labour will be to recover for him what he has already lost; and this must be attempted by marching a Part of our Army to a considerable Distance on the Side of the Jumna.

I do not confider the present Invasion of his Country by the Marattas, as belonging to or the Fffect of any particular Plan of Operations against the Company. He is at constant Enmity with the Marattas; and I look upon this Attack as nothing more than a Continuance of former Hollillus against him. At all Events, we shall only distress ourselves, and abandon the Protection of our own Frontier, by engaging in his Defence: I am therefore against the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—I agree to the Motion. I cannot adopt the Opinion, that to allow the Marattas to conquer a Country so near to our Frontier, and extend their Possessions quite up to it, will be attended with any of those Advantages which have been supposed as the probable Result of our not opposing their Progress. The Intelligence that has been laid before the Board, rather determined me to engage our Government in the Support of the Rana of Goad, than to leave the Country an easy Conquest to the only Enemy from whom we have any Reason to apprehend any Mischief.

Agreed to the Governor General's Motion; and ordered, That a Copy of the Treaty with the Rana of Goad be immediately transmitted to the Commander in Chief, with the following Letter:

To Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. Commander in Chief, &c.

Sir, Maha Rajah Luckinder Behadur, the Rana of Goad, having deputed confidential Ministers with Powers to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Alliance with this Government and his, of which we inclose a Copy for your Information, the Original will be formally figned and sealed by us on one Part, and by the Ministers of the Rana on the other Part; but we think it necessary that it should be likewise executed by the Rana in Person, and have therefore deputed Captain Palmer to see it performed, and to exchange the Ratifications with him. In the mean Time, should the Rana make any Application to you for a Detachment of the Company's Forces to act against the Marattas, we request that you will comply with his Requisitions, proportioning the Number of Troops to the Exigency of the Service on which they are fent.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, Nº 244.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 23d December 1779.

RECEIVED the following Letter from the Commander in Chief:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Captain Popham has just informed me, that his Party is ready to move, except the Candahar Horse, which were not arrived. I spoke to the Nabob concerning them this Morning, who assures me they are ready to join him whenever they are demanded, and though he is a Lack and a Half of Rupees in Arrears to them, they make no Objection to marching, and receive the current Pay from us, provided they have Security that the Nabob will discharge this Debt in future; so that you will now, Gentlemen, please to give your final Orders respecting the Movement of this Detachment, which shall be followed by such military Instructions as I may find necessary to give. However, I wish some further Accounts may come from General Goddard, relative to his Situation before those Orders are put in Execution, for if all the slying Reports I hear be true, it may be necessary to move a great Part of the Troops here, in order to secure the Lunction we meditate as Captain Popular move a great Part of the Troops here, in order to secure the Junction we meditate, as Captain Popham seems sensible, that from Delay, occasioned by Lateness of the Season, the Design is too well known through the Country.

Indeed, if War is to be continued with the Marattas, other and more consequential Steps must be taken, than merely the supplying General Goddard's Army from hence; and I should hope the Gentlemen at Madras have taken into Consideration before this Time, the Letter we addressed to them upon that Subject.

I inclose the Copy of a Return I have received from Brigadier General Stibbert, as a convincing Proof that the Golandauze have no Objection to enter into other Corps, either as Sepoys or Lascars; and that you have consequently a Right to expect, they will enlist with equal Facility at Calcutta, unless Obstructions are thrown in the Way of my Orders.

Upon a careful Survey of Chunar Ghur, I find myself exceedingly disappointed in it as a Place of Strength; it is by no Means such, as in its present State it can only be defended by Musketry, and that to so little Purpose, that I will venture to say an Army, well conducted, would not be stopped Four-and-twenty Hours by it; but if its natural Advantages are properly attended to, it may, at a very moderate Expence be made a Post of great Consequence, where Magazines of all Kinds of Stores, so necessary for the supplying of all different Stations, or to answer any Exigencies in these distant Provinces, might be laid up in Security. Captain Gardiner has already laid a Plan before you, which I have inspected, and would recommend to the Board, as answering, with some fmall Alterations which I mentioned to him and he approved of, every Purpose desired.

The little Fort at Buxar will become entirely useless, unless it is kept in Repair, and as I think it a Post of great Advantage in many Respects, I should advise its being attended to immediately; the Estimate is made at Ten thousand Rupees, but the Sum of Five thousand would, I should imagine, answer the Purpose at present, and an Allowance of One hundred Rupees per Month be sufficient to keep it up afterwards. By what I have feen of Captain Eaton, who commands there, I think he might very properly be entrusted with the Management of this Business, as his Attention to it has already been such as to induce him to be at the Expence of several little Matters himself, rather than fee them un entirely to Ruin.

I have the Honour to be, &c. &c. Eyre Coote. (Signed)

Ordered, That the 6th Paragraph be referred to the Military Department, and the 7th Paragraph to the Board of Inspection.

Resolved, That the following Reply be written to the Commander in Chief:

To Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B. Commander in Chief.

We have been favoured with your Letter of the 11th Instant. We beg Leave to inclose, for your Information, Copy of a Letter, which we have just received from General Goddard, under Date the 28th of October; and that you may be apprized as early as possible of his further Proceedings, we have directed the Secretary to furnish you with Copies of all the Letters which we may receive from him, immediately on their Arrival. With respect to the Expediency of sending Captain Popham's Detachment to reinforce General Goddard's Army, as you will be the best Judge whether it can now reach him in time to render any effectual Service to the Cause in which he will be engaged, we request that you will order it, or not, as you shall see necessary.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 23d December 1779.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Esquires. Philip Francis, Edward Wheler, Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

READ the following Extract of a Letter from the President and Select Committee at

Gentlemen.

We Yesterday received Advices from Bussora, dated the 21st ultimo, enclosing Extract of 4 Letter from His Majesty's Ambassador at the Porte to the Consul at Aleppo, dated 24th of July, and Copy of a Paper given in by the Spanish Ambassador, on the 16th of June, to the Lord Viscount Weymouth; which amounting to a Declaration of War, we lose no Time in transmitting you this interesting Intelligence, and Copies of the said Paper and Letter.

By the same Channel we learn that Sir Charles Hardy, with a Fleet of Fifty Sail of the Line, was to oppose the combined Fleets of France and Spain, which had not then joined, and that the latter Fleet of Indiamen, consisting of Nine Sail of Ships, had sailed from Spithead the 11th June, convoyed to a certain Latitude by a Squadron bound for Newsoundland under Admiral Edwards.

The Packet from General Goddard, mentioned in his Letter of the 20th, will be forwarded in a few Days by the Fez Allum.

Bombay Castle, 31st October 1779.

We are, &c. &c. ed) William Hornby, (Signed) and Council.

Read a Letter from General Goddard, as follows:

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour of addressing you the 20th Instant, and informed you of the Steps I had taken in consequence of your Orders of the 13th September.

The Emissary Nehah Chund has however anticipated the Period limited for receiving a decifive Answer by a few Days, and this Morning brought me Letters from the Peishwa and Minister, the Purport of which are referring me to this Man for a Knowledge of their final Sentiments; he has accordingly in plain and direct Terms declared to me, in the Name of his Master, that he will not accede to the Propofals I had made him, or conclude Peace with the English, unless Ragonaut Row is delivered up to him, and Salsette restored to the Maratta Government.

I have in consequence of this Reply broke off the Negociation, as I cannot consistent with your Instructions, give my Consent to either of these Points; and purpose setting out for Bombay immediately to concert with the Honourable President and Select Committee the Plan of suture Operated tions, upon which, as it will be necessary to lose no Time in coming to a Determination, I hope from to be able to fend you the most full and particular Information.

At present I only beg Leave to observe, that as the Maratta Chiefs seem at this Time to be united in Council, and as I am well affured that the Sentiments of Sindia are the most hostile of any of them; to make the Overture to him as directed in your Letter of the 14th June, could not, I am convinced, at this Time be productive of any good Confequences; on the contrary it might be construed into a Consciousness of Inferiority, and would, it is to be feared, be received by him with Derision and Indisference. Under these Circumstances I shall descr it until I obtain your further Instructions, or until Circumstances in the course of our Operations may render it expedient and advantageous; for as the Connection of this Chief with the Minister is founded when Considerations of I. a. upon Considerations of Interest and Ambition only, a Door will be open for treating with him whenever he can be persuaded it is for his political Advantage to listen to us.

I have the Pleasure to acquaint you that Vessels have been dispatched some Time ago from Bombay Ordered, That a Copy of the above Letter from General Goddard be fent to the Commander in Chief, and that the Secretary do furnish him with Copies of all Letters which may be received from General Goddard immediately on their Arrival.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council in Bengal to the Court of Directors; dated 14th January 1780.

SOON after receiving a confirmed and particular Account of the late unfortunate Retreat of the Bombay Army before the Maratta Forces from Worgaum, which was transmitted to us with a Copy of the Letter written to you by the President and Select Committee on that Occasion, we heard of the safe Arrival of Colonel Goddard and his Detachment at Surat, whither this Event had induced him to proceed by direct and speedy Marches.

Although the President and Select Committee at Bombay had deputed Mr. Horsely, one of the covenanted Servants on that Establishment, to us, with their Proceedings, in order to explain any Matters of Doubt which might arise, or to satisfy our Enquiries on any Point of Reference which we might make to him respecting them, we did not think proper to enter into a Scrutiny of the Conduct of that Board, or the Committee appointed by them to manage the political Affairs of the Expedition; neither did we consent to pass any Opinion on the Charges preferred by the President against Colonel Egerton and Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, which were also referred to our Judgment; but rather chose to leave the grand Point to be decided by the Authority of your ultimate Sentence, on a full Review of the Transactions which had been reported to you, and to recommend a General Court Martial for the Trial of the Officers accused, over whom we could exercise no Jurisdiction, unless the Select Committee should think necessary to suspend them by virtue of their own Authority.

But we judged it necessary to enter into an immediate and serious Consideration of the Difficulties into which this unfortunate Failure had brought your Affairs at Bombay, and to concert some effectual and decided Plan to retrieve them. In this View we resolved to grant full Powers to Colonel Goddard to treat with the Maratta State for the Restoration of Peace on that Side of India, and drew up instructions for him in consequence; the Sum of which was, that he should offer them the Terms stipulated in the Treaty of Poona, provided they would agree to recede from all the Claims which they sounded upon the Convention of Worgaum, and engage never to admit a French Force into their Dominions, nor to allow that Nation to form any Settlements on the Maratta Coast; and the Conditions thus qualified were to be made the Alternative of Peace or War: But Colonel Goddard was allowed a discretionary Power to relax so far in his Demands upon the Maratta Government as to remit the Balance due from the Peishwa to the Company, on Account of the 12 Lacks settled by Treaty for the Expences of the former War, and to give up the Difference which had been insisted upon between the Estimates and real Value of the Country of Three Lacks, ceded to us by the faid Treaty, and contested by the Presidency of Bombay upon the literal Construction of it.

Upon the Arrival of Mr. Horsely, on the 2d of May, and after due Consideration of the Materials which he laid before us, we thought proper to amplify and extend the Instructions to Colonel rials which he laid before us, we thought proper to amplify and extend the Instructions to Colonel Goddard, allowing the former to remain as the Basis of his Conduct, and directing him, if the Conditions therein prescribed should be rejected by the Ministers, and a War become the Consequence, to adopt the Plan laid down by Mr. Hornby in his Minute of the 30th March 1779, for carrying Hostilities into the Guzerat Country, or not, as the Colonel should think proper; to declare the Regociation with Moodajee Boosla at an End, and not to be resumed without our Authority, if he should decline or hesitate to accept the prossered Alliance of the Company on the Terms suggested to him; and to treat separately with Madajee Scindia, if he should find that Chief disposed to espouse the Interests of the Company. The present critical State of Assairs at Bombay, induced us to commit these Points to the special Management of Colonel Goddard under our Authority, dius to commit these Points to the special Management of Colonel Goddard under our Authority, directing him however to apply to the Select Committee at Bombay on all Occasions, and to avail himself of their Advice and Information, previous to the Conclusion of any Treaty, separately entrusted trusted to him. All other Matters of Negociation, Treaty, or military Operation, we left entirely to the President and Select Committee: Yet as it is impossible to give a compleat Detail of Circumstances which have employed so great a Portion of our Time in the Compass of a general Letter, we beg Leave to refer you to our Proceedings at large, and to request your attentive Perusal of the sollowing Consultations; viz.

12th ditto 24th May 7th June 14th ditto.

With respect to the Convention signed at Worgaum by Messers. Carnac and Egerton, we thought it incumbent on us entirely to disavow that Obligation, as having been concluded without any Att, thority from this Government, which the Ministry of Poona well knew to be necessary to give Validity to every public Act; and because this was even declared at the Time in which it was subscribed, to want the Authority of the Government of Bombay ittelf, on which it was immediately to operate, and therefore not binding on the Representatives of the Company; but as some Consideration appears to be due, in Remembrance of the personal Amity manifested by Madajæe Scindia, in his Intercession for securing the safe Return of the Bombay Army after their Deseat, we proposed that the private Agreement made by the Committee with him at the same Time, should not be totally disregarded; and if his Conduct had not been such as to forfeit his Pretensions to our Consideration, we authorize Colonel Goddard to allow him such Gratification, in Compliance with that Agreement, as he might be willing to receive, and the Presidency of Bombay able to afford.

The deceitful Conduct of Madajee Scindia has fince shewn him undeserving of this Consideration, and was discovered before our Intentions could be imparted to him.

Ragonaut Row who has been furrendered a Prisoner to Madajee Scindia, was treated by him with every exterior Mark of Respect, and placed in Charge of one of his Officers, to be conducted to the Northern Part of the Maratta Dominions, where Scindia had promised to grant him a Jaghire of 12 Lacks of Rupees for his Support; but Ragoba discovering on the Road, that nothing was meant by this Appearance of Kindness, but a treacherous Pretext to carry him off, and to throw him into close Consinement, at a Distance from the Capital, excited an Opposition in the Followers who were allowed to attend him, by which, and by a Degree of personal Bravery, which if Credit may be given to the Reports of it, chiesly contributed to his Success, he overpowered the Troops of Scindia's Officer, and effected his Escape to Colonel Goddard, at Surat, who received him with Assurances of personal Protection.

We thought it advisable to authorize a Continuance of the Protection which had been granted to Ragoba; but having bounded our Views to the Restoration of Peace, by the Terms of our original Instructions to Colonel Goddard, we made no Alteration in them on account of this Event, although we gave our Sanction to the Attainment of some additional Advantages which Colonel Goddard intimated his Expectations of being able to secure from it, if the Ministers could be brought to enter into a Negociation with him; at the same Time, to prevent his being allured by this Hope, we directed, that they should not be suffered to interfere with, or impede the general Line of Conduct prescribed to him.

Colonel Goddard prevailed so far with the Ministers, as to induce them, after repeated Promises, to send a consideratial Agent to him, to receive the Overtures of Peace which he had to offer on our Part, and to treat with him upon them; but having protracted the Negociation a considerable Time longer than was necessary, and finding by the Conduct of the Agent, that he was only endeavouring to amuse Colonel Goddard, and to waste away the fair Scason in Promises and References to Poona, while the Chiefs at that Place were forming a League to oppose him if Circumstances should require it, we thought it not prudent to temporize any longer with them, and therefore ordered, that the Proposals offered to the Ministers should be immediately repeated, and a peremptory Demand made for a definitive Answer to them within Twenty-four Hours of their being presented;

the Refusal or Evasion of which should be deemed equivalent to a Declaration of War.

We had applied to the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay about this Time, to reinforce the Detachment under Colonel Goddard, with such Part of the Troops belonging to their Establishments, as the Commander in Chief thought could be spared for that Purpose, in consequence of Intelligence received by him of a French Force collecting at the Islands, which was supposed to be intended for a Descent upon the Malabar Coast; the President and Select Committee at Bombay have agreed to furnish their Quota of Men; and the President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George inform us, that in the present critical Situation of their Affairs with Hyder Ally, whose Disposition they apprehend to be hostile to the English, they cannot spare the whole Force required from them, but have ordered Colonel Braithwayte, with the Troops under his Command at Mahé, consisting of One Company of European Infantry, One Company of Artillery, Six Companies of Grenadier, and Eight Companies of Battalion Sepoys, to march on the Requisition of Colonel Goddard, for the Support of his Army.

In the mean Time we find that Colonel Goddard received our final Orders to him, on the Subject of his Negociations, and having made a peremptory Demand conformable thereto, he was answered by the Ministers, that they would not agree to treat with him for Peace on any other Terms than the Surrender of Ragoba's Person, and the Restitution of Salsette to the Maratta Government.

Colonel Goddard thought it necessary immediately to put an End to his Negociations, and to prepare for Hostilities; in consequence of which he proceeded to Bombay, to concert a Plan of Operations

rations with the Prefident and Select Committee there, and to receive Charge of the Forces which he expected to be furnished with from the Bombay Garrison, and from Mahé, by a Vessel which had been dispatched for them some Time before.

By private Advices communicated to the Governor General, we understand that Colonel Goddard left Surat on the 3d November, and was returned on the 10th December, with a Reinforcement of the Troops from Mahe, and that a Detachment from Bombay had also joined his Army at Surat.

With this united 50 ength, conducted by Colonel Goddard, in whose Skill and Experience we place the greatest Considence, we extert in the most fanguine Hopes of a successful Issue to the present Campaign; notwithstanding the lave Reason to behave that all the Parties in the Maratta Government at Poona are now united against us.

We had refored to recruit Colonel Gollard's Army, by a Reinforcement of 2000 Volunteers, to be drafted from the Sepoy Corps on this letablishment, and had given the Command of this Body. To Captain Pophain, who had terved to have Colonel Goddard in his late March, and was returned to this Place: but as the Scalen is to far advanced, and many Circumstances have occurred to prevent the Mitch of this Reimorecement hitterto from Cawnpore, the Place of its Rendezvous, and as we understand that Colonel Goddard's Detachment is already completed with Sepoys enlitted at Surar, we are in Doubt whether it will be necessary to find it, and have therefore left this Point to the Judgment and Option of the Commander in Chief.

In confequence of the Encomiums passed by the President and Select Committee at Bombay on the Conduct of Colonel Goddard, and prompted by the Experience we have had of his Merit and Abilities in every Part of his Expedition to Surat, we beg Leave to second an Application which they intended to make to you, soliciting his Appointment to the chief Command of the Company's Forces on that Establishment. In the mean Time we have thought proper to conser on him the Brevet Rank of Brigadier General, during the present Service; as well for the Purpose of securing him in the principal Command of the Troops which might be employed against the Marattas, as to increas his Consequence and Authority in that important Station, and to distinguish and reward his Merit by this Mark of our Attention.

The Prefidence and Select Committee at Bombay, in their Letter to us of the 4th April, express their Sente of Colonel Goddard's Conduct, and solicit from us some distinguished Mark of our and their beyour towards him. This we acknowledge was a great Incentive to our granting him the superior Rank which he now holds, being in our Opinion the only effectual Means we had of complying with their Request; and yet we could not grant it indefinitely, without injuring his senior Officers on this Establishment, who had done nothing to forfeit our Favour: We were therefore obliged to confine his Commission to the present Service, in which he was not likely to rank with any of those Officers under whom he will consequently take place on his Return to his Duty at Bengal.

We must observe that, notwithstanding the Application from the President and Sclect Committee at Bombay, and the Reasons which we have assigned for the consequent Promotion of Colonel Goddard, they appear to have considered themselves injured by this Measure, as they say they disallow our Right to grant such partial Rink; to any of our Officers; remonstrating against it as well as against the separate Powers which we thought it necessary to delegate on the late Occasion to General Goddard, to negociate with the Government at Poona, as clashing with the Privileges which you have allowed exclusively to them; yet we must do them the Justice to say, that for the Benefit of the Public Service, they have agreed to acquiesce in the Rank assigned to General Goddard, and to support the Measures which he may adopt in the Execution of his Trust as our public Minister.

In a Letter which we have received from General Goddard, he informed us that he had granted an Allowance of 50,000 Rupzes per Month to Ragoba for the Support of himfelf and Followers, without giving a fufficient Explanation of the Principles and Motives which induced him, to enable us to judge of the Necessity for it; but while we found to much Difficulty in providing Means for the indiffeensable Charges of the Detachment, and that he himfelf experienced the same Difficulty in raising Money for his Diab's upon this Government, we could not but disapprove of such an Addition to his Expences; we therefore ordered the Allowance to be immediately discontinued, although we think that the Restraint which such a Gratuity for the Time laid upon a Number of licentious Persons, whose former Necessities impelled them to plunder the Subjects of the Maratta Government for their Support, might have sufficiently evinced our Disposition to Justice and Peace, it the Ministers had been inclined to agree to any reasonable Terms of Accommodation with us. To this we must add another Instance of Lenity shewn by General Goddard, and even acknowledged by the Ministers themselves, when on the Complaint of some of the Amidars in the Guzerat Provence, he assorbed them Redress against the Violences offered to them by Ragoba's Men.

A Reference was made to us by the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay concerning the additional Rank granted by them to Captain Hartley in confequence of Petitions from fome of the Officers who conceived themselves aggrieved by this Supercession of them; but we declined any Sort of Interference in this Matter, both because the Case complained against was not cognizable by our Authority, and because direct Appeals had been made to you on the Subject.

Authority, and because direct Appeals had been made to you on the Subject.

and detained until the President and Select Committee of Bombay had consulted us respecting the Disposal of his Person. As we did not approve of any Acts of Violence which could neither be reconciled to Justice or immediate Necessity, we defired them to release this Man; but to forbid his appearing within the Company's Territories; which they accordingly did.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haftings Governor General, President, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, Esquires. Edward Wheler,

Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

THE following Minutes having passed in Circulation after the Draft of the General Letter had been fent round, they are now recorded.

Minute of the Governor General-Informs the Board, and defires that it may be notified in the General Letter to the Court of Directors, that he has Advices which he can depend upon, mentioning the Departure of General Goddard from Surat to Bombay on the 3d November last, and that he was neither returned, nor immediately expected at Surat on the 30th of last Month. Edw Wheler. Agreed.

Mr. Francis desires it may be mentioned, that he is informed by a private Letter of the first Authority from Fort Saint George, " that it is now certain that the Marattas and Hyder Ally have formed an Alliance."

Agreed. Edward Wheler.

Governor General-That a Peace may have taken place between Hyder Ally and the Marattas I do not doubt; my own Advices confirm it; but no Alliance between them can be of long Duration, as it is unnatural. I am convinced from the whole Tenor of Hyder Ally's Conduct and Disposition, that he will never molest us whilst we endeavour to preserve a good Understanding with him. These were lately Mr. Francis's Sentiments as well as mine; and his Distrust of the same Authority on the same Subject I recollect to have been yet stronger marked than my own (see Consultation 20th December). I therefore object to this Information being given to the Court of Directors in the General Letter, as only tending to alarm them without fufficient Cause for it.

Mr. Francis—The Intelligence I have stated to the Board is of a much later Date than that which the Governor General alludes to: It contains the positive Assertion of a Fact to which I cannot refuse giving Credit, considering the Authority I have for it. It does not say any Thing of Hyder Ally's Intentions to invade the Carnatic: That was the Point on which I entertained the Distrust alluded to by the Governor; but even that Distrust may be removed by new Facts and later Ad-

Governor General-I think it proper to inform the Board, that I learn by private Intelligence from Surat, that on the 30th of Zekoida, answering to the 10th of December, General Goddard was returned to that Place, and that he had brought with him the Madras Detachment from Mahé, faid by this Account to confift of 500 Europeans and 2,000 Sepoys.

Intelligence from Decan, dated 22d Jawal, 3d November; delivered for Translation 13th January..

Hemunt Pundit Pundham, Narrain Mudlo, Nanna Sahib, and Ballage Jenandan, are encamped with 4 or 5000 Horse without the Town of Poona, t Garnier, and ar employed in the Administration of the Assars of the Country. Hurry Pundit, who resides in his own House at Poona, has every Day a Conference with Nanna. Kishen Row Mullar is returned Home to Baraminty. Lalla Nihalchund, who had come hither after his Conferences with the Europeans of Surat, Nanna Sahib has sent back again to Colonel Goddard to Surat, and told him to affent to the Payment of no Sum of Money which the English should demand. If they will conform themselves to that Treaty which the Europeans of Bombay made at the Time of their Defeat, and by which they agree to relinquish Tasty and the other Mahals, it is well, Peace may be made; but if they will not, do you and Luchmen Row both come away.

Dewajee Pundit, the Dewan of Moodajee Boofla, is gone towards Naigpore, after having made this Engagement with Nanna, that in Six Weeks he would march towards Bengal with a large Army, and lay waste the whole Country; and at his Desire the Kella of Hossungabad, and the City of Hooney, dependant on the Nabob Fize ul-Dowla Bahadre, the Chief of Bopaul Zaal, have been granted to Moodajee Boofla, and they have given Dewajee Pundit a Kareta addressed to the Nabob Heyat Mahomet Cawn, the Talookdar of Bopaultal, directing him to deliver up the Fort and

City to Moodajee Boosla, which Dewajee will dispatch to the Nabob.

Madjee Scindia is at Kamgonge; he has got ready about Sixty Guns of different Sizes; and a large Supply of Powder and Ball and other Stores for the Tope Khana, have been fent to Madajee Scindia from the Sirkar of Heremunt. Sahib Tocojee Holkar remains thill at Babgoung. The News Writers in the Country of Cokem have written to Nanna that the English at Bombay have loaded Six Vessels with Military Stores which are lying at Anchor; it is supposed that they are going to the Fort of Bassire: Nanna Sahib has accordingly put a Reinforcement of about 2000 Horse and Gardy Foot, belonging to Hurry Pundit and Jenanden Pundit towards Cokem, to the Assistance of the Fort of Bassire, and the Remainder of the Gardy Infantry he is preparing to fend as soon as he shall have collected them.

It is now reported that the Ships which were affoat at Bombay have failed from thence to fome Quarter.

Hurry Pundit, with the Advice of Nanna, carried Herenunt Sahib to the House of Bysajee Koorse of the Benay Country. Bysajee Pundit presented Clothes, Jewels, &c. to Heremunt Sahib, who after that seating him behind him on his Elephant, carried him to his own House, honoured him with a Khellaat of Thanks, but Bysajee Pundit did not receive it; from hence it is conjectured that he will be reftored to his former Station.

By the Reports of People arrived from Surat it has been learnt, that Dada Sahib Ragonaut Row and the Europeans, with Five or Six Battalions and 2000 Horfe, are encamped without the Town of Surat; Ragonaut Row has got a Boil in his Ear which continually emits Pus. About 2000 Horse and Foot have been dispatched by Dada Sahib towards the Purgunnah of Dahy, and Two Battalions are arrived from Bombay to Colonel Goddard, who has received from Calcutta the Title of General instead of that of Colonel, and all the Stores are brought out of the Town of Surat; fuch is the present State. The News from Surat which comes in Maratta Letters by the Dauk, Nanna Sahib reads in private and keeps them in his own Possession; and if it is necessary to give Madajee Scindia any Information, he writes it with his own Hand. He has now fent Anket Row Running to learn the News of Surat, and has dispatched Kishen Row and the Son of Aumid Row Housily at the Head of 400 Horse and Foot, together with Hurry Sing, Row the Vackeel of Hyder Naig, and a confidential Person on the Part of Aumil Row, for the Purpose of making a Treaty on these Conditions, to the Fort of Heringapatam, where Hyder Naig resides, with Clothes, Jewels, &c. That he is to pay for the Expences of the present Year 20 Lacks of Rupees, and for all other Years 12 Lacks; and that the Country which has been taken from him will be reflored to him: That if the Europeans should come to their Quarter from Madras or Arcot, he must obstruct their March: That as War seems inevitable in their Quarter with the Europeans he must fend Troops to their Affistance; and that as foon as they shall have made a Peace with the Euroropeans they will march in conjunction with him towards Arcot and Madras, and take Possession of the Country: That whatever Part of Arcot, &c. should be taken would remain in his Possession. sion, and that he must therefore, in consideration of all this, restore whatever Part of Heremunt Sahib's Country he has before taken.—We must see what will take place. Guldar Khan, the Son of Ameert Khan deceated, is in the Kella of Ranny here with 3000 Horse and Foot. All the Environs of the Kellah are deserted, and all the small and large Pieces of Water are spoilt: There is a great Scarcity of Water, and the Army of Helmunt Sahib, amounting to about 10,000 Horse and Gardy Infantry, with their Stores, have marched from the Fort Three Cofs of this Side, to the Nullah of the Village of Chomprah. Once or Twice small Parties of them went towards the Fort, but several being killed and wounded, they returned. Deesum Mug the Talookdar of Bhengar in the Neighbourhood of the Kellah of Ahmudnagur, having collected 1 or 200 Men, was defirous of taking Mowajee Babba out of the Fort of Ahmudnagur. Mowajee Babba tent tecretly a Letter to Deelum Mug, which the Guards getting Information of, seized and sent to Nanna Sahib, who accordingly took up and confined all the Muteseddies and People employed by Mowajee Babba, and has put Guards upon the Houses of Mowajee and all his Muteleddies, in which there is to the Amount of 20 Lacks of Money and Goods.

It is reported, that Disputes have arisen between Hyder Naig and the Nabob Mahomed Ally, the Soubahdar of Arcot. The Nabob Nizam Ally Khan is at Hydrabad; it is reported he is going to Aurungabad. An Answer is preparing to the Royal Shukka, which before arrived from his Majesty to Heremunt Sahib. Nanna Sahib has wrote about 60 Maratta Letters to the Chiefs of Mangry, who remain at Home from a Pique: They would not receive the Letters, and faid that they for Five Years were not deficient in their Duty, and had been put to great Expence without ever receiving any Thing from the Sirkar, and were not able to attend their Duty, from Want of the Necessaries of Life. On the 22d Jewal, Nanna Sahib Cawn invited Bysajee Goorse, and presented him with Clothes, Jewels, and every Thing belonging to his Jaghire and former State, from the Sirkar of Heremunt Sahib, and has raised him to his former Dignity.

Nanna has invited all the Sirdars of the Army, and determined with them upon declaring War with the Europeans. Gopaul Sumbajee and Siccaram Hurry are dead. Whatever I shall further learn I will inform you.

Extract of Bengal Secret Confultations, 17th January 1779.

R ESOLVED, That the following Letter be written to Brigadier General Goddard:

We have received your Letter of the 28th October, also your Duplicate Letter of the 10th ultimo; but as the Papers to which you refer us for Particulars were omitted, we remain flill uninformed of your Intentions with respect to Ragoba, or of the immediate Plan of Operations which you mean to purfue, further than what we are able to collect from the Letter itself.

With respect to the Pension which you have granted to Ragoba, and on which you define our Instructions, we must refer you to our Letter of the 29th November, for the Sense of our I and a contraction of the Sense o faction with that Allowance; and we think it proper now to add the strictest Injunctions, that, a do not in any Manner suffer him to become chargeable to the Company. The general Indispense a thewn towards him by the Maratta Chiefs, proves that he has little Influence in that Government and that he is not likely to bring any Partizans to our Affillance; we are determined therefore to fland forth as the Principals in the War, and to maintain the Character through the whole Courbes. it, as the Ministers, by rejecting the Terms of Accommodation which we proposed to them, have in effect made us so. For this Reason we think it necessary further to direct, that you do not suffer Ragoba to become of too much Importance in your present Operations, and to caution you against entering into any specific Engagements which may entitle him to a Participation in year Success; unless he is able, contrary to our present Expectations, to afford you such effectual and actual Support as shall justify his Admission to such Benefits.

We have received a Paper of Intelligence transmitted to us from the President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George, which we deem it a Justice due to you to afford you an Opportunity of answering; we therefore enclose a Copy of it; and as the breaking off the Negociation at Posta is attributed to an exorbitant Demand on your Part, beyond the Terms which we had authorized you to propose, we think it incumbent on us to call upon you for an Answer; assuring you at the same Time, that the Declaration contained in the Paper has made no Impression on our Minds, nor tended in any Degree to lessen that Considence which we have hitherto placed in your Fidelity, and which your Services, and our Knowledge of your Character, have merited from us.

The Season being too far advanced for Captain Popham's Detachment, which is still at Cawapue, to render you any effectual Service by marching to your Affiftance, we shall countermand our Order for that Purpose.

As it is very material for us to be regularly furnished with the Accounts of your Detachment, as well for the Purpose of fixing and providing your Supplies, as for Entry on our Books, we again defire that you will be punctual in forwarding them to us.

We cannot comply with the last Paragraph of your Letter, dated 28th October, as the Power which you folicit, to grant Brevet Rank, and to fill up the Vacancies which may happen in your Detachment, would not only be incompatible with our late military Regulations, but tend to create Confusion in the Army.

We are, &c.

Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard, dated 27th May 1780.

In Answer to the Paper of Madras Intelligence you have transmitted me, it is necessary to remark upon the little Dependance that can be placed upon Information originating from Sources so ill informed as the Person who transmitted it from Poona must be; and had not you been pleased to call up in me for an Answer to it, I should not myself consider it deserving of the smallest Attention: At the tame Time, Gentlemen, I must acknowledge with the warmest Sense of Gratitude, the consider self-test satisfaction of being persectly affured that the Paper you communicated to me has failed in making any Impression on your Minds. I beg Leave however, in the most serious and facred Manner, as an Officer and a Man of Honour, to declare to you, that I never made any Demands of Moncy from the Poona Durbar, either publicly or privately, directly or indirectly, beyond what I was required to do, either by the express Letter of your Instructions, or by an Attention to the Puticulars communicated to me by the Select Committee of Bombay, relative to the Aurora Merchant Ship on the Maratta Coast, very little exceeding One Lack of Rupees in Value, and which had been previously admitted as a fair and legal Charge upon the Revenues of the Jamboosier Purgunnah, and communicated to you by the Gentlemen of Bombay.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haftings, Governor General, Prefident, Warren Haitings,

Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis,
Edw Wheler,

heler,
Sir Eyre Coote on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

RECEIVED the following Letter from Sir Eyre Coote:

Gentlemen, Lucknow, January 6th 1780.

I am just honoured with your Letter of the 23d ultimo, inclosing to me a Copy of Brigadier General Goddard's Letter of the 28th of October, and giving me discretional Powers for ordering the March of Captain Popham's Detachment.

It appears to me, by General Goddard's Letter, (the Contents of which I own I feel myself disappointed in, as by his Correspondence with me I had been led to a very different Expectation) that a War with the Marattas is inevitable, unless you chuse to comply with the Terms upon which they offer you Prace.

In this Situation of Affairs, I cannot but express some Uneasiness that the Information you give me is not accompanied by your Resolutions in what Manner we are to proceed; whether you hold it best to accede to their Propositions for Peace, to commence an active and vigorous War, or to stand merely on the desensive against them.

The First or Second of these require the most speedy Determination, lest the Appearance of a French Force, which we have much Reason to expect, should heighten their Demands in the one Case, or add Strength to the Union already formed among themselves in the other.

I hardly need observe to you, Gentlemen, that the Circumstances we are in, both at Home and here, require from us the most immediate, decided, and united Measures; and that in a Correspondence carried on at this Distance from the Presidency, it is absolutely necessary, if we would avoid Delays, which may prove satal to our Affairs, that I should receive your Opinions upon Events of Importance, as speedily as the Information itself.

For want of it, in the pretent critical Instance, I can do no more than endeavour to procure from the REP. VI. [Kk] Vizier, Vizier, and to collect together what little heavy Artillery is to be met with in these Quarters. Our Army here is wholly unprovided with them, as well as almost every other military Store.

Captain Popham's Detachment is ready to march. The Undertaking will now be a hazardous one. and cannot be effected without moving an Army across the Jumna, to cover and screen his Motions, by calling off the Powers and Attention of the Enemy; and it may at the same Time prove a Check to them in collecting the large Sums they are actually employed in raising among the tributary Princes there, the Amount of which I shall very soon obtain exact Information of.

This, together with a well-timed Co-operation on General Goddard's Part, to accelerate and sa.

cilitate their Junction, can alone give Hopes of their making good our Aim.

But neither this nor any thing else can be attempted until your definitive Resolutions are given as to Peace, a vigorous War, or a defensive one.

General Goddard's Request at the Close of his Letter I must pointedly object to, as the grant, ing it will undoubtedly increase that Confusion in the Army which I have been endeavouring to the utmost to relieve them from.

I inclose a Return of the Army under General Goddard, upon a Supposition that the Madras Detachment may have joined him.

Refolved, That the following Reply be written to the Commander in Chief.

To Sir Eyre Coote.

We have been favoured with your Letters, dated the 2d, 3d, and 6th Instant.

We receive with Pleasure the Information which you give us of the successful Issue of your Applications to the Vizier for the necessary Tuncaws on his Revenue to answer the Disbursements of the Troops for the ensuing Year.

When we transmitted you a Copy of General Goddard's Letter to us, under Date the 28th of October, we should also have imparted to you our Resolutions upon it had we formed any; but a precise Line of Conduct having already been had down for General Goddard in our Instructions to him, which provided for the Event of Hostilities, General Goddard having informed us, when he saw a War was unavoidable that he was going to Bombay to concert the Means of carrying it on to Advan. tage; and as the Plan of his Operations, whatever it might be, must be governed in a great Measure by local and incidental Circumstances which we could neither foresee nor have any timely Acquaintance with, we thought it unnecessary to take any further Steps upon the Occasion of his Letter.

We have now received a further Letter from General Goddard, dated the 10th December, informing us of his Return to Surat after having fettled the Plan of his future Operations, for the Particulars of which he refers us to Papers omitted to be enclosed in this Letter which is a Duplicate: Our Secretary informs us that he has torwarded a Copy of it to you; and in order to complete your Information we now transmit you a Draft of our intended Reply.

We are of Opinion that the Season is too far advanced to admit of a Junction between Captain Popham's Detachment and the Forces commanded by General Goddard, and that the March of this Detachment to the other Side of India is therefore no longer advisable; but we think that it may be useful on the Western Frontier of the Vizier's Dominions, either to repel an Invasion from the Marattas, if they should attempt to enter at that Quarter, or to proceed against them on the Western Side of the Jumna if it should be found expedient to send a Force for that Purpose, we therefore recommend its continuing still embodied.

We are, &c.

The Sasety of Captain Popham's Detachment, which we learn is to march from the Bengal Provinces by the Way of Agra, ought likewise to be a very powerful Argument against urging Matters too fast, as in case of an immediate Rupture, we apprehend there would be very great Danger of its being cut off before a Junction could be effected; at any Rate it must take up a very confiderable Length of Time before the Troops from Madras and Mahe, and Captain . Popham's Detachment, can be collected, and put in a Condition to act offensively, which, with the State of our Finances, an Uncertainty respecting the Flect, and the strong Body of Forces on board, which would add fuch Vigour to our Operations, make us clearly and decifively of Opinion, that it is not our Interest, and likewise very impolitic, to precipitate Matters at this Juncture; and it is therefore Resolved, That this our Opinion, and our Reasons for it, be immediately stated to General Goddard; and that it be strongly recommended to him, if the ministerial Party will not accede to his Terms, to endeavour to procrastinate, and gain Time, till we are in a better Condition to prosecute an active War.

Gentlemen,

Adjourned.

I think it necessary to give you this early Information, that in consequence of Instructions received from the Honourable the Governor General and Supreme Council, to put the Intentions of the Ministers to an immediate Test, and obtain a decisive Knowledge of their Sentiments upon the Subject of the Proposals already made them, I, Rep. VI. [L1] think think it necessary to declare to Luximon Row, their Vackeel, the Suspicions I cannot but entertain of the hostile Designs and Inclinations of his Master, from the Delay mat has unnecessarily arose in receiving an Answer to my Proposals, first transmitted in Writing, and afterwards fully communicated by Lolla Nehal Chund in Person, who had promised faithfully to return himself, or forward the Minister's Reply in Twenty Days at furthest; that twice that Period had now clapsed; and although he (Luximon Row) had repeatedly amused me with Accounts of Nehal Chund having received his Dismittion, it appeared from his own Acknowledgments he had not yet set out, and would not in all Probability leave Poona till after the Dufforah: That, notwithstanding these Circumstances of Suspicion, the English were still ready to shew their sincere Inclination for Peace, and grant every Indulgence they possibly could consistent with a Regard to their own Honour and Safety, and that therefore I would wait Fifteen Days more in which Time he faid a Letter might arrive in Reply to one he would dispatch that Instant; at the Expiration of which, if Nehal Chund did not arrive, or a fatisfactory Answer to the Proposals I had transmitted by him, I should consider this Delay as a Declaration of War, and act accordingly. This passed the 18th Instant, and of course the limited Period expires the 3d of November. I gave Luximon Row at the same Time Letters to the Peishwa and Minister to the above Effect.

A Letter to the Honourable Governor and Supreme Council, with a small Parcel containing Part of the Survey of my Route to this Place, accompanies this Dispatch. which I take the Liberty of recommending to your particular Care to give Orders for its being fafely forwarded to them.

Camp near Surat, 20th October 1779. I have the Honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

Signed the following Letters to General Goddard, and the Chiefs of Surat and Broach.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

We have received your Letter of the 20th Instant. We are concerned to observe that Matters appear so ripe for a Rupture when we are so little in a Condition to contribute any Affistance either of Men or Money towards carrying on a War. In the present Situation of Affairs it is undoubtedly good Policy to endeavour to gain Time, and to protract the Crisis which the late Order from Bengal must immediately produce if literally complied with. It should be considered that our Treasury is very low, and that we have no Resources of any Kind for procuring an adequate Supply, nor have the Governor General and Council given us the smallest Assurances of any Supply from them. By an Account from Tellicherry we learn that the Fleet under Sir Edward Hughes was spoke with by a Danish Ship on the 19th of May, no further advanced than the Latitude of Seven Degrees North, fo that we can have no reasonable Expectation of their Arrival in India before the Month of January; and in the mean Time, Prudence requires that we should have Regard to our own Safety against any Attempts of the French, and must make us very cautious of diminishing our own Force by any Reinforcement to your Army. Any Addition of Force from Madras can likewise by no Means be depended on, as we understand the Gentlemen there have fent an Army into the Field under Colonel Harper, and it is very doubtful whether they will chuse to spare us a Man until the Arrival of the Fleet. Colonel Braithwaite has also acquainted the President, that he has not yet received Orders from his Superiors to join you, without which he may perhaps not mean to do it. The Safety of Captain Popham's Detachment must likewise be put to extreme Hazard by an immediate Rupture; at any Rate it must take up a very considerable Time before the different Bodies of Troops which are to compose the Army can be collected and put in a Condition to act offensively, which, with the State of our Finances, and the distant Expectation of the Fleet with a Body of Troops that would diffuse Strength to all our Settlements in India, all together form a Collection of Circumstances that make us clearly and decifively of Opinion it is our Bufiness to procrattinate and not to precipitate Matters at this Juncture, and we therefore think it our indispensable Duty strongly to recommend to you, if the Ministers will not accede to the offered Terms, not to make any immediate Declaration, but, according to their own Policy, to endeavour to gain Time till we are in a better Condition for an active War.

It will also be very proper before we come to a Rupture, if such should be found inevitable, to form Connections with some of the Country Powers, particularly with the Guicawars, as well for the better Profecution of the War as for the Security of our Northern Possessions; and we also apprehend it will be found very necessary,

In the mean Time we shall give Orders for establishing Magazines of Stores and Bombay Castle, 20th October 1779. We are, Sir, Your most obedient humble Servants, William Hornby, &c. Committee.

To Rawson Hart Boddam, Esquire, Chief, &c. &c. at Surat.

From the Probability of a War with the Marattas, and the Unfavourableness of the present Season, we deem it highly necessary that timely Provision should be made to secure proper Supplies of Grain and Provisions for the Army in the Field; we therefore now direct, and have fent the like Orders to the Chief of Broach, that after consulting General Goddard with respect to the present State of his Magazines, you mutually so concert Matters as to lay in between both Settlements a Stock of Grain and Provisions sufficient for an Army of 6000 Men for Six Months. We desire you will likewise fuggest to the Nabob the Propriety on the above Conditions, of his using timely Precautions to prevent the City from suffering any Want of Grain.

Gentlemen,

We now enclose a Duplicate of our last Letter, dated the 7th Instant, and have since received your Favours of the 16th August and 14th September.

General Goddard has also received your Instructions corresponding with the lastmentioned, and has advised us of his Proceedings in consequence; which if the Poona Government is not pacifically inclined, must bring on a Crisis much sooner than we are prepared to meet it. We have explained ourselves fully on this Head to General Goddard, and strongly recommended to him not to precipitate Matters, but to endeavour to gain Time, and defer any Declaration until we are in a better Condition for an active War; the good Policy of which we are perfuaded you will be convinced of, when you have attentively confidered the Circumstances we have stated to General Goddard in our Answer to his Letter, of both which Copies are enclosed, and to which we beg Leave

In our last Letter we mentioned the State of our Finances, which was too minutely explained in the President's Minute of the 30th March; and although we flatter ourselves you have already taken Measures for supplying us, we have not received any Affurances to this Effect; and Prudence requires we should be at an abso ute Certainty on this important Point, before we engage in Measures that will require the most ample Resources: At least we have done our Duty in giving the real State of the Case to General Goddard, with whom at last the Determination will rest; affuring you at the

We yesterday received Advices from Busson, dated 21st ultimo, enclosing Extract of a Letter from His Majesty's Ambassador at the Porte to the Conful at Aleppo, die in the Conful the 24th of July; and Copy of a Paper given in by the Spanish Ambashador on the 16th of June to the Lord Viscount Weymouth; which amounting to a Declaration of War, we lose no Time in trasmitting you this interesting Intelligence, and Copies of the faid Paper and Letter.

By the same Channel we learn that Sir Charles Hardy, with a Fleet of 50 Sail of the Line, was to oppose the combined Fleets of France and Spain, which had not then joined; and that the latter Fleet of Indiamen, confifting of Nine Ships, had filled from Spithead the 11th of June, convoyed to a certain Latitude by a Squadron bound for Newfoundland, under Admiral Edwards.

To the Honourable Sir Thomas Rumbold, Baronet, President, &c. Select Committee at Fort Saint George.

Gentlemen.

The Governor General and Council have acquainted us of their Refolution to form a respectable Army on this Coast, and of the Quota of Troops to be furnished from your Presidency, of which you have been duly advised by them; and we wait your 1d. vices on the Subject. But as we understand the Forces at Myhie are intended as a Park of the Proportion to be contributed by your Presidency, and as Matters with the Marattas appear to converge sast to a Rupture, we have, on General Godden Representation of the Necessity of having his Army put into a Condition for inflat and active Service, sent down a sufficient Number of Transports to bring up the Forces, Ordnance, and Stores from Myhie, and hope Colonel Braithwaite will have been furnished in Time with proper Orders from you for complying with our Requisitions.

The Fortifications of Bombay having lately been confiderably augmented with feveral new Works, we were much in want of Cannon for them; and observing by a Return fent us by Colonel Braithwaite, the confiderable Quantity of Ordnance taken at Male, we judged it a very good Opportunity for supplying our Wants, and ordered them to be transported to Bombay on the Company's Vessels, which will also save the very heavy Expence of freighting them round to Madras, and we hope be fatisfactory to you.

We Yesterday received Advices from Bussora, dated 21st ultimo, inclosing Extract of a Letter from His Majesty's Ambassador at the Porte to the Consul at Aleppo, dated 24th of July; and Copy of a Paper delivered by the Spanish Ambassador on the 16th of June to the Lord Viscount Weymouth, which amounting to a Declaration of War, we lose no Time in transmitting you this interesting Intelligence, and Copies of the faid Letter and Paper.

The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, John Carnac, and Daniel Draper, Esquires.

General Goddard having arrived last Night from Surat, now meets the Committee, and acquaints them of the Declaration he sent to the Poona Ministry, in consequence of the last Order from Bengal, as already advised in his Letter of the 20th ultimo; but before he could receive the Durbar's Answer thereto, Neal Chund, whom he had formerly dispatched to Poona, with his Terms, returned from thence on the 27th ultimo, with Letters from the Peshwa and the Minister, the Purport of which was, simply to acknow-informs us of the State of the ledge Receipt of the Proposal written and sent by Neal Chund, and referring to him for an Answer as being fully informed of their Sentiments, which he was to communicate.

The Meafures necest iy to be burlued confidered.

General Goddard also acquaints us, that being at some Distance from Surat when he received this Answer, he did not give the Vackeel his Dismission till the next Day, but acquainting him he was going upon an Excursion into the Country, promised to send his Reply to Surat, which he accordingly did, and immediately took Shipping for Bombay, to confult with us upon the Measures to be pursued.

General Goddard then lays before us a Return of the Army at Surat, which appears to be very complete and healthy; and he affures us it is in an excellent Condition for immediate Service, and well supplied with Provisions for the present.

He also acquaints us, that he dispatched immediate Advice of the Situation of Affairs to the Governor General and Council.

Although by this State of the Cafe it appears, that a War with the Marattas is incortable; yet for the Reasons assigned in our last Consultation, we are still of Opinion it is necessary to endeavour to gain Time, and protract any Declaration or Acts of Hottility until Matters are more advanced, unless they actually commence Hostilities against. us. The Letter in confequence to General Goddard, of the 29th, which he has not yet received, is now read to him, together with the Account of the Rupture with Spain, and our Recommendation to observe temporizing Measures for the present, is alrongly repeated to him.

To prevent as far as possible any Disappointment in the Junction of the Troops from Myhie, it is refolved immediately to fend a politive Requilition to Colonel Braithwane to embark the Troops on the Vessels fent down to receive them, or he must be responsible for the Confequences. A Letter to this Effect is now figured and dispatched from the Council Table.

General Goddard acquaints us, that he found Madjee Scindia fo averse to any Accommodation, and fo much inclined to hostile Measures, that he did not think proper to commit the Honour of the Company, by making any Overtures to him.

The Measures to be pursued being considered, we are of Opinion that the First Sup should be to endeavour to open a Negociation with the Guicawars, on the Grounds mentioned in the President's Minute of the 30th of March, and with the Restrictions contained in the Letter from the Governor General and Council of the 14th of June. Futty Sing made Proposals to us on those Grounds in the Year 1772, which it was not then convenient for us to accept, but we hope we shall now find him inclined to renew the Negociation, upon Assurances of being supported against the Poona Government.

Refolved. That we meet again To-morrow Morning, to proceed on the more mature Confideration of this important Buliness. Adjourned.

mithwaite, Colonel, Letter to.

To Colonel John Braithwaite.

Sir, Matters are now come to that Extremity, that a War with the Marattas is really inevitable; and it is absolutely necessary that the Army under General Goddard should be put into the most respectable Situation to enable us to carry it on with Vigour and Advantage, and to prevent the Possibility of the Company's Arms being exposed to any Dishonour, or their Settlements to the Incursions and Depredations of so numerous and Enemy. We therefore find ourselves under a Necessity to prevent as far as we can a Disappointment in the Junction of the Forces from Mahe, to inform you that the Company's Service absolutely requires their Assistance at Surat; and to send you this politive Requilition, immediately to embark them on board the Transports sent down to receive them, in order that they may proceed to Surat without the smallest Loss of Time, to join the Army under General Goddard; and if you do not think proper to comply with the Requisition, you must be responsible for the Consequences.

Bombay Castle, 2d November 1779.

We are, Sir, Your most obedient Servants. William Hornby, & c. Committee.

At a Select Committee, PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, John Carnac, Esquire, Daniel Draper, Esquire, General Goddard present.

Met to resume the Subject of Yesterday's Consultations.

General Goddard lays before us a Letter as entered hereafter, on the present State of Affairs wirh the Marattas, which is attentively read and confidered.

Refolved, That the Artillery Detachment with General Goddard be immediately Artillery Detachment under completed to a full Company by Two Gallivats under Orders for proceeding to Polyted to a full Company. Surat.

As we may certainly expect to hear from the Coast in a very few Days, whether Colonel Braithwaite means to join General Goddard's Army, it is refolved to defer any further Confideration till that Time, as the only Question now seems to be, whether immediately to commence hostile Measures, or to pursue a temporizing Conduct Braithwaite.

Confideration of the Measures to be pursued deferred till Advices arrive from Colonel Braithwaite. till Matters are more advanced; and our Determination on this Question, as well as the Quota of Troops to be furnished by us, will in a great Measure be guided by our Advices from Colonel Braithwaite.

Edw Ravenscroft, Sec7.

Gentlemen,

The Minister of the Maratta Nation having refused to listen to the moderate and Goddard, General, Letter from equitable Terms of Accommodation proposed to him by me on the Part of the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council, except upon Conditions dishonourable and destructive to the Interests of the Company, and thereby disappointed and rendered ineffectual their pacific Intentions, and my Endeavours to promote the Success of the Commission with which they had been pleased to honour me, I think it necessary to lose no Time in communicating this important Circumstance to you, in order that proper and effectual Measures may be concerted for carrying on the War into which we are thus necessarily and involuntarily compelled. You are already fully informed of the Nature of the Proposals I was instructed to make, and the immediate Alternative of Peace or War that was to be the Confequence of their being refused or accepted: I shall therefore only mention to you in a few Words, the Answer I have received to them, which is perfectly pointed and concile, and from the complete Disgrace with which a Submission on our Part to the Conditions it prescribes (especially as I had previously explained to the Minister the Impracticability of acceding to them) would overwhelm us, carries a convincing Proof that his Inclinations are altogether hostile; and even justifies the Apprehension, that were we to give our present Consent to them, such Acquiescence would only subject us to more infolent and dishonourable Demands. The Terms which he instructed Neal Chund, he Emissay I before informed you had been dispatched to Poona, to slipulate as the only Conditions on which Peace would be concluded betwixt the English and Maratta Nations, were, "to relinquish Sassette, and deliver Ragonath Row into our Hands." It is unnecessary to make any Remarks upon these Proposals, neither of which could admit of a Moment's Thought or Deliberation. I therefore acquainted the Vackeel that I was not authorized to recede from my first Demands; that I sincerely regretted thy Efforts to settle all past Differences had proved ineffectual; but that I must, according to the Instructions I had received from my Government, break off the present Acgociation.

You see, Gentlemen, by the above Relation, that this Business is now brought to a Crisis; the Measure of War was necessarily involved in the Minister's Refusal, and in proposing to him the Alternative, the Choice he would make must of course become our own. The Question therefore now, is not, Whether we should conclude a Peace, or there into a War with the Maratta State? but we are to determine in what Manner, and by what Means, this War into which we are thus involuntarily compelled, can be Carried on with the greatest Advantage to ourselves, and most effectually to distress the Enemy. To depart from the Terms at first positively and solemuly proposed, or to extempt to del. y and temporize at this Juncture, would, I am persuaded, be a Measure equally as inglorious: They would conftrue every Advance into Timidity, or a consciousness of Weakness; and instead of being lulled by it into Security or Forbearance.

would become more prefumptuous and speedy in their Operations.

The Necessity of the War being thus established, it is perhaps superstuous to point out such Considerations as might be judged sufficient to deter us from entering into it, was it a Matter where our own free Choice was left to decide; but I will briefly mention one Objection, and that indeed the only one that appears to me to prefer tany Difficulty or to deserve our present Attention, which is the Apprehension that we shall not be able to furnish the necessary Supplies of Money for defraying the Expences of a War. This is a Circumstance deserving of our most particular Care and Deliberation. The heavy Losses which the Company have already sustained in the unsuccessful Attempts to support Ragonath Row, ought it is certain to make us careful of involving them in new Troubles and new Expences; but here I must repeat that the present War is not a Matter of Choice but of Necessity. The Government of Bengal have been sincere and urgent in their Desires and Proposals for a Peace, which I have zealously exerted myself to promote; but the Maratta Minister, deaf to every reason. able Term of Accommodation, aims at the Annihilation of all our Power and Sove. reignty on this Side of India, and compels us to take up Arms, not only in Defence of our Rights and of Justice, but to secure our very Existence as an independant Na. tion on this Coast, and it may be added in its ultimate Consequences throughout India.

This Lesson which we are taught by the Incumbrances entailed upon us by past Failures, feems also to instruct us, that we should not neglect the first Opportunity that presents itself of relieving ourselves from them; and this I am of Opinion the Marattas have of their own Accord offered, I may say forced upon us. The trifling and rattas have of their own Accord offered, I may fay forced upon us. The trifling and unequal Force the French at prefent have in India, and the certain Accounts we have from Europe to make us believe they cannot now be reinforced, secure us from any Apprehensions of being interrupted in our Operations by them this Season, and feems indeed to furnish One very principal Reason why we ought to lose no Time in strengthening and firmly establishing ourselves during the Course of it. The Troops which will foon be collected at Surat, must be superior to any Service that can possibly be required of them, and equal to the most complete and absolute Success. the Bengal Army, together with the Detachment under Colonel Braithwaite at Mahe, and such Proportion of Troops from this Settlement, as you may judge it expedient and confistent with the mere Safety of the Island to detach, will be found able to execute any Plan of Operations that may be immediately resolved upon, and against the whole Force of the Maratta Empire. These, it is to be hoped, may reach Surat before the latter End of November; and as I have taken every proper Precaution, and given the necessary Instructions for supplying a Magazine of all Sorts of Provisions, there will be nothing to prevent the Army from taking the Field at the Expiration of that Month. The only material Difficulty therefore which seems to occur, is the Article of Money before mentioned; and this I am led to believe is not without Remedy. You must know, that except Four Lacks of Rupees which I received from your Treasury at Surat, I have subsisted the Troops under my Command, by Money received from the Merchants at Surat; and in my own Camp, for Bills drawn upon the Government of Bengal. This, it is true, has been obtained upon Terms not the most moderate, and it is probable may become still higher hereafter; but the Loss sustained thereby is surely a trisling Consideration, when put in Competition with the important Interests of the Company now at stake; and I do not doubt, should the Exigency of Assairs require it, being able to support my Troops from the same Source Three Months longer, especially as I can adopt the Expedient of paying a considerable Part of the Officers Allowance by Bills upon the Bengal Treasury.

I am not however without Hope of the Arrival of a large Sum of Money in Specie very foon; as the Governor General and Supreme Council informed me, in a Letter dated the 2d of August, they intended to send round 15 Lacks; and there is no Doubt, when they understand we have been compelled to enter into Hostilities, and a Reprefentation made them of the necessitous State of Assairs, they will exert every Means to affift us in the Profecution of a War, the Success of which will so amply indenmify

These, with the Money you can at present spare from your own Treasury, and the Loans which may be made from Individuals who at present enjoy the Protection of your Government, are the obvious Resources that may conveniently and justly be used till the Operations of a War, in pursuance of the Plan that may be adopted for securing a Country and Revenue, shall have opened a surer and more extensive Field of Supply; and to accomplish this most effectually and as early as possible, seems, as Astairs are now situated, to be the grand and primary Object.

N D I X. Nº 253. A. E

Having thus made some general Observations upon the present Posture of Affairs, which I hope will appear to you just and proper, I shall venture to lay before you such Proposals as appear to me most suitable and consistent to be pursued; premising only, that as my Views on this Occasion will be directed to what I conceive to be the true Interests of the Company, and the Object of the Bengal Government, as contained in the Instructions they have given me for my Government, I shall most cheerfully and zealously concur with, and affist in executing, any Plan you may ultimately determine upon, provided it comes within the Limits prescribed in their Letter to your Committee and to myself of the 14th of June.

I have before me Four Letters from the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council under the following Dates, April 5th, June 14th, July 8th, and August 2d. The First only conveys their original Instructions for concluding a Peace, and does not at present demand our Consideration; the Second contains provisional Instructions in the Event of a Failure in my Negociations, which, circumstanced as Asfairs now are, require our serious and deliberate Attention.

They have been pleased in it, should the Minister by rejecting their Proposals render a War indispensably necessary, to leave me a Latitude of Action, under the Instructions of your Government, to avail myself of the Situation which Fortune may present, and have further authorized me to adopt any Part or the Whole of Mr. Hornby's Plan, laid down in his Minute of the 30th March, as I may think most advisable for promoting the Distress of the Enemy.

The Responsibility with which they have charged me on this Occasion, is Motive of singular Satisfaction; because convinced within my own Breast of the Knowledge and Experience of the Honourable the President, which dictated the Plan he proposed, I have from the first Instant of its being communicated to me, considered it as the most wite and essecual Measure that could be adopted, without remarking on it more particularly, the advantageous Situation of Guzerat to the Company's Settlements on this Side of India; the Facility with which it might be conquered and retained; the Resources of Men and Money we should derive from its Possession, and from which the Enemy would by these Means be cut off, are sufficient Arguments to establish its Wisdom and Propriety. It is not however enough to express any simple Assent to it at this Time; Circumstances have so varied fince its first Formation, that I doubt not the Honourable President will himself find many Points that could not be foreleen at that Period now meriting his attentive Confideration.

In the First Place, let it be observed, that Mr. Hornby's Proposals were made in a Situation widely different from the present one; a few Months only remained of the dry Season, and the approaching Monsoon, when it might be supposed all Military Operations must be at a Stand, would effectually prevent the Maratta Government from giving any vigorous Opposition to our Meafures, and leave us full Leisure to establish ourselves in the Possession of the Guzerat without Interruption. The Case is now entirely altered in this respect, and should we extend our Arms into that Province, we may be assured of having the Whole, or a very considerable Part of the Maratta Force to cope with. My Motive in making this Observation at present, is merely to point out the Necessity there now appears, should it be judged expedient to make Guzerat the Scene of Action, of employing all the Troops which can possibly be spared on that Service, and leaving to some stuture Opportunity the Reduction of Bassein, which, though a certain, might prove at present a tedious Conquest, and must, in the Event of more important Success, become an easy Acquisition hereafter.

The most material Change, however, which has occurred, and which calls for our principal Consideration, is the Escape of Ragonath Row from the Ministerial Party, and his having again demanded and received the Protection of the English. I shall begin my Remarks on this Subject with communicating to the Committee such Parts of the Instructions I have received from the Government of Bengal relating to this Circumstance, as may lead to discover the Measures which would be most acceptable to them on this Occasion.

Their first Letter, dated 8th July, in Reply to mine, informing them of my having complied with his Solicitation to take the Asylum of my Camp, has been already explained to you: In it they approved entirely of the Offer I had made him; and directed me to continue to afford him Protection as long as he should continue to demand it; provided he did not forfeit his Right to it by any Act of Infidelity, or attempt to defeat the Negociation, to which they enjoined me to give ny entire. Attention, without Regard to any other Consideration.

In the last Letter of so late a Date as the 2d of August, they express the same fixed Determination and Wish for Peace; and in Answer to some Concessions I had suggested as likely to be obtained from the favourable Opportunity afforded us by the Possession of Ragoba, they write as "We do not disapprove of your Endeavours to obtain the additional Concessions proposed in your Letter of the 12th June; nor do our Instructions of the 5th of April, though restricted to certain Points, preclude you from availing yourself of any Occasion which might be presented to you to exact other Conditions, by which the Interest or the Influence of the Company might be certainly promoted; provided they do not impede or retard the Accomplishment of your original Commission. In this Sense, and with these Provisions, we repeat that we shall approve of the Addition of the Demands recommended in your Letter of the 12th June to those which we have already prescribed in our original Instructions, if you shall not have concluded a Treaty with the Maratta Government before the Receipt of this Letter."

À P P E N D I X, Nº 253. A.

It is now necessary to observe to you what these Concessions were which I was in this limited Degree authorized to obtain: They were the Cession of Bassein as agreed to be given to the Company in the Treaty with Ragonath Row, and the Payment of a Sum of Money to defray the Expence of our Armies. I have been however precluded from every Opportunity of endead puring to succeed in these Demands, by the present Resulal of the Minister to accede to the Proposals originally transmitted him; and as these were intended in the Event of my Negociation for Peace proving effectual, since that has failed, another Field for political Advantage may perhaps present itself.

I beg to observe, that the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council in their Instructions to me, have made no Provision, or drawn any Line respecting Ragoba, they wished to be followed, should a War become necessary. There is however no Doubt but any Plan now fixed on which may tend to distress the Enemy and promote the Interest of the Company, will meet with their Approbation and Support; and with this Conviction, and with this Object in View, I shall venture to hazard the following Conjectures and Opinion, both with regard to the general Measures to be pursued, and the particular Attention that ought to be paid to Ragonath Row's Pretensions.

The Honourable the Secret Committee of the Court of Directors have in their Letter, dated 3: a August 1778, of which you enclosed a Copy for my Perusal, signified in the strongest Terms their Predilection in favour of the Cause of Ragoba, and their Pleasure that it should be effectually supported by their Servants in India; the Principles upon which they adopted these Sentiments are in the highest Degree just and political; as by placing the Administration of Poona in the Hands of Ragoba, a Person indebted to us for his Elevation, and depending upon our Affistance in a great Measure for being preserved in his Authority, we should be sure of a Party in that Durbar friendly to the Interest of the English; and besides particular Advantages to which we should be at present intitled, our Possession on this Side of India would attain an undisturbed Consequence and Stability in suture; added to this, the Countenance and Protection continually afforded by this Government to Ragonath Row, surnishes another Argument from its Propriety and Consistency, why the same Measures should if possible be now adopted. It remains therefore to be considered, whether the Means that offer themselves for accomplishing this End are such as to give us reasonable Hopes of Success.

The grand Point in which we ought to be well informed, is the Degree of Consideration Ragoba's Cause is held in by the Chiefs of the Maratta State, and the real Grounds he has to expect being joined or abetted by them, should we again declare in his Favour. The Experience of the late Campaign, if it does not establish an absolute Proof, evinces beyond a Doubt that they are by no Means sanguinely attached to his Interest; and from my own Observation since the Arrival of the Bengal Army at Surat, and even since his Escape to, and Reception with it, when it might be supposed those who secretly wished well to his Affairs might have been encouraged to hint their favourable Inclinations, I am led to believe no Change has been since wrought in their Sentiments.

But what ought to carry the greatest Weight is, the candid Declaration made by Ragoba himself, who acknowledges that he has no Hopes of being joined by any of the Maratta Leaders till they shall see his Affairs in such a Train through our Means, as to be affured of Success without them. This is in Fact promising Expectations of a most vague and indeterminate Nature, and amounts to little more than that, when we shall effectually overcome every Difficulty, Necessity will compet them to acquiesce. Respecting Holear, whose Inclination he affirms to be secretly favourable, his Disposition is naturally so timid, and he is so much under the Direction and Instuence of Scindia, that no Dependance is to be placed on him. In short, the general State of Parties seems to be this, that however much they may dispute and differ among themselves, they would be found to unite in Opposition to any Attempts of Ragoba to recover a Share in the Administration of Affairs.

From this general View, it would appear that in our Endeavours to reinstate him, we must trust entirely to our own Force for effecting it. It is probable a Number of needy Adventurers would flock to our Standard, and Mercenaries might be collected from all Quarters and with the Assistance of these, or indeed without it, we might be assured of Victory; but it is easy to see what little Progress must be made in establishing Ragoba sirmly in the Government under such Circumstances, without a Chief of any Name or Consequence in the State to give Weight to the Consederacy.

I am far from meaning by these Remarks to exclude Ragoba's Interests from a Share in our political System, but I cannot help being of Opinion it will be more for our Advantage at present to look forward to the Restoration of Ragoba at some suture Period when Circumstances may render it more savourable, than by immediately setting out with that Project risque another Failure, which could not but be productive of the most ruinous Consequences to the Company's Affairs.

The Plan therefore I would propose to be pursued respecting Ragoba, is to hold out to him the Hopes of firmly establishing him in the Government of the Maratta State, as our grand and ultimate Object; that in the mean Time it is necessary for us to secure to ourselves some firm and solid Establishment of territorial Possession on the Continent, from which we may derive Resources for the more important Services to be effected hereafter, when it shall be found that Matters are ripe for their Execution. The immediate Advantages we must derive from pursuing a System of this Nature are obvious: A Reimbursement of the Expences we have already incurred, and a Fund for future Exigencies will be at once provided; and from not having our Hands tied down by any positive

A P P E N D I X; Nº 253. A.

Engagement with Ragoba, we shall be at Liberty to adopt such Measures hereafter as Circumstances may render wise and expedient; either to make an honourable and advantageous Peace with the Minister, and upon Conditions savourable to Ragoba; or should it be found that our Successes have encouraged the Partizans of the latter to declare themselves, and win over any of the Maratta Leaders to his Party, which it is by no Means improbable may be the Case, to affert at once his Claim to the Sovereignty, and establish him in it.

The principal Difficulty which feems to prefent itself, is to reconcile the System I have proposed to Ragoba. He has been long accustomed to consider himself as the Principal in all the Wars entered into by the English with the Maratta Nation; and there is no Doubt would expect to be put in Possession of whatever Countries we might conquer from them. Many Arguments however might be used with him, among which the following, in Addition to those above-mentioned, could not, I should imagine, fail to have considerable Weight: The heavy Debts he has contracted to the Company, by which they have embarrassed their own Assairs in Endeavours to serve him, that have hitherto proved ineffectual, render it necessary for their own Sasety, and to support the War they are now about to be involved in entirely upon his Account, to possess themselves of a Resource of Revenue not only to relieve them from the Weight of former Expence, but to surnish a Supply for future Exigencies. On this just Pretext we may urge the absolute Necessity of retaining in our Hande the Collections of the Districts acquired by our Arms till the Conclusion of the War; the more so, as the Marattas have made themselves the Aggressor, by refusing the moderate and reasonable Terms we offered them, and will of course consider us as Principals on the Occasion. A sufficient and ample Allowance may at the same Time be made to Ragoba, for the Support of himself and Family; and he may be permitted to invite such Chiefs as are well inclined towards him, and collect his several Adherents and Followers dispersed through the Country; a Work which must necessarily require a Delay on his Part of a few Months.

From all these Considerations I am clearly of Opinion, that no new positive Engagement should be at present entered into with Ragonath Row; that the Cause assigned for our Hospities with the Maratta Minister, should be the Encouragement they have given and still give to the French, with whom we are at Variance, and their rejecting the Friendship we had proffered them upon Conditions equally honourable and advantageous to both Nations, which have compelled us involuntarily into a War; that our Inclinations are perfectly friendly to the Maratta State, and that our Intentions are to remove from the Administration those who by their evil Counsels and Conduct have promoted its Ruin, and affist in establishing it upon a solid, firm, and regular Basis.

The Line to be pursued respecting Ragoba, and the Principles of our Difference with the Maratta State being once determined, the Point next to be considered is the particular Plan of Operations proper to be immediately entered upon; and here I beg to repeat my entire Approbation of and Assent to that contained in the Honourable President's Minute of the 30th March, as far as it relates to the active Employment of our Forces to the Northward. With this View I would propose, that Authority should be given me to conclude a Treaty with Futty Sing Guicawar, in the Name of your Government, upon the Principles and with a due Regard to the Reservation contained in the Instructions of the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council of the 14th of June.

The immediate Object of our Operations in the Guzerat ought to be the possessing ourselves of the Share of that Province now subject to the Peishwa, and which Damulgie, the Ancestor of the present Brodera Prince, was compelled formerly to relinquish. This Point might easily be reconciled to Futty Sing; and it would be even proper to make its Attainment subservient to his Interest, which would be the Case if we relieved him entirely from all Dependance on or Fear of the Poona Government, and admitted him to a Participation of the Spoils we might take from them in the Guzerat. The most eligible Mode of making the Partition of the Province betwixt the English and Futty Sing, so as to connect our Possessions and place them in the most secure and defensible State, might be hereafter adjusted.

Should Futty Sing heartily concur in this Measure, the Task of Politics as well as War will then become very easy; and should he, which from his Situation and Character I do not however think at all probable, refuse to enter into any Engagements with us, the Army ought to march towards Brodera, and compel him to take a decisive Part immediately; for it appears absolutely necessary, that he prove himself on this Occasion a firm and active Ally, or experience from us the Severity of Punishment due to a determined Foe.

The Nawab of Cambait, and several neighbouring Rajas, as mentioned in the Honourable President's Minutes, will be of course assisting according to their Abilities, and be considered accordingly; the former as the natural and inveterate Enemy of the Maratta State, will heartly exert his slender Means to promote the common Cause; I call them slender, from the reduced and ruinous Condition into which his Country is at present fallen: I do not however doubt they might be made of Use, from the Institute he must possess in that Part of Guzerat, were we to countenance and support him, and deliver him from the Inroads and Ravages of the Free-booters, who over-run and destroy his Territory; but of this, suture Circumstances must be the Rule to judge by and direct. Should it, Gentlemen, be objected, that in the above Proposals I have laid down no fixed and determinate Object as the ultimate Point to which our Endeavours should be directed, I acknowledge the Remark to be just; and it is upon these very Principles I have grounded the Expediency of such System, because our Hands will be left free from all embarrassing Ties, and we shall be at full Liberty hereasses.

APPENDIX, Nº253.A.

hereafter to resolve and act as Occasion may suggest. In the mean Time the Advantage immediately resulting is obvious and certain; and while we are essentially serving our own Interests, we shall proportionably distress and injure the Enemy: One Argument in favour of the political Plan I have laid down, seems also to arise from the Attention which ought to be paid to the original Views of the Government of Bengal at the Court of Berar. Though in the present suspended State of my Negociation with Moodajee Bouncello, it can only be esteemed a secondary Consideration; yet should no other positive Engagement obtain a decided Preference at present, some future Period may render the Renewal of it expedient and political. I well know the intimate and close Connection of the Naigpore Prince with the ministerial Party; and I am also aware of the Abhorrence and Enmity he is actuated with against the Cause of Ragoba. I cannot believe he would chuse to risk a Rupture with the English, by openly assisting Nana, nor would we perhaps have much to fear from the Efforts of his Power if he did; but of this I am persuaded, that by a direct Declaration in favour of Ragoba, we at once destroy all Hopes in suture of Moodajee, and render him irreconcileably inimical to our Interests; whilst there is every Reason to believe, if we enter into a War upon the Principles I have advised, he will not only continue to act an entire neutral Part, but in the Event of our Success, be once more solicitous to treat, and enter into an Alliance with us.

of our Success, be once more solicitous to treat, and enter into an Alliance with us.

Another Argument which suggests itself in favour of my Proposal, and which indeed might be urged with great Propriety to Ragonath Row, as One Cause of our not chusing to march impermately to place him in the Administration of Poona, is the Prospect we have of being called pron to defend our own Settlements against an Invasion of the French. This Prospect, we have Reason to be lieve, is very distant and indeed scarcely to be apprehended at all; but as it is however a possible Case, we cannot too much guard against a Circumstance which might, by claiming our Attention, interfere with any Operations in which we might be employed, and occasion a Failure in our positive Engagements with Ragoba, should any such exist.

A Third, and which is the last Reason I shall now mention, may be drawn from a Consideration of the State of Parties within the Maratta State. An Account of the Rise and Establishment of the Peshwa Authority under the Race of Bramins; the System of their Government, and its present Distraction; a Description of the several Officers of State, and of the principal Dissumion now existing in it, from the jarring Interests of the Principal of them and the Bramin Leaders, are Subjects that have so often come under your attentive Deliberation, as to render it entirely superfluous for me to make any Remarks upon them at present; I shall therefore, supposing these Circumstances to be established Facts, of which no further Proof is necessary, proceed to delineate as precisely as possible, what I conceive the present Sentiments of the Parties, and trace from Considerations of their respective Interests, the Manner in which they may be differently affected by our present Resolves.

I have not the smallest Doubt, indeed I have it from very good Authority, that the principal Dissipation Dispitation hould the Labour of a Peace be improved by the Minister, to the firm Establishment of his own Independance; or should Circumstances so turn out, as to give a dangerous Superiority over Scindia, the latter might perhaps find it his Interest to court our Friendship and Assistance; but of this the War assords no Prospect; and it appears to me at present a more probable Expectation, that the Minister should wish to unite himself with us to crush Scindia, than that the latter should chuse to connect himself with so powerful, and of course in his Estimation, dangerous an Ally as the English, while he is able effectually to maintain himself without their Assistance. From these seemarks it is plain, that the Minister and Scindia, however much united in the same common Cause, have mutual Sources of Discontent, which may break forth on some future Occasion; and it will then prove a fortunate Policy, if we are not prevented by pre-existing Engagements, from chusing to side with that Party, whose Connection will be productive of the most essential and important Benefits.

I begin in this Place to observe, that as the Orders from the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council did not reach me till after the Dispatch of the Proposals to Poona, and when a might expect every Day to receive an Answer, I did not think it expedient to make known to him their favourable Sentiments till its Arrival; and from the Observations above mentioned, and the Knowledge I have of his Disposition, I do not think it consistent with Policy, or the Dignity of the English Name, to make any Overtures to him at present, as I am persuaded they would be received received with Indifference and Contempt. I shall therefore be guided in my Conduct towards him, by Circumstances, which Fortune may hereafter present in the Course of our Operations.

It remains now, that I say something respecting the Foreign States who may be most affected by, or affect our Operations. Moodajee has been already mentioned. The only Two besides of considerable Consequence enough to descrive Attention, are Nizam Ally and Hyder Ally. Both these Princes have availed themselves of the Opportunities presented by our Disputes with the Marattas, and the disturbed State of their Government, to dismember from those Parts of the Peshwa's Dominions that lie nearest their own, considerable Towns and Provinces, the Revenues of which they now collect themselves: The former has succeeded by Negociation, and the latter by force of Arms; so that it may be supposed, the one from the Sacrifices peaceably yielded to him, has entered into Terms of the strictest Alliance with the Minister; and the other, it is well known, is now actually at War with him, although Reports have been industriously spread by the latter and his Creatures, that the Terms of a Peace have been mutually settled betwixt them.

The Situation of Hyder therefore appears entirely favourable to our Views; for it is not to be doubted, however much he may avoid forming any particular Connections with us, but he will immediately listen to the Dictates of Enmity and his own Interest, and embrace the Opportunity given him, by our engaging the Attention of the Maratta Government in this Quarter, of profecuting his Schames against them to the Southward. I am not sufficiently informed of the Sentiments of this Prince, to judge how far it would be practicable for us to form any Engagements with him on this Occasion for our mutual Interests and the Distress of the common Encury; but could it be effected, I am of Opinion it would be attended with striking Advantages. You, Gentlemen, whose Affairs have frequently called upon you to negociate with him, and who, from your immediate Connection and Interference of Interest with each other, must have derived many Opportunities of informing yourselves minutely of his Sentiments, will be best able to decide on this Point.

Respecting Nizam Ally, I have only further to remark, that notwithstanding the little Reason there is to suppose he will chuse to unite himself with us, I also believe he will not take an active Part against us, or join his Troops with the ministerial Forces, but observe the same wise, prudent, and temporizing Conduct he has done on former Occasions, and avoid becoming an Accessary to the War to either Party.

I have thus, Gentlemen, ventured to give you my Ideas of the State of Affairs, and to fuggest the Line of the political Conduct which appears to me most expedient for the Honour and Interest of the Company, and best suited to improve present Circumstances to suture Advantage. I have not entered into a Discussion of the particular Plan of Operations to be pursued, any further than expressing my Opinion, that it ought to be immediately confined to the Guzerat, as it is so clearly explained and provided from the Honourable President's Minute of the 30th of March. There is one obvious Advantage which presents itself from thus drawing the Attention of the Marattas to this distant Quarter; an Opportunity may hereaster be found with a Part of the Force left at Bombay, when all Possibility of the Arrival of the French is removed, of seizing and maintaining the Pass of Condola, and by that Means preserving a Communication betwixt Bombay and the Entrance into the Decan, which, from its Vicinity to Poona, will fill the Mind of the Minister with the most alarming Fears; and from the Ease with which an Army can at any convenient Time fall upon the Capital, be attended with most considerable Benefit in the Course of the War.

I have only to add, that as I have thus freely expressed my own Sentiments, it would give me singular Satisfaction if they meet with your Concurrence and Approbation; at the same Time permit me to repeat the Declaration I have made in the former Part of this Address, that whatever Plan may be ultimately formed, upon Principles esteemed more useful and beneficial, I shall heartily and zealously concur in promoting it, according to the Instructions given me by the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council for my Rule and Guidance.

Bombay, 3d November 1779. I have the Honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient Servant, Thomas Goddard,

At a Select Committee; PRESENT,

Wedne

The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, John Carnac, Esquire, Daniel Draper, Esquire.

The President lays before us the following Minute, containing his Sentiments of the Conduct proper to be observed by the Committee at this Juncture:

President, his Minute.

The President having reslected with the most serious Attention on the present critical Posture of Affairs with the Marattas, and our present Circumstances, together with the very limited Powers now held by the Select Committee, thinks it necessary to offer to their Consideration such Remarks as in his Opinion are pertinent, and proper for forming the Conduct to be purfued at this Juncture.

REP. VI. [Oo] [00]

In the first Place, he would wish to have it clearly recorded on the Proceedings, and defires a Vote may be accordingly passed, that the War now impending, without entering into the Necessity or good Policy of it, is not a Measure of the Select Committee of Bombay, but the Issue of a Negociation carried on under the distinct and separate Orders and Instructions of the Governor General and Council, through an Agent of their own Appointment, and is not to be prevented or avoided by any Efforts the Select Committee can make; all Powers relative to Negociation, Peace, or War, having been removed from and taken out of their Hands. The War therefore, whether approved or condemned, is not to be imputed to this Committee; neither will they be in any Manner respons. ble for the Success of it; the Governor General and Council having expressly acquainted the Schot Committee, that Brigadier General Goddard is responsible to them for his Conduct.

After thus disclaiming all Responsibility, both as to the Measure of War and the Succeis of it our undoubted Duty to the Company, and a just and honourable Conduct with respect to the Gentle. men of the Supreme Council, call upon us to contribute our Affillance most zealously and contribute dially to bring it to as speedy and advantageous a Conclusion, both with the Forces of this Pichderer and with fuch Advice and Recommendation to Brigadier General Goddard, as our Experience and Knowledge may at any Time suggest. According to the Relation we now stand in to Brigad r General Goddard, whatever we have to offer to him can only amount to Advice or Recommo dation; and the President imagines the Select Committee will admit the Propriety of action. formably to that Relation, more especially as it will be strictly consistent with and dischaning all Responsibility. It must too be considered, we are not warranted by the Governor of neval and Council to give him express Orders for his Conduct; since, according to the respective Powers now held by the Select Committee and Brigadier General Goddard, any Orders we might give are to further binding than according to his own Construction of them; and it would be therefore ineffectual and needlessly hazarding the Dignity of this Government, to assume any such Power.

The Steps now immediately necessary to be pursued, appear to be to determine the Quota of Troops we can afford to reinforce Brigadier General Goddard's Army, and to transport them to Surat without Delay.

In fettling this Point, the Prefident recommends, that our Garrison should not be so much weakened as to encourage the Enemy to infult us in our Home Possessions, or even to place them above the Feat of offensive Measures from hence; the Apprehension of which may be easily encouraged and kept up, and will favour the Operations of the Army to the Northward.

To furnish Brigadier General Goddard with the necessary Powers for treating with the Guicawais, and effecting a Settlement of the Guzerat Province, according to my Plan laid before the Select Committee, dated 30th March last, and the Instructions from the Governor General and Council of the 14th June; it should be recommended in the strongest Terms to use his utmost Endeavours to effect this in an amicable Manner, which Futty Sing's Character, and his true Interest, give Hopes may be accomplished without Recourse to hostile Measures.

The Prefident would be happy if it was in the Power of the Committee to contribute equal Affiftance of Money as of Forces: He is concerned to observe, that so far as our Expectations carry us, we shall scarcely receive sufficient for the unavoidable Monthly Expences; the usual annual Supply from Bengal we have not received any Assurances of; but the Prelident must believe the Governor General and Council will make a Point of furnishing Money adequate to carrying into effectual Execution, Measures resolved with their Concurrence, and warranted by their Authority; more particularly too, from Conviction of our Inability to contribute any Affishance whatever in this Respect.

The Prefident thinks it not improper, here to urge the Advice and Recommendation conveyed from the Scleet Committee to Brigadier General Goddard the 29th ultimo, to defer as long as poffible commencing Hostilities, and this among other Confiderations, as bearing a particular Relation to the Security of the Reinforcement under Captain Popham. Brigadier General Goddard, on conferring on this Point, delivered a very different Opinion, and expects by immediate Action to facilitate the Junction of Captain Popham. The Prefident however remains in his former Sentiments, and proposes to continue to recommend to Brigadier General Goddard to delay the Commencement of Operations to long as the Conduct of the Marattas admit or countenance this Measure. The Importance of the Security of the Detachment under Captain Popham is great indeed; and its Junction of fuch Moment, as to promife absolute Success in the Operations proposed, which might be doubted, at least as to Extent and immediate Benefit, should a Junction not in due Time be accomplished.

The Object of Safety to the March of Captain Popham is alone sufficiently important to recommend the Observance of Measures productive of that desirable End; but there is still another very powerful Confideration claiming the like Measure of Delay, and that is the Harvest in the Guzerat Province, which will be better fecured the longer Hostilities are avoided. Duly attending to the present great Scarcity of Grain, together with our pecuniary Wants, and the Port of Mangalore being shut against the Exportation of Rice, it must be allowed to be a momentous Object, and highly meriting the most deliberate Consideration of Brigadier General Goddard, together with the small Prospect there is of receiving the Troops that are under the Command of Colonel Braithwaite at Mahé, exclusive of those ordered to be sent from Madras by the Governor General and Council. It is probable that General Goddard may be able to face any Force the Marattas may bring against him in the Field with the Force he has, and what we shall furnish him with from hence; but that is not all that is to be looked for, it is the Protection of such Counties as he may take Pol-session of, which I apprehend his Army will be unequal to, as it will consist of little more than Half what the Governor General and Council intended it should, for want of the Arrival of the abovementioned Troops.

General Goddard now coming in, the President's Minute was again read, and also the Letters received fince our last Meeting from Tellicherry and Colonel Braithwaite.

Mr. Draper concurs in the Prefident's Minute; except that he thinks it would be more conformable to the Recommendation he proposes should be given General Goddard for deferring and delaying the bringing Matters to a Crifis, that no further Force should be immediately sent off the Islands with the General, but only that the Number of Troops should be settled and kept in Readiness here, to be sent up whenever he may acquaint us it is absolutely necessary; as Mr. Draper concludes, that the sending any Forces from hence will be immediately known at Poona, and construed into an actual Preparation for commencing Hostilities: That such a Conduct would, in his Opinion, be likewise more conformable to the Advices transmitted to the Governor General and Council under the 31st ultimo, and were drawn up exactly agreeable to our Minites of the 29th, and which he now again approves and confirms, as being a true State of Affairs at the Time. He likewise is of Opinion, that what ought still further most strongly to weigh with us for deferring bringing Matters to a Crisis for some Time longer, is the great Probability, from the Advices now before us, of the Company's being involved in a War with Hyder Ally as well as the Marattas, which Mr. Draper conceives the Governor General and Council had no Idea of when they gave their last Orders to General Goddard for demanding the Alternative of War or Peace.

Mr Carnac is of Opinion, that the State of Assairs is totally altered since our Resolution of the 29th ultimo, as we were then only under the Apprehension of a War, whereas we are now to esteem ourselves as absolutely engaged in one with the Maratta State, from the Answer given to General Goddard by their Vackeel, who in confequence received his Difmission. Mr. Carnac therefore thinks it our indispensable Duty to do every Thing in our Power to procure to General Goddard as respectable a Force as our Circumstances will admit of, to meet the Enemy, and to profecute the War with Vigour, should they enter our Territories, which it is probable they will in a few Weeks: That we have already experienced the bad Effects of dilatory and pro-crastinating Measures, to which, in Mr. Carnac's Opinion, the unfortunate Issue of the late Expedition to Poona is principally to be attributed. Mr. Carnac is perfectly senfible that we are very ill in Condition to meet a War, but that we have no Option, and are forced into it; and that he has no Idea, but the Gentlemen who have thus forced us into it, will take Care that we are furnished with proper Means to carry it on. Mr. Carnac, though he allows we are deficient in Resources, does not think we are wholly destitute of Means at least for a present Supply. That the Nabob and some of the Government Officers at Surat must be possessed of large Sums of Money; and that they ought to be plainly told, that as they enjoy the Protection and Countenance of the Company, it is their Duty to affift them in Time of Necessity. Mr. Carnac therefore proposes, that the Chief should endeavour to prevail on them to advance fuch Sums as they may be able, at the Company's Interest and on their Security, which are Terms that cannot in Reason be considered as any Hardship, or attended with any Risk to the Lender.

The Resolution of disclaiming all Responsibility both as to the Measure of the War disclaiming all Responsibility is the present War, and its Confe itself, and the Success of it, unanimously passed by the Committee.

The Quota of Force to be fent with General Goddard being next confidered, the State of our Garrison is examined; when all Circumstances being attended to, we are of Opinion, that exclusive of the Artillery already fent, we cannot with Prudence spare a larger Number than 200 European Infantry, and a Force in Sepoys, equal to I wo Battalions, which must be ordered to be held in immediate Readincis.

Powers and Instructions for General Goddard, agreeable to the President's Plan of authorizing him to treat with 30th of March, and the Letter from Bengal of the 14th of June, must also be pre-Pared: And Instructions to the Chief of Surat, respecting borrowing Money from the Nabob and Government Officers.

Some Information collected from the Gunner of the Warren, respecting the State of the French at Mauritius, is now laid before us by the President, as entered hereaster, and must be transmitted to the other Presidencies, and to Admiral Sir Edward Vernon.

At a Select Committee; PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, Daniel Draper, Esquire. John Carnac, Esquire, General Goddard present.

Carnac, John, Esquire, lays some Hint before us respecting the Guicawars.

Letter from General God-dard laid before the Committee.

Further Reasons for wishing General Goddard to defer Hosti-lities.

The Line of Conduct progoled by General Goddard fpecting Ragoba, approved.

No Time to be loft in open-ing a Treaty with Futty Sing.

Mr. Carnac lays before us, some Hints of the Plan of Conduct, in his Opinion proper to be observed with the Guicawars, with respect to the Province of Guzerat, as en. tered hereafter.

General Goddard likewise lays before us, a Letter, requesting the Line of Conduct to be observed, may be determined as entered hereafter.

The Confideration of this Subject being accordingly refumed, it is agreed that our Reasons for wishing General Goddard to defer Hostilities, must be stated to him when he proceeds to join the Army; and the President now reads to us an Extract of Letter from the Chief of Surat, dated the 13th instant, acquainting him, that the Crops will be gathered about a Month and an Half, or Two Months hence if the if Hostilities are commenced before that Time, it will occasion such Desastation and Destruction of the Country, as greatly to distress the Inhabitants of that City and adjacent Country. If, when these Points are stated to General Goddard, he should still judge it eligible, or find it necessary to enter upon immediate Action, the Determination must rest with him; as we by no Means intend to lay any Restraint upon him in this Point, but only according to the Principle we have laid down, to give him our Sentiments of the Conduct in our Opinion most expedient to be observed.

The Line of Conduct with respect to Ragoba, as laid down in the General's Letter of the 3d Instant, is approved; and we entirely concur with him, that it will be better for the present to avoid entering into any Engagements with him, or to appear as avowed Supporters of his Pretentions, hoping the General will be able to fatisfy Ragoba, and convince him of the Necessity of our acting upon the Plan we have adopted.

We do not however mean that any Time should be lost in opening the Negociation with Futty Sing, which the General must be defired to commence as foon as possible, upon the Plan mentioned in the President's Minute of the 30th of March. For this Purpose he must be furnished with proper Credentials and Copies of the Treaty entered into at Brodera with Futty Sing, and of the Proposals made by his Agent to Mr. Price, for an Alliance with the Company, in the Year 1772; 24 it must be very strongly recommended to him, to essect the Settlement of the Guzerat Province in an amicable Manner.

The Footing upon which to put our Forces in the Field being confidered, the Question is put to General Goddard, Whether he can take upon him to reduce the Bengal Troops to the Footing of the Bombay Troops, with respect to Field Mlowances? when he absolutely declared, That he cannot venture upon such a Step is at the Point of entering upon Service; and strongly recommends to us to put all Bombay Detachment upon the same Footing as his Troops, as so very striking. Disparity must occasion great Jealousies and Heart-burnings, which will be very detrimental to the Service: The Committee, upon Consideration thereof, are fully consideration thereof, are fully consideration. vinced of the Force of the General's Reasoning, and the Justice of making no Detinction in the Forces of the same Master, employed in conjunction upon the same Service; and it is therefore unanimously agreed, to allow Bengal Batta to the Borbbay Detachment ordered to join General Goddard's Army; but it must be clearly explained to the Army, that this Indulgence is not to be confidered as a Precedentand will not be allowed except when acting with the Bengal Troops.

Mr. George Green is appointed Commissary of Stores and Provisions to the Bombay Detachment, and Mr. William Lewis, Paymaster; and General Goldard being defirous of taking with him Meffirs. Francis Warden and James Watson Hull, the Committee consent thereto.

A Commission must be given to General Goddard for holding Courts Martial CL the Bombay Troops.

The Paymaster and Commissary must make their Drasts on General Goddard, son

the Expence of the Bombay Detachment,

It being judged necessary to send Major Hopkins into the Field with the European Infantry, and his Battalion of Sepoys being in consequence taken from him; it is resolved, to grant him the full Appointment of that Rank, and to give him. a Commission to take Rank from the 21st of July 1775, when he was first appointed to act as a Major.

Read the Letters from Tannah and Fort Victoria, when the President acquaints us, he will order the Prahm up Tannah River the ensuing Spring, and that intermediately ntediately upon Receipt of the Letter from Tannah, Two Companies of Sepoys had been fent to Gorabunder; a Gallivat must also be sent immediately to Fort Victoria.

As many Troops must be fent up by the Revenge as we can find Embarkation for, and General

Goddard will proceed himself with the last Division, which will be sent up as soon as possible.

Mr. Carnac's Minute.

As the Province of Guzerat is now likely to become foon the Scene of Action of the Forces under the Command of General Goddard, the most feasible Mode of its Reduction becomes a natural Confideration.

Our emering into Hostilities against the Guicawars would, it is to be feared, rouse the Jealousy of the great Jaghiredars, and be the Means of cementing a strong Bond of Union amongst them; and although we should succeed in the Conquest of the whole Province of Guzerat, which I have no Doubt would in Time be effected, yet the fecuring its Frontier only towards Mahé and the Decan, would subject us to the Necessity of having always there a considerable Detachment, not to mention the Force that is constantly required to make good the Collections in a Country where no Attention is paid to any Claims but those supported by the Sword. A Junction with Futty Sing, the present Leader of the Guicawar, seems therefore to be the most advisable Plan; and could this be brought about, we should have only to eject the Poona Garrisons from Amidavad, and a few other Places scattered thinly over the Country, little capable of Resistance. To Futty Sing might be ceded in Principality the Eastern Provinces, forming a Frontier towards the Decan and Malva, which would become a Barrier on that Side to the Part of Guzerat, which might be taken as the Company's Portion, and which would have for its other Boundaries, the Myhic to the South East, and the rugged Countries towards Merwar and Cutch, and the Sea, to the West.

As the whole Weight of the Decan Arms could not be refifted by Futty Sing alone, he would noceffarily have Occasion for the Assistance of a Part of our Forces, which while employed for his Security, would be effectually promoting our own, both as acting against the common Enemy, and being a powerful Check on his Conduct.

Could the gaining over of Futty Sing be accomplished, making him bona side an Ally, and enabling him at the same Time, without too much Subjection to ours, to shake off the Maratta Yoke, would, if not conciliate the principal Jaghiredars, at least render them less alert in the common Cause, and might have a considerable Effect upon Madjee Scindia; who, as he would then become our Neighbour, we should be better able to reduce his Power, and to keep him within due Bounds.

A fair Opportunity offers for an Opening with Futty Sing from the Difference which has lately arisen between Futty Sing and Nannah, regarding the Jaghire given by him to Sacaram Bapoo; and which, fince his Confinement, is claimed by the Poona Government.

The Baits we have to offer to induce Futty Sing to connect himself with us, are of so tempting a Nature, that if managed with Address, they can scarce fail of having Essect on him: The procuring for and guaranteeing to him an independent Principality; the Use of our Troops in his Support and Defence; the enabling him to rely as little as he may chuse on the Poona Durbar, in alienating him from which we gain an useful Assistant towards subverting that Power from which we have the most to fear; some Intimations to him respecting Govind Row's Claims, which unless he agrees to co-operate with us, we shall be necessitated to maintain, may operate upon his Fears.

It appears to Mr. Carnac, that the Nabob of Cambay may be usefully employed in conciliating to our Government the Powers on the Northern Side of the Myhie, the Cattawar, Cutch, &c. who groan under the Oppression of the Bramin Tyranny. As we have long experienced the favourable Disposition of the Nabob towards the English, it would be good Policy to afford him our Assistance fo as to enable him to fet up for himfelf, and wholly to shake off the Maratta Yoke.

16th November 1779.

John Carnac.

Gentlemen,

The ready. Attention which you have paid to every Application of mine for promoting the Good rel, Letter fro of the public Service, calls for my most sincere and hearty Acknowledgments; and I beg to express to you in the most particular Manner, the warm Sense I entertain of the spirited and decisive Conduct you have pursued, in the Reinforcement of Troops which you have at present afforded me. Permit me further to declare, that I cannot but consider this Compliance as the most happy Presage of future Fortune; and by continuing to receive the same sleady and resolute Support from your [Pp] REP. VI.

ENDIX, N° 253.

Government, I affure myself that my Endeavours to execute whatever Plan may now be resolved upon will be crowned with Success.

In my Address to you of the 3d Instant, I gave my Sentiments at large of the present Situation of Affairs, and Measures I thought most expedient to be followed; I now beg Leave to add a few Words: There appears to be no Doubt at present remaining of the absolute Necessity of the War itself; the Point now to be determined is, In what Manner this War is to be carried on: Whether we should act offensively or defensively? Whether we should move to distress the Enemy and post. fess ourselves of Resources immediately, or wait inactive to be insulted and attacked by them in our

Were there any Hopes of an Accommodation with the Maratta Minister, from the Knowledge I have of the sincere Desire of the Bengal Government for Peace, and the Advantages that might at. tend it, I should be the last to precipitate Matters, or recommend a Commencement of Hosti. lities on our Part; but it is now too late to negociate, and even this Object of Peace can only

The fair and reasonable Proposals made to the Minister; the Alternative of Peace or W_{ar} openly and generously left to his Option, and his imperiously preferring the latter by rejecting the Terms that were offered him, and presuming to impose disgraceful ones upon us, amplifulify our Conduct, in being the First to unsheath the Sword; I should have said, remier it a Duty we owe to the Honour of our insulted Country and the Interests of the Company, to shew our Resembert of such Behaviour, by avenging upon the earliest Occasion. Every Circumstance also of political Concern unites in Commendation of our entering upon immediate Action, We shall, by possessing ourselves of a Tract of Country, open the Sources of present Wealth, and provide for future Supplies, and by these Means prosecute the War with anticipated Advantages, while our Enemies will be intimidated; and those whose Inclinations are wavering or secretly disposed to our Interests, will derive Courage from the early Success and Vigour of our Measures.

A most material Advantage that stylkes me from this Mode of Conduct, is regarding the intended Connection with Futty Sing; for if we attack him while under the Impression of his present Fears, it would not be difficult to bring him over to our Views, either by Negociation or Force; or should even the former not succeed, it will be an easier Task to accomplish by the latter at this

To all these Arguments, as a further Motive of Encouragement to enter upon vigorous and active Measures without Delay, I am happy it is in my Power to acquaint you, that Ten Lacks of Rupees are coming round from Bengal, for the Expences of the Army, Five Lacks in Specie, and Five in Bills: These I have Reason to believe from the Nature of my Information, (which though not from the Supreme Board collectively, is wrote me by Sir Eyre Coote) must have left Bengal long before this Time; and it is not to be doubted, when the certain Accounts of War are communicated to them, they will take the necessary Steps for affording every effectual Aid towards the Respecting Colonel Braithwaite I cannot help being of Opinion, but when your Letters which accompanied the Vessels sent to transport his Detachment arrive, and he reslects upon the Importance of the public Service that now calls for his Affistance, he will not hesitate a single Moment in forwarding it to Surat as expeditiously as possible, and I expect being joined by that Force some Time in the Month of November; should be not arrive so early, it need not I think be any Impediment to entering upon Action as foon as the Troops of this Presidency join, because I am convinced the Army under me will then be sufficiently strong for the Service to be performed, and I shall always have it in my Power to favour and effect his Junction with the main Body. I cannot help also being of Opinion that our Operations will tend to facilitate the Progress of the Reinforcement coming from Bengal, under the Conduct of Captain Popham; as the Division it must cause will not give the Marattas Leisure to attend to his Motions, nor will they think it fafe to our Forces by detaching any confiderable Number of Men to oppose and interrupt his March.

Having thus mentioned the feveral Arguments which forcibly strike me for entering upon immediate Hostilities, I am induced to hope they will meet with your Concurrence and Approbation, and that you will furnish me with the necessary Instructions and Powers, both regarding the general Plan, and the particular Object of the Operation to be at present pursued, previous to my setting out to join the Army, which I wish to be able to do in Two or Three Days, as my Presence there was is absolutely necessary upon many Accounts; and the Appearance of Backwardness and Want of Vigour, which my too long Absence will carry with it, might also be productive of disagree-

The Points regarding which I am most solicitous, are the Mode of treating with Futty Sing, consistent with the Treaty now subsisting betwixt the Honourable Company and him, and the Line of Conduct to be pursued respecting Ragonath Row. On these Two Subjects, I have already ventured to give you my Sentiments; and I have only to repeat, that I shall cheerfully and zealously concur, and exert myself in successfully accomplishing your Views relative to them and the other Objects of the present Expedition, as far as lies in my Power. This Declaration I consider as sufficient for me to make; and doubt not its being fully satisfactors at this Time. In observing fusficient for me to make; and doubt not its being fully satisfactory at this Time. In observing upon the former Part of the Honourable President's Minute of the 10th Instant, regarding the Powers that have been given me by the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council, and the Relation in which I stand to the Government, the Sincerity of my present Assurances will I hope be fully apparent from the Consistency of my stuture Conduct with them; and I trust no Differences or Misconception in Points that are not strictly essential to the Success of the Business in Hand, will ever arise to interrupt that Harmony and good Understanding that has hitherto marked the Councils and Resolves of this Committee in the Measures concerted for the common Cause in which we are embarked, and which cannot fail under the same Circumstances of being brought to a happy and glorious Issue.

Bombay, 15th November 1779. I have the Honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

The First Battalion proceeded with the Revenge, and the Boats under her Convoy for Surat, to join the Army, and Remainder of the 5th Battalion for Broach Garrison.

Wednesday

Signed our Instructions to General Goddard, and Credentials for his negociating with Futty Sing, in the Name of this Government; also Instructions to Lieutenant Colonel Hartley in Command of the Bombay Detachment, and to the Commissary and Paymaster thereof; likewise Letters to Surat and to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, all entered in the Order now specified.

Thuriday.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

Goddard, Gral, his Inft

Sir,
The State in which Affairs with the Marattas now fland, fince the Answer returned by the Minister to your Proposals for a Pacification; your Difinission of the Vackeel in consequence; and the intermediate Declaration made by you to the Durbar, in Obedience to the Instructions from the Governor General and Council, dated the 14th of September; together with the military Preparations, which we learn from all Quarters are making at Poona, leading us to conclude a War with that State inevitable, we have at several Meetings, to which you have been invited, considered with the most serious Attention, the Conduct proper to be observed in our present Circumstances, as well as the Object to which the Efforts of our Force may with most Advantage be directed, whenever it shall be judged expedient to commence Operations; in order that we might affist you with our best Advice for the Benesit of the common Cause on this very interesting

The Powers you had under the Governor General and Council, make it proper to acquaint you that we do not confider the War now impending as a Measure of this Government, nor ourselves in any Manner as responsible for the Success of it. We do not ground this Position on any Opinion we have formed relative to the Necessity or good Policy of the War, which is a Question we shall not enter into; but on the Principle that as the Negociation was opened and concluded under the separate and distinct Instructions of the Governor General and Council, who have expressly acquainted us the principal Responsibility will rest with them, and as you are in consequence made responsible to them for your Conduct in the Operations of the War, we should under such Circumstances be wanting in Justice to ourselves, if we did not disclaim all Responsibility, both as to the Measure of the War itself, which is the Issue of that Negociation, as well as the Success of it when commenced; the Officer intrusted with the Conduct of the Operations being responsible to another Jurisdiction.

After this previous Explanation, it is equally proper to affure you that we shall, according to our Duty to the Company, and from Motives of Justice and Honour with respect to the Bengal Government, contribute our Affishance most zealously and cordially to bring the War to a speedy and advantageous Conclusion both with the Forces of this Presidency, and with such Advice and Recommendation to you as our Knowledge and Experience may at any Time suggest, or you may require from us. In this Considence you may take your Measures, and depend upon every Aid and Support in our Power to afford.

We have, as you have been before acquainted, dispatched a sufficient Number of Vessels to bring up the Forces and Stores from Mahé, and a positive Requisition to Colonel Braithwaite to embark them thereon, and to join the Army under your Command; but from his latest Advices, are uncertain whether he may think himself at Liberty to comply therewith, or whether he may not receive contrary Orders from his Superiors at Madras, who appear to be on the Eve of a War with Hyder Ally. We have also determined, in addition to the Detachment of One hundred Artillery Men before sent, to reinforce you with a Body of 200 European Infantry, the First Battalion of Sepoys, and a Battalion of drafted Sepoy Grenadiers, which is the utmost our Establishment will afford at this Time, and the last Embarkation of this Force will now accompany you on the Revenge and other Vessels to join the Army at Surat.

Though we have thus done our utmost to put your Army into the most respectable Situation, we still continue to think it will be more advisable to endeavour to gain Time, and to protract any Determination or Acts of Hostility till we are in a better Condition to meet the War, provided the Motions of the Enemy will in Prudence permit; and we accordingly strongly recommend to you, to observe temporizing Measures for the present. Our Reasons for this Recommendation have been sully explained to you in our Letter of the 29th October, before we know or your Dismission of the Maratta Vackeel, and also personally at the Council Table; and when summed up, confl. the Uncertainty we are under of the Junction of the Troops from Mahé; the great Distance Captain Popham's Detachment; the Hazard to which any immediate Acts of Hotility may considerable Reinforcement; our Situation in point of Money, which totally distance from giving you any Assistance in that Respect, or even bearing the Expences of the Bombstachment in the Field; the Destruction of the Harvest in the Guzerat Province, the sign for Enemy will probably take on your putting the Army in Motion; and the Districts such a National will produce to the Country and the Company's Settlements, as well as the Essect it will have the Supplies to the Army; all which Objections it appears to us may in a great Measure be remained from Weeks, and the Army chabled to take the Field with much greater Advantage, by nearer Approach of Captain Popham's Detachment; perhaps also the Arrival of the Troops in Mahé, and the Supplies of Money that may soon be expected from the Governor General and Concell, and the Magazines of Grain that may be secured after the Harvest is collected.

But if after Consideration of the Reasons above stated you should still judge it eligible, or state necessary to enter upon immediate Action, the Determination must rest with you, as we by no New intend to lay any Restraint upon you in this Point; but only according to the Principle we have 1 down for our Conduct, to give you such Advice as in our Opinion is most suitable to present Case 2.

stances, and most conducive to the Benefit of the common Cause.

Whenever the Objections now existing may be removed, and Circumstances may be former to favourable for commencing Operations, we entirely agree with you in the Opinion expected to the Letter of the 3d ultimo, that the grand and primary Object should be to secure a County, and they which would afford a certain and extensive Field of Supply for the Exigencies of the War, and to hope for the future Emolument of the Company. In this Light we regard the Plan Inid to us by the President the 30th of March last, of which you have so fully testified your Approbate and we accordingly then recommend to you to adopt and carry it into Execution, so far as related to the Settlement of the Guzerat Province, in concert with Futty Sing, and the Reduction of the Maratta Possessions adjoining to Surat and Broach, which we trust will effectedly answers.

great Ends abovementioned, and tend materially to diffress the Enemy.

We do not however mean, that any Time should be lost in opening the Negociation with For Sing, which may be immediately commenced; and we hope you will be able to convince hos, Formuch it will prove to his Interest to unite with us in the Settlement of the Guzerat Province; Form the Advantage which a Coalition with him will assort to your future Operations, and to Company's Possessions in that Quarter, can we doubt of your exerting your utmost Advinced bring this Point to bear by an amicable Composition, rather than by an Exertion of your For this Purpose it should be clearly explained to Futty Sing, that we mean no Injury to him, For this Purpose it should be clearly explained to Futty Sing, that we mean no Injury to him, For this Purpose it should be clearly explained to Futty Sing, that we mean no Injury to him, For this Purpose it should be clearly explained to Futty Sing, that we mean no Injury to him, For this Purpose it should be clearly explained to Futty Sing, that we mean no Injury to him, For the most friendly Terms with him; and that we have fully empowered you to make an amenable at equitable Settlement with him of the Province of Guzerat, upon Terms of mutual Advantage of Security to him from all future Dependance and Exactions by the Poona Durbar, or Grounds.

We accordingly herewith deliver you Credentials, under the Seal of the Honourable Company, authorizing you, in Behalf of this Government, to negociate and conclude a Treaty with load, Sing Guicawar, whom we confider as the Head of that Family, the elder Brother, Seajee, berg difordered in his Mind, and having no Concern in Matters of Government. It is, however, receffary we believe his Name flould be inferted in any Engagement you may form with Futer Sing; and also a Clause, referving the final Sanction and Ratification of such Engagement to the

The Grounds of the Engagement to be formed with Futty Sing, must be our supporting and defending him in Possessian of his Share of the Guzerat Province, independant of the Poona Government; and his engaging to support us in the Share now held by that Government. To make the Settlement as convenient as possible to the Honourable Company, and to Futty Sing, and to avoid the continual Differences which must arise from both Parties having an Interest in the same Places; we recommend to you to propose to Futty Sing, to make an absolute and specific Partition of the Territory between him and the Honourable Company, according to the Proportion of the Revenues now respectively held by him and the Marattas; and each Party to have the distinct and sole Government and Possession of the Division which may be allotted to them in the new Settlement.

The proposed Mode of Partition, and the Revenues drawn by the Poona Circar, and the Guicawars, from the Province of Guzerat, are described with all the Accuracy our present Knowledge will allow, in the President's Minute of the 30th March; a Copy of which has been already put into your Hands, and will serve in general as your Guide in the Discharge of this Part of your Commission; the general Outlines of the Partition are,

The Company to be put in Possession of the Guicawar Division of the Country South of the Tappy, their Share in the Revenue of the City of Surat, and such other Lands as may nearly make up an Equivalent to the Maratta Possessions North of the Myhie, which will be guaranteed to Futty Sing.

It is to be observed, that the Districts between the Myhie and the Tappy, as far Eastward as Brodera, Dubhoy, Zinnore and Versavee, which make Part of the President's Plan, will be held by the Company as Acquisitions gained from the Poppa farcar, to which they folely belonged, except Coral, ceded by Futty Sing, in 17,5, and for which the Guicawars are not entitled to any Confideration; these Districts will be taken Notice of in the Sequel of this Letter.

You may also stipulate with Furty im , that we will support him in withholding the Tribute of 27 Lacks per Annum, now paid to the Poona Circar for his Jaghire in the Province, until a final Treaty of Peace is concluded between the Company and that Durbar, in which you may affine him his Interests will be carefully attended to, if Ie cordially unites in the Settlement now proposed to

If you should find it practicable, we recommend to you to obtain from Futty Sing the Cession of Zinnore, which hes very commodiously for compleating our Line of Northern Territory, in which we apprehend you will find but little Danculty, as a confiderable Share is collected for the Poona Circar; and this Place was once before ceded by Futty Sing, in the Year 1755, but then relinquished for Reasons which had Weight at the Time.

There being also some Vallages of Fatty Sing's intermixed with the Broach Purgunnah, we recommend it to you to get them fecused for the Company in the proposed Treaty of Partition—the Gentlemen at Broach can inform you of the Particulars.

In confequence of the Exchange proposed to be made with Futty Sing, should be request the Compary's Affiltance for putting him in a offetion of the Territories of the Poona Circar, North of the Helic, we conceive ourselves authorized by the Governor General and Council's Letter of the 14th base, to make a Stipulation for effording him fuch Assistance, which we accordingly empower you actede to in our Behalf; observing the following Caution, to which they have enjoined ricted Attention, should this Plan be carried into Execution; viz. That the Engagement you in the content into shall be offensive only, for the Object of our immediate Operations, and in us to pa all other Respects purely desensive.

As Govind Row has always shewn himself well disposed to our Interest, and in order to preserve the Country from the continual Depredations occasioned by the Contention between the Two Brothers, we could have wished in the Arrangement with Futty Sing to secure a satisfactory Provision for him; but the Governor General and Council have expressly forbad us to assume a Mediation between them, or to take any Part whatever in their domestic Disputes, further than to support the Party in Alliance with the Company and his Possessions against foreign Invasion; and not to commit the Dignity of the Company, or pledge the national Earth in formal Treaty with a Person of Rank or Power unsuitable to such a Diffunction. If this Point can be accommodated without deviating from the above Refirsction, we think the Company will derive Honour and Advantage from it.

The Nabob of Cambay likewife descrives our Attention in the Settlement of the Northern Country, Part of which was formerly wrefted from his Dominions, and from his Enmity to the Marattas, and Attachment to the Combiny, may be made of Use to you in your Operations; we therefore recommend to you, to procure for him such Cession of Territory as you may find practi-

The Company's Servants at the Northern Settlements will be directed to give you fuch Information as you may require, of the Interests and Connections of the Country Powers in their Neigh-

We have not at present any Thing further to offer on the Subject of the proposed Alliance with Futty Sing; but in the Course of the Negociation shall give you any other Information that may occur, or that you may defire from us: But as fuch Materials may be of present Use to you, we herewith deliver Copy of the Treaty mode with Putty Sing in 1775; also of a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, containing an lineorical Account of the Guicawar Family; a Copy of some Proposals made by Futty Sing in the Year 1772 to Mr. Price, the Chief of Surat; and an Account of the Diffricts formerly annexed to Surat, under the Name of Autoveezy, the Refumption of which makes a Part of the Plan above recommended to you.

As foon as you may judge it expedent to commence Operations, we recommend to you to proceed in the Reduction of the Maratta Poikeliens South of the Tappy, and their Purgunnals of Ulpar, Hanfood, Occideer, Defbora, Ahmood, Dubhoy, and Verfavee: The Diffricts above alluded to lying between the Tappy and the Mylne, Care thould be taken not to moleft the Guicawars Chours and Collectors; and in the Reds. tion of these Places, the Chiefs of Surat and Broach will be directed to afford you every Affiliance you may defire, and to receive Clarge of them from you when reduced, according to their respective Situation; that is, the Places North of the Tappy, except Ulpar and Verfavce, will fall under Charge of Broach Chiefship; and those South of that River, with Ulpar and Verfavee, under Charge of Surat.

These Places we apprehend will be reduced without much Difficulty, and by that Time you will be able to diffeover Futty Sing's Difposition towards the proposed Settlement, and to determine your

We entirely concur with you in the Plan proposed in your Letter of the 3d ul mo to be purfied respecting Ragoba, and avoiding any positive Engagement with him for the present. We trust, that feeing the Necessity of the System we have adopted, he will be reconciled to it; and confidering how deeply the Company is already involved on his Account, will allow the Juffice of our fecuring some Means of Reimbursement and Resource for future Supply, before we can avowedly after his Pretenfions; and more especially when he considers, as you observe, that we shall enter this War [Qq] REP. Mr. George Green is appointed Commissary of Stores and Provisions to the said Detachment and Mr. William Lewis, Paymaster; and as it is not in our Power to furnish Money for the lypences of their Department, we have directed them to make their Drasts on you.

As Samuel Richardson, one of the principal Surgeons of our Hospital, and Surgeon Major of the Garrison, proceeds in Charge of the Hospital for the Bombay Detachment, Mr. Durham, as Surgeon of the Artillery, and Mr. Clugstone, as Surgeon of the Infantry, Mr. Toorney will now act as an Affistant Surgeon with Mr. Green, now proceeding; and they are all put under the Order of Mr. Richardson the Surgeon Major.

In consequence of your Desire, we have permitted Messirs. Warden and Hull to accompany we to the Army.

We now inclose a Commission, authorizing you to appoint and consists General Courts M_{Aab} and a blank Warrant for a Judge Advocate.

However averse we may be to entail Expence upon the Company, yet as you have acquainted us that you cannot take upon you to reduce the Bengal Troops to the same Footing with the Bombay Troops, in respect to Field Allowances; and as so considerable a Disparity must occasion great Jealousies and Discontent, and be very detrimental to the Service, we must admit the Justice and Necessity of making no Distinction between the Forces of the same Master, employed in Conjunction upon the same Service; and therefore are entirely of Opinion, that the Bengal Batta should be allowed to the Officers of the Bombay Detachment, ordered to join the Army under your Command: We defire however, it may be clearly explained to the Troops, that this is not to be confidered as a Pie. cedent, and will not in future be allowed, except when acting in conjunction with the Forces of Bengal Prefidency.

A Company's Seal is herewith delivered to you; and heartily wishing you Success, we remain, Bengal Secret Consultations, 24th February 1780.

THE 1st of January 1780, General Goddard wrote the following Letter to Bengal; viz.

Gentlemen,

I have the Honour to acknowledge your Letter of the 14th October, inclosing Copy of your Instructions to Captain Popham, and a Bill of Exchange for Bombay Rupees 1,927. 4. 3.

which shall be negociated in the Manner you are pleased to direct.

When I last had the Honour of addressing you, I expressed my Intention of putting the Army in Motion in a very few Days: This Design I have found necessary to carry into Execution, on Account of the Circumstances which have occurred in the Course of my intended Negociation with Futty Sing Guicawar, that tend to raise Doubts of his Inclinations being friendly towards the English, and justify a Belief that he wishes only to gain Time, until an Army from Poona may be sent to his Assistance, to unite his Forces with their's against us. I have already informed you of the Powers delegated to me by the Government of Bombay, to conclude a Treaty on their Part with Futty Sing; the Object and Nature of which will be fully explained to you by the several Papers I had the Honour to inclose for your Perusal in my Letter of the 10th ultimo I accordingly communicated to Futty Sing, through the Medium of the Two confidential People whom I had fent to attend me, the Proposals of the English, in Terms calculated to give him every Confidence in, and Assurances of, their Sincerity, if he truly and heartily entered into their Views; and at the same Time, to convince him if he acted on this Occasion with Duplicity and Deceit, he must expect to be treated by them as an Enemy.

The Period requifite for a Reply, which I requested he would fend without Loss of Time, had elapsed many Days, when at last my own Hircarrahs returned with a Letter from Futty Sing, in which he took no Notice whatever of the Proposals that had been made him, nor referred me to his Vackeels for further Information. He only repeated the common Professions of Friendship and Regard for the English, and Assurances of his Intentions to maintain the ancient Alliance mutually subsisting between them inviolable. The Vackeels themselves, when questioned upon the Cause of this doubtful and improper Delay, would answer me only with the most obvious Subtefuges and Evafions; my Hircarrahs also informed me, that the Night before their Departure from Brodera, Futty Sing's capital Messengers had arrived from Poona, with Letters from the Minifer and Scindia, exhorting him not to unite with the English; and promising to send an Army immediately to his Assistance. I further learn, that Futty Sing is augmenting his own Strength, and care ing in Troops from all Quarters to join his Standard; and is at prefent Two Cofs from his Capital at the Head of an Aimy, which may confift of about Ten thousand Men.

Notwithflanding all these suspicious Appearances, I am far from relinquishing the Prospect of bringing over Futty Sing to become an Ally in the present War; nor shall recat him as an Enemy, until he gives me certain Proofs that the prossered Friendship as actually required by him, famed as he is for Treachery, even above the perfidious Stamp that marks the whole of the Ma. ratta Race; it is necessary to take every political Precaution against his Deceit, and bring his Conduct to an immediate positive Test; so that by marching towards him I shall obtain the desired Object of winning him to a decided Declaration in our Favour; or should he be refractory, and adverse to our Measures, accomplish a Stroke that must be of the most beneficial Consequences in the Commencement of the War, before the Succours from Poona shall arrive to his Ashibane From this last Place, my Advices mention, that a few Bodies of Horse have been already detaction and that the main Army is expected foon to follow.

Let me repeat, that induced by the feveral Reasons above related, I have put the Troops in Motion, and this Morning croffed the Tappy River, on the North Bank of which I am at prelist encamped. I have the Pleafure further to acquaint you, that most of the Purgunnahs belong a to the Poona Government, South of the Myhic River, have been taken Poffession of in the Nana of the East India Company, and delivered over to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, to be collect in the Neighbourhood of whose Residencies they are situated. The Inhabitants, accustomed to a Change of Matters, seem to embrace the Dominion and Protection of the English, with an unusual Joy and Alacrity, and no Doubt, anticipate the Profpect of being delivered from the Oppreffica of their Tyrants.

The only principal District now remaining on this Side of the Myhie is Dubhoy; and as the contains a Fortiers, and is within 12 or 13 Cots of Brodera, it will be subjected upon the Arrival of my Army, for the March of which this Pretext alone would be a fufficient Point of Direction, and furnish a just Reason to satisfy Futty Sing.

I shall continue to communicate to the Select Committee of Bombay, every Occurrence regards ing the present Service, and receive such Instructions and Information from them as may affish a promoting the Success of it, according to the Rules you have laid down for my Guidance.

The teveral Papers inclosed in my Letter of the 10th ultimo, will have fully explained to you the Object of our prefent Plan, and furnished ample Grounds for you to transmit us Instructions to our future Direction, confistent with the political Views you may find it proper ultimately to form; to which I shall pay the strictest Attention and most implicit Obedience.

The Point on which I am most solicitous to know your Pleasure, relates to Ragonaut Row. I have already apprized you of the difficult Task I knew I should find in reconciling the Measure now adopted by us, to the high Hope with which his Mind was filled; nor was I deceived in my bepeclations. I however confidered it as an Object of the highest political Importance at process, and what was likely in the End to crown the War we are engaged in with the moil complete Great and Benefit, to keep him in good Humour and Dependance upon us; and foared no Arguments for that Purpose; and I have the Satisfaction to tell you that I have succeeded to my Wish. I point I out to him the just and good Policy of securing to ourselves some certain Fund for reimburger path heavy Expences, and supporting the Charges of the present War in which we were involved, and considered by the Ministers as Principals, solely from our Friendship and Regard to him; but the same Time affured him, that as the English had invariably and long protected him, and exerted themselves for his Interest, it was still their Wish to restore him to the Station and Grandeur so which his Birth entitled him, whenever Circumstances might render such an Attempt favourable, or a Party in the State declare themselves decidedly in his Favour. He acknowledged the Proposes of what I had faid, and professed an entire Considence in the favourable Intentions of the English to accomplish his Wishes; but he observed, that unless some Increase was made him to his Allowance on a Part of the conquered Purgunnahs ceded for his Ute, those who secretly favoured his Interests would be doubtful of Design to serve him; and besides would want the chief Instrument of Reward

A P P E N D I X, N° 254. A.

Reward in Prospect to join his Standard. In answer to this I repeated my former Arguments, adding, that the Success of our Army, while he remained under our Protection, would be sufficient to bring over those who were really well assected to him; that he might in the mean Time take every confishent and necessary Step to encourage his Partizans in the State; and that if any iespectable Party should stand forth, the Instructions which I expected to receive from your Government regarding him, would arrive in Time to execute the Plan you might deem best calculated for the Honour and Benefit of himfelf and the English Nation.

On the Subject of Money, although he pleaded the Necessity of an Addition to support those who might flock to his Standard, I would promise nothing; I only told him, that when the several Leaders, his Partizans, with a fufficient Force should join him, it would then be Time to provide a Fund for their Subliftence. The Sufficiency of these Arguments, though it did not altogether convince, yet he feemed to acquicke in: They were contrary to his Sentiments and Ideas of his own Greatness and Station; and Men find it difficult to reconcile to their Choice, what militates against their favourite ruling Passion, which I believe among the Bramins may be confined to Two, Avarice

The infirm and fickly Condition of Ragonaut Row prevents his accompanying the Camp at prefent, but he fent his adopted Son Omrat Row, with about Two thousand Horse and Foot; these he expects will daily encrease on the March, and will look to be sublisted; to afford them some Encouragement is the only Tell ly which we can try Ragoba's Cause, therefore beg Leave to propose some Questions both on this Subject and in what relates to the Business of Ragoba altogether: Your Directions, and the Knowledge of your Pleasure regarding which will be very useful and necessary for my Guidance.

1st. Is it your Wish to adopt and take active Measures in favour of the Cause of Ragoba, if Circumstances should hereafter render it favourable, by an Overthrow of the Ministerial Forces, or by a Declaration of a flrong Party in the State in his Favour?

2d. In the Event of a fuccefsful War, if no confiderable Party makes its Appearance, is it your Intention to affert his Claim?

3d. What are the express Limitations you think it necessary to lay me under with regard to the Two foregoing Points?

4th. With regard to Money for the Subfiltence of his Troops, I beg to receive your Instructions, how far and under what Restrictions it is your Pleasure he should be assisted; and as it is requisite to keep him in Hopes, and at the same Time facrifice as little as possible to that End, what Advances in Money, and what Cessions of conquered Country arising from the successful Operations of a War, you may think it advisable to give or admit him to a Participation of, till the absolute Proof of his real Weight and Influence in the State can be obtained.

I have mentioned the above Circumstances which suggest themselves to me; and as no Doubt others will occur to you as necessary on this important Occasion to be provided for, I hope to receive your full particular Instructions as early as possible.

I beg to acquaint you, that no Part of the Madras Reinforcements have yet joined me. Colonel Braithwaite, the Officer in Command at Mahé, writes me that he had shipped off the Artillery and Europeans of his Detachment for Surat, as the Natives to whom the Choice had been left by the Select Committee of Madras, of returning Home or flaying to serve on this Coast, had to a Man preferred the former. The Colonel since writes me, that on Account of some Troops belonging to Hyder Ally being in Motion towards Tellicherry, he has found it abfolutely necessary to re-land the Europeans and Stores, fo that I have no Prospect of being soon joined by any of the Mahe Forces, nor have I received any Advices from the Madras Government, by which I can form a Judgment when the Troops coming immediately from that Prefidency may arrive.

I am also in the State of Ignorance respecting Captain Popham's Detachment as when I last wrote you, none of the Hircarrahs whom I fent to meet him and bring me Intelligence having yet returned; fo that I have Reason to suppose that he has not yet crossed the Jumna.

I beg Leave to represent to you my Situation with respect to Cash: I have received Part only of the Bills transmitted me for Five Lacks in your Letter of the 6th September, and there is no News of the Britannia. This Government, as you would perceive by their Letter to me of the 2d of December, have not been at all affifting to the Charges of the War, for which they urge the very impoverished and necessitious State of their own Circumstances. The Junction of the Detachment from Bombay has occasioned an Increase of Expence, and this, added to the Delay in the Arrival of the Five Lacks in Time, has entirely exhausted the Ticatury, and left me without any Resource for the Subsistence of the Army, than that of drawing Bills upon your Government, which I have done upon the most favourable Terms I could possibly obtain, to the Amount of between Four and Five Lacks. I hope you will be pleased to approve of my Conduct in this Particular; and as I can have no certain Dependance even upon the Expedient of Drafts, and the Sum I am at prefent possessed of is barely sufficient to pay off all the Troops for November, including December's Pay, I hope you will take fuch Measures for the Supply of this necessary and indispensable Article as you may find most speedy and effectual.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Philip Francis, Edward Wheler, Efquires. Mr. Barwell indisposed. Sir Eyre Coote on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

READ the following Letter from the President and Select Committee at Fort St. George.

Gentlemen,

We Yesterday received a Letter from Colonel Braithwaite, giving an Account of his Proceedings in consequence of our Orders to him for evacuating Mahé, and sending the Detachment to Surat: A Copy of this Letter we transmit for your Information, and you will perceive by it the disagreeable Situation of Affairs at Tellicherry, and the Reasons which induced Colonel Braithwaite to remain there with the whole Detachment to act in Defence of that Settlement; we wished the Europeans had been sent at all Events to Surat; but still we cannot blame Colonel Braithwaite for using his Discretion, in a Case where one of the Company's Possessions was to be defended against an actual and powerful Attack; the Part taken by Hyder Ally in fomenting these Disturbances, and marching a large Body of his Troops to take Possession of the Ruins of Mahé, on Account of its Proximity to Tellicherry, shew no very favourable Disposition towards us, and might well warrant the Conjecture formed by Colonel Braithwaite, that he would probably affift the Nairs in their Attempt upon that Factory. There is however Reason to fear from what Colonel Braithwaite writes, that the Gentlemen of Tellicherry have imprudently provoked Hostilities by interfering in the Country Disputes, and giving Protection to People obnoxious to Hyder and the Nairs. If so, they have certainly been very culpable, and we hope their Superiors will instantly take Measures to promote an Accommodation, for we are ourselves averse from engaging our Troops in so unjustifiable a Quartel. We made it a Part of our Instruction to Colonel Braithwaite during his Command at Mahé, 19 have no Interference directly or indirectly with any Powers or Chiefs beyond the Limits of his Authority; and he appears to have so strictly conformed to our Orders in this Respect, that we do not believe he has had the smallest Share in any of the Transactions which may have given Rise to the present Troubles.

The Moment we heard of these Disturbances, and the consequent Detention of our Troops at Tellicherry, we came to the Resolution of sending, at all Events, immediately from hence, a respectable Reinsorcement to join General Goddard's Army at Surat; and ordered a complete Battalion of Europeans, a Company of Artillery, and a Battalion of Sepoys, to be held in Readiness to embark at a Moment's Warning. His Majesty's Ship Sea Horse being here, we applied to Captain Panton for his Assistance on this Occasion, and we have taken up the Horsendor, a Country Ship, as a Transport; these Two Vessels, which are all we have at present, will receive the Battalion of Europeans and Company of Artillery, and sail with them in Five or Six Days at furthest, directly for Surat: The Battalion of Sepoys we shall embark upon the Besborough and Britannia, which we understand may be hourly expected from Bengal on their Way to Bombay or Surat; we shall also hold a Battalion of Sepoys more in Readiness to the Southward, to embark from Anjengo, should there be Occasion for them; and we have sent Directions to Colonel Braithwaite to forward the Europeans with him, by the first Opportunity, to Surat, unless Circumstances should have materially changed since he wrote last; that is to say, unless Hyder should have openly taken such a Part in the Attack of Tellicherry as to render it absolutely necessary for the Europeans to act in

This Exertion, we affure you, is the utmost we are capable of making in the critical Situation of our Affairs with Hyder, and it is such, that should a powerful Invasion take place, we must act entirely upon the defensive, and look chiefly to the Care of our Garrisons; nevertheless, in the present State of Affairs on the other Side of India, we conceive it to be our Duty to sacrifice much to promote the Object of Peace, and we hope and trust that the considerable Reinforcement we are fending to General Goddard, may enable him to accomplish it upon safe and honourable Terms.

Fort St. George, 31st December 1779.

R EAD the following Letter from Bombay Secret Committee:

Gentlemen,

Having been fully engaged in a Dispatch of considerable Length to the Honourable Company, it has prevented us sending you an Account of the Result of General Goddard's Negociation, or the Measures resolved upon in consequence; and which was the less material, as that Gentleman equainted us he had himself fully written on the Subject; but a safe Conveyance now offering by sea to Anjengo, we take the Opportunity of transmitting by that Route to Madras, Copies at Length of Letters delivered to us by General Goddard during his Continuance at Bombay; of a Letter of Instructions and Credentials we delivered him on his Departure to join the Army; and of a subsequent Correspondence; which explain so fully our present political Situation with respect to the Marattas, that it is needless to say any Thing in addition, further than to consirm our Assurances in the Letter to General Goddard of the 3d Instant, that we shall most zealously support him in the vigorous Prosecution of the War upon the Principle therein laid down, though without any Share in the Responsibility.

We have already in our Letters of the 7th and 13th of October represented to you the reduced State of our Finances, and our pressing Demands for Money. Since the Month of September last, we have advanced General Goddard no less than Six Lacks of Rupees; a most heavy Deduction from our limited Income, only made equal by Supplies from your to our stated Expences, and for which of course we must be proportionably unprovided. We were the more induced to make the last Advance of Two Lacks, that he might not be under the Necessity of taking up Money at Surat for Bills on your Government, which we were apprehensive from your Letter of the 14th October might be the Means of defeating your Endeavours to procure Remittances both from the Army and this Presidency, and thereby adding to our present Difficulties. In order to raise a Fund for our immediate Exigencies we have given Directions for a Loan being made at Surat, which the Chief acquaints us will not amount to more than Five or Six Lacks of Rupees; out of which, the beforementioned Advance of Two Lacks is to be deducted, and with our small stated Receipts, the Expences of this Presidency, and also of the Madras Detachment at Tellicherry, are to be defrayed till we receive Supplies from you. We will not pretend to say what Resources we may find from the Success of the Measures committed to General Goddard; but whatever suture Advantages they may produce, it would not be prudent to place much Dependance upon them for any considerable immediate Relief, and we therefore trust you will have taken Measures for ending us our usual Supply hitherto received in Part of this Season, and that you will make Illowance also for the extraordinary Demands we may be exposed to in the present Situation of lasting.

A P P E N D I X, N° 257. A.

Extract of a Letter from the President and Select Committee at Bombay, to the Secret Committee of the Court of Directors, dated the 31st December 1779.

WE had the Honour to address you on the 30th of April by your Ship, the Royal Admiral, and the same Time transmitted a Triplicate of our Address, dated the 27th of March, disatched to England express by the Betsy Snow.

The most material political Transaction communicated in the last mentioned Address, was our resolution to the Governor General and Council, the Determination of the Measures to be purfued with respect to the Poona Government, and to refer to their Decision a Plan proposed to us by the President for the Line of Conduct that appeared to him best adapted to our then Circumstances; a Copy of which was transmitted by the Royal Admiral. Just at the Time this Plan was laid before us, the Letter was received from the Governor General and Council, dated the 8th February; and came at the same Time under our Consideration at a Meeting to which we had invited Colonel Goddard, who then laid before us Credentials given him by those Gentlemen to act as their Minister at the Court of Poona, on certain Points independant of our Controul; and also acquainted us, that as in the Event of the Failure of our Plan for the Restoration of Ragoba, he was directed to refume the Negociation with Moodajce Bouncello, he should forthwith take the necessary Steps for that Purpose; and requested that Assurances might be given to the Rajah on our Part of the full Support and Concurrence of this Government in any Measures which might be concerted between them; which we accordingly complied with.

As our engaging in any Measures hostile to the Poona Government, might afford Moodajee 4 Pretence for breaking off the Negociation, if he was not feriously inclined to an Alliance with the Company, and might interfere with the Views of the Governor General and Council, with whom we were truly desirous of acting in concert upon some settled and ascertained Plan; these were the Confiderations that impelled us to the above Resolution, and which we have judged it necessary to recapitulate in this Address to preserve Connection in the Account of our Proceedings, in case our

We also in our faid Address strongly recommended Colonel Goddard to your most savourable Notice; and folicited some distinguished Mark of Regard from you for his judicious and decisive Conduct in quitting the Negociation with Moodajee Bouncello, and his ready Determination of advancing to our Affistance, as well as for the Activity and military Skill with which he conducted so difficult and dangerous a March through a Country never before traverfed by the Company's Troops.

Remaining therefore in Expectation of Directions from Bengal to fix our Measures, we on the 20th of May received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, dated the 5th of April after Advice had reached them, of the Failure of the Expedition; in which they acquainted us, that they had invested Colonel Goddard with full Powers, as Minister of that Government, to treat with the Peshwa and Ministers of the Maratta State for the Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Poorunder; provided they would recede from the Pretentions they had acquired by the late Treaty at Worgaum, and would agree not to admit any French Force to their Dominions, nor allow that Nation to form any Establishment on the Maratta Coast; impowering him to conclude a Treaty with them on those Conditions, the Acceptance or Refusal of which was to determine the Alternative of Peace or War.

The Governor General and Council further fignified to us, that their first Object in this Negociation was to obtain Peace on honourable Terms; and in the mean Time they recommended to us to be prepared either for repelling any hostile Attacks of the Marattas, or for any other Service which they might hereafter judge necessary; but they formally forbad us to undertake any offensive Meafure, without explicit and positive Orders from them.

Colonel Goddard commenced his Negociation upon these Grounds; and we gave him every necesfary Information to affift him in the Conduct of it, furnishing him with Extracts from your Commands of the 7th of May, and a Copy of those of the 31st of August 1778. Before his Negociation was brought to any Point, a very unexpected Circumstance happened, which may produce very important Effects on the political System of this Presidency.

Ragoba, fince his Separation from our Forces at Tellagaum, had remained under Charge of Mhadjee Scinda; who, though defirous of retaining Possession of his Person for Purposes of political Advantage, treated him with every external Mark of Respect, and even left him his Artillery and most of the Forces he had brought with him from Bombay, to accompany him on the March to the Place destined for his Reception. Scindia's Duan, with 4,000 Horse, was appointed to escott him; and his Intention appears to have been to carry him into the diftant Provinces in his own Direction and Disposal. In this Scheme he was however bassled; for upon their Arrival at the Nerbedah, and preparing to cross that River, Ragoba found an Opportunity of executing a Plan no Doubt previously concerted, for his Escape; and an Action ensuing, which we are informed was commenced by Scindia's Horse, upon some Suspicion of Ragoba's Design, Scindia's Troops were totally routed and dispersed, and the Duan himself mortally wounded.

Ragoba, immediately after the Action, made the best of his Way to Occlaseer, near Broach, with about Three or Four thousand Horse and Foot and his Guns, to the Number of Twenty. After remaining there a short Time, he joined Colonel Goddard's Camp near Surat, the 13th of June, having previously requested Permission to come in, together with his Family, and receive the Protection of the Camp; which the Colonel acquainted us he judged proper from political Confiderations, so far as it extended to their Personal Security, to grant him in the Name of the Bengal Government, till he could receive their Pleasure regarding him.

The Governor General and Council were immediately advised of this Event, by a Vessel dispatched Express; but on the first Intimation we received of Ragoba's Escape and Delign to put himself under our Protection at Surat, we resolved, in order that no Step on our Part might tend to frustrate the Negociation they had been pleased to commit to Colonel Goddard, to direct the Chief to defire him to feek an Afylum in some other Place; and we at the same Time intimated, that as the Colonel must be the best Judge how far the Company's taking Ragoba under Protestion/

tection, might interfere with the present Views of the Governor General and Council, it would rest with him to act in this Point according to his own Judgment; and he must be responsible for the Consequences. The Execution however of this Order was superfeded by Ragoba's making Application in the first Instance to Colonel Goddard; and he has since, at the Colonel's Desire, had a Habitation assigned him in the City of Surat.

It was not till the 29th of August, that we received from the Governor General and Council their Reply to the Disparches sent them by Mr. Horsley, relative to the Failure of the late Expedition and the Plan proposed by the President. This was conveyed to us in a Letter, dated the 14th of June; in the Preamble of which they acquainted us, they should decline all Review of our past Proceedings, and confine themselves to the Choice of Measures that appeared to them best calculated to retrieve

These Measures, striking at the very Existence of Our Rights, and the Power especially entrusted to us, and being in our Opinion absolutely inconsistent and incompatible with the avowed Object of them, namely, Peace with the Maratta Government, superadded to their Directions being conveyed in Terms so intricate and hable to Misconstruction, that it would be very difficult to give a faithful Abstract, make us deem it very material to send you a Copy of it at full Length by the piesent Dispatch.

Mr. Horsley, who was allowed Access to this Letter before it was dispatched from Bengal, set before the Governor General and Council, in a very able and masterly Manner, the general Objections which lay against the extensive Powers they had conferred on General Goddard, as well as the particular Parts of the Letter which seemed likely to prove detrimental to the public Service; we have therefore accompanied this Letter with a Copy of Mr. Horsley's on the Subject, in which you will find he has distinguished the Powers of the Two Governments with the utmost Accuracy, and asferted our Right with becoming Spirit, and unanswerable Strength of Argument.

You may believe we felt most tensibly this Invasion upon the Rights and Power's immediately vefted in us by you, and thus illegally transferred to Brigadier General Goddard, on whom the Governor General and Council have thought proper to confer that Rank for the Service on which he is now employed. Their charging him, to our entire Exclusion, with the immediate Interests of this Prefidency; with the Power of making Peace or War at his own Choice; and with an Army under his own independant Command, to profecute whatever Meafures he may think proper to adopt; are Inflances of delegated Authority, both unconflitutional, and in the highest Degree injurious to the Rights absolutely inherent in us, under the Subordination due to the Governor General and Council by Act of Parliament. This Conduct is directly repugnant to the Sentiments you expressed on their Interference with the Rights of this Government, though in a much more limited Degree, in the Inflance of Lieutenant Colonel Upton: And without intending the finalleft Reflection on General Goddard, but only as an Observation naturally arising from the Case itself, we must remark, that by their uniting in a military Man, possessed of the uncontrolled Command of an Army, the Charge of a Negociation, the Powers of making Peace or War, and of conducting that War himfelf, and planning the Operations in any Manner he may think proper, they have formed a Trust of such an oppolite and diffimilar Nature, and so much at Variance with professional Principles, that in the Discharge of it a Bias, though perhaps imperceptible to the Agent, must prevail in favour of military Measures; and that Choice will the more justly excite Surprize, as the Governor General and Council have repeatedly expressed, that their predominant Wish is for Peace; and that they look to the Islue of this Negociation, if it shall prove successful, as their primary Object, and the Termination of all their political Views on this Side of India.

We also observed with Concern, as a Circumstance that must tend to the Disadvantage of your Assairs, the little Inclination manifested by the Governor General and Council, of acting on any Terms of Union or Concert with us, which we had so anxiously wished for, and in the Hope of which, though the Necessity was imminent, we had deferred fixing upon our Measures, without their previous Concurrence; but as we have had nothing in View but your Interest, and the Good of the Service, which must suffer Injury in any Contest between the Two Governments, and especially on Points of such a Nature as our present Cause of Complaint, we came to a Resolution not to oppose the Operation of their Orders, or of General Goddard's Power, and to unite with him condially and considentially in the common Cause, still making Reservation of our Rights thus violently infringed, and declaring them not to be considered as in the smallest Degree impaired or injured by

We flatter ourselves you will approve the Resolution we have taken, considering our Circumstances, and the bad Consequences that must have followed from an Opposition to General Goddard's Powers; between which and the Line of Conduct we have taken, there appeared no Alternative. The Consustion an opposite Conduct must have produced, so rashly hazarded by the Governor General and Council, will we trust be a strong Recommendation of the Moderation we have shewn, and evince our Disposition to contribute our best Services for the Advancement of your Interest, even to the Injury of our own Rights and Privileges; but at the same Time that we make this Sacrifice to the Public Service, we look up to your Justice and Authority to reinstate us in the free Exercise of the Powers constitutionally inherent in us, and to prevent all future Instringements of them, which alone can restore to this Government the Weight and Consequence of which it has been so unjustly and impolitically deprived, or enable your Delegates here to carry on your Assars with any Degree of Honour to themselves, or Advantage to the Company.

REP. VI. Sf] Though

Though any Diftinction that could, with Propriety, have been conferred on General Goddard would have given us Pleafure, and we had recommended him to the Governor General and Council for some Mark of their Favour, we could have no Idea of their rewarding him at the Expence of the Rights of this Government, by giving him a local Rank, confined to the proper Sphere of our own Jurisdiction. It requires no Arguments to prove, that they have no Right to grant such a Commission, the Validity of which we are apprehensive might be disputed, in case of the Arrival of any Officers, superior in Rank to General Goddard's Standing upon the Bengal Establishment; and as there would be no possible Doubt but that Officer, with his former Rank, and in the Station he held, would have been intrusted with the Chief Command of the Army in the Event of a Maratta War, had the Option of shewing him this Mark of Considence been left to us, and we had it not even in our Power to supersede him in the Command, had we been so inclined; their conferring such an Appointment appears therefore quite inexpedient, and an unnecessary Usurpation of Power, unsupported by any legal Authority vested in the Governor General and Council.

Those Gentlemen in a subsequent Letter, dated the 8th of July, acquainted us that they have entirely approved the Protection granted to Ragoba, and that they have directed General Goddard to continue to afford it to him to long as he shall demand it; provided he shall not forseit his Right to it by any Act of Insidelity, or attempt to defeat the Effect of the Negociation to which General Goddard was to give his entire Attention: Without regard to any other Consideration for the rest, they left him to act under their Instructions of the 5th of April, in which they saw no Cause to make any Alteration on account of that Event.

To give you an Idea of our political Situation with respect to the Marattas, we must principally rake our Accounts from General Goddard's Letters, as no Degree of Agency being left to us, we can give you no direct Account from ourselves. The first Information of any Consequence relative to his Negociation was contained in a Letter, dated the 10th of September at the Camp near Surat, from whence he carcied it on, in which he acquainted us, that his Proposals were communicated to the Minister by Letters dispatched express the 19th of August; but from what Cause he knew not, either a studied Delay on his Part, or by reason of some Disturbances on the Road, no Answer had been received. That to obviate as much as possible any further Inconvenience from Delay, he had dispatched the Assistant to the Maratta Vackeel, who attended him, express to Poona, with the Terms on which he was authorized to conclude a Peace, and had limited his Return to Twenty Days, which he had faithfully promised to do.

He inferred from this Account the Uncertainty of the Event of his Negociation; and observed, as he had Reason to apprehend, (notwithstanding his positive Declarations he would never consent to grant any) that the Minister would demand some considerable Concessions on our Part, in return for their facrificing all Claims derived from the Convention of Worgaum, it was a very probable Circumstance that we might be compelled to take up Arms. At the same Time he remarked, that he had hitherto received nothing from the Minister, but the strongest Assurances of Friendship for the English, and that the Profession of his Emissary promited only the most savourable Issue to the Negociation.

You will doubtless observe, that when we have mentioned the Poona Administration with any Relation to Person, we have made use of the Singular Number, the Reason of which is, that Namnah Furncese is at present the sole Minister, Sacaram Bappoo being, as we understood, under Confinement through his Means.

General Goddard in the same Letter writes: "Should however a War become necessary, the "Season is so far advanced, and so little Time can hereaster be spared for Deliberation, that it will be expedient to consult and to desermine upon some Plan of Operations as early as can be done with Convenience." He also assured us of his Zeal and Readiness to promote any Views he might have formed for the Honour and Interest of the Company in general, or the particular Advantage of this Settlement; and requested we would communicate such Parts of them as we might judge proper at that Time, that he might be fully prepared to assist and co-operate in their Accomplishment.

He accompanied this Letter with Indents for Stores of all Kinds to complete the Army for Service, which we immediately furnished from our own Magazines.

In our Answer we acquainted him, that if he found his Negociation likely to break off, we were of Opinion it would be more advisable for him to come down to Bombay to confult with us respecting the Plan of Operations in such Case to be pursued, and which would thereby be determined with more Expedition and Accuracy than by Letter. In the mean Time we fent for his Consideration a Copy of the President's Minute of the 30th of March; observing only to him, that that Plan was concerted without any Relation to Ragoba, who was then in the Power of Mhadjee Scindia.

At this Period we received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, dated 2d of August, acquainting us, that from Accounts lately received of the Strength of the French at the Mauritius, they had great Reason to apprehend an Attempt was intended against this Settlement; they therefore deemed it of the utmost Importance to provide for its Sasety, by reinforcing the Army under General Goddard with a respectable Addition of Troops, and should direct him to be prepared for the expected Event, and to make it his first Object to afford us the most effectual Support and Protection in his Power.

That the Commander in Chief had informed them, One Battalion of Europeans, Three Battahons of Sepoys, and Fifty Artillery, might be spared from the Madras Establishment; and that we could likewise contribute 300 Europeans, Two Battalions of Sepoys, and 100 Artillery, for that Service, without any Inconvenience or Diffress to the Garrison; they had therefore written on the Subject to the Select Committee at Madras, and they earnestly recommended it to us to iffue immediate Orders for our Quota to be affembled to join General Goddard at fuch Place of Rendezvous as might be appointed, without Delay.

General Goddard, immediately after this Information reached him, acquainted us under the 29th of September, that in his Opinion, Surat was the most eligible Rendezvous for the Army; and requested that Vessels might be instantly dispatched to bring up the Troops from Mahé, which were to compose Part of the Quota to be furnished from Madras; and that our Quota might be in Readiness to join him, whenever it might be judged expedient from Circumstances to put them in Motion.

In the same Letter, he acquainted us, he had not received any Advices from the Maratta Agent

We will not enlarge upon the Inconsistency of detaching any Part of our Garrison to join General Goddard's Army at Surat, for the avowed Purpose of protecting this Island from Invasion, but proceed to acquaint you, that in his next Letter, dated the Day after the one last noticed, and received at the same Time, he related a material Piece of Intelligence he had just received from Poona, which he said he had Reason to believe might be relied on; the Particulars of which were, hat the Minister and Scindia, in conjunction with Hyder Ally, Nizam Ally, and Moodajee Bounzello, meant to make a general Attack upon the English, at their several Settlements, and had enzered into formal Agreements for that Purpose.

General Goddard further observed, that however the Probability of their executing literally a Plan of fuch Extent might be suspected, he could then scarce entertain a Doubt of the hostile Views of the Minister; and strongly represented the Necessity of having the Army put into a Condition for inflant and active Service, by collecting such a Force as might be sufficient to attack or to refift the Attacks of the Enemy. For these Reasons, he again urged the Expediency of bringing up the Troops from Mahé; and proposed, that the Detachment from this Presidency should be ordered to join the Army immediately.

In consequence of this Requisition, and Intelligence of the hostile Intentions of the Minister, we resolved to dispatch with the utmost Expedition a sufficient Number of Vessels to bring up the Forces and Stores from Mahé; the Fortifications of which were nearly demolished, except some few Works for the mere Protection of the Garrison; but at that Time (being the 6th of October) we did not judge it prudent to detach any Part of our Garrison, until the Season might be so far advanced, as to put it out of the Power of our Enemy's Fleets to come upon us by Surprize, which would be the Case by the Time the Troops might arrive from Mahé, and in the Interval our Preparations would be in Forwardness.

Our Vessels sailed from Mahé the 17th of October, and on the 22d, we received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, dated the 14th of September, in which they acquainted us, that as it was possible the Poona Government might have found Means to protract the Negociation, and as in that Case they would have had full Time for Deliberation, if they were at all inclined to establish an amicable Connection, they had therefore sent Injunctions to General Goddard, to repeat their Offers to the Durbar, and to demand their definitive Answer within the Space of Twenty-four Hours, declaring their Refutal or Delay beyond that Time to be equivalent to a Declaration of War, and that he would act accordingly.

If General Goddard should be reduced to this Extremity, they recommended to us to grant him every Aid in our Power, and to endeavour by every Means that might be necessary, to render his

These Orders reaching General Goddard before they arrived with us, we on the 29th received a Letter from him, acquainting us, that in confequence thereof he had declared to the Maratta Vac-keel in his Camp, the Suspicions he could not but entertain of the hostile Intentions of his Master, from the Delay that had unnecessarily arose, in sending an Answer to the Proposals so long before transmitted to him, to which an Answer had been faithfully promised in Twenty Days; that twice that Period was then elapsed, and the Vackeel had repeatedly amused him with Accounts of the Agent before mentioned to have been sent to Poona, having received his Dismission—it appeared from his own Acknowledgments, he had not then fet out, and would not in all Probability leave Poona till some Time after: He had however declared to the Vackeel, that notwithstanding these Circumstances of Suspicion, the English were still ready to shew their sincere Inclination for Peace, and that therefore he would wait Fisteen Days more, in which Time an Answer might be received from Poona, to a Letter the Vackeel would that Instant dispatch; at the Expiration of which Period, if the Agent did not arrive, or a fatisfactory Answer to the Proposals transmitted by him, he should consider the Delay as a Declaration of War, and act accordingly. This passed the 18th of October, and the limited Term was to expire the 3d of November.

We beheld with Concern Matters verging to close to a Rupture, when we were so little in a Condition to meet the War: Our Treasury was very low; we had no adequate Resources; nor had the Governor General and Council given us any Assurances of Assistance of Money from Bengal; General Goddard had shortly before drawn Four Lacks from the Surat Treasury, which was the utmost we could spare; and we had just received Advice by private Letters, of the Loss of the Stafford in Bengal River, with a confiderable Sum for the Service of his Army; we had no reasonable

A P P E N D I X, Nº 257. A.

Expectation of the Arrival of the Fleet in India before the Month of January, an Event which would diffuse Strength to all your Settlements, and give Confidence to our Measures; nor could we expect till then to receive the Quota of Troops from Madras, that Presidency having, as we learnt from private Advices, sent an Army into the Field under Colonel Harper; the Object of which, having no Information from them, we do not understand, but have heard it was with an Officer of Hyder Ally's, stationed at Cuddapa, lately subdued by him; and that they were on very doubtful Terms with that Nabob. Colonel Braithwaite likewise did not seem to intend to just the Army with the Forces from Mahe, until he received Orders from Madras; and we further knew from undoubted Authority, though not directly from the Governor General and Council, that a strong Detachment consisting of 49 Artillery, 2000 Sepoys, and 750 Horse, was to make from the Bengal Provinces under the Command of Captain Popham, the Safety of which might he put to extreme Hazard by an immediate Rupture with the Marattas: All which Considerations and the Time it must necessarily take up before the different Bodies of Troops that were to compose the Army could be collected and put in a Condition to act offensively, made us clearly of Opinion, that it was right Policy to endeavour to gain Time, and to protract the Crisis which a literal Fixe cution of the Orders from Bengal must immediately produce; we therefore on the same Day, the 29th October, dispatched a Letter to General Goddard, stating the above Reasons, and strongly recommending to him, if the Minister did not accede to the offered Terms, not to make any some diate Declaration, but according to their own Policy, to procrastinate and protract, till we will not better Condition for an active War, if a Rupture should at last be found inevitable.

Before our Letter could reach Surat General Goddard himself arrived here in a Gallivat on the 1st of November, and personally acquainted us, that before any Answer could arrive from Poora to the Declaration he had made to the Maratta Vackeel, in consequence of the last Order from the Governor General and Council, the Agent formerly dispatched thither with his Terms, as mentioned in the 19th Paragraph, had returned with Letters from the Peishwa and the Minssler, the Purport of which was simply to acknowledge the Receipt of his Proposals, and to refer him to the Agent for an Answer, as being fully instructed and informed with their Determination, which he would communicate.

That in a Conference with the Agent on the Subject he had in answer to the Proposals mide to the Durbar, plainly declared, that the Minister would not make Peace with the English, with Salsette was relinquished, and the Person of Ragonaut Row delivered up: That upon these Constions, and these only, he was ready to agree to the Proposals that had been sent to him; and declard in the most pointed Terms, that unless they were agreed to, there was no further Occasion for Negociation.

General Goddard gave the Vackeel his Dismission the next Day, and immediately embarked for Bombay, to consult with us upon the Measures to be pursued. He gave us his Sentiments very fully on the Subject, strongly urging vigorous and decisive Measures; and the President also proposed to us, a Plan of Conduct to be observed in our present Circumstances, on which we severally gave our Opinions; but as a Detail of Particulars would lead us to a Length much beyon the Limits of an Over-land Address, we shall, as most material, advise you only of the Result of our Deliberations, and of the Measures finally determined.

From the above State of the Cafe, and the military Preparations we learnt from all Quality were making at Poona, we were of Opinion, that a War with the Marattas was inevitable, and that it would become our Duty to afford our utmost Assistance to carry it on with Vigour, when no longer to be avoided; of which we were neither competent Judges, nor able in any Manner to controll the Event; the Negociation, as well as all Powers relative to Peace and War, being taken office: Hands: But without entering into any Question of Necessity or good Policy, we judged it necessary to mark it clearly on our Proceedings; and we request it may be fully understood, that the War now impending is not a Measure of the Select Committee of Bombay; and that whether it is approved or condemned, we do not confider ourselves as responsible either for the Meature itself, or the Success which may attend it. Our Reasons for this Position are founded on the Principle, that as the Negociation was carried on under the separate and distinct Instructions of the Governor General and Council, who have expressly acquainted us, that the principal Responsibility will reft with them; and as General Goddard is in consequence made responsible to them for his Conduct in the Operations of the War, we should be wanting in Justice to ourselves, if we did not disclaim all Responsibility both as to the Measure of the War itself, which is the Issue of that Negociation, as well as the Success of it when commenced; the Officer entrusted with the Execution being responsible to another Power. We are also of Opinion, that after thus disclaiming all Responsibility, whatever we might have to offer to General Goddard in the Course of Service, could only amount to Advice or Recommendation; neither were we warranted by the Governor General and Council to give him direct Orders for his Conduct; fince according to the respective Powers now held by this Committee and General Goddard, any Orders we might give are no further binding than according to his own Construction of them; and that it would therefore be ineffectual, and needlessly hazarding bur own Consequence to assume any such Power.

The Grounds upon which we shall act being thus ascertained, and which we clearly explained to General Goddard, we beg Leave to affure you, that according to our Duty to the Company, and from Motives of Justice and Honour, with respect to the Bengal Government, we shall contribute our Affistance most zealously and cordially to bring the War to a speedy and advantageous Conclufion, both with the Forces of this Presidency and the best Advices and Information in our Power to give to General Goddard.

In order to make his Army as respectable as possible, we immediately upon the General's acquainting us of the Negociation being broken off, sent a positive Requisition to Colonel Braithwite to embark the Forces at Mahé, upon the Vessel sent down to receive them, and to join the Army at Surat without Delay; making him responsible for the Consequences of a Non-compliance: And we determine forthwith to complete the Artillery Detachment to 100 Men, and further to reinforce the Army with a Body of 200 European Infantry and Two Battalions of Sc-poys, one of which confided of drafted Grenadiers, which Force we put under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, and was the utmost our Establishment could afford at this Time; they were fent up to Surat as we could procure Conveyances, the last Embarkation accompanying General Goddard, who on the 3d Inflant proceeded on the Revenge to join the Army, when we delivered him a Letter of Advice for his Conduct, the Heads of which were as follow:

We repeated our Reasons before-mentioned, for thinking it more advisable to endeavour to gain Time, and to protract any farther Declaration or any Acts of Hostility, provided the Motions of the Enemy would in Prudence permit; and we again strongly recommended to him, to observe temporizing Measures for the present; but we likewise observed, that if after Consideration of our Reasons he should judge it eligible or necessary to enter upon immediate Action, the Determination must rest with him, as we by no Means intended to lay any Restraint upon him, but only to offer him the Advice in our Opinion most suitable to present Circumstances.

Whenever the Objections now existing might be removed, and Circumstances might become sufficiently favourable for commencing Operations, our Sentiments then entirely coincided with General Goddard's upon the Plan of Action to be purfued; this will be to fecure a Country and Revenue capable of affording an extensive Field of Supply for the Exigencies of the War, and we hope for the future Emolument of the Company; and the President's Plan of the 30th of March, Coking us both in this Light, and General Goddard affuring us his Force was fully equal to the Undertaking, we have recommended to him, as his first Object to carry it into Execution, so far as relates to the Reduction of the Maratta Possessions adjoining to Surat and Broach, and the Settlement of the Guzerat Province, in concert with Futty Sing.

We however defired him to lose no Time in commencing a Negociation with Futty Sing, and to endeavour to convince him of the Advantage which will ensue to him from uniting with us, in the Settlement of the Province upon the proposed Plan; recommending strongly to the General to use his utmost Address to bring this Point to bear, by an amicable Compromise father than by an Exertion of Force.

For this Purpose, we defired him to explain clearly to Futty Sing, that no Injury was meant to blin, but only to take into the Company's Hands the Poona Share of the Revenues held in Farticipation with him, and thereby to diffress our Enemies with whom we are at War; but that is our Wish to be on the most friendly Terms with him; and that General Goddard was fully empowered to treat with him for an amicable and equitable Settlement, upon Terms of mutual Advantage and Security to him from all future Dependants on the Poona Government, or Ground for Dispute with the Company.

The Grounds of the Engagement to be formed with Futty Sing will be our supporting and detending him in Possessino of his Share of the Guzerat Province independant of the Poona Government, and his engaging to support the Company in the Share now held by that Government. To make this Settlement as convenient as possible, and to avoid the continual Differences which must arise from both Parties having an Interest in the same Places, it will be proposed to Futty Sing to make an absolute and specific Partition of Territory, according to the Proportion of the Revenues now respectively held by him and the Marattas, and each Party to have the distinct and sole Government and Possession of the Share which may be allotted to them in the new Settlement.

The proposed Mode of Partition is to put Futty Sing in Possession of, and guarantee to him, the Maratta Possessions to the Northward of the River Mahie, and for him to make over to the Company the Guicawar Division of the Countries South of the Tappy, their Share in the Revenues of Surat, and fuch other Lands as may nearly make up an Equivalent to the Countries to be guarantied as above to Futty Sing. When a Settlement is made on these Terms, and the Maratta Garrisons expelled, the Honourable Company will receive Possession of the Districts anciently annexed to Surat, and particularized in an Account entered in the Select Committee's Diary, under the 6th May 1772.

It is also to be stipulated with Futty Sing, that we will support him in withholding the Tribute of 27 Lacks per Annum, which he now pays to the Poona Circar for his Jaghires in Guzerat, until a final Treaty is concluded between the Company and that Government, and that his Interests will be carefully attended to therein, if he cordially unites in the proposed Settlement.

These are the general Outlines of the intended Settlement; besides which, we recommended as lesser Points to General Goddard to attend to the Interest of the Nabob of Cambay and Govind Row, so far as he could, consistently with the Instructions from the Governor General and Council, dated the 14th of June, and also to stipulate with Futty Sing for the Cession of some few Villages he still retains in the Broach Purgunnah, and of another District adjoining thereto.

REP. VI. [Tt]Whenever

PENDIX, N° 257. A,

Whenever it shall be determined no longer to observe temporizing Measures, General Goddard will proceed in the Reduction of the Maratta Possession adjoining to Surat, and the Purgunnalis between the Myhic and the Tappy, comprehending the Country in Guzerat, ceded to the Company by the Treaty with Ragoba, taking Care not to molest the Guicawars, Cheties, and Collectors, in their several Stations. The Object of his future Operations will be determined by the Result of his Ne. gociation with Futty Sing, whom we most ardently wish he may be able to detach from his Connection with the Poona Government, and to fix him in an Alliance with the Company, which will be attended with the grand Advantages of giving Security to your Northern Poffessions, and depriving the Enemy of the Assistance of a powerful Ally.

Another most powerful Recommendation of the proposed Plan, is the Necessity of continuing the Army in the Guzerat Province, until a Junction is effected with Captain Popham's Detachment, which we learn is to march by the Way of Agra and Azmere to Amedavad; and we hope before Hostilities are commenced, will have made considerable Progress, so as to be rendered subservient. to the Execution of the Plan by the Reduction of the Countries to the Northward of the Myhie, which are to be guarantied to Futty Sing, while the Polition of the Army under General Goddard will facilitate their Approach, and take up the chief Part of the Enemy's Attention: We have yet no Accounts of the Situation or Motions of that Detachment.

The Line of Conduct to be pursued respecting Ragoba was likewise seriously considered, when we concurred with a Recommendation from General Goddard, not to enter into any positive En. gagement with him at present, or appear as the avowed Supporters of his Pretensions, but to look forward to his Restoration at some future Period when Circumstances may be more favourable, General Goddard will however hold out to him the Hopes of firmly establishing him in the Go. vernment of the Maratta State, as our grand and ultimate Object, and we hope will be able to reconcile him to the System we have adopted, by representing to him in its true Light how indif-pensable it is for us to secure some, firm and solid Establishment of territorial Possession and Revenue, before we shall be in a Condition to prosecute any other Plan more immediately tending to his Advancement.

General Goddard acquainted us that he had found Madjee Scindia so averse to any Accommodation, and fo much inclined to hoftile Meafures, that he did not think proper to commit the Honour of the Company, by making any Overtures to him, according to the Instructions from the Governor General and Council.

You have now before you the State of Matters when General Goddard left Bombay; and we have the Satisfaction to acquaint you that we received his warmest Acknowledgments for the ready Support and Affiftance afforded him by this Government, and the Harmony and good Understanding mutually observed in our Deliberations, from which he drew the happiest Omens of Success, nor should we omit to acquaint you that he at the Amer Time gave us Notice of his having received Advice of Ten Lacks of Rupees being remitted from Bengal for his Army, Half in Specie and Half in Bills, and a Pacquet containing Bills has been lately forwarded to him, but we know not to what Amount.

Your Affairs at Tellicherry are in a disagreeable Situation, and particularly embarrassing to us at this Juncture. The Prince of Cherrika, of whose unfavourable Disposition to the Honourable Company repeated Mention has been made in our late Advices, has at length in conjunction with the young King of Cartenaddue, openly commenced Hostilities, and entered Tellicherry Diffuicwith a confiderable Force. The Enemy had possessed themselves of some adjoining Hills, in Consequence of which, the Resident and Factors thought it necessary on the 1st ultimo, to deliver our the Keys of the Fort to the Commanding Officer, and to leave to his Direction the Measures for repulling the Enemy, who though they appeared numerous, your Servants acquainted us they were not under any Apprehensions for the Safety of the Fort or your Property.

Several Skirmithes and Attacks of Posts happened in the Month of November, and the Enemy gained some Ground, when our Officers finding Tellicherry garrisoned, not equal to the Task of distodying the Enemy, made Application to Colonel Braithwaite, who accordingly after compleating the Destruction of Mahé, brought in his whole Force and took upon him the Command of the

It is not material at this Time to enter fully into the Causes which may have induced these Malabars to act in this hostile Manner, but Colonel Braithwaite is strongly of Opinion their Conduct is principally influenced by Hyder Ally, and he even expects they will be joined by a Body of the Nabob's Troops which had taken Possession of the Ruins of Mahé, it is said with an Intention to fortify it again. A more confidential Communication on the Part of the Gentlemen at Madras would enable us to form a better Judg aent of the Foundation of Colonel Braithwaite's Opinion; but, we however have the strongest Hopes the respectable Force now in Tellicherry, will be able essectually to defeat and dislodge the Enemy, and Colonel Braithwaite has affured us his most active Efforts will be exerted for that Purpose. The President has likewise written to Hyder Ally, and we hope by his Answer to be able to judge with some Certainty of his Intention. This Event has delayed the Junction of the Forces from Mahe with General Goddard's Army, but the Veffels have brought up to Bombay the Ordnance and Stores taken there. We have no Advice from the Gentlemen at Madras respecting the Remainder of the Quota they were defired by the Governor General and Council to furnish for the Army under General Goddard; and we only learn from Colonel Braithwaite, that they had directed the Europeans peans of his Detachment, confifting of one Company of Artillery, and one of Infantry, in the Whole not 100 Men, to be fent up to the Army with one Battalion of Sepoys.

Monsieur Picot, late Chief of Mahé, having requested our Permission to take Passage to Europe in a Portugueze Ship bound from Goa to Lisbon, we consented thereto, as there was no Probability of a Ship being dispatched from this Place for some Time, and the Charge of supporting him and his Suite would thereby be put an End to; we allowed him 12,000 Rupees for the whole Expence to be incurred on that Account, and took his Parole to return to France according to his Capitulation. We were afterwards acquainted by Mr. Bristow with the Directions he was commissioned by the Deputy Chairman to fend to the different Presidencies respecting the Return of French Priioners, which we shall duly observe.

The only Letter we have received from General Goddard fince his Arrival at Surat, is dated the 15th Instant, in which he acquainted us, that having made every necessary Arrangement, he expected Joon to inform us of the Troops being in Motion; that he had opened the Negociation with Futty Sing, and communicated his Proposals, to which he expected an Answer in a few Days, though as the Success thereof would rather be advanced than retarded by the Movement of the Forces, he should not remain inactive on account of any Delay in Futty Sing, but enter upon military Operations whenever Circumstances might render it convenient, observing the most scrupulous Attention to the Preservation of the Country belonging to the Guicawars.

The General being very pressing for a further Supply of Money till his Remittances arrive from Bengal, which the Governor General and Council acquaint us under the 14th of October, they should find Means to furnish without allowing him to draw upon them, we agreed to advance him Two Lacks more out of a Loan of Five to Six Lacks we had been under a Necessity of impowering the Chief of Surat to raise there for our own immediate Expences; and having applied on this Occasion to the Nabob, the Sum offered by him was so trisling, that we did not think it proper

By Letters from Tellicherry of the 20th Instant, we do not find Colonel Braithwaite had taken any Steps for diflodging the Enemy, but had been engaged in a long Correspondence with your Servants. Major Cotgrave had just arrived from Madras to relieve him in the Command.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council in Bengal, to the Court of Directors in their Public Department; dated the 14th January 1779.

THE Drafts made upon us by General Goddard fince his Arrival at Surat, have amounted to Sicca Rupees 32,49,090. 7. 1.; besides which, we have supplied him by Bills 5 Lacks, in Specie by the Britannia 8 Lacks, and by the Besborough 2 Lacks.

The great Disadvantage suffered by the Company in the low Rate of Exchange obtained by General Goddard for his Bills, some of which were drawn at 93, and none higher than 95, Surat Rupees for 100 Calcutta Siccas, induced us to put a Stop to his Power of drawing, and to adopt the Remittance of Bullion, as a present Mode of Supply, which may enable us to bring back the Exchange somewhat nearer to its original Standard,

The united Demands upon us from Bombay, General Goddard, and the different Offices here, for the necessary Charges of our own Establishments, added to the Total Loss of 5 Lacks in the Stafford, have so far dried up our immediate Resources, that we have been obliged to resuse any further Compliance with the Application of the Presidency of Fort Saint George for Cash, and to excuse ourselves from sending the Balance, being a Lacks, which remained to complete the Saintle excuse ourselves from sending the Balance, being 5 Lacks, which remained to complete the Supply of 15 Lacks promifed to them in March last.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Secret Depart. ment, to the Court of Directors; dated the 3d March 1780.

Par. 16. WE find by Letters received from General Goddard, since his Return to the Command of the Army at Surat, that the Plan which he has adopted with the Command of the Army at Surat, that the Plan which he has adopted with the Communication, and conclude a Treaty of Alliance and Support with Futty Sing Guicawar, to engage him in which he is to be rendered independant of the Poona Government, and the Guzerat Country is to be divided with him, the Company retaining that Share of the Revenue now paid to the Marattas, and releasing Futty Sing's Proportion from all the Claims formerly made upon it; there being no Object either to invite or justify an immediate Attempt on the Capital itself, the Success of which, though more splendid, would be acquired with greater Hazard, and yield no substantial Advantage, nor so near a Prospect of terminating the War, as the Plan which has been adopted.

17. In Conformity to this Plan, Offers were transmitted by General Goddard to Futty Sing; but whether from Doubt of their Sincerity, or Dread of the Resentment of the Maratta Chiefs, he endeavoured to protract or avoid any Determination upon them, by evading to acknowledge the Receipt of them in Letters which he afterwards wrote to General Goddard; as the Subject of those Letters was confined barely to Professions of Friendship and Attachment which he bore towards the

18. Thus fituated, General Goddard thought it advisable to force him to an immediate Declaration of his Intentions, by marching the English Army directly towards Brodera his Capital. The Troops have accordingly crossed the Tappy, and were under March on the 1st January to the Northward.

- 19. In the present Plan of Operations, Ragoba is excluded from any positive Share in the Success of the War: He has been informed, that the Revenue which will be collected from Guzerat is a necessary Fund for the Support of the Army which may hereafter be employed to further his Views in the Maratta Government, when a Party shall have been made sufficiently strong to enable him to pursue them with Advantage. In the mean while, being drawn into the present War as Principals, we have resolved to act as such, and support it ourselves; allowing Ragoba no direct Participation in the Conquests which may result from it. On this Principle we have forbid General Goddard to enter into any Engagement with him whatsoever, or to suffer him to become chargeable on the Company, but to confine his Connection with him to personal Protection only. This will leave us at Liberty to pursue such Liberty to confine the Connection with him to personal Protection only. This will leave us at Liberty to pursue such Liberty to fact the first possible of the could have received our sinal Orders, had cautiously avoided any Participation of Interests with him, and reserved an Opening to adopt any other Measures that might be resolved on; but we are forry to say, that such an universal Indisposition seems to prevail towards Ragoba, either from the Character which he bears, or the supposed Consequence of his Pretensions, that we must fear an open Declaration in his Favour would only multiply our Enemies, and draw upon us the Opposition of Persons naturally averse to his Interests, who might not otherwise interfere in our Disputes with the Marattas; a nearer Alliance with him would therefore, we apprehend, be detrimental to our Views and burthensome to the Company.
 - 20. General Goddard has been reinforced by a Detachment from Bombay, confisting of within the Limits of the Company's Territory at Tellicherry, which required their immediate Prefence and Affiliance, and obliged Colonel Braithwaite to repair to and take the Command of that Garrison, in order to prevent his being attacked by the Nairs, subject to the Prince of Cherickee, with whom the Company's Troops stationed at Tellicherry, had previously had some Skirmishes, in support, as Colonel Braithwaite writes, of the Protection given by that Factory to the King of Cartinada, who is at Variance with the other Chief, and has an Army drawn out to oppose him.

22. The President and Select Committee, on hearing that the Force intended for the Succour of General Goddard was thus diverted from its Destination, resolved to grant him a military Aid immediately, from their own Establishment, and ordered I Battalion of Europeans, I Company of Artillery, and I Battalion of Sepoys, to be embarked without Delay for Surat, and I Battalion of Sepoys more to be in Readiness at Anjengo, if their Services shall hereaster be required.

23. The President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George likewise inform us, that they have ordered Colonel Braithwaite to fend the Europeans under his Command to join General Goddard; unless Hyder Ally shall have taken Part in the Disputes of his Tributary Dependants, and consequently given Orders for Hostilities to be committed on the Company's Factory at Tellicherry.

24. General Goddard expecting to receive a Reinforcement of the Madras Troops, has mentioned his Intention of keeping open the Communication for a Junction with his Army, to be formed by the Way of Surat.

25. He likewise mentions, that the Collections of the Countries adjoining to Surat and Broach, over which the Power of his Arms extended, had been delivered to the Charge of the Company's Civil Servants there, and that the People appeared to be very well fatisfied with their Change of Masters.

Bengal Secret Perfian Correspondence.

From Moodajee Bhosila; Received 19th January 1780.

THE Letters and numberless Messages which have passed between us in the Course of One Year, cannot be considered as simple Letters of Compliment and Friendship; but every Letter may be looked upon as a Record, since they have contained Remarks on the Acts of Government, and every Affair, both the most inconsiderable and of the greatest Consequence; the declining and adopting every Design; and the pointing out with Caution and Foresight Conditions in every Affair which required Prudence and Circumspection; together with your strict Attention to Truth, which has never admitted of the smallest Deviation; and your impartial Justice, before which, from the resolute Firmness of your Mind, the weighty Mountain and the light Straw are of equal Balance; and repeated Remarks of the Affairs of Bengal, which must all have certainly been understood by you.

Of Three of your Letters, containing the Whole of your Defigns and the Satuation of your Quarter, One on your Apprehensions from the Reception of a French Vackeel in the Territories of Pundit Purdhaun, and your having no Confidence in his Actions and those of the Rulers of Poona; on your Defire in consequence of sending an Army with a Chief in your Confidence for the Protection of Bombay, and that a Person should be dispatched to supply the Army with Provisions and other Necessaries, who, conducting them to Hoshungabad, might dismiss them in Sasety from my Territories: And the Third written after the Death of Mr. Elliott, on your having committed to Beneram Pundit every thing that had been entrusted to the Deceased; his setting off with Ramkaunt with my Answers; his Arrival at Calcutta; and your being made acquainted with the Contents of all my Letters on these Subjects, were received.

What I understand by your Letters, although they seem to contain much, is in sew Words, that you consider my Designs as inconsiderable, and do not approve of my Views. I have therefore laid aside my Intentions for some Time, and dropped the Prosecution of them; but I am nevertheless ready, at all Times, to perform the Duties of our ancient Friendship and Connection; and from the open and friendly Intercourse between me and Colonel Goddard, I am prompted to assist him with my Advice and Counsel. By the Blessing of God, when it shall be necessary, I will advise in the best Manner. But you have said in most of your Letters, that every one thinks his own Opinion best. Thus Colonel Goddard, contrary to my Advice, marched towards Surat; and the Chiefs of Bombay, without Caution and Circumspection, and without your Permission, marched into the Territories of Poona to the Support of Ragonaut Row; but their Projects did not succeed, and Ragonaut Row put himself under the Protection of Sindeah; and the Chiefs of Bombay having for their own Safety made a new Engagement in the Room of the Treaty of Colonel Upton, returned to their own Territories. The English of Bombay, in this Quarrel and open Hostilities, in which they were worsted, were guilty of many Breaches of Faith towards the Ministers of Poona, and did not regard the Treaties which all Rulers of States pay the greatest Attention to, and without any Consideration of their Honour and Dignity, acted contrary to Prudence and to your Directions, as you informed me in a great Number of Letters, and as Colonel Goddard also wrote to me.

From my Knowledge of the State of Affairs, and from the Exercise of our Friencist p, which has been kept up for upwards of a Year, by a mutual Communication of the Situation of Things, and of the most inconsiderable as well as important Matters, I discover Three Things in your I etters and those of Colonel Goddard; One, That the Bombay Chief supported Raponaut Row without any Authority from you: The other, That you have dropped your great Design, but are resolved to keep up our former Friendship; and the Third, what you mention in all your Letters, that every one thinks his Opinion the best. The First is Fact, that whatever the Chief of Bombay has done has been contrary to your Advice, who are alone able to advite: And the Second, That in every Situation you will maintain our Friendship, is also to be depend on: And the Third, That every one thinks his own Opinion the best, is a common Proverb, but it is not however Rep. VI.

the Notion of wise Men, who never have any Connections with powerful States, except those of Peace and Friendship. This you must have written in your Displeasure, upon hearing of the Bombay Chief having acted so imprudently, but you cannot conceive it to hold good in every Instance.

The 2d Article, which is werthy to be followed, you should maintain: But that Friendship which is kept up and openly shewn by Letters only, and which when wanted, does not excit itself; so far from being of any Advantage, may bring the greatest Detriment. My Maxim on the contrary is this, that with whomsoever I enter into Alliance, although there should be innumerable Disadvantages in it, I never turn myself aside from it. My advantageous Connection with Pundit Purdhaun, and the friendly Connection of Letters with you, which you commenced upwards of a Year fince, are equally firm.

The Arrival of Colonel Goddard with his whole Army, Stores, Artillery, &c. on the Borders of my Territories; his remaining there Two Months; the Intercourse of Presents between us; my tending, when necessary, Provisions and every thing which he desired; that Mr. Watherstone, who came here with few Attendants, departed with the Money for his Bills on Benares, with Oxen and every Article which he desired of me; that Two Gentlemen of your Confidence who were with Mr. Elliott shall remain here Two Months; all this you cannot consider as small Matters. For although I perceived the Danger of exposing myself to the Resentment of the People of Decan, who are Masters of large Armies, powerful Resources, Treatures, Forts, and strong Places, not withstanding what my Apprehensions from them might be, I, from the Duty of Friendship towards you, resolved to take upon me the worst of their Resentment, in conformity to the Proverb which says; "You must not, with your open Eyes, throw yourself into a Whirlpool; but should you find yourself in one, you must not give yourself up to your Apprehensions."

Reflect maturely upon what I write; for from what can arise my exposing myself to Destruction, by not obeying the Summons, and not performing what might be expected from my ancient Connection with Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah, except from my Friendship for you, although there are no immediate Advantages to be drawn from it?

At present that I have received a Karetah from you, in which, like a Honey Bee which contains both Sweetness and a Sting, you drop your great Designs, but resolve to preserve the Duties of our Friendship, and finish by saying, that every one thinks his own Opinion the best; in confequence of my Apprehensions, I laid aside the Sting and adopted the Sweetness, and accordingly dispatched Dewagur Pundit to Poona, and sent this Message by him to the Ministers of Poona: "I am a Branch of the illustrious Family of the Raje; you are the Rulers of all Matters belonging to it: If you chuse to keep up Friendship and Connection with me, I will continue attached to you; but I have not Need of the Assistance of the Raje; for, from of old I have been closely connected with the Soubahs of Bengal, and with one who has the supreme Direction over all the Countries, and who from his Wisdom and superior Prudence is faithful to his Word and strict to his Engagements. That Peace may be simply established between us by Treaty, you must entertain no Thoughts of War, since none of those Advantages which are to be acquired by Peace can be found in Dissensions and Hostilities."

Dewagur Pundit after his Arrival at Poona had many Conferences in free and unbiassed Terms, either by Fear or Partiality with the English Gentlemen; and for Three Months was employed in opposing, both openly and in private, the Demands of the Ministers, in such a well reslected Manner, that if you had a Person there to have seen and heard it, he would certainly have written it to you, and you could not have disbelieved it. Nanna Purnaveese, who is the Chief Minister, is possessed of superior Wisdom and Prudence, is well advised, of strict Truth, and in his Attention to his Treaties, like a Leaf which trembles at the least Wind, he has dreaded the smallest Innovation in them, from the Time of Ballajee Bishennaut, till the Treaty of Colonel Upton, and from that Time till the Formation of the new Treaty which was made with the Bombay Chiefs, by Pundit Purdhaun, through the Means of Sindeah, after the breaking out of the War and the Arrival of Ragonaut Row. He made Dewagur Pundit acquainted with all the former Transactions and the present State of Affairs, and shewed him all the Treaties which have been made, and defired him to see on what Side the Breach of Faith was, and which Part was guilty of Infractions: And yet, said he, they declare that they stick to their Engagements. Dewagur Pundit, after discovering the Stuation of Affairs, wrote repeated Letters to Colonel Goddard, advising him to be cautious and prudent in his Proceedings, and to keep in View the Conditions of the Treaty, which he muttand the his Proceedings, and to keep in View the Conditions of the Treaty, which he muttand to you, and dispatched those Letters, together with Rhautahs from me from Naigpore to Calcutta. You will doubtless have understood all these Particulars, which were distated by the sincerest Friendship; but I have been for this long Time to the present Instant in Expectation of your Answer to them.

Repeated Letters are received from Colonel Goddard, by Pundit Purdhaun and Dewagur Pundit, at Poona; the First to acquaint them, that as he had many secret Things to communicate, they should send a considential Person to him, to whom he might impart every Circumstance, and settle with the Terms of the Treaty. Nanna Purnaveese in compliance with this dispatched, with the Advice of Dewager Pundit, a Person in his Considence to Surat: He was not yet arrived there when a Second Letter was received from the Colonel, that as it would be a long Time before the Arrival of the Agent, he was therefore determined to come in Person with all Expedition by the

A P P E N D I X, Nº251. B.

Dauk to the Neighbourhood of Poona, and have a Personal Conference: That he had been appointed to the sole Management of the Negociations with Pundit Purdhaun, and that the sole Desire was to settle to mutual Satisfaction the Terms, that so all Disputes and Disferences might be ended, and the Treaty faithfully observed by both Parties! That they should be assured that there was no other Reason for his keeping with him Ragonaut Row, who had come of himself to Poonas than to preserve the Treaty and Friendship substituting with Pundit Purdhaun, and to prevent the Disputes from proceeding further. Nanna Purnaveese, in answer to this, wrote himself, and made Dewagur Pundit write, that nothing could be more advisable; that his House was the Colonel's, and that he should come without Delay, as they were anxiously expecting him: That they had erected for his Reception a Tent and Pavilion without the Town.

About this Time Letters were received from Colonel Goddard, that he did not affent to the Treaty made by the Bombay Chief, but that both Sides must conform themselves to the Treaty executed by Colonel Upton: Karetahs likewise for me, and Letters from Dewagur Pundit, were received at the same Time from you, as also for Pundit Purdhaun, and Nanna Purnaveese, that you had no Inclination for War, but were resolved to maintain the Treaty of Colonel Upton: That you could not affent to the new Engagements entered into by the Bombay Chief, or agree to any Thing by which the Honour and Dignity of the Government might be impaired.

When Dewagur Pundit had, agreeable to that, represented every Thing that was to be expected from his Friendship, Nanna Purnaveese brought out the Treaty of Colonel Upton, and said to him, "See what a Number of Conditions of this Treaty even have not been complied with; and in the Instance of Ragonaut Row, they have infringed every Treaty, by giving him a Place of Refuge with them, which is forbidden by numberless Articles: In giving up Jesspore and Salsette, &c. Mahals, belonging to Gojeraut, what Numbers of Excuses have they not made. But without mentioning the Enmity and Resentment which they have conceived against us, for sending back their Army in Sasety to Bombay, they have again received Ragonaut Row, and are bussly employed in preparing for War; tell me now on which Side the greatest Attention to Treaty is shewn?" Dewagur Pundit having made a Copy of many of the Articles of Colonel Upton's Treaty, sent it, with Letters directed for your Quarter, to Naigpore, which were dispatched by the Way of Cuttack, with Karetahs from me, containing cautious and prudent Resolutions, distated by Foresight and long Resections, and by my Friendship and Affections, by which the good Administration of Affairs, and the Security of the People are established, and in which no Duty of my Friendship was forgot; doubtless after their Arrival all their Contents were made known to you. This is the Fourth Month since my dispatching those Letters, but as yet I have received no Answer to them, that, in Conformity to that, the Negociations might be set on Foot.

Upon the Arrival of the confidential Persons from Pundit Purdhaun, at Surat, and their having a Meeting with Colonel Goddard, he laid aside his former Intention of going to Poona; and sent back one of the Agents of Pundit Purdhaun to Poona, with this Message, That they must pay for the Expences of his Quarter One Year's Kist, for the Mahals of Gojeraut, which they gave the Year after the Formation of Colonel Upton's Treaty, and of which at present, since the making the new Treaty, there appears to be One Year's Kists due by the Accounts; and that they must restore all Ragonaut Row's Money or Essects, which may be in their Possession, and allot him a Place for his Habitation, and discharge the Pay due to his Followers; together with many other Articles, which would be too prolix to be written. Nanna Purnaveese, upon hearing all these Particulars, said to Dewagur Pundit, "Do you hear what Message they have sent? you may recollect what they before ' used to write, and how they have since acted."

As from the Time of the Death of Narain Row, for the Space of Four Years, the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah has been, from his Heart, attached to Pundit Purdhaun, and agrees with him in every Refolution both for War and Peace; and as the Ministers of Poona consult the Nabob in every Matter, even of the smallest Moment, and will support him with all their Power, they have therefore written to him every thing that has taken place with Colonel Goddard, and the Conference of Dewagur Pundit; and the Nabob has wrote in Answer, that Mr. Hollond was arrived from Madras, for the Purpose of negociating with him; but that in the Assair of Shinkakull Rajebundry, and the Dependency of Arcot, which by the Treaty belongs to him, what that Gentleman says, is contrary to the Treaty; that he had said to Mr. Hollond, and wrote to Madras, whatever was proper to be said in Answer, and would wait the Event of the Negociation; and that he sent Letters to Calcutta, that they ought to conform to the Conditions of the Treaty with Pundit Purdhaun, and with him, and not infringe them in the least, but that he did not expect to receive a satisfactory Answer. That which ever Way these Matters may end, they ought to be ready for either Peace or War; that this must be done by collecting Troops, and preparing Quantities of all Kind of Stores: That as the English are situated on Three Sides of them, they also should oppose the English on the Three Sides, and gain over Hyder Naig to their Assistance: That in the Transactions with the Three Quarters (whatever might be expected from the English, whether War or Peace) they ought to proceed in this Manner, to chuse out one Person from several (either Pundit Purdhaun, or himself, or the Bhossias) to whom they might commit the Negociations for Peace with the English, on the Three Sides, and hot remain obstinate in their Demands, as by so being, Peace would be delayed. That such was his Advice, and the only one he could give; but that they were the Masters, to follow it or not.

Nº 251. B. APPENDIX,

Upon the Arrival of these Letters to the Poona Ministers, of which Tenor there were also Let. Upon the Arrival of their Letters to the Foods Affiness, of the Pundit, that he knew of no better ters for me and Dewagur Pundit, Nanna Purnaveese said to the Pundit, that he knew of no better Advice; and that he had been thinking of the same himself, and was employed in negociating a Advice; and that he had been thinking of the same himself, and was employed in negociating a Advice; and that he had been thinking of the same himself, and was employed in negociating a Advice; and that he had been thinking of the same for the Troops and defend the Third Side; for that likewise necessary for him (Dewagur Pundit) to raise Troops and defend the Third Side; for that likewise necessary for him (Dewagur Pundit) to raise Troops and defend the Nabol Nice. as he was to clotely connected with him, whenever their Power, or that of the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah, should be in Danger, his Country and Power would not be safe from the Attacks of the English. Dewagur Pundit replied to him, That the Branches of the illustrious Family of the Raja, who were supported under the Shadow of the Musual of the Raje of Pundit Purdhaun, had no other Employment but to affift him with all their Power. That in conformity to the Resolution before mentioned, he would collect Troops, and take charge of the Side he spoke of, and would employ himself in Negociations with the English Gentlemen agreeable to the Treaty. Natra. Purnayeese answered, If Negociations can be carried on through you, agreeable to the Treaty, and he brought to a Determination, it is well; but let it not be in fuch a Manner, that while the English are putting you off with Excuses and Delays, they should be raising Troops, and of a sudden break out in Hostilities, whilst I am off of my Guard and not suspecting it. You must therefore employ yourself busily at Home in these Matters, and settle in whatsoever Manner the Circums Stances shall require.

As your Answers have been late in coming, and the Conserences with Colonel Goddard are at a Stand; Dewagur Pundit not thinking advisable to carry these Matters any further without your Permission, after he had procured his Dismission, came by long Journies to Naigpore, and repo fented to me all the Particulars above written.

I have in the mean while received frequent Letters from the Nabob Nizam Ally and Pundit Perl haun to get ready my Troops and march them out. Accordingly my Son Jemmajee Boofla on the Duss are encamped; and after having got together Stores for the Cavalry, and other Necessare and fent towards Andery, with Counfellors of known Wisdom and Experience, that remaining forg Time at the Ghaut of Andery, he may collect the Troops of the Dufs Sirdars, from most of who Vackeels have come offering their Services, till Answers to my Letters shall arrive from Calcutta el from Colonel Goddard.

As in this our Intercourse of Friendship, you have written Letters of equal Length with the of the News Writers; and as our Connection and Alliance is well known to Pundit Peithwa the Nabob, and all the Decan People; and it is a Saying with them, That the English and Beosli. as one: From the arriving of Colonel Goddard at Hoshungabad, and his remaining there In Months from my Advice; from the Conferences of Dewagur Pundit at Poona, and his fendfrequent Letters with my Opinion on the best Terms to be settled upon by the Ministers with the English, and advising them to Peace: And as our Friendship cannot be carried any further, the Connection between the Family of the Raje and Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob, which is able to last from Generation to Generation, cannot be dropped; I am therefore desirous, that through my Mediation Peace may be established with you, by Pundit Peishwa and the Nabob, at any Ray and by you with these Two Chiefs; and that on the settling the Negociation, a Treaty may be made between you on fuch folid Grounds as to admit of no Breach of Promife, but may ferve is ever the Peace and Security of your Subjects. Whenever the Negociations on the Part of the fwo Chiefs shall be transacted through me, I have no Doubt of succeeding in making Peace between you. Having maturely reslected and resolved in your Mind my Communications to you, when have been greater and more unreserved than what is thought necessary in Friendship, and which I make for your Information, you will without Doubt adopt whatever is most likely to promote Friendship. and to preserve the Treaties existing, without my pointing it out to you; and for such Conduct Reward is to be expected from God.

I accordingly request you would write to me explicitly, agreeable to my former Letters, in which! enclosed you Papers respecting the Treaty of Colone! Upton, whether the Negociations are drawing to a Conclusion, and whether the Conditions with the Nabob can be settled; that in conformity that, Peace may be made with Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob; and that you will write to Colone Goddard whatever you think advisable in this Matter, that he may apply himself with my friendly Assistance to the Establishment of Peace, and not go in the least aside from the Tenor of the Ticats, of which none but the Wife are able to judge. You must restect maturely on what I have written which is the Dictates of my Heart; for what Purpose I have written it: not for my own Advantage but fimply from my Friendship. I have no Doubt but this will gain me your good Will, and that you will not forget these Proofs of my Friendship, but remove my Anxiety, by savouring of with an Answer. In short, as long as Ragonaut Row shall remain with the English, no Conclusion of Repose from these Disputes and Mitunderstanding can take place; but his Stay will be an enthal party of Daniel Brook of The Party of Th Source of Quarrels and Breaches of Treaty. On the contrary, the delivering him up to Pundit Purdhaun is extremely advisable, and will be the Means of preserving the Treaty, and of keeping the Pinhaun of all Sides and the Pundit Purdhaun of all Sides and the Pundit Pun

From Dewagur Pundit, dated the 21st Likaida, December 1779; received the 29th January 1780.

Before this I wrote you frequently from Poona, in my Answers to your Letters, whatever was most advisable after my Interviews and repeated Conferences with Nanna Purnavecte, and my discovering and being Witness to the Faith and strict Attention to Treatics in all the Ministers, and the Firmness and Courage of the Generals, such as Madajce Row Sindiah, Tocojce Holcar, and other Chiefs of note, and that the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah was as one in all the Interests and Concerns of Pundit Purdhaun, and that all the Chiefs and Zemindars both of the Hills and Low Countries, from the River Nurbudda to the Banks of the Shoor, who inhabit the Six Soubahs of Deccan, and the Talookdars of the Carnatic, who are fettled in that large Tract of Country, are attached from the Bottom of their Hearts to the illustrious House of the Raje and the Family of Pundit Purdhaun, in fuch a Manner, that if hostile Intentions should be discovered from any Quarter, or any Inclination for War, or Breach of Faith and Treaty appear in any one, we should all join with Pundit Purdhaun, and, as if in Defence of our own Possessions, bring our Quota to the War; not like the Friendship of those who only court the World. You wrote in Answer, that you had not the imallest Inclination to break the Treaty, and that what was done by the Bombay Chief, arose from his Imprudence and Rashness; that in whatever brought no Detriment to the Honour and Dignity of your Nation, you would preferve every Tittle of your Treaties, and maintain your Friendship; that you had given Colonel Goddard the fole Power of making Peace. Thefe Answers I received feverally, and also Letters from Colonel Goddard, full of Professions of his Inclinations for Peace, and of his having given Ragonaut Row a Place of Refuge with him folely for this Purpole, that he might keep the Peace with Pundit Purdhaun inviolate, by preventing him from taking Refuge any where else, and faise Commotions there; that it was necessary a considential Agent should be dispatched to him, to whom the greatest Secrets might be imparted, and Peace concluded with him. Agreeable to this, a Person of Trust was dispatched to him from Poona, who was not yet arrived when a Second Letter was received from the Colonel, that many Delays would be occasioned by the going and coming of the Agent, and that there were many Secrets of such a Nature as not to be properly communicated except in a personal Conference; that he was therefore greatly desirous of a Meeting with the Minister, and that if they would fignify their Approbation he would come.

The Ministers being greatly pleased with this Offer, wrote that they should receive the most sincere Satisfaction from his Arrival, and pitched a Tent for him without the Town, and remained in the Tent anxiously expecting his Arrival, and I myself wrote him Letters sull of the most friendly Assurances, to inform him of the Pleasure which his Arrival would give; indeed, his coming hither was most advisable, as he could have added Strength to the Peace and Friendship, and removed all Causes of Misunderslandings, confirmed the Treaty for ever, and relieved them for all Apprehensions for the Safety of their Country and Possessions.

On the Arrival of the Agent from hence, Colonel Goddard dispatched in a Dauk Palowkeen one Neal Chund, an Agent, who had been sent from hence with the Agent to this Quarter with Karetahs from him, who on his Arrival at Poona delivered these Karetahs of Colonel Goddard, containing every Particular; and faid in the Presence of Nanna Purnaveese, Madajee Row Sindeah, myfelf, and other Perfons, whatever Colonel Goddard had verbally committed to him; the Substance of which was, First, That they must make good whatever appears by his Accounts to be deficient in the Performance of Colonel Upton's Treaty: Secondly, That as at the Time of making Peace, Mahals to the Yearly Value of Three Lacks of Rupees, dependent on Gougeraut for the Jaghier of the Kaikwars were made over to the English, it was necessary that they should have the second over the se have been delivered over to us at that Time, but as they were not furrendered till a Year after, Three Lacks of Rupees are due for One Year's Collections: Thirdly, That as there are not Three Lacks of Rupees collected from those Mahals, but a Desiciency of 96,000 Rupees arises, they must make out the Account, and send the Difference; that respecting Ragonaut Row they must grant him a District to support his Expences, in the same Manner as it was given him by the former Treaty; and that the faid Row should be permitted to reside wherever he may think proper; together with many other Particulars on the fame Subject, which would be too voluminous, were all reprefented to us by Neal Chund. After hearing the Whole of the Message from that Quarter, Nanna Purnaveese and Madajee Row Sindeah, turning to me, said "You insist that the Words of the English Gentlemen are to be depended on, and that they have no Intention but that of maintaining their "Treaties. You have now heard what Kind of Message they have sent, and are also acquainted with what they before wrote. Colonel Goddard first determined to come here, and has now laid afide that Refolution; and with respect to Ragonaut Row, whom he declared that he kept with him for good Reasons, and not from any Enmity to us: And in the Mahals, which by the Papers of the Sircar are fettled at Three Lacks of Rupees, they pietend that there have been "Deficiencies, and demand the Balance from us, and require of us several Lacks of Rupees: Such Conduct cannot be agreeable to God. With respect to a French Merchant who came here, they wrote fo many angry Letters, and accused us of fo many Breaches of the Treaty, that we difmissed him contrary to the Custom of the Durbar. Ragonaut Row, from whom Commotions and Loffes have arifen, they have again given a Refuge to under their Protection: And after the Conclusion of the War, we on the contrary made this Agreement with the Bombay Army, REP. "that they should return in Peace to their own Territories." It is a Proverb, "That if you do "Justice, although you should throw it into Water, it will be favourably received by God." But since Affairs are come to this Pass, we have determined by the Advice of Nice and Dowlab, upon preparing for War with the Three Quarters; and Hyder Naig is likewife attached to us.

I then said to Nanna Purnaveese, that as yet Answers to our Negociations were not arrived from Calcutta; and that, as I had no Doubt but that they would be such as would tend to Peace, what Reason could he have for preparing for War? He answered me, that it was advisable for every one to be prepared at Home, and not, while the others are collecting every Thing necessary for War, for him to be unsuspecting and unprepared; but that should Answers tending to Peace be received, he would readily agree with them. After learning all these Particulars, I took Leave of Nanna Purnaveese, and arrived by long Journies at Naigpore, where I paid my Respects to the Rajah my Master, and informed him of all my Conferences with the Poona Miniters, and of their having determined, according to the Advice of Nizam ul Dowlah, to carry on War with the Four Quarters, and of Hyder Naig's being attached to them; and also made him acquainted with the Contents of all Colonel Goddard's Letters, which you will learn from the Rajah's Kawtahs, where he has written them without the least Reserve. My only Wish is, that a Peace and Treaty may be made between you and Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah, through the Mediation and under the Guarantee of the Rajah my Master, agreeable to the former Treaty before War should break out with the Four Quarters; and that Ragonaut Row, who is the Cause of all these Misunderstandings, may be delivered up to Pundit Purdhaun. This would be a Hundred, nay a Thousand Times better than War and Hostilities. Attend with mature Resection to these Particulars.

Before this, numberless Letters on this Subject have been written to you, and at present nothing has been omitted in the Rajah's Letters. You will make yourself thoroughly acquainted with them, and will be affured that they were dictated folely by Friendship and good Will toward you; and will fend an Answer without Delay, and write to Colonel Goddard whatever you may think advisable; since a Word once spoken, and an Arrow shot away from the Bow, cannot be recalled. I am a sincere Well-wisher to you, and for this Reason alone have written all these Particulars to you.

From the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan; received 19th January 1780.

Your gracious Letter under Date the 25th Shawaul, 6th November, to this Purport, That the Governor and Council of Madras, had deputed Mr. John Hollond to Hydrabad, to explain to me those Points, which might tend to the strengthening our Friendship; after having informed you of it, and that whatever that Gentleman has mentioned further than what may tend to this End, is contrary to the Intentions and Permission of the Council, that you have therefore directed the Governor and Council of Madras to attend particularly to this Matter; and that you have written to Mr. Hollond to put a Stop to his Negociations till he shall receive explicit Letters from Madras; was delivered me by that Gentleman; and from the Contents of it I received great Satisfaction.

The Friendship and Faith to their Treaties in the English Company, have been from the Beginning the Admiration of all the Rulers; and I, after the Conclusion of the Treaty in 1182, (1768) from my own Experience found this Maxim of the whole World to be true. At the Time of your coming to the Governor in that Quarter, and the Superintendance of the Assairs of all the English Settlements; and of your writing to me that you had learnt from all Quarters, and by the actual Situation of Assairs, the Firmness of our Friendship, you were made particularly acquainted with the Negociations which with the Approbation of the Governor and Council of Madras, had been entered upon between the Company and this Quarter. I also gained Information of the Situation of all Matters from Colonel Upton, when on the breaking out of Ragonaut Row's Quarrel with the Sirkar, he came here in his Way to Poona, to settle the Negociation between Row Pundit Purdhaun, Madho Row Narrain. But of late many evident Infringements of the Treaty should occur, is Matter of the greatest Astonishment to any one who resects on the former Alliance, and the established Custom of the Company.

Whatever I discovered on the Subject of Ragonaut Row, I formerly wrote to you, and now enclose you a Copy of it; and you wrote to me in Answer, that all the Negociations and Transactions of the English Company were the same, and that no Alterations or Infringement should ever be made in the Treaties entered into by the Governor and Council of Madras; but whatever had since happened contrary to this Declaration, is not of Consequence to be repeated, since Ragonaut Row is now in the same Situation in which he was formerly.

Mr. Hollond, upon his Arrival here, requested of me, contrary to all Right, to annul the small Tribute for Rajemundery and the other Sircars, for which formerly I received from that Quarter Lacks of Rupees; the Particulars of which I before informed the Company in an enclosed Paper, and for which since I have not received altogether the Tenth Part of what I formerly did: And the Governor and Council of Madras have by Violence seized on the Sircars of Muriezzanagur, which by the Treaty belonged to my Brother Ameel ul Omrah, Sujah ul Mulk Bahadie Bissalet Jung. Reslect now what can be concluded from such Conduct, except a Breach of the Treaty.

A P P E N D I X, N° 251. B.

Treaty. I accordingly wrote to you on the 2d Rejjab and the 2d Ramzaum, all these Particulars by Two Hircarrahs with a Copy of my former Letter. As your Answer was late in arriving, and in the mean while the Violences of the Governor and Council of Madras encreased, I was on the Eve of revenging them as was proper, when your Letter arrived; and on the Perusal of the explicit Contents of it, I put a Stop to my Preparations. If what you write is from your Heart, and the Governor and Council of Madras will remain strict to the Treaty and Alliance, and give over all surther Demands to have the Tribute to the Sircar annulled, and will relinquish Possession of the Sircar of Murtizzanagur, it is well; if they will not, I have nothing of more Consequence than the preserving and defending my Country, and the Spark of Dispute and Enmity will be raised to a Flame: That I have overlooked and connived at the Provocations which have been given me, and which I before informed you of, was owing to my Desire to preserve the Treaty, not to my Inability to revenge myself. By the Blessing of God I am prepared, and am in no Want of Assistance; for the Rulers of Poona, whose Dignity and exalted State of Power is owing to my Protection and Assistance, are attached to me, and would support me to the utmost: And Moodajee Bhossia is my Ally, and is as one with the Rulers of Poona; and Hyder Naig, who entertains Enmity against the English Company, having lately entered into a Treaty with the Poona Ministers, agrees with us in all Matters.

Do you, who are prudent and foreseeing, and able to determine on the right Plan, reslect maturely upon these Circumstances, and consider attentively in your Mind, that it is from this new Line of Conduct of the English Company, that the Foundations of Enmity have been laid in the whole Country of Hindostan; and should your Views be hostile, which Appearances seem to point out as immediately impending, let not the Time be lost in fruitless Pretences; but whatever is proper to be written, do you write to the Governor and Council of Madras, without Delay.

Further Particulars will be made known to you by the Letters of Mr. Hollond, who, agreeable to your Orders, remains filent till the Arrival of explicit Directions from Madras.

My Views and sole Desire, which you request of me to write to you, are, that no Infringements be made in the Treaties between me and the Company; and that our Friendship and Alliance may remain firm and stedfast.

Knowing my Anxiety, write without Delay, Answers to my former and present Letters.

From Nizam Ally Khan; Received 24th February 1780.

I have received your Letter to this Purport, That in your former Letters you had faid, that your Government had never any Intention of supporting Ragonaut Row, but that every Event has since appeared contrary to it. That in fact, what you write in your former Letters, was strictly true; but that since, from a Concurrence of Circumstances in that Quarter, which you could by no means foresee, so as to prevent them, the Governor and Council of Madras had joined with Ragonaut Row, and taken Steps for his Affistance, the Event of which is well known: But that the present Disputes of your Government have no Connection with Ragonaut Row, but have arisen from their Want of Foresight, Presumption, and Pretensions to which they have not the least Right, and which cannot be agreed to without Disgrace and Dishonour: That you have given them Notice that you are easy to slick to the Conditions of the Treaty made by Colonel Upton; but they have not complied with this; that Peace and War depends upon them, and not on you, and that One of the Two must be dready determined on: That you have been desirous of a Peace, but if contrary to your Inclination, War hould be begun for your own Desence and from Necessity, it is agreeable to the Customs of all Nations, and to common Prudence, that every One who can be of Assistance to you, should be nade a Friend of; that in this View, Ragonaut Row also may become your Ally, but that no uch Connection shall be formed, as may produce any Detriment to the Sirkar, or the smallest Deviation in the Treaty which has been long established.—All these Particulars I perfectly understand.

I know that Ragonaut Row has taken Refuge with the English Company, and that they will not huse to deliver him up. His Father and Grandfather were brought up, supported, and protected by my Family; and all the Country of Decan, as far as the Banks of the Nurbudda, was under this bircar: After the Death of the late Nabob, the deceased Asoph ul Dowlah committed the same Innovations that have now happened in the Country of the Marattas; by this, great Injury was done to the Sirkar. At that Time the Marattas, while Ballajee Row was still alive, and when their Limits extended in Decan and Hindostan, as far as the Boundaries of Attuck, and they had great Authomy in it, waged War with this Sirkar, and during the Life of the late Asoph ul Dowlah, possessed hemselves of many Countries; after that, while Madho Row, and Ragonaut Row transacted the Assars of the Pundit Purdhauny, in Consort, Madho Row attempted to consine Ragonaut Row, who slying, unattended, arrived at Kojestabuniand, at the Presence, and gave to the Presence Sunnuds of Relinquishment of the Country, and the City of Burhanpore, and of the Fort of Ashier, &c. Chiefs were sent with an Army, from the Presence, with Ragonaut Row, who begun Hostilities with Madho Row, defeated his Army, and established Ragonaut Row, who got Madho Row into his Power. Of the Engagements and Sunnuds for the Relinquishment of the Country, which he had made, he broke most of the Articles; on which Account War took Place between him and the Presence, and my victorious Army consumed Poona with Fire. A little after this, Madho Row, by Treachery, confined Ragonaut Row; by which means, after the Death of Madho Row, Narrain

APPENDIX, N° 251. B.

Row, his younger Brother fucceeded to him, whom Ragonaut Row by Treachery put to Death, and affumed the Government; he having begun, in Appearance, Negociations of Alliance with the Prefence, and having, under Pretence of War with Hyder Naig, affembled a large Army, and by frequently declaring to the Prefence, that he was marching againft Hyder Naig, having gained intire Confidence to his Affurances, of his going to War with Hyder Naig, which fet at Eafe, with refpect to any Hoftile Intentions in him, while the Chiefs and the Army of the Prefence, who had returned to their Habitations, were not affembled to oppose him; of a fudden he began Hoftilities against the Sirkar; at that Time I, with what small Number of Troops attended on me, marched to the Fort of Buder, and approached near Ragonaut Row; the War lasted for about a Month, when he sinding that my victorious Army was invincible, surrendered himself up to me, and entered into a new Engagement, and then turned towards Hyder Naig. The Instant he had departed, he forgot every Letter of his Engagement, and marched against Hyder Ally, ravaging the Country of the Sirkar in his Way. The Ministers of Poona united themselves with the Prefence, and on Account of the Treachery and Want of Faith in Ragonaut Row, an Engagement was made with them, and they were affished by the Presence; at that Time Row Pundit Purdhaun was not born, his Birth happened soon after, and a Treaty of Alliance took Place with the Ministers. I then drove Ragonaut Row from the Country, and I have always before been stedsaft to the Treaty, and am resolved to remain so for ever.

You write that no Detriment shall come to the Sirkar from Ragonaut Row. At the Time that the Limits of the Marattas extended as far as the Boundaries of Attuck, when there was no Difputes in their Country, and their Power was entire, at that Time he could cause no Injury, and he was always reduced, and kept in Subjection to me; fince God is the Protector and Succourer of my Government at present, that he is driven out of this Quarter, and can effect nothing in that Quarter; what Injury can arise from him to the Sirkar? You write that you are ready to abide by the Treaty of Colonel Upton; the Marattas also declare that they are steady to Colonel Upton's Treaty, and remained perfectly at Ease that no Breach would arise from the English; but that the Governor and Council of Bombay uniting with Ragonaut Row, broke the Treaty and Engagements, and approached within 12 Cois of Poona, the Event of which is well known; that the Breaches and Innovations in the Treaty of Colonel Upton came from your Side, and that such being the Case, what Dependance can they have on Colonel Upton's Treaty, or in future upon any other new Engagements; for these Reasons, the Marattas are resolved that by any Means Ragonaut Row must be delivered up to them, that they may be at Ease as to their Government; the Governor and Council of Bombay, in open Breach of the Treaty formerly made by Colonel Upton, taking Ragonaut Row with them, approached within 12 Coss of Poona; they after that delivered him up, and made a new Engagement, and have now received him again under their Protection. Should they yield up these Points, and should the Company act again in the same Manner as before, this would be contrary to all Policy. How long shall I, neglecting the guarding the Administration of my own Country by Night and Day, watching this Enemy. While I am thus employed in observing him, how can I attend to the Management of my interior Concerns. It is therefore necessary for me first to remove this Cause of Apprehension. I have had many Proofs of the Treachery and bad Faith of Ragonaut Row. Since the Ministers of Poona have united themselves with me, and have made a Treaty with me; should I now break that Treaty, what Dependence would the English Company have upon my observing the Engagements which I have with them. You write that the Friendship between the English Company and the Presence daily encreases, and that no Detriment shall arise to the Friendship between us, so as to prevent our Interests being united. Reflecting on this, I have told Mr. John Hollond, that as it would certainly be a Dishonour for the English to deliver up Ragonaut Row to the Marattas, I will procure for him a Jaghire in the Sirkar, on the Footing, that he is with the English, which will remove our mutual Objections. In the Time of the late Nabob, our Order was obeyed through all Decan and Hindostan, as far as the Limits of Attuck, and their Riches and warlike Stores were very confiderable. The late Nabob employed himself a long Time in reducing Ragonaut Row, but from his great Power, was unable to effect the Expulsion of him. The Nabob died, and War was carried on a long Time against him by the Sirkar to such Extremities, that Poona was destroyed by Fire. I can see nothing can be done except the Reduction of him by the Blessing of God; you are wise, and will see that it is advisable that this Cause of Apprehension should be removed.

From Moodajee Bhofila; received 24th February 1780.

Before this I have sent successive Karetahs to you containing all Particulars, by the Way of Cuttack, and also by the Route of Benares; but as yet I have not received an Answer to any one of them; and Colonel Goddard likewise has delayed sending Replies to my Letters. As our Friend-ship requires that we should be explicit in our Communications on all Points, I have therefore written what was proper to Beneram Pundit, who is at present in his own House at Benares for the Recovery of his Health, and directed him to repair immediately to Calcutta; and having made you acquainted with all the Particulars written to him to procure an Answer, and Dispatch it to this Quarter; and to remain in future at your Presence, that he may write me whatever you shall inform him of as advisable and as being your Desire. As our Correspondence is of Service to keep up our Friendship and Alliance, it is necessary that you delay no longer to write an Answer to my Letters, which are all dictated by Friendship, Prudence, and Forefight: You are wife and prudent, and will pay proper Attention to them.

Bengal Secret Perfian Correspondence.

To the Nabob Hyder Ally Cawn; written the 17th February 1780.

CONSIDERING you as a Friend of the English Company, both in virtue of the Engagements which have been formed between you and them, and by the Contiguity of your Country to the Borders of that of the Nabob Wallah Jah, their ancient Friend and Ally, I have long defired to write to you; but I have been hitherto prevented, partly from a Consideration of the Distance and Uncertainty of the Place and State in which you might be on the Receipt of my Letters, and principally by reason of the Intercourse which subsisted between you and the President of Madras, which was in effect the same as if it existed with us, since we are the Servants of the same Master, and entrusted, though in a different Degree, with Portions of the same common Interests. But some Reports which have been lately and fuccessively conveyed to me, have induced me to address you immediately on the Behalf and in the Name of this Government, for the Purpose of removing any false Appearance or Conceptions which might disturb the good Understanding which it is my Desire, and which I believe to be equally yours, to perpetuate between us.

It has been variously suggested at one Time, that you proposed to invade the Carnatic; at another, that you had actually commenced Hostilities; and lastly, that you had entered into Combinations with the Rulers of the Maratta State at Poona, and other Powers, against the English Government, and against their Ally the Nabob of the Carnatic. I have given no Credit to these Reports, because I confide in your Wisdom, that you will never suffer any Illusion to draw you from the Line of your true Interest. It is not your Interest to make the English your Enemy: It is their Interest, and equally their Inclination, to preferve your Friendship; but Suspicions and mutual Jealousies often create Enemies by the very Cautions which they excite on both Sides. And thus Two States, whose Dominions border upon each other, are often drawn into a War against the Interests and Wishes of both. Therefore, and to prevent such Consequences, I write to you, that being fully and certainly informed of the Sentiments and Intentions of this Government towards you, you may form your own accordingly.

You are well informed, that by the Regulations and Commands of the King of England, the Determination of Peace and War with any of the English Governments in India, depends on the Superior Council of Bengal. Of that Council I am the Chief; and I now in that Character in the first Place declare to you, that nothing hostile to your Person or Government is intended, nor shall be undertaken by any of the English Governments, as the Aggressors; and in the Second, to request that you will acquaint me with your Intentions respecting the Conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we have the conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we have the conduct which we are to expect the conduct which we have the conduct which we are to expect the co pect from you, that we may act accordingly.

I had an Opportunity when I was nearer to you than I am at present, of obtaining a Knowledge of your Character. I know that all your Measures are dictated by a wise and well-formed Policy, united with a Regard to Justice and public Faith, and the Courage of a Soldier, who has ever shewn himself superior to the Arts of Deception; I shall therefore wait with Impatience for your Answer, in the Assurance that it will afford me the complete Satisfaction which I require.

To prevent the Consequences of Delays I have written this, and shall dispatch it to you by express Cossids. But if it is your Wish to improve the Connection between you and the Company by nearer Ties, I will either send a Person properly empowered and entrusted to you for that Purpose, or receive one so qualified from you, whichever Mode you shall most approve. In the mean Time, &c. &c.

Bombay Select Committee Consultations, 25th January 1780.

RECEIVED the following Letters from General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

N, Gene-Rer from.

I am favoured with your Letter of the 27th ultimo, enclosing Extracts of Colonel Braithwaite', Letters to you; by which I find he is determined not to join me with any Part of the Mahé De-The Event will hereafter prove upon what Grounds he has founded his Opinion of Hyder's Intentions being hostilely bent against us; and it will be also left to decide how far the Interests of the Company are most essentially served, by staying to watch the Motions of a suspected Enemy only, or affifting in the Operations of a War actually carrying on by the English Nation against the Whole of the Maratta Empire.

My Letter of the 30th ultimo would explain to you the Appearance of Affairs respecting Futty Sing in which no Change or Event from which to form more certain Conjectures of his real Defigns has fince taken place. One of his Officers, with about 3000 Followers, has stationed him. felf in the Purgunnah of Ahmood, and detached a small Party of 300 Men into that of Desbard, which has caused a temporary Suspension in the taking Possession of these Two Districts by the Chief of Broach. The Man himself protends that the Motives of his Stay are to receive some Money from them, promifed by the late Poona Collectors on Account of Affistance he gave them in quelling some recent Disturbances. I have sent Word to Futty Sing, to withdraw his People from these Purgunnahs immediately; but a sufficient Time has not yet elapsed to judge whether he means to comply or not; at any rate, they will be evacuated on the Approach of the

I croffed the Tappey the 1st Instant, as I informed you I would, and halted Three Days on the North Side of it, to put every Thing in proper Order. I Yesterday put the Army in Motion, and have this Morning passed the Kein Nuddy; in Two Days more I expect to reach Soncleterrah on the Banks of the Nerbedah.

I am obliged to you for the Credit you have given me upon your Chief of Surat for Two Lacks of Rupees, which the most absolute Necessity will too soon compel me to make use of; because, but for the Expedient of passing Bills on Bengal, I should have found it impossible to subsist the Army till this Time. In order to enable me to avoid having Recourse to this Mode, which the Urgenev of the Service only induced me to adopt, and which I have continued to follow with the utmost Repugnance, I must place my present Dependance upon the further Aid of your Government, which I trust you will afford me in the most effectual Manner you possibly can; and for this End, beg to repeat the Request contained in my last Letter, of permitting me to draw on year. Treasury in favour of Individuals, the Amount of which may remain deposited in it, and Bone granted by you in the usual Form. This Mode of Negociation will furnish me with a most usual Resource, without diminishing your Treasury; and at the same Time you will establish such Rules and Limitations respecting it, as you may judge requisite and proper.

I hope in a few Days to be able to inform you more decifively of what may be expected from Futty Sing; and have the Honour to be,

Gujurram, on the Keim Naddy Camp, 6th January 1780.

Gentlemen, Your most obedient humble Servant, Tho", Goddard.

rd, Gene-

Gentlemen,

I have the Pleasure to inform you of my having croffed the Nubeddar Yesterday at the Ghatt of Bowa Pur. I found it necessary to halt a few Days at Selecleturrut, to give Time for conducting the Four Eighteen Pounders and Military Stores from Broach, which joined me fafe under Eleort of a Battalion of Sepoys, I had fent over the River at Serecleturrut the Day of my Arrival at this Place.

It is with Pleafure I can communicate to you the Prospect I have Reason to believe there now is of adjusting every Point to your Wish, and for the Interest of the Company, with Futty Sing. I have exerted every Endeavour to effect this Alliance, because of the important Advantages it will immediately secure to the English in Guzerat, and of the future favourable Consequences they must derive from it in the grand Contest they are now entering upon with the Maratta Government. The Leifure allowed by the Inactivity of the Minister, which has, I conceive, been principally occasioned by the Disputes betwixt him and Scindia, has proved very convenient to the Settlement of the Gucrat Province, which I hope may be finally concluded before any confiderable Body of Troops can arrive from the Decan. For this Reason, as the Essect it must have had upon Futty Sing, in inclining him to take a more speedy and decisive Part upon the Occasion, the early Movement of the Army towards Dubhoy and Brodu i became a Point most necessary and essential to the Good the Service. He has promised to settle every Thing on my Arrival at the former Place, from ence I shall be able to address you more fully, as the Sincerity of his present Professions will then put to the Test, and till that can be done no certain Judgment is to be formed of the real signs of a Man so samed for Treachery and Deceit as Futty Sing is reported to be.

As you will so soon hear from me again I shall conclude at present, and have the Honour to ofcribe myself, Bowa Peir Ghatt, North of the Nurbedah, 16th January 1780. Gentlemen, Your most obedient and most humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

Gentlemen.

In my Letter of the 16th Instant, I informed you I should march towards Dubhoy the 18th: which Place arrived Yesterday; and having summoned Ballagee Ragonath, the Person who held n the Part of the Poona Government, with a Garrison of above Two thousand Men, to surrender Place, and received a Refufal, I immediately made the necessary Preparations for belieging it. e Place of Attack being fixed upon, a Battery of Three 18 Pounders, within 200 Yards of the all, was compleated by this Morning, at Day-break; when I found the Enemy had evacuated Town, which I have taken Possession of in the Name of the Company, and congratulate you on this Acquisition to your territorial Possessions in Guzerat. The Inhabitants, many of whom nained in the Place, seem perfectly well disposed to obey and live under the Protection of the glish Government; and as the Fortifications, though infussion to resist a regular European tack, might, with a small Force, be defended against a considerable Body of Country Troops, Possession of it must confer Stability and Security upon your Territories on this Side, and in the ent of an Accommodation with Futty Sing, from its Vicinity to Brodera, prove a Check and Reuint upon his future Conduct. I have wrote to Mr. Gambier, your Chief at Broach, to fend proper rions to settle and collect the Revenues of the Country, and shall afford him every further Assistance tessary for this Purpose.

I am happy at an Opportunity of mentioning to you the Satisfaction I received from the Skill and liduity of Major Spaeth, the chief Engineer, in constructing and completing the Battery with so ich Expedition. Lieutenant Charles Reynolds, who acted under him, and shewed himself exceedtly alert and active in his Duty, received a Wound in his Thigh, from a Matchlock, which hower I am hopeful will not prove any way dangerous.

I have not heard from Futty Sing fince my last of the 16th Instant. I expected the Return of his ckeels, with every Thing finally settled and agreed to, the Day of my Arrival here, or this Day at sarthest: As they may yet arrive in the Course of it, or To-morrow Morning, I shall defer saying more upon the Subject of Futty Sing, till I can write you with an absolute Certainty.

I have the Honour to be,

Head Quarters, Dubhoy, January 20th 1780.

Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

I had the Pleasure of informing you Yesterday of the Treaty concluded betwixt the Honourable ral, Letter Company and Futty Sing Guicawar, and now inclose you a Copy of the original Treaty, the exact Counterpart of which is in the Possession of Futty Sing, which I hope will meet with your Approbation. By the last Article, it is provided that Two Copies of this Treaty shall be forwarded by your Government to the Honourable Governor General and Council, for their Confirmation and Ratification; which I take the Liberty of requesting you will be pleased to do by the earliest Opportunity.

I have thought it requisite to retain the original Treaty at present with me, as in the Course of the Campaign Occasions may offer to render the immediate producing it useful and necessary to the Good of the Service; and the authenticated Copy I now fend, will be fufficient fully to answer the present Purpose of your and the Bengal Government.

I have from Time to Time communicated to you the Progress of my Negociation, and the Difficulties I met with in the Course of it to bring it to a successful Issue, which, from a Conviction of the real and folid Advantages arifing to the Company by a Connection with Futty Sing, I have feriously and affiduously laboured to effect. It is unnecessary to point out to you, who have so exact and perfect a Knowledge of the Province of Guzerat, the particular Advantages of Country and Revenue acquired and secured to the Company by this Treaty, whose Dominion in Guzerat I conceive now to be fixed upon the most firm and unshaken Basis; as the only Power, besides the English, who can have any legal or just Claim to the Possession of Country, is equally interested with them to exclude the Maratta Government from all Share of Participation in it whatever; and although the Alliance with Futty Sing may not bring any very material Accession of military Force to the Company, the Influence it must have upon the Minds of the Maratta Leaders, renders it a favourable and fortunate Circumstance at the Commencement of the present War, and effectually provides many prevailing Arguments of Right and Justice, so necessary to reconcile the Sentiments and Opinions of Men in all Changes of Government, to the Form that may be introduced and established.

In consequence of what you mentioned respecting the Necessity you supposed there might be of inserting the Name of Seajee in any Engagement formed with Futty Sing, I proposed that he should also be mentioned, but was told, that since the Conclusion of the former Treaty betwixt Ragoba and Futty Sing, through the Mediation of the English Company, the Sunnuds of Rajah had been made out in the sole Name of Futty Sing, and sent him from the Court of Sittara. To avoid however every Possibility of Dispute hereafter, I have considered Futty Sing, as he certainly now is, the Head of the Family, and made his Engagement with the Honourable Company in the Name of the Whole of the Guicawars.

According to the Wish you expressed of securing a suitable Provision for Govind Row, I hinted your Inclination to Futty Sing; but found, if I succeeded in that Point, I must have positively insisted upon it; and as in doing so, I must have deviated from the Orders of the Honourable Governor General and Council, wherein they expressly forbid the assuming any Mediation betwixt the Two Brothers, to which you have also desired me to pay particular Attention, I rather chose to desist from further Solicitation on that Subject, by recommending a Reconciliation betwixt them, as a Circumstance that would be much to his Honour and Advantage, and give great Satisfaction to the English.

It was with a good deal of Reluctance that Futty Sing could be brought to confent to the Ceffion of Zinnore, and strongly pleaded for having the Purgunnah of Dubhoy in Exchange given up to him; but knowing the Importance of both these Places, and particularly the latter, to the Company, I tried every Argument to induce him to comply; in which I at last succeeded, by proving to him the real and advantageous Compensation he would reap from the present Treaty with the English. This is a Point I have endeavoured to persuade him into a firm Belief of, through the whole Negociation, well knowing, that to secure the faithful and strict Adherence of any Person to the Engagements he may have entered into, it is a material Object to convince him they are for his Interest. The Earnestness expressed by Futty Sing, to be put in Possession of Dubhoy, clearly shews that he considers that Place in the important Point of View it deserves; and is apprehensive of its being in the Hands of such formidable Neighbours as the English.

I shall shortly write you of the particular Plan I mean to follow, in effecting what remains to be executed respecting the Settlement of the Province; and shall take Leave at present, by representing to you the Necessity there appears at this Crisis, of augmenting the Number of Troops on your Establishment, to maintain the flourishing State of the Company's Assairs in this Quarter, and to defend and protect the Company's Acquisitions from any future Alarm or Depredation of their Enemies.

Head Quarters, Camp near Baroda Besswamuntry Nuddy, 27th January 1780. I have the Honour to be,
Gentlemen,
Your most obedient and most humble Servant,
Thomas Goddard.

lopy of the 'reaty entered ito with Futty ing. Treaty between the Honourable English East India Company and Futty Sing Row Guicowar Shemseer Bahaudar; concluded at the Village of Candeela, in the Purgunnah of Dubboy, January the 26th 1780.

The Ministers of the Maratta State having refused to accept of the reasonable Terms of Accommodation offered them by Brigadier General Thomas Goddard, in the Name of the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, and by their obstinate Perseverance in hostile Intentions against the English, compelled them to take up Arms in Defence of their own Rights and Possessions, the Honourable the President and Select Committee of Bombay, with the Sanction and Approbation of the Honourable the Governor General and Council of Fort William, have appointed and authorized Brigadier General Goddard to settle and conclude a Treaty of lasting Peace and Alliance betwixt the Honourable English East India Company on one Part, and Futty Sing Row Guicowar Shemseer Bahaudar, for and in the Name of all the Guicowar Family, on the other; and the following are the Articles of Convention mutually entered into.

Article 1st.

The English and Futty Sing Row agree to a League of Defensive Alliance, and to protect each other against all foreign Enemies whatever.

Article 2d.

The Ministers of the Maratta State by repeated Violations of Treaty, as well as their late Conduct, having drawn on themselves the just Resembnent of the English, having also by undue Acts of Oppression, prefion, proved themselves the Enemies of Futty Sing; for these Reasons, and because the most firm and sincere Friendship has long sublisted betwixt the Honourable Company and Futty Sing, the contracting Parties mutually agree to enter immediately into an offensive League, excluding the Government of Poona from all Share of Country in the Province of Guzerat whatever.

Article 3d.
The English agree to support and defend Futty Sing in Possession of his Share of the Guzerat province, and Futty Sing is to affift and support the English in possessing themselves of and mainraining the Share now held by the Government of Poona.

Article 4th.

In order to accomplish this Service, as a firm Friendship is now established betwixt the English and Futty Sing, the latter agrees to join the English with 3,000 Horse according to Custom, and as many more as he can possibly raise, to act in Conjunction with them during the present War, whenever they shall call upon them to do fo.

Article 5th.

As the present Mode of Partition betwixt the Poona Government and Futty Sing is attended with great Loss and Inconvenience from the Disputes that must arise from the Interference of the Officers of each in collecting the Revenues of the same Places, and that lay interspersed with one another, it is agreed upon that a new Settlement of the Province of Guzerat shall take place for the mutual Benefit and Convenience of both Parties, the express Object of which will be an absolute and specific Partition of the whole Territory betwixt the Honourable East India Company and Futty Sing, according to the Proportion of the Revenues now respectively held by him and the Marattas.

Article 6th.

Ahmedabad and its Dependencies, that is to fay, the Country to the North of the River Myhé, now possessed by the Poona Government, to be allotted to Futty Sing; in lieu of which the English are to be put in Possession of the Guicowar Division of the Country South of the Tappey, known by the Name of Attaveezy, and their Share of the Revenues of Surat.

Article 7th.

The English will give such Assistance of Force as Futty Sing may require to conquer and put him in Possession of the Poona Share of the Country to the North of the Myhé.

Article 8th.

The final Partition and Settlement of the Guzerat Province being made, each Party is to have the diffinct and fole Government and Possession of the Division allotted him, and to hold his Share independant of, and unconnected with the other, except when united for their common Defence against a foreign Enemy, which they mutually and in the most solemn Manner agree to do; and this Partition and Settlement mutually agreed to, is to be binding upon them and their Posterity

Article oth.

Futty Sing having requested that the English support him in withholding the Annual Tribute hitherto paid by him to the Poona Government, it is stipulated that the Honourable Company will do so, till a final Peace shall be concluded betwixt them and the Poona Government, in which the Interests of Futty Sing shall be carefully and equally attended to with their own.

Article 10th.

In Confideration of the Advantage that will arise to Futty Sing from the above Article, and as a Proof of his fincere Regard and Friendship for the English, he agrees to cede to them the District of Zinnow, and the Villages fituated in the Broach Purgunnah now belonging to him; both which are to remain for ever in the Possession of the Company.

Article 11th.

All the Countries and Places made over to the English in this Treaty by Futty Sing, are to be delivered into their Hands, and the Collections accounted for to them from the Day that Futty Sing is put in Possession of the City of Ahmedabad, and no Demands of Collection for any past Time is to be made in them by Futty Sing.

Article 12th.

It is agreed, that Two Copies of this Treaty be immediately fent to the Honourable Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay, for their Approbation, and to be by them transmitted to the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, under whose Sanction it is concluded, in order to receive their final Confirmation and Ratification; after which, one Copy to authenticated is to remain with the Honourable President and Select Committee of Bombay, and another with Futty Sing.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

Sir,

We have received your Letters of the 26th and 27th ultimo, and very fincerely congratulate you on the Success of your Negociation with Futty Sing.

We entirely approve of the Terms of the Treaty you have concluded with him, which promite to accomplish the great Purpose of extending the Company's Possessions South of the Mahie, and of uniting the Guicowars to us by the furest Tie, that of our common Interest. Futty Sing, we flatter ourselves, will be thoroughly satisfied in receiving by your Means such Accession of Territory as is stipulated for him North of the Mahie, and in being relieved from the heavy Tribute formerly exacted from him by the Poona Government.

We shall be glad to receive the particular Plan you propose to communicate hereafter, with regard to what remains to be executed for the Settlement of the Province: By the 5th Article of the prefent Treaty, we observe that this remains open to future Adjustment; and indeed it would have been impossible for you at so short a Warning, to have entered into all the Details which will be necessary to the Partition of the Province between the Company and Futty Sing, according to the Proportion of Revenue held respectively by him and the Poona Government; it was therefore necessary to reserve this for a definitive Treaty, which after settling the grand Outlines, as marked in the abovementioned Article, may be compleated at greater Leisure.

In order to supply you with the necessary Materials for this Purpose, we have directed the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, and the Residents of Jamboosier and Cambay, to send you the best Accounts they can procure of the several Purgunnahs and Divisions of the Guzerat Province, with all the Extrass. they are capable, the particular Value of each to the Poona Circar, Futty Sing, the Nabob of Surat and Cambay, and the Grassias or other Rajahs. We flatter ourselves likewise, that at Ahmedabad you will be able to procure very authentic and particular Information on this Subject from the Person. who have been employed in the Collections, as well as from Futty Sing himself; which latter may have its Use, though it cannot certainly be relied on altogether, on Account of his private Interest to procure as advantageous a Bargain as possible in the Settlement of the proposed Exchanges.

The Resident at Cambay has been long in that Part of the Country, where our Information is at present most imperfect; and as you may perhaps find him useful in prosecuting your Enquiries on this Subject, we have given him Orders to attend you, should you judge it proper to send for

We flatter ourselves you will find Leisure for the final Adjustment of this very effential Part of your Negociation. As foon as you may have reduced Ahmedabad, Futty Sing, on the Prospect of fo noble an Acquisition, will probably be disposed to settle Exchanges with a more liberal Spirit than can usually be expected from a Maratta, in treating on a Matter of this Sort, which will save you both much Trouble and Time.

We concur with you in regard to the Necessity of augmenting the Number of Troops on our Establishment for the Protection of the new acquired Countries, and shall shortly determine on the Measures to be taken for this Purpose.

We shall take the earliest Opportunity of transmitting a Copy of the Treaty with Futty Sing to the Governor General and Council agreeable to your Desire.

We think it necessary to acquaint you, that by the last Advices from Major Cotgrave, at Tellicherry, dated 21st ultimo, he informs us, that he was finishing the Lines of that Place with all Expedition, and which he hoped would be compleated in Ten or Twelve Days, when he proposed embarking embarking for Surat on the Eagle, with the Company of European Artillery and Company of Infantry, leaving the Grenadiers and Twentieth Battalion of Sepoys for the Defence of the Place, which in his Opinion would be fully sufficient against their present Enemy.

We enclose Copy of an Extract of News just received from our Resident at Anjengo, and by Advices from Tellicherry, we learn that our Honourable Masters Ship Hawke, which imported at Anjengo the 24th ultimo from Great Britain, on the 16th of the same Month off Ceylon, at Anjengo the Majesty's Ship the Seahorse, and other Ships in Company, both of which were showed to this Coast with Troops from Fort Spint Guerra, and which was suppose are those mentioned. bound to this Coast with Troops from Fort Saint George, and which we suppose are those mentioned in the Extract of News.

Gentlemen,

I have been favoured with your Letter of the 11th Instant, and communicated to Mr. Richardson, as you desired, the Resolution you had taken respecting his Reference; I at the same Time ion, as you defined, the Recollition you had taken respecting his Retrience, I at the lindulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the Choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the choice of returning to his Duty in this Army, if he would comply with the indulged him with the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of returning to his Duty in the choice of r ceived through Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, his Answer, Copy of which I have enclosed for your

It is Matter of Concern to me that Mr. Richardson should thus persist in opposing an Authority which you have been pleated to give as your Opinion is vested in me, for the internal Regulation of this Army, and which I am conscious of having exerted for the Good of the Service. The Application he has made for a General Court Martial will, I make no Doubt, appear to you most strange and improper. He has not been accused of Misconduct; I have even thought proper to overlook his former Disobedience of Orders, in declining to act under the Regulations I had estaoverlook his former Dhobedience of Orders, in decining to act under the Regulations I had eliablished, on account of the Reference made to your Government; and however his present Behaviour might justly deserve the Severity of that strict Enquiry he solicits, from the Disregard shown to your Authority, in thus persisting to dispute the Legality and Propriety of my Orders, I have, from a Regard to the present Service, declined bringing him to a Trial here, and given him Permission to repair to your Presidency, to answer to you for his Conduct; which I beg Leave to represent has in this fresh Instance, as well as through the Whole of the Business, been highly unjustifiable and unmilitarery

Having experienced on my March to the Nerbudda the Inconvenience that arose from transportlitary ing a Quantity of Stores which were in Charge of the Commissary of your Troops, and which were altogether unnecessary to the Service; I directed them to be sent to Broach, and delivered over to your Commissary there, by which Means a very considerable Reduction has been made in the Expence, and the Army eased of a heavy Incumbrance. In Prosecution of the same Plan of Economy, so effentially requisite at this Time, when the Company are engaged in an important and expensive War, I have also regulated the Bombay Hospital Department conformable to those of the Bengal Army, which are sufficiently ample for every Purpose of the Service, and have restricted the Commissary's Charges, as nearly as possible, to the same established Standard. From a Conviction of the further Convenience it would be of to the Service, as well as the Diminution of Expence, if the Officers of your Troops were permitted to carry their own Camp Equipage, instead of proceeding upon the former expensive Plan, I have taken upon me to grant the Allowance for that Purpose; but their Tents are furnished by the Honourable Company. The Advantage which the Company will derive from these Regulations make me affured of their meeting with your Sanction and Appropriate which I have you will be alread as forced as a single part of the proposition.

and Approbation, which I hope you will be pleased to favour me with.

The Charge of the Bombay Hospital by the Departure of Mr. Richardson devolves upon Mr. Durham, the Senior Surgeon nominated in your Letter to me; but Mr. Grant Clugstone, conceiving he has a prior Claim of Bank to him has delivered me an Address to you on the Subject ceiving he has a prior Claim of Rank to him, has delivered me an Address to you on the Subject, which I have now the Honour to enclose to you, and beg to receive your Determination upon it.

I shall, agreeable to your Desire, send the Papers relative to the Dutch Intrigues to Mr. Boddam, who will forward them to you.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

Having received Advice from the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, of your having reduced the City of Ahmedabad, we most sincerely congratulate you on your Success, hoping soon to receive the Particulars from yourself.

Since our Letter of the 9th Instant, we have been favoured with yours of the 30th ultimo; and entirely agree with you, that Mr. Richardson's Application for a Court Martial was very improper, after the Reference made to us at his own Desire, and the Opinion we had given on the Subject; and we have made known to him our Sentiments of his Conduct.

We shall always give our warmest Approbation of every Reduction you can make in the Ex. pences of the Army consistent with the Good of the Service; on which Principle the Regulations you have established respecting the Bombay Detachment have our entire Sanction.

We request you will fignify to Mr. Grant Clugstone, as our Determination on his Claim, that the Honourable Company's Orders give him no Pretensions to the Charge he now folicits, nor to any higher Rank on the List of Surgeons, until a Vacancy shall happen in the Bombay Hospital. He ought to consider himself sufficiently favoured in having the next Succession in Preference to so many of his Seniors; and if, as he states in his Letter, the Company's Appointment was grounded upon a Misconception of his Rank and Pretensions, his Argument operates against himself.

In consequence of your Recommendation for augmenting our military Establishment, we have determined forthwith to raise Two additional Battalions of Sepoys; but as you must be a perfect Judge of the Subject, we shall be glade to be favoured with your Opinion of what Force will be necessary for the Protection of our new Acquisitions.

Since we wrote you on the 9th Instant, we have received an Account from Mr. Boddam, of the Revenues respectively collected by the Poona Government and the Guicawars from the Province of Guzerat. By this Account it appears, that the Ceffions already made to the Company by the late Treaty, are much inferior in Value to the Territories Northward of the Myhie, the Possession of which is to be secured to Futty Sing. And to explain this the more clearly, we now transinit an Abstract of the Account, arranged in Divisions, distinguishing the respective Values of the Purgunnahs belonging to the Peshwa and the Guicawars, and their Situation, with respect to the Rivers Tappey, Nerbedah, and Myhé, by which you will at once discover the Amount in which, by this Account, the Company's Share falls short of Futty Sing's. We will not answer its being altogether accurate; but we transmit it to you as containing the best Light we are able to afford to affift you in the new Settlement, which, according to the 5th Article, still remains to be made of the General Province, not doubting but you will exert your utmost Efforts to secure such a further Tract of Country, between the Nubedah and Tappey, or Nubedah and Myhé, as will make the Company's Division fully equal to Futty Sing's, to which they have the stronger Claim for relieving him from the heavy Tribute before paid to the Poona Circar.

The Importance of securing the Friendship of Hyder Ally during the present War with the Marattas, or even his Neutrality, and other Confiderations, regarding the State of Affairs on the Malabar Coast, and the Company's Commerce in his Dominions, have led us to determine on sending a Gentleman to his Durbar commissioned to treat on these Points; to which we have been the more encouraged by a late Letter the President has received from him. We have appointed Mr. Horsley for this Commission, and shall communicate to you as soon as possible such Information as he may be able to obtain respecting the Nabob's Disposition towards us, and what Expectations may be reasonably formed from him with respect to the material Objects before mentioned.

The Chief of Surat having been invited to take Poffession of Gogo, we have given him an Authority for that Purpose, when Circumstances may be convenient, as it will be a very desirable Acquisition to the Company. You have already had Notice from him of this Affair, that you might regulate yourself in your Negociations; and Mr. Malet can give you any Information you may want respecting this Place, and the Importance of it to the Company.

The Remainder of the Battalion of Europeans from Madras, is arrived here on the Hawke; and we shall forward him to Surat as soon as the Revenge returns into Port from Fort Victoria. likewise soon expect the Europeans from Tellicherry, and a complete Battalion of Sepoys from Madras.

The Gentlemen at Madras express much Anxiety to us for a safe and honourable Peace with the Marattas; to enable you to effect which they have fent fuch a large Force to this Side of India. They apprehend much Danger and Embarrassiment from a Combination between the Marattas, Hyder Ally, and the Nizam; and even acquaint us, the Two latter have actually conducted an offensive Alliance against us, and that the latter is ready to join upon the first Signal.

Received the following Letter from General Goddard, and one from the Chief of Surat, enclosing fundry Grants to the Honourable Company from Futty Sing.

tisfaction to make known to the Army the Sentiments you have been pleafed to declare in the latter I may not answer so fully to the several Points expressed in the former as they deserve, for which I may not answer so fully to the several Points expressed in the former as they deserve, for which the active Service in which I am at present engaged will I hope be accepted as an Apology.

In a Letter which I had the Honour to address you the 1st Instant, acquainting you with my like tentions of marching the Day following, I took the Liberty of observing that it would be politically prudent, at this Juncture, to wave a Discussion of such Points as might appear to you requisite to settle in a final Adjustment of the Partition of Guzerat with Futty Sing, as the grand Outlines of his Agreement with the Honourable Company being effectually secured, the Task of providing for the less important Interests of our Settlement with him would become hereafter perfectly easy, and to urge them at present could not be productive of any real or adequate Adjustment of the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would become hereafter and the providing settlement with him would be provided the providing settlement with him would be provided to the providing settlement with him would be provided to the providing settlement with him would be provided to the provided the providing sevent and the providing settlement with him would be provided to t feelly eaty, and to urge them at present could not be productive of any real or adequate Advantage. being altogether accurate, I beg to affure you that from the most exact Information I have received, it is exceedingly erroneous and incorrect: I shall take an Opportunity of laying before you an exact and satisfactory Statement of the Collections of the Province for your more particular Information very soon; at present only permit me to observe, that the Estimate made of the Peshwa's Share of the Districts to the North of the Myhie, exceeds the proper Value by at least Fifteen Lacks of Rupees. I shall mention Three Instances in which they are greatly exaggerated: First, Respecting Pitlad; the whole Amount of which may be reckoned at Six Lacks: Second, The City of Ahmedabad, whose Collections amounted to about Three Lacks, and little more than Half belonged to the Poona Circar: Thirdly, The Revenue mentioned under the Name of Mulluckgurry, the real Value of which depended upon the Force employed, and was never valued to the Peshwa at more than Three Lacks. If to these Deductions be added the Expences necessary to collect the Revenues from the Zemindars, as well as to protect the Country from the Inroads and Depredations of the Cottywars and other Freebooters, sit will be found that the real Value of the Purgunnahs ceded to the English by Futty Sing, exclusive of the Convenience and Advantage of their Situation, is equal, if not superior, to that guaranteed to him by the Company in lieu of it.

As you have been pleased to express your Wish to receive my Opinion on the proposed Augmentation of your military Establishment, I shall do myself the Honour of communicating it to you, and every Idea that may strike me as eligible on the Subject, very soon; begging you will accept of the Reason mentioned in the first Part of my Letter as an Excuse for not writing you fully upon it at present.

Bombay Selett Consultations, the 25th February 1780.

RECEIVED the following Letter from General Goddard, advising the Reduction of Ahmedabad.

Friday zi Goddard. (

Gentlemen,

That no, Time might be lost in communicating to you the fortunate Intelligence of the Reduction of Ahmedabad, the Capital of Guzerat, I dispatched a short Note to Mr. Gambier, the Chief of Broach, the Instant of the Troops entering the Place, requesting he would immediately transmit an Account of it to you; which I hope you will have received. Permit me to congratulate you most sincerely, upon an Event so honourable to the British Arms, and so favourable to the Interests of my Government.

On the 10th in the Morning I arrived before the City, and wrote to the Maratta Governor, Rago Pundit Tattea, desiring him to deliver up the Place to me: With this Demand he asserted an Intention of complying, but his Conduct was entirely the Reverse of any such Intention, for the Troops from the Walls fired upon such of the Camp People as approached them, and endeavoured to do all the Mischief in their Power. In his Excuse the Pundit alledged, that the Aral and Scindy Jemautdars, who garrisoned the Place, had large Arrears due to them, and would not be induced to give it up till a Sum of Money was agreed to be paid them, and that they kept his Person in Confinement, because he was unable to satisfy them. There was, I believe, some Foundation for this Assertion: These Arabs and Scindys had Arrears due to them from the Poona Government, they were hired Mercenaries, and it was in all Probability a Matter of Indifference to them what Power's Service they entered into; they would therefore gladly have accepted the Arrears, upon Condition of being continued in the Garrison of the Place; but I am convinced they never would have permitted the British Troops to be put in Possession, or have evacuated it themselves, if required to do so, because they had, from a Residence of many Years, been considered as the legal established Militia of the City, and from the Success with which they had always heretofore opposed the Estorts of the most numerous Armies, none of whom could ever conquer the Place, as well as the Strength of their own Garrison, which consisted of at least 6000 Arab and Scindy Foot, besides 2000 Horse, they were inspired with a Degree of Self Considence and Assurance that their Arms were invincible, and the City impregnable to our Force. Finding therefore all my Essorts to obtain Possession of the Place by any other Means inessectual, I made the necessary Preparations for besieging it; and on the 12th, at One o'Clock P. M. opened the Batteries against it, which continued to play till the 13th in the Evening,

A P P E N D I X, Nº 254. B.

City was extensive and populous, and I well knew the undistinguishing Slaughter that almost unavoidably attends the Fury of entering a City by Storm, I deferred the Attack One Day, in Hopes that the Enemy might accept the Mercy I had proffered them: In this Hope I was however deceived; and accordingly this Morning gave Orders for an Affault, which succeeded to my utmost Wish. The Enemy sled from their Works, after having endeavoured, without Effect, to oppose the fierce Onset of the Grenadiers, who, with their Officers, distinguished themselves in a most remarkable Degree; and I beg Leave to recommend their Conduct to your Notice and Approbation, and generally that of the whole Army during the Siege. Near Three hundred of the Enemy fell near the Breach and about the Gateway, besides others who were killed and wounded after entering the Place; and what makes the Enterprize particularly fortunate, considering the desperate Resistance of the Enemy, and the Dissiculties we had to encounter, is the little Loss on our Side with which it was atchieved. This Circumstance I consider as a Blessing, on which I beg Leave to congratulate you, and also on the Honour which the British Arms have acquired, by the Moderation and Mercy, so strikingly marked in their Conduct, after getting Possessing Possessing of the Place, for not above Two of the Inhabitants were wounded, which might have been the Effect of Accident entirely; and many who were in Arms, upon submitting and delivering themselves up, had their Lives spared them.

Lieutenant Colonel Parker having received a Wound on the 14th, which I have the Satisfaction to Lieutenant Colonel Parker having received a Wound on the 14th, which I have the Satisfaction to acquaint you is not by the Faculty deemed dangerous, I committed the Conduct of the Attack to Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, and I am happy at an Opportunity of testifying the high Sense I have of his Merit and Gallantry as an Officer, from the Whole of his Behaviour on this Occasion. While I express my warmest Approbation of Major Spaeth's Skill and Assiduity, I am concerned at the same Time to inform you of his being wounded by a Sabre in Seven Places, which he received in assisting with his People and Materials to fill up the Ditch for the Passage of the Grenadiers; I cannot at present speak with any Certainty upon the Nature of his Case. I am very forry to give you the disagreable Intelligence that Captain Gough has this Evening expired of the Wounds he received in the Storm this Morning. Mr. Wright, a Volunteer of your Establishment, was killed by the Accident of the bursting of a Shell on the 13th Instant. The Names of the several Gentlemen who have received Wounds, all of which I have Reason to hope are not dangerous, are as follow: Lieutenants Caldwell and Prole, of the Engineers; Lieutenant Stuart, Surveyor; Lieutenant Long, of the Artillery; and Lieutenants Mackintosh and Crossly, of the Instantry, and Two Volunteers.

I cannot help taking this Opportunity of recommending to your favourable Notice the Conduct of Mr. Fraser, who acted as a Volunteer during the Siege, and accompanied the Forlorn Hope on the storming Party: Let me hope that the Proofs of Courage he has shewn, will at my Instance be an Inducement to restore him to your Service with his Rank. Mr. Clansey, who was some Time ago unfortunate enough to lose your Service, and has since been admitted to the Bengal Establishment, where he is now an Ensign, solicited an Opportunity for wiping away any Stain that might have been thrown on his Character, which I am happy to assure you he has effectually done by his gallant Conduct in mounting the Breach with the Forlorn Hope. Ensign Heirn's Behaviour, who carried the Grenadier Colours, merits particular Mention; he followed the Forlorn Hope with the Colours, and having mounted the Breach, rushed to the Gateway amidst a Number of the Enemy, and planted them in Triumph.

The Volunteers of your Establishment were in the Trenches during the whole of the Siege, and marched foremost to the Storm. Let me hope that you will find it consistent to give some Promotion as a Reward for their good Behaviour. Serjeant Hugg, who led the Forlorn Hope, displayed extraordinary Marks of Bravery; and as he is well educated and very deserving, I hope I do not intrude too much on your Indulgence, by soliciting he may be appointed a Cadet.

The Troops have taken a Number of Standards from the Enemy in affaulting the Breach, which I propose sending to your Government to be hung up as Trophies of the Conquest of Ahmedabad by the British Arms, either in the Church at Bombay or your Armory, as you may think most proper

The Return of the Killed and Wounded not being ready for this Dispatch, I shall fend it by the next Opportunity, when I will address you particularly; at present I am taking Measures to protect the City and encourage the Inhabitants.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you the 15th Instant, informing you of the Reduction of Ahmedabad by the British Arms; and now beg Leave to inclose you a Return of the Killed and Wounded, from the Commencement of the Siege till the Period of its Conclusion.

Since my last I have received authentic and undoubted Intelligence that Scindia and Tockajee Holcar had passed the Gaut of Cassubarry, and were encamped the 5th Instant at Arrahpore, which is reckoned about 60 Coss from Broderah. Scindia had sent off all his heavy Artillery to Burhampore: and with Ten or Twelve light Field Pieces, and about 1,500 Horse, was himself advancing towards Guzerat. Should not the Intelligence of the Fall of Ahmedabad put a Stop to his progress, which I hope it may not, I do not doubt being soon able to give you a good Account of him; at any rate I shall keep a strict Watch over his Motions, and be prepared to receive him: Unless, which is also reported, the Minister is sending another Army to his Support, I can scarcely think he would venture into the Guzerat with so small a Force as he has at present with him. It is however pretty evident, that the supposed Animosity betwixt those Chiefs is less confirmed and violent than what we had Reason to believe from former Reports; though at the same Time Scindia it is well known has not been fatisfied by the Minister respecting the Demands he made upon him, and will therefore most probably be the readier to act upon his Arrival the Part he may find most for his own Interest.

I shall not fail to communicate any new Intelligence I may receive; and have the Honour to be, ddard, Gene-Letter to. To Brigadier General Goddard.

We have had the Pleasure to receive your Letters of the 15th and 18th Instant, with the Return of the Killed and Wounded at the Siege of Ahmedabad.

The Reduction of this important Place, in so short a Time, with such inconsiderable Loss, and against so obstinate and formidable an Enemy, will reflect the highest Honour on the British Forces, and the Officer under whose Command they have so eminently distinguished themselves. And we send off this Dispatch purposely to convey our warmest Approbation of the Conduct of the Army during the Siege; and particularly of the Officers and Men engaged in the Assault, not only for their Gallantry in the Attack, but for the Moderation and Humanity they displayed after getting Possession of the Place, which entitles them to every Mark of Applause in our Power to bestow, and we therefore beg our Thanks may be particularly given to them in Public Orders, as well as to the Army in general.

We shall shortly reply to the other Points in your Letter of the 15th; and are with much addard, Gene-Letter from.

Gentlemen. I had the Honour to address you the 15th ultimo, fince which I have been favoured with your Letter of the 9th. I am happy at the Sentiments of Satisfaction you therein express on the Subject of the Treaty with Futty Sing; in the Conclusion of which, independant of immediate Benchis of Territory and Revenue, I had principally in View the grand Object of the present War, and securing an useful and lasting Alliance with a Power, whose Assairs being inseparably connected with our own, would effectually bind him to our Interests in the Prosecution of it, and who from Situation, as well as Policy, would become an useful and faithful Ally to the English Company. This Point I conceive, as far as human Prudence and Forefight can judge, is now completely attained. Futty Sing, fensible of the present Power and Strength of the English, feels himself through their Means raised to a State of Greatness and Independence, from which he must immediately fall, if deprived of their Support and Assistance. The Terms upon which he has been diately fall, if deprived of their Support and Assistance. treated with were those of the strictest Impartiality and Moderation, and the Exchange of Country made with him was proportioned to the Share he before held, and to that of the Peshwa's given him in lieu of it. Of these Circumstances he is himself fully sensible; and I only mention them now as Arguments, that he must from Interest as well as Inclination be ready to unite heartily with us in Defence of the Province, and in Profecution of the War against the common Enemy. The Period calling upon him to do fo feems now arrived, as my former Letters will have already acquainted you; for Scindia and Holcar, notwithstanding the various Reports, first of their Disputes with the Minister, and afterwards of their Intentions to march to the Malva Province, are I understand advancing with an Army rumoured to be about 40,000, towards Surat: I propose moving with all Expedition to oppose them, and have sent off to Cambut the heavy Artillery, with a Quantity of the most weighty and cumbersome Stores, which might have proved an Impediment to the Rapidity of my March, to be transported from hence by Water to Surat.

In pursuance of the Engagements made with Futty Sing, I have put him in Possession of the City and Collections of Ahmedabad, and have received from him, in the Name of the Honourable Company, Grants for the several Purgunnahs ceded to them, which I have transmitted with the necessary Papers to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, in order that they may take Possession of them in your Name, and begin to collect the Revenues from the 28th of February, the Day of which Futty Sing received the Government of Ahmedabad, agreeable to what is stipulated in the 11th Article of the Treaty. The Grants are Four in Number, One for the Chout of Surat, another for the Country of Autweezy, a Third for the Villages in the Broach Purgunnah, and a Fourth for Zeimore; the Two former I have sent to Mr. Beddam at Surat, and the Two latter to Mr.

Gambier.

With

A P P E N D I X, N° 255. B.

With respect to what you mention regarding the Points yet remaining to be settled with Futty Sing, it will be political to defer any Attention to or Adjustment of these to a future Opportunity, when the grand Objects of the War are sufficiently secured to have full Leisure to enter into the Details of particular Interests; the Settlement already made generally provides for the equal Partition of the Provinces, in a Proportion drawn from the Shares before possessed by the Pelhwa and Guicawars; and to advance any further Claims at present, might only tend to alarm and excite the Apprehensions of Futty Sing, prejudicial to our Views at this critical Juncture; that the Points about which we may be folic tous, would if attained be serviceable. In order to render easy the Discussion of such Business as may hereaster require to be settled, and generally to conduct the Affairs of your Fresidency at the Court of Futty Sing, I have proposed to him that an English Gentleman shall in future remain there in the Character of Resident, to which he has cheerfully assented, and has addressed the Honourable President accordingly; this Measure I beg Leave to recommend as best calculated to preserve a mutual good Understanding betwixt the English and Futty Sing, and secure to them an useful and decided Influence in his Affairs, which may be improved as Circumstances shall hereafter render eligible; and I have only to request at present respecting this Appointment, that as the Nature of Futty Sing's Engagements with the English will necessarily connect him particularly with me in the Operations of the present War, you will give Directions to your Resident to receive such Orders and Instructions from me as I may find it requisite to give him in pursuance of the Objects that may have been planned and concerted with you.

From the ruined and desolate State of this City, and the Hopes that by proper Encouragement the Trade and Manufacture, for which it was once so famous, might revive and flourish, I have settled with Futty Sing, that the English shall establish a Factory at Ahmedabad; this cannot fail to produce great commercial Advantages, as there is no Doubt but most of the Trade would son pass through our Hands from the Instuence we should possess in the Place, and the superior Considence which the Merchants and Natives would place in us, to induce them to put themselves under our Protection. If the Plan should meet with your Approbation, it remains with you to make such Arrangements and Regulations for its proper Execution, as your Experience, and Knowledge of the Company's commercial Interests in this Part of India may suggest.

I am obliged to you for the Permission you have given the Resident at Cambait to some to my Camp, should I judge it proper to require his Attendance, and beg to affore you that in every Part where I could have wished to receive Information, I have found extremely ready and capable of giving me Satisfaction.

I have already mentioned my Intentions of marching towards Surat with all Expedition; and in order to remove every Obstruction to the Rapidity of my Motions, I shall leave the Sick and Wounded of the Army behind at Ahmedabad; I have also thought it eligible to leave a small Detachment of Eight Companies of Sepoys drafted from the Eight Battalions, and Two Guns here, under the Command of Major Fullation: These are in Possession of a strong Post within the City, formerly the Residence of the Collector, who resided at Ahmedabad, on the Part of the Guicawar. The Weight which the Presence of this Force, and in so respectable a Post, will give to the English in the Eyes of the Inhabitants, and the decided Influence it will secure to them against the Designs of any Governor who may command in the Place on the Part of Futty Sing, will be of the greatest present Benefit to them, and render easy the future Accomplishment of their Views respecting it.

It is with Pleasure I can inform you, that in consideration of the Nawab of Cambait's long and steady Attachment to the Company, your Recommendation of his Interests, and the commercial Benefits which he might be enabled to derive from any Increase of Instinuence at Cambait, I have obtained from Futty Sing, as a voluntary Act and Proof of his Respect for the English, a Relaxation in the Chout, formerly collected by the Maratta Government, and which by his late Agreements with us was become his rightful Claim.

The facred Light in which I shall ever consider Engagements under the Sanction of the public Faith prevented me from too peremptorily insisting upon a Point which might seem be an Innovation of them, or requesting an entire Acquittal of the Nawab's Chout; and the Nawab will have sufficient Reason to be grateful to the Friendship of the English, for the partial Indulgence he has obtained through their Means, which exempts him from the Payment of any Chout within the City of Cambait, reserving only to Futty Sing the Collections levied in the Purgunnahs.

The Paper specifying this Release, I have enclosed to Mr. Malet, the Resident, and have con-

The Paper specifying this Release, I have enclosed to Mr. Malet, the Resident, and have confided in his local Experience and Information to propose such Advantages in Commerce, and secure such a decided Instruction to the Company with the Nawab as may be found consistent and practicable: I shall immediately forward to you the Result of what he may communicate to me in Reply on this Subject.

By Intelligence just received, I learn that a Body of 6000 Horse have crossed the Nubedah at Bowapeer; I shall march from this Place To-morrow Morning, and shall give you from Time to Time Information of my Progress.

Letter from President and Select Committee at Bombay, 7th March 1780.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Council, at Fort William

Gentlemen,

O UR last Address was dated 31st January, of which a Duplicate is enclosed.

We have since had the Pleasure to receive Advice from General Goddard of having come to an Accommodation with Futty Sing, and a Copy of the original Treaty. Agreeable to the last Article, we now forward Two Copies for the Confirmation and Ratification of your Government; the Articles being inferted in Persian in the Copy to be delivered to Futty Sing.

We also now transmit a Continuation of our Correspondence with General Goddard since the Date of our last Letter, with an Abstract of the Revenues of the Guzerat Province, subdivided according to the Boundaries of the different Districts, and the Shares respectively held by Eutty Sing and the Poona Government. We request your particular Attention to what we have urged to General Goddard in our Letters of the 9th and 24th ultimo, respecting the surther Settlement and Division of the Province, and the great Disproportion of the Share at present allotted to the Company; not that we doubt of the General's most zealous Efforts to stipulate for a more adequate Division. but that you may likewise see the Nécessity which is suggested to us by our Knowledge of Futty Sing's Character, of not giving the Treaty your implicit Ratissication as final and definitive, but guarding it with a Referve, providing for a new and equitable Settlement of the Province, according to the 5th Article.

After the Conclusion of the Treaty, General Goddard lost no Time in moving with the Army to put Futty Sing in Possession of the Country to the North of the Myhie, being accompanied by that Chief with a Body of his Forces. He arrived before the City of Ahmedabad on the 10th Inflant, which he found garrifoned with at least Six thousand Arabs and Scindy Foot, besides Two thoufand Horse, and after some fruitless Negociation with the Maratta Governor proceeded to beliege the The Batteries were opened on the 12th, and continued to play till the 13th in the Evering, when the Breach being practicable, the General had formed an Intention of storming the next Morning, but from Motives of Humanity deferred the Attack One Day, in Hopes the Energy would furrender upon Terms. Being however disappointed in this Hope, on the Morning of the 15th he gave Orders for the Assault, which he acquainted us succeeded to his utmost Wish; the Enemy being unable to maintain their Works against the vigorous Attack of the Grenadiers, who with their Officers, distinguished themselves in the most remarkable Manner. Lieutenant Colonel Parker having been wounded on the 11th, the Conduct of the Attack was committed to Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, of whose Gallantry and Merit as an Officer the General testified a high Sense, from the Whole of his Behaviour on the Occasion. Near Three hundred of the Enemy sell in the Breach, whilst on our Side the Loss was inconsiderable, as will appear by the enclosed Return. We are however concerned to mention that Captain Gough of your Establishment died the fame Day of the Wounds he received in the Storm, and that Major Spaith of the Bombay I vgineers was very dangerously wounded, and we have just heard he is fince dead.

We beg Leave to congratulate you on the Reduction of this important Place, which enables us immediately to fulfil the Company's Engagement with Futty Sing, and entitle them to the Possession of the Places ceded to them by the Treaty. Our last Letter from General Goddard was dated the 18th instant, when he was employed in taking Measures to protect the City and encourage the Inhabitants, but we are impatient to hear of his having brought Matters in that Quarter to a Conclusion with Futty Sing, as the late Motions of the Maratta Forces appear to make his Presence necessary more to the Southward.

A Body of Horse, said to consist of about 20,000, under the Command of Madjee Scindia and Tookajee Holkar, have arrived within about Twelve Coss of the Pass of Soargur, near 40 Cos from Surat; Mr. Farmer, who continues with Madjee Scindia, wrote the Chief under the 21st ultimo, that he learnt they were to remain in that Quarter until something was settled by Negocia tions intended to be fet on Foot with General Goddard and Ragonath Row. It was also furmifee that a Surprize was intended, to plunder the City of Surar, and seize the Person of Ragoba, but the seasonable Arrival of Colonel Brown's Detachment from Madras places us above all Apprehensions of any Attempt of that Nature, and will make a most respectable Addition to the Arms under General Goddard, who does not doubt of foon being able to give a good Account of the Enemy

A Body of about 5,000 Maratta Horse, under the Command of the Ministerial Officer, has also approached Surat from the Southward, on which Account the Detachments placed at the several Districts which had been taken Possession of, have been recalled into Garrison, and the Country must necessarily be exposed to Ravage till General Goddard returns to the Southward.

In our Letter of the 2d January we acquainted you, that the President had written to Hyder Ally on certain Points of his Conduct; and we have now the Pleasure to enclose a Copy of his Answer, and of another Letter sent him by the President in consequence. When these Papers were laid before us, the Necessity of sending a Gentleman to Hyder was represented to us in a strong Light by the President in a Minute he delivered in upon the Occasion, a Copy of which is likewise enclosed; and the Proposal entirely coinciding with our own Opinion, and being strictly consonant to the Sentiments of the Honomable Company expressed in their latest Commands, we have appointed Mr. Horsley to this Commission, on which he will shortly proceed; and he will be instructed punctually to communicate to you every material Information he may be able to obtain respecting Hyder's Dispositions towards the Company, and Expectations from them in case he can be induced to join in our Views against the Marattas. It will likewise, in these Times, be of essential Importance to compose the Troubles on the Malabar Coast; and at any rate it will be a capital Advantage to obtain some precise Knowledge of the Views and Proceedings of a Power of its much Consequence in the political System of India, neither of which Points can be effected but by sending a Gentleman directly to his Durbar. This Measure having before met with your concurrence when proposed to you in the Year 1778, and the Exigency being so pressing as not to admit of any Loss of Time, we propose dispatching Mr. Horsley as soon as the proper Passports arrive from the Nabob.

Our latefl Advices mention that Scindia and Holcar were to crofs the Nubedah the 29th ultimo, and to push on into Guzerat, and we conjecture General Goddard would leave Ahmedabad about the First of this Month to meet them. We doubt not the General will either bring them to Action or oblige them to quit the Province, unless their Views should be to come to an Accommodation, of which their Conduct has not much the Appearance. Colonel Brown with his Detachment, confishing of One Battalion of European Infantry, and One Company of Artillery, is now at Surat, and the Enemy between him and our Army; nor do we know what Orders General Goddard has given respecting them; but should he want them to join him before he reaches Surat, a Junction may be effected without Danger, by transporting them by Sea, if necessary, to any convenient Position.

Extract of a Letter from General Goddard to the President: Dated Camp at Pittoul, 24th March 1780; received Yesterday.

Am now about to speak to you on a Subject which appears to me of the utmost Consequence to the Interests of the Company in the present State of Affairs, and in which, before I can take any Step, it is necessary to receive the Sanction of your Government. The Want of proper Management in regulating the Revenues of Futty Sing; his own Weakness and Impolicy; and the Fluctuation of Power that attends a despotic Reign, added to the general Corruption and Avarice which pervades every Part of our Administration, governed by the narrow Views of Maratta Policy, which seek only the Gratification of the present Moment, has reduced him to the most extreme Distress and Poverty. He has repeatedly, and at different Times, since he first accompanied me to Ahmadavad, represented his Situation in this respect, and the Hopes he had of finding Relief from his Necessities in the Friendship and Assistance of the Company; but till this Period, as Circumstances did not before this Period render the Opportunity so favourable, and the Risk was not so imminent, his Troops have continued pretty silent: They now clamorously demand the Payment of a Part of their Arrears; and unless they can be fatissised in some Measure, the most alarming Consequences are to be apprehended. It is not the Absence of these Troops that would be any way prejudicial, but the Effect it must have, not only on the Enemy, but on the Mind of Futty Sing, and in his Interests who deserves every Consideration as an Ally of the Conspiracy, who has proved himself so, and risked the Enmity of his former Friends on their Account: He has urged me repéatedly to assist him with Five or Six Lacks of Rupees, for which he is ready to give Security and Assignments upon his own Purgunnahs, should he fail in repaying it at the promised Perriod.

riod. To a Man thus in Possession of Country there can be no Risk in lending Money; on the contrary, the greatest political Benefit may be derived, and Claims established through his kingdom, which the Company might hereaster affert at Pleasure. Should our own Necessities be urged as a Reason why we cannot avail ourselves of his present Distress, they may furnish a Cause why we might not affish him to the Extent he wishes; but still we ought to exert ourselves all we can upon the Occasion; and besides it may not be necessary to pay the whole Amount at present, but to give Security for its being paid at the Expiration of One or Two Months: If this Plan meets with your Approbation, which I have Reason to hope from every Circumstance it will, let me beg you will send Authority from your Committee to settle it on the most advantageous Footing for the Company, the Amount to which you think it necessary to limit me; and also give Directions to your Chief of Surat and Broach to advance such Proportion of Money for this Business as you may deem most consistent with their View and Means.

Signed the following Letter to General Goddard:

To Brigadier General Goddard.

Sir.

We have duly received your Letters of the 24th and 27th ultimo, with those antecedent thereto, fince your Departure from Ahmadavad.

The equivocal and mysterious Conduct of Madjee Scindia, leaves us much at a Loss as to his real Views and Intentions; but whatever may be the active and vigorous Measures you have pursued, we think they cannot fail having a good Effect, and hastening a Decision, which, as the Season advances fast, we most ardently hope will speedily be produced, that you may be at Liberty to employ the Army to more Advantage than watching the Motions of Madjee Scindia.

In the present Situation of Assairs, and whilst Futty Sing is actually in the Field as our Auxiliary in the War, it seems to us not necessary to send a Gentleman to his Durbar Resident on the Part of this Government; but when it may be judged a convenient Time for settling the Point yet remaining to be adjusted, this Measure can then be adopted. In the mean Time Mr. Malet may be employed on any occasional Business with Futty Sing, in which you may judge his Assistance necessary, as his Situation at Cambay will enable him to attend at the shortest Warning, and his Knowledge of the Language and Politics of the Country sully qualify him for the Employment.

Neither do we as yet judge it expedient to make Use of the Privilege you have obtained for the Company of establishing a Factory at Ahmadavad.

As Mr. Farmer's Application has been referred to the Governor General and Council, we cannot take upon us to decide upon it.

We are very sensible of your Attention and Trouble in giving us your Thoughts so fully on the proposed Augmentation of our military Strength, from which we doubt not to derive very effential Advantage and Information, in the Arrangement we shall now very speedily make.

The President has laid before us an Extract of your Letter to him on the Subject of a proposed Loan to Futty Sing.

Whatever Benefit or good Consequences might be expected from our Compliance with this Proposal, we can affure you with the utmost Truth, the Thing is in itself utterly impracticable in the present State of our Finances; you cannot but be sensible in what Difficulties it involved us to spare the Sums which we have supplied for the Service of the Army; and our Wants now press so hard upon us, that we can hardly raise Money for the Payment of our Garrison and other indispensable Occasions, much less can we answer this unforeseen Demand: And should we even attempt to raise the Sum by a Loan, or in any other Manner, the Scarcity of Specie would alone inevitably prevent our Attempt succeeding; even could we entertain a Thought of diverting any Money, we could obtain to any other Object than the pressing Exigencies of this Government.

We request you will continue your Directions to Major Fullarton to enlist such Recruits as he may be able for this Presidency, upon the same Footing as the other Sepoys upon this Esta-

Bombay Selcet Consultations, 14th March 1780.

RECEIVED the following Letter from General Goddard:

Gentlemen,

I wrote to you from Fazilpore, acquainting you of my having croffed the Myhie, on the South Bank of which I remained encamped the 7th instant; and on the 8th marched to this Place, on the Beswamuntry Nuddy, within Two Miles of Broach. I have yet met with no Sort of Attempt to molest the Followers of the Camp from Scindia's Troops; nor have they, by any Act, since quitting the Neighbourhood of our Pergunnahs, testified a hostile Disposition in their Master to-wards the English; on the contrary, he has himself, as far as was in his Power, endeavoured to evince his own friendly Inclinations, by releafing voluntarily and unatked, Meffrs. Varmer and Stewart from their Confinement, and dismissing them to my Camp, where I have the Pleasure to inform you they arrived safe the Evening of Yesterday. He at the same Time deputed Appajee Subajee to deliver them over to me, with Letters from himself and Holkar, setting forth the Proofs he had formerly given of his friendly Intentions to the English at Worgaun, he having persisted in the same Sentiments towards them, till the present Period; which was sufficiently manifested in the Treatment he had given Messrs. Farmer and Stewart, during their Residence in his Camp, and particularly in the Liberty he had now granted them to rettern; and that he wished to know, whether our Inclinations were of a hostile or friendly Nature towards the Peishwa and himself, as from our Conduct hitherto, he had Reason to believe the former? In answer to this, I told Appajee Subajee, that his Master could not be a Stranger to the Disposition of the English to live in Terms of Peace and Amity with the Peishwa's Government; that to effect this, I had made fair and equitable Propofals of Accommodation to the Minister, which had been rejected by him; and that in consequence of this Refusal, the English had been compelled to enter upon a War, in Defence and Vindication of their own Rights and Honours; that their Quarrel was with the Minister, to whose obstinate and pernicious Councils the Evil that might befall the Maratta State in the Course of this War must alone be attributed; that they had no Cause of Enmity against Scindia whatever, but on the contrary, were conscious of the favourable Disposition he had always shewn to their Interests; and if he continued to prove himself their Friend, were ready to testify their Sense of his Services, and unite in any Plan that might be proposed and adopted for their mutual Benefit.

After conversing some Time, the Vackeel told me that his Master was equally with us the Enemy

After conversing some Time, the Vackeel told me that his Master was equally with us the Enemy of Nanah Furneese; since, notwithstanding he was indebted for all his present Greatness and Security to the powerful Aid of Scindia, who had confined both Siccaram and Moraba, he had acted with the blackest Ingratitude, and had leagued with the Boosla and Nizam against Scindia. He dwelt much upon the Power of his own Master, and the inserior Light in which the Minister ought to be considered, being in sast entirely subject to the Controul and Direction of Scindia. He concluded with declaring, that the Inclinations of the English and Scindia were he found reciprocally friendly to each other, and hossile towards Nanah; and requested I would upon these Grounds make such Proposals to his Master as might be consistent with the Views, and conducive to the Interests of both Parties.

to his Master as might be consistent with the Views, and conducive to the Interests of both Parties. I plainly perceived from the Convertation of this Man that his Drift was to obtain from me the first Overtures towards a particular Connection with Scindia, either with a View of giving his Master a Superiority in the Course of the Negociation, if he was sincere in the friendly Wish he then expressed; or if he meant to deceive, to draw such a Discovery from me as might be of Service to his own Designs: I therefore contented myself for the present with observing, in addition to what I have above mentioned, that it would be a Circumstance perfectly agreeable to the English, if Scindia heartily united with them against the Minister; and that with respect to the future Settlement of the Government of Poona, as he must be the best Judge how it might be effected in the most eligible and beneficial Manner, I wished to receive his Sentiments upon the Subject, to which I would reply with Candour and Sincerity.

Sensible how important a firm Alliance with Scindia would be to the Interest of the Company at this Juncture; and how decisive with respect to the Object of our present Operations, as well as on account of the Line of Conduct the Honourable the Governor General and Council recommended me to pursue regarding this Chief; I have at the same Time given him every proper Encouragement to unite himself with the English, and in general Terms held forth to him the Honour and Advantage he must ultimately derive from so considerable and distinguishing a Connection. The Vackeel has this Morning sent off to his Master the Particulars of what passed; and I expect to receive an explicit Answer To-morrow, from which I shall be able to form a more certain Idea of his real Views, and what Plan must ultimately be resolved upon regarding him. I beg to assure you, that I shall not be seduced by the shining Advantages this Alliance offer, to place any implicit Considence in his Professions, Professions, but shall act in the Negociation with the utmost Circumspection and Deliberation, and guard, as far as human Prudence and Foresight can determine, against every Possibility of Deceir.

Permit me to request that you will favour me as early as possible with your Sentiments on the Conduct proper to be pursued regarding this Chief; and in the mean Time believe that I shall be guided by an invariable Attention to the Objects contained in the general Plan concluded with you for the successful Conclusion of our present Contests with the Maratta Empire. I shall not fail to give you the earliest Information respecting this Business in my Power.

dard Gene-Letter from.

Gentlemen,

SINCE my Letter of the 10th Instant, which informed you of the Arrival of Mess. Farmer and Stewart in my Camp, and the Conversation I had held with Apajee Sabajee, who accompanied them on the Part of Scindia, I have entertained Hopes of being able to communicate to you something decisive with regard to the Negociation set on Foot by that Chief; but notwithstanding the expected Answers have arrived, I am forry it is not in my Power to satisfy you further on this important Point.

These Answers from Scindia and Holcar were delivered me last Night by the Vackeel, and contained only general Declarations of their own friendly Sentiments, and the Satisfaction they had derived from my Assurances of the favourable Inclinations of the English towards them; requesting surther, that as the Business to be mutually adjusted was of the most important Nature, I would send a considential Person to their Camp, fully informed of the Views of the English, with whom they might come to a final Settlement and Determination. After the Proofs so recently given by Scindia of his Wish to preserve the good Opinion and Friendship of the English, I could not with any Propriety have hesitated to shew him this Mark of my Considence, had it appeared necessary to the Success of our Negociation, or even calculated to promote it in any Degree; but, exclusive of a certain Conviction in my own Mind to the contrary, I further consider that the deputing a Person to him at this Time would carry the Appearance of being too eager in making Overtures which might be construed in an unfavourable Light; and was besides particularly improper, from the Circumstance of Scindia's having corresponded with me under the Scal of the Peishwa; and that since the Refulal of the Minister to accede to the Terms I had proposed, all Proposals for Accommodation ought to be first made by their Government.

I therefore declined fending any Person immediately from myself to Scindia, but in such a Manner as to avoid impressing him with a Belief that my Dissent arose from any Motives of Distrust, or a Want of Reliance on his Honour or Sincerity; and have given Apajee Sabajee Leave to return to his Master, empowered to offer every general Assurance on the Part of the English, of the proper Sente they have of his Services, and their Wish to continue on Terms of Amity with him; if by his Conduct he will give them an Opportunity of proving their friendly Disposition and Desire to promote his Interests, in conjunction with their own. Apajee Sabajee set out this Day for his Master's Camp, which is about Ten Coss distant, with a Promise of returning the Day after To-morrow; to which Period, I have thought it necessary to limit him, as Scindia will have sufficient Leisure to deliberate fully upon the Measures he wishes to propose, and at the same Time an Excuse for further Delays be avoided. I have consented, however much against my Inclination, to the Delay hitherto practised, from the Probability there appears of succeeding in this Negociation, and the certain and decisive Advantages an Union of Interests with Scindia will give us in the present War. Since crossing the Myhé his Army has also remained perfectly quiet in the Neighbourhood of Paun Ghur, and the Company's Purgunnahs do not experience the Essets of their Ravages and Depredations.

APPENDIX N° 260.

My next will, I flatter myfelf, give you that certain and politive Intelligence I am fo defirous of conveying to you.

Camp near Baroda, 13th March 1780. I have the Honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

Gentlemen,

On the 10th Instant I had the Pleasure of acquainting you with the safe Arrival of Messrs. Farmer and Stewart in my Camp, since which I have received a Letter from the former, Copy whereof ral, Letter from accompanies this. In Confideration of the Circumstances under which these Gentlemen became Prisoners in the Camp of Madjee Scindia, the Hardships they must have undergone during their Confinement, not so much on account of any actual Severity they may have met with, and of which indeed they do not complain, as from the Idea that their Lives were become forfeited to the capricious Pleasure of a Person who might think himself justified in adopting the harshelt Measures; I conceived a particular Happiness in seeing them enter my Camp in Safety; and I considered this Conduct in Madjee Scindia, in voluntarily delivering up their Persons, as most fortunate to themselves, and highly honourable to the English Name.

I should therefore have been exceedingly happy to relieve Mr. Farmer from the Inconvenience he fays he has fuffered in his private Fortune, on account of the Money he found necessary to advance to procure his Enlargement, and to which, I beg Leave to add, he appears to me very well entitled; but as in my Instructions from the Honourable Governor General and Council, I received no Orders on the Subject of the Release of thete Gentlemen, nor was any Provision made for the Circumstance that has now happened, and which indeed they could not roresee; I have been under the Necessity of declining to comply with his Request myself, but have, as he further solicited, referred and strongly recommended his Case to the Consideration of the Bengal Government.

I should be wanting in Justice to Mr. Farmer, did I not avail myself of the present Opportunity to testify, in the strongest and most public Manner, my Sense of his Attention to the Company's Interests, as strikingly proved in the Danger to which he exposed himself, by transmitting me at different Times from the Camp of Madjee Scindia Advices of the State of Affairs there, and of the Movements of his Army, together with such other ulcful Intelligence regarding the Intentions of the several Maratta Leaders, as could come within his Knowledge; I am for this Reason further induced to recommend his Case to your particular Attention, and, as he has represent d to me the extreme Inconvenience he must suffer in his private Assairs from the Delay of the Payment of the Sum he has advanced, to hope you will deem it consistent with your own Sentiments of Mr. Farmer's Merits to afford him immediate Relief from his prefent Embarrafiments, without waiting for the Refull of the Reference I have thought it necessary to make to the Government of Bengal.

Camp, near Baroda, 15th March 1780.

I have the Honour to be. Gentlemen, Your most obedient, humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. William Gamul Farmer to General Goddard.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

It had been long ago proposed to me to be deputed to you in order to endeavour at an Accommodation between you and Scindia; but the Mode was, that Mr. Stewart should be left as a Security for my Return, which was in fact doing nothing effectual as to our Release; because in the Event that no Accommodation took place, we should have remained just where we were. I perceived that they had it really in Mind to depute somebody, and they also wished that I should go with this Person: On this Ground I held out, that if Scindia would permit me to go, I would endeavour the most in my Power to effect the Business to his Satisfaction. I further observed, that if to the Services on which he founded certain Claims, he added the full and ample Release of Mr. Stewart and myself, it would be an Act that, added to his Treatment of us, would give him great Calls on the Gratitude of the English, and go very far to convince them that he looked to a lasting Connection with them. This Suggestion I was told was a very good one, and that it would be made use of; but it was insinuated to me that I knew the Ministers of Scindia's Durbar were obliged annually to make large Presents to their Chief; and that the only Resources they had were the Opportunities of rendering Services to People in Affairs they might have at the Durbar; that the Release of Mr. Stewart and myself was one of these Opportunities; and that I must reslect, that as the Agreements we were Hostages for were of no less Value to Scinda than the Sum of Twelve Lacks per Annum, at any REP. VI. [3D]

other Period than the present, he might perhaps insist on some pecuniary Compensation for himself, and that then as the Amount might be beyond my Abilities to satisfy it, we had little Prospect, if the present Moment passed by, of any thing better than a very tedious Consinement; that it would therefore be wise in me not to let slip this Opportunity of extricating ourselves from a very disagree, able Situation. There seemed to me a great deal of Reason also in this Argument, and knowing that it was impossible to effect a Business of this Kind without previously securing the Ministers, I accordingly begun treating, on the Footing that the Ransom would be entirely at my own Expence, as I had formerly taken Care to have them convinced that the Company would not pay a Rupee towards it. They began by talking of a Lack, then 75,000, from which I brought them down to Half a Lack; and after much Discussion, I finally concluded for 35,000, to be paid to the different Ministers of Scindia's Durbar, Part on our receiving our public Dismission, and the Remainder on the safe Delivery of Mr. Stewart and myself into your Hands; there was then no Kind of Dissiculty; the Business was taken up on the Footing I had pointed out; and we have once more the Happiness of being restored to the Society of our own Countrymen.

When we became Hostages for the Treaty of Worgoaum, as far as I could then perceive it was deemed a meritorious Service, and I believe no one thought that we were to be left exposed without Consideration as Sacrifices to the Resentment of the Marattas. I trust therefore, that in the Opinion of every Man the Expence of our Release should be borne by those for whose intended Benefit we did expose ourselves to what we have already suffered. On this Footing it may perhaps happen, that in the Event I have acted for the Benefit of the Honourable Company; for should no Accommodation take place, and I had not embraced the Opportunity of the present Moment, it would possibly hereafter have been requisite to have made some pecuniary Compensation to Scindia himself, and in that Case the present Sum is trisling to what would have been demanded; as it has been heretofore hinted to me, that if my Employers did not intend to comply with the Treaty, they ought in Justice to set on Foot some Endeavours for our Release, and that for the Value of Five or Six Lacks to Scindia and his Ministers, the Business might be effected. If I could have paid ready Money it would have been possible to have accomplished this Business for a less Sum, but it was only in my Power to pay a Part, and for the rest I have passed such Obligations, and given such Security, as will render my private Fortune answerable for the Payment; and I have also less my Dewan and another Person there as surther Security. I have thus, Sir, taken the Liberty to submit the whole Transaction to you; and conclude by requesting, that you will enable me, from the Public Cash, to fatisfy these Obligations.

Having understood that the Honourable Governor General and Council have vested you with the entire and uncontrolled Conduct of all Assairs on this Side that may have any Relation with the Marattas, I thought that the foregoing could with Propriety, only be addressed to you; and I have been rather fuller than perhaps might at first appear necessary, in order to save you the Trouble of explaining the just Ground on which my Request is founded: I must also assure you, that bad as our Situation would probably have been on the Event of Hostilities with Scindia, I would gladly have been content to have exposed myself to the worst, sooner than bring any Expence on the Honourable Company; but from what I heard of the general Apprehensions relative to the Fate of Mr. Stewart and myself, I thought that being freed from these Apprehensions, you would also be freer to take every Opportunity against Scindia, without any Burthen to your private Feelings; and surther, that in case by the Events of War any Chief should fall into your Hands, whose Absence would distress him or Holkar, that Advantage might be lost by the Exchange that you might be induced to make of them for us; and I know perfectly that the Capture of certain Chiefs would distress them, because without their Sirdars, the Men would either refuse to act, or most probably altogether disband themselves.

I beg Leave to conclude by observing, That I make no Claims on the Company for all that I have suffered both of Body and Mind, during a tedious Confinement in the Maratta Camp, nor for the Hazard it is certain I have undergone; that my Life was not made answerable by the Marattas for the Failure of those Engagements for which I pledged it in their Hands: I simply request, that to these Sufferings and these Hazards may not be added a Loss which would go far to consume all I have been labouring for in this Climate during a Course of near 18 Years, devoted to the Service of the Honourable Company.

The expected Proposals on the Part of Madjee Scindia have at length been made me through Abajee Sabajee, who Yesterday brought me Letters from his Master, filled only with general Expressions of Friendship, and referring me for Particulars to his Man. He accordingly, after repeating Scindia's Enmity to the Minister Nana Furneese, and his Wish to unite with the English in removing him from the Administration, and settling it upon a Plan more consistent with the Interest of both Parties, made me the following Proposal: That formerly when Ragoba was at Tellaugaum, after the Return of the English Army to Bombay, an Agreement had been entered into betwixt him and Scindia, and written Engagements mutually exchanged for its Performance, wherein the former consented to relinquish all Claims to any Share in the Administration at Poona, and to retire towards Jeney, where he should receive an Allowance from the Peishwa's Revenue of 12 Lacks of Rupees per Annum; that the Sicca should continue to be struck in the Name of the Young Peishwa Maderow Narrain, and that Bajerow, the Son of Ragoba, should be appointed his Duan; but that as he was too young to transact the Business of the Office himself, being only Four Years of Age, the Care and Management of it should be left entirely to Scindia, by which Means the fole Controul and Direction of the Government would come into his II ands. This Plan Scindia proposed should now be pursued, that Ragoba should immediately go himself to Jeney, and Young Badjerow accompany him to Poona, in order to fix the Administration in the Manner above mentioned. This was the Amount of what Scindia had authorized Sabajce to propose, without any Reservation or other Clause whatever; and as it appeared plain his only Drift was to get Rago-ba and his Son into his own Power, by which Means he meant to aggrandize himself in the State, without Regard to the Interests of the English, and perhaps through their Means to make his own Terms with the Minister, I have thought it proper to dismiss the Vackeel with this pointed and politive Answer, That the English cannot, consistent with their Honour, nor ever will, agree to put any Restraint upon Ragoba, or compel him to leave their Dominions, where he has received an Asylum, against his own Consent: That however much they might be induced to unite in the proposed Settlement, they must be perfectly satisfied respecting the Sasety of Young Bajerow, and every Thing must be quietly settled at Poona, before his Presence would be expedient, or even necessary there; and that admitting the English did agree to assist in putting the Power of the State into the Hands of Scindia, it was necessary that he also should, on his Part, and in the Name of the Pestagorant are the Restorance of certain Conditions says well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for their Integrals, as well in Conditions for the Perfection of the Perfecti wa, conient to the Performance of certain Conditions favourable to their Interests, as well in Confideration of the important Advantages he was to receive through their Means, as to compensate for the heavy Expence of the Wars, which formerly, and in particular at this Time, they had been involuntarily compelled to wage with the Maratta State. With this Answer I this Morning difmissed Abajee Sabajee to his Master; and as in explaining fully my Sentiments to him, and giving him to understand I could not consent to any that were of a dishonourable Nature, I at the same Time used every Endeavour to convince him of my fincere Inclination towards an Accommodation; if his Defign is really to unite with the English, it will be at once proved by the Conduct he adopts on receiving my Answer. One Circumstance which tends to establish a Belief of his hostile Intentions, and which I-think proper to mention to you, is, that he wrote to Govind Row, the difaffected Brother of Futty Sing, who has long refided with the Sundarvaree Rajah, inviting him to his Camp, and promifing to put him in Possession of the Guicawar Share of Guzerat; and I this Evening learn that he has actually arrived and been received by Scindia.

I propose halting To-morrow, when I shall determine upon the Steps it will be necessary to follow, and immediately inform you.

RECEIVED, the Two following Letters from General Goddard:

Monday 30

Gentlemen, Agreeable to the Intention expressed in my former Letter, I have, in consequence of your Desire, taken the Liberty of sending my Opinion on the Subject of the proposed Augmentation of your Military Establishment; in doing which, I have further presumed to lay before you, such Plan for the complete Regulation of your Army, as appears to me calculated to answer the useful, and at this Time, necessary Purpose of encreasing your Military Strength, and at the smallest additional Expence possible. I have endeavoured to be as full and explicit as I could, in order to satisfy Expence possible. I have endeavoured to be as full and explicit as a could, in order to latisfy every Doubt, and remove every Difficulty, which must unavoidably suggest itself in the first Introduction of a Change, so entire and important as the Arrangements I have now proposed in every every Department will occasion in your Service. If any Points yet remain to be explained, I shall esteem myself happy at an Opportunity of elucidating to your Satisfaction; and I beg Leave only to add, that as I shall consider it most fortunate and honourable to me, if the Thoughts I have expressed in the inclosed Papers meet with your Approbation, so I do not doubt being freely excused for the Trouble I may give you in the Perusal of them, if they should not be found to answer the good and useful Purposes for which they were intended.

In my last Letter, I informed you of the dismissing Scindia's Vackeel, and my Intention to move towards him. I have accordingly advanced to a Place called Pittoul, on the Banks of the Biswamuntry Nuddy, and about Eight Miles to the East of Brodra. On the Day of my Arrival here, I found Scindia had sent his Camp Equipage, Buzar, Baggage, &c. for Security to the Neighbourhood of Paunghun, and himself with the greatest Part of his Army, unincumbered with any Sent of Bangage whatever, had taken Post of the Distance of about Turalya Miles, the Panning Sort of Baggage whatever, had taken Post at the Distance of about Twelve Miles; the Remainder of his Troops he had dispersed in different Bodies round himself, and on the Road leading to my Camp, so as to be effectually guarded against every Possibility of a Surprize, which he is much asked of, and which I have studied all in my Power to obtain an Opportunity of attempting with any Prospect of Success; but on Account of the Disposition above described, hitherto to no Essect I am anxious to accomplish this, because from the Nature of his Army, and the Mode of War he 1 am anxious to accomplied this, because from the Nature of his Army, and the Mode of War he practifes, I can neither approach near enough to attack him suddenly to Advantage, nor will he risk the Hazard of meeting me openly in the Field. If I advance, he will certainly retreat; and to think of pursuing him beyond his present Encampment, would not be the Means of bringing on a decisive Action, nor could it be attended with any real or folid Benefit, proportioned to the successful to the successful to the successful think it necessary to mention to you, that since the Dismission of Scindia's Vackeel, I have received the Source of Message or Overture from him whatever, and that notwithstanding the Reports, and the no Sort of Message or Overture from him whatever; and that notwithstanding the Reports, and the general Belief of an Enmity sublisting betwixt him and the Minister; the Agents of the latter reside in his Camp, and I am credibly informed, Letters are constantly passing and repassing betwit them; from all these Circumstances, I am consirmed in the Conjecture which Scindia's late Conduct suggested, that the Shew of his Animosity against Nana Furnese, was an entire Pretext to deceive the English, and get the Persons of Ragoba and his Son into his Hands, for Purposs merely for his own Advantage, and attaining the Accomplishment of his Views with the Minute, I shall write you very shortly; and have the Honour to be,

Camp near Pittoul, Four Coss from Brodra, 24th March 1780.

Gentlemen, Your faithful and obedient Servant, Thomas Goddard.

P. S. In consequence of the Intention expressed in your former Letter, of raising Two new Battalions immediately, I gave Orders to Major Fullarton, commanding the Detachment at Ahemadavad, to entertain some Sepoy Recruits, of which Numbers were offering themselves; and as I have Reason to believe that Country the best Nursery for Soldiers on this Side of India, I take the Liberty of further proposing that you will allow me to authorize Major Fullarton to enlist such Number as you may judge requifite to complete the Augmentation proposed to take place in your military Establishment.

Boddard, Gene-al, Letter from.

Gentlemen,

My Letter of the 24th Instant informed you particularly how Affairs were situated respecting Scindia, in which State they remained without any Alteration till this Morning, when it became requisite to move Ground on Account of a Scarcity of Water at the former Encampment; I accordingly determined upon marching to this Place, which was about Five Miles distant, and upon my Approach, found a large Party of the Enemy's Horse had occupied the Village of Camloud, close to which it was necessary to engamp. As I advanced nearer, their Numbers continued to encrease, till obtaining a more distinct View, I perceived their whole Army hal collected in its Neighbourhood, covering a Space of at least Three Miles in Extent, on the Right and Left, and the Rear of the Village. I therefore immediately ordered the Line to form, and advanced in Order of Battle to the Village, which, after firing a few Rockets, they precipitately abandoned; but as their Army still shewed themselves upon the Plain in Front, disposed to annoy the Treone. I thought it recessory for the Referent Communication of the Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Referent Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of the Communication of the Reference of th the Troops, I thought it necessary, for the Ease and Convenience of the Camp, to disperse them, and accordingly ordered a few Discharges of the Artillery, which had the defired Effect, and they immediately fled with the Loss of some Men and Horses, nor have they since appeared to give me any Disturbances.

I cannot exactly ascertain their present Situation, any further than that their Guns and Baggage are moved to a considerable Distance out of reach, and where it would neither be consistent with good Policy to follow them, nor could it be attended with any immediate Advantage, as they would contrive to carry them to a still greater Distance as they advanced. I shall obtain every necessary Information

Inclemen, my Letter of the 27th ultimo, I communicated to you the Circumstances that happened the yof my Arrival at this Place; since which Time nothing of any Consequence has occurred, till Morning, when sinding the Enemy would neither venture to come to a fair and decisive Action, elves, nor put it in my Power to attack them with all the Advantage I could have wished g sent their Guns and standing Encampment at too great a Distance in their Rear for me positive overtake them; I came to the Resolution of dislodging their Army from the Post they then sied with their Horses and Arms, only about Six Miles from my Camp, and marched myself for Purpose at Two o'Clock with a Part of the Army, leaving the Remainder at the former Ground, the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley. The Force I took with me consisted of 200 peans, Ten Grenadier Companies of Sepoys, the 4th and 7th Battalions of Bengal, and the 8th lion of Bombay Infantry, together with 2 Twelves, and 10 Six Pounders of Artillery: I also with me the Regiment of Mogul Cavalry and Candahar Horse. These I divided into Two 8, giving the Command of the Rear Line to Major Hopkins, which consisted of Two Battalions poys, with the Cavalry divided on either Flank. Lieutenant Colonel Baillie and Major Forbes

he Situation in which I knew the Enemy to be posted, the Care they took to prevent being surprizand the Ease and Expedition with which they would be able to move off upon the suft Alarm given, gave me no Hopes of coming upon them unprepared, and surprizing them essectually; he Objects I principally had in View were to induce them to venture an Action with only a Part e Army opposed to their whole Force; to drive them from the Post they then occupied; or is seed without Resistance, to prove the manifest Superiority of our Arms in the most striking and urable Manner. I am happy to inform you, the Event has far exceeded my Expectations: I backed much nearer to their Camp, without being discovered by any of their small Out-posts, I could have conceived possible, and a little before Day-break came upon their grand Guard, sting of 6 or 7000 Men, and commanded by Parajee Punt and Baghretty Scindia, which I through without discharging a Shot, determined to reserve my Fire till I came to the Body under Madjee Scindia himself. This being a Mile and a Half in Front, I did not a till about Sun-rise, when their whole Army was in Motion, and the Action immediately comted. Seeing the Inferiority of our Force, and presuming upon their own Numbers, they added with much Appearance of Courage and Resolution, but were received by so warm and well-

ced. Seeing the Inferiority of our Force, and prefuming upon their own Numbers, they added with much Appearance of Courage and Refolution, but were received by fo warm and well-ded a Fire from our Artillery, that they were obliged to give Way, and in the Space of about dour quitted the Field entirely. In order to dislodge a large Body of the Enemy, who were very blesome to the Troops by firing Matchlocks and Rockets from behind the Cover of some has on the Right Flank of the Line, I ordered the Regiment of Cavalry and the Candahar the to advance; which Service they performed with equal Spirit and Success, and having drove n to the Plain, gave an excellent Opportunity for the Artillery to fire upon them as they ted.

Ifter remaining Two Hours upon this Ground, and the Marattas not daring to make their pearance again, I ordered the Troops to return to Camp, which they did without any further of the Enemy, or any Party of their Horse shewing themselves in the Rear, tom this Circumstance, and the Essect which it was plain our Artillery must have had among em, I am persuaded the Enemy must have suffered considerably; I cannot at present ascertain it actly; but the Reports of the Hircarrahs who are come in, make the Numbers who sell very contended those who were carried off wounded.

We have sustained no Loss on our Side, except among the Candahar Horse, of whom Fifteen the killed and wounded in charging the Enemy as before related, which they did very gallantly; me Mogul Trooper is wounded, and also One Sepoy by a Matchlock Ball. I shall shortly inform the what Estect the Action of this Day has upon Scindia's Operations, and beg Leave to conclude Rep. VI.

OUR last Letters from you are dated the 3d and 4th of this Month.

We observed with much Pleasure the Advantage gained over the Enemy in the Action of the 3d, but are impatient to hear from you what Effect your Success may have had on Scindia's Operations; and what Plan you propose pursuing, which, as the Season grows late, it is of Consequence for us to be informed of as early as possible.

The Possession of Bassein, considered in every Point of View, is an Object of so much Importance to the Company, that we cannot help expressing our Anxiety at the Probability there appears of this Season elapsing, and Bassein still unsubdued. The Danger of such a Fortification so contiguous to our Possessing, and Bassein still unsubdued. The Danger of such a Fortification so contiguous to our Possessing, and Bassein still unsubdued. The Danger of such a Fortification so contiguous to our Possessing, and Bassein still unsubdued. The Danger of such a Fortification so contiguous to our Possessing in the Hands of the Enemy in this Time of an European War, and the Advantage and Security the Acquisition of it would give to this Presidency, make us very carnets in our Wishes not to leave the Reduction of this Place to the Hazard of suture Accidents or Circumstances; nor can we think that any other Object can claim a Preference to your Attention, or bring the Campaign to a more honourable and advantageous Conclusion. The President has acquainted us, that he wrote to you some Time ago on this Subject; and the Rule we have lad down for our Conduct will not permit us to withhold our Advice on so very material an Affair; but should you not intend to move to the Southward before the Close of the Season, a due Attention to the Safety of this Place, which you must be sensible is now in a very destructe and unprovided Situation with respect to Troops, makes it absolutely and indispensably requisite that the Bombay Detachment under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley should be returned into Garrison as soon as possible, before the Monsoon shuts up the Communication by Sea; as it would be the Heighth of Imprudence to suffer this Place to remain with such a slender. Force for its Desence, at a Season the most favourable for a sudden Attack, and when no Relief can be afforded in case of any Attempts mpts from the French; if therefore your Operations for this Scason should be confined to Guzethe weighty Reasons above recited, we doubt not, will convince you of the Necessity of imat, the complying with our Requisition for the Return of our Detachment, a Measure we cannot appense with, and shall accordingly depend on your ordering ir to Surat to be embarked for Bomwhilst the Weather will permit; on which Head we shall give the necessary Orders to Mr.

The Number of our Europeans, and the present Disposition of them, will not, we think, for the nefent, admit of our carrying into Execution the Alterations proposed by you with respect to them, n any Manner that will prove of Advantage to the Service, adequate to the great Increase of Expence; but we have determined immediately to raite Seven additional Battalions of Sepoys, in order o complete our Establishment to Fifteen Bartalions, which will be formed of the Strength and plodel proposed by you; and we shall soon advise you of the particular Arrangement we propose making of them.

We have appointed Captains West, Waddington, and McCulloch, now serving under you, to mmand Three of the new Battalions, and hope to hear of Major Fullarton's Success in raising

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have the Pleafure to acquaint you, that in confequence of Orders from the Honourable the President to the Chief, Captain Campbell's Detachment took Possession of Parseek Fort early this Morning. Enclosed is Copy of his Letter just now received. A small Party of Sepoys has also taken Possession of Culwa.

is necessary to be added to the Fort, and what Garrison is requisite for its Defence. We shall be able to furnish your Honour, &c. with further Particulars, we hope shortly.

Copy of Captain Campbell's Let-ter to the Chief nd Factors at Tannah.

Gentlemen.

At Day-break this Morning we arrived here, and marched up to the Water Gate, which we were obliged to break down, though the People within made no Resistance, but kept the Gate fast. There was not a Shot fixed from the Fort, and there were in it but 15 Men as I learn, Four of whom we have laid hold of, and I fend them to you, a Havildar and Three Sepoys.

This Fort is a milerable Place, would scarce contain Forty Men; but from its Situation might defend itself with Thirty Men, against I think any Number, unless it were knocked all to Pieces. I have Possession of the Church above the Fort and keep a Picquet there.

I think it would be impossible to bring Guns against the Fort, I have brought our Field Pieces up the Hill between the Church and Fort.

There is no Village here, and the Troops must be provisioned from Tannah for any Thing I can vet fee.

I wait your Directions for my further Conduct.

There are Six small Guns mounted in the Fort, but they appear to me to be unserviceable.

I fend Two Boats that were found here; in one there are some Copper Pots.

I have no Colours for this Place but my Battalion Colours, therefore request one may be sent

We have received your Letter dated Yesterday.

You will make the strictest Enquiries respecting the Quantity of Batta laid up by the Marattas in your Neighbourhood, and fend us your Report as foon as possible; at the same Time informing us of the State of the Country between Culwa and Bellapore.

Bombay Castle, 14th April 1780. We are your loving Friends, W" Hornby, &c. Committee.

The following Five Letters were received by the President from Captain Lendrum respecting the Capture of Bellapore and Panwell, and are entered for the Information of our Honourable Employers.

Honourable Sir,

izth April 1780. 7 o'Clock. I have fent Mr. Read with the Flag of Bellapore, which I surprized at Four o'Clock this Morning: I took it by Escalade. The Bamboo Ladders exactly answered. I had only One European President. wounded; and killed Two of the Enemy. Mr. Read mounted the Ladder which I placed for him; nothing could be a completer Surprize; there were Three Europeans in the Fort that got off, to my great Concern. I have tent to the Inhabitants, and given them Protection, as you was pleafed to

I shall wait here with the Whole of the Men, until I have your Orders. With the greatest Respect, I am, Honourable Sir, Your most obedient humble Servant, John Lendrum.

P. S. I had Mr. Burchall from Tannah with me, who was at the Escalade, and one of them that did it.

Honourable Sir,

I embarked last Night with about 300 Men, and arrived here at Day-break. Finding the Enemy was apprized of our coming, by the taking of Bellapore, having an advanced Picquet at the Bunder, I was obliged to wait for the Two 6 Pounders being landed. As foon as the Men were formed, about 200 of the Poona Guardees, that is, disciplined Sepoys, advanced within 400 Yards, and from an Eminence kept up a continual Fire from Matchlocks and Ginguls. Having the Guns with me, I advanced on them to about 250 Yards, gave them Two round Shot, which dispersed them; they retired 300 Yards, and then stood and fired; I pushed after them, but on account of the marshy Grounds, I could not get the Guns up fast enough to give them Grape; besides, the Lascars are great Poltroons, I could not get them on fast enough. I advanced to the Pagoda, near the large Tank, and gave them another Shot, which dispersed them. At this Discharge of the Gun, the Arm of the Axle-tree snapped off short at the Linchpin, and the Gun became useless; the Axle very improperly is made of black Wood; I shall get the Axle-tree repaired here. I had not one Man killed from their irregular Fire; nor could I seize them although I sent a Party round the Village of Panwell to the Southward, hoping to intercept them. I have taken Post at the Pagoda, where Captain Carpenter and I will put it in such a State of Desence, that I am in Hopes it cannot be forced without Cannon. There are many Inhabitants in Panwell: I have not permitted one of them to be plundered or molested.

Yesterday a Man left this Place on our taking Bellapore, for more Troops. Now this is so near Poona, I make no Doubt both Men and Guns will be furnished against us; and having good Advice here, that there is not, nor did not come down, any Force worth mentioning to Buindy, as was reported; and confidering the great Force in Tannah, if you would be pleafed to order me One or Two Companies of Sepoys from Sallette, that I may give Captain Carpenter, for Bellapore is very thin, only 95 Men under the Command of Lieutenant Marshall, which is enough for the Fort. The necessary Expenditure of Cash I will supply for the Hire of Biggarees, &c. &c. until I receive your Orders. I shall this Evening load all the Boats I brought up with me with Batty, and fend to your Honour to Bombay To-morrow. Next Springs I hope you will receive a plentiful Supply by the Merchants from hence, for there is a great Store that belongs to them here. The Rents of this Purgunnah are chiefly paid in Money, which have been mostly paid. The Galivat will be well up the River this Tide. The Inhabitants are apprehensive that you will not retain Panwell, Rep. VI. [3F] which Rep. VI.

which makes them uncertain about returning. I beg you will please to order Ten Barrels of Powder to Bellapore; and as I presume that Place will be kept, also Six 4 or 6 Pounders, Iron, with their Carriages, to mount there.

Panwell, 13th April 1780. 4 o'Clock, P. M. With the greatest Respect, I am,
Honourable Sir,
Your humble and obedient Servant.
John Lendrum.

Honourable Sir.

I have received your Honour's Commands of the 13th, and now fend Mr. George Hutchinson agreeable to them; the other Cadets I will collect and send also, and the Lascars; but I hope to have your Orders regarding Panwell this next Flood, as I sent an Express at 3 o'Clock P. M. the 13th.; Panwell is the Capital of a large Purgunnah, not in any Manner dependant on Bellapore; it will require a good Force to remain in it; there is a great Quantity of Batty in Store. I shall not put any in the Boats until I have your Orders, either to evacuate it or maintain it. I have wrote to Lieutenant Marshall, to deliver the Goods to the Vanjairahs, and let them carry them to Bombay. At my taking Bellapore, I gave these People Centinels to protect their Effects, and I believe they have not lost any Part; I have sent and enquired after the Goods of any of the Bombay Merchants here, but none can be found, for most of the People went off the Day before Yesterday, when they sound Bellapore was taken. There is Batty belonging to some of them here, which the Subedar had detained; it can't be well removed until the Springs, for the Shybars at the Town will not float until then. I shall examine the River that runs E. N. E. up to Tullaja, which I believe is about Six Miles from Bellapore. There are 82 Villages in Bellapore Purgunnah; the Revenues I believe is about 1 Lack, or 12 Lack of Rupees annually: The Parts most exposed, are those Villages between Tullaja and Parteek, for the River runs no higher than a little above Tullaja; I shall have the Sircar's Book examined, and send a particular List to your Honour.

Mr. Halsey has wrote to me to guard a Pass over the Hills called Silcaum, near Bellapore, to the North, which I shall do as soon as I return from hence, as I propose leaving Captain Carpenter in Charge of this Post, with as great a Force as I can, provided I have your Orders for maintaining Panwell, 14th April 1780, 3 in the Morning. With the greatest Respect,

I am

Your most obedient humble Servant,

John Lendrum.

Honourable Sir,

This Moment I have received your Honour's Letter of the 14th, and shall act accordingly. The Post at the Pagoda I am fortifying with Breastworks and Embrazures, and request you will please to order me Six Bricklayers here, and the Three Pounders or Four Pounders that Captain Carpenter wrote your Honour for. I hope these Springs I shall send away 100 Boats with Batty belonging to several People here and at Bombay. The Tides are so low that I cannot get the Boats up until To-morrow to the Bunder; I am sending away all the Merchants Things that were detained here, I assure your Honour nothing was taken from them.

I am not apprehensive but I will always be able to retreat; the Company of Sepoys will be a great Reinforcement for me; I do not think I shall want any more, Bellapore is in no Danger; I shall visit it myself occasionally.

I beg you will please to order some here for Barry, not too long ones, on account of the Shoal Water.

Pray let the Six Pounders be left at Bellapore, with some Grape and Round Shot for them, and also Rammers and Spunges for them; and Ammunition likewise for the Guns you please to send to this Place.

There are only Six Shybars here, and many of the People have left them.

Panwell, 14th April 1780, P. M. With the greatest Respect,
I am

Your most obedient humble Servant, John Lendrum.

P. S. I beg you will please to order me a Pair of Hircarrahs to procure Intelligence.

Honourable Sir,

Nothing extraordinary has happened fince Yesterday, except last Night, some People firing at our Boats as they passed from hence to Bellapore, at the Mouth of this River, joining to the Bellapore River. The Galivat is coming up to the Bunder; an armed Boat will protect these if you will please order one here, and I will station her near the Village Balpara. There are Reports of some are not yet arrived.

I send 16 small Boats laden with Batty, to the Care of Mr. Martin, on account of the Merchants: I cannot prevail on them to go themselves, or send it but through me; they are so intimidated by the strict Order from Poona, I must give them Bills on Mr. Martin for the Amount. The Bundar is so bad, I cannot get away the other Boats. I hope you will please to send me some Boats, for I am afraid Panwell will be burned; and on account of its great Extent, I can scarce hope to protect it if the Enemy advance.

I shall appoint Captain Carpenter Commissary of Stores and Provisions for this Detachment, if you will please to approve it.

The Firing last Night was on the 12 Men I detached from Bellapore to Shabajee, but no Damage

We have received your Letter dated Yesterday. We approve of your giving Repairs to Parseek Fort to the Amount mentioned in your Letter, and acquieice for the present in the Garrison allotted for that Fort.

If the Four Boats are loaded with Sircar's Batty, they must be taken Possession of for the Benefit of the Honourable Company; but if private Property, the Proprietors must be directed to bring it to Bombay, to dispose of it at this Market; and this Rule you must observe with respect to any Batty that may be found in the Autgaums, or in any other Place.

And here we must admonish you of the Purpose for which our Troops have been sent to the Continent, and of the Necessity there is of Activity and Dispatch in securing all the Grain within your Reach, before the Enemy can come and destroy it. As to the Autgaums, they may be maintained with the smallest Force, and are at all Times at our Command; they need not however be neglected, but we think the most Service for the Troops, and not to be delayed, is for them to proceed up to Callian, and to cstablish a Station and Collection of Grain there, in the same Manner as the Party from Bellapore have done at Panwell; and this we direct to be done as foon as possible, unless you should judge it not practicable without too much Risque to the Troops, which we think by proper Measures may be rendered very inconsiderable.

The Engineer has been called upon to give his Opinion of the State of Perseek Fort, and if from any Repairs were absolutely necessary: Enclosed is a Copy of his Letter. It seems eligible that this Place should be maintained with a small Garrison, and as it can be made very defensible with such a one, for the trisling Expence of 500 Rupees, we have directed the Engineer to give it what Repairs he says is absolutely requisite, which we flatter ourselves your Honour, &c. will ap-

The Commandant of the Troops having delivered it as his Opinion, that One European Subaltern, One Subedar, Three Jemidars, Six Havildars, Six Naiques, and One hundred Sepoys, with One Bombardier, Five Matroffes, and Twelve Lascars, will be sufficient for the present Defence of Perseck Port; we have in consequence of the Orders contained in your Letter of the 14th, directed Captain Campbell to leave the above Detachment at Parscek, and march with the Remainder of his Force to the Autgams and other Villages in the Neighbourhood, in Search of the Sircars Batty. He is defired carefully to avoid injuring private Property, but to give every Encouragement to the Inhabitants. Advice having been received by the Chief from the other Side, that a small Party of Horse and Foot were ravaging the Villages in the Bellapore District, he desired the Major to send a Detachment over, to prevent them from coming, at least on the West Side of the District, but he said he could not spare a Man; we have therefore directed him to recall a Company of Sepoys from the Qutposts, Copy of a Letter from the Engineer at Tannah to the Resident and Factors.

Gentlemen, Agreeable to your Orders I went this Morning with the commanding Officer, Major Westphall, to examine the Fort Perseek, situated on the Right Shore of Callian River, and I have now the Honour to inform you, that the Walls of the Fort are here and there not above Eight or Ten Feet high from the Ground to the Embrasures and to the Crest of the Parapets, which subjects those Parts to be easily Escaladed; others, particularly those which ought to command the Brow of the Hill, are somewhat too low, and therefore commanded from the Hill before them. The Embrafures are much damaged and too confined, and require therefore more opening; a good many Loop Holes ought also to be made, and the Banquets repaired, &c. Those little Alterations and Repairs, absolutely requisite, if only a small Garrison of 50 Men should be intended to be kept there, will not admit of a regular Estimate, but cannot, as I imagine, come to above 500 Rupees, including the Boat Hire for bringing the Chunam, Bricks, and other Materials from Tannah to Perseek Fort. I have nothing more to add, but that I am, with Respect, Fort Victoria, 13th February 1780. I am, with the greatest Respect, Honourable Sir, and Sirs, Your most obedient humble Servant, George Dick.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Your Commands of the 28th January per Drake came to Hand the 9th Instant, and the Packet from the Q for General Goddard was immediately forwarded to him. By the latest Advices from him, dated . the 5th Current, they were then on their March from Piclatt, about 25 Cois from Ahmedabad, which Capital they expected to reach the 8th or 9th at farthest.

The Three Field Pieces and Howitzers have been landed, and the General duly acquainted of their Arrival; also the Ghee, and the Boat dispatched on to Broach agreeable to your Directions; and in consequence of General Goddard's Request, I have taken Charge of the Consignment of Treasure for the Service of the Army brought by the Britannia.

A Party of Maratta Horse having come up from Bassein, I have been necossitated to withdraw our People placed in the Tannah at Versaul, it being a Place entirely open, and not capable of being defended, as otherwise they would in all Probability have run the Risk of being cut off, as the Town is fituated Three Miles from the Landing Place, and it would have been almost impossible for them to have retreated, had the Enemy got between them and the Sea Shore. They are assembling near Polners, to about 3 or 4000 Horse and a few Foot, under Gunniss Punt, and another Officer. Of the above Circumstance I have duly advised General Goddard, and at the same Time represented to him the absolute Necessity of his sending as speedily as possible a suitable Force to protect the Southern Purgunnahs as well as those adjacent to this Place, otherwise great Risk there is of their being plundered and entirely rayaged by the Enemy from our Inability to send into is of their being plundered and entirely ravaged by the Enemy, from our Inability to fend into the Field any proper Force to prevent the fame.

The General having forwarded to me the intercepted Letter from the Dutch Chief to the Poona Minister, as also the Vackeel's Letter that gave cover to it, I now transmit the same to you, having, agreeable to your Directions, taken exact Copies of the same. I also inclose the Translates, made by the General's Interpreter, of both those Papers.

RECEIVED the following Letter from Colonel Browne.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have the Honour of acquainting you of my Arrival here the 21st Instant, with Six Companies of European Infantry and a Company of Artillery from the Coast, amounting to 472 Non-commissioned Rank and File.

In consequence of the pressing Necessity urged by the Governor General and Council at Bengal, the Gentlemen of the Committee at Fort Saint George were induced to put on board the above Number of Men on the Seahorse, Horsenden, and Morning Star, besides Two Companies which I found myself obliged to send on board the Hawke, as they were so crowded on the Horsenden as made me appresiensive for their Health; which Two Companies Captain Cotton promised Captain Panton and me to return to the Horsenden, when we should arrive off the Port of Bombay; instead of which he, apparently by Design, left us off Ceylon, and we have not seen them since; I therefore request you will be pleased to dispatch them with all Expedition on their Arrival, and should Captain Durand, who commands them, be in want of Money during the Stay there, I beg you will order him to be supplied, and take his Bill on me for the Amount.

It was the earnest Wish of the Gentlemen at Madras, that the Detachment at Tellicherry should join me as soon as possible, for which Purpose they sent the necessary Orders to Major Cotgrave; but as it is impossible for him to comply therewith, without you assist him with a Conveyance, I hope you will speedily enable him to do it.

In addition to the above Two Detachments I am in daily Expectation of receiving another Battalion of Sepoys from Pondicherry.

I have the Honour to enclose you a Letter from the Committee at Fort Saint George.

To Major Cotgrave.

COLONEL Braithwaite has acquainted us of your having arrived to relieve him in the Command of the Madras Detachment, and we conclude this will find you in Charge of the Forces at Tellicherry.

That Gentleman had also proposed to us to send a sufficient Force from hence to relieve the Madras Detachment from the Charge of Tellicherry, which is an absolute Impossibility, as we have detached every Man we could spare to reinforce the Army under General Goddard; we however hope that your Detention at Tellicherry will only cause a temporary Delay to your Proceeding to the Northward, and that your active Esforts to dislodge the Enemy, will be so successful, as to admit of your quitting your present Charge, and leave you at Liberty to pursue the Purpose see which you were ordered to this Coast. We think it expedient to suggest to you, that if a vigorou. Effort should be found necessary to dislodge the Enemy, and your present Force not be judged adequate, the Battalion destined to relieve the 20th, may be brought up to Tellicherry before, the latter is sent down to Anjengo, which will give you an Addition of Force not to be resisted by the Enemy, and when the Service is effected, the 20th may be returned, and you can proceed with the Remainder of init Command Content. Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Our last Address of the 1st Instant was transmitted you the same Day per express Boat, Duplicate of which is inclosed.

Major John Cotgrave having communicated his Intentions to the Resident of proceeding on the Britannia, with the Companies of Artillery and Infantry of the Madras Detachment, to join General Goddard's Army, which Step we were of Opinion might at this Juncture prove highly prejudicial to the Honourable Company's Assairs here; we in consequence thereof wrote him a Letter, Copy of which is inclosed, acquainting him therewith, and requested he would remain here some Time longer, but to which he has not replied.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We addressed you last the 5th Instant, by our Honourable Masters Ship Britannia, Duplicate of which is now enclosed.

On the 16th ultimo, the Mahundy Savoy, commanded by Antonio Perez, laying in Mangulow Roads, was boarded and taken by Eight French, and Four Portugueze Sailors, belonging to the small French Snow at Goa, (noticed before to your Honour, &c.) commanded by Captain De la But, and who had come from thence to Mangulore in a small Boat, under Pretence of protecting their Captain, who had been at Mangulore for some Time past on his Return to Goa. We learn that the above Vessel was carried to the latter Place, where the Government on finding in what Manner she had been seized, took her under its Protection, and confined the Crew. It is also said that Captain De la But is also confined at Mangulore, for being privy to the Capture.

tain De la But is also confined at Mangulore, for being privy to the Capture.

Sadir Cawn is expected shortly at Callicut from Scringpatam; notwithstanding the Nabob's Troops have been in Possession of Mahé, we do not find any new Works have been made at that Place.

There has been no Alteration in our military Operation fince the Britannia left this Place; the Nairs still continue on the Hills and in the Posts around us, as they seem determined not to quit us for some Time, the Resident on the 5th Instant wrote a Letter to the Nabob Hyder Ally, (Copy of which is inclosed) acquainting him of the Prince of Cheuka's Proceedings.

A few Days ago a fishing Boat from Bombay was taken by one of Hyder's Gallivats, off Mangu-

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General and Council, at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

n a Letter received from our Superiors at Bombay, dated the 2d Instant, we are directed to adyour Honour, &c. of the present State of Affairs at this Place, not doubting but that they now y acquaint you with the Cause of our Troubles with the neighbouring Powers, Tributaries to the bob Hyder Ally Cawn.

The Forces of the Prince of Cherika and King of Cartinadue, still continue strongly intrenched different Hills and Posts in the Honourable Company's Districts, the commanding Officer sinding impossible, from frequent Attempts, to dislodge them with our present Force. Whether the emy only intend to bring us to an Accommodation upon their own Terms, if possible, or have re extensive Views, we cannot say; but understand, that Sadur Cawn, the Nabob's Governor Callicut, is expected from Seringapatam with a large Force to settle the Troubles on this Coast, In particular our Disputes with his Master's Tributaries.

The Honourable the President of Bombay has wrote a Letter to the Nabob Hyder Ally, restenting the Conduct of his Tributaries towards the Honourable Company; we therefore hope that it have a proper Effect, though the extraordinary Conduct of his Officers at Mangulore, and other sts, give us Reason to think that Hyder has secretly hostile Intentions against the Company.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs, I have been honoured with the Receipt of your Letter of the 2d Instant. I should be extremely happy was it in my Power to effect the Service your Honours require of me; at it is now too late; the Enemy being to strongly situated as not to be dislodged without the oss of more Men than can be spared at this Juncture. with, that to subdue them would require a much greater Force than we can bring against the even should the other Battalion arrive from Madras; the extraordinary Situation of this Coun putting the best disciplined Troops in the World scarcely on a Par with these People. I am as possible compleating the Lines, which I hope will be in Ten or Twelve Days, when I he embark for Surat on the Eagle, with the Company of European Artillery and Company of Installer the Grenadier Battalion and the 20th Battalion for the Desence of the Place, which in Opinion will be sufficient against the present Enemy.

llicherry, Confiderations ling Major Cotgrave, and coubles there. Read the last Advices from Tellicherry.

We should have been happy, had Circumstances permitted of Major Cotgrave's quitting Techerry, to join General Goddard with the European Force under his Command, which not be very considerable, a temporary Detention there can have no very material Essect upon the General Operations; more especially since the Arrival of the very ample Force under Colonel Browne at Sm while the Major's quitting Tellicherry until the Troubles are in some Train of being adjust might greatly endanger the Sastety of that Settlement, or give an unfavourable Turn to the Negotions which appear likely to be opened with the Enemy. For these Reasons we approve of Factors opposing their Departure, and Major Cotgrave must be desired not to quit Tencis with the Europeans till some Accommodation has taken place; but the Moment it can be done a Propriety, we shall give our free Consent to his joining General Goddard, and the Resident Factors will be then directed to send away the Madras Forces as expeditiously as possible, in or reduce the heavy Expence of that Garrison. In the mean Time we must be of Opinion Major Cotgrave, by continuing at Tellicherry in Desence of that Settlement, will perform acceptable and real Service to the Company, than any Assistance he could assort to the Army Guzerat.

Respecting the general Orders issued by Major Cotgrave the 5th ultimo, and complained of by Resident and Factors, we are of Opinion he has greatly exceeded the Powers vested by the Regulations in military commanding Officers under his Circumstances, and assumed an Author which can in no Degree be supposed necessary for the Desence of the Settlement, to which the alone his Powers are confined. While we are pleased with the Moderation and conciliatory Control observed by the Company's Civil Servants at Tellicherry, we cannot but observe with Disapportion and Displeasure, the Proceedings of the military commanding Officer, so contrary to the Constitution of the Service, and which can produce no other Essect but Jealousies and Discords trimental to the common Cause. These Irregularities again recall to our Observation the bad sequences of the Inattention of the Government at Madras in sending to this Coast a military control subordinate to our Authority; which must be strongly represented to the Company, the subordinate to our Authority; which must be strongly represented to the Company, the subordinate to Major Cotgrave of the Conduct he has pursued.

The Factors at Tellicherry must have Permission to land from the Besborough, Two Lacks a Half of Rupees, out of the Five Lacks expected from Bengal on that Ship; having not Method of supplying them to the Amount they require; and lest the Ship should have passed Port, 50,000 Rupees will be immediately sent from hence on a Vessel which will be ordered for Purpose. To Colonel Browne,

Sir,

We have been favoured with your Letter of the 25th ultimo, and 2d and 4th Instant.

We have given Orders for the Rice and Water Casks to be landed from the Horsendon; and when the Amount is afcertained, shall advise you thereof.

We should have been very glad, had Circumstances permitted, of Major Cotgrave's quitting Tellicherry, with the European Infantry and Artillery under his Command; but their Force is not so considerable, as to allow us to think that a temporary Detention there can have any material Effect on the Operations of the Army in Guzerat, especially since the Arrival of the respectable Force under your Command; whereas his quitting Tellicherry till the Troubles are in some Train of being adjusted, might endanger the Safety of the Settlement, or give an unfavourable Turn to the Negociations which appear likely to be opened with the Enemy. For these Reasons, we have approved of the Conduct of the Resident and Factors, in opposing Major Cotgrave's Intentions of withdrawing the Europeans from Tellicherry; and we cannot doubt but Major Cotgrave will stand justified for a Delay in the Execution of his Orders, which arises from the Necessity of his not quitting an important Settlement of the Company's under his Charge for Desence, and with an Enemy actually before it carrying on an Attack.

We shall leave no Means untried to compose the Troubles at Tellicherry; and the Moment it can be done, will do our utmost to expedite the Junction of Major Cotgrave and his Party, with the Detatchment under your Command.

We have had Intelligence of the Select Committee at Madras having engaged Shipping to bring round the Battalion of Sepoys to this Coast, and their Arrival with you may be soon expected.

Bombay Castle, 13th March 1780. We are, Sir,
Your most obedient
humble Servant,

To Mr. Richard Church, Resident, &c. Factors at Tellicherry.

Gentlemen,

We have received your Letters of the 25th and 28th of January, and 2d, 9th, 11th, and 21st ultimo.

Having dispatched a short Letter to you by a Boat, under the 6th Instant, we now inclose a Duplicate thereof.

The European Force, under Major Cotgrave, is not fo confiderable, that a temporary Delay in their joining General Goddard can have any material Effect on his Operations; especially since the Arrival of the respectable Reinforcement under Colonel Brown; whereas their quitting Tellicherry at this Juncture, might greatly endanger the Safety of the Settlement, or give an unfavourable Turn to the Negociations which appear likely to be opened with the Enemy, and which we most ardently wish may terminate in an Accommodation. Upon these Grounds we approve of your Conduct in opposing Major Cotgrave's Intention of withdrawing the Europeans, as Circumstances stood at the Date of your last Advices; but the Moment it can be done with Propriety you will signify your Consent to Major Cotgrave's proceeding to Surat according to his Orders, and return the Madras Sepoys to Anjengo, with the utmost Expedition, as the Expence of your Garrison is at present almost insupportable.

We are of Opinion that Major Cotgrave, in the Orders you complain of, as recited in your Letter of the 9th ultimo, has much exceeded the Powers, vefted by the late Regulations in the commanding Officer, in fuch Circumflances, and affumed an Authority which can in no Degree be supposed necessary for the Detence of the Settlement, to which Object alone his Powers are confined. We shall, by this Opportunity, signify to Major Cotgrave our Disapprobation of his Conduct; and we approve of your Moderation on the Occasion. We must take Notice of your Omission in not fending a Copy, at Length, of the general Orders of the 5th ultimo, though mentioned in your Letter of the 9th to be forwarded with the other Papers.

The Resident should certainly have answered the Nabob Hyder Ally's Letter, and kept up the Correspondence with him; as your taking no Notice of this Letter may give Disgust, and the Resident's having wrote to him was no Reason for your discontinuing a Correspondence with him. The Nabob's Answer to the President, so far as it related to the Tellicherry Affairs, was much to the same Purport as his Letter to Mr. Church, and in other Points was expressive of Attention to this Government; but as the most effectual Method of coming to a right Understanding with the Nabob, and ascertaining his real Disposition towards the Company, as well as bringing the Troubles at Tellicherry to a Conclusion, we have resolved to fend Mr. George Horsley on a Deputation to him, who will be instructed to make a proper Representation on the Conduct of his Tributaries, and to endeavour to obtain fuch Orders as may restore Tranquillity; and as in the Course of the Discussion of this Subject, he will have Occasion for the most ample Information, we direct that you innnediately forward to him at Onore, a full Account of the Origin and Cause of the present Troubles, and that you correspond with him on all Parts, relating to our Settlement, in which the Exercise of the Nabob's Influence may be requifite.

We have, as before advised, given you Authority to land Two Lacks and a Half of Rupees from the Besborough out of the promised Supply from Bengal, and though it must be attended with Loss to the Company, we can find no other Mode of supplying you to so large an Amount: But in case the Besborough should have passed Tellicherry before the Receipt of this Order, we now send you, by the Morning Star, a Supply of 50,000 Rucees for your immediate Expences, and shall furnish you with the Remainder of the Sum required in the most expeditious Manner, which we shall be very glad to see appropriated to the Purchase of Pepper, instead of being expended in Military Charges.

We cannot give any Orders about the Works at Tellicherry till we receive what Mr. Dacer has to offer further upon the Method of putting them into a more compact State of Defence.

We inclose a Copy of our Letter of this Date to Major Cotgrave, and an Invoice of the Treasure and Stores on board the Morning Star for your Settlement, the Whole amounting to Rupees. After landing the Confignments of the Morning Star you will return her to the Presidency immediately.

Bombay Castle, 13th March, 1780.

We are your loving Friends, &c. Committee.

To Major Cotgrave.

We have received your Letter of the 21st January, and should have been very glad, had Circumstances permitted of your quitting Tellicherry with the European Detachment, in order to join the Army under General Goddard; but their Force is not so considerable, that a temporary Stay there can have any material Effect on his Operations, especially since the Arrival of the Reinforcement under Colonel Brown, whereas your quitting Tellicherry till the Troubles are in some Train of being adjusted, might greatly endanger the Safety of the Settlement, or give an unfavourable Turn to the Negociations which appear likely to be opened with the Enemy. For these Reasons we think it proper you should not quit Tellichery with the Europeans, till some Accommodation has taken place; but the Moment it can be done with Propriety, we shall give our Consent to your joining the Army under General Goddard; and in the mean Time we must be of Opinion, that your Continuance at Tellicherry, in Defence of that Settlement, will recommend you more to your Superiors, and be a more acceptable and real Service to the Company than any Affistance you can afford to the Army in Guzerat.

The Resident and Factors have made a Representation to us upon the Subject of the general Orders issued by you the 5th ultimo, in which we likewise think you have much exceeded the Powers vested by the late Regulations in a Military Commanding Officer in your Circumstances, and assumed an Authority which can in no Degree be supposed necessary for the Desence of the Settlement, to which Object alone your Powers are confined. While we are pleased with the Moderation and conciliating Conduct observed by the Company's Civil Servants at Tellicherry, we cannot but observe with Disapprobation and Displeasure the Proceedings of the Military Commanding Officer, so contrary to the true Constitution of the Service, and which can produce no other Effect but Jealousies and Discords detrimental to the common Cause.

You can have no Ground of Apprehension, that any Censure will revert to you for any Delay in joining General Goddard, that may be occasioned by the Necessity of your not quitting one of the Company's Settlements, under your Charge for Defence, and with an Enemy actually before it carrying on an Attack.

We shall leave no Measure untried to accommodate the Troubles at Tellicherry, on which Subject Letters have passed between our President and the Nabob Hyder Ally; and we find some Overtures have been made to Mr. Church; but as the most effectual Method, we shall instantly depute a Gentleman to the Nabob himself, who will have particular Instructions to make it his First Object to settle all Disputes with his Tributaries at Tellicherry. The Resident and Factors having mentioned in one of their late Letters that you had written to us on the Subject of a large Indent for Stores, which we received under Cover of a Letter from Colonel Braithwaite, but without any Notice or Advice from him; we think it necessary to acquaint you that no such Letter has been received from you, Bombay Select Consultations, 5th April 1780.

Signed the following Letters to Tellicherry and Fort St. George.

To Mr. Richard Church, Resident, &c. Factors at Tellicherry.

We have received your Letters of the 9th, 14th and 15th ultimo.

We have already acquainted you in our Letter of the 13th ultimo, of the only effectual Method that has occurred to us, of refloring Tranquillity to your Settlement, but Mr. Horsley has not yet been able to proceed on his Deputation, owing to the Nabob not having fent the proper Paffports.

As by the resolute Measures you have pursued, Major Cotgrave has been prevented from quitting Tellicherry, and a Continuation of the same Conduct, and our Letter of the 13th, will probably make him desist from all Thoughts of that Nature; we see no Occasion to send you a Reinforcement of Artillery folicited in your Letter of the 9th ultimo; and we now write to the Prefidency of Madras, desiring them to revoke their Orders for his joining General Goddard, and to put him under the Orders of this Government.

We direct that you fend up as foon as possible the Shybars now lying at Tellicherry, upon a heavy Freight, as if Circumstances should happily permit of your returning the Madras Sepoys to Anjengo, we conclude you will find no Difficulty in providing other Means of Transportation.

As it will be utterly impossible for us to fend any further Supply of Money to Tellicherry this Season; and if your present Balance is expended in Purchases of Pepper, there will be no Means lest of defraying the Expences of the Troops now there for your Defence, which may be attended with the most alarming Consequences; we must, however unwillingly, direct that if you see no immediate Prospect of the Troubles being accommodated, you reserve the Whole of your present. Balance of Cash for the Payment of your Garrison, and discontinue your Purchases of Pepper.

Bombay Castle, 5th April 1780. We are your loving Priends, W" Hornby, &c. Committee.

To the Henourable Sir Thomas Rumbold, President and Governor, &c. Seiect Committee of Fort Saint George.

As it is not impossible but the Troubles of Tellicherry may prevent Major Cotgrave from quitting that Settlement before the Rains, we request, for the Good of the Service, and to prevent the Confusion and Embarrassiment which will continue to subsist whilst he has the Sanction of your Orders for withdrawing from a difagreeable Station to a more eligible Service, that you will revoke your Orders for his proceeding to join the Detachment under Colonel Brown, and put him under the Orders of this Government; affuring you that we will expedite his Junction with Colonel Brown as foon as Circumstances will permit of its being done with any Degree of Propriety.

Inclosed is Copy of a Letter we lately found it necessary to write to Major Cotgrave, whose subsequent Conduct has increased the Necessity of the Measure we have above recommended to

The Interruption to our Communication with the Continent, in consequence of the Rupture with the Marattas, having caused a very alarming Scarcity of Grain on this Island, we earnestly request you will if possible supply us with 20,000 or 30,000 Bags of Rice, as early as you may be able, after Receipt hereof, dispatching the Vessels on which you may lade it, by the Southern Passage; in which Case a Supply will arrive in Time to be of the most effential Service to this Settlement, and prevent much Distress.

Bombay Select Consultations, 23d April 1780.

RECEIVED per Besborough the following Letter from Madras.

We have received your Letter of the 2d January, with the Papers of Intelligence.

If Hyder Ally has taken, or means to take, any Part in the Disputes with the Nairs, we apprehend it must be from some Provocations, real or pretended, that have been given him by the Gentlemen of Tellicherry, in which we are the more confirmed by our Letter from Colonel Braithwaite; we have no Subject of Difference with him here that could induce him to take such a Part, and we particularly ordered Colonel Braithwaite when at Mahé, to interfere in nothing relating either to Hyder or [31] REP. VI.

the Nairs. Hyder's Conduct at prefent depends very much on the Transactions with the Martitlas; a Peace with them would have kept him in Awe, and delivered us from every Idea of Troubles from that Quarter; but it will be difficult to fay what Line he will purfue, now that the Negociation with the Marattas is at an End, and Hostilities commenced; for we suppose it must be known to you, that a Treaty has been concluded between the Maratta; and him, with a View of encreasing our Difficulties; and that the Nizam has been from the Beginning of these Disputes directed solely by the Influence of the prefent Powers at Poona.

You express your Wilhes, that at this Time we may be fall and unreferved in our political Correspondence; hitherto we are not sensible of having omitted to give you every Information that was necessary, and our Duty to the Company will certainly incline us to continue these Communications without Referve. Upon this Principle we deem it expedient to give it as our Opinion, that a War at this Time may unite against us all the principal Powers of India; and when it is considered, that we have an assual War to sustain against the Two greatest Powers of Europe, we think a Peace with the Marattas is fafer and more defirable upon almost any Terms, than Troubles which threaden fo many Dangers, and for our own Part, setting aside the Evils which present themselves from War at this Juncture, we do not see from whence the Company are to derive Resources sufficient to manage Undertakings of fuch great Magnitude.

For these Reasons we sincerely hope, that every consistent Endeavour will be used to bring about a Peace; and we flatter ourselves, from your Exertions, joined to those of General Goddard, that an Event so much to be wished may speedily take place. We should have been obliged to you if you had acquainted us with the Terms that were proposed to the Marattas, and the Terms on which they were willing to come to an Accommodation. These Particulars would have been very satisfactory, and we request you will communicate them to us as soon as possible.

You will have been informed by our Letter of the 3d ultimo, a Duplicate whereof is now transmitted, what Reinforcement we had determined to spare General Goddard's Army. A complete Battalion of Europeans and a Company of Artillery went to Surat by the Sea Itolie, Horsenden, and Morning Star, and we ordered the Battalion of Sepoys we proposed fending, to be embarked on the Besborough, Atlas, and Duke of Grafton, for Surat.

Should Captain Montgomery, by proceeding in consequence of our Orders directly to Surat, be unable to fulfil his Engagements exactly to the Time with respect to the Delivery of his Ship to you, we request and hope that such Failure may be no Detriment to him, as the public Service only will be the Occasion of it.

We have the Pleasure to acquaint you that Sir Edward Hughes, with Six Sail of the Line, arrived here the 18th ultimo, together with several of the Company's Ships as per List enclosed, and a Battalion of His Majesty's 73d Regiment.

Extract of Bombay Select Confultations, the 29th May 1780.

To the Honourable Sir Thomas Rumbold, Baronet, President and Governor, &c. Select Committee at Fort Saint George.

We have been favoured with your Letters of the 4th and 8th February and 18th March.

Your Wishes cannot be more ardent than ours for a safe and honourable Peace with the Marattas, nor will any Endeavours be wanting on our Part, to promote so desirable an Event; but as Matters now stand, we have no direct Agency in the Measures now pursuing, the Governor General and Council having reserved the Conduct of this War entirely in their own Hands.

General Goddard received his Powers for the late Negociation with the Poona Government, from the Governor General and Council, who acquainted us they had commissioned him to treat of the Renewal or Confirmation of the Treaty of Poorunder, provided they would recede from the Pretensions they had acquired by the Convention of Worgaum, and agree not to admit any French Force into their Dominions, nor allow that Nation to form any Establishment on the Maratta Coast; and that the Acceptance or Refusal of these Conditions, was to determine the Alternative of Peace or War.

In Answer to these Overtures, General Goddard acquainted us, that the Durbar declared in plain Terms they would not make a Peace with the English, unless Salsette was restored, and the Person of Ragoba given up; and that on these Conditions, and these only, they would agree to the other Terms proposed to them by General Goddard.

We have called upon the Commander of the Atlas respecting the Two Deserters, but have not yet received his Answer.

Bombay Castle, 29th May 1780.

We are, Sir, and Sirs, Your most obedient Servants, William Hornby, &c. Committee.

Bombay, Selett Consultations, 29th April 1780.

Copy of General Goddard's Plan for the Military Establishment of Bombay.

THE Opportunity which the Select Committee have afforded me in their Letter of the 24th of February, to lay before them my Sentiments upon the present State of their Military Establishments, and the most eligible Plan for increasing them, has given me the greatest Pleasure, and I can only lament that I have not the Means immediately of affording you my Opinion, so fully as I could wish, on so important a Subject; I shall however generally observe, it is my Recommendation that your Military Establishment should undergo a Reformation in all its Branches; and to this End, I have put together some Remarks on the Means of a general Arrangement, which shall be compatible with the present State of your Settlements, and which I trust will prove sufficient for the requisite Exigencies of the Service. I have for your more ready Information on these Points, separated the different Departments into distinct Heads; and believe me I shall be happy if they produce the Benefit that is proposed.

Artillery Department.

The Utility of this Corps, and its very respectable Advantages, are too obvious, to make any Comments thereon at all necessary. I would recommend the Augmentation of it to the serious Attention of the Committee. The Stability of your Possessins is intimately connected with the Degree of Persection to which this Corps can be supported; the greatest Caution therefore will be necessary in the Formation and compleating of it; and due Regard should be had to the Characters of the Men, their Size, and Nation. It has long been a Regulation in the Corps at Bengal, that no Foreigners are admitted into it.

Proposed that the Corps of Artillery for the Service of the Presidency of Bombay be formed into a Battalion, to be composed of Six Companies; each Company to consist of the following Strength.

That there be a Lieutenant Colonel Commandant to the Battalion, and Two Majors, as mentioned in the Strength; and that the Staff of the Battalion confift of a Brigade Major, One Adjutant, and One Quarter Master, with fixed monthly Allowances, both for the Field and Garrison: The Non-commissioned Staff to be regulated according to the Usage of the Service. That on a Company or more being detached from the Battalion, an Officer receive the temporary Appointment of Adjutant and Quarter Master for the Duration of the Service, with the usual Allowances.

Lascars for the Service of the Ordnance, and Ordnance Stores.

Unacquainted with your present Establishment of Lascars, or the Mode by which you provide them, I can only recommend in general Terms, that this Corps should be formed on a fixed Establishment; that they should be incorporated into Companies, cloathed, and paid, under the fame Regulations as proposed for the Sepoy Corps, and placed under the Direction of the Commandant of Artillery, who will on every Occasion of the Service detach them with the Artillery, in such Proportions as the Nature of the Service to be executed shall require.

European Infantry.

I recommend that this Corps be formed into a Regiment, to confift of Two Battalions, each Battalion to be formed of One Company of Grenadiers and Eight Battalion Companies; but as 1 am aware of the Inability of the present State of the Settlement to effect this Plan, One of the Battalions might be compleated upon the proposed Establishment, until the Honourable the Court of Directors shall enable the more full Execution of it.

Sepoys or Native Infantry.

As Pride in the Natives feems more the Adherent of Family or of Religion, than the Effect of Conflitutional Virtue, from which Paffion alone we can hope to remove the natural Prejudices under which they are bred, fo as to impress them with that Deference and grateful Respect and Attachment to our Service, which has hitherto supported the Stability of the Company's Possessions to this Period; I cannot but view the confined Limits of the Possessions attached to Bombay, as a great Missortune in the Advancement of the Sepoy Corps to the Persection they might otherwise have acquired. I will hope, that the Extension of your Possessions in the Course of the present Service, will open a Field for the Ambition and Abilities of your Military, which will do them Credit in their Profession.

The Maintenance of these Possessions will naturally require an Augmentation of your Native Battalions: But as it is my Wish to propose the Means of increasing your Military Force with as little Increase of Expence as possible, I shall subjoin to the proposed Establishment some Remarks, that I trust will tend to the Reduction of your present current Charges.

I would recommend that your Establishment of Native Troops be formed solely on One Plan, without Partiality or Distinction. Two good Ends I propose by this; the First and most material is, that by this Mode your Military Force will be united and connected, and will acquire an habitual Considence in each other; the Second is the Advantages of Command being thus impartially distributed to your Military Commanders by Seniority, or Tour of Command, Emulation will be excited, and your Troops, by frequent Changes with each other to the disserent Parts of your Possessions, will extend your Instuence, and that they will comply with Willingness and Considence, on any Exigency that may require their acting at either Extremity, without Danger of Desertion or Disgust.

I would propose, that en the arranged Plan being put in Practice, your Corps of Topasses, local Sepoys, and temporary Military, of every Denomination, now requisite in your Subordinates to affist in the Branches of Collection and Trassic, be severally discharged, as an Expence that is not only more burthensome than regular Sepoys, but whose Want of Subordination and Discipline might rather tend to tarnish the Credit of your Arms on Occasion of Service, than to afford them Support; and I trust you will be of Opinion with me, that the proposed Establishment of Native Battalions provides for the Security of your Possessions, and will admit of a very eligible Army being readily drawn together at a very short Notice. The Marine Battalion may have its Uses and Advantages; and as I do not deem myself a competent Judge of them, I shall only observe, that the Corps ought to be distinct from the regular Troops: The Officers to command and serve in it, may be selected from the Army Lift; considering this Duty a Retirement for such whose Wounds or other Instituties have rendered them incapable of a more active Line of Finploy.

I have formed the Establishment of Native Troops upon the following Plan, for the Defence of the Line of your Possessins, viz.

A P P E N D I X, N° 271.

Establishment of Battalions of Native Infantry.

N° of Battalions Stations.

- 4 To garrison the Island of Bombay, and to furnish the requisite Detachments to the Southward.
- 3 For the Island of Salsette and its Dependencies.
- 3 For the Defence of Surat, and its dependant Purgunnahs of Parnulla, Oorpaar, and the Eastward Frontiers of the acquired Lands upon the Taptee, or the Attawisice.
- 3 For the Garrison of Broach, its Dependencies of Jambosies, Ahmood, Oclaifeer, and the Gauts of Suckleturat, and Bowahpeirah.
- I Garrison of Dubay.
- 1 Extra Services in the Guzeratt.
- 15 Battalions.

I propose that these Battalions be formed upon the Establishment here subjoined. They appear to be too unwieldy upon their present Strength, and it becomes more dissipult to keep up the same Degree of Subordination, Discipline, and Appearance, than might be effected with a more compact Body, by the Charge being more divided; I cannot offer a more decisive Argument for the Utility of this Reduction, than that some very able Military Characters have on mature Consideration deemed it expedient, and as much recommended it: I therefore propose that the Battalions be formed of the following Strength, to be composed of Two Grenadier Companies, and Eight Battalion Companies.

	Europea mission cers.	n Cost. ~			Nativ 	eWar-		No an	on-v	varrant Hvate.			Sta	at 1	Hed	îtive	· .

Proposed Strength of a Grenadier Company —			-	2	1	2	ı	6	6	84	96	_	-		-	-

A Battalion of 2 Grenadier and 8 Battalion Companies —	1	6	11	20	I 2	20	12	6c	რი	680	800	1	-	3	3	10	9

I recommend that there be attached to each Battalion of Sepoys, Two Six Pounder Field Pieces, Brass Ordnance, and that for their Care Two European Gunners and Twenty Native Lascars be also attached to the Battalions respectively; it being remembered, that the Sepoys are to work the Guns.

I think it expedient that the Native Infantry be brigaded, and recommend it as a Measure that will give Consequence to the Establishment, and promote a great Spirit of Emulation in the Corps.

I propose that the Establishment of Fisteen Battalions be formed into Three Brigades, of Five Battalions each; that a Field Officer of the Rank of Major be appointed to the Command of each Brigade, and that there be a Licutenant Colonel Commandant of the Establishment of Native Infantry; that a Brigade Major be appointed to the Corps, and that each Brigade have an Adjutant and a Quarter Master. When a Battalion or more shall be detached, the temporary Appointment of Adjutant and Quarter Master shall be given to One of the Officers, with the usual Allowances. You will perceive perceive I have reduced the Establishment of European Officers to a Battalion, and that it is provided they shall be Lieutenants, the Senior of their Rank in the Army, unless when there shall exist Exceptions to wave this Right. It is a known Fact, that the Benefit to be expected from the European Officers, can only result from their knowing and being known to their Men.

The constant Fluctuation and Changes, attendant on the Promotion of Ensigns to Lieutenants, must frustrate this Intent, and the Service ultimately suffers. It is therefore I advise, that Lieutenants be the Subalterns Rank, to be attached to the Sepoy Corps, and that Removals from Battalions be never admitted but on very sufficient Reasons.

Another Point I recommend to the Attention of the Committee. It is, that Officers holding established Staff Employments, be struck off the effective Strength of their Corps, and their Vacancies filled up. It is a public Injury to the Service, that any Post should become a Sinecure, and it is a partial Injury to the Army, by the severe Check it must consequently give the Emulation.

I do not mean to infer by this Reduction of European Officers, that Six are fully equal to the Service of a Battalion. Whenever the State of your Army will permit, I am perfectly of Opinion it would be eligible to augment them again to Ten, or One to a Company; but my Arguments for their being all of the Rank of Lieutenants, will be worthy your Attention.

Having in the aforegoing drawn the Outlines of the Mode for augmenting your Military Establishment, I shall proceed to lay before you some Remarks on the Means of reducing the attendant Charges on your Army Disburses, wherein your heaviest Expences have heretofore been incurred; and I promise myself in the Event you will find that the Mode I have to recommend for the Charges of this augmented Force, will bear no comparative Proportion to the present Expence of your Military Establishments: I have included the Commandant and Adjutant as Two extra Subedars, upon the Strength of the Battalion; it is highly necessary that the Rank of Subedar should be annexed to the Post of Adjutant, in order to give the Office Weight in the Corps; and the Person holding that Post, is generally considered the First for Proposition to the Rank of Commandant.

Commissary's Department.

I have had so much Occasion to interfere in this Branch of your Military Disburse, but I must make my Observation on the Office as full as possible, for the Information of the Select Committee, from the Mode I found to be the Practice; I could not possibly form to my own Opinion, a Limit to the attendant Charges of this Office, and at length I was necessitated almost to annihilate the Duty of the Post, rather than involve the Company in Expences which could neither be confuted nor restricted upon the Principles under which they would have been incurred. It appeared to me, a Post without any Form, without any Regularity; a Post, which the greater Profusion and Waste of Stores, the greater the Emolument of the Commissary, and neither Authority or Voucher was to be collected for these Issues. To effect the desired Check to these Charges, I must here remark on the Two most principal Points under which they are incurred.

1st. The Mode of your victualling your Troops, &c.

2d. The furnishing of Stores to your Army, victualling Troops, &c. and Cattle.

Your present Regulations of victualling the Native Troops, Artificers, Labourers, &c. impressed in the Honourable Company's Pay, I most earnestly recommend to the Committee to abolish; and that in Lieu thereof, a monthly Allowance, proportionate to the Value of Provisions, be made to all Native Troops, Lascars, Labourers and Artificers (to be stilled additional Pay or Batta) which shall be drawn from the Paymaster monthly, in a separate Roll, and issued to the People with their Subsistence. A Difference must be allowed between the Batta of Field and Garrison, as an Inducement to your Troops and Labourers to bear the additional Fatigue and Expence of the Field with Alacrity and Fasse.

It will be difficult to ascertain how far this Alteration in the victualling Department will cause a Decrease of Expence; a reasonable Judgment may nevertheless be formed, by recurring to the first Expence of the Purchase of a Month's Provisions, the Charge of Cattle necessary for its Transportation with an Army, the Pay of Servants in Charge of it, it's Loss of Quality and Quantity by Carriage, and the possible Loss by an Enemy. These several Charges accumulated and united would form the Comparison, but it is needless to go further than one Resection, i. e. The monthly Sum to be allowed the People will be less than the original Purchase of the Provisions for a Month.

With respect to the victualling your European Soldiery, I would advise, that in case of small Detachments they should be allowed their victualling Money, and provide themselves, as most acceptable to the Soldiery, and least troublesome: But when the major Part of a Corps is together, either in the Field or Garrison, it would be preferable to victual them; not however by the present Mode practised at your Presidency, but by Contract, as is the Custom of the Bengal Arnsy. The Contract to engage to supply each Man a certain daily Ration of Spirit, of wholesome Butcher's Meat, and Rice, or Bread or Biscuit, at a certain monthly Charge; the Contract to be formed under reciprocal Penalties, between the Contractor and the Company; to be renewable Annually or at Two Years, as may be most convenient; by this Mode the Returns of the Corps ascertain the Propriety of the Contractor's Charges; and all Expences of Servants, Risks, Transportation of Provisions, &c. in the Execution of this Office, is at the sole Charge of the Person who contracts; the Company experience but One Charge, and which cannot be abused. The Contract for Drast and Carriage Cattle, Camels, Carts, &c. necessary to the Service, is generally given to the victualling Contractor, and they are provided at fixed monthly Rates; these are mustered monthly, and the Bills Rep. VI.

audited by the Commissary of Musters. The Number of Cattle are supplied on Indent, by the Authority of the respective Commanders of Detachments; and all Cattle deemed by him insufficient, are rejected occasionally, and must be replaced.

Supplies of Stores.

This Department ought to be regulated under the most positive Strictures. I do not in this comprehend all Stores whatever requisite in an Army; I only allude to Articles of Stores which are not provided in a Grand Magazine, which are procurable almost in every Country Market, and which are very suddenly and casually wanted in the Course of a Service. The Regulations I recommend for this Office are, that the Committee form a Plan to affix Prices for the various Articles of Stores which can be wanted in the different Departments of the Army, specifying the Rates they shall be charged for in Bombay, Salsette, Surat, Broach, and in the Field; the Commissary to be allowed 15 per Cent upon these allowed Prices; and they ought to be formed so as to exceed somewhat the Average Prices of those Articles at the afore-mentioned Settlements.

The Indents made to the Commissary, properly authorized by the Signature of the Senior Military Officer, become the Vouchers for his Charges.

The Commissary may provide his Stores when and where he pleases, the Service has nothing to do with them till they are issued upon Indent. This Plan abolishes the present Practice of their being purchased and carried at the Charge and Risk of the Company. And the Arguments I have before afferted on the Article of Provisions, will hold equal force in this Department, by the enhanced Valuation all Articles will bear in the Course of a few Months, from the Charges, Transporting, and Decay incident thereto.

The Post of Commissary of Musters may be annexed to that of Commissary of Supplies; but it is inconfistent he should have any Charge of public Stores.

The Commissary of Ordnance is the proper Person which the Charge of public Stores, under the Inspection of the senior Officer of Artillery.

Hospitals.

Were the Conveniencies of the Sick to bear the least Proportion to the Expences the Company have been at on this Side of India, under the Head of Hospital Charges, I might have taken more Leisure in the Alterations I directed for the Regulations of this Department, in the Troops furnished from your Presidency to reinforce this Army. It was my Endeavour to provide for every reasonable and necessary Indulgence to the Sick Soldiery, both European and Native, and by these Regulations

I recommend your Field Allowances to be fixed.

Possibly these Allowances may admit of some Deduction in your Garrisons; of this you, Gentlemen, must be the most competent Judges, and can frame your Alterations by the current Prices the requisite Conveniencies may bear at those Garrisons severally; I can only add, that the Allowances are equal to every possible Want of the Sick, and leave a handsome Emolument to the Chief of the Faculty for their Assiduity in the Care of them. The Returns of your Sick, and the Flospital Reports, become the Vouchers and Check to the Surgeon's Charges: These Charges become less intricate, and consequently are not only moderated but ascertained: The Carriage of the Sick is the next Point in Consideration: The Number of Doolies to be allowed will depend on the Season of the Year, and the Nature of the Service; the Controul of this must rest with the Military Officer. Six Bearers are allowed to each Doolie; their Monthly Pay I have fixed at 8 Rupees each Bearer; and it is provided that they shall be mustered Monthly with all other Servants in the Pay of the Honourable Company. This Charge becomes ascertained, and less liable to Abuse, than the Mode heretofore followed. The Article of Pay to Bearers, might, I think, under the Direction of your Board, admit of a Reduction in the Course of Time; but the advanced Wages which Servants of every Denomination have been accustomed to, upon your Troops taking the Field on this Coast, made even this Pay to appear moderate, compared with the Terms private Gentlemen were obliged to comply with.

It is only necessary to remark further on this Head, that the fick Europeans are victualled by the Surgeons, but no Interference is admitted in the victualling of the Native Sick; the Surgeon confequently receives the Diet Money of the Sick Europeans from the Contractor, and reimburses himself the Expence of their Maintenance; the Surgeon draws from the Company the Sum of Fifteen Rupees per Month for every Sick European, which includes all Charges of Servants, Hospital Cloathing, and Buzar, or Country Medicines, excepting when Quilts are requisite, which are supplied by the Company.

The Charge to the Company for Native Sick is at the Rate of Four Rupees per Month each, no other Contingency allowed. The Sum of Ten Rupees per Month is allowed for every Native, Sepoy, or Follower, that may be wounded; all Sepoys in the Hofpital with common Diforders have a Deduction made from their Pay of One Anna One Pice per Day, which is accounted for by the Captains of Corps to the Senior Surgeon, to defray the Expence of Servants, &c. and prevent Men lingering. Europe Instruments and Medicines are supplied and carried by the Company.

I have now I think gone through the general Lines of the Reform I wish to recommend to you; I flatter myself that when you are enabled to draw the Comparison of your Military Disburse, upon the present Regulations and those now proposed, you will find a considerable Deduction upon the Augmentation of your Forces, and that you will be enabled to form an accurate Idea of the Subsidy that will be Annually requisite for the Maintenance of your Forces in the Field or Garrison.

Thomas Goddard, Brigr General. Prefident's

PPENDIX, Nº 271.

Prefident's Minute refrecting the Augmentation of the Army.

General Goddard having furnished us with his Opinion of the Augmentation to be made of our Military Force, I think no Time should be lost in raising and forming the new Battalions that are wanted to compleat the proposed Establishment of Sepoys.

The Number of our Europeans, and the present Disposition of them, will not for the present admit of carrying into Execution the Alteration the General propotes with regard to them, in any Manner that will prove of Advantage to the Service, adequate to the great Increase of Expence. As we have Reason likewise to expect to hear shortly from the Honourable the Court of Directors, in Reply to our Representations of last Year, on the Subject of the State of our Army, and may conclude that they have taken Measures for assisting us with Field Officers of Experience and Ability, I think we should not be precipitate in making Promotions to that Rank, nor in determining on general Arrangements which may render such Promotions necessary, if they can with Propriety be deferred.

I shall accordingly propose for the present, to carry into Execution no more of General Goddard's proposed Plan than relates to the raising of the new Battalions, and modelling those now in the Service. Exclusive of the Topaz and Marine Battalions, we shall have Occasion for Seven new raised Battalions to compleat our Establishment, according to the General's Recommendation, to 15 Battalions of Sepoys, which will be formed of the Strength and Model propofed by General Goddard as near as may be, if the other Members of the Committee concur with me in the Necessity of the Augmentation and Approbation of the General's Propofal regarding the Form of our Battalions.

With the abovementioned Strength once compleated, I make no Doubt we shall be able to maintain all our new Acquifitions in Guzzarat, as well as Bassein when reduced, which I still slatter myself may be effected either before the Close of the present Season, or at the very first Opening of the next. This Object accomplished, our Views in my Opinion should be merely defensive, and our Military Expences reduced as much within the Compals of an ordinary Peace Establishment as possible, by which Means alone we can hope to read a wir Acquisitions of any Value to our Employers.

Upon this Subject it will be necessary to communicate our Sentiments both to the Governor General and Council, and to the Select Committee at Madras, informing them of the Augmentation we have refolved to make of our Troops, and our Hope that they will, when compleat, be sufficient for the Defence of fuch Territory as will be answerable to the Company's Expences on this Side of India. It must be pointed out to them how absolutely necessary it is to reduce the present Military Charges within more Bounds than they can be brought to while the Troops of their Presidency are acting with ours: That nothing but the most pressing Exigence therefore can make us wish to detain them, and they may rest assured of our returning them as soon as the State of our Affairs under our Management will permit, if their Stay or Return depends on us: That though there has yet been neither Concert nor Communication between the Three Governments on this important Subject, and the Newness of our Situation leaves us much at a Lofs with regard to the Plan of Conduct the Gentlemen of Bengal and Madras may think of, for relieving our Honourable Masters from their present Burthens on this Side of India; yet we have thought it our Duty to put our Military Establishment, with the Advice of General Goddard, on fuch a Footing, as will render the necessary Measures for the Reduction of the Military Charges, practicable as far as depends on us.

True Copies,

Edw Ravenscroft Secr.

Agreed, according to the President's Recommendation, to defer the Alterations proposed by General Goddard, respecting our European Corps and the Promotion of Field Officers, as we have great Reason very shortly to expect Orders from the Honourable Company in answer to our Advices of last Season, and that therefore it is unnecessary at present to lay General Goddard's Plan before the Board, as we at first intended, according to our Minute of the 4th Instant. A Copy thereof must however be forwarded to the Honourable Company by the Hawke, and it must be brought on our Diary under this Date.

But the Augmentation of the Sepoy Corps being immediately and indispensably necessary, it is refoliced, That Seven Battalions be forthwith raised upon the Model recommended by General Goddard; and in order to expedite the Levies, that the Officers be now appointed to command them; and ceffary. accordingly Captains West, Samber, Lendrum, Bowles, Hayes, Wadington, and Maculloch, be To be in appointed to command the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th Battalions, respectively; which 1015 Battalions, respectively. are to be formed by dividing the old Battalions fairly and equally, incorporating the Locals at Surat Mannered in the me and Broach and compleated with new Levies which already are in great Forwardness in consequence Lilions, of former Orders. Two of the new Battalions must be formed at Surat, and Two at Broach-

Our Sentiments on the State of our Military Establishment and Expences must also be communicated to the Select Committee at Madras, and to the Governor General and Council, as proposed to us by the President.

A P P E N D I X, N° 272.

Extract of a Letter from the President and Select Committee of Bombay to the Secret Committee of the Court of Directors, dated 30th April 1780.

WE had the Honour to write to you fully in Detail upon the political Affairs of this Prefidency, under the 31st of December and 16th of March; and the Ship Hawke being now dispatchest for England, we transmit Copies of our Addresses of these Dates, with our Diary in this Department, from the 1st of May 1779 to the 30th of April 1780; which will fully illustrate every Part of our Advices since the Dispatch of the Royal Admiral.

We also send by this Ship a complete Secret Diary for the Year 1778.

The Advices from General Goddard, conveyed in our Address of the 16th of March, tended to give us Hopes of a favourable Conclusion to the Negociation opened with Madjee Scindia, which however were soon destroyed by his subsequent Letters. The Answers from Scindia and Holear to the explicit Declaration made to them by General Goddard, through Scindia's Vackeel, consisted only of general Professions of friendly Sentiments, and were closed with a Request to fend a considential Person to their Camp, fully informed of the Views of the English, with whom they might come to a sinal Settlement. This was declined by the General for the Reasons explained in his Letter referred to on the Margin, but in such a Manner as to avoid impressing a Belief that his Dissent arose from any Motives of Distrust or Want of Reliance on Scindia's Sincerity; and he gave the Vackeel Leave to return to his Master, empowered and of the West to continue on Terms of Amity with him, if by his Conduct he would give them an Opportunity of proving their friendly Disposition and Desire to promote his Interest in Conjunction with their own. The Vackeel promised to return in Three Days from Scindia's Camp, which was at the Distance of Ten Cos; and the General judged it necessary to limit him to that Period, as Scindia would have sufficient Leisure to deliberate sully upon the Measures he might have to propose, and at the same Time an Excuse for further Delays be avoided.

The expected Proposals on the Part of Madjee Scindia were at length made on the 16th of March, after the Negociation had been open Seven Days, and were conceived in the following Terms: That formerly, when Ragoba was at Tellaugam, after the Return of the English Army to Bombay, " an Agreement had been entered into between him and Scindia, and written Engagements mutually " exchanged for its Performance; wherein the former confented to relinquish all Claims to any Share "in the Administration at Poona, and to retire towards Jancy, where he should receive an Allowance from the Peshwa's Revenue of Twelve Lacks of Rupees per Annum: That the Sicca should " continue to be struck in the Name of the young Peshwa Maderow Narrain; and that Bajerow, the "Son of Ragoba, should be appointed his Dewan; but that as he was too young to transact the "Business of the Office himself, being only Four Years of Age, the Care and Management of it should be left entirely to Scindia. This Plan Scindia proposed should now be followed: That " Ragoba should immediately go himself to Jancy, and young Bajerow accompany him to Poona in " order to fix the Administration in the Manner above-mentioned." This was the Amount of what Scindia had authorized the Vackeel to propose, without any Reservation or other Clause whatever-And as it appeared plainly, his only View was to get Ragoba and his Son into his own Power, by which he meant to aggrandize himself in the State, without Regard to the Interests of the English, and perhaps through their Means to make his own Terms with the Minister, the General thought proper to difmifs the Vackeel with this express and positive Declaration, That the English could not, confishent with their own Honour, nor ever would, agree to put any Restraint upon Regob, or compel him, against his own Consent, to leave their Dominions, where he had received an Asylum: That however much they might be disposed to unite in the proposed Settlement, they must be perfectly fatisfied respecting the Sasety of young Bajerow, and every Thing must be quietly settled at Poona, before his Presence could be even necessary there: And that, admitting the English did agree to affift in putting the Power of the State into the Hands of Scindia, it was necessary he also should on his Part, and in the Name of the Peshwa, confint to the Performance of certain Conditions savourable to their Interests; as well in Consideration of the important Advantages he was to receive through their Means, as to compensate for the heavy Expence of the War, which formerly, and in particular at this Time, they had been involuntarily compelled to engage in with the Maratta State. With this Answer the Vackeel was dismissed; and as the General, in explaining his Sentiments, and givinghim to understand that he could not consent to any Terms that were of a dishonourable Nature, at the fame Time used every Endeavour to convince him of his fincere Inclinations towards an Accommodation. The Conduct he adopted on receiving his Answer, amounted to a Proof that he had no real Defign to unite with the English; but the General then began to entertain a Belief of his hostile Intentions, from the Circumstance of his having invited Govind Row, the difaff cted Brother of Futty Sing, to his Camp, and promifed to put him in Possession of the Guicawar Share of Guzerat.

ENDIX.

After the Difmission of the Vackeel, the General received no Sort of Message or Overture from Scindia, and acquainted us that notwithflanding the Reports and general Belief of an Enmity subsisting between him and the Minister, the Agents of the latter relided in his Camp, and he was credibly informed Letters were conflantly passing and repassing between them; from all which Circumstances, he was confirmed in the Conjecture, which Scindia's late Conduct had suggested, that the Appearance of Animofity against Nanah Furneese was merely a Pretext, to deceive the English, and to get the Perions of Ragoba and his Son into his Hands, for Purpoies of his own Advantage.

He therefore put the Army in Motion, and advanced to a Place called Pittoul, about Eight Miles to the Eastward of Brodera. On his Arrival there, he found that Scindia had for Security fent his Camp Equipage, Buzar, Baggage, &c. to the Neighbourhood of Paunghur, a flrong Fort belonging to him, about Thirty Miles to the Eastward of Brodera; and himself with the greatest Part of his Army, unincumbered with any Sort of Baggage, had taken Post at about the Distance of Twelve Miles; the Remainder of his Troops he had dispersed in different Bodies on the Road leading to our Camp, so . as to be effectually guarded against every Possibility of a Surprize, which he seemed much afraid of, and which the General studied all in his Power to obtain an Opportunity of attempting with some Prospect of Success. In his Letter of the 24th March, he expressed much Anxiety to accomplish this Point, because from the Nature of Scindia's Army, and the Mode of War he practifed, our Army could neither approach near enough to attack him fuddenly to Advantage, nor would he run the Hazard of a general Engagement in the Field. As our Army advanced, he retired; and to pursue him, the General was of Opinion would not be the Means of bringing on a decisive Action, nor be attended with any real or folid Advantage, proportioned to the Inconvenience of exposing the Company's and Futty Sing's Territories to the Inroads and Devastations of a ravaging Enemy.

On the 27th the General found it necessary to change his Ground, and advanced to a Village called Camloud, above Five Miles diffant from his former Encampment, and found the whole Army of the Enemy collected in the Neighbourhood of that Village; but after a flight Cannonade, they retired with the Lots of fome Men and Horfes.

The Enemy still continued to pursue the Planes keeping their Guns and Baggage at a considerable Distance out of Reach, where it could be attended with no Advantage to follow them, as they would continue to move them to a greater Distance as our Army advanced.

The General at last finding the Enemy would neither venture to come to a fair and decisive Action, nor put it in his Power to attack them with all the Advantage he could have wished, came to the Refolition of diflodging their Army from the Post they occupied with their Horses and Arms only, about Six Miles from his Camp, and marched himfelf for that Purpose, at Two o'Clock in the Morning of the 3d Inflant, with a Part of the Army, leaving the Remainder on the former Ground, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley. The Force he took with him confifted of 200 Europeans, Ten Grenadier Companies of Sepoys, Two Battalions of Bengal, and One of Bombay Sepoys, with Two Twelves and Ten Six Pounder Pieces of Artillery, and the Regiment of Mogul Cavalry and Candahar Horfe. The whole were disposed in Two Lines, the Rear commanded by Major Hopkins, and Lieutenant Colonel Baillie and Major Forbes were stationed to the Front Line; and though the Precautions taken by the Enemy gave him no Hopes of surprizing them effectually, the Objects he principally had in View, were to induce them to venture an Action with only a Part of the Army opposed to their whole Force, to drive them from the Posl they then occupied, or if they fled without Resistance, to prove the manifest Superiority of our Arms, in the most striking and honourable Manner.

The Event he acquainted us far exceeded his Expectations. He approached much nearer to their Camp without being discovered, than he conceived possible, and a little before Day-break came upon their Grand Guard; confifting of Six or Seven thousand Men, which he passed through without discharging a Short, determined to reserve his Fire till he came up with the main Body, commanded by Madice Scindia himself. This being a Mile and a Half in Front, he did not reach till about Sun-rile, when their whole Army was in Motion, and the Action immediately commenced. The binemy feeing the Inferiority of our Force, advanced with much Appearance of Courage and Refolution; but they were so well received, that they were obliged to give way, and in the Space of about an Hour, quitted the Field entirely. In order to diflodge a large Body which annoyed our right Plank from behind the Cover of some Bushes, the General ordered the Mogul and Candahar Caralty to advance, which they performed with great Spirit and Success; and having drove the I remy into the Plain, gave an excellent Opportunity for the Artillery to fire upon them with Execution as they retired.

The Finemy's Loss on this Occasion is faid to have been considerable, while on our Side it fell entirely upon the Candahar Horfe, of whom Fifteen were killed and wounded in charging the Enemy. The General has expressed his Satisfaction at the steady, uniform, and proper Behaviour of Major Hopkins, who had Charge of the Rear Line, during the whole Engagement.

We have received no further Accounts from the General of his Operations fince this Action, but we understand the Armies were nearly in the same Position the 20th of this Month, and that he was joined by Colond Brown's Detachment on the 14th. We have for some Time been very impatient to hear what Effect his Success has had upon Scindia's Operations, and what Plan he proposed purluing, which as the Seaton grows late, it is of Consequence for us to be informed of, and is what REP. VI.

PPENDIX. N° 272.

the General promised, for we wish to see the Army employed to more Advantage than in watchira.

the Motions of Madjee Scindia.

After waiting some Time in this Expectation, we set forth to the General the Importance of posfeffing ourselves of Baffein, and expressed our Anxiety at the Probability there appeared of this Season elapsing, and Bassein still remaining unsubdued. We are exceedingly earnest not to leave the Reduction of this Place to the Hazard of future Accidents or Circumstances, especially in the Time of European War; and have offered our Opinion to General Goddard, that no other Object can claim a Preference to his Attention, or bring the Campaign to more honourable and advantageous Con-The President had before written on the same Subject, which we flatter ourselves will have its due Weight, and that General Goddard will be able to make fuch a Disposition of the Force under his Command, lately reinforced with a Battalion of Sepoys from Madras, as effectually to protect your Possessions in Guzerat, and undertake the Siege of Bassein at least on the very first Opening of next Season, in which the Troops in Bombay and Salsette can materially affist, and enable him to leave such a Force as the Enemy cannot withstand, for the Security of your Northern Possessions.

Should he however not be able to move to the Southward before the Monfoon, we have wrote to him most pressingly immediately to return the Bombay Detachment under Lieutenant Colonel Hartley into Garrison, as it would be highly improper to leave this Place with no more than our present Force for its Protection during the Rains, when no immediate Relief could be afforded from the Army to the Northward.

In the present Situation of Affairs, and whilst Futty Sing is actually in the Field as an Auxiliary in the War, we did not think it necessary to send a Resident to his Durbar on the Part of this Government, which we acquainted you in our Address of the 16th ultimo had been proposed to us by General Goddard; but when it may be a convenient Time for settling the Points still remaining to be adjusted, this Measure shall be adopted. In the mean Time Mr. Mallet, the Resident at Cambay, will be employed on any occasional Business, for which his Knowledge of the Language and Politics of the Country fully qualify him.

We transmit under N. 4, a Copy of the kir Treaty with Futty Sing.

The General sometime ago strongly urged to the Figure 3 make a Loan of Six Lacks to Futty Sing, on the Company's Account; which, whatever might be our Opinion of the Advantage or Expediency of such a Measure, the State of our Finances would not permit us to entertain a Thought of.

General Goddard has transmitted to us a Representation, made to him by Mr. Farmer, respecting a Sum of Money, to the Amount of Rupees Thirty-five Thousand (35,000) which he found it necessary to advance, to procure his Enlargement from Madjee Scindia; and the General gives his Opinion, Mr. Farmer appears very well entitled to the Re-payment of this Money: But as he had no Instructions from Bengal on the Subject, he had, according to Mr. Farmer's Request, referred and strongly recommended his Case to the Consideration of that Government. The General gave strong Testimony of Mr. Farmer's Attention to your Interest, by transmitting, with much Hazard to himself, such useful Intelligence as he could collect in the Enemy's Camp; for which Reason, and as a Delay in the Payment was an Inconvenience to him, the General recommended to us to afford him immediate Relief: But as he had himself referred the Affair to the Governor-General and Council, we thought it most proper to wait for their Determination, and send a Copy of his Letter, under N° 5, for your Notice.

The Extent of Country acquired by the Treaty with Futty Sing, and the Maratta Purgunnahs that have been reduced, necessarily requiring an Augmentation of our Military Establishment for their Defence, and a proper Disposition to be made for that Purpose, we consulted General Goddard on these Points; who accordingly sent us a Plan for the Augmentation and Regulation of the Army in all its Branches. He therein strongly recommends, that a Major and Two Companies be added to the Battalion of Artillery; gives his Opinion, that the Infantry Establishment should be completed to Two Battalions as foon as possible; that the Sepoy Establishment should forthwith be encreased to Fifteen Battalions, exclusive of Marines; and that all Irregulars and Locals should be discharged. These Fisteen Battalians he proposed should be divided into Three Brigades, with a Major to each, and a Lieutenant Colonel to command the Whole; and for your more full Information we transmit a Copy of the Plan at Length, under Nº 7.

When this Plan came under Consideration, the President laid before us a Minute on the Subject, which stands on our Proceedings under the 29th Instant; and we agreed with him in Opinion, that the State of our European Establishment will not, for the present, admit of our carrying into Execution the Alteration proposed by the General with respect to them, in any Manner that will prove of Advantage adequate to the great Encrease of Expences; and as we may with Reason expect to hear shortly from you, in Reply to our Representation last Year on the State of our Army, and may conclude you have taken Measures for supplying us with Field Officers of Experience and Ability, we further agreed with the President, not to be precipitate in making Promotions to that Rank, nor in determining on general Arrangements, which might render such Promotions necessary.

We accordingly refolved for the prefent, to carry into Execution no more of General Goddard's Plan than raising Seven new Battalions of Sepoys, and modelling those now in the Service according to the Strength proposed by him; but without forming them into Brigades. The new Battalions will be formed at Bombay, Surat, and Broach, as may be most convenient; and the large Bodies of Irrelars at the Two latter Places, will be incorporated into them. Major Fullerton has also been directed some Time ago to entertain Recruits at Ahmedabad, and Levies have been formed at Bombay in Proportion for this Increase; so that the new Battalions will soon be in great Forwardness.

APPENDIX,

With this Strength once completed, we hope to be able to maintain our new Acquisitions in Guzerat as well as Basscin when reduced; and we can assure you; is no more than what appears to us really necessary, as we have not yet been in a Condition to take Possession of the valuable Cessions made by Futty Sing adjacent to Surat, described by the Name of Autaveezy, for Want of a sufficient Force; having hitherto been able only to afford One Battalion of Sepoys for Surat, whereas Three will now be the least that can be dispensed with. We have in these Levies extended our Views no further than to form a proper Peace Establishment, sufficient for the Defence of your Possessions, which must in the End devolve upon us; and we shall have ample Means of defraying the Expence, when Matters are fettled. We were clearly of Opinion it was highly expedient to carry this Measure into Execution without Delay; as, if the War continued, General Goddard will not be able to spare us any Part of the Force under his Command to garrifon our new Acquisitions, the Benefit of which would be consequently lost to the Company; or if an Accommodation takes place, we ought to have a proper Force in Readiness for our own Defence, as our first Wish would be to send back the Bengal and Madras Troops, which are maintained here at an almost unsupportable Expence; but which cannot be done, unless we make proper Provision for that Event.

We cannot pretend to say to what Extent the Governor General and Council carry their Views in this War; but if we were convinced that the French would not make any further Efforts to retrieve their Affairs in India, we should be of Opinion, that after establishing ourselves in Bassein and the Company's Share of Guzerat, which will afford a Revenue equal to our Expences on this Side of India, our Views should be merely defensive. Possession, and a respectable Force to repel any Inva-sion, will be a better Security for the peaceable Enjoyment of our Acquisitions, than any Treaty, even if the Marattas could be brought to acknowledge our Title by any formal Engagement; and as in the Course of a few Months, we may hope our Views in Point of Territory may be accomplished, and a Force established equal to its Defence, we propose stating our Sentiments on the Subject to the Governor General and Council, and the great Importance of reducing the Military Charges arising from this War within more moderate Bounds than they can be brought to whilst the Troops of the other Presidencies are acting with ours; and that, as nothing but the most pressing Exigency could make us wish to detain them, they may be assured of our returning them as soon as the State of Affairs under our Management will permit, if their Stay or Return is left to our Option; having put our own Military Establishment on such a Footing as will render the necessary Measures for relieving the Company from this heavy Burthen practicable, so far as depends on us.

We cannot quit the Subject of the Army, without once more pressing you to exert every possible Means to complete our very defective Establishment of European Infantry to Two Battalions; and to provide for an Increase of Two Companies to the Battalion of Artillery, which General Goddard so strongly recommends, and will become necessary, as Guns must be attached to the Sepoy Battalions in the different Purgunnahs, and we are averse to instructing the Natives in the Practice of Artillery. About 800 Recruits will restore our Establishment to a respectable Footing, and effectually enable us to support our Plan of Self Defence, without subjecting you to the enormous Expence of Reinforcement from the other Presidencies.

In order to get Footing on the Continent, and thereby to open a larger Avenue for Supplies of Grain for this Mand, we lately sent Detachments to surprize the Forts of Persick and Bellapore; the former opposite Tannah, and the latter near the Extremity of Caranja; which was completely done, and we thereby obtained a present considerable Supply of Grain, and the Command of some Rivers, which will afford a considerable Source of Supply in suture. The Purgunnah of Bellapore is, from some Advantages of Situation, easy of Defence, and estimated to produce a Revenue of near a Lack of Rupees; and being to fituated as to give Security both to Salfette and Caranja, from any petty Incursions of the Marattas, we look upon it as a considerable Acquisition.

We know not in what Manner to account for the Conduct of Hyder Ally, in not having yet given any Answer to the Proposal made him by the President, of sending a Gentleman to confer with him. The Gentlemen at Madras expressly acquaint us, in a Letter dated the 4th of February, that they have no Subject of Difference with him, but deliver Sentiments respecting Provocation supposed to be given him by your Servants at Tellicherry; which are plainly imbibed from Colonel Braithwaite's Representations, who can certainly have acquired no more than a very superficial Knowledge of the State of Affairs there; we shall however require them to clear up this Matter very particularly: But the Gentlemen at Madras in the same Letter tell us, that Hyder Ally's Conduct depends very much on the Transactions with the Marattas; that a Peace with them would have kept him in Awe, and delivered them from all Apprehensions from that Quarter; but that it will be difficult to say what Line he will pursue now that Hostilities are commenced with them, on Account of the Treaty in Force between him and the Marattas, and the Influence of the Poona Ministers in the Court of the Nizam.

The last Letter from Tellicherry, entered on our Diary under the 27th Instant, gives us some Hopes of seeing an End to the Troubles there, by a Treaty between the Nabob Hyder Ally and the King of Cotiole; but any Thing we can say on this Head will be no more than mere Conjecture, until we can obtain some more direct Knowledge of the Nabob's Disposition towards us.

APPENDIX,

A P P E N D I X, N° 273.

Letter from the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay, 25th July 1780.

To the Honourable the Secret Committee of the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Gentlemen,

1. WE now dispatch the Mercury Packet to the Gulph of Persia, to afford a Convoy, and for any Dispatches you may have forwarded by the Way of Bussorah for this Presidency, or any of your other Settlements in India, and that may arrive there after the Departure of the Ranger and Eagle; it being very material that at this critical Time every Order and Intelligence from Europe should reach us with all possible Expedition.

2. We addressed you at length by the Hawke, under the 30th of April, in Continuation of our Advices, dated the 16th of March, transmitted under the Care of Mr. William Petrie. These Dispatches gave you a full Account of the Treaty concluded by General Goddard with Futty Sing; of the Attack and Reduction of Ahmadavad by the Company's Forces, and the Surrender of it to Futty Sing, according to the Treaty; of the March of Madjee Scindy and Tookajee Holkar into the Province of Guzerat; and of General Goddard's fruitless Negociation with Scindia; and of the military Operations that ensued, when the Overtures towards an Accommodation had proved abortive.

3. Though this Campaign does not produce any decifive Advantages, the manifest Superiority of our Arms was evinced in the most striking and honourable Manner; and your Possessions depending on Surat and Broach were effectually protected from the Incursions of the Enemy, General Goddard having confined his Operations mostly to the East and of Broadera, belonging to Futty Sing.

4. The Season for Action being nearly elapsed, nothing material happened between the grand Armies after the Date of our Address of the 30th of April; and shortly after General Goddard disposed his Forces in Cantonments, at the most convenient Stations for covering your Possessions during the Rains. The General has lately written us, that Scindy and Holkar have certainly retired to their Capitals; and hopes it will be a grand Object to detain them in their own Provinces, while we pursue our Schemes, opposed singly by the Forces of Nanna Furnesse. He had suggested to the Governor General and Council the Idea of causing a powerful Diversion to be made on both the Sides of Malwa, which, he was of Opinion, would effectually answer that Purpose.

5. After the Separation of the Armies, a Detachment was employed with much Success and Advantage under the Command of Lieutenant Welch. He surprized and totally routed a Body of the Poona Forces, which had made an Inroad from the Southward into the Districts adjoining to Surat, now devolved to the Company by the late Treaty with Futty Sing, taking their Camp, Baggage, and Artillery, with a considerable Loss of Men on their Side. He next reduced the Fort of Purenulla, and two other Forts, which are represented as Acquisitions of Importance, from the Security they will afford to our new Possessions South of the River Tappy, to which they will serve as a formidable Barrier, giving us clear Possession of the Country to the very Border of the Portugueze Districts of Damaun, which now alone separate the Southern Frontier of your Surat Province from the District of Bassein.

6. The Chief of Surat has acquainted us, that he has frequented the Company's Taphahs in the feveral Districts heretofore annexed to the City of Surat, and until lately confessed by the Poona Government and Futty Sing; and that he hopes to collect a considerable Revenue therefrom the ensuing Season.

7. The large Force the Enemy had in Guzerat, until the Retreat of Scindy and Holkar, and the Danger and bad Policy of leaving our new Acquisitions and Futty Sing exposed to their Depredations, made General Goddard judge it necessary to delay the Attack of Bassein, the Reduction of which we had once hoped would have closed the Campaign. It will however, if nothing unforeseen happens, be the first Object of his Operations, after the breaking up of the Monsoon; and we have, as more fully mentioned in our Address by the Hawke, offered our Opinion to the Governor General and Council, that the Reduction of this Place should be the Termination of our Views in Point of Territory, and the suture Operations of the War become defensive; that is, should have no further Object than to establish and confirm the Company in Possession of their new Acquisitions under this Presidency.

8. In our present Predicament we have not that direct Information to afford, which you might expect from us, of the Extent to which this War is meant to be carried, or the further Measures that may be intended in Prosecution thereof, for the Attainment of Peace; the Governor General and Council not having communicated with this Government on these Objects: But being simply fixed in our Opinion above expressed, which points out the most eligible Step that can be pursued in the present Situation of Affairs, next to obtaining a firm and permanent Peace, and very anxious to relieve the Company from the enormous Expence of the Bengal Army, we resolved on the Measure already minutely explained.

plained to you, and now only briefly repeated, of immediately forming a Force upon this Establishment, equal to the Desence of our own Possessions, which must at any rate in the End devolve upon us. This is the only Measure that can make it practicable to relieve you from this heavy Burthen of Military Charge, and enable us to dispense with the Aid of the Bengal and Madras Auxiliaries, the Expence of which we foresaw must be an insupportable Drain upon the Bengal Treasury. For this Purpose we are now raising Seven additional Battalions of Sepoys, and have stated our Sentiments south to the Governor-General and Council, that, if they concur with us, Measures may be taken for the Return of the Foreign Troops as early as may be judged prudent; though as our European Establishment is so very impersect or incomplete, we have recommended, that the Battalion of Madras Infantry and the Detachment of Artillery may be continued on this Coast, which, added to the Troops of this Establishment, will essectually enable us to support our Plan of Self Desence.

• 6. In our Address by the Hawke, we wrote pressingly for a Supply of Eight hundred Recruits, for our Infantry and Artillery, and Thirty Six Pounder Field Pieces for the Sepoy Battalions, which we earnestly request may be sent out as soon as possible; and also a Supply of Seamen for our Cruizers,

ro. We judged it prudent before the Monsoon to recall into Garrison the Detachment we had sent to reinforce General Goddard, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley; which, as well as the Footing we had gained on the Continent, were mentioned in our Address by the Hawke. Shortly after Date thereof, Captain Campbell with a small Detachment was sent to take Possession of the Town of Callian, in which he was soon after attacked by a large Body of the Enemy; who had, from Madjee Scindia, come down the Gauts, and forced One of our Posts desended by Two Companies of Sepoys, who were dispersed, and Three Officers killed, One taken Prisoner, and Three Pieces of Cannon taken. The Enemy elated with this, attacked Callian with great Vigour, which was defended with much Gallantry by Captain Campbell, and Reinforcements being speedily sent over, and the Arrival of the Detachment from the Martinward enabling us to detach a sufficient Force to meet the Enemy in the Field, Calone Hartley soon drove them with Disgrace and Loss out of the Country, and we have stationed a respectable Force in Callian; from the Possession of which, we hope to derive considerable Advantages in the Operations against Bassein, and we trust it will otherwise prove a beneficial Acquisition.

11. We have the most alarming Apprehensions of the Difficulties we shall experience the ensuing Season for Want of Money; having lately received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, acquainting us, that their own Distress will put it out of their Power to make additional Remittances equal to the Support of this Presidency, and the Pay of the large Army under General Goddard; and therefore desiring that every Accession of Income which may arise to the Company from the Success of that Army, may be set aside, and appropriated exclusively to that; and thus cutting off the principal Resource we had Dependance on for our immediate Exigencies. We have only the Hope, that when they receive our Proposal for the Reduction of these intolerable Military Charges, and see the strong Measure we have actually taken, to make it practicable, which of course will require an extraordinary Provision for the present, they will at least leave us in Possession of our own Resources; and, encouraged by the Prospect of some End to such heavy Drains, that they will make a vigorous Effort to give Success to our Plan, and exonerate us from the Charge of maintaining fuch ruinous Auxiliaries.

12. The Governor General and Council have proposed some Alterations in the Settlement of the Guzerat Country made with Futty Sing, which it is not necessary at present to determine upon, or to trouble you with the Detail.

14. The Governot General and Louncil having acquiefced in Mr. Farmer's Claim, noticed to you in our last Address, we have reinforted him the Amount of the Charge he stated, for effecting the Release of himself and Lieutenant Stewart, under this Presidency.

The President has received an Account, that the Fort of Vingorla, where the Company had a small Garrison, has been treacherously taken by the Boundcello; and that the Resident at Onore had been apprized by Hyder Ally of his Intent of ordering him away from that Settlement, and directed him to settle all his Accounts and Concerns.

APPENDIX,

A P P E N D I X, N° 274.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 12th June 1780.

R EAD a Letter as follows from Brigadier General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you the 28th Ultimo, informing you of the Transactions with Madree Scindia, and the Situation I found myself in respecting that Chief, who with an Army reported to be Forty thousand strong, had entered the Guzerat Province, and upon my Approach had moved off towards Pawen Ghur, a Fortress belonging to himself, situated betwixt the Provinces of Guzerat and Malva. I had advanced from Baroda in Hopes of bringing him to an Action, or in the Event of his declining it, and moving off on my Approach, which proved to be the Case, of manifesting to the World the acknowledged Superiority of our Arms, and impressing the Maratta Nation with the Belief and thorough Conviction of their Inability to contend with us.

On the 3d Instant I marched with a Part of the Army to surprize Scindia, and drive him from a Post he occupied about Six Miles in Front with his fighting Men only, for he had used the Precaution of sending off to a remote Distance his Artillery, Baggage, and Incumbrance of every Sort, as my former Letter advised you. The Particulars of this Enterprize I laid before the Commander in Chief the 4th Instant, and as they will have been communicated to you by him, it is unnecessary to trouble you here with a Recapitulation. It is sufficient to observe, that as I remained a condederable Time upon the Ground which the Energy had abandoned, giving them full Leisure to conderable Time upon the Ground which the Energy had abandoned, giving them full Leisure to conderable Time upon the Ground which the Energy had abandoned, giving them full Leisure to condensate the condensate deavour to retrieve their Difgrace of being defeated by to small a Part of my Force, and afterwards rejoined the Army without their daring to move towards me, or offer me the smallest Molestation, or my Return; the Triumph of our Arms has been as complete and decided, as could have been expected or wished for. On the 16th Colonel Brown, with the Madras Europeans, arrived in Camp; and on the 19th, convinced, from the extreme Precaution and Vigilance of the Enemy, as well as the Disposition they had made of their Force and Followers, that any Attempt to surprize them a Second Time would be ineffectual, I determined upon advancing with the whole Army to the Ground then occupied by them, which they abandoned at my Approach without any Opposition, except firing a Number of Rockets, which fortunately did no Damage. Owing to the Season of the Year, and the Ravages committed by the Marattas, the County for near Twenty Miles round was an entire Defart, and even the Branches of such Trees as might have afforded Nourishment to the Cattle, were mostly stripped of their Leaves; I was therefore under the Necessity of sending to a considerable Distance for Forage, and of detaching a strong Party for the Protection of the People, who were to bring it into Camp. On the Morning of the 22d Captain Campbell, with the 1st and 5th Battalion of Bengal Sepoys, proceeded on their Duty, and were attacked about Twelve Miles from my Camp by Scindia and Holcar in Person, with near 20,000 of their best Horse. The Enemy advanced with great Appearance of Resolution, and so near as to receive the Fire of Two Grenadier Companies, which threw them into a good deal of Confusion, and being at the same Time warmly plied with Grape from Two Six Pounders, they soon fled with a good deal of Loss, and did not venture to renew the Attack, but continued hovering in large Bodies, at a confiderable Distance,

A very near Relation of Tuckajee Holcar, who was intrusted with the principal Management of his Assairs, fell among the Slain. Captain Campbell appears to have behaved with great Coolness and Intrepidity on the Occasion, as well as the Troops under him; and having effected the Service on which he was sent, returned to Camp early next Morning without any Loss. This striking Proof or our Superiority, has effectually compleated their Disgrace; and they have not since that Period shewn themselves in any Numbers, but have retired close to Parvenghur: I have since moved back to within Ten Miles of Baroda, where I am at present encamped; and as the rainy Season is so near at Hand, I purpose taking such Measures, as, from a proper Attention to Circumstances, may appear best calculated for the Safety and Protection of our new Acquisitions, and the general Tranquillity of the Province, of which I shall not fail to give you immediate Information

You will perceive that my Operations since the Conquest of Guzerat have been chiefly defensive; I have endeavoured to render them otherwise, as far as an Attention to the proper Line of Policy, and the Reasons I have in a former Letter assigned for not pursuing Scindia into the Malva Provinces would permit, by drawing him if possible to an Action, but to no Purpose; at the same Time I doubt not you will approve of the Steps I have been necessitated to take, which though not attended with the Glare of additional Conquest, have effectually secured those valuable Acquisitions already made to the Company; and put them in a Condition of supporting the War with every Advantage, and surnished Resources in a great Measure adequate to the extraordinary Expences that may be requisite for its Prosecution.

I fhall

I shall soon write you very particularly upon the political State of Assairs, as well as the Military Arrangements and Dispositions of the Army I may find it necessary to make for the Public Service, and have the Honour to be, &c.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 24th August 1780.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Edward Wheler, Esquire.

Mr. Francis indisposed.

Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

Read the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you the 27th Ultimo, acquainting you with the Enemy's Forces having desisted from further Attempts to make any Impression upon the Guzerat Province, and that, from every Intelligence I could learn, it was Scindia's Intention to relinquish the Country altogether, and march either towards Ugein or the Decan. A few Days subsequent to the Date of that Letter, my Hircarrahs brought me certain Accounts of Scindia's having moved with his whole Army towards Ugein. These Reports have been since confirmed, and it is now generally and considentially believed, that he has laid aside the Design it was supposed he had solvined, or visiting the Decan, and purposes to pass the rainy Season at Ugein. Holkenday accompanied him, and will reside at Indore, a principal

City in the Neighbourhood of Ugein, and the chief Residence of his Family.

In consequence of the Departure of Scindia from the Neighbourhood of Guzerat, and the near Approach of the Rains, which did not admit of any Delay, I re-crossed the Nerbuddah, and directed my March to Surat; where I arrived, with the greatest Part of the Army, the 8th Instant. But as a Report prevailed, and indeed carried with it great Appearance of Probability, that Scindia meant to have a considerable Body of Horse in the Neighbourhood of Pawanhghur, I thought it requisite, in order to provide for the Security and Defence of the Districts of Broach and the other Purgunnahs dependant on that Collectorship, almost all of which are situated North of the Nerbuddah, to station a Force for their Protection on that Side of the River; and have therefore posted Two Battalions of Sepoys at Zinnore, one of the Purgunnahs ceded by Futty Sing in the late Treaty, only Seven or Eight Coss from Dubhoy, which will effectually secure all the Country between the Mahé and Nerbuddah Rivers from any sudden Attack or Inroads of the Enemy, who indeed can enter it from the Eastward, that is, from Pawanghur, during the Rains.

Since my Arrival at this Place, the Detachment under Lieutenant Welch, with whose Success against Gunnese Punt, one of the Maratta Leaders, I have already made you acquainted, has effected a very material Piece of Service, and completely eradicated every Trace of the Maratta Power in this Neighbourhood, and destroyed every the most distant Hope he could have of giving further Disturbance to our new Possessions, except by sending a large Army into the Guzerat, which will not, I apprehend, in the suture Operations of the War, be at all convenient, or even practicable for them to do.

The Enterprize I alfude to, is the taking of Parneiro, a Fort fituated upon a high Hill, about Thirty Cofs from Surat, upon the Sea Coast. It was defended for Two Days by a Garrison, consisting of about 400 Men, who finding Lieutenant Welch had with immense Dissibility and Perseverance, and by his steady and good Conduct, with the Loss only of Two Sepoys, brought up Two Pieces of battering Cannon to within a proper Distance of the Walls, which he had made a Breach in, thought proper to capitulate and furrender the Place into the Hands of the English.

Lieutenant Wolch has fince made himself Master of Two inferior Forts, called Arzen Ghur and Under Ghur. The former has a District of one Lack of Rupees lying around and dependent on it. They are both built upon Hills, and defensible, with a very small Force, against any Number of Marattas. They are within Three Coss of each other, and about Six from Pameiro, and they were constructed, as Report says, by the Marattas, to serve as a Check upon the Encroachments of the Portugueze, who have a Settlement, called Dumaan, on the Sea Coast, at the Distance of Four or Five Miles from them.

These Acquisitions have put the English in entire Possession of the Sea Coast from Combait to Dumaan, comprehending a Tract of near 150 Miles. Bassein only remains to complete the Conquest of the whole to the North of Bombay. I mentioned in my last Letter, Obstacles that had prevented my undertaking that Enterprize, on which I had fixed my Mind, and that must still delay its Execution for some Months, at the Expiration of which, as every previous necessary Preparation will be made, the Task of reducing Bassein will be easy and expeditious. The Fall of this Place may, I conceive, complete your Views of territorial Acquisitions on this Side of India, and make the Company M.s. ters of a Tract of Country, capable in their Hands of becoming an inexhaustible Source of Power, and Wealth, from the commercial Advantages and Capability of Improvement in Trade and Manufactures it possesses, and which, from its convenient Situation, may be maintained and defended at a small Expense of Men and Treasure.

By possessing Bassein, which appears essentially requisite to the Prosperity and Sasety of this Settlement, the Ghauts and Passes in its Neighbourhood leading into the Decan, must be at all Times commanded by us; and the Terror this would excite in the Government of Poona, from their Vicinity to that Capital, would create (more than any other Conquest or Advantage we could gain) a ferious Inclination in the Marattas to accommodate the present Difference, and upon Terms of Honour and Benefit to the Company. This, notwithstanding the past Success of our Arms, and the Disperiment all their Efforts to interrupt their Progress have hitherto met with, they will not at present, consent to at any rate; they would never agree to cede Bassein to us; without which I repeat my Opinion, the Company's Affairs on this Side of India cannot be considered as placed upon a firm and flourishing Bass. From this powerful Consideration, I do not think it political or expedient to make any Overtures to the Poona Government for Peace, which would not be productive of the wished-for Esset, till Bassein is secured, and our Army has Possession of the Ghauts, ready to fall upon the Capital of the Empire, we shall be in a Condition to insist upon such Terms as may be judged fully consistent with our Honour and Interest, and adequate to the heavy Expences we shall have incurred in prosecuting the War.

Affairs cannot arrive at this State till next October, long before which I hope to receive a particular Relation of your Sentiments, and the Instructions you may deem it proper to give, in consequence of a thorough Knowledge of Circumstances, and of the Situation of Affairs at the Conclusion of the Campaign. Convinced upon the most sure and solid Grounds, that a Pacification cannot be brought about during the Rains, I shall venture to give you my Ideas at large of the Mode by which it appears to me the War ought to be prosecuted next Season, and the which from a Survey of the political

State of the Maratta Nation, promise to contribute to its Success.

In the Negociation opened with Scindia in March last, Particulars of which have been laid before you, the chief Object of his Concern seemed to be, and I am persuaded was, the Disposal of Ragoba. That Point once settled, he affected to declare, the remaining Subjects of Contests between the English and Maratta Nations would be without Dissiculty adjusted. It must not be implied from this Assertion of Scindia's, that admitting the Obstacle of Ragoba removed, a Peace could have been concluded; because it is evident, from the Hopes he must at that Time have entertained, either of his Arms proving superior to ours in the Field, or of being able to draw over to his Interests our new Ally Futty Sing, which would have gone near effectually to destroy the Fruits of all our Labours in Guzerat, that he would never have been induced then to listen to Terms which even at this Period of bad Success and Disappointment in all his Projects, there is not any Reason to believe would be accepted. My principal Motive for mentioning the above Circumstances, is to point out the important Light in which Ragoba is and must ever be considered by the Marattas, and how material the Possession of his Person must prove to promote the Views and Interests of the Company, and bring about a happy Conclusion of the present War.

Here I do not, in any Shape, mean to recommend the absolute, or even conditional Re-establishment of Ragoba in the Government of Poona; what I contend for is the manifest and striking Advantages we must infallibly derive from his Presence with us; and this Position I found upon the following Reason: That the just and fair Claims Ragoba possesses to the principal Direction of the Administration, will ever make the present Party apprehensive of his Intention to affert these; and that the certain Consequence of his Success, in spite of the most secure or solving languagements in Force, might to enter into, would ultimately prove their Ruin and Destruction. It is the same of all the principal Chiefs of the State, who have been more or less instrumental in reducing him to his present abject Condition, during a Space of Six Years.

This Argument, while it evinces the Imprudence and bad Policy of attempting to force a Ruler upon the Maratta Leaders, whose Cause none of them are inclined, or if inclined, are however afraid to espouse, points out all at once the Utility, and even Necessity, of retaining in our own Hands a Man who must ever be a Terror to them, and whose Forbearance they would wish to purchase at any Expence from that Power whose Strength they must be sure, if exerted in his Favour, would prove too dangerous to their Interests and Sasety. I am therefore clearly of Opinion, that the same Line of Conduct hitherto adopted respecting Ragoba, should continue to be pursued; that is, no formal or express Engagements should be entered into with him; but we should leave ourselves at Liberty to pursue such Plan regarding his Disposal, as Circumstances might hereafter render eligible and convenient. His Pretensions to Sovereignty should be in no Degree supported, and we should continue to afford him a safe and certain Asylum in the Company's Dominions, whenever the War shall terminate: His Interests, at least as far as they relate to personal Sasety, &c. Provision for himself and Family; ought to be attended to, and included in the general Plan of Peace.

This Line of Conduct respecting Ragoba being adopted, the next Object is the Mode of profecuting the War; which, as it is a Measure at present of considerable Necessity, the more heartily and vigorously it is entered into the sooner we may expect it will be brought to a Period. I have already hinted the Manner in which I propose to commence the Military Operations, by taking Bastein, and possessing myself of the neighbourness Passes that lead into the Decan. Here it is probable the Fears and Anxieties of the Minister may bring the War to an immediate Concursor Should they not, the Point next to be confidered, is, whether you would chuse to pursue it upon an offensive Plan, and penetrate into the Decan, and feize upon the Capital, or confine your Operations the Defence of the Territories lying between the Ghauts and the Sea Shore, comprehending Guzerat, and all the Track along the Shore from Cambay to Bombay.

The Determination of this Point will however depend a good deal upon Circumstances: If Scindia continues at Ugein till the Close of the Rains, which I now conceive will be the Cale, a powerful Diversion might be made in that Quarter, to prevent his passing to the Southward of the Nerbudda, to succour Nanah Furnese, and I would venture to pronounce, as far as human Probability and Reason may presume, that without Scindia's Aid, the Minister would be immediately compelled to Terms, and enter into any Engagements that might be required of him. This is no chimerical Idea, for besides Scindia and Holkar, there remain only Two Chiess of Contequence in the State, Nanah and Hurry Punt Furkia, and I do not believe that any Foreign Power will draw upon himself the future Enmity of the English, by openly declaring his Party, and marching to their Affiftance.

In the Event of such powerful Diversion being made to the Northward, Scindia will find too much Employment at Home to have Leisure to raise any Disturbance in Guzerat; and indeed the Sepoy Force, which may very well be spared in that Province, acting with the Troops of Futty Sing, which it may not perhaps be convenient to carry with me to the Southward, will prove sufficient for its Security and Defence, against a very large Body of the Enemy, should any considerable Army

What I have above mentioned comprehends almost every Thing that occurs to me, both with respect to the present political State of Assairs, and the Advantages we may expect to derive from it in the Course of the suture Operations of the War. The Four leading Men now in the Empire, and indeed in whose Hands all Power is placed, are Nana, Hurry Punt, Scindia, and Holkar: These, notwithstanding the Causes of Dispute that may be supposed to exist, from the former conceiving that no useful or meritorious Service has been performed by the last; and Scindia again arrogating a Merit derived him by the others, and clausing Rewards to which he will not confent, will,

I am persuaded, be found cordially to unite in Opposition to the English.

As the Rains are now but little advanced, I trust I shall receive a full and particular Reply to this Letter long before their Conclusion, that is late in August or early in September; and I carnestly entreat you will transmit it me as expeditiously as possible, that I may be compleatly Master of your Object and Inclinations before the Opening of the Campaign, and act accordingly.

I have the Honour to acknowledge your Letter of the 20th April: My last Letter will fully have replied to what you are pleased to direct respecting Ragoba; and you will perceive I have, permit me to fay, contrary to my own Inclinations and Opinion, thought it necessary to comply with your positive Instructions for withdrawing Ragoba's Allowance, in its fullest Extent and without any

I am truly forry at the Directions you have been pleased to give respecting the Regiment of Cavalry. whose useful and even necessary Service I have experienced on many Occasions, during the late Campaign, both in protecting the Parties that were fent out to forage near the Camp, and in keeping off the Pendaries and other small Bodies of the Enemy's Horse, who approached its Environs, as well as covering and defending the Baggage on the Line of March: On all these Services, and whenever I found it necessary to employ them, they have behaved with Credit to themselves and Satisfaction to me.

The Success against Gunnese Punt was entirely their own. The Battalion that accompanied them could not possibly have reached his Camp before the Alarm must have been given, and the Enemy have escaped unhurt, to molest, and harass the Country by suture Deptedations. From all these Circumstances, and the Inconversioncies that might attend the dismissing of a Corps at this Distance from Home, that has served with Credit from the Commencement of the Expedition, by the Damp it might throw upon the Ardour of the rest of the Troops, added to the unfavourable Consequences it might be of regarding the Enemy, who from repeated Proofs I know entertain a high Opinion of their Skill and Discipline, I have deferred the Execution of your Orders respecting this Regiment, until I can receive your further Instructions, in which I slatter myself you will approve and authorize its Continuance in the Service.

I shall not fail to observe the Rule you have laid down for my Direction, with regard to detaching any Part of your Forces for the Defence of the Country ceded to Futty Sing, independant of the general Plan of the Campaign. My Reason for not fixing a Subsidy for the Expence of the Troops left in Ahmedabad, was, that I confidered this Measure as coming under that Predicament; and that in the Infancy of a War, before the Affections and Dispositions of Men had been properly put to the Test, I thought it a Point of political Convenience and Expediency, to guard as much as possible against every unfavourable Consequence that might arise from any Change of Sentiment or

I shall, as far as possible, comply with your Wishes respecting the Fort Saint George Detachment: The Reinforcements that have at this Time joined me from that Presidency, consist only of One Company of European Artillery, Seven of Infantry, and One Battalion of Sepoys.

Extratt of Bengal Secret Confultations, 24th July 1780.

READ a Letter from Bombay, as follows:

Gentlemen,

We inclose a Duplicate of our last Letter, dated the 29th ultimo, and of the Correspondence with General Goddard therein forwarded.

Our latest Letter from him is dated the 7th ultimo, when he was preparing to make a Dispo. fition of his Forces, for the Protection of the Districts adjoining to Surat and Broach during the rainy Season; but we understand he has since been under the Necessity of deferring the Execution of his Intentions, by the sudden Appearance of the Enemy on his Line of March.

You will observe from General Goddard's Advices, that the cautious Plan of Conduct adopted by the Enemy put it totally out of his Power to effect any thing decifive this Campaign; and rendered it necessary, in his Opinion, to defer the Attack of Bassein, the Reduction of which we are very anxious may become an early Object of his Operations.

The Extent of Country acquired by the Treaty with Futty Sing, and the Maratta Purgunnahs that have been reduced, necessarily requiring an Augmentation of our Military Establishment for their Defence, we consulted General Goddard on this Point, who accordingly sent us a Plan for the Augmentation and Regulation of the Army in all its Branches; a Copy of which He therein strongly recommended, that a Major and Two Companies should be added to the Battalion of Artillery, and gave his Opinion, that the European Infantry should be compleated to Two Battalions as soon as possible; and that the Sepoy Establishment should forthwith be increased to Fifteen Battalions, exclusive of Mariners, and all Irregulars and Locals discharged. These Fifteen Battalions, he proposed, should be divided into Three Brigades, with a Major to each; and a Lieutenant Colonel to command the Whole.

When the Plan came under Consideration, the President laid before us a Minute on the Subject (a Copy of which we think it necessary to transmit to you); and we agreed with him in Opinion, that the State of our European Establishments could not for the present admit of our carrying into Execution the Alterations proposed by the General in respect to them, in any Manner that would prove of Advantage adequate to the great Expence that would be incurred thereby; and as we may with Reafon expect to hear shortly from the Honourable Company, in Reply to our Representations last Year on the State of our Army, and may conclude, they have taken Measures for supplying us with Field Officers of Experience and Ability, we further agreed with the Prelident, to make no immediate Promotions to that Rank, and not to determine on any general Arrangements which might render such Promotions necessary.

We accordingly resolved for the present to carry into Execution no more of General Goddard's Plan than raising Seven new Battalions of Sepoys, and modelling those now in the Service according to the Strength proposed by him; but without forming them into Brigades. The new Battalions will be formed at Bombay, Salfette, Surat and Broach, and the large Bodies of Irregulars at the two latter Settlements incorporated into them. Major Fullarton has also been directed to entertain Recruits at Ahmedabad, and Levies had been made at Bombay in Preparation for this Increase; so that the new Battalions will foon be in great Forwardness.

With this Strength once completed, we hope to be able to maintain all our new Acquisitions in Guzerat as well as Baffein, when reduced; and we judge it to be no more than really necessary for that Purpose, as we have not yet been in Condition to take Possession of the valuable Cessions made by Futty Sing, adjacent to Surat, for want of a sufficient Force.

General Goddard gives his Opinion, that the proposed Establishment will admit of a very eligible Army being drawn together, and will provide for the Security of our Possessions, the Defence of which must in the End devolve upon us; and we were clearly of Opinion, it was highly expedient to carry this Measure into Execution, without Delay; as, if the War is continued upon an extensive Plan, General Goddard will not be able to spare any Part of the Force under his Command to garrison the new Acquisitions; the Benefit of which must consequently be lost to the Company: Or if an Accommodation takes place, we ought to have a proper Force in Readiness for their Defence; as our first Wish would be to fend back the Bengal and Madras Troops, in order to relieve the Company from

from the most heavy Expence which must be incurred by their Service on this Coast; but which cannot be done, until we put ourselves in a Condition to defend our Possessions without their Affiftance.

We cannot pretend to fay, to what Extent you may carry your Views in this War, which perhaps may depend on the Efforts the French may make in India; but in our Opinion, after Baffein is added to our other Acquisitions, the Company's Views in Point of Territory should be terminated, as we shall then be Masters of a Revenue equal to the Expences of this Presidency, and our Military Operations become defensive; that is, should have no further Object than to establish and confirm us in our Possessions: You must be the best Judges of your Ability to support the Expence of the Army under General Goddard; and whether you have any other Object in View adequate thereto. But if you should resolve on any Measures to relieve the Company from this heavy Burthen, we are preparing with the utmost Expedition to put our own Army on such a Footing as will render them practicable, far at least as depends on us. Our greatest Difficulty will be, the Desiciency in our European Corps, which we particularly request you will attend to in your Arrangements; and we hope the Reinforcements received this Season at Bengal and Madras, will enable you to supply even this Deficiency; the most ready Method of doing which will be, to transfer the private and Non Commission Officers of the Madras Detachment, now with General Goddard, to this Establishment; which we hope that Government will now be in a Condition to spare.

We have strongly recommended to General Goddard, to take Measures for the Protection of the Northern Districts, during the approaching Monsoon, as the Resources we may expect from them the ensuing Season will entirely depend on the Degree of Protection he can afford to them. We have for some Time past experienced considerable Difficulties for want of Money, when the Supplies from Bengal, by the Britannia and Besborough, arrived very seasonably to our Relief; which we shall manage with the utmost Care, as at this Time of the Year we have no other Resource; and until Assairs are in some Manner settled, we must still look to you for further Assistance. We are therefore under the Necessity of requesting, that you will continue making us Remittances as foon as possible, to at least the usual annual Amount, as our Revenue Receirts must be considered in some Measure as precarious; and we have, as above-mentioned, thought it for the general Interest to encrease our own immediate Military Expences.

We have thought it necessary to take Possession of some Places in the Conkan, adjacent to Bombay and Salsette, to prevent the Enemy from straightening our Islands too much for Supplies of Grain. We are now Masters of the Forts of Bellapore and Persich, and the Town of Callian, which command a considerable Tract of Country in the District of Bassein; but in the Course of this Service, one of our Posts was forced, with the Loss of Three Pieces of Cannon. On the Return of the Bombay Detachment, which, you will find by the enclosed Correspondence, we judged it proper to recall from the Army before the Rains, we fent over Colonel Hartley with a more confiderable Force, who attacked and routed the Enemy in their Camp, and obliged them to retire fome Coss.

In order to prevent as far as we can an apprehended Scarcity of Grain, we have fent round Two of the Company's Ships to Madras, for Cargoes of Rice; and we request you will encourage the Exportation of that Article from Bengal for the Service of this Presidency.

R ECEIVED a Letter as follows from General Goddard:

Gentlemen,

I have the Honour to acknowledge your Two Letters of the 24th January and 23d March-A Period of more than Three Months has elapsed since I addressed you in a Letter dated February 17th, upon the Subject of the Allowance granted to Ragoba, setting forth the Reasons which induced me to conceive it for the Interest of the Company, and even necessary to the suture Success of our Contest with the Maratta State, that Ragoba should be supported by us until the final Settlement of

I have waited with the utmost Anxiety for your Reply to that Letter, in Hopes it might arrive before the Conclusion of this Campaign, when alone I considered it would be advisable to withdraw the Allowance from Ragoba, by which his Troops then actually in Service with me were subsisted; but finding by the Earnestness expressed in your Letter of 24th January, that your Sen iments repayable Ragoba were not in any Respect altered, I thought it advisable, in order to comply with your Wishes. and at the same Time to act in a Point of so much Importance to the Company with as much Regard to their true Interests as possible, to communicate the Whole of the Circumstances to the Honourally Select Committee of Bombay, and consult with them upon the Measures proper to be adopted by the present State of our Affairs here. They have in Answer concurred in the Expediency and Negotics of attaching Ragoba to us during the War, and the Impracticability of doing fo, without allowing him a Maintenance; but they have recommended that it should be reduced. This Plan of Reduction E. its fullest possible Extent I meant accordingly to have followed; but receiving a Confirmation of your fixed Intentions that this Allowance should be entirely withdrawn, by the Reference made in your Letter of the 23d March to the Instructions formerly fent me on the Subject, I have determined im plicitly to obey them, and shall not advance Ragoba a single Rupee beyond the present Month, for which he has already received.

With respect to Ragoba, in the Conditions proposed to be stipulated in his Favour, I adifered literally to the Terms made by Lieutenant Colonel Upton, except adding, that his personal Safety should be effectually secured, and that he should be at Liberty to reside in whatever Place he might chuse, the Company becoming Guarantees for his pacific Benaviour, and engaging not to afford him any Affiltance, or even Protection, should be attempt to raise Disturbances in the Maratta

State.

I come now to reply to your Letter of the 23d March; and it is not without the most sensible Pleasure and Satisfaction I perceive the Approbation you are pleased to declare of the Treaty concluded with Futty Sing Guicawar, which the Tenor of my past Letters, and the present Situation of our Affairs in this Quarter, will have already pointed out, and now proves to have been productive of all the good Confequences I promifed to the Company in concluding it; and which I have already fully explained to you. I have communicated to Futty Sing your favourable Sentiments regarding him, for which he is exceedingly grateful, and anxiously looks for the Arrival of the Letter you mentioned would be written him by the Honourable Governor General, but which I fear may have met with some Accident on the Road, as it is not yet come to Hand.

My former Letters will have apprized you of the Expectations formed from the Divisions supposed to subsist among the Maratta Chiefs engrossing their Attention too much to allow them Leisure to offer any Oppolition in the Course of the present Campaign, having proved deceitful; Scindia has, I am convinced, always acted in concert with, and under the Influence of Nana Furnesse, and there is Reason to believe, will continue to do so; fensible from the Beginning of his Insufficiency to contend with our Arms, his Aim feems to have been, the preventing us from extending our Conquells into any other Part of the Maratta Dominions. In this he has succeeded so far, that although it was an Object I had much at Heart, to reduce Bassein before the Commencement of the Rains, I have found it absolutely necessary to confine my Operations this Campaign to the Defence and Security of the Company's new acquired Possessions in Guzerat, and the entire Exclusion of the Ma-rattas from all Share or Participation of its Revenue.

I have now the Happiness to acquaint you, that my Endeavours for the Purpose are fortunately accomplified; and that Scindia, unable to make any Impression upon the Country, remains quiet in the Neighbourhood of Pawan Ghur; and by the best Intelligence I can learn, means thortly to relinquish it entirely. Whether he intends to direct his Course to Ugein, or return to the Decan, I cannot politively affert; various Reports are circulated; and though I am myfelf of Opinion that he will find his Pielence requifite at Poona, where the Minister must feel his Authority in rather a tottering and precarious State, having lately discovered a Confederacy, formed by many principal Men in Favour of Siccaram Pundit, and seized upon some of the Ringleaders, yet I believe he will detach a strong Force towards Ugein, in order to oppose the Progress of our Troops, who in Conjunction with the Rajah of Ghode, have, it is reported, entered the Northern Parts of the Malva Province. A fhort Period will now determine his Delign. At present I am well afford, he will not in any material Degree moleft us in the Possession of our new Conquests. It is however probable, and my Intelligence gives me Cause to apprehend, he may leave a Body of Horse upon the Confines of the Province, to make Inroads into the Districts of Broach, Jambooseer, Zinnore, &c and interrupt the Ryots in the Cultivation of their Lands. This Evil I shall be able easily to remedy, by stationing a small Force for their Protection.

I beginow to give you a short Detail of the Military Operations since my last: Finding every Effort ineffectual to bring Scindia's Army to an Action, and judging it improper to expose the Troops to unnecessary Hardships and Difficulties, by remaining in a Country where not only Forage was to be procured with great Hazard and Trouble, but there was even a Scarcity of Water, I marched back to Baroda on the 5th Instant, at which Place I might form my future Plan at Leisure; and on the 8th, in Compliance with a Requisition from the Government of Bombay, I detached the Reinforcements from that Presidency, who arrived at Surat, and embarked for Bombay the 15th

I also put the whole Army in Motion on the same Day, and on the 9th, proceeded to Carwan on the Road to this Place, when I received Intelligence of Scindia with his whole Force having advanced to the Neighbourhood of Dubhoy: I therefore thought it necessary to check his Career, and once more drive him from the Country, and accordingly marched back to the Dahder Nuddy, upon the opposite Bank of which Scindia lay. He retreated to his former Encampment the same

PENDIX, N° 276.

Day, and not thinking it necessary or proper to pursue him, I continued upon the Ground he had quitted, till the 14th, when I moved towards the Nerbudda.

The Enemy's Troops have now entirely evacuated the Diffricts belonging to the Company, and with the greatest Pleasure I can communicate to you Two successful Enterprizes, which closed the scene of our Operations in the Field, and have been attended by the most beneficial Confequences to the Company, particularly the latter, both by the Splendour of the Action, and the peaceful Security it has given to the new acquired Purgunnahs.

A Body of about 6,000 Horse, under the Command of Boghretty Scindia, and Parajee Punt, Two principal Maratta Officers, had advanced to the Nerbubba, within Six or Seven Miles of Zinnore, which is Four Miles above my Camp, and where I had before flationed Major Forbes, with Two Battalions of Sepoys, for its Defence and Protection, being the principal Town of the District of The Defign of this Force in coming to near, was merely to watch my Motions, that Name. and plunder and destroy the Country. Circumstances appearing favourable, I ordered Major Forbes, on the 22d Instant, to march and surprize them; which Service he esseed, coming upon them at Day-break in the Morning. The Enemy had little or no Baggage of any Kind; what they had, together with a few Hosses and some Grain (the Fruits of their Rapine) sells.

into our Hands. A few only were killed, as they precipitately made off, and foon after they joined their main Body under Scindia, where they have ever fince continued.

The Second Action above alluded to was performed by Lieutenant Welch, whom on the 17th Instant I detached from this Place, with the Regiment of Cavalry, the Candahar Horse, and the Seventh Battalion of Sepoys, towards Surat, in order to drive Gunnesse Punt, an Officer belonging to the Ministerialists, who with a Body of about 4000 Horse, 300 Foot, and Three Field Pieces, was then encamped at a Place called Badouly, out of the Purgunnahs of Surat Atareessy, which he had for fome Time past kept in Awe, and greatly infested.

On the 22d at Night, Lieutenant Welch moved from the Village of Cuttore, near the Ground where the Army was encamped last Rains, in the Neighbourhood of Surat, in order to surprize Gunnessee Punt; and proceeded with his Detachment till Half patt Two in the Morning, when, calculating the remaining Distance, he found it would be impossible to reach the Enemy's Camp with the Whole till after Day-light; in which Time they would take the Alarm, and escape. He therefore came to the spirited and enterprizing Resolution of pushing forward with the Cavalry only; and at Four o'Clock entered the Camp, almost undiscovered. The Enemy sled in the best Manner they could, and in their Hurry could carry nothing off. The Guns, from which they had been able to fire only one Difcharge, their Tents, Bazais, and every Thing they had, fell into our Hands. One Hundred of the Enemy were found killed upon the Spot, and near Twenty wounded; besides more, which, when Lieurenant Welch dispatched his Letter soon after the Action, he supposed must have suffered from their own Guns having been turned and fired upon them in their Flight.

On our Side, One Duffadar of Cavalry, and One Candahar were killed, and Two Troopers wounded.

I have fince certainly learnt, that Gunnesse Punt died a Day or two after, of the Wounds he received; and that Three other principal Men suffered with him.

This Action has been as decifive as it was possible to be; and I beg to express my entire Satisfaction with, and Approbation of the spirited and well-judged Conduct of Lieutenant Welch, together with the undaunted Bravery and Firmness of the Troops, of which only the Cavalry were engaged, and who have, on this Occasion, rendered most effential and important Services.

The constant and uniform Success our Arms have met with during this Campaign, and the Disappointment the Marattas have experienced in their Endeavours to make any Impression upon, or wrest from us our new Conquests, cannot but convince them of the unprofitable and ruinous Contest in which they are engaged, and incline them to wish to put an Fnd to it; but however much they may defire Peace, I fear they are not futficiently humbled to grant it upon Terms to honourable and advantageous as we have a Right to expect.

Knowing the earnest Wish you have to bring the War to a speedy Conclusion, I shall readily listen to and encourage every Overture the Maratta Government may make for that definable End; and I beg to affine you, that no Effort thall be wanting on my Part to accomplish your Views on this Occasion.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 23d March 1780.

RESOLVED, That the following Reply be written to Brigadier General Coddard:

Sir.

In our last Letter to you dated the 24th January, we informed you of the Receipt of your's of the 10th of December, without the Inclosures which it referred to for our Information. The Original, containing those Inclosures, has never come to Hand; but their Place has been supplied by Advices from the President and Select Committee of Bombay, from whom we received Copies of your Instructions, and of the previous Correspondence between you which had led to them.

We entirely approve of the Plan which has been adopted for conducting your Operations in the Guzerat Country. This Measure appears to us the more judicious, because it not only promises immediate Advantage to the Company and Credit to their Arms, but seems the most likely Method to lead to a speedy and advantageous Peace.

We have now before us your Letters of the 1st and 29th of January, with a Copy of the Articles of Agreement concluded with Futty Sing Guicawar, the Conditions of which meet with our entire Approbation and Concurrence, and shall be ratified in course, when the Treaty which you give us to expect from the President and Select Committee of Bombay, shall be transmitted to us in Form for that Purpose. In the mean Time, the Letter which will be written by the Governor General to Futty Sing, will be sufficient to satisfy him of our Sentiments with respect to the Treaty.

As we understand from different Quarters that the Troops of the Maratta Chiefs had not quitted their Capital at the Date of the latest Advices from thence, and that the Differences which had taken place amongst the Ministers were likely to engross all their Attention for some Time to come, we think it improbable that you will meet with any Opposition in the Course of your present Campaign; and there appears to us to be no Difficulty in securing the peaceable Collections of the Revenue arising from your new Acquisitions, during this and the Season of the Rains; but we expect that every Effort will be exerted to recover them in the ensuing Campaign; and we hope, that you will not only be prepared to make the most effectual Resistance in such Case to the Attempts of the Marattas, but that you will do all in your Power to secure the quiet Possession of these Countries in Perpetuity to the Company, advising us of the Measures which you may judge it necessary to adopt for that Purpose.

By our last Letter you will have been furnished with our Directions respecting the Pension which you had granted to Ragoba: For the rest, we observe with Pleasure, that you have anticipated our Wishes, in your Conduct towards that Chief. We are more consirmed by your Advices, and by every other Circumstance which has come to our Knowledge, in our Opinion, that no real Advantage or Support can be derived from an open Connection with Ragoba. We therefore repeat our Injunctions, that you enter into no Engagements whatsoever with him.

We have already forbid you to take any Part in the Family Disputes which subsist between Futty Sing and his Brother, except as a Mediator. We observe, that you have taken this Line for your Conduct; and approve of your pursuing it, if you shall see a Probability of restoring them to Harmony; but by no Means to use any Kind of Authority to effect it.

We are, &c..

PRESENT,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

READ the following Letter from General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

Since my last, which I had the Honour to address you of the 29th ultimo, inclosing a Copy of the Treaty concluded with Futty Sing Guicawar, I have marched to Ahmedabad the Capital of Guzerat, where I arrived the 10th Inftant, in the Morning. The Governor, on the Part of the Poona Government, refusing to obey the Summons I fent him to deliver up the Place to the British Arms, I was constrained to lay Siege to it; and on the 12th, at Ten o'Clock P. M. opened the Batteries against the Walls, which were sufficiently breached the 13th in the Evening, to have stormed next Day; but from a Wish, dictated by Motives of Humanity, that the Enemy, seeing the Folly of Relistance, might have submitted upon honourable Terms, and prevented that Scene of Ruin to the Inhabitants, which I had too much Reason to apprehend, by carrying to large and populous a City by Storm, I put off the Attack: In this Hope I was however disappointed, and finding that the Enemy only meant to a nucle me by Subterfuges and Excuses, till the Succours they expected from Poona might arrive; and indeed confiding in their own Numbers, and the frequent Repulles which powerful Chiefs and Armies had received before the Place, to imagine themselves invincible by our Force, I gave the Orders for storming on the 15th in the Morning; which I have the Happiness to acquaint you, succeeded to my Wish in every Point. A Number of the Enemy fell in the Affault, few of our own Men fuffered, when compared with the Resistance they met with, and the Difficulties they had to furmount; and to their chief Honour, the Victory was not stained with any Act of Cruelty to the inoffensive unarmed Inhabitants; but on the contrary, many of those who were actually in Arms, had their Lives spared, upon submitting themselves to Mercy. I have laid before the Commander in Chief, the Particulars of the Troops good Behaviour, and have also transmitted him a Return of the Killed and Wounded.

Permit me to congratulate you upon this Success of your Arms, which cannot fail to strike a Terror into the Enemy, equal with the Considence with which it has inspired our own Men, and be attended with the most eminent Advantages in the Profecution of the War with the Maratta State.

By the latest Advices, I understand they have at last put their Forces in Motion; a Body of Ten thousand Horse are reported to be on their Way from Poona, to enter the Country lying to the Southward, by one Route, and Scindia and Holkar, with about Two Thousand Horse, had actually, the 5th Inflant, Three Days marched from the Gaut of Cofferbory into the Kandeish Province, and were advancing through Part of the Malava Diffrict, by the Fort of Pawengheer, towards Ahmedabad. It is probable, the Accounts of the Reduction of this Place may induce them to after their inended Route, and remain within the Limits of Malava, to look after their own Jaghiers, which lie noftly in that Province: This indeed may have been originally the chief Motive of their March from the Decan; for although it now plainly appears, the supposed. Assimosity, between the Minister and Scinda is of a lefs violent and irreconcileable Nature than it was once suspected to be, the latter has not, I am certain, received full Satisfaction for the Demands he formedy made; and will in all Probability be ready to adopt fuch a Line of Conduct as he may think bell calculated to ferve his Interests. Should I be able, by encouraging any Disposition of this Nature in him, to improve it to the Advancement of Ragoba's Caufe, I shall gladly embrace the Opportunity; but at present I see no Grounds to found fuch a Hope, and only mention it as a Circumstance that may happen, and which I mean to make every possible Use of.

While employed in the Siege of this Place, I was honoured with your Letter of the 29th of November; and cannot find Words to express the Concern I feel at the Desapprobation of my Conduct in the Strictures you have passed upon the Measures I ventured to adopt regarding Ragonaut Row, in giving him a Monthly Allowance for his Support, as I am confcious of having consulted, to the best of my Judgment, the Interests of the Company on that Occasion; and although I had not received your express Directions and Authority for what I did, of having acts d in a Manner I conceived should confident with the Spirit and Meaning of the Orders which you had given me; I will intrude upon your Letter with the Spirit and Meaning of the Orders which you had given me; I will intrude upon your Indulgence and Patience, by explaining the Motives by which I was influenced.

In your Fust Instructions, dated the 3d of April, you were pleased to direct, that in the Treaty I was empowered to conclude with the Maratta Government, the Sofety of Ragonaut Row should be made an indispensable Engagement; and further recommended, that I should endeavour to obtain a fuitable Provision for his Subsistence. These were your Sentiments at a Time when Ragoba was in the Hands of his Enemies; and the very Persons with whom you had empowered me to treat were delivered from the principal Object of their Fears, in possessing that Instrument so dangerous to their own Existence, while under our Protection; but whose Fate they would then dispose of as they placed. Under these Circumstances, the Difficulty of obtaining any Concessions in his Favour must have role in Proportion to the Security in which the Ministers found themselves placed, from any Attempts he could make to subvert their Authority: This I considered; and at the same Time reslected, that if the Maratta Durbar was sincere in his Wish for Peace, the Provision you had authorized me to require in favour of Ragoba would be agreed to without any Difficulty; after promising his Person should remain safe from Violation, the Charge of his Maintenance become a necessary Duty incumber upon their own Government, and one which it was probable they would cheerfully take upon themselves.

When Ragoba therefore was fo fortunate as to escape from the Hands of the Ministers, and once more find a secure and certain Asylum with the English, I had every Reason to hope, that the Propostals I had before made in his Favour, and in which no Alteration became necessary, except that he might be at Liberty to reside where he thought proper, would have found a ready Acceptance with the Court of Poona: I accordingly, moved to it by his Distress and needy Situation, as well as the Conviction that by so doing I proceeded upon sure political Grounds, made him an Allowance for he Support, till I could receive your further Instructions. If I exceeded in the Sum fixed upon, it sell infinitely short of what Ragoba himself solicited, and was only Half of what the Maratta Government did agree to allow him when in their Hands; so that I made no Doubt, upon the Settlement of Peace, they would have readily consented to reimburse the Expence. Upon the Whole, my Inducements for granting this Allowance to Ragoba may be comprized in the following:

First, The State of Distress in which he implored it, for the Sublistence of himself and Family.

Second, The strong Claims he possessed upon the Company, from the Connections and Friendship so long subsisting between them.

Third, The Consideration, that if a Peace with the Maratta State was practicable, a Reimbursement of this Charge became a natural and certain Consequence.

Fourth, If the Negociation proved ineffectual, the Presence of Ragoba with us must become of the greatest political Benefit, either in improving the Advantages which the successful Operations of War might offer, or in stipulating the future Conditions of a Peace with the Maratta State.

Previous to the Receipt of your Letter, I had made the Advance for this Month. I have communicated to you many Circumstances since your Letter dated November 29th, which may probably have effected some Alteration in your Sentiments from what they were at the Time you wrote; and we may hope hourly for an Answer to my Advices of the War, the Plan proposed to be followed, and the Measures that were already taken for its Prosecution; all which is most particularly explained in my Letter of the 1st of January. I expect to know your final Pleasure regarding Ragoba, before it becomes necessary to make him any further Advances; or that at most, he can receive only One Month's Payment more, till I am honoured with your particular Commands. I have thus candidly, and without Reserve, explained to you the Motives of my Conduct, on this Occasion; and I trust they will meet with your indulgent Consideration and Approbation. I shall write to you in 2 few Days, respecting Scindia's Motions, and whatever else material may occur.

Letter from Ragonath Row; received the 30th April, 1780.

Knowing it to be incumbent on our Friendship, to inform one another of all Occurrences which happen on either Side, and to communicate any Advice and Counsel which may appear to us to be most consistent with the present Circumstances, I now write to you, that as I am conscious all Increase of Dignity and Power in the English, adds equally to my Honour and Distinction, I therefore advised General Goddard, as the Circumstances demanded it, to gain over to himself the Cavalry of those Chiefs whose Friendship I could depend upon, having been strictly united with them before the breaking out of the War; that a small Sum would persuade them to come over with their whole Force; that if he should not approve of this Advice, it would be neceffary for him to raise more or less Horse himself. I have explained this by Word of Mouth to the General, and also by Letters; but he has not as yet raised any Cavalry, the whole Strength however is on his Side. He has now, on his Way to Gojeraut, entered into a strict Alliance with Futtah Sing Row Gackwar to join Armies with him, and has taken the Town of Ahmadabad. All Particulars of this you will learn from the General's Letters; I am totally unacquainted with the Negociations and Articles which have passed between him and Row Gackwar. At this Time Sindeah Holcar, and other Chiefs, are marched from the Distance of Eleven or Twelve 7.

Coss from Surat, towards Ahmedabad. By the Bleffing of God, and the good Auspices of the Company, no Neglect will happen on the Part of the General, in the Prosecution of the War. I am daily praying to the Almighty, that in the Time of Hostilities, the Want of Horse may not be attended with bad Consequences. The Courage of the English is such, that they are certain of being ictorious. I have written to Rajah Ram Winkar and Turneck Dadajee the Particulars of the March and Victory of my Horses, which they will make you acquainted with.

REED, That the following Answers be written to General Goddard:

We have had the Pleasure of receiving yours of the 17th February, and the Commander in Chief has transmitted to us a Copy of yours to him, of the same Date, both containing an Account of the Reduction of Ahmedabad.

This Success has equalled the Hopes which he had conceived from the former and uniform Experience of your Activity and good Conduct. We desire you to accept our Thanks, and to offer them in our Name in Public Orders, to the Officers and Men of the several Corps which composed your Army at the Siege of Ahmedabad, for the Firmness and Gallantry which they displayed during the Siege, and in the Storm of that City; particularly to those Officers whom you have mentioned in your Letter to the Commander in Chief, as having in a more remarkable Manner distinguished themselves on this Occasion. The Opinion which we have ever entertained of the Bravery of our own Troops, required no new Instance to support or increase it; but we observe with an uncommon Satisfaction, the Part which you had affigued to those of the Bombay Establishment, and the Spirit with which they performed it; a Circumstance which of itself cannot fail to retrieve our national Character, and to prove, that there is no Service of which the Discipline and Courage of our Forces is not capable, with the Advantage of an able Commander. We hope that the Enemy will be now convinced of the decided Superiority of our Arms, and that you will be able to accomplish the Object which we have invariably in View, an honourable and advantageous Peace; such a Service we shall esteem of more Importance, nor less honourable to you, than the most splendid Operation of the operation of the service we shall esteem of more Importance, nor less honourable to you, than the most splendid Operation. rations in the Field. We authorize you to accept of any Proposals which may be made to you for that Purpose, which may be consonant to our former Instructions, and warranted by the present State of the War; and even to make Overtures for Peace on such Conditions, if you shall have any reafonable Grounds to believe that they will be immediately accepted, and not employed to amuse and deceive; in the mean Time, we rely on your Activity for the Profecution and Improvement of the Advantages with which your Campaign has been so happily begun. We reserve the other Subjects of your Letter for a separate Reply.

Forz William,

20th April 1780.

We are, &c.

We now transmit you our Sentiments on the Subject of your Letters of the 29th January and 17th February, which have not been replied to. We are much concerned to observe that your Conduct, which has been so deserving in general of our warmest Approbation, should in some Instances be less satisfactory to us. Our Orders concerning the Pension you had granted to Ragoba, were positive and peremptory, and we expected you would literally have obeyed them; but we are concerned to find by your Letter of the 17th of February, that you even intended to advance him 50,000 Rupees for the Month of March. We now therefore repeat our Orders, and positively direct, that not a Rupee shall be advanced in future from your Treasury; for the Supply of Ragoba. We informed you in our Letter of the 24th November 1779, that it was with the utmost Difficulty we are enabled to furnish Supplies for your necessary and unavoidable Expences; and we still hope, that on re-con-sidering this Part of our Letter, you have determined to pay a strict Obedience to our Orders.

We are pleased to observe that you have proposed to make certain Regulations for the Diminution of your Expences; your Example and determined Resolution to check every unnnecessary Change, will, we hope, produce the defired Effect.

Our Resources are no longer equal to the Payment of your Army without draining Bengal entirely of its Specie; nor can any Acquisition on the other Side of India compensate for the Distress which a Continuance REP. VI.

Continuance of the War, at the present Expence, would bring upon the Company: We therefore most earnestly recommend to you, to observe the strictest Economy in your future Disbursements; and we shall point out to you such Savings as we think may be made without Injury to the Service. The First Regiment of Cavalry is kept up at a very heavy Expence; which, we think, has not been compensated by any Services which it has performed, or to be expected from it in suture: We there.

fore authorize, and politively direct you, to reduce this Regiment.

The Commander in Chief has communicated to us your Letter of the 4th March, by which we find, that Major Fullerton, with Eight Companies of Sepoys, was in Garrison at Ahmedabad: We direct, if this has not been already done, that Futty Sing be called upon to fix a Subsidy for the full Expence of these Troops, and of any other of our Forces which may be detached for the Defence of the Countries ceded to him, independant of the general Plan of the Campaign. We wish you to return a Part or the Whole of the Fort St. George Detachment, as soon as the Season will permit and you can dispense with their Services, as the whole Expence of these different Corps will fall upon this Government, which is (as we must repeat) unequal to so accumulates a Charge.

As the Successes which have attended the Operations of the Army under the Command of General Goddard, now assord us a better grounded Expectation than we have entertained, of being able to terminate the War by an honourable and advantageous Peace; or in the Event of 115 Continuance, of profecuting it with Advantage to the Company, by such an Extension of Territory as may either compensate for the past Expence, or furnish the Means of a suture Negociation; and as it is necessary, both with respect to the Length of Time which will be required for the Operation of any Plan which we may concert for either of the above Ends, that we shall enter upon the Consideration of it as early as possible, even before the Glose of the present Season; Resolved, That we address the Commander in Chief, and request to be favoured with his Presence and Assistance, informing him that we shall suspend further Operations on this Subject, till his Arrival.

The following Letter is accordingly written to Sir Eyre Coote.

Sir.

As the Successes which have attended the Operations of the Army under the Command of General Goddard, now afford us a better-grounded Expectation than we have hitherto entertained, of being able to terminate the War by an honourable and advantageous Peace; or in the Event of its Continuance, of prosecuting it with Advantage to the Company, by such an Extension of Territory as may either compensate for the past Expences, to furnish the Means of a future Negociation; and as it is necessary, both with respect to the Length of Time which will be required for the Operation of any Plan we may concert for either of the above Ends, that we should enter upon the Consideration of it as early as possible, even before the Close of the present Season, we request to be favoured with your Presence and Assistance at our Councils; and at the same Time beg Leave to inform you, that we shall suspend our Deliberations on this Subject until your Arrival.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

READ the following Letter and Inclosure from Sir Eyre Coote.

Gentlemen.

I have the Honour to enclose you an Extract of the last Letter I have received from General Goddard, which I take the Liberty of laying before you, as it contains Sentiments entirely conformable

to

APPENDIX, N° 282.

to what I have already stated to you, regarding the Mode of carrying on the present War; though J did not want such a Confirmation of my former Ideas upon this Subject.

General Goddard now declares himself confined to the Defence of the Territory newly acquired, which, as I foretold, was a necessary Consequence of the Plan adopted. I cannot therefore avoid reiterating my Proposals of some vigorous Measures being taken from these Quarters, as soon as the Season will admit. This appears to me the more pressing, as I find since I have left the Board, that we are become Principals in the War, and the present Plan promises nothing but an endless, rumous Expence.

I therefore beg Leave to repeat, that while I recommend the most vigorous Exertions, it is only with a View to accelerate a Peace; which, in the present State of Politics at Home, would be, in my Opinion, the happiest Event that could happen to us.

Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard, dated 28th March 1780.

My last gave you a very particular Information of the Situation of Scindia's Forces, which he was then collecting from all Parts of his Country to accompany him into Guzerat; fince which I me he has been joined by 5000 Horse from Eugein, and it is reported that another considerable Body is on its March towards him; fo that the Northern Provinces of the Maratta State, which are mighty belonging to himself and Holkar, must be now greatly exposed, and open to Invasions frem our upper Provinces, by the Way of Gobud and the extensive Provinces of Asmere, the principal Rajah of which, the Marwar Rajah, is, I believe, by no Means well-disposed to the Interests of Scindia. I have no positive Proof of this being the Case; having had no Correspondence or other Communication with him whatever, since my Arrival on this Side of India; but it is a Circumstance generally believed, and have its Foundation in former Disputes and Animassize and I mention it to use among other last has its Foundation in former Disputes and Animolities, and I mention it to you, among other Incidents, to give you an Opportunity of judging how far it may be practicable; as it would certainly be of Advantage to the Operations of the War on this Side, to cause a powerful Diversion to be made on the other, which could not fail to distress and divide their Attention exceedingly.

Having no Object to induce me to penetrate into Malwa, but on the contrary, risking the most material Interests of the Company, by leaving the Province of Guzerat and the Sea Coast to the Inroads either of an European or Indian Enemy; I can only at present watch the Motions of Scindia, to prevent him from over-running and destroying the Country; and, if possible, seize some favourable Opportunity of attacking him; which, as it is his only Care to avoid, I shall find some Difficulty to effect.

Ordered, That it lie for Consideration. Read another Letter as follows, from the Commander in Chief:

Gentlemen,

Lucknow, 11th May, 1780.

1st. I have been honoured with your Letters of the 20th April.

2d. Previously to the Receipt of them, I was making every Disposition and Preparation to avail myself of the first Swelling of the Waters, to leave this Place; the intense Heat of the Scason not permitting any other Mode of travelling, however desirous I may be of setting out. Indeed, were I to attempt it during the Droughts, it would not at all hasten my Arrival at the Presidency, as at present many Places of the River are not navigable for my Boats: I shall therefore anxiously await the Commencement of the Rains, to embark.

3d. With regard to my Opinion upon any present Plan to be adopted for the Prosecution or Termination of the Maratta War, my Idea remains invariably the same, that it is our Interest to procure, as foon as possible, an honourable Peace. But as Things feem to be now circumstanced, I should think it can only be attainable by profecuting the War with Vigour, supported by every possible Exertion from these Quarters. But should there in the mean Time between this and my Arrival, any new Circumstance occur, unknown to me, necessarily prompting other Measures, my Opinion can . . Delay be required; and will certainly be given with that Impartiality and Candour which I trust ever has and ever will accompany it.

4th. I must at the same Time observe, that whatever Resolutions you may deem proper, or find to be necessary, no Military Movements can be made from the Frontier Stations until some of the Deficiencies in Stores are supplied, and those Repairs compleated which I informed you in my Letter of the 21st of March our Artillery stood so absolutely in need of. This I beg Leave once more to recommend, as an Object of the first Attention; and with the speediest Orders given for that Purpose, and all the Diligence which can be used in executing them, I do not imagine it can be rendered sit

sth. In Reply to the Opinion you require, upon disbanding the Cavalry, I can only say, that after having, with much Trouble and great Expence, brought them to a Degree of Perfection, I must think it would be an imprudent Measure to deprive ourselves of their Services, at a Time when they may be most effentially necessary to us. And my Opinion of their Usefulness at this Time is such, that I had rather reduce the Establishment of Sepoys, to furnish the Means of encreasing their Numbers, than be enabled to raise more Sepoys by their Dismission. The Inference drawn in their Dissavora, from what has occurred in General Goddard's Army, cannot properly affect their Credit; as when that Service was undertaken the Corps were but just raised, were ill appointed, and still worse mounted; so that no immediate Benefit could be expected from them. The Candahar Horse, on the contrary, were old Soldiers, thoroughly disciplined, and well mounted. In respect to the present Inability of the Nabob's Finances to support the Expence, it might perhaps be worthy of your Consideration, whether it would not be a more salutary Measure to enquire into the Cause of those Desiciencies, and apply proper Remedies to the Evil, than to give up useful Establishments, upon a supposed Want of Power to maintain them? For if, with an immense Addition to his Revenue, he is unable to keep up a much smaller Number of Troops, upon less and better regulated Pay than his Predecessor did with much sewer Resources, there must be improper Management somewhere.

6th. I some Time ago wrote to Colonel Pearse upon the Propriety of forming the Volunteers into a separate Company in the Artillery, to remain under his Management, that he might be enabled to judge of their Merits before they were finally disposed of. I find Colonel Pearse had not received that Letter before he made his Report to the Board, which you have referred to me; and from that Circumstance, I take it for granted you will agree to the Plan.

7th. I am just informed of the Death of Mr. Kirkman, Paymaster to the Second Brigade. I therefore beg Leave, Gentlemen, to recommend Mr. Tierney to succeed to that Post, whose Integrity and Abilities I know, and can answer for; and should my Request meet with your Concurrence, I am perfuaded he will fill it with Honour to himself and Satisfaction to the Public.

8th. Was I inclined to enter into difagreeable Discussions, some Points in your Letter would afford me sufficient Matter for them; but as they can only tend to dissipate the Time and Attention due to the public Welfare, it is by no Means my Intention to touch upon them. And allow me once more to assure you, Gentlemen, that it is not my Wish to arrogate, as to myself, any Powers inconsistent with the Double Offices I hold, as Member of the Board and Commander in Chief, or which do not come pointedly within the Act of Parliament and Orders of the Company. The utmost of my Ambition is to co-operate with you in every Measure of public Benefit, and to be enabled by that Means successfully to support the Honour and Interest of the Nation in this Part of the World, at a Time when the Event of Assairs at Home may render these Possessions of still more essential Consequence to us, than we have yet had Occasion, valuable as they really are, to estimate them at.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

Ordered, That the Fourth Paragraph of this Letter be sent to the Board of Ordnance; that the Sixth and Seventh Paragraphs be considered in the Public Department; and that the remaining Parts of it do lie for Consideration.

Letter from the Commander in Chief to Captain Popham.

THE Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council having entered into a Treaty with the Rhanah of Ghohud, he has in consequence thereof demanded from me a Body of Troops, to be sent to his Assistance against the Marattas. I therefore order you to march with the whole Detachment under your Command to Etawd, there to remain for the present, agreeable to the following Instructions.

I have explained to the Rhanah of Ghohud the Necessity there is, from Intelligence I have received relative to the Strength of the Enemy, for his ordering 10,000 Cavalry to join you immediately on your crossing the Jumma; but should the Rhanah not be able to send so large a Body of Cavalry, and that you think from the Intelligence which you receive, a less Number may suffice, so that the Marattas, against whom we are now supposed to have commenced Hostilities, cannot impede your joining the Rhanah's Army, you will then use your own Discretion in effecting the proposed Junction, supported that Mr. William Odell, a Volunteer in this Detachment, fignalized himself at the Head of the storming Party, in a Manner which proved him highly deserving of immediate Admission into the Service, and any other Mark of your Favour consistent with his Situation. Permit me now Gentlemen, to solicit once more the Benefit of your Instructions for my Conduct in general, wherein it may be imperfectly pointed out, or totally neglected in the Treaty, at present its sole Guide; but particularly respecting Conquests that may be made by the Troops under my Command.

Pardon me if I feem pointedly urgent in this Request, which can only flow from an animated Desire of executing the Service with the Charge of which I have been honoured, in a Manner invariably confisent with your Intentions.

Camp, Lahaar, 29th April 1780. I have the Honour to be, &c. (Signed) W^m Popham.

The Governor General lays before the Board a Return of the Killed and Wounded of Captain Popham's Detachment at the Storm of Fort Lahaar:

Ordered, That it be entered after the Consultation.

Resolved, That the following Letter be written to the Commander in Chief:

Sir,
We have now to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letters to us in this Department of the 21st ultimo, and 3d Instant.

The First of these Letters requires a minute and particular Reply. Besides its general Tendency, and, as it appears to us, its studied Object, to depreciate the Alliance which we have lately concluded with the Rana of Gohud, we find Two Charges contained in it, so serious in their Nature, and so pointed in their Appeal, that as we feel so we cannot help expressing the deepest Concern, nor less Surprize that you should have thought yourself warranted to produce them before you were certain of the Grounds on which they were formed. The Charges themselves we shall reduce to stated Propositions, and separately reply to them.

The First is, that we have engaged Captain Popham's Detachment in a Service to which it is unequal.

The Second, that we have wholly withheld from you the Information of our Plans for the Conduct of the Maratta War; and in particular, that we have neglected to answer a Letter addressed by you to us, dated the 6th January last, "desiring" as you term it "Information of what was meant to be the adopted Line."—The First of these Charges is not directly expressed, but too strongly and evidently implied by the whole Tenor of your Letter, to admit of our putting any other Construction on the Expressions which mark it with that Tendency.

You state the Inequality of the Detachment to the Service on which it has been employed, as the Consequence of the extensive Powers vested in the Rana of Ghod by the Treaty, "in virtue of "which he has carried our Arms across the Scind into the Maratta Districts, and by false Information held out to Captain Popham, of the Strength of Lahaar, induced him to appear before and attack that strong Hold;" which you represent in other Parts of your Letter as impracticable, and thereby likely to prove the Occasion of our immediate Disgrace, and in its Consequences, of our utter Ruin. You state, that the Detachment was not equipped for Sieges, though conformable to the Requisition made by the Rana, and equal to the original Service expressed in it. We will repeat your Words, that we may not unintentionally misrepresent them.

"Four Battalions and their Guns was the Extent of the Rana's Requisition, to drive the Marattas out of his Districts, where they were found extending the Ravages of War both by " Fire and Sword."

"Captain Popham's Detachment formed of Cavalry, European Artillery, and Sepoys, answered in Force superior to his the Rana's Demands; and the Marattas quicting Gohud, on their Ap" proach, evinced they were equal to the original Service meant to be performed."

Hence it appears that you have confidered the Rana as invested with the Power of prescribing the Strength of the Party required for his Assistance, as well as the Service to be performed by it; that you conformed to the Substance, though not to the Letter of his Requisition; that you appointed a Detachment more than equal to the Strength prescribed, and equal to the hieral Terms of the Service assigned to it, but unequal to the Service on which he did employ it; this you impute to the extensive Powers vested in him by the Treaty, or in other Words (for the Inference is inevitable) to the Board who made the Treaty.

We entirely agree with you in Opinion, that the Detachment is not equal to fuch Services as that on which it has lately been employed, though fuccessfully; but cannot admit this as a Consequence imputable in any Respect to the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Gohud.

By the 2d Article of the Treaty, it is stipulated, that "if the Rana shall require an English" Force, from the Company, for the Defence of his Country; or for the Acquisition of Territory, such a Force, proportioned to the Exigency of the Service, shall be immediately fent on his Requisition made in Writing to the Commanding Officer of the nearest Station of the Company's Troops." And the 3d Article declares, that "this Force shall be employed for the shall also be attended to without Delay; though the Plan of Action seems to me very unequal to the critical Situation of Affairs, or to the Dignity of that Character which the British Arms have supported in India, with so much Splendor and Reputation, to the present Period.

 $\mathbf{R}^{\mathbf{E}\mathbf{A}\mathbf{D}}$ another Letter as follows, from the Commander in Chief.

Gentlemen,

I have the Pleasure of confirming the Account of the Capture of Lahaar, which I mentioned to you in my Letter of the 1st Instant. That Fort, by Advices this Day received from Captain Popham, I am informed was carried by Affault on the 21st altimo. I inclose you a Copy of Captain Popham's Letter, also one from Captain Palmer of the same Date.

The exemplary Behaviour of both Officers and Men, who performed this Piece of spirited Service, I have the greatest Pleasure in communicating to your Board, and in recommending Captain Popham and his deserving Detachment to your Countenance and Notice. But though I have the highest Sense of the Military Conduct of Captain Popham, during the Whole of the Expedition, and of the intrepid Coolness of all the Officers and Men who have been employed under him; yet I must remark, that nothing could warrant the desperate Attack obliged to be made on the Fort of Lahaar, where so many brave Men have suffered, but the disgraceful Alternative that presented itself, the being reduced to abandon a Service in which they were embarked, and on the Success of which, once begun, the Credit of our Arms in a great Measure depended.

They were obliged to storm the Fort, without having it in their Power to take off its Defences. I sincerely hope we shall in future know the Value of such Troops too well, to permit them to be opposed to Forts under such Disadvantages.

I lament the Loss of Two very promising Officers, who led the forlorn Hope, and I recommend Mr. Odell (the Volunteer so particularly mentioned, who had just joined the Detachment by Permission from me) to be appoined Cornet of Cavalry in the room of Cornet Gardiner, killed on the Breach, and whose Post Mr. Odell is reported to have filled on the Spot with such gallant Propriety.

Lucknow. 3d May, 1780.

I have the Honour &c. (Signed) Eyre Coote.

Ordered, That the Inclosures in the above Letter be entered after the Consultations.

Read the following Letter from Captain Popham.

Gentlemen,

It is with great Pleasure I have now to congratulate you on the Capture of Lahaar Fort, the Capital of Cutchooagur, which was taken Yesterday Forenoon by Storm. At Eight o'Clock the springing of One of our Mines threw down a great Part of the Curtin, and at Ten the Fire of our Batteries made as practicable a Breach as the Weight of our Field Pieces could effect; on which a Détachment under the Command of Captain M'Lary advanced to the Assault. The Two leading Officers fell, Lieutenant Logan and Cornet Gardiner, before they got to the Top of the Breach; the Affailants however pushed up through an extreme heavy Fire, and drove the Enemy from the outer Rampart to the Citadel, a strong Post surrounded by a Wall slanked with Towers; some of our Troops followed through the Gateway, some mounted the Wall, and after a great Slaughter, the Remains of the Garrison (which had consisted of upwards of Five hundred fighting Men) reduced to the Kelladar and a few Dependants, intreated for Quarter, which was granted.

The Intrepidity and Steadiness of the Troops gave me entire Satisfaction, but as these were most resignated by the Conduction of Contract Management of Contract Managem effeatially promoted by the Conduct and Activity of Captain Mayaffre, commanding Officer of Artillery, Lieutenant Cameron, Field Engineer, and Captain M'Lary, it is my indispensable Duty to recommend the Merit of these Officers to your Notice. I must also further presume to point out, dictates the Measure, and where Success is certain. If our Enemies are accustomed to see the Crown of Victory disputed, doubtful where to fix the state Error, will some Day or other leave us to lament the sad Consequences of our weak Ambition; and in searching for universal Power, we shape risk disadvantageously the extensive Possessions we are now so happily Masters of. The being obtate to abandon a Service in which we are once embarked, is a Defeat in the fullest Extent of the Honour by a Breach of Treaty, or, by subscribing to the Ranah's ill-judged Plans, risk a Disgrace to our Arms; a Circumstance which must necessarily place the Military Officer commanding on Service of the Kind, in a Situation truly distressing; and shew us to the different Powers in the East, in Colours which we have been unaccustomed to appear in.

It is not sending a small Detachment to Ghod, to cover that Alien District from Desolation, will bring the Maratta War to a Conclusion. If an offensive and decided War is to Be carried on with the Marattas, a more general and extensive Scale of Action should be pursued.

What are the Plans of Government on this most interesting Poins, I am ignorant of; or how our Country will approve the Want of Considence, (to call it by no harsher Epithet) of your Government towards their Military Commander in Chief, in this Time of Danger, I know not; but certain it is, I have not been acquainted with either the Designs of Government, or my Opinion asked on the Military Operations to be pursued.

My Letter of the 6th of January, addressed to your Board, stated Queries, desiring Information of what was meant to be the adopted Line; the Reasonableness of the Request led me to suppose that the necessary Information would not have been withheld from me; but to my Assonish ment the Subject is unanswered.

On the 12th Instant I received a Letter from the Rana, purporting that he has left his own Country to be plundered by the Marattas, gone into that of our Enemy's, and desiring that a Indent forwarded from Captain Popham for a Field battering Train, might be complied with The Business mentioned which the Supply of Stores was designed to affist, is the Siege, or rather Blockade of Gwalior during the enfuing Rain.

The attacking Gwalior with that Detachment, is totally repugnant to my Military Ideas, for man Reasons. It is reported to be a Place of considerable Strength; and for that Detachment, or an other, to attack it while the Marattas are in Force and unbeaten in the Field, would be absolute Madnes: A Covering Army, would be indispensibly necessary to keep the Communication for Supplic open to our Troops before the Place, and to awe and hinder the Marattas from harrassing and impeding the Besiegers: These are Considerations that ought to militate against attempting, with sewak an Armament, either the Attack of Gwalior, or penetrating too far into the Enemy's Districts The Dissibility before the Mud Fort of Lahaar are convincing Arguments of the Folly, under the present Circumstance, of attacking Gwalior. But I was obliged to refuse complying with the Rana Desires, and Captain Popham's Indent also, on other unsurmountable Grounds: Our Inability rendered it impossible to furnish the material Article of Stores expressed in the Indent; viz. Twe Eighteen Pounders and One Mortar of Ten or Eight Inches. There is not a Gun of that Calibre or Mortar of Size, either at Futty Ghur or Cawnpore; nor could I have ordered them from Chunar without dismantling the Garrison; the Situation there is much below the common Exigencies of tha Garrison, and the contingent Wants to be guarded against at the Brigade Field Stations.

The Situation of our Stores I have explained to you fully in my Letter of the 21st ultimo. Thoug this is a Subject of the first Consequence, I have not received any Answer to that Letter.

My public Accounts say, that the Ranah is so beset with Black Chiefs and Sirdars, whose Opinion are hostile to our Interests, and that they work so powerfully on the Ranah's Mind, that he is bot pussillanimous in his own Councils, and irresolute in executing what is recommended him by us.

I foresee the Business of Ghod to be beset with disgraceful Difficulties; but sincerely hope I shall be mistaken in the Consequences I have at present Reason to apprehend.

Captain Popham's Account that Gongador of Culpee, Luchmun Pundit of Jaasie, with the Dettiah Rajah, are expected to join the Marattas against us with about Ten Thousand Horse and some Guns, is to be considered; his Representation of the Utility of ordering some of our Battalions to the Assistance of the Sumpter Rajah, I do not think myself authorized by any Means to attend to. Any Reinforcement for the immediate Assistance of the Ranah, required by him, I should comply with, in Consequence of the Spirit of the Treaty; but as to ordering other Detachments to second his Objects by making a Diversion in another Quarter, I must wave entering so deeply into his Politics, without the positive Order of Government; nor can I suppose it to be your Ideas, that the Company's Troops are to be divided and subdivided into small Detachments sent to protect the Territories and sight the Battles of the Petty Rajahs of Indostan. Had it been thought advisable by Government to have ordered a respectable Army to have crossed the Jumma, and penetrated into the Enemy's Dominions during the last cold Season, I may venture to affirm that the War would at this Minute have borned more favourable Aspect than it now presents; and that the Expence of the Armament could have been secured from the Enemy's Country, with many other Advantages obtained, both for the Credit and Emolument of the Company.

Uninformed of your Plan of Politics, and no Latitude given me to execute what might appear of me proper at a Time of Exigency, I shall, while up the Country, confine myself to guarding our of Districts from Insult and Invasion. As to the Scene on the other Side of the Jumma, your positive Orders and the Ranah of Ghod's Demands for Troops and Stores that can be procused and spared.

supported even by a less Number of Cavalry than the Ten thousand which I have required to join

As you are placed by the Treaty under the Command of the Rhanah of Ghohud, I can give you no Instructions how to act, further than that you will support the Dignity of the Service to the utmote of your Power; and for your Guidance, I think it necessary to give you a Copy of the Treaty entered into with the Rhanah of Ghohud; I herewith inclose it. My Instructions are, that you do not on any Account cross the Jumma till the Rhanah has sent the Ten thousand Horse, or such a Number as you think sufficient to cover the Junction of your Detachment with the Rhanah's Army.

You must be certain that a sufficient Force is ready to join you on the other Side of the Jumma, previous to your croffing your Detachment.

To Captain Popham, Commanding a Detachment of the Army.

Ordered, That the Paymaster General do transmit to the Paymaster of Captain Popham's Detachment, the necessary Instructions for adjusting the Subsidy to be paid by the Rhanah of Ghohud, to the Proportion that the estimated Expence of that Detachment bears to that specified in the

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to Captain Popham.

We have received your Letter of the 12th February. It is our Orders, that you demand from the Rhanah the regular and punctual Payment of the Subfidy at every Period at which it shall become due; and as the Corps which compose your Detachment differ considerably in their Strength and Form from regular Battalions, we have directed the Military Paymaster General to transmit the necessary Instructions to the Paymaster of your Detachment, for adjusting the Amount of the Subsidy accordingly, of which you will apprize the Rhanah, to prevent his entertaining any improper Suspicions on this Account.

READ the following Letter from the Commander in Chief.

In consequence of Information received this Day from Captain Popham, respecting the Detachment under his Command, its Situation, and the alarming Probability of our Arms being difgraced, by not being able to carry the Point undertaken, I think it necessary to make you acquainted immediately with the Circumstance. The Rana of Ghod by virtue of those extensive Powers vested in him over our Troops by Treaty, has carried our Arms across the Scind into the Maratta District of Cutchoowagaar, and by false Information held out to Captain Popham, of the Strength of Lahaar, induced him to appear before and attack that strong Hold.

The Detachment was not equipped for Sieges. Four Battalions and their Guns was the Extent of the Rana's Requisition, to drive the Marattas out of his Districts, where they were found extending the Ravages of War, both by Fire and Sword. Captain Popham's Detachment, formed of Cavalry, European Artillery, and Sepoys, answered in Force superior to his the Rana's Demands; and the Marattas quitting Ghod on their Approach, evinced they were equal to the original Service meant

It is of the greatest Moment to us in this Country, not to suffer even our own ambitious Views to lead us to undertake any Military Measure but what we are almost sure of carrying. Our acknow-ledged Superiority is to be preserved only by adopting well-digested Plans, executed with invincible Force and Rapidity. We should not attempt offensive Enterprizes, but when found political Interest REP. VI.

P ENDIX,

" the Defence of the Rana's Dominions against all foreign or domestic Enemies, and for the Enlarge " ment of his Dominions by Conquest on the Marattas."

It was far from our Intention to allow the Rana a Right to determine the Strength of the Detachment that should be sent to his Assistance; and it was as far from our Conception, that he could be reampetent Judge of such a Subject; this was the proper Consideration and Province of the Officer to whom the Requilition was made: Such is the necessary Construction of the Treaty itself; or if it could have admitted a Doubt, our Letter to you of the 6th of December, which conveyed to you the first Information of the Treaty, and our subsequent Letter of the 17th of February, contain to clear and decided an Explanation of it, that we cannot help expressing our Surprise, that you should still misunderstand it; we will quote both Passages at large.

. " In the mean Time, should the Rana make any Application to you for a Detachment of the Com-" pany's Forces to act against the Marattas, we request that you will comply with his Requisition, proportioning the Number of Troops to the Exigency of the Service on which they are fent."

"We do not know whether the Rana has yet made any Application to you, for a Detachment of " our Troops to affift him; but if he shall, we think it proper to repeat our Injunctions, that such " a Portion as you shall deem sufficient to perform the Service proposed, be immediately granted; and we " hope, if any Requisition has already been made to you for this Purpose, that you will have complied " with it previous to the Receipt of this Letter."

We have marked in the above Quotations, the Words which expressly refer to your Judgment, the relative Strength of the Detachment to the Services which it was to perform; nor in whatever Terms the Rana's Application was worded, could that warrant a Deviation from fuch clear Injunctions, and from the Rights and Obligations of a formal Treaty.

It is true that the Rana's Demand, as you have stated it, prescribes the Expulsion of the Marattas from his Country, as the only Service to be performed by the Detachment; and to this you affert it to have been equal, though not equipped for Sieges: But we understand that the Territory of Gohud contains a Multitude of Fortresses, some of which were, or might be in the Possession of the Marattas; and therefore required that the Detachment should have been equipped for Sieges, to enable it to perform the Services affigned to it, the Expulsion of the Marattas from that Country; and your Instructions to Captain Popham, by enjoining his Obedience to fuch further Demands as the Rana might make in virtue of the Treaty, did in Effect extend the Operations of the Detachment beyond the Line to which you understand it to have been limited; even to remote and offensive Hostilities, if the Rana required them, and the Strength of the Detachment was equal to them.

You will permit us therefore to remark, either that the Operations of the Detachment should have been reflucted to its original and professed Design, until it should have been fitted for more difficult Services, or it should have been immediately qualified for them. We mean not to retort, but to repel the Censures which have been cast upon us. In Deference to your Station and Professional Knowledge, we contented ourselves with requiring your Conformity to the Treaty, leaving the Mode and Detail wholly to your Choice and Direction; and we to cautiously avoided every Act which might be deemed an Encroachment on your Department, that we have not even to this Date conveyed any Instructions to Captain Popham for his Military Conduct, little expecting to be reproached by you with the Infufficiency of your own Measures, in the Profecution of the Service which we had thus generally and liberally entrusted to your Charge. We now proceed to your Second Charge; to which our Reply shall be as short as conclusive.

The Plans formed by this Government for the Conduct of the War, in which we might eventually be, and in which we have fince been actually engaged, with the Marattas, were debated and concluded by the Members of this Government, affifted by yourfelf in Person, nor have since undergone any Alteration or Addition, except in the Treaty of Alliance formed with the Rana of Gohud, with which you have been duly and fully acquainted: We have not therefore withheld from you the Information of our Plan for the Conduct of the Maratta War. And to your Letter of the 6th January we returned atull and explicit Answer, in ours of the 24th of the same Month. As a Proof of this Assertion, we shall here subjoin Copies both of your Letter to us, and ours to you, of the preceding Dates; and with them close the Subject; expressing our Regret that we have been reduced to the Necessity of taying fo much upon Arguments of a Tendency fo foreign from the Interests of the Service, the Duties of our Stations, or the Respect to which we are entitled by them, whether as equal Members of the same Administration, or as your Superiors in the actual Relation which subsists between us.

Copy of a Letter from Lieutenant General Sir Copy of a Letter to Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Eyre Coote, dated the 6th, and received the 20th January 1780.

Gentlemen,

1 am just honoured with your Letter of the 23d ultimo, enclosing to me a Copy of Brigadier General Goddard's Letter of the 28th October, and giving me discretional Powers for ordering the March of Captain Popham's Detachment.

REP. VL

Coote, dated the 24th January 1780.

We have been favoured with your Letters, dated the 2d, 3d, and 6th Instant.

When we transmitted you a Copy of General Goddard's Letter to us, under Date the 28th of October, we should also have imparted to you our Resolutions upon it, had we formed any?

A P P E N D I X, N° 285.

It appears to me, by General Goddard's Letter, (the Contents of which I own I feel myself disappointed in, as by his Correspondence with me I had been led to a very different Expectation) that a War with the Marattas is inevitable, unless you chuse to comply with the Terms upon which they offer you Peace.

In this Situation of Affairs, I cannot but express fome Uneasiness, that the Information you give me is not accompanied by your Resolutions in what Manner we are to proceed; whether you hold it best to accede to their Propositions for Peace, to commence an active and vigorous War, or to stand merely on the Desensive against them.

The First or Second of these require the most speedy Determination, lest the Appearance of a French Force, which we have much Reason to expect, should heighten their Demands in the one Case, or add Strength to the Union already formed among themselves in the other.

I hardly need observe to you, Gentlemen, that the Circumstances we are in, both at Home and here, require from us the most immediate, decided, and united Measures; and that in a Correspondence carried on at this Distance from the Presidency, it is absolutely necessary, if we would avoid Delays which may prove fatal to our Assairs, that I should receive your Opinions upon Events of Importance as speedily as the Information itself.

For Want of it in the present critical Moment, I can do no more than endeavour to procure from the Vizier, and to collect together, what little of heavy Artillery is to be met with in these Quarters. Our Army here is wholly unprovided with them, as well as almost every other Military Store.

as well as almost every other Military Store.

Captain Popham's Detachment is ready to march. The Undertaking will now be a hazardous one, and cannot be effected without moving an Army cross the Jumna, to cover and screen his Motions, by calling off the Powers and Attention of the Enemy; and it may at the same Time prove a Check to them in collecting the large Sums they are actually employed in raising among the tributary Princes there, the Amount of which I shall very soon obtain exact Information of.

This, together with a well-timed Co-operation on General Goddard's Part, to accelerate and facilitate their Junction, can alone give Hopes of their making good our Aim; but neither this nor any Thing else can be attempted, until your definitive Resolutions are given, as to Peace, a vigorous War, or a defensive one.

General Goddard's Request, at the Close of his Letter, I must pointedly object to, as the granting it will undoubtedly encrease that Confusion in the Army which I have been endeavouring to the utmost to relieve them from.

I enclose a Return of the Army under General Goddard, upon a Supposition that the Madras Detachment may have joined him.

Fort William, the 15th May, 1780.

but a precise Line of Conduct having been already laid down for General Goddard, in our Instructions to him, which provided for the Event of Hostilities, General Goddard having informed when he saw a War was unavoidable, that he will going to Bombay to concert the Means of carrying it on to Advantage; and as the Plan of his Operations, whatever it might be, must be governed in a great Measure by local and incidental Circumstances, which we could neither foresee nor have any timely Acquaintance with, we thought it unnecessary to take any further Steps upon the Occasion of his Letter.

We have now received a further Letter from General Goddard, dated 10th December, informing us of his Return to Surat, after having settled the Plan of his future Operations; for the Particulars of which he refers us to Papers omitted to be enclosed in this Letter, which is a Duplicate. Our Secretary informs us, that he has forwarded a Copy of it to you, and in order to complete your Information, we now transmit you a Draft of our intended Reply.

We are of Opinion, that the Season is too far advanced to admit of a Junction between Captain Popham's Detachment and the Forces commanded by General Goddard, and that the March of this Detachment to the other Side of India is therefore no longer advisable. But we think that it may be useful on the Western Frontier of the Vizier's Dominions, either to repel an Invasion from the Marattas, if they should attempt to enter at that Quarter, or to proceed against them on the Western Side of the Jumna, if it should be found expedient to send a Force for that Purpose: We therefore recommend its continuing still embodied.

We are, &c.

Minutes on the Letter to Sir Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis—On the Principles of the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Gohud, I think the Experimental Commander in the former Part of this Letter are just.

Commander in Chief, I entirely concur. Supposing the Board to place the most implicit Considence of Commander in Chief, and to be supposing the Board to place the most implicit Considence. in the Commander in Chief, and to be ever so desirous of availing themselves of his Advice, I do not see how it is possible to concert political Measures, or Plans of Military Operations, which in their Nature require Secrefy as well as Discussion, at so great a Distance as that of Calcutta from Lucknow.

Mr. Wheler-I approve of the above Letter to the Commander in Chief, as far as it may not eppear in any Part of it to contradict the Opinions which I have before delivered on the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Gohud.

Agreed that another Letter be also written to Sir Eyre Coote, as follows:

To Sir Eyre Coote.

We cannot but exceedingly lament the Loss of those brave Officers, whose Example animated the advancing Party at the Attack of the Fort of Lahaar, and of the Men who fell on that Occasion. We attribute these Losses solely to the Circumstance of Captain Popham's Detachment not being provided with battering Cannon, to destroy the Desences of the Fort; and must therefore request that you will order under a proper Escort Two Eighteen Pounders from Chuna Ghur, with their Proportion of Ammunition and Stores, to join Captain Popham, whenever you shall receive Advice from him, that he is required by the Rana of Gohud to perform any Service which shall render them neceffary.

Fort William, 15th May, 1780. We are, &c.

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to Captain Popham:

To Captain Popham.

Sir,

We have received your Letter of the 29th April, informing us of the Capture of the Fort of Lahaar by Storm, on the 28th of the same Month.

We with Pleasure assure you of our entire Approbation of your Conduct, and desire that you will in Public Orders return our Thanks to the Officers under your Command, and in particular, to Captains M'Clarey and Mayaffre, and to Lieutenant Cameron, for their gallant Behaviour in this Service, and to the Troops in general, for their spirited, steady, and Soldier-like Conduct, both on this Occasion, and during the whole Course of the present Expedition.

The Commander in Chief has transmitted to us an Account of the successful Attack which was made by Captain Bruce on the Enemy's Camp, on the Morning of the 16th of April; the Regularity and Spirit with which this Enterprize appears to have been conducted, has impressed us with a high Opinion of Captain Bruce's Abilities as an Officer, and of the Discipline as well as Bravery of the Troops which he commanded. We defire that you will express to Captain Bruce our Approbation of his Services, and return our Thanks to him and his Party, in Public Orders, for their gallant Behaviour on this Occasion.

We have read with Pleasure your Report of Mr. Odell's good Behaviour, and as a Reward to his Merit, we have appointed him a Cornet of Cavalry, in the room of Mr. Gardiner, to rank as an Ensign in the general Line of the Army, from the 28th ultimo.

Much as we are pleased with the Gallantry of our Troops at the Assault of the Fort of Lahaar, we cannot but exceedingly regret the Loss of those brave Oslicers, whose Example animated the advancing Party, and of the Men who fell on that Occasion. We attribute these Losses solely to the Circumstance of your not being provided with Battering Cannon, to destroy the Defences of the Fort; and we have therefore requested the Commander in Chief to order Two Eighteen Pounders, with their Proportion of Ammunition and Stores, to join your Detachment under a proper Efcort, whenever he shall receive Advice from you, of your being required by the Rana of Gohud to perform any Service which shall render them necessary.

We defire that you will deliver over to the Rana the Fort of Lahaar, with the Possession of the Dulies of Cutchooagaar dependant on it, and that you will appoint a Person duly qualified, in Conjunction with One nominated by him for the same Purpose, to ascertain the Amount of the Revenues yielded by the District of Cutchooagaar, from the Accounts of the actual Collections, employing fuch Checks as your own Judgment shall dictate, to prevent any Collusion in this Enquiry; and for this Purpose also, we desire that you will cause exact Copies to be taken of the original Accounts, and transmit them to us, with your Report of the Amount deduced from them.

We are, &c. &c.

Fort William, the 15th May 1780.

A RETURN of the Killed and Wounded of the different Corps of the Detachment of Drafts, under the Command of Captain Popham, during the Siege and at the Storm of Fort Lahaar, April 30th 178c.

APPENDIX, N° 285.

Received the following Letter from Sir Eyre Coote:

Gentlemen,

I have before me your Three separate Letters, of Date the 15th May: That which is in Artiser to the 21st March, 26th April, and 1st May, it seems necessary only to acknowledge the Receipt of; but as the other Two can be considered in no other Light, than as an absolute Attack on me in my Military Character, I think it necessary to reply to them minutely, under defferent Heads.

I flatter myself the whole Tenor of your Charges will be so easily consuted, that I shall have only to refer to your former Orders, to the Treaty with the Ranah of Ghode, and his Requisition for Troops in consequence of the said Treaty, to prove that I acted up to the Spirit, as well as to the Letter of the Mandates of Government.

In order to be more distinct, I shall first take up the Subject of that Letter which is in Answer to mine of the 21st April. Notwithstanding the deep Concern and Surprize you are pleased to express at my venturing to produce before your Board those Sentiments, which as they are to be found in the Letter alluded to, it becomes unnecessary here to repeat; yet I most undoubtedly think, that I am warranted, not only to make you acquainted with my Ideas on the past and present, but also with my Opinion on what is likely to happen. If a Member of Government, who is at the Head of the Company's Army, is to be denied this most necessary Mode of contributing his Exertions for the Good of his Employers, the Advantages they can derive from his Services are limited indeed.

Your first Argument is thus expressly worded: "That I have accused the Board of having engaged Captain Popham's Detachment in a Service to which it was unequal." Acknowledging however, that I have not directly expressed the Charge, but that it is too strongly and evidently implied by the whole Tenor of my Letter, to admit of your putting any other Construction on the Expressions which mark it with that Tendency; such Conclusions drawn from what I have not said, but what you suppose my Meaning, I shall wave a Reply to: My other real Avocations oblige me to avoid entering on such an ideal Detail. I did and do again state, that the Detachment was not equipt for Sieges; and that the Ranah of Gohud never even hinted by Requisition or otherways, to me, that they were meant to be employed on such Undertakings: No Mention was made of attacking Forts, or the Necessity of a battering Train declared, till the 11th of April, at which Period the Detachment had for some Days invested Lahaar.

It was impossible to suppose, that the Ranah requiring heavy Cannon on the 11th April, could mean them for the Reduction of Lahaar, an Enterprize already begun; the Conclusion would have been too ridiculous, when it is explained that the nearest heavy Guns to that Fortress could not have reached the Detachment in less than Two Months, (and for the Truth of this, permit me to appeal to your own Knowledge, that there is not a single Piece of battering Cannon with the Field Brigades.) No, his declared Object in demanding a battering Train then, was to attempt Gwalior during the ensuing Rains: That Requisition of the Ranah's I immediately informed you of; and as I have now only received your Instructions in consequence of it, no Time has been lost on my Part.

The Purport of the Ranah's Letters to me, previous to my ordering Captain Popham on that Service, were, that his Country was over-run with the Marattas; not a Word mentioned of their being possessed of any of his strong Holds, but describing them as a Body of Horse, plundering and laying waste his Districts. The Soldier on such an Application naturally equips the Force to repel such an Enemy as lightly as possible; and does not but them with a battering Train, which would inevitably counteract their very Design, Dispatch and Celerity of March in the Field.

The Ranah's Idea of quitting his Ghode District, crossing the Scind, and appearing before Lahaar, was sudden; and the public Intelligence that such was his Intention, was immediately followed by Accounts, that the Army was before the Place.

The Ranah did deceive Captain Popham, and the Fort was found much stronger than reported; otherwise it is impossible to suppose an Officer of Character could have depended on Six Pounders, for taking off the Defences, or breaching such Walls. Another strong Reason might also before have been given for my not encumbering the Detachment with any thing but light Field Artillery, even had it been in my Power to do it; I could not imagine that the Ranah was so totally defenceless in Ordnance, but that his Forts and strong Holds could have supplied a few Pieces of battering Cannon.

I mean not to make any Remarks on the Treaty with the Ranah of Gohud, but it is absolutely necessary to point out what seems required by you, Gentlemen, for my Justification. In order to prove that I have complied as far as rested with me, both with the Letter and Sprit of it, I need no other Evidences than the 2d Article of the Treaty which you quote; your Explanation of what was your Intention and Meaning, apparent or conclusive, in such 2d Article; and your own Orders, by Letters dated 6th December and 17th February, to shew, that I complied in sull with the Word and Spirit of all and every Act of Government laid down for my Guidance. The Ranah made his Demand for Troops on the 5th February, and explained what Service the Troops were designed for; I accordingly used my Judgment, in sending such a Detachment immediately as I thought sufficient to perform the Service proposed. But the Ranah's sudden Plans which he meant to adopt after the Rep. VI.

Junction of our Detachment with him, I could neither foresee, or am answerable for. My Orders to Captain Popham were discretionary, with a Copy of the Treaty for his Guidance; all others that I could have given him, must have impeded rather than furthered the Service. I must observe, that when any Force demanded by the Ranah, and ordered by the Commander in Chief, has at length joined the Army of the former, the Commander in Chief, at a Distance from their Operations cannot be answerable for the Mode of carrying on that Service; nor can the Term of the Company Commanding Officer, fo often made use of in the Treaty, have in like Instances any Reference to the Commander in Chief of the Forces; the Sense will not admit being strained to such a Meaning. The Explanation of the Company's Commanding Officer then, is the Officer who absolutely heads the Detachment; for on Service to be performed against an Enemy, who are there To-day and gone Tomorrow, it would feem strangely inconsistent in me, to tie up their Operations, by making them wait my Authority for their different Movements; I might with equal Expectation of Success, issue my Orders from Calcutta as from hence, fince it takes Ten Days at least to get an Answer to a Letter from them.

You say that "the Operations of the Detachment should have been restricted to its original and " professed Design, until it should have been sitted for more difficult Services, or, it should have been im-"mediately qualified for them." I repeat again, that the First Intimation I had of the intended Attack of Lahaar, was immediately followed by a Second, that the Troops were before the Fort: And would you have advised, after the Place had been invested and attacked Ten Days, (the necessary Time for my Orders reaching them, in consequence of the Information received) that the Siege should have been raised, and the Troops ordered to retire? The Service, hazardous and precanous as it was, appeared preferable to such Measures. The Ranah, I must own, has been very moderate in his Demands of Assistance, when his Powers by Treaty are considered. And in Answer to your Inference drawn on the Quotation of my Letter, that I feem to have mistaken the Sense of the 2d Article; and that I suppose the Ranah is invested with the Power of prescribing the Strength of the Party required for his Affistance; you must permit me to say, those are by no Means my Ideas; that Part of the 2d Article which is in Point, will not admit of Two Constructions; but, that I may be thoroughly understood, the Sense and Meaning of the Article alluded to I take to be as follows: That let the Ranah's Views and Designs be ever so unlimited, if he makes a Demand for Troops, Artillery, &c. and specifies the Service meant to be performed, and the Commander in Chief is of Opinion, that the Operations mentioned cannot with Advantage be carried on without even our whole Force in these Parts, every Man and Store ought, by Faith of Treaty, instantly to move at the Requisition of the Ranah of Ghode. The Service to be attempted depends upon the Ranah's Will, must be particularly specified by him, and the Troops capable of undertaking such Service with Advantage, is the Commander in Chief's Detail.

To your Candour I submit the above, and expect from your Justice, that you exonerate me from that Reproach so unmeritedly cast on me.

The Truth is, the Ranah of Ghode appears vested with Powers which he has already misapplied, in with-holding his real Defign from the Commander in Chief, and demanding Troops for one Service when it is evident he meant them for another.

Your Reply to what you term my Second Charge against you, viz. That you have with-held from me the Information of your Plans for the Conduct of the Maratta War, and that you have not answered in full my Letter to you of the 6th of December states, That there has been no Alteration or Addition to what passed in Council on that Subject when I was present at the Board, except the Treaty with the Ranah of Ghode; and that your Answer of the 24th January was a full one to mine of the 6th December. To the first Part I undoubtedly subscribe, that if no Alteration had taken place you consequently could not inform me of any; I shall only observe, that when I left the Board, a Treaty of Peace with the Marattas was in Agitation, and looked forward to as likely to be effected, though the necessary Preparations for War were still carrying on; but when I had the Honour to address you on the 6th December, the Prospect of Peace, from the Terms demanded of us, seemed to be thrown to a Distance; and in consequence of that material Change in our Situation it was, that I put to the Board those essential and reasonable Questions, Whether your Supreme Board meant to pursue the Line of Peace or War? and if the latter, whether it was to extend to the Operations of a vigorous one, or the more confined Scale of Defences? And in respect to your Assertion, that these were fully answered in your Letter of the 24th January, I must beg Leave to disser with you in Opinion; at least I cannot fee it in that Light.

To your Third Letter, wherein you attribute our Losses before Lahaar solely to the Circumstance of Captain Popham's Detachment not being provided with battering Cannon, to take off the Defences of the Fort, I should think it necessary to answer most circumstantially, had I not already spoken fully, and I hope satisfactorily, upon it in my Reply to your Second Letter; and as I am clear, from what I have already faid, that our Superiors will allow the Force of the Reasons advanced by me, and exculpate me from all Blame on that Head; fo also am I induced to believe, that your Board will no longer hold me chargeable with either Misinterpretation of Orders, or any Omission in the Equipment of the Detachment required and fent for the Assistance of the Ranah of Ghode.

I am forry I have been obliged to be fo prolix upon the above Subjects; but what I owe my own Military Character, which is dearer to me than Life itself, rendered it necessary, that I should not submit to undescreed Accusations, or permit avowed Charges to remain unanswered.

PPENDIX. Nº 286.

I have sent the necessary Order to the Commandant of the Garrison of Chunar to hold Two Eighteen Pounders, their Ammunition and Stores, in Readiness to proceed, whenever Captain Popham shall acquaint me that he is required by the Ranah of Ghode to perform any Service that shall render them necessary: Lucknow, 7th June, 1780.

I have the Honour, &c. (Signed) Eyre Coote.

Ordered, That this Letter lie for Consideration.

PPEN D I X, N° 286.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 29th May 1780.

THE Governor General delivers in the following Minute and Propositions:

The Governor General—The Commander in Chief has repeatedly declared, that the Detachment now at Ghode, under the Command of Captain Popham, is unequal to the Services in which it has been employed, and of course much more unequal to that in which the Rana is desirous of engaging it. Such has also been the declared Opinion of the Board; it is in its present Form, as has already been observed, irreconcileable with the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Ghode, which apportions the Rate of Subfidy which he is to pay for fuch Military Aid as is afforded him by this Government to Battalions of Sepoys on their present Establishment.

It will be recollected, that Captain Popham's Detachment was formed for a very different Service from that in which it is now employed; consisting of 2000 Drasts, 40 European Artillery, a small Party of Horse, with Four light Six Pounders and a Howitzer: This Force was extremely well calculated for the Service originally intended to have been performed by it, and as ill calculated for the present. Instead of Four regular Battalions of 800 Rank and File each, with Eight Guns, the Rana has been furnished with Four weak Corps of 600 Men each, Four Guns and a Howitzer, and a Body of Horse, which he neither wanted nor applied for, and which he will probably object to admit into the Account of his Subfidy.

On the Requisition from the Four Captains who command the Drafts in Gohud, to be permitted to encrease their present Corps to Battalions, the General observes to us, "That those Sepoy Drafts " are supernumerary to the Establishment; and presumes Government has no Idea of augmenting " their Number, by completing them to the Strength of Four regular Battalions." For these Reasons, and from a Desire to contract our Expences by every reasonable Means, I submit to the Board the following Propositions:

1st. That Captain Popham's Detachment be relieved by Four regular Battalions of Sepoys, with their Guns, &c. Three Battalions from Cawnpore, and the Battalion of light Infantry at Chaekye.

2d. That Captain Popham when relieved shall march to Cawnpore: The Sepoys to be incorporated into such of our Battalions as may be in Want of Men, the Cavalry to join their Corps; the Artillery to be disposed of as the Commander in Chief shall judge proper; and the Officers belonging to the Army in Guzerat to join it by such Routes as they shall judge most practicable.

3d. That the Staff Officers of Captain Popham's Detachment shall be ordered to do Duty, and to hold their present Appointments, in the Detachment which shall relieve them.

4th. That the Battalion of Light Infantry, commanded by Captain James Browne, be ordered to march immediately to Gohud.

5th. That Major Camac be ordered to proceed immediately to Gohud, or wherefoever the Detachment may be which is to relieve Captain Popham, and to take the Command of it.

6th. That the Bullocks attached to the Guns of the Battalion and Stores, and the Eighteen Pounders ordered to join Captain Popham's Detachment, be furnished by the Contractor, from his present Establishment.

7th. That as a confiderable Time will be loft, if the Resolutions of the Board respecting Major Camac, and the Battalion of Light Infantry, are carried into Effect through the official Channel of the Commander in Chief, who did not propose leaving Lucknow, until the Commencement of the Rains:

That the Orders to Major Camac and Captain Browne be immediately fent from the Agreed,

Board, and issued in General Orders. 8th. That a Copy of these Resolutions be immediately transmitted to the Commander in Chief; and that he be requested to issue the necessary Orders for forming the Detachment at Cawnpore, which is to relieve Captain Popham's.

A P P E N D I X, N° 286.

I shall now beg Leave to offer a few Remarks on these Propositions.

By relieving Captain Popham's Detachment with Four regular Battalions, we strictly comply with the Terms of the Treaty, and the Rana's Requisition. It will prove a Reduction of our Expences as the Battalions now proposed for this Service are at present upon a War Establishment, and the Subsidy will, or ought to defray every Expence of the Detachment.

Subfidy will, or ought to defray every Expence of the Detachment.

By employing Captain Browne's Battalion on this Service, we render a Corps formed for active Service of real Use: At present it is in Cantonment, as the Purposes for which it was originally railed have been long fince accomplished, and the Districts to which it principally appertained, have been placed under the Controul of the Collector of Boglepore. Captain Crawford's Corps, which by the Regulations is to be completed to the Strength of a Battalion, (which it may by a Part of the Drafts ordered now to be relieved from Gohud) will be fully sufficient for the Protection of Ramgur, and the Jungulterry of Chackye.

With respect to Major Camac, I shall briefly observe, that I have recommended him for the Command of the Detachment which is to be employed in Gohud, because he belongs to the Brigade which is to furnish the principal Force of which it will consist; because I know him to be peculiarly qualified for a Service of this Nature to which such Requisites are essential, and because I believe that the other Members of the Board entertain a fimilar Opinion of him.

Agreed to the Propositions recommended by the Governor General; and that the following Letter be written to the Commander in Chief:

To Sir Eyre Coote.

Sir,

We have received your Letters of the 5th, 11th, and 15th Instant.

We agree with you in Opinion, that the Detachment now at Gohud, under the Command of Captain Popham, is not equal to the Service on which it has been employed, and yet less to that in which the Rana is desirous of engaging it.

For these Reasons, and from a Desire to contract our Expences as much as possible, we have resolved, First, That Captain Popham's Detachment be relieved by Four regular Battalions of Sepoys, with their Guns, &c. viz. Three Battalions from Cawnpore, and the Battalion of Light Infantiy at Chackye.

Second. That Captain Popham when relieved, shall march to Cawnpore; the Sepoys to be incorporated into such of our Battalions as may be in want of Men; the Cavalry to join their Corps; the Artillery to be disposed of as the Commander in Chief shall judge proper; and the Officers belonging to the Army in Guzerat to join it by such Routes as they shall judge most practicable.

Third. That the Staff Officers of Captain Popham's Detachment shall be ordered to do Duty, and to hold their present Appointments, in the Detachment which shall relieve them.

Fourth. That the Battalion of Light Infantry commanded by Captain James Browne be ordered to march immediately to Gohud.

Fifth. That Major Camac be ordered to proceed immediately to Gohud, or wherefoever the Detachment may be which is to relieve Captain Popham, and to take the Command of it.

Sixth. That the Bullocks attached to the Guns of the Battalions and Stores, and to the 18 Pounders ordered to join Captain Popham's Detachment, be furnished by the Contractor from his present Establishment.

And we desire that you will be pleased to give the necessary Instructions for carrying these our Resolutions into immediate Essect; but as a considerable Time would be lost were the Orders to Major Camac, and to Captain Browne commanding the Battalion of Light Insantry, to pass through you, we have directed our Secretary to communicate them immediately to those Officers.

Warren Hastings.
P. Francis.
Edw⁴ Wheler.

Extract of Bengal Secret Confultations, 12th June 1780.

Extract of the Governor General's Minute.

By the proposed Plan of Operations, the Subsidy which we have hitherto received from the Rana of Gohud will cease: All that we can require of him, will be to join our Forces with the Quota of his Troops stipulated by the Treaty; it will therefore become necessary to provide a military Fund for the Payment of this Detachment. I propose to the Board, that as the Season is now approaching in which our Demand upon Rajah Cheyt Sing, for the Payment of his annual Contribution towards the Expences of the War, should be made, we do immediately instruct our Resident of Benares to apply to him for the Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees, which Sum I propose shall be appropriated solely to the Payment of Major Camac's Detachment.

If the Board agree to this Plan, it will be necessary to make some Alterations in our late Orders, and these I shall reduce to distinct Propositions.

1st. That the Order for the Return of Captain Popham's Detachment be countermanded.

2d. That

APPENDIX, Nº 286.

2d. That the Sepoy Drafts of that Detachment be immediately formed into Three regular Battalions.

That the Three senior Captains now with the Detachment, be appointed to the Command of these · 34-Pattalions; and that the Commander in Chief be requested to issue the necessary Orders for comhating them with subaltern and native Officers.

4th. That to complete these Battalions with their Proportion of Ordnance, Two Six Pounders be added to the Guns now with Captain Popham's Detachment.

5th. That these Battalions be added to the Detachment already ordered to be put under the Command of Major Camac, and the Whole formed into a separate Corps during the Continuance of the present Service.

6th. That in Addition to the Guns attached by the Regulations to each Battalion of Sepoys upon Service, Two Twelve Pounders, the Howitzer now with Captain Popham's Detachment, and Two Cohorns, be ordered to join Major Camac's Detachment.

7th. That the Board of Ordnance be requested to issue Orders for supplying Major Camac's Detachment with the abovementioned Ordnance, and the Proportion of Ammunition and Stores agreeable to the Establishment, either from Cawnpore, or either of the Military Stations contiguous

8th. That a Brigade Major and an Aid de Camp be added to the Staff of Major Camac's Detachment, in consequence of the additional Strength of it.

9th. That the Secretary be directed to draw out Instructions for Major Camac from the preceding Minute.

I entreat the Board to give me their Support in the Profecution of this Plan. If they have been from its Commencement averse to the War, let them join with me in prosecuting it with Vigour to its speedy Termination. If they consider themselves as free from the Responsibility of it, let them allow me to acquit myself of mine. I wish I could venture my Life upon the Consequences: I know the Man who is to conduct it; and am certain that if the Design is practicable, he will execute it to its fullest Effect; nor am I fearful of the Inference which this Declaration may draw upon me for the future Event of it.

Ordered, That the Opinions of the different Members of the Board be taken upon this Subject in Circulation.

> Warren Hastings. P. Francis. Edw Wheler.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 19th June 1780.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Philip Francis, } Esquires. Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, absent:

Read, and approved the Proceedings of the 12th instant.

Meffrs. Francis and Wheler having delivered in the Minute which follows, on the 15th inflant, it was immediately fent to the Governor General.

Minute from Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheler.

15th June 1780. Convinced as we are of the indispensable Necessity of bringing the present War, if possible, to a speedy Conclusion, we shall heartily join in the Support of every Measure which appears to have Peace for its Object, and which carries with it any reasonable Prospect of Success. On this Principle, we agree with the Governor General, that it may be advisable to avail ourselves of the favourable Disposition of the Berar Government, and to invite the Rajah's Dewan to come for that Purpose to Calcutta. The Morives affigned for his late Conduct, and for the March of a Body of his Troops to Cuttack, are plaufible at least, and appear to be confirmed by the Delays with which it has been attended, and by their present Inactivity. The Desire he professes of becoming the Mediator of Peace between us and the Marattas feems likely to be fincere, because we believe it to be founded in the Confideration of his own Interest, and because it is conformable to the Language which he has uniformly held to us. We do not mean to fay, that Evidence of this Nature is to be implicitly depended upon; but it is now so essentially our Interest to secure the Friendship of Moodajee Boosla, or at least to prevent his acting against us, that we should think it imprudent to discover any Doubt of his Sincerity. It cannot be very difficult to maintain the Appearances of the most perfect Considence in his good Faith, without fuffering it to mislead us, or neglecting any of those Precautions which our Situation dictates, and which are never more necessary perhaps than in the Midst of Security.

We therefore agree with the Governor General in this Part of his Minute: But we find with extreme Concern, that it is impossible for us to give our Assent to the subsequent Proposition. The Reasons REP. VI.

Reasons for which we object to it, shall be stated briefly, without reviving former Arguments, or reslecting on any Thing that is past. Taking our Situation as it stands, we declare it to be our most deliberate Opinion, that a Peace is indispensably necessary to save the India Company, and every like terest connected with theirs, from the greatest Distress, if not from certain Ruin; and that at what ever Distance this Object may be, it is not practicable for us to continue the War on any Terms without a very considerable Reduction in the Expence of conducting it. In the former of their Opinions we have never varied; in the latter we are assured of the Governor General's Concurrence. On this general Ground, we object to the proposed Measure.

1st. Because it reverses a Resolution very lately passed with the unanimous Approbation of the Board, for recalling and reducing Captain Popham's Detachment; the extra Expences of which, beyond our regular Establishment, amounting to CR' 91,332 a Month would be saved, and their Place supplied by Four regular Battalions.

2d. Because by the proposed Plan of Operations, the Subsidy to be paid by the Rana of Gohad, and of which we believe no Part has hitherto been received, is to cease; and our Resources so far forth diminished.

3d. Because at a Time, when it is admitted that the War cannot be continued without a very considerable Reduction of Expence, we cannot, consistently with that Principle, engage in a Measure which supposes the contrary to be true; and which in our Judgment leads to an Addition of Expence, which we cannot limit when once it is begun, and which we are very sure this Government is not in a Condition to support. We have seen into what enormous Charges we have been drawn by the Detachment under General Goddard, the Strength of which does not exceed that proposed to be placed under Major Camac: We have seen the Expence of a Detachment of only Two thousand Drasts under Captain Popham, swelled to more than Ninety-one thousand Rupees a Month; and we firmly believe it to be an Evil inseparable from distant Military Operations in this Country, that the Charge of them can neither be limited nor controlled. We do not mean to dispute the Propriety of the Governor's personal Considence in Major Camac; but in our Minds, such implicit Considence cannot exist without Experience, much less in Opposition to that with which the Conduct of similar Expeditions has already furnished us. In this Observation, we allude only to the Expence that attends them.

4th. Because the proposed Anticipation of the Demand of Five Lacks from the Rajah of Benares, and the sole Appropriation of it to this Service, is no Relief of Expence or Increase of Resource, since the above Five Lacks make Part of our general Estimate of Resources for the Service of the current Year; and, if applied to any Service not provided for in the same Estimate, will leave a Desiciency which must be made good out of some other Fund.

5th. Because it appears to us, that the State of our Treasury is not in any Degree equal to the existing and encreasing Demands which press upon this Government: The apparent Balance on Monday last, including the Deposit in the New Fort, without which we should consider ourselves as totally unprovided for Measures of immediate Defence, if such should become necessary, amounted to no more than Current Rupees 42,09,453. Deduct the Deposit in the New Fort, and let the Account be stated as it will then stand, and as it ought to stand:

C'.	CR.	D'.	CR.
Remainder, after deducting the Sum in the New Fort	6,13,453	Deposits of private Pro-	14,87,958
•		Amount of Orders unpaid	20,86,949
Balance, or actual Debt } against the Treasury	31,35,453	Bills drawn by General Goddard unpaid	1,73,999
	37,48,906		37,48,906

This View of our Situation undoubtedly leads to other important Conclusions: That to which we mean to confine it at present is, that we are in no Condition to undertake new Expences; nor if our Treasury were better supplied than it is should we think it prudent to expose ourselves to the Demands of another Expedition, in the Plan of which we see no effential Difference from that which still exists under General Goddard.

6th. Because, admitting that all the preceding Objections on the Head of Expence could be answered or removed, we are not satisfied that the Plan itself would either end where it professes to be directed, or that this is the Season in which it ought to be attempted on its own avowed Principles. The declared Purpose of the Expedition is to invade Mhadjee Scindia's Country, and to attack his Capital, Ugein, in order to divert him from the War in Guzerat to the Defence of his own Territories. We understand and admit the Force of this Argument; though in our Judgment overbalanced by other Considerations, independant of which we should only object to the Time chosen for the Expedition, and to the unnecessary Charge of keeping up Captain Popham's Detachment. If it be meant to withdraw Mhadjee Scindia from the War in Guzerat, and to distract his Force and Attention from that Country to his own, it seems to us that the Attempt should be made as soon as possible after October, when General Goddard might be at Liberty to co-operate with it, and to favour its Success by a similar Divession on his Side; not in the Midst of the Rains, when General Goddard's Army is in Cantonments, and unable to take the Field. The manifest Advantage of having the Two Armies acting in concert, and dividing the Attention of the Enemy between them, would be loft, if they were not both in the Field at the same Time. But this, and every other Objection to the Measure, is in Fact removed by the Instructions which immediately follow it; and which, in our Opinion, are wholly inconsistent with the first proposed Object. Major Camac is to be entrusted with "a discretionary Power to remove the Force which the Maratta Government possesses in Culpee or Bundelcund " (and which is faid to be the only Obstacle to the main Design) by any Means, either by Negocia-" tion or Force." If it be true, as we are sure it is, "That the Maratta Power in that Country not very considerable, and that they who possess it are disaffected to the Government on which " they depend," fuch a Power can form no Obstacle to the Execution of the main Design; nor can we ever admit of the Validity of such a Pretence for invading Bundelcund, which we conclude would be the first, if not the only Effect of the Expedition. At all Events, the Latitude given to Major Camac leaves him at Liberty to purfue whatever Plan he thinks proper; but if, instead of proceeding towards Mhadjee Scindia, the March of this Detachment should once be directed by the opposite Route to the Capital of Bundelcund, he will naturally conclude, that the Possession of this Country is our true and only Object; of course he will have no Apprehensions for the Safety of his own.

For these Reasons we are of Opinion, that the Resolution of the Board of the 29th May, for the Recall and Reduction of Captain Popham's Detachment, &cc. should not be suspended.

The Minute which follows having been fent by the Governor General to the Secretary on Saturday, and having been circulated and agreed to, the proposed Orders were accordingly issued.

Governor General's Minute.

The Governor General—The Majority of the Board having rejected all the Propositions which were contained in my Minute of the 12th Instant, excepting the Sixth and Seventh, which do not appear to have been included in their Exception to the general Propositions, I now beg Leave to repeat them; and as it appears from the accompanying Letter from Captain Browne, that he has left his Field Pieces and Tumbrils behind him, I shall propose,

1st. That Captain Browne's Battalion, on its Arrival at Cawnpore, be compleated with its Proportion of Field Pieces, Ammunition and Stores, from the Ordnance at that Station.

2d. That in Addition to the Guns attached to the Battalions of Major Camac's Detachment by the Regulations, Two Twelve Pounders, the Howitzer with Captain Popham's Detachment, and Two Cohorns, be ordered to join it.

3d. That the Board of Ordnance be requested to iffue Orders for supplying Major Camac's Detachment with the above-mentioned Ordnance and their Proportion of European Artillery and Lascars, Ammunition and Stores, agreeable to the Establishment, either from Cawnpore or the Military Stations contiguous to it.

Warren Hastings. (Signed)

Agreed.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Draft of Instructions, which he proposes No. 6. Mr. Francisco to be given to Major Camac.

Instructions to Major Camac.

1st. Having appointed you to the Command of a Detachment, ordered to be formed of Four Battalions of Sepoys, Three of which are to be furnished from the Army stationed at Cawnpore, and the Fourth, the Battalion of Light Infantry, commanded by Captain James Browne; we direct you to proceed to Cawnpore, or to the Station of that Detachment, wherever it may be, and to conduct it without Loss of Time into the Dominions of the Rana of Gohud, there to relieve the Corps now under the Command of Captain Popham, in that Quarter. 2d. The Rana of Gohud having, in virtue of a Treaty lately concluded between him and this Government, required the Aid of a Military Force, on the Part of this Government, for the Defence of his Country against the Marattas, who had invaded it, Captain Popham was appointed to this Service; and to this you now succeed. We therefore direct that you comply with such Requisitions as shall be made to you by the Rana, for this and for such other Conditions as he is entitled to demand by the Treaty, and shall be practicable with the Force under your

3d. Whenever the Rana shall have no further Service for the Detachment, and shall dismiss it in the Manner prescribed by the Treaty, and no Occasion shall present itself for the Employment of the

Detachment, in promoting the general Success of the War in which we are engaged with the Macratta State, you are forthwith to return with it into the Dominions of the Nabob of Oude, and there wait for further Orders; and if before you march into Gohud, you shall receive an Intiduation him in Writing, that he shall not require the Assistance of your Detachment, you will in the Manner suspend your March, and wait for further Orders.

4th. But as the First Design of this Government in the Alliance lately formed with the Rana of Gohud, was to distress the Maratta State, by a Diminution of their Power, Revenue and Influence, and by uniting with other Powers in Enmity with them, to divert and weaken their Operations; and as the Maratta Dominions which lie contiguous to Gohud, appertain to Mhadjee Scindia, and Tuccojee Holcar, the Two principal Rulers of that State, and the Leaders of the Army, employed to oppose General Goddard; we authorize and instruct you, in case you shall deem it practicable and expedient, to carry the War immediately into that Quarter; requiring from the Rana the Proportion of Cavalry stipulated by the Treaty to be furnished by him for such a Service, or in case of his Inability, whether from the Season of the Year or from whatever other Cause, to sulfish this Condition in its complete Extent, to require and accept from him, such other Aid in furnishing Provisions, and in forming Magazines of Grain, and other Means of Subsistence and Communication, as you shall judge equivalent to it.

5th. For your Guidance in maintaining the Relation of your Command to the Rana of Gohud, we herewith deliver to you a Copy of the Treaty executed with him; and we require and enjoin you to conform to it with the most scrupulous and literal Exactness.

6th. If any Case shall occur, for which we have not provided by these Instructions, and which shall not be contrary to them, we empower you to act therein according to your own Judgment; in all others, these Instructions are positive, and must be implicitly obeyed.

Ordered, That these Instructions lie for Consideration.

Warren Hastings, P. Francis, Edw Wheler.

22d June, 1780.

Read the following Minute from Messrs. Francis and Wheler, in Reply to the Propositions made by the Governor General, and entered in the last Consultation, containing Instructions to Major Camac.

Minute from Messrs. Francis and Wheler.

The First, Second, and Third Paragraphs of the proposed Instructions to Major Camac, being conformable to the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Gohud, we acquiesce therein. But we think it should be added, That before our Troops depart from the Rana's Country, the full Account of the Subsidy due for their Pay, should be demanded and received.

But we cannot consent to vest Major Camac with the Powers mentioned in the 4th Paragraph, viz. to carry the War immediately into the Dominions of Tuccojee and Scindia, if be shall judge it practicable and expedient; and to accept of such other Aid from the Rana of Gohud, as be shall judge equivalent to the Body of Ten thousand Horse, which the Rana is obliged by the Treaty to furnish." The Latitude given in the First Article, leaves it in Effect to Major Camac, to carry the Company's Arms wherever he thinks proper. The Second empowers him to annul the most important, and apparently the most useful Article of the Treaty. In both Instances, the Government relinquishes its Controul over a Measure, which may lead us much farther than we are aware of; and be attended with the most serious Consequences. We have already observed, that an Attempt to invade Scindia's Country, if advisable, should be made at a Time when General Goddard can cooperate with it, and support it: This cannot be done till towards the Conclusion of the Rains, consequently there is Time sufficient to concert a Plan of Operations with the Rana of Gohud, and to ascertain what Assistance may be depended on from him. The Board will then have proper Materials before them, to enable themselves to judge, how far it may be safe or expedient, to embark in the Measure, supposing that a Peace, which is our first Object, should not be effected in the Interim.

For these Reasons, we cannot assent to the Propositions contained in the 4th Paragraph. We acquiesce in the 5th.

The Powers mentioned in the 6th seem to fall under the same Observations which have occurred to us on those contained in the 4th.

PPENDIX, N° 286.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Minute.

Governor General-Two Minutes have been lately delivered by Meffis. Francis and Wheler, bearing their joint Signatures, in Answer to Propositions made by me to the Board.

It is not my Intention to follow these Minutes through every Affertion of Facts, and every Deduction of Argument; I shall only reply to such Points as have a Relation to my present Purpose, which is still to infist on the Necessity of carrying the War into the Districts appearaining to Mahdajee Scindia, and to this I intreat the Board to give me their Attention.

Except the Article of Expence, I can fearcely collect the Objections which are made to it.

It never was my Intention to employ Major Camac in an Invalion of Bundlecund, nor fuller, if it were attempted on the Grounds of his Instructions, such a Waste of the Time required for the first and effential Object of his Operations.

The Ends proposed by this Expedition are two immediate. 1st. To divide the Maratta Scrength, and divert it from General Goddard; 2d. To make the principal Agent of the War, the principal Sufferer by it. And one ultimately, Peace. To this it is objected, that " the manifest Advantage "of having Two Armics acting in concert, and dividing the Attention of the Enemy between them, would be loft if they were not both in the Field at the fame Time." This is by no Means a fair Conclusion, because it supposes the Enemy to keep the Field, and our principal Army to be inactive: The Reverse is the most probable; and my Purpose will be equally answered, whether both remain in Quarters, and Major Camac be suffered to protecute the Plan assigned him without Opposition; or whether the whole Force of the Enemy be directed against him, and General Goddard left at Liberty to act in the Profecution of his. The rainy Scalon is no Impediment to our Troops, but a great one to the Maratta, which confift only of Cavalry, and if the Meature which I have proposed, be even now agreed to, I should hope to bound it with that Scason, or to effect every material Purpose of it within the Rains.

The Defign of the proposed Instructions to Major Camac, has been misunderstood, and the intended Strile of it inverted. It is not meant "to give Major Camac a Latitude to carry the Company's Arms wherever he thinks proper;" but to order him to carry the Company's Arms to a prescribed Scene of Action, unless be thinks it improper.

The Objection made to the Expence is a material one; but a vigorous Exertion cannot be made without Expence, nor can the War be either concluded honourably, or profecuted fuccessfully, without fuch an Exertion. Feeble Measures and Advances for Peace will but add to the Strength and Prefumption of our Adversaries, discourage our Friends, and perhaps induce them to become Parties against us. The Resources of this Government, exhausted as they are, and withheld from it by its internal Imbecility, are yet equal to every probable Contingency of the prefent War, if it is conducted on a confident Plan, and that not varied by defultory Votes of Council, on every Measure required for its Profecution.

I must here take Notice, that the Expence of Captain Popham's Detachment has been greatly overrated. It is afferted, that the Expence of a Detachment of only 2000 Drafts under Captain Pophain, has been swelled to more than 91,000 Rupees a Month, and in another Place, this Sum is stated as a fixed Amount. The Truth is, that the Expence of this Detachment has exceeded its due Bounds; yet not in the Degree imputed to it, which would be indeed enormous. The Detachment belides the I'wo Thousand Drasts (they are in fact 2,400) consists of Artillery and Cavalry. The monthly Expence of the Whole was on a Medium about 82,000 Rupees; of this Sum the Cavalry alone produce 12,811 and the Artillery -8,300 making both together 21,111

And this Sum deducted from the Total, leaves 61,000 Rupees for the Drafts, including the Staff and Contingencies of Four Battalions into which they were formed, though their Number was equal only to

The Part which this Government has hitherto borne in the War, is mine, and has been made exclusively mine, the other Members having repeatedly disclaimed their Share in the Responsibility attending it. It is hard, that while they load me with the Weight of such a Charge, they should bind my Hands, and deny me the Means of supporting it.

If Mr. Francis (I am compelled to speak thus plainly) thinks that he can better and more effectually conduct the War, to the Termination of which we both profess to aim at; and that he can in Honour deprive me of the Right which I claim to dictate the Means of accomplishing it, let him avowedly take the Lead; but if I am to be charged with the Confequences of it, or if the Right which I claim be justly mine, let him allow me to possess and exercise it. It is impossible to combine the Principles of Enterprize and Inaction in the same general Measure, and as impossible for his Sentiments and mine to be brought into Agreement on the Subject of the Maratta War. I have in vain laboured to accommodate them by a fludied Attention to his Opinions in every Meafure which I have ventured to propose in the course of the last Fifteen Months, and have restrained myself from urging others, which however proper and necessary for the Occasion, extensively considered, were inconfishent with the actual State and Temper of this Government.

I now revert to my Proposition, and request the Board to re-consider their Objections to the Inif uctions which I have proposed to be given to Major Camac. I have not the Presumption to ex-Feet that they will be influenced by any Reasonings which I have used, having had too much Experityce of the Infufficiency of official Argument, to overcome a decided, and much less a confederate Opposition. But as the Expence which will attend the Measure which I have recommended is the REP. VI.

No 9. Mr. Francisi Packet.

APPENDIX, N° 286

only formal Objection made to it, I hope I may be allowed to remove it, by offering to exonerate the Company from it, and to take it upon myself. That this Proposition may not be misunderstood, and that I may not bind myself by Engagements which may exceed my Power to fulfil them, I will, explain myself.

The regular Pay and Batta of the Troops which are to form Major Camac's Detachment constitute no Part of the Expence of it, since these would be the same in their Amount although the Batta-fions remained in their original Quarters. Neither ought the Suspension of the Subsidy to be charged to the Expedition, since it is probable, and I regard it as certain, that the Ranah having no further Call for our Aid within his Country, for the sole Defence of it, will be glad to be relieved from the Expence attending it; and because it is proposed in the last of the Minutes of Mess. Francis and Wheler, to withdraw it. The Contingencies of the Detachment are therefore the only Expence that can be reasonably charged to the Expedition: These I rate far below Two Lacks of Rupees; that Sum I offer to contribute to this Disbursement. I have already deposited it within a small Amount in the Hands of the Sub Treasurer, and I beg that the Board will permit it to be accepted for that Service.

Thurfday.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,
Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent.

The Governor General—In my Minute of the 19th Inftant, I proposed that a Major of Brigade and an Aid de Camp should be added to the Staff of Major Camac's Detachment, then proposed to consist of Seven Battalions. Although it has been ordered by the Board, that it shall consist of only Four Battalions, and it seems to be the Determination of the Board to confine its Operations to a very limited Scene, still it has been represented to me by Major Camac, as indispensably necessary to enable him to execute with proper Essect the Functions of his Command, that he be allowed a Brigade Major and Aid de Camp; and I move, That they be allowed; and that Lieutenant Hicks be appointed to the former Station, and that Lieutenant Kennon to the latter.

Agreed to.

The Minute which follows having been fent to the Secretary on the 27th Instant, it was immediately forwarded to the Governor General.

Minute from Messieurs Francis and Wheler.

No in. Francis's ket. After an attentive Consideration of the Governor General's Minute delivered in to the Board Yesterday, we adhere to the Reasons which have induced us to withhold our Consent to the proposed Expedition into Malva. To this, for the present, we shall only add the following short Remarks, in Reply to some Assertions in the Governor General's Minute, which appear to us to be gratuitous.

1st. The actual Expence of Captain Popham's Detachment for the Months of November, December, and January last, is stated by the Commissary General at Current Rupecs 2,73,996; (vide his Letter recorded on the 1st of May) and we have no Reason to think that the Expence has decreased since the Detachment has been on Service.

2d. We know not to what Passage in either of our Minutes the Governor General alludes, when he says, "That it is proposed in the last of the Minutes of Messieurs Francis and Wheler to with- draw the Aid granted to the Rana of Gohud." Notwithstanding our original Disapprobation of the Treaty, and though none of the good Essects which were promised from it appear to us to have been accomplished, we have not proposed to depart from the Conditions by which this Government has been bound to the Rana. All we insist on is, that the Subsidy should be paid. The Governor General has not informed us, whether any Part of it has been discharged. It is said, that the rainy Season is no Impediment to our Troops, though a great one to the Marattas. The same Opinion was insisted on at the Time when Colonel Lessie marched, and when the Governor's Considence in him was not inferior to that which he now reposes in Major Camac, and which we do not mean to say is ill founded. But Colonel Lessie's Letters contain repeated Declarations of the Impossibility of marching amidst the Torrents of Rain with which the Country was deluged. On this Point our Conviction remains unaltered. They who have not seen the Rains of India can have no Idea of their Violence, nor how entirely the whole Surface of the Country is changed by them.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 286.

In a few Days we mean to record our Sentiments more at large on the Remainder of the Governor's Minute, and on the general Situation of this Government. We could have wished indeed, that the Governor's Plan had been more completely before us than it is, that we might have been able to compare the Whole of the Object with the Whole of the Means. Peace, he declares, is healtimate Object; but he has not given us even a general Idea of the Terms on which he would make it; he has not intimated to us what would be the final Extent of his Demands on the Marattas, of what Concessions he would make to them. Before this Point is fixed, we have no folid Basis, either for Action or Deliberation: The First may be indefinite and unconnected, as it hitherto has been a he Second must be guided from Day to Day by Events. In this Uncertainty we cannot presume to lecide whether his Object be or be not attainable; but we promise to enter into the Consideration of it with the utmost Candour, and with all the Attention which such a Subject deserves when it is laid before us.

27th June 1780.

(Signed) Philip Francis, Edward Wheler.

Ordered, That the above Minute lie for Consideration; and that the Secretary be directed to prepare a Draft of Instructions to Major Camac, in conformity to the different Minutes of the Members of the Board recorded on this Subject.

Bengal Secret Confultations, the 13th July 1780.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Edward Wheler, Esquire.

Mr. Francis indisposed.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on a Visit to the different Stations of the Army.

The Secretary begs Leave to lay before the Board the following Minute from Messis. Francis and Wheeler, delivered to him on Tuesday the 4th Instant, which he immediately circulated to the Governor General.

Minute from Messrs. Francis and Wheler, 29th June 1780.

In our Minute of the 27th, we meant only to give an immediate Answer to the Proposition before us. We shall now enter more particularly into the Reasonings and Assertions with which it was introduced. The Terms and Tendency of the Governor General's Minute make this Task, however painful it may be, essentially necessary for the Information of those, who are to judge of our Control and Section and Section duct, and of course, to our own Reputation and Sasety.

The Governor General says, that, "except the Article of Expence, he can scarcely collect the Objections made to the Measure:" And again, "that the Expence is the only formal Objection to it." Yet fome Pains are taken to answer another, which attacks the Measure on its own Principles, and which undoubtedly must have been felt by the Governor General, or he would not have attempted to remove it, by supposing a Fact so material to the Question, as, that our principal Army is not in Cantonments and inactive; and that it must not continue so to the End of the Rains. The Truth is, that General Goddard's Army, or the major Part of it, is actually in Cantonments at Surat; and we hear that he himself is at Bombay. Last Year he did not take the Field until December; perhaps he now might move a Month sooner; but we are satisfied, as well by his own Letters, as by every Information we have been able to obtain, that it is impossible for him to act before November. That the Rains would be no Impediment to our Infantry, incumbered with Baggage, Tents, Stores, Ammunition, and a Train of Artillery; but that it would be a great one to a Body of Maratta Cavalry; teems to us a most extraordinary Proposition. Hitherto it has been contradicted by Experience, and we find no Arguments advanced to support it. If one of the Objects of the Expedition be to divide the Maratta Strength, and to divert it from General Goddard, it is effential to that Object that General Goddard's Army should be at the same Time in the Field, otherwise the Maratta Force is not divided; nor can there be a Diversion on one Side, unless some Operations exist on the other, in favour of which the Diversion is to be made. But we say that General Goddard's Army is in Cantonments, and must remain inactive till November; consequently the undivided Force and Attention of the Marattas, if they think it necessary, may be turned entirely to Major Camac.

The Second Object is faid to be to make Madajee Scindia, "the principal Agent of the War, the principal Sufferer by it." Hitherto we have been told that Nana Furnese was the Chief, most attached to the French Interest, and most hostile to ours; and that Scindia was disposed to cultivate our Friendship; and it must be confessed he gave us a Proof of it, which ought not to be forgotten, when he suffered the Bombay Army to retire from Worgaum. Admitting nevertheless, that we ought now to consider Scindia as our principal Opponent, it does not follow that this Expedition, in the Way it is planned, will be the Cause of much Distress to him, if any. In our Opinion, we are much more likely to suffer by it than he is. If every material Purpose of it is to be effected within the Rains, what can they be, but to make a hasty Incursion into his Country, to plunder it, and to leave it? If General Goddard were in Motion at the same Time, we see a Possibility, in Speculation at least, that Scindia might be distracted between them, and prevented from turning his whole Force or the principal Part of it, to the Desence of his Dominions. As this is not the Case, Major Camac must act without the Support of a Diversion on the other Side, against whatever Force Scindia may think fit to bring against him. They who are unacquainted with the Geography of India, can know nothing even of the Distance from our Frontier to Eugene, the Capital of Malva, much less of the Distinctions that are likely to attend such a March. The Distance, however, is evidently so great, that in case of a Check we see no Likelihood of securing a Retreat. But if, whether with or without an immediate Repulse, the Retreat of the Detachment should be cut off, we know what the Confequence must be; another Body of Troops will be called for, and the Necessity of fending them in fissed on, to support the First Measure, or to disengage us from the Effects of it. No Man can fay to what Diffress and Difficulties a Series of such Steps may finally lead us. It may happen, that while we are stripping Bengal of the Force which ought to be reserved for its Defence; while we are fending our best Troops, and our best Officers, on these distant Expeditions, these Provinces may be invaded from different Quarters, and our Establishment hazarded where it ought to be our principal Care to render it secure. In our Opinion, nothing essential to the Interests of the Company and of the Nation in India can be loft, as long as Bengal is safe; but if this Country should once be in Danger, or if, by the Loss or Waste of its Resources, it should no longer be able to support is less, and to return a regular Tribute to Great Britain, no Conquests or Acquisitions in any other Part of India will ever compensate, in the smallest Degree, for the Distress to which Bengal may be reduced, and for the Confequences that must attend it at Home. The Supposition of such a Case will not appear wild or unwarrantable to those who have a perfect View of our Situation. We are much afraid that it is little known, and less understood, in England.

The War with the Marattas, at more than Two Years after its Commencement, and after every Rupee we had referved in the Treasury, or have since been able to collect, has been spent in the Support of it, is at this Day as far from a Conclusion as ever. New Expectations are proposed to answer the same Effects which were promised from former Measures of the same Nature, and as it appears to us, with no better Prospect of Success; of success at least as would be likely to make any further Efforts unnecessary.

The Governor General talks of Friends who may be discouraged, and who perhaps may be induced to become Parties against us; we wish that the Names of these Friends had been mentioned. We do not know that this Government has a single Friend or Ally in India, in the true Sense of Friendship and Alliance, which supposes the Power of giving Assistance, and a Disposition to give it.

The Condition to which we have reduced the Vizier's Country, makes that Connection rather a Burthen than Advantage to this State. We have now to defend the extended Frontier of a ruined Country, which at prefent barely pays the Troops that defend it; and which, according to all Appearance, will not do even that much longer. As for the Vizier himself, he is a Cypher, and has no Choice.

The Rana of Gohud is too inconsiderable to be mentioned; and if he were more powerful than he is, it is plain enough that either his original Purpose is answered, or that he has other Reasons for being weary of the Presence of our Army. Though the Board have not heard from Captain Popham, we conjecture from what the Governor General has let fall, that the Rana intends to dismits Captain Popham, and that he will not require Major Camac to come into his Country.

On the other Hand, we fee the principal Powers of India, either armed, or ready to arm against us. The Marattas have united, as we foresaw they would do, in the common Defence of their Country. Hyder Ally, their natural Enemy, has concluded an Alliance with them, the Effects of which, though hitherto suspended, are not averted. We know, by many Proofs, what his Disposition is towards us; and we ought to conclude, since it is a Case against which we ought to be provided, that he means to act against us at the first favourable Moment; that is, when our Arms may have suffered another Check, or when our Strength and Resources may be exhausted by a Continuance of the present War.

It is true, our Endeavours have hitherto succeeded in preventing the Nizam from taking an open Part with our Enemies. It depends on the Gentlemen at Madras, whether the Concession we have thought proper to make him shall take Essect or not; if it should, we have still no positive Security that he will be contented with it, or that his other Claims upon the Company will not furnish him with a Pretence for joining our Enemies, whenever he sees an Opportunity of doing it to Advantage. His Disposition towards us, and the Considence he reposes in his own Strength, may be plainly collected from his Declarations to Mr. Holland.

The Rajah of Berar seems lately, if not originally, to have adopted that Sort of Policy, which leaves it open to him to be guided by Events, and to pursue any Course he thinks proper. We have no Security that it will be favourable to this Government. He professes to wish for an Accommodation between us and the Paishwa: He offers his Mediation, and, apparently to support his Offers, he sends a considerable Army to the Frontier of these Provinces. The Strength of this Army is unknown to the Board; various Reports state it from 20 to 30,000 Horse. Against their future Operations we ought to be as carefully provided as if we had no Dependance on their Friendship. We ought to treat them as Friends, but we ought to be prepared against them as Enemies:

In

In this Situation we can never admit, that the Resources of this Government, exhausted as they are; and withheld from it by its internal Imbeculity, are yet equal to every probable Contingency of the prefeit War; on the contrary, we think that the prefent War, in whatever Manner it may be conducted, is liable to Contingencies, to which all our Resources, if they were yet unimpaired, would not be equal, and that in our present Circumstances we have no Choice.

We deny that this War has hitherto been conducted on a confistent Plan, or any Plan at all; cf which we need not give a more decifive and striking Proof, than that the Expedition under Colonel Goddard did not co operate with that from Bombay against Poona; that the Authority formerly given to the Presidency of Bombay, over that Army, was withdrawn in favour of another Measure, of which they had no Information; and that General Goddard's final March to Surat, was merely Matter of Accident, and absolutely contrary to the Governor General's Wishes and Intentions.

On the 4th March 1779, he declared, "he wished equally with Mr. Francis, for the Return of the Detachment to Berar, and equally dreaded to hear of its proceeding to the other Coast.

But if the Reverse were true, and if the War had really been conducted on a confissent Plan, we deny that it has been varied by defultory Votes of Council on every Measure required for its Profecution. We do not know, or believe, that there is a fingle Instance of any Question concerning the War being carried against the Opinion of the Governor General, except that now immediately before us; and even this we prefume was not in Contemplation with the Governor a Month ago, when the Resolution was taken for recalling and reducing Captain Popham's Detachment with common Confent, and as we thought with the Governor's entire Satisfaction.

It is not denied, "that feeble Measures, and Advances for Peace may give Strength and Presump-46 tion to our Adversaries, and discourage our Friends; or that the Principles of Enterprize and In-46 action are not to be combined in the same general Measure." But we do not admit that these general Propositions are applicable to our Situation. Our Opinion is, that we are in no Condition to continue the War on any Terms which suppose the Continuance of the present Expence, or even with a confiderable Diminution of it. Whether our Resources be exhausted, or whether they be withheld from us, it is equally true that there is no Money in our Treasury. We hope, that in fuch critical Circumstances, it will not be proposed to take the Deposit out of the New Fort. We know not how near we are to the Extremity for which it was provided; but, even supposing our immediate Wants were relieved by that little Supply, let us confider where it would leave us, after difcharging the instant Demands upon the Treasury. Our former Statements shew what a very inconsiderable Portion of it would remain in our Hands, while the Credit and Advantage of possessing such a Referve in Specie, against an extraordinary Emergency, would be lost: In Effect, we should publicly avow, that the Diffress, against which the Deposit was reserved, had actually fallen upon us.

We never meant to propose seeble Measures, which necessarily deseat themselves; nor yet do we approve of vigorous Measures in the Sense in which Vigour has been hitherto understood, because we are convinced that this Government is unable to support them; and that, if they could be supported a short Time longer, they would not bring us nearer to our Object. Before the Commencement of the War, we forefaw and foretold the principal Consequences that would attend it; we now judge of it by its Effects, which we hope will be confidered, though every other Sort of Argument should continue to be disregarded: We have seen the Event of Two Years Military Operations, and of a Succession of Enterprizes, which in point of Essort and Expence, were as vigorous as any Thing we could now undertake.

The Expedition to Poona ended in a Difgrace which, but for the Generofity or Forbearance of the Marattas, might have left Bombay defencelefs. We know not the Expence of this Measure, but we believe the Company will find it enormous.

The March of the Army under Colonel Leslie had all the Appearances of an active and vigorous Refolution; and has produced as much Success as could reasonably be expected: It has conquered an open Country, which at some future Day, and if ever the promised Collections from it should be made, is to return Thirty Lacks a Year to the Company. Against this Acquisition, the permanent Expence of an Encrease of Establishments to regulate and defend it must be placed, and the Value of the Remainder compared with the Charge of the Expedition. The Company will then know, at what Price they have acquired a new Territory on the Malabar Coast. At the Fnd of February last, the Sums remitted to this Detachment alone, amounted to almost Seventy-six Lacks of current Rupees, and we are convinced, that we are much within Bounds in computing, that a Crore of Rupees will not clear it to the End of October.

The March of a Detachment from the Coast, and of another from Bombay, to strengthen General Goddard, has yet produced no Effect that we know of, but to raise their Pay on a Level with that of the Bengal Troops, which of itself is no flight Inconvenience.

The Detachment under Major Camac, which was ordered about the Beginning of last Year to join Colonel Goddard, after coffing the Company CR. 4,36,793, returned without Effect.

Many Advantages were promifed from the Treaty with the Ranna of Ghode, particularly that of dividing the Strength and Attention of the Marattas. If it has really produced that or any other Effect, that deserves the Name of an Advantage, or that can be placed in Comparison with the Expence of this Measure, we wish to see it stated. We are informed by the Commissary General, that the Total Expence of Captain Popham's Detachment to the Lind of April last, amounted to CR. 5,55,953: At this Rate the prefent Expence must amount to CR. 7,41,271, Rep. VI.

ide Secret Multations, Oct. 1778. With these discouraging Experiments in our View, we are called upon to embark in another Enterprize, for the avowed Purpose of supporting that of General Goddard. Yet the Governor's Expectations of Success from this new Effort, cannot be greater than those which he professed to entertain of the former. Even after the Delay in Bundlecund, he always considered Colonel Lesuc's Detachment as capable of accomplishing the Ends of its Formation, and professed the strongest Conviction that under a proper Conduct, the Effects would still answer his most sanguine Hopes.

It is true, that the Part which this Government has bitberto borne in the War, belongs to the Governor, and that we have no Share in the Responsibility attending it; but it is equally true, that in the future Measures of this Government, we must take our Part. We cannot transfer the Responsibility, though we might relinquish the Powers incident to our Stations; in many Cases, we may find ourselves compelled not to interrupt the Operation of Acts already resolved on against our Opinion, especially when the Government or its Representatives, are once engaged in the Execution of them. In such Circumstances we have no Choice; but a Desence of this Sort will not apply to new Measures or new Plans, which cannot be resolved on without our Consent; for these and their Consequences, we must of Necessity be answerable, jointly with the Governor, therefore cannot divest ourselves of the Right of judging of both. If on the present Occasion, we are mistaken in our Judgment, it will not add to the Load with which the Governor General may be charged; we rather think he derives a visible Advantage, from the Part we are forced to take in this Question: There is no Difficulty in displaying the possible Benefits which might have resulted from a Measure untried, while the Burthen of proving that such Benefits were unattainable, together with the ideal Loss of them, will be thrown upon the opposite Party.

We have as little Faith as the Governor can have, in the Sufficiency of official Argument, to overcome decided Opinions; what we have faid, is meant to stand for our Vindication at Home: We heartily wish it might have more Weight than we fear it will have in this Place; we wish to co-operate heartily and sincerely with the Governor General in effecting a Peace on reasonable Terms; Means of Negociation are in his Power, which are not within ours; to accomplish a Peace ourselves, against his Inclinations, we know to be impossible, till our Hopes very nearly amounted to Conviction, that we were all agreed on this Point, and that the Seasons of the Rains, in which Hostilities must cease on both Sides, would have been employed in effecting a Pacification. On this Principle we consented to the Proposition for accepting the Mediation of Moodajee Boosla. We wish to know if any and what Steps have been taken in Consequence. As this Measure has no Connection with the proposed Expedition, we hope it will not be deferted. Without making improper Advances to the Marattas, other Means might be taken to the same End; but we are perfectly sensible that none can succeed in which the Governor General will not take an active Part. If after all, a formal Peace is not to be obtained, we do not think it follows, that a defensive War must necessarily be continued. A general Outline of the Plan we allude to, has been suggested to the Governor General: We do not think it advisable to enter into it in this Place, but we are ready to submit our Thoughts to him on the Subject, whenever he thinks proper.

(Signed) { Philip Francis, Edward Wheler.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to add a few Words to the preceding Minute, in Reply to the Personal Appeal made to me, by the Governor General; I persuade myself he would not propose an Alternative to me, which he thought I could not accept of with Honour, but as I understand it, there is no Point of Honour in Question; I think it belongs to the Governor General to propose and recommend such Measures as he thinks fit, to the Approbation of the Board, and circumstanced as we now are, it must be some very effential Consideration that can induce me to oppose him; I would neither attempt to take that Lead out of his Hands, nor yet engage implicitly to submit to his Opinions-Every View to my own Ease and Happiness would incline me to wish, that the Constitution of the Government permitted him to distate, or to resolve and act without me; but I am vested with a Public Trust, from the Duties of which I cannot be exempted, while I hold the Station that creates it.

I believe the Governor General yielded to my Opinion, in refolving to recall and reduce Captain Popham's Detachment; but this was a Concession to which he did not adhere: "That he should have laboured to accommodate his Sentiments to mine, by a studied Attention to my Opinions, in every Measure which he had ventured to propose, in the Course of the last Fisteen Months," is a Fact with which I declare most solemnly I was utterly unacquainted.

Philip Francis:

The Secretary having prepared a Draft of Instructions for Major Camac, drawn up from the Minutes of the Board, and circulated by Order of the Governor General to the other Members, for their Approbation, as he thought it irregular in him to take any Part in them, they were returned figned.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 286.

Mr. Francis—I have already agreed to such of the Instructions to Major Camac, proposed by the Governor General, as were conformable to the Treaty with the Rana of Gohud, and to the unanimous resolution of the Board of the 29th May; the Draft now in Circulation appears to me to correspond therewith, and I therefore agree to it.

(Signed)

Philip Francis.

The Instructions being agreed to by Messrs. Francis and Wheler, they were copied fair, signed, and dispatched as follows:

To Major Camac.

Sir,

Our Secretary has already notified to you your Appointment to the Command of a Detachment, ordered on Service with the Rana of Gohud; this Detachment is to be formed of Three Battalions of Sepoys from the Second Brigade, flationed at Cawnpore; the Battalion of Light Infantry commanded by Captain James Browne, and a Party of Artillery, to confift of Half a Company of Europeans, and Half a Battalion of Lascars.

In Addition to the Guns attached to the above Battalion, by the Regulations of the Army, we have ordered that your Detachment should be supplied with Two Twelve Pounders, a Howitzer,

Two Cohorns, and a proper Quantity of Ammunition and Stores.

We direct that you immediately proceed to Cawnpore, or to the Detachment, wherever it may be, and forthwith conduct it into the Dominions of the Rana of Gohud, there to relieve the Corps under the Command of Captain Popham in that Quarter.

The Rana of Gohud having in virtue of a Treaty lately concluded between him and this Government, required the Aid of a military Force on our Part, for the Defence of his Country against the Marattas who had invaded it, Captain Popham was appointed to this Service, and to this you now succeed; we therefore direct that you comply with such Requisitions as shall be made to you by the Rana, for this and for such other Conditions as he is entitled to demand by the Treaty, and you shall deem practicable with the Force under your Command.

Whenever the Rana shall notify to you, that he has no farther Service for the Detachment under your Command, and shall dismiss it in the Manner prescribed by Treaty, and no Occasion shall present itself for the Employment of it, in promoting the general Success of the War in which we are engaged with the Maratta State, you are to signify to him in Writing your Intentions to depart from his Country, demanding the full Amount of the Subsidy that may be due; which having received, you will immediately return with your Detachment, into the Territories of the Nabob of Oude, and there wait for further Orders; but in case of a Refusal on his Part to discharge the Subsidy, agreeable to the Terms of the Treaty, we desire that you will immediately signify the same to us, and not depart until you receive our Answer.

If before your March into Gohud you shall receive an Intimation from the Rana that he shall not require the Assistance of your Detachment, you will in like Manner suspend your March, and wait our Instructions.

For your Guidance in maintaining the Relation of your Command to the Rana of Gohud, we herewith deliver to you a Copy of the Treaty executed with him, and we require and enjoin you to conform to it with the most scrupulous and literal Exastiness.

The Commissary General having drawn out an Establishment for your Detachment, which meets with our Approbation, we transmit it to you; desiring at the same Time that you do not, on any Account, suffer the smallest Alteration or Deviation to be made in it.

.. We are &c.

Fort William, 13th July, 1780. Warren Hastings, P. Francis, Edw^d Wheler.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 20th July 17801

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Edward Wheler, Esquire.
Mr. Francis indisposed.
Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent.

Inflant I had prepared a Minute on the Subject

The Governor General—On Monday the 13th Instant I had prepared a Minute on the Subject of the late Debates relative to the Detachment ordered on Service under Major Camac; but was induced to withhold the Delivery of it, by the Prospect which was then held out to me of an Accommodation of our Differences; and did understand that an Agreement had taken place, that all the Minutes which had passed on this Subject since the 19th of June should be withdrawn: I am since informed that this is discovered by Mr. Francis. I am obliged to mention this Circumstance, otherwise unnecessary top public Record, to account for the late Delivery of my Minute, for which I desire that a Place may be left on this Consultation, as it might perhaps be deemed improper to introduce it in the temporary Absence of the Person whom it immediately concerns.

The Governor General—Notwithstanding the ill Success which my former Motions have met with relative to Major Camac's Detachment, I must again revert to the Proposition made by me to the Boards on the 19th ultimo, for the Extension of the Powers to be given to Major Camac, in the Manner expressed in my proposed Draft of his Instructions, delivered in on that Day: And I accordingly now move, That these Instructions be granted to him.

I have little to fay in addition to the former Arguments which I have urged in support of the principal Measure presented in them, but that it appears to me more necessary at this Time to crowe such a Diversion by the Declaration lately made by Hyder Ally Cawn, or at least too strongly implied to admit of a Doubt of its intended Construction, in his Letter recorded in the last Consultation, Every Accumulation of Difficulty requires an additional Exertion. For the same Reason I move, That the Order for reducing Captain Popham's Detachment be repealed; and that it be formed into Three regular Battalions, to be commanded by the Three senior Captains now with that Corps: But as I understand the Commander in Chief left Lucknow on the 6th Instant, and is proceeding with all possible Expedition to the Presidency, I do not think it necessary to follow this Motion with any Proposal for the Disposition of this Corps until his Arrival.

Mr. Wheler—No Arguments are used by the Governor General in his late Proposition, in addition to those stated in his former Minutes upon this Subject, to induce me to alter my Opinion respecting the first tristructions to Major Camac: I must therefore adhere to it. I confess the Governor General's Second Proposition is accompanied with a forcible Argument. Times of War and public Calamity are certainly not the Times for diminishing our Military Force; more especially as we have every Reason to be lieve (both from the late Declarations which Hyder Ally has made to this Government, and also from the particular Measures which that Chief has lately pursued in relation to us) that an open Rupture bet vixt him and the Company is not very distant.

I therefore readily coincide with the Governor General in repealing the Order for the Reduction of Captain Popham's Detachment, and that it be formed into Three regular Battalions, to be commanded by the Three fenior Captains now with that Corps.

The above Propositions being resolved in the Affirmative, the following Instructions are issued to Major Camac:

To Major Jacob Camac.

Sir,

Having appointed you to the Command of a Detachment ordered to be formed of Four Battalions of Sepoys; Three of which are to be furnished from the Army stationed at Cawnpore, and the Fourth the Battalion of Light Infantry commanded by Captain James Browne, we direct you to proceed to Cawnpore, or to the Station of that Detachment, wherever it may be, and to conduct it without Loss of Time into the Dominions of the Ranah of Gohud, there to relieve the Corps now under the Command of Captain Popham in that Quarter.

The Rana of Gohud having in virtue of a Treaty lately concluded between him and this Government, required the Aid of a Military Force, on the Part of this Government, for the Defence of his Country against the Marattas, who had invaded it, Captain Popham was appointed to this Service, and to this you now succeed. We therefore direct that you comply with such Requisition as shall be made to you by the Rana for this and for such other Conditions as he is entitled to demand by the Treaty, and shall be practicable with the Force under your Command.

Whenever the Rana shall have no further Service for the Detachment, and shall dismiss it in the Manner prescribed by the Treaty, and no Occasion shall present itself for the Employment of the Detachment in promoting the general Success of the War in which we are engaged with the Maratta State, you are forthwith to return with it into the Dominions of the Nabob of Oude, and there wait for surther Orders. And if before your March into Gohud you shall receive an Intimation from him in Writing, that he shall not require the Assistance of your Detachment, you will in like Manner fuspend your March, and wait for further Orders.

But as the first Design of this Government in the Alliance lately formed with the Rana of Gohud, was to distress the Maratta State by a Diminution of their Power, Revenue and Insuence, and by uniting with other Powers in Enmity with them to divert and weaken their Operations; and as the Maratta Dominions which he contiguous to Gohud appertain to Madajee Scindia and Tuccoojee Holcar, the Two principal Rulers of that State and the Leaders of the Army employed to oppose General Goddard, we authorize and instruct you, in case you shall judge it practicable and expedient, to carry the War immediately into that Quarter, requiring from the Rana the Proportion of Cavalry stipulated by the Treaty to be furnished by him for such a Service; or in case of his Inability, whether from the Season of the Year, or from whatever other Cause, to sulfil this Condition in its complete Extent, to require and accept from him such other Aid in furnishing Provisions and in forming Magazines of Grain and other Means of Substitence and Communication, as you shall judge equivalent to it.

For

A P P E N D I X, N. 286, 287.

For your Guidance in maintaining the Relation of your Command to the Rana of Gohud, we herewith deliver to you a Copy of the Treaty executed with him; and we require and enjoin you to conform to it with the most scrupulous and literal Exactness.

If any Case shall occur for which we have not provided by these Instructions, and which shall not be contrary to them, we empower you to act therein according to your own Judgment. In all others these Instructions are positive, and must be implicitly obeyed.

The Commissary General having drawn out an Establishment for your Detachment, which meets with our Approbation, we transmit it to you, desiring at the same Time that you do not on any Account suffer the smallest Alteration or Deviation to be made in it.

Fort William, 20th July 1780.

We are, &c.

Refolved, in the Terms of the Propolition, viz. That the Sepoy Drafts, composing the Detachment under the Command of Captain Popham, be formed immediately into Three regular Battalions, of the same Strength as those attached to the Brigades; and that the Three senior Captains now serving in that Detachment be appointed to the Command of them.

Resolved also, That the Commander in Chief be requested to issue the necessary Orders for carrying into immediate Execution the above Refolution.

The Governor General—Not having yet received any positive Advices tending to ascertain the Destination of the Maratta Army lately sent from Naigpore, and now at Cuttack, and deeming it see sary to make some early Provision for guarding against their Incursions into these Provinces, from which they are only distant a few Days March, I move, That the First Battalion of Sepoys for Duty at the Prelidency be ordered to proceed to Jellasore, or to such Place as the commanding Officer may deem most eligible for the Purpose of securing the Boats on the Souban Rika, should they attempt to cross that River; and to watch their Motions. I do not mean this as a Force sufficient to repel any Attempts that may be made by this Army, but a necessary and sufficient Precaution for the present.

The above Proposition being agreed to, it is

Resolved, That the Battalion first for Duty at the Presidency be ordered to be held in Readiness to march at a Moment's Warning; and that the commanding Officer of the first Brigade be directed to issue the necessary Instructions to the Officer commanding it, to march to Jellasore, or to such Station as may be deemed most eligible for the Purpose of watching the Motions of the Marattas, and of securing the Boats on the Souban Rika, should they attempt to cross that River.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 287.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 7th September 1780.

PRESENT,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, President, Edward Wheler, Esquire, and
Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.
Mr. Francis indisposed.

THE Commander in Chief delivers in the following Minute:

Sir Eyre Coote—In my Minute of the 4th Instant I remarked, that Accounts received from Brigadier General Goddard mentioned he should, on opening the ensuing Campaign, find his Army sufficient in Force, with the Assistance he was led to expect from the Presidency of Bombay, to undertake advantageously those Operations that seemed necessary to be attempted on that Side of India, provided we made a Diversion from our upper Stations, favourable to his Movements, in order to call off the Force of the Maratta Chiefs, who have hitherto opposed him.

One of my principal Objects is, to act from this Country, in such a Manner as will answer the above Purpose, and that upon a Plan which will be attended with the least Expence to the a

Company. Rep. VI.

I recom-

A P P E N D I X, N'287.

I recommend therefore, the keeping up for the present the Corps of Drasts that have eded with so much Spirit under Major Popham, and who, from their Services during their late Campaign, may be justly styled Approved Troops; and upon Reconsideration of the Subject, I propose to the Board the following Query: Whether, instead of being ordered to join Brigadier General Goddard, to whom by our last Intelligence such a Reinforcement is no longer necessary, provided we act with Vigour from hence, Major Popham may not, with the Troops now under his Command, be more advantageously employed, in Conjunction with Major Camac's Detachment on this Side of India?

By attacking the Possessions of Moodajee Scindia, and Tookajee Holcar, Two of the most power. ful Chiefs, now opposed to Brigadier General Goddard, which have hitherto been left unmolested. and from whence they have obtained their principal Money Resources, we should oblige them to withdraw their Forces from the Malabar Side, to the Protection of their own Territories.

Major Camac's and Popham's Detachments conjunctively will, I should suppose, be equal to this Service, as well as to any further offensive Operations in such Districts, as it may be thought proper to employ them: But when separate, Major Camac's Corps cannot be sufficient to answer these Purposes, as a strong Garrison from it must be left in Gwalior, for the Desence of that Fortress; after which there will remain with him at most only Three Battalions.

In keeping up Major Popham's Corps, I would not recommend the burthening the Establishment with an Addition of European Officers, but advise the letting them continue in the Form of Battalions of Drafts, not as regular Battalions on the Establishment; appointing some additional Officers to those already with them, to act only for the present, and who may be taken from some of the Brigade Stations, where their Services can be best dispensed with.

The Three Captains with Major Popham's Corps, to remain, commanding the Battalions of Drafts they are at the Head of. Three Captains from the European Regiments to be ordered in their Stead, to act with their Battalions under Brigadier General Goddard; and the Vacancies of Captains occasioned hereby, not to be filled up in the European Regiments. Thus the Establishment of Officers will not be increased, (the European Battalions in their present incomplete State can spare Officers for the Service) Brigadier General Goddard's Army, will find themselves very materially affected by Co-operation in their Favour, and by a Force that can from its Strength act with great Advantage on this Side of India; and the Corps of Drafts will thus be rendered, I think, of more real Utility, than by carrying into Execution the original Design of that Body's joining General Goddard's Army.

(Signed) Eyre Coote.

Mr. Wheler-The Propolition now made by the Commander in Chief, bears so exact an Affinity to that contained in the Governor General's Minute of the 12th June, that I see no Reason to depart from the Opinion which I have already given, regarding the Relief of Major Popham's Detachment.

Agreed to the Propositions made by the Commander in Chief; and

Resolved, That the Orders of the 20th July last, directing the Formation of the Detachment, under the Command of Captain Popham, into Three regular Battalions, be so far rescinded, that the Three Battalions composing the Detachment be considered as Battalions of Drasts, and to act for the present as Three Battalions not upon the Establishment.

Resolved, That so many additional Officers as may be wanted for this Corps, be appointed from some of the Brigade Stations, to act with it for the present.

Ordered, That the Detachment under the Command of Major Popham do not proceed to Cawnpore, after the Arrival of the Detachment under the Command of Major Camac in the Territories of the Rana of Gohud, but make a Part of the Force under the Command of Major Camac.

Refolved, That the Vacancies occasioned in the Command of the Sepoy Battalions, serving with Brigadier General Goddard, in the West of India, by the Appointment of Three of their Commanding Officers to do Duty with Major Camac's Detachment, be supplied for the present, by the Appointment of Three Captains of the European Regiments to command the vacant Battalions during the Absence of Captains Clode, Maclary and Bruce, upon other Service.

Resolved, That the Commander in Chief be requested to issue the necessary Orders for carrying the above Resolutions into immediate Execution.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 3d July 1780.

Recorded, 20th July 1780.

Governor General.

WHY Mr. Wheler has thus repeatedly chosen to join his Name to Mr. Francis's in the Minutes lately delivered by them to the Board, I can neither conjecture, nor seek to know. fily conceive Mr. Francis's Intention in obtaining this Affociation. But as the Rectitude of these Acts in Mr. Francis is to be judged upon very different Principles from those in which he has a common Concern with Mr. Wheler, I shall consider them solely as his, and reply to them accordingly: Indeed I have no Doubt of their being all the entire Composition of Mr. Francis. They are not the less his, by this apparent Division of the Property; and his Name affixed to them gives me the Right of regarding them as entirely his.

I did hope that the Intimation conveyed in my last Minute would have awakened in Mr. Francis's Breast, if it were susceptible of such Sensations, a Consciousness of the faithless Part which he was acting towards me; I have been disappointed, and must now assume a plainer Style, and a louder Tone. In a Word, my Objections do not lie to the special Matter of his Minutes, to which I shall separately reply, but to the Spirit of Opposition which dictated them. I have lately offered various Plans, for the Operations of the War; these have been successively rejected. As I have successively amended and endeavoured to accommodate them to Mr. Francis's Objections, I had a Right to his implicit Acquiescence. I have lastly proposed a Service, requiring immediate Execution, and I have freed it from the only Objection formally made to it.

In Answer he says, that he adheres to the Reasons which had before induced him to withhold his Consent; and composedly invites me to lay before the Board a complete Detail of the Plan for conducting the War; a comparative State of the Whole of the Object, with the Whole of the Means of attaining it; and the final Extent of my Demands on the Marattas, or what Conceffions I would make to them: And he promises to enter into the Consideration of these Points, with the utmost Candour. If his Design in this Enquiry was simply to gain Information, I might refer him to the large and confidential Discussions, in which I have laid all my Views open to his, with all the Grounds on which they were formed. If his Purpose was to enable him to form a more clear or competent Judgment of the Plans which I have proposed, its Object would be lost in the Time required for the Deliberation.

But in Truth I do not trust to his Promise of Candour; convinced that he is incapable of it, and that his fole Purpofe and Wish are to embarrass and defeat every Measure which I may undertake, or which may tend even to promote the Public Interests, if my Credit is connected with them. Such has been the Tendency, and such the manifest Spirit of all his Actions from the Beginning: Almost every Measure proposed by me has for that Reason had his Opposition to it. When carried against his Opposition, and too far engaged to be withdrawn, yet even then, and in every Stage of it, his Labours to overcome it have been unremitted; every Disappointment and Missortune have been aggravated by him, and every fabricated Tale of Armies devoted to Famine and to Massacre, have found their First and most ready Way to his Office, where it was known they would meet with the most welcome Reception. To the same Design may be attributed the annual Computations of declining Finances, and an exhausted Treasury; Computations which though made in the Time of Abundance, must verge to Wrath at last, from the Effect of a discordant Government, not a constitutional Decay. To the same Design shall I attribute the Policy of accelerating the boded Event, and creating an artificial Want, by keeping up an useless Hoard of Treasure, and withholding it from a temporary Circulation.

I am aware of the Answer which will be made to these Imputations, and I will anticipate it. Mr. Francis may fafely deny them, for they are incapable of positive Evidence: He may complain of the Injustice and Indecency of assuming the Interpretation of his Thoughts, and assigning Intentions to him, upon the Reality of which he alone can pronounce with Certainty: He may claim an equal Right to recriminate upon me, and to pass the same free Judgment on the Motives which have influenced my public Actions. Against such Conclusions, I trust that my Character will be sufficient to defend me, unless some known Instance of it can be produced, as a Warrant for them; and such

I am certain do not exist, either known or unknown.

My Authority for the Opinions which I have declared concerning Mr. Francis, depends upon Facts which have passed within my own certain Knowledge. I judge of his public Conduct, by my Experience of his private, which I have found to be void of Truth and Honour. This is a severe Charge, but temperately and deliberately made, from the firm Persuasion that I owe this Justice to the Public and to myself, as the only Redress to both, for Artifices of which I have been a Victim, and which threaten to involve their Interests with Difference and Ruin. The only Redress for a Fraud for .

APPENDIX, Nº 288

for which the Law has made no Provision, is the Exposure of it. I proceed to the Proofs of my Allegation.

In the latter End of the Month of February land Mr. Francis concluded with me an Engagement, of which One Article alone is necessary to the present Occasion. It is as follows:

"Mr. Francis will not oppose any Measures which the Governor General shall recommend for the Prosecution of the War in which we are supposed to be engaged with the Marattas, or for the general Support of the present Political System of this Government. Neither will he himself either propose or vote with any other Member who shall propose any Measure which shall be contrary to the Governor General's Opinion on these Points."

By the Sanction of this Engagement, and the liberal Professions which accompanied it, I was feduced to part with the Friend to whose generous and honourable Support stedsastly yielded in a Course of Six Years, I am indebted for the Existence of the little Power which I have ever postessed in that long and disgraceful Period, to throw myself on the Mercy of Mr. Francis, and on the desperate Hazard of his Integrity. It was impossible to afford a stronger Demonstration of the good Faith with which I entered into this Accommodation, nor of my Considence in his, than thus consenting to deprive myself of the Means of breaking the Engagement on my Part, and of preventing the Breach of it on his; and surely this Difference in our relative Situations ought to have impressed him with a Sense of what he owed to the Delicacy attending it, and have made him dread even an Approach towards the precise Line of his Obligations, by the slightest Advantage taken of my Inability to repel it; and how much more ought it to have restrained him from the direct Transgression of it?

I must now revert to the Article of Mr. Francis's Engagement which I have recited above, and to the Minutes lately delivered at the Board under the Signatures of Mr. Francis and Wheler. On these I rest the Proofs which I have promised of the Charge herein preferred against Mr. Francis.

If it shall appear on a fair Comparison of these Evidences, that Mr. Francis hath faithfully adhered to his Engagements, I have wrongfully accused him: If on the contrary, it shall appear, that in Violation of this Engagement, be has opposed any Measures which I have recommended for the Prosecution of the War in which we are engaged with the Marattas, or for the general Support of the present political System of this Government; or that he has either himself proposed, or joined with another Member in proposing, a Measure, contrary to my Opinion on these Points, my Charge is established; I wish to avoid a Repetition of the Terms of it.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 11th September 1780.

PRESENT, The Governor General, Mr. Francis, Mr. Wheler, Sir Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis—The main Question between Mr. Hastings and me can be referred to no other Test but the public Opinion of our respective Characters: I appeal cheerfully to that Test, and am ready to abide by the Event of it. On the Point in Issue I can only declare, as I do now in the most solemn Manner, that I never was Party to the Engagement stated by Mr. Hastings, or had a Thought of being bound by it. In one of our Conversations in February last, he defired me to read a Paper of Memorandums, among which I presume this Article was inserted: I returned it to him the Moment I had read it, with a Declaration that I did not agree to, or hold myself bound by the Contents of it, or to that Effect; from that Time I have never seen the Paper. I never had a Copy of it, nor have I a positive Recollection of any thing it contained. The Agreement I meant to enter into with respect to the Maratta War was, to prosecute the Operations actually existing on the Malabar Coast, which, since the Campaign was begun, and General Goddard had already taken the Field, I thought should be pushed as vigorously as possible. I have no direct Evidence to produce in Support of this Declaration; but I imagine it will be strengthened in some Degree by the following Considerations: It is not said that the Plan of another Expedition from the Upper Country into Malva, or any other Part of the Maratta Dominions on that Side of India, had ever been fuggested to me. The Resolutions of the 29th May last, formed on the Governor General's own Propositions, constitute as I think a strong Presumption, that up to that Period the Governor General had not had that Measure in Contemplation, or that he must then have abandoned all Thoughts of it. On that Day it was unanimously resolved, that Captain Popham's Detachment should be recalled and reduced; and that he should be relieved by Four Battalions under Major Camac. In this Arrangement nothing appears to have been in the View of the Board but to diminish the Public Expense without departing from the Terms of the Treaty with the Rana of Ghode. Our Letters of the 20th April to the Presidency of Bombay, to Brigadier General Goddard, and to the Commander in Chief. express the unanimous Opinion of the Board, That our Resources were no longer equal to the Payment of General Goddard's Army without draining Bengal entirely of it's Specie; and that no Acquisition on the other Side of India could compensate for the Distresses which a Continuance of the War at the present Expense

*rould bring upon the Company. This indeed has been invariably my Opinion; but the Governor concurred in it, and drew up the Letters himself. The Evidence I appeal to, is public and authentic. It is not for me to determine how far it ought to be deemed conclusive. The Observations which I must now proceed to offer on some Passages in the Governor General's Minute, shall be as short and moderate as I can make them. I mean to lead the Reslections of others, from fair Presumptions to probable Conclusions, which is all that the Case will admit of; and by no Means to engage myself or the Governor in any further Controversy.

1. I am not acquainted with the Governor General's Plan for carrying on the War, from what Funds it is to be supported, or on what Terms he would make Peace. It seems to me, that the Demand from Two Members of the Board was regular, and in its Place. A very few Words would have been sufficient to tell us what were to be the final Objects of the War. I would not venture to state the loose Discourses of a private Conversation, if I recollected them, on a Subject of such very great Importance; nor can I agree, that the Object of the Question would be lost in the Time required for Deliberation.

2. The Governor General's Minute of the 28th of last Month, and the Letter from the Board of Trade of the 22d, are sufficient to shew that my Annual Computations of declining Finances and an exhausted Treasury were well founded. Every Department of the public Service is, and has been for several Months, in Arrear. As to the Deposit in the New Fort, it was placed there at my Motion; but long after Colonel Monson's Death, and with the Governor's Consent and Approbation. In the Secret Consultation of the 21st of May 1778, he speaks of it as a Fund which we have appropriated for our own extraordinary Occasions, and which we shall not break in upon for any other Service. I cannot conceive that I am hostile to Mr. Hastings in adhering to the Opinion which I have constantly and uniformly delivered on this Subject.

3. The Evidence of the Charge against me is drawn from a Paper written by the Governor himself, of which I never had a Copy; though from the Manner in which the Quotation is introduced it might naturally be taken for an Article in some formal Treaty between us. This is said to be the Proof of his Allegation; that is, the Charge and the Proof stand on the same Ground. In another Place, he admits that his Imputations are incapable of positive Evidence. I submit to Judgment, whether it even be presumptive, except of his own Thoughts or Intentions, which I do not mean to question. How would he receive, or how would he answer an Accusation against himself no better supported than this?

I submit to Judgment, whether the Engagement, as stated by Mr. Hastings, does not prove too much against me. Under the Terms of it, I must have consented to the March of every Battalion on the Bengal Establishment to the Malabar Coast, if Mr. Hastings had thought sit to propose it, or to any other Meafure whatsoever, without Exception or Limitation, which he might have recommended for the Support and Continuance of the War, from the Date of the Agreement. I at once renounce all my former Declarations and Opinions, and all Choice, Will, and Judgment for the future. Some Men perhaps may think me capable of fuch an Act; I hope and believe they are not many: But no Man who knows any thing of the World will think it possible that I could facrifice myself in so gross a Manner without some secret adequate Compensation, if any Compensation could be equal to it. On this Head I have no other Evidence to appeal to, and I desire no better than Mr. Hastings himself. If any thing was done or proposed by me for my Advantage, directly or indirectly, or if any thing was done or proposed for the Advantage of any other Person whatsoever beyond what was publicly known and avowed (I mean the Reinstatement of Mahomet Reza Cawn, Mr. Fowke, and Mr. Bristow, in Conformity to the Company's Orders) I call upon him to declare it. That of Mr. Bristow was the only Point of the Three which ! yielded to suspend until the Month of October, or until the first Advices of the Season from the Court of Directors. In the actual Situation of Affairs here, and with the alarming and calamitous Accounts we had then lately received from England, I thought some Agreement between Mr. Hastings, Mr. Wheler and myself, was essentially necessary to the public Safety: I therefore met Mr. Hastings with a sincere Disposition to come to an Agreement, and to forward it by every possible Facility on my Part. During the whole Course of the Transaction nothing of any Moment was faid or done without Mr. Wheler's Knowledge and Participation.

With respect to Mr Barwell's Departure, and the Inferences drawn from it, it is a Subject of which no Man at Home can judge so well as they who are on the Spot, and see what passes. The little I shall say of it is offered as Matter of Opinion, not Evidence. I believe it, for Instance, to be the Opinion of many well-informed Persons in this Settlement, as it is now firmly my own, that Mr. Barwell was determined to go Home last Season at all Events, and that the Swallow was kept for several Months on purpose for him. If so, Mr. Hastings gained something, and could lose nothing, by his Agreement with me. But as Mr. Barwell's going Home was never demanded by me, nor ever entered into the Agreement, I have no Concern in Mr. Hastings's Motives for consenting to it.

If I deserved the Character attributed to me, I should not acknowledge as I do the Force of an Argument deduced by Mr. Hastings from the desenceless Condition in which he was supposed to be lest by Mr. Barwell's Departure. It is such an Argument as can only be selt by a Man of Honour. I admit the Principle laid down by Mr. Hastings, as far as it can be urged with any Colour of Reason or Justice. Whether I have departed from it or not, is a Question of Fact. Let it only be observed, that such a Principle is as liable to be abused on one Side, as to be violated on the other. Push the Inferences from it as far as they will go, and who does not see that a Tyranny may be created by it over the Mind of a Man of nice Sensibility, and fearful of Reproach? With such a Weapon, so exercised, Rep. VI.

APPENDIX, Nº 288.

Mr. Hastings would possess a Power which he assuredly never had while Mr. Barwell was in the Country.

The Whole of this unfortunate Question between Mr. Hastings and me, must some Time or other appear before the Public. I do not wish to prejudice the Mind of any Man against him. My Conduct perhaps may be condemned on other Ground; but I do not see how it can be fairly imputed to base or interested Views. The Cause which I have hitherto endeavoured to maintain, is not mine; I have no greater personal Concern in it than any other Member of the Community. After all, what is it to me more than to any other Man, whether there be a Maratta War or not, or in what Manner is is conducted?

P. Francis.

Consultation, September 11th, 1780. Secret Department.

Mr. Wheler—It is not without some Pain that, in Obedience to the Dictates of my Judgment I beg Leave to refer to the Governor General's Minute of the 3d July, in order to offer a few Remarks upon the introductory Point which alone has Relation to me. If the Governor General does not in that Part leave it to be imagined that I have professed Sentiments which were not my own, he at least takes it for granted that there is something extraordinary in the Junction of my Name with Mr Francis's in the Opinions we have delivered respecting the Maratta War. To this Inserence I deem it my Duty to object. It is not in my Apprehension perfectly in Accord with that Freedom which essentially belongs to every Gentleman who is entrusted with a Scat at this Board, namely that of delivering such Opinions as he judges proper, and in the Manner most agreeable to himself. The Minutes to which I have subscribed were the Result of my own Reslections, and the only Opinions I have entertained on the Subject of the Maratta War. So long as I deliver Opinions thus genuine, it is a Question of no Moment in what Form they are presented. If my Actions or private Discourses have been contrary to my public Opinions, then and then only is there any Ground given for questioning the Sincerity, or diminishing the Credit of them. I have thought alike with Mr. Francis on a particular Subject, and therefore we have subscribed to the same Opinions, and I hope that to often as I have the Pleasure of agreeing in Sentiment with the Governor General, he will give me Credit for following the Dictates of my Judgment only, believing that I shall join in no Opinion contrary to my own Sentiments, or inconsistent with my own Honour. I beg Leave to remind the Governor General, that this is no new Language with me, having spoken clearly to the same Purport before.

Whatever Difference of Sentiment may arise between the several Members of this Government, in Discharge of the great Trust reposed in them (and Differences will sometimes unavoidably happen) it shall always be my Study and Endeavour to preserve Candour and Moderation in our Councils. No other Temper I am certain can extricate us from our present Difficulties, or bring us heartily to unite in one Object, the Good of the Public.

E. Wheler.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 13th November 1780.

PRESENT,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,
Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent.

The following Minute from the Governor General having been received on the 5th Instant, it was circulated for the Perusal of the Members of the Board:

5th November 1780.

Governor General—I have suffered Mr. Francis's Minute of the 11th September to lie thus long unanswered, because other Cares of a stronger Obligation have required and have engrossed the Whole of my Attention; and I now revert to it with Resuctance, as to a necessary, yet unavailing Duty. To pass in utter Silence the Assertions of Mr. Francis, would be implicitly to admit their Credit; nor can I enter on their Resutation without appearing to claim the public Notice to an Argument of a private Concern, for such it may be deemed in the present State of it, though originating from a very different Source. I shall therefore begin by stating the original Question on its proper Ground, and shall proceed as briefly as possible to free it from the salse Colourings which may have been thrown upon it.

Let it be remembered, that I am a Servant of the Company and of the Public, and entrusted with the Interest of both. In that Character I have charged Mr. Francis with having used very unjustifiable Means to deprive me of the Power which I possessed of fulfilling that Trust. My Charge is less a Complaint against him, than a Vindication of myself. This is a general State of the Question. The particular Instance relating to it is, that Mr. Francis has broken an Engagement on his Part, to allow me the entire and unconditional Exercise of that Trust, and to support me in it. This I affirm and he denies.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 288.

What that Engagement was, I have expressed in Terms in my Minute of the 3d July. Mr. Francis in answerdeclares, and "in the most solemn Manner, that he never was Party to the Engagement stated "by me, or had a Thought of being bound by it."

What can I say to such a Declaration, but to declare on my Part, and in as solemn a Manner, that Mr. Francis was a Party to the Engagement which I have stated? This I now do most solemnly declare; and may God be Judge between us !

The Manner in which it was concluded I will now relate: About the Month of January last, Sir John Day proposed to me an Accommodation with Mr. Francis, and offered his Mediation to effect it, judging himself to be the best qualified for such an Office by the Relation in which he stood of a common and equal Friend to both. I cheerfully accepted the Offer; but apprized him that there was One Preliminary Condition which I should exert as indispensable, namely, that Mr. Francis should agree to depart from his Opposition to the political Measures proposed by me, and allow me, without Exception or Qualification, to prescribe the Mode of conducting the Maratta War. This Point was a long Time contested by Mr Francis, but was at length adjusted finally in this Manner: That Mr. Francis should not oppose me, nor yet charge himself with the Responsibility of any Proposal made by me, which had any Relation to the War; but support it by his Vote as the Result of a general Measure which he had originally disapproved, and which he now left, with the Responsibility properly annexed to it, to its original Contriver.

This Point being thus fettled, I drew it up in Writing on a small Piece of Paper in the Words which I have already quoted, with other Propositions, of which some had, and others had not received our final and mutual Agreement.

This Paper, with some Apology, I shewed to Mr. Francis, desiring him to read it attentively, and to inform me, whether he agreed to the Conditions as I had expressed them, or to point out his Exceptions. To the First Article, which is that of the present Question, he replied hastily, and with every Appearance of Satisfaction, that he entirely agreed to it, adding among other Expressions, as I well remember, that his Meaning plainly was not to avail himself of Mr. Barwell's Departure from the Council, to oppose me in any political Point which he could not have carried had Mr. Barwell continued.

The other Articles received some Variations, and were all finally regulated at the same Meeting. Of these, as they do not relate to the Question before me, I shall take no farther Notice. For the Truth of this Narrative I appeal to Sir John Day, to whom I daily communicated what passed on this Business, and to Mr. Barwell, to whom I in like Manner related the daily Progress of it. They will both attest that my Relation of it at the Time was exactly such as I now repeat it. It is impossible to suggest a Motive which I could have had to deceive them at such a Time, and on such a Subject, and as impossible that I myself should be deceived, when I took such sure Means to ascertain it. Yet Mr. Francis affirms, "that he returned the Paper to me the Moment he had read it, with a Declaration " that he did not agree to it, or hold himself bound by the Contents of it."

But if I understand Mr. Francis's Minute in its general Tenor, it is intended to convey a total Disavowal of his having entered into any Engagement whatever with me. He speaks of "the Agreement which he meant to enter into with respect to the Maratta War." He says that "he sthought some Agreement between Mr. Hastings, Mr. Wheler, and himself, was essentially necessary to the Public Safety, he therefore met Mr. Hastings, with sincere Disposition to come to an Agreement, and to forward it with every Facility on his Part." Yet in no Part of the Minute, neither in the Context of these Passages, where it might be expected, nor in any other Place, can I find an Expression that indicates an Acknowledgment that any Agreement did actually take place, although such was his Meaning, although he thought it necessary to the Public Safety, and met me with so sincere a Disposition to forward it by every Facility on his Part. If Mr. Francis does not deny the Agreement, why are these qualifying Expressions used to evade it? If he means to deny it, what possible Reason can be affigned for its not having been concluded, or for such a Repugnance on my Part to second a Disposition so savourable on his, when the Consequence of my suffering Mr. Barwell to depart without some Adjustment, would be a total Annihilation of my Instrument and Participation in all the Acts of this Government?

But that there did exist some Engagement between us, I appeal to Mr. Wheler, "without whose Knowledge and Participation," Mr. Francis affirms, that "nothing of any Moment was faid or done during the whole Course of the Transaction;" I appeal to every Individual of the Settlement for the Notoriety of it, which is beyond the Conviction of all Evidence.

Mr. Francis has attempted to prove, that the Agreement which he meant to enter into with respect to the Maratta War, was to prosecute the Operations ac ually existing on the Malabar Coast, and no more, by Arguments drawn from my own Propositions. These might prove my Sense of an Agreement actually concluded, but are no Evidence of his Intention on a Point which was never brought to an Issue. But in Effect they prove nothing. My Proposition of the 29th of May, was the Substitute of one much more extensive, which I had formed for the Relief of Captain Popham's Detachment, by Four regular Battalions under Major Camac, and for the Employment of Captain Popham's Corps on another Service. At Mr. Francis's Instance I omitted the latter Clause, and yielded, very reluctantly I own, to recall and reduce Captain Popham's Corps. This was by every Opinion judged unsit by its Construction and Equipment for the Service, and I was glad to obtain, almost at any Rate, the quiet Concurrence of the Board to its Exchange for a better. It is possible that at that Time I might not have had in View the immediate Prosecution of the Expedition against Malva, nor is this material, either to the Engagement which I affirm Mr. Francis did conclude with me, or to the Agreement which he fays he meant to enter into, fince the Profecution of the War against the Marattas was the general Object of both, and the Means of Course included in it. But that I certainly had this Plan in Contemplation, and that I had considered it as a decided Measure, long before the Period of my supposed Coalition with Mr. Francis, will appear from the Treaty concluded with the Ranah of Ghode, of which it forms an express and principal Stipulation. To remove all Possibility of Doubt on this Head, I will quote the Article itself, which relates to it.

Article 5th. "In case it shall be adjudged advisable to employ the combined Forces of the Company and the Maha Rajah in any hostile Operations against the Marattas, beyond the Borders of the Maha Rajah's Dominions, on Requisition made to him in Writing from this Government, he shall furn sh Ten thousand Horse for such Service, and each Party shall bear his own separate Expence; and if upon the Return of the English Forces towards their own Borders, the Maha Rajah shall have Occasion for their Services, and shall make a Requisition to retain them, from the Instant of such Requisition he shall pay their Charge in the same Manner as stipulated in the Second Article. But it shall not be required of the Maha Rajah, nor be in the Power of this Gowernment, to detach or employ his Troops beyond the furthest Borders of Oogein and Indoor without his special Consent."

Hence it appears, that the Plan for an Expedition into Malva, of which Oogein is the Capital, did conflitute a Part of the general Measures adopted and in Force for the Profecution of the Maratta War, and must have been necessarily comprehended, equally in the Agreement which Mr. Francis meant to enter into with me, and in that which I understood him to have entered into. When I proposed the Execution of it, other Circumstances had recently occurred. General Goddard had solicited us to make such a Diversion in his Favour, and the Commander in Chief had passionately recommended it as the only Means of bringing the War to a speedy Termination.

That I regretted the Expense of the War, that I saw no Object in the Continuance of it that could compensate for the Distresses of it, and that of Course I anxiously wished to accelerate the Conclusion of it, is certain: and this was an additional Excitement to me to use every Exertion for that End, knowing that many Lacks effectually disbursed with such a Purpose was a Saving, compared to an indefinite Series of defensive Operations, soun out by seeble and scanty Supplies.

indefinite Series of defensive Operations, spun out by feeble and scanty Supplies.

Having already far exceeded the Limits which I had prescribed to my Reply, I shall pass with Speed through the remaining and less material Parts of Mr. Francis's Minute.

The Engagement, as I have stated it, was conformable to my Opinion of the Obligation of Mr. Francis's Public Office, independant of any private Compact: In his Situation I should have gone yet further. Having acquitted myself of my Duty in opposing a great public Measure which I had disapproved until it had been too far advanced for Recall, and would admit of no Resource but in a speedy Prosecution of it to its speedy Termination, I should have deemed it criminal to continue the Opposition; I should have deemed it insufficient even to withhold it by a negative Acquiescence, but should have given as active a Support to the Measure in such a State of it, as if it had my original Approbation, leaving the Formation of the depending Operations, and the Responsibility of the Whole, to the original Author. Such was my Declaration at the Time; perhaps Mr. Francis will remember it; and on such Principles, my own Conduct has been regulated in more than One Instance of my Public Life.

Mr. Barwell's Departure depended on the Issue of the Negociation between Mr. Francis and me.

It was undetermined to the last Moment of the Swallow's final Dispatch.

This Mr. Francis certainly knew, for I myself mentioned it to him, and by the Advice of Mr. Barwell. It is a Fact which does Mr. Barwell Credit, and I have therefore no Scruple in revealing it.

5th Nov. 1780.

(Signed)

W. Hastings.

At Mr. Francis's Defire, the following Minute, dated the 27th of November, in Reply to the preceding from the Governor General, is entered in this Place, with the Papers annexed to it.

Fran is's nute, dated November,

Mr. Francis—The preceding Paper leaves the main Question where it stood, nor is it to be decided by any human Tribunal.

In my former Minute, I did not appeal, as I might have done, to the Testimony of several Gentlemen of the First Rank and Credit in this Place, for the Sense which I uniformly expressed to them, of my Engagement with Mr. Hastings, respecting the Maratta War; partly because such Evidence, however it might establish my Declarations, would not be conclusive to the Truth of them; but much more, because I was unwilling to introduce the Names of Gentlemen whom I respect, into the Discussion of such a Transaction, or to make them Parties in any Shape to a Question of this Nature. The same Motives prevail with me still.

Admitting that the Means taken by Mr. Hastings, to ascertain his Sense of what passed between us, were proper on his Part, and necessary to prevent his being deceived, it was equally necessary that I also should have the same Security, and that I should have been furnished with a Copy of the Paper, by which I was supposed to be bound, otherwise One of the contracting Parties remains exclusively possessed of the only existing Evidence of the Terms of the Contract. In me it would have been irregular to demand a Copy of a Paper, by which I did not deem myself bound.

No

A P P E N D I X, Nº 288.

No Argument or Evidence is requisite to prove what never was disputed. I necessarily admit the Fxistence of an Engagement, when I declare the Sense in which I made it; by using Terms that referred particularly to my own Meaning or Intentions, my Purpose was to avoid the useless offensive Language of Contradiction, in a public Minute, which had no Object but to explain and defend my own Conduct. This being said, the Observations sounded on the equivocal Import of a Word, or on a general Misconstruction of my Meaning, require no Reply.

From the Fifth Article of the Treaty with the Ranna of Gohud, it can only be inferred that, when the Treaty was formed in the Beginning of November 1779, the Possibility of an Expedition beyond the Borders of his Dominions was supposed, in which the Ranna was to join and assist, if we required it. This might have been one of the distant Objects in Contemplation, when the Treaty was constructed. But it still remains a Question whether it was, or was not relinquished by Mr.

Hastings, in the Interval between that Period, and the Month of February following.

Realoning strictly from the Treaty, I was not obliged to consent to the March of Major Camac's Detachment in the Form in which it was proposed. The eventual Execution of the Project of an Expedition beyond the Borders of the Ranna's Dominions, according to the Terms of the Treaty, was united with the Condition of his furnishing a Body of 10,000 Horse, for such Service; but by the Instructions proposed to be given to Major Camac, it will appear that this Assistance was not expected from him.

In the Third Article of the Instructions, it is supposed that the Ranna may dismiss the Detachment, or that before its March into Goliud, the Major might receive an Intimation in Writing, that he did not require its Assistance. In the former Case, Major Camac is to return into Oude; in the latter, he was to suspend his March, and wait for further Orders.

By the 4th Article, Major Camac is directed "to require from the Ranna his Proportion of Ca"valry stipulated by the Treaty; or in case of his Inability, whether from the Season of the Year,
"or from whatever other Cause, to fulfil the Condition in its complete Extent, to require and ac"cept from him such other Aid in furnishing Provisions and in forming Magazines of Grain, and other Means of Subsistence and Communication, as Major Camac shall judge equivalent to it."

Admitting therefore that according to the Treaty, an Expedition into Malva had conflituted a Part of the general Measures adopted and in Force for the Prosecution of the Maratta War; my Assent to it could not be separated from the Condition expressed in the Treaty itself, viz. that the Ranna should furnish 10,000 Horse for that Service; but by the Plan of Major Camac's Instructions, this Condition is relinquished, and some other Demands proposed in the Place of it, from which I imagine no great Advantage was expected.

I have not seen any Letter from General Goddard, in which he solicits the Board to make a Diversion in his Favour. The only one in which he takes Notice of the Advantages to be obtained by a Diversion to the Northward, was dated the 20th June, and received the 24th August last, consequently could make no Part of an Argument in Support of a Measure, proposed and debated here in the Beginning of June; nor was it ever mentioned, that I know of, before this Time, as it naturally should have been when the Measure was under Deliberation. An Extract of that Part of his Letter is annexed.

In an Agreement of this Kind, the strictest Precision of Dates should be observed, and the Facts stated in the Order in which they happened. On this Principle I join Issue with the Governor General, and affirm, in his own Terms, that when he proposed the Execution of the Measure (that is on the 12th of June last) General Goddard had not solicited us to make such a Diversion in his Favour. The Fact, if it exists, is capable of immediate and direct Proof.

But let it be admitted, that he had done so; that his Opinion or Request had been before us on the 12th of June, and that it ought to have had a considerable Weight in the Choice of Measures necessary to support him, still it could only have Weight at the Time when we received it. It is undoubtedly just, and not natural, that General Goddard's Advice and Recommendation on such a Point, should have influenced Mr. Hastings's Judgment. On this Principle 1 have a Right to conclude, that in January and February last, when I conversed and engaged with Mr. Hastings on this Subj. St, he had no Idea of another Expedition from the upper Country to support General Goddard, because he could not then have entertained such an Idea, without contradisting the express Opinion of General Goddard, as it slood before us. I appeal to General Goddard's Letter to the President and Council of Bombay, dated 3d of November 1779, and recorded in our Consultation of the 24th of February, and to his Letter to us of the 10th of December 1779, received here the 20th of January last, from which the Extracts annexed to this Minute are literally taken.

With this Knowledge of General Goddard's Sentiments it now remains to be accounted for on any probable Ground, why Mr. Hastings at the latter End of February should have entertained a Thought of supporting General Goddard's Operations by another Expedition from hence, when he had it from General Goddard himself, that the Troops under his Command must be superior to any Service that could possibly be required of them, and equal to the most complete and absolute Success.

Whatever Plan of Operations the Commander in Chief might have recommended from Lucknow, it certainly did not meet with the Governor General's Concurrence; whether Sir Eyre Coote approved of that which was adopted, is a Point on which I am not sufficiently informed, to speak with Certainty, but I am entitled to conclude generally, from the strong and pointed Term of his Protest against the Treaty with the Rana of Gohud, that no Measures built on that Foundation were likely to meet with Rep. VI.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 288.

his Approbation. The following Paffage is in Point, as it expresses his Opinion of an Expedition into Mahé, in conjunction with the Rana, on the Principles of the Treaty. "Again, by the 5th Article, when the combined Troops may have marched to Oogein, or Indoor, to seek the Enemy and to deliver Battle, the Rana may, agreeably to Treaty, leave us to stand the Brunt alone—a Point of partial Convenience to him, by which, without supposing him to betray us (which he may also do agreeably to Treaty) our whole Army may be lost."

Other Observations on the Governor General's Minute occur to me, but as the Remainder of it is not effential to the main Question, they may better be omitted.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Referred to in Mr. Francis's Ainute. Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the Governor General and Council, dated 20th June 1780: Received 24th August.

If Scindia continues at Ugein till the Close of the Rains, which I now conceive will be the Case, a powerful Diversion might be made in that Quarter, to prevent his passing to the Southward of the Nerbeddah to succour Nana Furnesse; and I would venture to pronounce, as far as human Probability and Reason may presume, that without Scindia's Aid, the Minister would be immediately compelled to Terms, and enter into any Engagements that might be required of him. This is no chimerical Idea; for besides Scindia and Holcar, there remain only Two Chiefs of Consequence in the State, Nana, and Hurry Punt Fakier; and I do not believe that any Foreign Power will draw upon himself the future Enmity of the English, by openly declaring his Party, and marching to their Assistance.

In the Event of such powerful Diversion being made to the Northward, Scindia will find too much Employment at Home to have Leisure to raise any Disturbance in Guzerat; and indeed the Sepoy Force, which may very well be spared in that Province, acting with the Troops of Futty Sing, which it may not perhaps be convenient to carry with me to the Southward, will prove sufficient for its Security and Defence against a very large Body of the Enemy, should any considerable Army (which in the Plan abovementioned appears scarcely practicable) be ordered to enter it.

Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the President and Council of Bombay, dated the 3d November 1779.

The trifling and unequal Force the French at prefent have in India, and the certain Accounts we have from Europe to make us believe they cannot now be reinforced, secure us from any Apprehensions of being interrupted in our Operations by them this Season; and seems indeed to furnish one very principal Reason why we ought to lose no Time in strengthening, and firmly establishing ourselves during the Course of it. The Troops which will soon be collected at Surat, must be superior to any Service that can possibly be required of them, and equal to the most complete and absolute Success. But the Bengal Army, together with the Detachment under Colonel Braithwaite at Mahé, and such Proportion of Troops from this Settlement as you may judge it expedient and consistent with the mere Sasety of the Island to detach, will be found able to execute any Plan of Operations that may be immediately resolved upon, and against the whole Force of the Maratta Empire.

Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the Governor General and Council, dated 10th December 1779: Received 20th January 1780.

I have been thus particular in describing this Detachment, that you may know the exact Force I shall have under my Command, and how fully sufficient to answer any Service that may be required of them.

With respect to the Troops from Mahé, for the remaining Quota to be furnished by the Madras Presidency I have yet received no Intelligence; I do not expect even to be joined by any Part of them previous to the Commencement of Operations; at least their Junction is so uncertain, that no Account can at present be made of the Accession of their Force; nor indeed will this Circumstance be of any material Consequence for some Time, as the Strength of the Army now under me is sufficient to accomplish the Scheme of Conquest at present proposed, and the Madras Reinforcements, if sent, must arrive soon enough to assist in prosecuting any more important Views that may be hereafter found convenient and practicable.

The following Minute from the Governor General was delivered in reply to the above from Mr. Francis.

Governor General—I must be careful not to suffer myself to be drawn from the Point which is directly in question, the Engagement which I affirm to have passed between Mr. Francis and myself; this I repeat, that it may not be forgotten: viz.

" Mr. Francis

Mr. Francis will not oppose any Measures which the Governor General shall recommend for the Prosecution of the War in which we are supposed to be engaged with the Marattas, or for the general Support of the present Political System of this Government: Neither will he himself either propose, or vote with any other Member who shall propose, any Measure that shall be contrary to the Governor General's Opinion on these Points."

Mr. Francis admits that some Engagement did exist between him and me, but denies the Terms of it; and I do again most solemnly affirm, that they were literally such as I have quoted them in my Minute of the 3d July, and such as I have here repeated. The Paper which I shewed to Mr. Francis was not intended as a Security, nor have I ever alluded to it as such. My Security was in his Honour, on which I implicitly relied; nor did I commit the Terms of the Engagement to Writing for any other Purpose than to guard against the Misapprehensions to which an Agreement, formed and concluded in Conversation only, was liable; and his Answer satisfied me: I regarded it as equivalent to the most binding, legal Instrument. As to my own Sense of its Obligations, I gave the fullest Proof by the immediate Performance of my Part of it; but were the Engagement otherwise than I have represented it, and did it even bear the limited Sense which Mr. Francis has ascribed to it, yet I have affirmed, that Mr. Francis was equally bound by it to yield his Assent, (his negative Assent, for more 1 claimed not) to the Measure which I proposed in June, of a Diversion in the Province of Malva, since it formed a Part of the Measures projected and actually existing before the Engagement took place: In Proof of this, I have quoted the 5th Article of the Treaty with the Rana of Gohud, which stipulates that he shall assist us, if required, in an Expedition against the Province of Malva. I do not understand Mr. Francis's Distinction, when he says, that from this Article, "it can only be inferred, that when the "Treaty was formed in November 1779, the Possibility of an Expedition beyond the Borders of his "Dominions was supposed, &c. &c." The Condition was positive and express, and constituted as effential an Obligation of the Treaty as either of the other Two Points which composed it, and which may be equally faid to infer the like Possibility, since the Cases supposed by either could not exist with the other Two. But Mr. Francis forgets the Purpose for which I have appealed to the 5th Article of the Treaty with the Rhana of Gohud, which was to prove "that the Plan of another Evandular formation of the Treaty with the Rhana of Gohud, which was to prove "that the Plan of another Expedition from the Upper Country into Malva, or any other Part of the Maratta Dominions on that Side of India, had been suggested to him, and that I had had that Matter in Contemplation," which Mr. Francis in his Minute of the 11th of September denies. I have proved that I had it in Contemplation, and that it had been suggested to Mr. Francis, since it was an Article of a Treaty concluded and executed Two Months before the Date of my Engagement with Mr. Francis, debated and passed at the Board, and executed by him.

"But (Mr. Francis adds) it still remains a Question, whether it was, or was not relinquished by "Mr. Hastings, in the Interval between that Period and the Month of February following?"—To this I cannot reply, for I do not know how this became a Question, since nothing less than my formal Renunciation of it could possibly make it one, and I am certain I never did renounce it.

The subsequent Reasonings of Mr. Francis on the additional Clause of the Fifth Article, do not appear to me to have any Relation to the Subject; I therefore pass them. I have not Time to examine the Whole of General Goddard's Correspondence received before the 12th June; but the following Extracts from Sir Eyre Coote's Letter to the Board, dated the 5th May, and of General Goddard's Letter to him, dated the 28th March, and enclosed in the former, contain such strong and pointed Evidence of the Sentiments of both, respecting the general Expediency of a Diversion in favour of General Goddard, that any further Search for accessary Proofs is unnecessary.

"To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, &c. &c. and Members of the Supreme Council.

Gentlemen,

I have the Honour to enclose you an Extract of the last Letter I have received from General Goddard, which I take the Liberty of laying before you, as it contains Sentiments entirely conformable to what I have already stated to you, regarding the Mode of carrying on the present War; though I did not want such a Confirmation of my former Ideas upon this Subject. General Goddard now declares himself confined to the Defence of the Territory newly acquired, which, as I foretold, was a necessary Consequence of the Plan adopted. I cannot therefore avoid reiterating my Proposal of some vigorous Measures being taken from these Quarters, as soon as the Season will admit. This appears to me the more pressing, as I find since I have lest the Board, that we are become Principals in the War; and the present Plan promises nothing but an endless, ruinous Expence. I therefore beg Leave to repeat, that while I recommend the most vigorous Exertions, it is only with a View to accelerate a Peace, which in the present State of Politics at Home would in my Opinion be the happiest Event that could happen to us.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

" Extract of Brivadier General Goddard's Letter, dated the 28th March 1780.

My last gave you a very particular Information of the Situation of Scindia's Forces, which he we then collecting from all Parts of his Country, to accompany him into Guzerat, since which lime he has been joined by 5,000 Horse from Ugein; and it is reported, that another considerable Body is on their March towards him; so that the Northern Provinces of the Maratta State, which are nost; belonging to himself and Holkar, must be now greatly exposed, and open to Invasions from our upportunities, by the Way of Golud, and the extensive Provinces of Asmeze, the principal Rajah of which, the Marwar Rajah, is I believe by no Means well disposed to the Interests of Scindia: I have no positive Proof of this being the Case, having had no Correspondence or other Communication with him whatever since my Arrival on this Side of India, but it is a Circumstance generally believed, and has its Foundation in former Disputes, and I mention it to you, among other Incidents, to give you an Opportunity of judging how far it may be practicable, as it would certainly be of Advantage to the Operations of the War on this Side, to cause a powerful Diversion to be made on the other; which could not fail to distress and divide their Attention exceedingly.

Having no Object to induce me to penetrate into Malva, but on the contrary, risking the most material Interests of the Company, by leaving the Province of Guzerat, and the Sea Coast, to the Inroads either of an European or Indian Enemy, I can only at present watch the Motions of Scindia to prevent him from over-running or destroying the Country; and if possible, seize some favourable Opportunity of attacking him, which as it is his only Care to avoid, I shall find some Difficulty to effect.

A true Extract.

(Signed) Win Tierney, Sec¹⁹ to the Commander in Chief."

In Compliance with the Rule prescribed by Mr. Francis, I have been careful to annex the Dates to the preceding Extracts; and for greater Precision will repeat them, with the Facts stated in the Order in which they happened.

General Goddard's Letter to Sir Eyre Coote is dated the 28th March, and was recorded in our Confultation of the 29th May. My Minute, which contained the First Proposition of the Expedition, was dated the 12th June.

Mr. Francis will now permit me to quote his Words for their Application to the Close of the Argument: "On this Principle I join Issue with the Governor General, and affirm in his own "Terms, that when he proposed the Execution of the Measure, (that is on the 12th June last) General Goddard had not solicited us to make such a Diversion in his Favour. The Fact, if it exists, is capable of immediate and direct Proof."

The preceding Extracts are an immediate and direct Proof of the Fact.

I do not answer the Remainder of Mr. Francis's Minute, because it proves nothing but that my Opinion of the Measures necessary to be pursued for the Prosecution of the Maratta War, varied according to the Variations and Contingencies of the War; which I admit; still insisting, in the Words of my last Minute, that this is not material either to the Engagement which I affirm Mr. Francis dat conclude with me, or to the Agreement which he says he meant to enter into, since the Prosecution of the War against the Marattas was the general Object of both, and the Means of course included in it.

from Surprizes by Night, and the Distance they keep from us have excluded every Possibility of Attack by Day; however, as we advance their Forts furrender to the Ranah, and probably from their Terror and Alarm they will soon retreat, for the Rainy Season, to some distant Place of Security.

I have received from the Adjutant General, a Copy of the Board's Resolutions for the Relief of the Detachment, and shall accordingly prepare for that Event, by using every Means in my Power to prevent so extraordinary a Change in the Face of an Enemy, from hurting the public Service. With a Hope that it may not be deemed a Deviation from the high Respects in which I hold the Pleasure of the Board, permit me to remark, that nothing could equal my Astonishment at this Measure, but the Regret and Disappointment I professionally feel in being withdrawn from the Campaign immediately after receiving most honourable Marks of your Approbation. Such Proofs of your perfect Satisfaction, Gentlemen, that myself, my Officers, and indeed the whole Army, could not but consider as Omens of your Intentions to employ us in the Prosecution of a Service we had success. fully began. But as my Conduct has not been deemed unworthy of your good Opinion, I shall still retain Hopes of my Services being demanded on some future active Occasion, and exerted to a happier Issue.

Letter from Captain William Popham to the Governor General and Council; in General Letter 26th August 1780.

To the Honourable Warren Haftings, Esquire, Governor General, and Council.

Gentlemen,

I Yesterday had the Pleasure of congratulating you on the Capture of Gwalior by the Detachment under my Command. Exclusive that it is my Duty to submit my Conduct in every Respect to the Judgment of Administration, I flatter myself that a Detail of the Disposition of so fortunate and honorary an Enterprize will be both pleasing and satisfactory.

This Place, Gentlemen, having been pronounced, and with Justice, by the Princes of Hindostan, as far as their Knowledge in Military Matters extended, to be impregnable, and being so situated as to render an Examination of it which could be absolutely relied on, a Service of Danger and Uncertainty, I have for a long Time balanced in my Mind the most eligible Mode of Attack. In order to gain this Information, after fecuring the new Conquest of the Cutchwagaar District, I marched to Ripore, a Village about Five Coss distant from Gwalior. My Spies were then continually employed in searching for a Part of it fit for Escalading. After many and dangerous Trials they at length brought me Advice that one Part only bore the Appearance of Practicability: Their Description of it reduced my Hopes to a Possibility of Success. The Fort is nearly Three Coss in Extent, built on an exceeding high Rock, scarped for the most Part all round, and garrisoned by a Thousand Men. The Part that the Guides proposed our Ascent by, was where the Scarp was about Sixteen Feet high; from hence to the Wall a steep Ascent of about Forty Yards; and the Wall to be Escaladed, about Thirty Feet in Heighth. I took the Resolution immediately. The Object was also in the Description and I made a Dissertion. Heighth. I took the Resolution immediately. The Object was glorious, and I made a Disposition to prevent as much as in my Power, in case of a Repulse, that the Lois we should sustain might not tarnish the Honour of the Attempt.

I formed the Detachment for the Service, without any Assistance from our Ally.

On the 3d at Midnight, Lieutenant Cameron, the Field Engineer, having prepared Ladders and every other Requisite for scaling, with great Dispatch and Secrecy, I ordered the Party for the Attack to be formed. Captain Bruce, whose Abilities are well known to you, at the Head of Two Companies of Grenadiers and Light Infantry, commanded by Lieutenants Wilson, Archibald Scott, Allen, and Patterson, led the Van of the Party. They were followed by myself, with Twenty Europeans under Lieutenant Legortwood, and Two Battalions of Sepoys, under the Command of Lieutenants Ford and Hamilton; Captain Maclary with his Battalion, Two Guns, and the Cavalry, received Orders to march at Two, in order to cover our Retreat in case of a premature Discovery; or, in the Event of Success, to prevent Ambajce, with his Troops, from escaping. The Camp was left standing, under Charge of Captains Mayaffre and Clode, with a Battalion.

At Break of Day the Van arrived at the Foot of the scarped Rock, where Wooden Ladders were immediately placed, and the Troops ascended to the Wall, when the Spies climbed up and fixed the Rope Ladders; the Sepoys then mounted with amazing Activity: The Guards on the Alarm assembled to the Plain in order to dislodge the Assalants, but our Fire soon repulsed them with great Loss, and the Detachment pouring in very fast, we pushed on to the Body of the Place. The greatest Part of the Garrison had however taken Advantage of the Time employed in forming the Troops, and quitted the Fort with Precipitation. The Conquest was now complete; at Sun-rife, or a little after, we were Masters of the strongest Hold in India. Many Prifoners, and some of Note, such as Peer Khaun Keladar, and some particular Friends of Babajee, are fallen into our Hands. The latter was mortally wounded in the Attack, and killed himself with a Dagger in going out of the Fort-

From the Rana of Gohud: Received 5th September 1780.

Yesterday the 2d of Shabaun, by the Assistance and Blessing of God, the Fort of Gwalior was conquered. I was consident from your former Favours that all my Wishes would be brought to a happy Issue; and from the Beginning of my Life to this Time this was my most ardent Desire, that by some Means I might be restored to my Habitation, and thus gain additional Henour in the Sight of my Cotemporaries; and accordingly I am now in peaceable Possession of my House, and have succeeded in my Wishes. What can I now return you equal to this Favour, except my Life? Phis Designs remain for my latest Posterity and Descendants to pay.

As I had no Confidence in my Army, on account of their being lately raifed, and as I knew Secrecy and Caution to be necessary, I therefore had delayed sending them; but upon the Receipt of your Orders to Toffuzzit Hossein Khan, directing him to give me Satisfaction that this Place will not be retained by the Sirkar, on that same Day 1 receive complete Satisfaction that you had in Consideration of my Attachment entered into a Treaty with me, and had made known your friendly Intentions to Meer Muzhir Ally Khan; and I knew that my Dignity would increase daily, and that I should be exalted in Power. Agreeable to your Orders, keeping this a Secret from even my Relations, I sent to Captain Popham those People in my Service who were acquainted with the Fort of Gwalior, that they might procure an easy Entrance for the Gentlemen into the Fort. Captain Popham ordered these Men to take some of his People with them, and shew them the Fort. That same Night they accordingly took Two Hircarrahs of the Sirkar with them, and went near the Fort, and at their Return gave great Satisfaction to the Captain, telling him that they would affix Ladders to the Fort and slay any of the Chokidars who might be awake and on Duty. Captain Popham having approved, I sent all the Rope Ladders which were in Readiness, and I and my People by the Blessing of God executed every thing which we had promised, and conducted the Captain safely into the Fort by the upper Road, and the Fort was thus taken. In all Five of the Enemies were killed, and Two of my People were wounded; they arrived at the Fort Two Gurries before Midgish. I have been making great Rejoicings that the English have bestowed on me a House, and design entering it in a Day or Two.

All the Rajahs of Hindostan are now convinced of your Favour to me, from your having restored to the right Owner his Right, after Thirty Years Dispossession. I will leave my People there, and prosecute the War till not One Man is left on this Side of the Nurbudda. I have now nothing lest to hope for, my Country will now be cultivated. All the Rajahs now direct their Hopes towards you, and are in Readiness at all Times. I shall remain fixed in my Attachment, and have forgot the Distresses and Anxieties which I before suffered, and which your Favour has now removed.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Sirs.

THE Departure of a Danish Ship from hence to Europe, at this Time, affords us an Opportunity of informing you of the Capture of the important Fortress of Gwalior, possessed by the Marattas in the Country of our Ally the Rhana of Ghode. It was taken by Escalade on the 4th of this Month.

Month, by a Detachment of the Company's Troops under the Command of Captain William Popham. For Particulars relative to this Event, we beg Leave to refer you to the inclosed Copy of a Letter written to us by Captain Popham, under Date the 5th Instant, and think it necessary to add only, on the general Occasion of it, that it has compleated the Expulsion of the Marattas from the Territories of our Ally, who before had suffered in a severe Degree by the Ravages they were committing, and to whom it had been some Loss of Credit that the Marattas, his constant Enemies, should be possessed of the principal Fort in the Heart of his Dominions.

We have the sincerest Pleasure in transmitting you Intelligence of a Capture so favourable to the Interests of the Company, and so distinguishing to the Honour of their Arms; and we doubt not that the spirited and well-judged Conduct of Captain Popham, and Gallantry of the Officers and Men under his Command, will appear to you, as they do to us, deferving of the highest Commen-We have refolved for the present, that the Fort of Gwalior should remain in the Possession of our Troops, as during the Continuance of the War in which we are engaged with the Maratta State, the Safety of the Acquisition might be hazarded if it were left to be protected by the Rana's.

READ the following Letter from Major Popham:

I have the Honour to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letter of the 24th ultimo. It is always Matter of the highest Satisfaction to me to find my Conduct honoured with the Approbation of Government; but the Testimony you have now given of your good Opinion, cannot fail of inspiring the Breast of every Individual of the Detachment with the deepest Sense of Gratitude and Respect, the most dutiful Assurances of which, we trust, will not be unacceptable to you Gentlemen.

Your having thought proper to retain this Fortress as a British Post, it becomes a Part of my Duty to point out that the great Extent of the Fortifications, and of the Shiher Punnah, under its immediate Protection, require at least a Garrison of 50 or 60 European Artillery, a Battalion of Lascars, and Seventeen or Eighteen hundred Sepoys, merely for the Duty of the Works without a Capacity of detaching a Man on any Occasion.

The various Uses to which the Fort may be applied, particularly in the present War, will however recompence amply for this, or even a greater Expence; and you may be persuaded, I will neglect no Means of convincing our Ally of the Attention of Government to his Security, in this your Resolution; and I make no Doubt he will coincide with the Wisdom of a Measure which covers his Dominions from Invasion, and invests him with the tranquil Possession of the Fruits of our late fortunate Campaign.

To the Ranna of Gohud: Written 7th September 1780.

I received your Letter, informing me of the taking of Gwalior by Captain Popham, with the Ass fistance of your Troops; and this Intelligence gave me the greater Pleasure, as from your long Silence on that Subject I began to fear that some Delays had arisen in the Execution of a Plan, when the present Situation of Affairs required the greatest Expedition. The Conquest of this Fort being an Object on which I had long fixed my Wishes, the Delays which seemed to have happened gave me some Apprehensions that you might have conceived Doubts and Suspicions respecting the future Disposition of the Fort after it should be taken; and I accordingly assured you through the

Letters of Rahmut Ulla Khan and your Vackeel, that this Government entertained no Ideas contrary to their former Promise on this Head.

I now find that the Conduct of Captain Popham has given you Apprehensions of the Sincerity of our Intentions in this Point. The Case is this: You yourself are well acquainted with the Importance of this Place to us both, during the present War with the Marattas, and must be well convinced that the retaining Possession of it is of the atmost Consequence in the future Operations against our Enemies in that Quarter, I must therefore request that you will suffer it to remain in our Possession the final Conclusion of the present War with the Marattas; declaring to you at the same Time, that as soon as Peace shall have taken place with them, the Fort of Gwalior shall be delivered up into your Hands. It is yours, it is your Right; nor have this Government any Idea of alienating it. In the mean while this Letter will remain with you as a Voucher, if any is necessary when it is expressly provided by the Treaty between us that it shall remain in your Possession for ever, and that it shall not be given up to any other Power upon any Conditions or Terms whatever.

Extract of the Commander in Chief's Minute.

CAPTAIN Popham's well-judged and successful Disposition against the important Fort of Gwalior has given us a very strong Post in that Quarter. Our possessing it is an Object of the utmost Consequence during the Operations of the present War; and for this able-performed Service of Captain Popham's, I must beg Leave to recommend, what I am clear this Board will be as ready in agreeing to, as I am in proposing; viz. That Government will confer the Rank of Major on Captain Popham, for his late Services. But though I recommend this Attention to be paid to Captain Popham's Merit, do not let it be understood that I have an Idea of proposing the superseding of Two worthy Officers on his Account. I find Captain Popham the Third effective Captain on the List of the Army, the Two above him are Captain Jones and Kyd; these I also recommend to be made Majors senior to him. The Vacancy occasioned this last Week by the Decease of Lieutenant Colonel Wilding, makes fair Room on the Establishment for One of the Three above-named Captains to be made Majors, so that in fact there will be but One Supernumerary made to enable us on this Occasion to come down in the Promotion to Captain Popham; and I must remark, that at this Time of actual Service, the Number of Field Officers on the Establishment is very inadequate either to the Exigencies of our Detail, or to the Quota of Troops constituting the Bengal Army.

My Recommendations in regular Order stand thus; Major Alexander Hannay, the oldest Major on the Establishment, I recommend to be promoted to the Rank of Lieutenant Colonel vice Lieutenant Colonel Benjamin Wilding, deceased.

Captain William Jones to be made a Major vice Major Hannay promoted as above; and that Captain Robert Kyd and William Popham be also promoted to the Rank of Majors.

Calcutta, 4th September 1780. (Signed) Eyre Coote.

Refolved unanimously, That the Board do agree to make the Promotions recommended by the Commander in Chief; and that, as a lasting Testimony of the high Sense which the Board entertain of the Merits and Services of Captain Popham, a Clause be inserted in the Body of his Commission, expressing, that it is granted as a Reward, and as an honourable Testimony of the high Sense they entertain of his Military Services, it not being in the regular Course of Succession.

A P P E N D I X, N° 293, 296, 297.

Since the Corquest of Gwalior, the Marattas possessed of the neighbouring Country have entirely deserted it and retired, some to Seronge and Belerah, others more Westward. They have even unitted Superee, a Part of the Narwar Rajah's Territory, but for some Time past held by them. A strong Detachment marched now into Serange might probably be a Means of bringing Scindia to propose advantageous Terms to our Government. THE Board think it proper to remark, that they are precluded from deputing another Minister at this Time to the Court of Hydrabad, for the following Confiderations:

First, That although it would be of very effectial Advantage to possess such Means of removing or preventing every Occasion of Jealousy or Distaits action in the Mind of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, or of assording us a timely Knowledge of their Effects; yet this is not of itself a proper Object, not suitable either to the Interests or Dignity of our Government to be avowed, and we can propose no other which might serve to give a specious Colour to such an Appointment.

Secondly, Because the Idea which would be publicly suggested by it, of a considertial Connection with that Government, might tend to alienate from us that of Berar, which by a natural Opposition of Interests, is and ever must continue in a State of Variance with it, either open or concealed; and thus it might prove the Means of forcing the Government of Berar to the Side of our Enemies, at a Time in which it possibly is wavering in the Choice of the Party which it may finally be compelled to espouse.

THE Board deeming the Residence of Mr. Hollond at the Court of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn effectually and indispensably necessary;

Agreed, That a Letter be immediately written to him, confirming his Appointment of Resident at that Court on the Part of this Government.

And as it is incumbent upon this Board to indemnify Mr. Hollond by every Means in their Power from the Filicas which he has unjuftly sustained by the Resentment of the President and Council of Fort Saint George, for his Obedience to the Instructions transmitted to him in Consequence of those he had received from Fort Saint George, which were notified to this Board by that Presidency; and because the Board are of Opinion that Mr. Hollond was the Means of preventing a Breach of the Alliance substituting between the Company and the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn;

Resolved, that the Cucumstances of this Transaction be particularly related to the Court of Directors, and that it be strongly recommended to them, either to restore Mr. Holland to the Service and to his Standing on the Madras Establishment, or that he be transferred with his Rank to this.

READ the following Letter from Mr. Hollond, Resident at the Court of His Highness Nizam Ally Khan.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I was honoured on the 13th ultimo, with your Orders of the 12th June; and immediately made known to his Highness the Nizam, your Resolution regarding the Restoration of the Mortaza. nagur Circar to his Brother Bazalut Jung. His Highness, on my declaring to him these your Intentions, expressed great Satisfaction; and on my mentioning your Desire of receiving his most positive Affurances, that he would not fuffer any Debarkation of Men or Stores, belonging to the French, or the Enemies of the English Nation, at the Port of Mootapillee, he very readily engaged to give every Satisfaction you might desire on that Head; I accordingly proposed to him to sign a Paper Witting to that Purport; to which he gave his willing Assent. His Highness took this Occasion to mention his Expectation of having the Collections also of the Mortazanagur Circar restored to him, and defired to know what was your Intention regarding the Peshcush and the Arrears? I told him, with respect to the latter, that as you had declared to him your Intention of adhering to the Treaty of 1768, in which I was affured you were perfectly fincere, it would, I hoped, prevent any Uneafines, from any little Delay that might happen in the actual Payment of what was due; that the War now on our Hands with the Marattas, and a Possibility, as his Highness himself had suggested, of a Rup ture between Hyder Ally and the Company, made it unadvisable at present to diminish our Treasure; and that I hoped he would acquiesce in the Reasonableness of what I now said to him. That as to the Guntoor Collections, the Subject had not been mentioned to me by you, but that in any Event there must be considerable Accounts to settle, before it could be known whether any Thing, or what, would be due on that Head. His Highness, after hearing what I had urged, and after declaring his Confidence in the Assurances I had made him, did not think proper at that Time to press the Matter any further.

Upon receiving on the 23d ultimo, the Governor General's Letter to the Nizam, and my Credentials enclosed to me under Date the 26th June, by Mr. Bruere, I again waited upon his Highness shewed the renewed Credentials, and delivered the Letter; which he said contained what I had before declared to him.

Upon my informing his Highness of your having re-appointed me Resident at his Court, he again expressed his Surprize at the Measure you had lately adopted, of ordering me away; and made some Inquiries relative to those Peculiarities in our Government, that had occasioned a Step which appeared to him so extraordinary; observing, that the Appointment of a Company's Servant to transact Business under your Government, seemed to him a small Act of Authority, in Comparison of the other more momentous Assairs, with which, as it appeared, you were entrusted; he observed, that he should still have had Reason to be under some Uncertainty, with respect to the Efficiency of your Authority, had it not been for the Assurances you had now given him, relative to the immediate Restoration of the Guntoor Circar, which afforded him every Reason to be perfectly satisfied on that Head.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 12th June 1780.

READ the following Letters from Moodajee Boofla and Dewagur Pundit.

From Moodajee Boossa: Received 2d June 1780.

Your agreeable Epistle (every Letter of which was filled with Friendship, and every Line of which informed me completely of your favourable Designs) by which you acquaint me, that Beneram Pundit explained fully to you all the Particulars contained in the Letter of my Minister Dewage.

A P P E N D I X, N° 299 and 300.

Dewagur Pundit, and that you had been long anxious for that Explanation; and that when you had attentively reflected and confidered on the Contents of the Letters, you converted in private with Benaram Pundit on the Subject of them, and that I should learn all the Particulars from his Letters, and from yours to my Minister; arrived in a happy Hour, and gave me inexpressible Pleasure.

At the End of your Letter, you write a few Lines in your own Hand, that your final Resolution in your Affairs is delayed till you can receive my Opinion and Advice; this has exceeded every Thing which you had written before. I have learnt all the Particulars of your private Conference from the Letter of Benaram Pundit. God be praised, that after Two Years I still receive from you such Letters as no Friends, however intimate and pure their Connection, ever before wrote. You are truly in every Instance a complete Friend, and write such Answers and Resolutions as are becoming your Friendship. Had a Kareta to the Purport of the present Letter been received while the Minister was still at Poona, many Things might have been done. At present, that in consequence of the Measures of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn Behadre, Armies are marching from all Quarters towards the English Territories, and that General Goddard is engaged in open War with Scindia, and that the Execution of all these Matters is delayed till a proper Season, and as the Rains are now approaching, we can wait to see what Answer will be returned from the Ministers at Poona to the Advice which I have written to them, and which I will inform you of as soon as received.

As all my Desires tend to keep up the Friendship with you, and as you are distinguished from among all the English for prudent Counsels, and Knowledge in all Matters, Prudence and Foresight, Attention to Treaties, strict Friendship, and a complete Knowledge of the Rights of old Connections, for declining all Intercourse with oppressive and tyrannical Chiefs, and for attending in all Cases to the Voice of Justice and Right, by the Blessing of God, all Assairs will be settled. All these Particulars are mentioned more fully in the Letters from my Minister to you, and to Beneram Pundit, from which you will learn them fully. I am hopeful that you will favour me with Letters containing the State of your Health.

From Dewagur Pundit. Received 2d June.

Your gracious Letter, which notwithstanding the apparent Shortness and concise Manner of it, in Reality contained the best and most solid Advice, and the greatest Knowledge of all Matters, and Expressions of the sirmest Friendship and Affection for the Rajah my Master, and of Favour to me. with other Remarks incumbent on your Friendship, informing me, that Beneram Pundit being arrived in Calcutta, had shewn you my Letters, and had fully explained all the Contents to you; that you had had a private Conversation with the said Pundit, of which I should learn all the Particulars from his Letters; that I may be well affured that you have so firm a Dependance on the Friendship of this Quarter, that in every Matter where the Interest or Views of this Country are concerned, you will be guided by our Advice, notwithstanding your own Designs should be thus delayed; arrived in a happy Hour, and gave me great Satisfaction. On the Back of it was written in your own Hand, that I should learn all Particulars from the Letters of Beneram Pundit, and the Execution of your Deligns is delayed till you receive my Advice and Opinion. From this Writing in your own Hand, I received great Encouragement in my Duty, and the Letter of Beneram Pundit, which was doubtless written agreeable to your Directions, has made me acquainted with all your Defigns and Intentions. Agreeable to the former Customs of Bengal, and the present firm State of our Friendship, notwithstanding the hossile Designs of all Quarters, which not only prevent an Intercourse and Correspondence by Letters and Messages, but have interrupted and destroyed the Peace and Friendship which has sublisted for many Years with the People of Decan, and have occasioned many considerable Difficulties, which would take up much Time to enumerate, and which may eafily be learnt by you; I have continually written in such a Manner, by the Directions of the Rajah my Master, both in what I wrote after the Arrival of Colonel Goddard at Horshungabad, and of Mr. Watherstone at Naigpore, and after it was thought advisable and proper that I should go to Poona, and undertake fecret and open Negociations with the Ministers of Poona, on several Matters relating to the English, and in writing about the Situation of all Assairs, however inconsiderable, in advising you to observe the Rules of Peace, and to remain stedfast to your Treaties, like the Br nches of a large River, of which one runs towards Calcutta, and the other to Surat; that is to fig, that I have written in this Manner to both Sides, and this not for my own Advantage, but folely from my Friendship to the English Gentlemen, to procure the Ease of the People, and the final Stop to all Disputes and Misunderstandings, and a peaceable Rest to all the Countries, Towns, and Villages, in such a Manner as no other Person can ever have written. But as no explicit Answer was received from any Quarter, on which a Treaty might have been founded, through the Mediation and Guarantee of the Rajah my Master, being remediless, I took Leave of the Ministers of Poona, and returned to Naigpore, and in confequence of the Measures of the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah Behadre, who before wrote to all Quarters, to demand Troops of them, I instantly began allembling the Troops, and raising new Forces on the Ghaut Lakenwara, on the Banks of the River Ganges in Decan; and remained employed in that Business, for near Three Months; but my Friendship and good Wishes lead me to write the Situation of all Affairs, in a full Manner, to Beneram Pundit, in a Hindostany Letter, and to direct him to return from Benares to Calcutta, and explain all the Particulars to you, and procure a speedy Answer to them, thinking that till that Time, the Troops would remain inactive and preparing their Stores, &c. But when, from the great Distance, your Answer was late before it arrived, and as the Poona Ministers, from their Foresight into these Assairs, entered into a League with Hyder

A P P E N D I X, N° 299 and 300.

Hyder Naig, and Scindeah and Holcar met the English Army in Guzerat, upon the replated Calls of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowla, and the Messages of Pundit Purdhaun, it became necessary to march the Army from Lakenwara towards Sumelpore, which is 300 Coss, and even more distant from it, and at this Time Rajah Khundajee Bhasila has undoubtedly reached Sumelpore, and even passed beyond it Accordingly, immediately upon receiving your Kareta and Letter, and learning the Content of what you wrote in you own Hand Writing, and of the Letters of Beneram Pundit, to which you referred me, I wrote to the Ministers of Poona whatever I thought proper and advisable towards the confirming and strengthening their friendly Intentions. Now that General Goddard and Scindeah are in the Neighbourhood of each other with their Forces and are on the Eve of Hostilities, we must wait to see what Overtures will come from that Quarter, after they shall learn the Events in that Dif. trict, upon which their whole Attention is engroffed; I will write them to you without the least Referre of Omission. Before any Letters written in your own Hand were received here, the Activity and Dili gence which I thewed in bringing about these Matters, it is needless to mention, and would be only vain Boatting; but now that I have received this explicit Letter, in which from your Confidence and Faith in me you refer the Settlement of all Matters entirely to this Quarter, how is it possible that I can be guilty of the smallest Negligence in them? On the contrary, I will exert myself in them as far as my Strength and Life will go, and even further. Had this Pollfcript in your own Hand given me this Degree of Strength and Satisfaction before, every thing would certainly have been fettled. At present also, by the Bleffing of God, who affifts and befriends all who pay strick Regard to Truth Faith, and Engagements, every Thing will end well.

Possfeript.—What you write to induce the Rajah to undertake these Negociations to this Purport, that the Determination in your Affairs is delayed for the Counfel and Advice of this Quarter, and that it matters not whether your Designs are delayed by it: The Case is this, that this Expression is as secret and disficult to be understood as it ought to be; but what I can discover it is necessary should be willing plainly and without Reserve, and is as follows: That when the Rajah for these I wo Years has been pointed at by all Perfons high and low, like a Flag or the new Moon, on Account of his Friendship for the English Gentlemen, and has come into the Measures of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and agreed to raife an Army and fend his Son towards Bengal fuch a Length of Way, he has taken upon himself the Expences of the Troops, which for the sole Pay amount to Four Lacks of Rupees in Month, and amount in the Year to a Crore of Rupees, not folely from the Hopes of having them paid by the Ministers of Poona, but from his fixed Obedience to the Family of the Rajah, and Refolution to keep up the ancient Treaties subsisting with them, from their having resided at the same Place, and from the Proximity of their Territories, and their agreeing in all Matters. All the Hopes which he has of being eased of these Expences, and of gaining other Advantages, are from your Friendship and Alliance, and the Rights of this Quarter are firmly observed by you. The Rajah my Maiter has written all these Matters fully in answer to Beneram Pundit's Hindostanny Letter. You will confider them to be written agreeable to my Master's and my Directions, and will not be dispirited in any of your great Deligns; but having perused them with the greatest Attention, send a speedy Answer to them, as I am in great Anxiety for the Arrival of it. As the Friendship between the Family of Boosla and your Highness is encreased to so great a Degree, I am hopeful that you will frequently favour me with Letters containing the State of your Quarters and the Nature of your Designs, and consider me as one whose Hopes are in your Favour.

Second Postscript.—As in the present Scarcity of good Men you admit of no Equal either in Courage, Spirit, Resolution and Magnanimity, or in your Knowledge of Mankind, or in Prudence and Foresight, or in the faithful Observance of Treaties and Engagements, or in the Attention to the Rights of Friendship, or in Skill in discovering what is right or wrong, considerable or inconsiderable in the Assairs of Government, or in the keeping strict to the Rules of Care and Caution, and of Judice, I am therefore greatly desirous of settling a strict Intimacy with Pundit Purdhaun, and with his Permission to repair to the Presence by the Road of Mundella or Ballasore, and to have an Interview with you to make you acquainted with all the Attachments and good Wishes which I have for you, and to draw from that Fountain of Knowledge and Prudence such Counsels as may be the Means of settling and bringing to an Issue all Designs, and may give me Satisfaction and Ease of Mind in many Matters. I am hopeful that you will speedily favour me with an Answer, granting this my Request, and may the Almighty grant, that it come to pass!

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

The Governor General—The Members of the Board having been furnished with Copies of the Letters which have been written by Modajee Boosla and his Dewan to Beneram Pundit, their Vacked or Minister at this Government, containing, in a very long Detail, the Motives and Views of the Government.

vernment of Berar. These I think improper to be entered on our Records, but I recommend them to the Attention of the Board in their Consideration of the Conduct which we are to observe towards that Government.

From the Declaration made in these Letters, and from other Advices, it appears that urged by the Demands of the Administration at Poona and the Menaces of the Nabob Nizam ul Mulck, the Rajah hath levied a considerable Force, said to consist of 50,000 Horse, ostensibly destined to co-operate with the Peshwa, by invading Bengal and the Dominions of our Ally the Nabob of Oude. That one Division of 30,000 Horse commanded by Chimnajee Boossa, the Rajah's second Son, has been accordingly dispatched to our Frontier by the Road of Cuttack, and has been some Time since arrived in the Neighbourhood of that City, where it is proposed that it shall canton during the rainy Scason.

The Rajah and his Dewan both profess the most steady. Attachment to the Company, and a Resolution to preserve the Peace and good Understanding which have subsisted between that Government and the English since the Period in which the latter sirst obtained a Share in the political Concerns of these Provinces.

These Professions have been repeated in all their Letters, and sanctified by the most solemn Attestations. However suspicious such voluntary Protestations may generally appear, there can be no valid Reason for resusing a certain Degree of Credit to them on the present Occasion, as they are perfectly consistent with what we know to be the Interest of the Boosla Family, and with the Conduct which it has invariably observed towards the Government of Bengal from the Accession of Tannoojee to the present Time. Its natural Enemies are the Chiefs whose Dominions border immediately upon the Districts of Berar, and lie in many Places intermixed with them; that is to say, the Paishwa, Nizam Ally Cawn, and Mhadajee Scindia. The Company cannot be regarded in the same Light, because the Line of Country which joins their Possessions to Berar is so wild and uncultivated that no Cause of Competition can arise respecting it, and the Territories of each in those Parts yield little Advantage to the Proprietors. The Claim of the Berar Government to the Chout of these Provinces is so antiquated that though it might be revived as a Pretext, it could never operate as an Inducement to invade them, on any other Principles than those which are the Grounds of original Conquests; nor could such an Enterprize be formed without great and certain Hazards, a Length of Hostilities, and a proportionate Expence (to which the Resources of Berar are inadequate) and the Exposure of its own internal Possessions to the Ambition and Rapacity of its Neighbours.

The Habits of a long Intercourse of Friendship, and the Benesits which are mutually and equally derived by both Governments from a Continuance of the same Degree of Union, may likewise be assumed as Arguments of the favourable Disposition of that Government towards this, even under the present Appearances. Yet the contrary, notwithstanding the strong Grounds which appear for this Conclusion, may be the Case; and even with the best Intentions, the Steps through which the Berar Government, in the Accommodation of an ostensible Plan to its own secret Wishes, may be infenfibly led, may terminate in Hostilities against us-

From the Whole of this Review it appears to be the proper Policy of this Government to confider and treat that of Berar in the Character which it professes, but to guard against the Possibility of its becoming hostile to us.

This Policy at the same Time fortunately coincides with the present Views of that Government, and may be made to promote them. The Rajah and his Minister have from the Beginning expressed the flrongest Desire to become the Mediators of Peace between us and the Marattas; and this Desire is more strenuously urged in their last than in any of their former Letters, which may be accounted for on good Grounds, for it is certainly their Interest to be the Instruments of bringing the War to a Termination, by Means which must enhance their Consequence, and relieve them from certain Difficulties and Expence, The Rajah informs us that he has written to the Peshwa and offered his Intercession to accommodate Matters with us, confiding in the Assurances given him by this Government, of its Willingness to agree to Peace through his Mediation, and to his Guarantee for the Maintenance of it; and has proposed that his Dewan shall come to Ballasore or Benaies with Credentials and full Powers from the Peshwa to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace: Let us avail ourselves of this tayourable Disposition; let his Mediation be accepted, and his Dewan invited to come for that Purpose to Calcutta. I am firmly of Opinion, that Peace can only be accomplished by this or some other Mode that shall put the Negociations for it within the Reach and immediate Controll of this Govern-The Scat of War is not the Soil adapted by Nature for the Growth of Peace; yet while every Means are employed to promote this End, we must not slacken in those which may give us an Advantage in the War, if our Hopes of a speedy Termination of it should be frustrated: On the contrary, this Season and these Flopes require a redoubled Exertion on our Part in the Prosecution of the War, as a necessary Concurrence with the Measures which we may take for the Conclusion of it. For this Reason I recommend that the Order Litely passed for the Reduction of Captain Popham's Detachment be fuspended; that the Sepoys of the Detachment be immediately formed into Three regular Battalions, and added to the Detachment allotted to Major Camac. Let it be given in Instructions to Major Camac, if he shall find it practicable, to march this Detachment, in Conjunction with the Forces which the Rana by his Treaty will be obliged in fuch a Case to furnish, directly to Oogein, the Capital of the Territory, dependant upon Mhadjee Scindia. This cannot fail to divert him from the War in Guzerat; and by bringing it home to his own Interests, which have hitherto been wholly excopped from it, induce him to be an equal Solicitor for Peace, to which at this Time he appears to be the only Impediment. In effect, all Advices confirm the Information contained in the Berar Let-REP. VI.

ters of the Opposition of Scindia's Wishes to those of the Minister in this particular Instance: The only Obstacle to this Design is the Force which the Maratta Government actually possessing and Bundelcund. A discretionary Power should be given to Major Camae to remove this by any Means, either by Negociation or Force, which he shall judge necessary, and which shall not be likely to detain him from his main Object. From all the Intelligence which has been lately received from that Quarter, this appears to be no difficult Work, as the Maratta Power in that Country is not in itself very considerable, and those who possess it are disaffected to the Government on which they depend. The Purpose of undertaking this Expedition and its Motives may be communicated to Moodajc. Boosla; he cannot disapprove it, nor is it likely to give such Ossence to the Minister of Poona (whose Jealouty of Madajee Scindia is well known) as to excite in his Mind any new Objection to a Pacification.

Letter from Dewagur Pundit; received 13th September 1780.

YOUR Letter dated the 1st Rejeb, containing an explicit Explanation of your Sentiments and your Wishes respecting Peace, &c. Friendship with Pundit Purdhaun and his Ministers; that you had always been inclined to Peace, but you could not think of entering into one upon the Faith of a mere Piece of Paper, unless firengthened by fome firong and binding Tye; that now confidering the wellknown Attachment to Faith, Adherence to Engagements, and steady Friendship which have always diftinguished the Bhosila Family, and have been tried for Twenty Years by your Government, you have placed the most implicit Confidence on the Guarantee of the Maha Rajah; that you did not enter into the present War from your own Wish, but that the Failure of an Expedition from Bombay without your Knowledge, which brought the Honour of the English and their Safety into Danger, made it neceffary for you to fend General Goddard to their Afliftance, for the supporting of your Dignity and the securing your Possessions; that as by the Favour of God the General's Expedition had succeeded, you can accede to the bringing about an Accommodation between the Poona Ministers and the English Company through my Mediation, on such Terms as may be for the Honour and Interest of the Company. That on this Head you need not fay any thing, but that as the Maha Rajah had made a voluntary Offer of his Mediation, his Justice and Friendthip will prevent him from liftening to any Overtures which it would not become you to receive That whenever the Maha Rajah shall have obtained satisfactory Answers from the Ministers of Poona, and their Credentials to treat with you, through my Intervention, you will be happy to meet me, for the Purpose of making a Treaty under the Guarantee of the Maha Rajah, and that without a personal Communication you cannot explain yourself further; honoured me, by its Arrival in a happy Hour, together with a Karetah for my Master; and gave me great Pleasure by is Contents, which informed me of all your Sentiments, and of all Matters without Referve. Thele Particulars were likewise fully understood by the Maha Rajah my Master. Before this, Three Letters and Karetahs arrived addressed to the Maha Rajah, containing important Matters, and having this written in your own Hand, that you had given full Powers to this Quarter for these Negociations; and had entrufted the controlling of all Points to this Side, and would agree to every Thing, even should it occasion Losses to yourself and Advantages to this Quarter; that therefore we should act in such Manner as should feem best to us. In conformity to this, every thing which was thought advisable and tending to the Advantage and Prospect of Peace, was written to the Ministers: In answer to this, it was written from Poona, that this Matter was of the highest Importance; and that the Negociation respecting the former, present, and future Treaties, could not be undertaken upon fo vague a Letter, till every Particular was fully difcuffed. It was neceffary that we should write to you all the Articles of the former Treaties, which have been forgot and broken through, and write them after we should receive an explicit Answer from you: That as you are resolved to abide by the Articles of the Treaties, they likewife have always been stedfast in this Observance of Treaties, and know not the smallest Advantage in War and Disputes. In consequence of this, know ing it to be unadvisable to commit all these Matters to Writing, I have dispatched to your Quarter Bely Ram Pundit, a Man of Confidence, an Inhabitant of Benares, and a Relation of Beneram Pundit, with Letters, and Karetahs, and Memorandums of the Articles which have been broken and omitted, which the Poona Ministers had wrote down; and have verbally committed to the faid Purdit, many Particulars of our Sentiments on all Points of this Business, and the many Advantage of Friendship and Observance of Treaties, together with the Evils and Losses attending Disputes and War, which he will doubtless, directly after his Arrival, explain to you in a full and particular Mannet through the Intervention of Beneram Pundit; and I am convinced that your Justice and Love of Truth, together with your Prudence, Forelight, and extensive political Knowledge, will lead you to approve of his Ref refentations, and to give an explicit and fatisfactory Answer to them. After

After the Departure of Bigy Ram Pundit, what was written in answer to the Letters of Beneram . •Pundit which you had caused to be written by him, and at the Beginning and Ending of which you added a few Persian Lines, purporting, that on account of the Sickness of your Moonshey, you had delayed replying to my Letters, but that you would foon dispatch an Answer; and that in the mean while, I should consider the Hindostanny Letter of the Pundit as written with your Approbation, and conveying your Sentiments; will have been understood by you. At present that this Letter from you with a Karetah for the Maha Rajah has been received; although it contains your Refolution of making Peace and Friendship with the Ministers of Poona, yet Two or Three Sentences in it have given me great Reason to think, namely, that by the Favour of God, the Expedition of General Goddard has succeeded, and that you can therefore enter into a Peace upon such Terms as may be for the Interest and Honour of the English Company; and that we will not listen to any Overtures from the Ministers of Poona, which it will not become you to accept of, because in your former Letters, you bestowed on this Side in your Hand Writing, the sole and full Powers of managing these Negociations; and in your present Letter, although you still keep your firm Resolution of making Peace, yet it may be feen that you restore more in your own Hands, and diminish the Powers granted to this Quarter. It is however of no Consequence, for while a Negociation of great Consequence in which the political Affairs of the Country, the Ease and Security of the Inhabitants, and the Protection of the Possesfions are concerned, is in Agitation, till it has been adjusted and properly cleared up and settled, the Events and Confequences of it, and the open and hidden Parts are well confidered, and the granting Powers, and the bestowing unlimited Authority, or the referving the deciding Power, we maturely weighed, and after that the Matter is determined, agreeable to what Prudence, Forefight, and Wifdom requires, I am in all Cases your true Well-wisher and sincere Friend; and never did, nor ever shall, by any Doubts in this Point, forget my Faith and Promises, or omit to write you on all Subjects, or neglect your Interests and Advantages, but am firm and fincere in my Attachment. Before this I wrote you long and frequent Letters on the Subject of Peace and Friendship, and procured full Powers from you to act in this Bufiness, and I now write again, and request that you will give what I write room in your Breaft; it is as follows: When I went the Second Time to Poona, I told Nanna Purnaveese plainly, that he must not consider the Advantages they had gained over the People of Bombay as a Victory, nor imagine the Lofs which the Chief of Bombay had fuffered, to be a Defeat of the English; that this Matter would be of long Continuance, and the Consequences of it would be a long War, which would cause the Destruction and Devastation of the Confines of both Countries; that as the English possessed strong Places, such as Madras, Pondicherry, Sinkacool, Rajebundy, and other strong Forts in the Decan, well supplied with Provisions, and Military Stores of Powder, Ball, Cannons and Musquets, and other powerful Supplies; and besides, that whilst their Power and Authority extended over many Soubahs, and Countries of Hind, while their Courage and Bravery was fo great, and their Treasures and Resources so extensive, and while so many Powers were attached to them from their Hearts, it was the most advisable to settle this Matter upon peaceable and friendly Terms. Nanna Purnaveese replied, That he had not stepped out of the Line of Peace, and faithful Observance of Treaties; that whatever had happened proceeded from the Chief of Bombay; that whenever he, contrary to express Engagements, had taken Ragonaut Row with him, and had croffed at Bhore Gaut, and arrived within Four Coss of Poona, the hostile Beginning of the English obliged him likewise to risk an open Attack, and that he accordingly did what was incumbent on him; that notwithstanding this, he is still stedfast to the Treaties, and that I might judge which Side had been guilty of Breaches in their Engagements. That they openly affift Ragonaut Row, which is expressly forbidden by the Treaty, and that he left it to me to judge. At that Time Letters from Nanna Purnaveese, containing Professions of Friendship and Peace, and Assurances of his abiding by his Treaties, were fent, together with Letters from me to General Goddard, and Persons of Trust were dispatched for the Purpose of Negociation; and besides this, what was proper to be written was written to Calcutta; but however, in this Matter the Will of God was done, and still takes Essect. The Short of all my former Attempts is this, that from my speaking the Truth, which in the Time of Victory feels bitter, Nanna Purnaveese would not consider the Consequences and future Events of what had happened. All these Matters, together with the whole Particulars of the Decan, with which I am better acquainted than any one else, I from my old and firm Friendthip wrote to you fully; namely, the Victories of the Maratta Army in Hindostan, and their Conquests in that Country, as far as the River Sindah, on the Borders of Cabill. That although from the Revolutions of worldly Affairs, which are continually shifting, the private Concerns of Pundit Purdhaun Peifhwa should suffer from his not acknowledging the Rights of Ragonaut Row; yet that in case of Necessity, they can bring Two Lacks of Horse into the Field, where they consider it a Victory to be able to fly off and return again, and never to expose themselves within the Reach of Cannon, but to remain watching for favourable Opportunities, by which Conduct they always effect their Views, and have been able to possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess themselves of so large a Tract of Country, that they possess the country of fels about 300 strong Forts; that they have gained over Hyder Ally to be equally united with them as the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah; that therefore to perfift without Cause in an open War with them, was a Resolution of ruining the Country and Possessions; that it was therefore advisable to keep stedfast to the Treaties, and to defist from assisting Ragonaut Row, which was an open Breach of them, and to give me full Powers to effect a Reconciliation. Although General Goddard, confishent with the Honour of the English Gentlemen, suffered many Difficulties during Four Months that he opposed the numerous Armies of Sindeah and Holcar, and never made any Shew of Friendship, and riever once in his Answers to the Messages of Pundit Peishwa, did he seem inclined to effect a Perce, yet you, from your great political Knowledge and true Wisdom, in answer to the Letters of this. You Quarter, dictated by the most sincere Friendship and Attachment, have till this Time continued to write Letters of the highest Sentiments of Assection and Friendship, and were never from the Beginning inclined to this War; but it is certain that General Goddard's March from Hoshungabad was absolutely after the Defeat of the Bombay Chief, necessary for the Defence of the Honour of the English, and for the Security of their Possessions: For this Purpose, from which the greatest Advantages are to be derived, I shall exert myself to the utmost of my Power, and even further, as long as I have Life; and the Maha Rajah will take care to insure and guarantee it; but it is equally cono Effect to speak the Truth to either Side; for till the Light of the Sun shines clear and bright, the Violence of War will never subside, and till the Negociation of Approvals and Resultals, of Denials and Assents in many Points, takes place between you, the Wishes and Concerns of both Stake cannot be effected.

Immediately on the Receipt of your Letter, I dispatched to Poona, Jadaseo Pundit, who was here entrusted by Pundit Peishwa, together with Letters, containing the Points which can be affented to, and those which will be refused; and informing them that if they wish to make Peace, it must be on those Terms, and that they must invest me with complete Powers, in which Case every Thing may be equally balanced on both Sides, and neither Scale have less or more Weight than the other. After his Arrival at Poona, he will explain to them every Matter, both of Consequence and inconsiderable, and whatever can be settled there, immediate Intelligence shall be given you; by that Time Answers will have been received from Bejy Ram Pundit who has been tent to your Quarter, entrusted with all our Sentiments, and in Consormity to his Letters, whatever ought to be determined shall take Effect.

General Goddard writes about his own Victories, and Sindeah and Holcar in their Letters talk or their Strength and Successes: Which of these Accounts are we to suppose true, and which falled Wherever there is War there is Falshood, and nothing but Losses and Disadvantages are to be expected from it: In my Opinion, neither are those Victories Victories, nor are those Defeats Defeats. When the Roots of both Sides remain still firm in their own Possessions, like the Wall of Alexander, what has been derived from these Victories and Defeats? The Business is with the Root not the Top. As you have in this Matter mentioned the Honour and Credit of the English, and have written that we will not liften to any thing from the Poona Ministers which you cannot affent to; Sir, the Reputation and Honour of the English Gentlemen is firmly established and spreads every where, and General Goddard to repair the small Loss of the Bombay Chief, shewed the greatest Courage, Skill and Ada vity in the War, and brought the Water which had left its Banks back into its Bed. There now therefore remains nothing more to be done by War, and the Honour and Courage of the English has been published to every one; and besides the Maha Rajah, from his great Friendship and Affection for the English, regards their Reputation and Honour more than his own Life; and considering his own Honour is e nnected with and dependant on it, how therefore can be ever liften to any thing which will be improper for your Affent? Or how can I who am loaded with your Favours and Friend ship, ever fuffer it? But as you have now determined upon Peace, under the Guarantee of this Quarter, it is therefore incumbent on the Guarantee to confult the Advantage of both Sides in his Negociation, and whatever may be done by either Part contrary to the Treaties and Engagements, first le ought to for bid it, and afterwards reprove them for their Conduct; and when he can bring them to perfect Agreement, then to add this Guarantee to it, and to secure the Duration of it. To be Security between powerful and warlike Chiefs is not in the Power of every one, but requires a Person of great Strength. The whole Efforts of this Quarter will be necessary to terminate the Negociation, you have therefore done wifely in committing this Office of Guarantee to so powerful a Chief as the Maha Rajah, for by his Means every Point will be properly adjusted. This Quarter therefore is no backward in speaking and writing the Truth to either Side; but considers that in so doing Friendship with both Sides and their general Reputation is increased. In a Word, what you write respecting the Honour of the English, will in every Negociation be our chief Care; but this is still vague, nor have you fufficiently explained it: As it is incumbent on this Quarter, in the Character of Guarantee, to attend equally to the Honour of both Sides, it is necessary that you write plainly in what Points you confider the Honour of the English concerned. Before this, in your Letters to the Ministers of Poor na, you wrote that you were ready to affent to every thing which was confiftent with the Honour of your Government, and that you would abide by the Treaty of Colonel Upton, and that the new ha gagements were entered into without your Knowledge; I have therefore entrulled with Bejy Ram Pundit a Memorandum of fuch Articles in the Treaty of the Colonel which have been broken by de-Affiltance afforded Ragonaut Row and by the Affair of Shaftie, &c. This he will deliver to you, and you will, after perufing it, perceive whether it is true or falfe. If it is true, then you must determine upon conforming to them, and upon extinguishing the Flames of Discord with the Water of Peace The Negociations which will at this Time take place respecting the Country of Gojeraut and the Alfigureents made by Futtah Sing Guicowar, &c. for the Expences of the new-raifed Followers and the large Sem of Money which General Goddard collected in the Plunder of the Town and Villages, 4 separate Memorandum of them has been likewise given to Bejy Ram, which when you have peruled and determined on what is to be done, you will write to me. Thus every Matter is on the Point of being fettled, and will foon be adjusted by a perfect Reconciliation under the Guarantee of the Maha Rajah, when the Friends and Enemies of both Sides will become the fame; the greatest Benefits will be derived from the Accommodation, and the Losses of both Sides turned into Advantages. You must therefore write to General Goddard whatever is advisable, and fend Orders to the Chief of Bombay, who has invaded the District of Cokun, where he is daily engaged in Hothilites with the Army of Pundit Purdhaun, to defit from these Proceedings, which, during a Negociation for Peace, are very improper. As soon as I receive your explicit Answer in these Points, and when I shall have inform d the Poona Ministers of it, I will then begin my Journey to your Quarter, and have the Satisfaction of an Interview with you, which has long been my most earnest Wish, and in Person make known to you many Particulars and Views which cannot be committed to Writing.

As from the Diffance between us it requires Two Months for the Cossids to go and return, and as there are still Two Months to the End of the rainy Season, it is advisable that you lote no Time in fending a full and explicit Answer.

•For further Particulais I beg Leave to refer you to Beneram Pundit, to whom I have written more fully, and from whose Representations you will have complete Information. As I on a finder Well-wisher to you, and entertain no other Thoughts but those of the most stedfast Friendship and Attachment to you, you will therefore consider to have been distated by my great Assection to you, all that I have above written, without the smallest Reserve, and knowing that I have given you full Intelligence of every Matter, resect on it, and determine according to Justice

Pollscript.—In Answer to what you from your great Friendship write, of the Reports of our Fremies respecting the Army which is arrived at Cuttack, where a strict Intimacy has been effected, and all Distinction removed, how can any Thing be done to be pointed at by the Enemies? At your Mind at Ease, I will give you timely Information of any Thing that may be determined on.

From Modajce Bhofila; received 13th September 1780.

Your Letter of the 1st Rejeb, to the following Purport, &c. arrived on a happy Day, namely, the 1st Shabaun, which they with a Light, giving Incredieto Friendship, and which brought me the Completion of my Wishes and Desires. This Letter, after first giving me the sincerest Satisfaction, informed me of your Intentions for Peace, and your Resolutions for the Negociations with the Poona Ministers, in Confequence. The happy Conjunction of those Two Days, which is a most bleffed Occurrence, and does very feldom happen, brought with it thefe lucky Events, namely, the fettling of every Matter agreeable to my Wishes, and caused such additional Verdure in the Garden of our Friendship, that the tragrant Odour of it has in every Breath given new Life to my Soul; God grant that it may be daily increased, and for ever supported by a more intimate and affectionate Connection. As our mutual Friendship is publicly known through all the Soubahs of Bengal, from our long Intercourse of Letters, and as all the Inhabitants of Decan talk of the Friendship of the English for this Quarter, and from that, entertain Suspicions of me, my Heart is therefore at all France, and in all Situations, confulting and withing for your Interests and Advantage, and I continually write in the most unreterved. Manner every Thing which appears to me advisable; and you blessite are firmly refolved to do whatever is proper and necessary for the maintaining this excellent intercourse, as may be plainly and clearly discovered from the Contents of your Answers; and although the triplicate Kaietahs lately received contain many and long Particulars with this View, yet the Short of them can be collected from the Pollfcript, written at the Foot in your own Hand, by which you give me full Powers in these Negociations, and in which you write, that although the effecting and settling this Treaty should be to your Damage, yet should it be for the Advantage of this Quarter you will agree to it. When Friendship and Albance subfifts upon such intimate Terms, and the chief and full Authority is intrufted to one Side, the Loffes of one Side become the Loffes of the other, and the Advantages of both Sides are the same. Notwithstanding the Difficulties I have brought on myself, by raising and keeping up this new Army, the Causes of which are well known to you, yet all my Views in bearing them, are from your Friendship and Justice. What now appears to be the most advitable Policy, is the making and maintaining Peace and Alliance between the Brighth and Pundir Purdhaun, the Advantages and Consequences of which I have before this written to you at large in many Letters; and before the Arrival of your last Letter, I sent to Calcutta Bejy Ram Pundit, with a Lift of the Omissions and Breaches in the former Treaty, and in that of Colonel Upton, and doubt not but that upon his Airival he will, through the Intervention of Beneram Pundit, explain every Particular to you; and that you from your great Prudence and Knowledge will attend to and approve of them, and will be convinced, that there is nothing in this World to compire to Friendship and Unity; as foon as this important Matter is determined between Two powerful States, the Eale of the People, and the Securities of the Cities and Towns is infured, and all the Possessions of both Sides are protected from Damages; I have therefore no Doubt but that you will find me an explicit Answer, and that from your Wisdom and Forefight you will approve of every Thing that I faid to my Minister Dewagur Pundit, after I had fully informed myself of the Contents of your Letter, which the faid Pundit has written to you in an unreferved Manner, and will be able to discover whether they were dictated by true Friendship, or by mere Politoness. As the Office of Guarantee in this important Business is committed by you to me, it is therefore incumbent on the Guarantee to write the plain and open Truth to both Sides, and to bring both with equal Weight i to the Scales of Friendship; for where the Guarantee does not attend equally to the Interest. ot both Parties, no Point can be fettled properly; it was therefore necessary for my Minister, to write all Matters at large, and it is equally necessary and advisable, that a full, and explicit Answer be returned to it as foon as possible. For the well fettling and adjusting of all these Points, I have sent to Poona REP. VI.

APPENDIX, Nº 301.

Sadafio Pundit, a confidential Person, who resided here intrusted with all the Concerns of Pundit Purchaun; we shall see what he will be able to effect, of which immediate Information shall be given you. A Memorandum of all the Omissions and Breaches in the Articles of Colonel Upton's Treaty, has been committed to Bejy Ram Pundit, who on his Arrival will prefent it to you; and a Note of fuch Negociations as will take place respecting the Talooks and Tannahs of Go, craut, the Affairs of the Guiciwars, the Accounts of the new I roops raifed on both Sides for this War, and the Invations and Devattations of the Bombay Chief in Cokun, where he has taken feveral Places, is inclosed in the Letter to Beneram Pundir, who will present it to you for your Perusal and Approbation; when you will write a fall and explicit Answer to the present and former Memorandums, that no Missunderstanding may remain, but that all Disputes may, by the refusing and granting of all Points, be changed into a firm and lasting Friendship. In all my Proceedings in this Matter, I have had no other View, but the proving my Friendship and Affection for you, and I consider the Honour and Reputation of the English, the same as my own; but in the Case of a Guarantee, the Honous and Credit of the other Side is likewife to be attended to in the Negociations, without which, nothing can be fettled properly; whenever these Points are determined by you in a suitable Manner, it will be highly advisable and proper for Dewagur Pundit to go immediately to Calcutta, for the Purpose of preparing the Treaty, and of acquainting you with many of my Views, which are entirely and fincerely tending to your Interests and Honour. As there are Two Months to the End of the Rains, the fooner an Answer can be received the better; and it is necessary that General Goddard and the Bombay Chief receive positive Orders to desist from the Hostilities they have commenced in the District of Cokun. In fhort, I have no View or intension in what I have written, but the performing the Duties of Friendship, and the confulting your Interests and Advantage; of this be well convinced. For further Particulars, I refer you to the Hindoftanny Letter of Beneram Pundit.

Postscript. The same as the one to Dewagur Pundit's Letter.

Translation of a Letter from Dewan Dewagur Pundit to Beneram Pundit: Written the 14th Shabaun, (16th August) received the 13th September 1780.

Your Letter difpatched the 29th Jemadiaffanie (3d July) and received the 25th Rejib (28th July) the Contents thereof fully explaining and particularizing your Conferences with the Governor General, written by his Order, and fig ed by him, I clearly understand, and have communicated the State and Circumstances of every Matter, very particularly, to Bejy Ram Doby, and fent him to you after his Arrival; he will acquaint you with his Commission. You write me, that the Indisposit fition of the Governor's Moonshey and the want of a Karetah, has occasioned the Delay of the Letter to the Presence, but that you have at length dispatched it, signed in Persian and English; nevertheless, the Karetah containing the Governor's Letter to the Maha Rajah, with one to me, did not arrive till Eight Days after the Receipt of yours, and there was no Letter from you with it. The Governor's Letter is very particular, and the Purport of it is, that Peace and Amity with the Peishwa is necessary; but does he expect it is to be done by a Piece of Paper? he fays, was I fully authorized on the Part of the Peishwa to settle this Business, he should be very happy, for he is well convinced I would propose nothing that would not be acceptable to him, and propose the Rajah to be the Mediator and Guarantee, and to make Peace with the Peishwa, but how pleasing soever the Words of English Gentlemen may be, they should be open and undisguised. My Friend, we are continually writing an Abridgement of real Facts, under the Veil of particular Arrangements. If the Ministers of Poona will write, and give me Leave to go to Calcurta, fully authorized to confer on the Terms of Peace, then should I arrive there, and any Evasions or Disputes should arife, it would be difficult for me to shew my Face here again. Hitherto I have several Times been Mediator between the Sirdars of the Empire, and by the Bleffing of God, Peace has been established, so as to satisfy all Parties, and as yet, thank God, I have never been reproached, nor my Name abused, neither have I had any Contention or Dispute afterwards. Between the Maha Rajah and the Governor the Tree of Friendship and Concord flourishes; but in future the Root of Friendship ship and Unity might be more firmly fixed, and with Potterity might be immoveable, and the English and the Descendants of the House of Bhossla might be united by Ties of Friendship with One Heart and One Soul. If by the Will of God the Advantages of fuch a Friendthip should on my Arrival be clearly feen and underst od, and the Governor should be perfectly definous and fully inclined to obtain them, I would then first strengthen the Root of our own Friendship, and after that thoroughly cleanle the Mind of Pundit Purdhaun Row of Hatred and Rancour, and co firm the Agreement by the Oaths and Faith of each Party, and in Security thereof, the Maha Rajah should be Guarantee; but sit I should arrive at Ca'cutra, and any evalive and decentful Discourse should arise, then what Advantage can there be in my taking to long a Journey, although I am thoroughly convinced in every respect that the Governor would not deviate from the main Business, nor permit me to be hereafter reproached; but because the Chiefs of the Bie sila Family are famous for keeping Faith and suffilling Engagements, so that in wherever they may say of write there is no Deceir or Ambiguity, and it being certain that the Mind of the Governor is disposed to Peace, my Name and Reputation should be also established. Therefore as the Letters of the Governor are inveloped in Mysleries, I am under Doubts and Apprehensions. It may be I may return in

Difgrace; and at this Time whatever Reputation and Friendship I have acquired, shall I throw it to the Winds? I have for this Reason been thus particular, that Preliminaries being settled, our Conferences may not be fruitless, but effectual and to the Purpole: When I can be certain of that, my going to Calcutta will be highly fit and proper.

First Preliminary. Colonel Upton having concluded a Treaty at Poona, let that be observed and confirmed If the Treaty which the Bombay Gentlemen entered into after the Battle of Worgaum appears to have been forced from them, yet furely that with Colonel Upton was voluntary, the Bombay Gentlemen not having adhered to that, the Blame of Perfidy and Breach of Faith hes on them, and they are the Cause of War, which has loaded each Side with the immense Expence of near a Crore of Rupecs. This Year General Goddard and Sindia have been fighting for Three Months; but what Advantage has either obtained? Ruin and Devastation has been the Confequence to both; it is to the Gentlemen of Bombay that the Cause of these Disputes and Contention must be imputed: But let what is past be forgot; now it is prudent and advisable for both Sides to stop the Current of Dissension, that the Maha Rajah being the Mediator and Guarantee, may restore Peace, and thereby give Ease to Mankind and Satisfaction to the Creator; and a firm Friendship and Union being established, the Enemies of both Sides shall be confounded. I am a warm Friend to both Parties; and when I fay this, God is Witness of my Sincerity. It is true General Goddard has this Year taken Ahmadabad, and by the Attack of Brodrah has brought over Futty Sing Guickwar, one of the ancient Strdars, on the Side of the Peithwa, to join him; he has also subdued Guzzerat, and the Gentlemen of Bombay have taken Kolean and Two or Three other Places in the Province of Kocun. At the Time then, when Overtures for Peace may be attended to by Pundit Purdhaun and the Governor, with a fincere View to a Reconciliation, these Places should be given up, and restored to Pundit Purdhaun in the same Manner he before possessed them; the Chout should be collected from the City of Surat as before, and whatever Jaghires belong to the Sirdars of the Prefence (Peilhwa) or others in the Province of Guzzerat, should be restored them, and what remains after that, should be equally divided by Pundit Purdhaun and General Goddard, and One Half given to Futty Sing, and the other to Gobind Row Guickwar, that the Honours of the Guickwars may be preserved, and the Promise of General Goddard fulfilled.

Second. In respect to Ragonaut Row, Pundit Purdhaun should conform to the Stipulations made for him by Colonel Upton, and if any Doubt should arise that they will not be adhered to, one of the principal Sirdars should be Security for the Performance thereof. Let God be Witness, that nothing shall be intended contrary to the Texms of the Treaty, and let Ragonaut Row delist from Perfidy.

For these Two Years past the Expence of the English Army has been very great; so has Third. also the Expence been on the other Side, of Pundit Purdhaun: Let there be no Demand on either Side for re-imburfing this Expence, but let Pundit Purdhaun and the English Gentlemen recover their heavy Expence by uniting themselves and jointly attacking their Enemies; then whatever Countries they may conquer from the Enemy after leaving the Jaghires free, what shall remain let them equally divide it like Brothers, and re-imburse themselves. Surely both Pundit Purchaun and the English Gentlemen will readily agree to this.

Fourth. The Governor agreeing to the First Proposition, let him write a Letter to me under the Testimony of his Faith; and inclosing Letters to the Gentlemen of Bombay and General Goddard to this Purport, That they ceale Hostilities because of the approaching Peace and Annity which is about to take place by Means of the Maja Rajah; that Dewan Dewagur Pundit is fent by Pundit Purdhaun to Calcutta, to establish and confirm the Reconciliation, and that they stir not from the Places where they now are; then, when I shall arrive at Calcutta, I may with Pleasure assist to establish Friendship and Unity to the Satisfaction of both Parties; and the General, Fundit Purdhaun, and Nanna Purnaveefe, having a friendly Meeting, may strengthen the Foundation of Friendship, and whatfoever should be determined on between the Governor and me in our Conferences, the General flould conform thereto.

Fifth. After I shall have been a Month with the Governor in Calcutta, he shall permit me to depart, and shall send an English Gentleman of quick Penetration and found Judgment with me, that when we arrive at Poona he may deliver up Ragonaut Row; according to the Terms of the Treaty with Colonel Upton and General Goddard, Pundit Purdhaun, and Nanna Purnaveefe shall have a Meeting at Poona in his Prefence, and fixing their Seals to the Treaty, it shall be witnessed by some of the Chiefs in fuch Manner as shall be prescribed, after which he may return.

Sixth. The Gentlemen of Bombay having taken in the Province of Kocun, Kolean, Belipore, Argingur, and Indergur, and having subdued some other Places, these shall be given up, but Saliette having been Six Years in the Possession of the English Gentlemen, it would show a more sincere Defire for Friendship were they to give this up also.

Make these Conditions known to the Governor General immediately, and fend me a proper Answer with all Expedition.

If the Governor shall be inclined to agree to the Terms of the Treaty made by Colonel Upton, then let Letters confirming this Agreement be sent under the Pledge of an Oath, that my going to Calcutta, and the Maha Rajah's being Guarantee may be effectual, but if he fay, how can the English Gentlemen agree to these Conditions? it may be so; yet they are possessed of excellent Wisdom, Penetration, and Foresight, and can see what is best for the Good of Mankind; they will therefore certainly agree, and the Friendship and Alliance will remain firm as the Basis of the Earth to the End of Time. There is no Deceit in this; when these Preliminiaries shall be settled I shall go to meet the Governor. My Friend, may your Health and Interest daily increase.

Though I am a Stranger in the Decan, and not the principal Minister in the Service of the Maha Rajah, yet at this Time it happens that I should be chosen to go to Calcutta to establish Friendshap; this is an extraordinary Piece of Fortune. When I shall arrive in the Presence of the Governor, the Army which is in Cuttack shall be recalled, and the Plan which is the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan's, will be laid aside.

In the Dewan's own Hand.

The Nabob Nizam Ally Khan having fettled the Plan of Operations, has wrote feveral Letters to the Pundit Peishwa, to Nanna Purnaveese, and Scindia, and they have wrote to the Raja, that according to the Plan laid down he ought to invade the English Dominions, and give no Respite to the Decan in making Preparations for War; and they urge this convincing Argument, that his giving a free Passage through his Dominions has been the Cause of all these Evils. As every one has listened to the Advice of the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, it was necessary for us also to send an Army to Cuttack; but it is of no Consequence, for like the Waters of the Ocean, it has not gone beyond as just and proper Bounds. When Peace shall be established between the Governor and Pundit Pundhum, this Expence to us shall also be removed: This is the true State of our Mind, and for this Reason we show so much Anxiety and Unsteadiness: We are desirous that Peace may be established between the Governor and Pundit Purdhaun, that we may be relieved from these Importunities; to effect this, Shadaseo, the Pundit Peishwa's Vackeel, is sent to Poona, and Bejy Ram dispatched to Calcutta. Whatsoever we may receive from Poona you shall be particularly advised; for that it is certain there are many who will obstruct the Accomplishment of the Treaty and who will endeavour to prevent its taking place, but the Nabob Amaud ul Dowlah Bahadre is possessed for Foresight; in whatsoever Manace he may be inclined to Peace, it must be approveable. Let it be manitest that I am a fincere Friend.

From Modajee Bhofila: Received 21st September 1780.

Your agreeable Letter, and the Duplicate and Triplicate of it, informing me that you had, upon the Representations of Beneram Pundit, given Orders for the furnishing the Army at Cuttack wash Provisions, and that whatever else they might have Occasion for shall be supplied them and that you consider that Army as your own, arrived in a happy Hour, and gave me the most sincere Satisfaction. This Act of yours I consider to have proceeded from the Greatness of your Friendship, and the Sincerity of your Heart; and the many Offices and Duties which have mutually taken place between us in the Progress of this great Concern may be conceived and comprehended in the Mind, but cannot be described in Writing; and when Friendship is carried to this Pitch, the Armies of both Sides become truly the same in the Opinion of both. It is at all Times the Duty of both Sides to consider as the same their mutual Concerns, and to acquaint one another with every Particular; but at present that our Friendship and Connection is arrived at so intimate a Situation, how can any Thing be concealed from either Side according to the Verses of Huzzut Jamy. Although a Hundred Coverings should be laid over the Musk, yet the Scent of it will force its Way through the Hundred Coverings. For this Reason I have taken upon my Shoulders, and hold aloft, the Standard of Friendship of you and the English Nation, and what is more, I style myself by the Name of Amaud ul Dowlah.

I have fent to Poona Sadaseo Pundit, a Person in the Confidence of Pundit Peishwa, who resided here as his Vackeel, and have charged him with many and important Points in the Negociations for Peace with the English. I am now waiting in Expectation of his Answer, and will inform you of it immediately.

As from of old you had a Friendship and Alliance with the Family of Pundit Purdhaun, it is necessary that you at all Events and in all Situations keep it up with Madho Row Narrain who is the youthful Remains of that Family, and a fingle Orphan to whom by all Religions Protection and Friendship is commanded. The Friendship, Intimacy, and Agreement in all Matters and the keeping concealed no Secrets, Sentiments, or Views of either Side, and the other friendsy Offices which you have done, induced me, and still induce me to consider you and the Pundit Peishwa in the same Light.

At present that I have stilled myself Amaud ul Dowlah, what is left to be done? It is accordingly necessary for you to inform me of all Points, however inconsiderate, of your future Advantages and Disadvantages, without the smallest Reserve. On this Subject I have many and long Conversations with my Minister Dewagur Pundit, who has written them fully to Beneram Pundit, which I request you will attend to.

As I have already written 6 or 7 Proposals to you, the most advisable of all is this, That a Peace ought by all Means to be established with Pundit Peishwa, and after this has been settled, Dewagur Pundit shall be sent to you, entrusted with many Negociations, who will in Person explain to you all my Sentiments, at which Time whatever ought to be determined on shall be done. For the present be convinced that I have written these Preliminaries for Peace and Alliance solely from my Regard to Friendship, which is at all Times sirm and stedsast. Lose no Time in answering these Points to set my Mind at Rest. The suture Management of every Thing depends upon your Answer.

Postscript.—With respect to the Aids required for my Son, whatever Beneram Pundit shall represent to you, you will undoubtedly comply with.

From

From Dewagur Pundit: Received 21st September 1780.

The Triplicate as well as Duplicate of your agreeable Letter, informing me that you had, in confequence of the Representations of Beneram Pundit, given Orders for the Army which is arrived at Cuttack to be supplied with Provisions from your own Provinces, and for them to be surrished with every other Necessary that they may desire, and that you look upon that Army to be your own, arrived in a happy Hour. The Contents of it were properly perused and understood by the Maha Rajah, and I received the sincerest Pleasure and Satisfaction from the many Marks it contained of your Friendship. What this Quarter has to this Day done in support of their Friendship and Alliance, and the many friendly Offices you have done them, can be conceived and comprehended in the Mind, but are not reducible to Writing. At present that the Inclinations and Wishes for Peace which before were only on One Side, are now plainly reciprocal: Thanks be given to the Almighty for it.

When General Goddard arrived at Hoshungabad, and by the Advice and Solicitations of this Quarter remained there Two Months; when People of Trust were sent to see that he was properly supplied with Provisions and all other Necessaries; when Two confidential Persons of Mr. Elhott's Train came here, and Mr. Watherstone I kewise arrived at Naigpore, to negociate many Matters and to procure feveral Necessaries, such as Bullocks to draw the Cannon, and to get Money for his Bills of Exchange: when this Quarter, notwithstanding that the Vackeels of Pundit Peishwa and the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan were prefent, affifted and procured the Completion of all that Gentleman's Objects; and when in the Points and Negotiations entrufted to Mr. Elliott, which after his Decease were committed to Beneram Pundit and General Goddard, Karetahs and Letters were witten you with the greatest Caution, Forefight, and Circumspection, which, together with a Memorandum of our Views and Sentiments, were fent by the Way of Cuttack, under Charge of Beneram Pundit, and Letters were written to the General defining him by all Means to flay at Hoshungabad till the Receipt of Answers from Calcutta, and the General paying no Regard to our Advice departed for Surat, and an Answer was received from Calcutta, that you had for the present suspended your Views, but were still, and would continue in all Times firm in your Friendship to the Maha Rajah, and that on all Occasions of Necessity, Assistance should be afforded when Assarrs had come to this Pass, that we had loft one Side, and had not gained the other, that is to fay, that from our Friendship and Connection with the English, we had become obnoxious to the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah and Pundit Purdhaun, and you had given this explicit Antwer.

As to the Delays in furnishing Affiltance, and executing Engagements and Treaties, at that Time you yourself well know the Difficulties we were brought into, and I seeing none but the Poona Ministers inclined to the putting an End to the Hostilities, being remediless, went to Poona. In the mean while were received Accounts of the Defeat of the Bombay Army, so that whether I was inclined or not, I was absolutely compelled to go to Poona; for had you written a full Answer to the Memorandum sent you, and had you afforded the proper Affistance, or had not General Goddard marched towards Surat, what Occasion should I have to go to Poona? On the contrary, I should in that Case have sent for Major Camac, who was arrived in the Dependencies of Jetteesfigurra. I should have affociated to myself many Friends, and should by their Assistance have settled every Thing according to your Wishes; so that the Decan People could never have attempted to oppose me. As the Opportunity was lost, and the Arrow had been shot from the Bow, it is impossible to recall it, and it is equally useless to talk of it.

After my Arrival at Poona, having feen and made myfelf acquainted with the Changes and Revolutions of the World, and the Occurrences of Time, and keeping in View my Friendship for you, and also upon receiving Letters from you to this Purport, that you would do whatever was consistent with the Honour of the English, that you were ready to abide by the Treaty of Colonel Upton, but that any Thing which had been agreed to was without your Knowledge, the Attachment and Friendship I shewed, and the good Services I did the English in my Negociations, are well known to you from my frequent Letters. The putting away the new Treaty which had been entered into by the Bombay Army after their Defeat, the beginning Negociations agreeable to your Orders respecting the former Treaties, the writing continually to General Goddard and to Calcutta about Peace, the fettling conformable to his Letters a Meeting between him and the Poona Ministers, and making Ballajee Jenardun fix his Tent without the Town for this Purpole, and the fending confidential Persons to Surat to confer with the General, all these Matters were entirely effected by the Exertion of my Friendship and When General Goddard, after first writing about Peace, afterwards contradicted it, and prepared himself for Hostilities, and in Poona likewise all the Supplies necessary were in Readiness, and Scindia and Holcar were ready with their utmost Expedition, and by the Proposals and Advice of Nizam ul Dowlah the Plan of a War in the Four Quarters was determined on, and Hyder Naig likewife has become an intimate Ally, at that Time, on Account of our Propinquity to the Soubahs of Bengal, it was determined by the Plan of the faid Nabob, that this Quarter should fend an Army towards those Provinces. From a Regard and Knowledge of political Matters, we agreed to this Plan, and accordingly raised 30,000 new Horse, and were brought to great Distress by the Expences of them. In this Matter Two different Things were to be observed, one the keeping upon Terms with Pundit REP. VI.

Purdhaun, which nothing but his being near us, and his Country bordering upon ours, renders necessary, and the other the maintaining a strict and intimate Connection and Friendship with you; for it is as difficult to support an Appearance of Friendship with Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, and at the same Time to keep our Connections with you entire, as it is to unite Fire and Water. Notwithstanding open War and Hostilities had commenced between General Goddard and Scindia and Holcar, and repeated Messages were received from Pundit Peshwa, hurrying us to march towards Ben, gal, we however dispatched the Army in so slow a Manner, that they might be able to reach Cuttack at the Commencement of the Rains, and they are now stationed in the Province of Orissa.

Bejy Ram Pundit has been dispatched to you respecting the Business of Pcace with the Peishwa, and has Charge of a Memorandum of Colonel Upton's Treaty, by which you mean to abide, that Peace and Alliance may at any rate be established with Pundit Peishwa, and that you may put a Stop to the present Hostilities. As many and great Losses and Distresses have been brought on us, as by the raising and keeping up a new Army, in case Peace should be made, something must be done by Pundit Peishwa, something by the Nabob Nizam ul Dowla, and something by the English Gentlemen, to make good the Expences of them.

As at this Time a Karetah and Letters have been received to this Purport, That you before had not the smallest Intentions or Thoughts of War with Pundit Purdhaun, and have none still, but that from the Defeat of the English of Bombay, Hostilities had been determined on for the Defence of the Honour of the English Nation and for the Protection of their Possessions; that General Goddard had been victorious; that you could not give the Faith of a Treaty and Engagement to a mere Piece of Paper till the strong Ties of the Guarantee of some powerful Chief is added to it; that as you have the greatest Confidence in the Bhosila Family, and are acquainted with them for Twenty Years, you agree to any thing guaranteed by the Maha Rajah, but that we will not liften to any Propofals from the Poona Ministers which are improper for you to assent to; that we will do every thing which is confistent with the Honour of the English; that when I have received from the Poona Minnels Powers for these Negociations you will be much rejoiced if I come to Calcutta for the settling the Basis of a Treaty, when our Sentiments may be explained in personal Conference without my Wigness: For this Reason Sadaseo Pundit, a Person of Trust who resided here on the Part of Pundit Peishwa, has been sent to Poona charged with the explaining all Points, and the receiving their Asfent or Denial on all Points of these Negociations, of which no Part is concealed from or unknown to me. I have no Doubt but that within this Week he has reached Poona, and has explained every thing committed to him, and will write me the Answer which he finds them to have resolved upon We shall soon see what they will determine, and what Answer they will write. As we now received your Triplicate Letter, accompanying a Karetah for the Maha Rajah, about your having given Orders for the furnishing the Army arrived at Cuttack with Provisions from your Dependencies, and containing many other Particulars, such as considering that Army as your own, and as you have plainly in many Instances shewed your Knowledge of the Virtues, Courage, and great Qualities of Rajah Chumnajte Baboo, whom you from your Friendship and Unanimity, and for the maintaining the Rights of Alliance, were equally ready and resolved to assist as the Maha Rajah himself can be; our Friendship is thus carried to the highest Pitch, and nothing further is left to be done in it: The Reputation, Honour, and Name of both Sides are now of equal Weight, and we are even Two Bodies in one Soul, and the Army arrived at Cuttack is in Reality yours. But according to that Verse of Hasiz, How can that remain a Secret which is mentioned in the Durbar? In the same Manner from the coming of General Goddard to Hoshungabad, and the unreserved Correspondence of Letters between us, the Friendship of this Quarter for the English was proclaimed among all the Inhabitants of Decan, &c. both Friends and Enemies; and your Affection for the Family of Bhosila was publicly spoken of in your Council and among all your Friends and Foes, and was believed by every one. Whatever can happen from this intimate Connection will give Pleasure to our Friends and Grief to our Enemies; but nothing can happen which may rejoice our Foes and distress our Allies. To this Reason, not thinking it consistent with the Sincerity and Openness of Friendship to keep the Secrets and Sentiments any longer concealed in our Mind, but exalting the Standard of our Alliance with the English in the Eyes of all Decan, we told Sadaseo Pundit, the Vackeel of Pundit Peishwa, every thing which was proper, and sent him to Poona. We must now wait for his Answer; and we have through Bejy Ram Pundit sent you a Memorandum of the Articles of Colonel Upton's Treaty, which have been omitted and broken, at the same Time advising you to give up the assisting of Ragonaut Row, and to remain stedfast in the Articles of the former Treaty; and besides this, a Paper of such Articles which will now be proposed respecting the Dependencies of Gojeraut, together with Karetahs and Letters, have been delivered to the faid Pundit, with which he has been dispatched to your Presence, and which when you receive, will, I doubt not, explain all Matters to you.

As we have at this Time received your Triplicate and Karetah and Letter, respecting the Orders you have given for furnishing the Army arrived at Cuttack with Provisions, and that you consider that Army as your own, it becomes necessary for the Maha Rajah to remove the Covering which had been kept over the Eyes of his Friends; to make public to all Ranks of People his Sentiments and Designs, and even to style himself in Naigpore Amaud-ul-Dowlah; to exert himself as far as his Life and Power carry him in effecting what the Honour of the English and your Wishes require; to keep secret and concealed from you no Point, but to write and speak plainly his Opinion and Advice; and on my Part it is now incumbent on me to give Proofs in all Events of the Sincerity of my Obedience and Attachment. Although many Matters have arisen which seem difficult and hard, and which no one but those who are entrusted with the Secret can understand, yet when you shew so much Favour and Assection to Rajah Chumnajee Baboo, the Son of my Master, and consider him as much as your own Luse, it becomes immediately my Duty to lay before you every Thought and Idea which my Attachment and Friendship to you may have given Birth to. These it is advisable that you keep concealed in your Breast, which is the tase Receptacle of Secrets, and that you suffer no one to be acquainted with them, but those who are entrusted with your other Secrets, otherwise it will bring great Difficulties on us. It is the absolute Duty of all true and sincere Well-wishers, in any difficult Situations to keep no Views or Opinions in any Matter concealed from their Master, although they plainly see that by discovering them they will bring inevitable Dangers on themselves. This is in fact sporting with their own Lives; but it is at the same Time incumbent on his Protector to exert himself in every Thing which may prevent the other's secret Offices from being discovered, and from his Attachment and Services being the Cause of his Destruction; to keep the Secrets made known to him as carefully as he would his own Life, to do whatever is proper to be done, or else to remain perfectly silent, and not to say that such a one has written me this, I am accordingly employed in this Matter, and have got authentic Particulars of it, at the same Time shewing what his Friend had written him. You are supported by skilled in the Knowledge of all political Concerns, and from this you will, without Doubt, keep all you learn with the most careful Circumspection.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 4th September 1780.

THE Commander in Chief delivers in the following Minute:

4th September, 1780.

Sir Eyre Coote—It has never fince my first entering upon Public Life fallen to my Share to deliberate on a Business of such Extent and Importance as the present Crisis of the Company's Affairs in India. And unequal as I find myself to the Task of devising Means in my own Mind so well approved as to leave me without a Doubt of their extricating them from the more than common Difficulties in which they are at present involved; nevertheless do I find myself called upon equally by a Regard for the Interests of my Nation and my Employers to suggest such Measures as in my Judgment appear best calculated to repel those Evils which have already fallen upon the Company's Possessions in the Carnatic, as well as to avert, if possible, the further Calamities with which their Interests in general are threatened.

I am well aware of the very great Disadvantages under which I shall here give my Opinions; I mean the Expectations entertained from this Quarter, both by the Company and the Nation, of Resources to ratify those Conditions, unavoidable on a Renewal of the Charter: But whilst not in Possession of these Resources, and whilst the very Spring from whence they are supposed to flow, and I trust they may still at a future Period be derived, is itself in Danger; I statter myself I shall shand exculpated in the Eyes of my King, my Country, and my Employers, in recommending the Adoption of Measures, for the Security of so important an Object to all, however opposite they may be to the immediate Hopes of the Public.

In the present Exigency of our Assairs, with no Money in our Treasury, excepting the War Deposit in our new Fort, and which I have been taught to understand the Demands against us, both from the Civil and Military Establishments, have nearly if not entirely mortgaged, added to the Knowledge we have, that our Receipts of Revenue are barely adequate to defray our present Disbursements, it behoves us to consider in what Manner the Extraordinaries attendant upon the extensive Wars we are now engaged in are to be supplied.

I know of no other Mode than to endeavour to borrow Money on Bond, and at the smallest Interest procurable. This is a Step which indispensable as it appears to be in the present State of our Finances, I would not hesitate to advise in a like critical Conjuncture of the Company's Interests, even allowing that there were no Calls for its immediate Disbursement.

In all well-regulated Governments, it is a leading Maxim to act in such Manner as may tend to interest as many of the Community as possible in its Welfare and Success. A natural Love of the Laws and Religion by which they are governed, binds the Subject to the Interests of his Country; but in this, where every Action of a Native's Life is influenced by selfish Motives, and the more powerfully in Proportion to the Magnitude of the pecuniary Object, and totally devoid as they must be of any further Attachment to us than what arises from the Necessity of our Protection, it would appear to me, there is no more certain Method of ensuring their good Wishes and Support to the Cause of the Public, than by inducing them to place as much of their Property as possible under the Security of our Government. In doing this we also divest them of those Means, which in Case of Invasion

Invasion of a Foreigh Enemy, might either through Accident, or by their Free Will Contributions. be instrumental to our Destruction. The Reputation too of having a large Treasury, would operate in the most favourable Manner upon the Minds of our Adherents, by the Confidence it would give them of our Superiority, at the same Time that it would damp the Minds of our Enemies. by the very great Distance at which it would place all their Hopes of Success.

For the preceding Reasons, so thoroughly am I convinced of its being an eligible Policy, I shall, just for the Sake of drawing a Comparison between the Two Points; as they mutually affect the Company's Interests, make the following Supposition:

We have already got a confiderable Sum of Money in our Treasury, say Two Crores; our Situation in every other respect the same as at present, which every impartial Observer must allow is far from being a safe one; but by drawing into our Treasury a further Sum of Two Crores of Rupees, I not only provide against the Evils which threaten us, but give to our Government, by attaching to its Interests a Number of the most opulent of its Subjects, a Form of Stability which nothing but the most unforescen and unexpected Accident shall be able to shake. Our Affairs render it necesfary to support this Policy for Two Years; it has not however happened in the Course thereof, that we have had Occasion to spend even a Rupee of the borrowed Sum, which we shall admit was taken up at Five per Cent: Our Business is finished, the Tranquillity of the Country restored, and we pay it back with a Premium of Twenty Lacks; a Sum which furely when brought against the great Points we had secured by it, will hardly be thought deserving our Consideration; and in the Event of our spending any Part of the Principal, the Argument in Favour of the Measure 13 still strengthened, as the Necessity for it more plainly appears.

The hostile Operations of Hyder Ally, the very great Strength of his Army, the Want of Money at Madras, are Subjects that demand our most serious Consideration, whilst they leave us no Alternative, but that of all others the least desirable—a War; to prosecute which, the most speedy and vigorou Measures ought to be adopted.

In the First Place, a Sum of Money adequate to the Emergency of the Occasion should be sent t Madras, provided they are not able to furnish themselves by the Method they are now pursuing, a raifing Money upon the Company's Bonds; and that there may be as little Delay as possible in fur nishing this Supply, if necessary, I would recommend its being taken from the War Deposit i the new Fort, as being a Fund apparently provided for such Exigencies.

The particular Manner in which our Troops on the Coast are distributed in Garrisons situate at a Distance from each other, and the Communication between them partly cut off by Hyder' Cavalry, may render it a Service of no less Difficulty than Danger to affemble an Army sufficiently strong to risk an Engagement with the very formidable Force he is reported to have now in the Field I feel this Circumstance with the more sensible Regret and Concern, as the Distance from hence put it beyond a Possibility to give any Assistance that could assord immediate Relief: However, in order to lighten the Burthen, and to give Spirit and Confidence to fuch Operations as the Madras Admini stration from their own Discernment and local Observation may find it expedient to pursue against Hyder (for to their own Conduct it must in a great Measure now be left) as well as to awe the Nizan from attempting any Thing against the Circars, to deter Hyder from turning his Views towards these Northern Dominions, and to be in Readiness to act in concert with what Force may now be in the Circars against the French, who, as they are at this Time expected, may attempt a Landing on tha Coast; I say, for these most important Purposes, I would recommend a sufficient Army being former to the Southward; but to the good Effects of this falutary Measure I cannot help observing that perceive a very powerful Obstacle, and which I should be happy to see removed, I mean a Ma ratta Army on the Confines of Cuttack, and now laying in confiderable Force on our Borders As they have had no Enemy to oppose, and as we have as yet neither made or threatened to make any Encroachments upon their Territories in that Quarter, I should be glad to be informed of the Cause and Purpose of their being there, the more especially, as I have been told that for upwards of Eleven Years past, they have never once shewn themselves in those Parts.

To this Query it may be answered, that as they have been there for some Months and have offered us no Harm, they are our Friends. As a Military Man, I must declare that the Circumstance itself in the Effects it produces disproves the Allegation. Were they invited into their present Situation by us, or did they come to suppress any Disturbances that had arisen there? If neither of these has been the Case, they must be an Army of Observation, leagued with those who wish no Good to our Affairs and have proved more injurious to our political Interests, than if they had absolutely entered our Territories, in which Case we could immediately have applied the Remedy, but as they have conducted themselves, they have by forming a Barrier on our Frontier, in the High Road of Communication with our Possessions on the Coast, encouraged, covered, and given Spirit and Considence to Hyder Ally's Transactions in the Carnatic, whilst they have on the other Hand served as a Check, and destroy every favourable Effect that might have resulted from our Operations, and so alarmed and intimidated our Inhabitants, that there is not a Man amongst them of any Rank or Denomination with whom I have converfed, and I have had full Opportunity in coming down the Country to learn their Sentiments, who has not expressed his Fears of their coming into this Country; and in fuch Case pointed out his own defenceless State, and the Dependance he had upon us, as holding the only Power to afford him Protection; under the Influence of these Apprehensions many are preparing and some I am informed are actually removing their Property and Families to Places which appear to them more secure: With such incontroverable Evidence of the Prejudice done to the Ease and Happiness

PPENDIX, Nº 304.

Happiness of our Subjects by the Continuance of this Force at Cuttack is it possible that I should totally overlook my Duty to the Public, both in my Civil and Military Capacity, as not to be nxious to disburthen our Affairs of a Weight which may impede every Operation we wish to carry on, ither offensive or otherwise?

It is therefore my Opinion. That under whatever Authority they may be, an immediate Application hould be made for them to retire, as their remaining where they are disturbs the Peace of our Profinces: This Requisition will soon discover the Reality of their Intentions towards us: And in order hat we may not fuffer ourselves to be further injured by Delays, a Time should be stipulated or receiving an Answer; should this be denied us, our own Safety and Interests will dictate to us low to act.

I must further point out the Necessity of covering the Province of Bahar, which now lies open and xposed to the Incursions even of small Parties of the Enemy; for this Purpose I recommend the giving immediate Orders for completing our Two Regiments of Cavalry, and calling them down s foon as the Season will admit, for its Protection.

I do not apprehend at this Time any Danger to the Vizier's Provinces, as the Troops stationed n those Parts, when properly arranged, will, exclusive of our Cavalry, be more than sufficient to nevent the Marattas from entering them.

It should however be strongly recommended to the Vizier to be attentive to the keeping up a espectable Body of Horse, and the Resident directed to urge the Necessity of their being regularly nd punctually paid.

As these are the Outlines necessary to be first considered, I shall not take up the Attention of the loard further at prefent, but referve what I have still to propose until the Detail of the Business shall e entered upon.

(Signed) Eyre Coote.

Governor General-I could not suffer a greater Mortification than that which I have undergone, rom the Necessity imposed on me of proposing the Question now before the Board, and I did intend o have contented myself with entering simply my Assent to it. But the Commander in Chief has upported it by an Argument drawn from the Wants of the People of these Provinces, and especially heir more wealthy Inhabitants, which I think deferving a more particular Attention, as it proves not only the Propriety of opening our Treasury for the mutual Relief of this Government and the country itself, but of extending this Measure without any Limitation. I think it proper both to dd my Concurrence in this Opinion, and to extend the Reasoning on which it is founded to the other Confequences which are deducible from it.

The flightest Causes will be sufficient to excite a general Alarm among the People, who having no Criterion to judge of the Truth or Probability of public Rumours, and being by Nature timid, will herefore be ready to believe fuch as portend public Danger.

The immediate Effect of such Apprehensions will be a Solicitude in every Person possessing Property to secure it by such simple and rude Means of Concealment as Custom alone has taught hem, by conveying it to the Woods or Hills, or by shifting it from Place to Place, as their Fancies nay fuggest to them the Hopes of greater Safety in one than another; by depositing it with a heavy Tax in the foreign European Settlements; by transporting it altogether beyond the Bounds of the Provinces; or lastly, by the more frequent and easy Expedient of burying it in the Earth. Each of hese Means will create an irretrievable Loss of the Current Specie, and a Stagnation of the Remainder. Both these Consequences will fall heavily on the Revenue, and add to the Distresses of Government ta Time when it can least bear a Failure in its Collections. To open the Public Treasury as a Resolitory for the Wealth of the Country, if they have a Considence in the Government itself, of which own there is Room for Doubt, may prevent the Application of fuch dangerous Resources, and hus not only secure the Attachment of the People by affording them the most substantial Proection: I give my Affent to the Question.

The other Subjects of the General's Minute being of a different Nature and wholly unconnected with the Question immediately before the Board, I shall consider as distinct Questions.

The First is, "That a Sum of Money adequate to the Emergency of the Occasion be sent to ' Madras, provided they are not able to furnish themselves by the Method they are now pursuing of raifing Money upon the Company's Bonds; and that there may be as little Delay as possible in furnishing this Supply, if necessary, that it be taken from the War Deposit in the New Fort, as being 'a Fund apparently provided for such Exigencies." As the Terms of the Question do not require or idmit of an immediate Consideration of it, and we have already provided Two Modes of Remittant of the Profidence. ance, which though not ample, will prove a sufficient Relief to the immediate Wants of the Presideny of Fort Saint George, I hope the General will consent to suspend the final Determination upon t until the Approach of the Period in which his Proposal, if approved, must be carried into Execution. In the mean Time we may hope to be informed of the State of that Presidency with relation to its Wants, its Resources, its Dispositions for repelling the pretended or actual Invasion whichever it may prove, and the other distinct Services to which they may propose to apply the Sums afforded them by this Government.

These Provinces, already very much exhausted, will not bear greater Drains, nor can any Thing hort of extreme Necessity justify it in repeating them. It is therefore at least reasonable to expect REP. VI.

pect that they will furnish us with previous Information upon the Points which I have enumerated; nay, it may so happen, that by the Neglect of this Precaution, we may furnish them with the Means of employing the Company's Arms in an unnatural and desperate Opposition, even to the Authority of this Government, which was appointed for their Controul, and to whose Protection they must finally owe their Existence.

On this Occasion I must remind the Board of the Demand which was made to them so long as the 12th of June last, for the Restitution of the Circar of Guntoor or Martezanagur to the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, and of the Repetition of that Demand in our Letter of the 24th ultimo. Their Silence will justify us in crediting the Reports, which though not of official Authority, have doubtless reached every Member of this Board. That the Forces of that Presidency, which were sent to take Possession of the Circar of Mortezanagur, still continue there in Desiance of our Orders, and that the Management of it had been assigned in Form to the Nabob of the Carnatic. Hence I draw a strong Suspicion, that they will not easily be induced to resign it, and this is an additional and very powerful Inducement with me to defer the Consideration of the present Question until we know whether the Presidency of Madras will yield to our Authority, or compel us to use the Means with which we are constitutionally armed for that Purpose to support and enforce it; if such shall be, as I trust it will, the Resolution of this Board.

The Second Proposal introduced in the Minute of the Commander in Chief is, " That in order to lighten the Burthen, and to give Spirit and Confidence to fuch Operations as the Madras Administration from their own Discernment and local Observation may find it convenient to pursue against Hyder, as well as to awe the Nizam from attempting any Thing against the Circars; to deter Hyder from turning his Views towards these Northern Dominions, and to be in Readiness to act in concert with what Force may now be in the Circars against the French, who, as they are at this Time expected, may attempt a Landing upon that Coast, a sufficient Army be formed to the Southward." To the Profecution of this Measure the Commander in Chief justly observes, there is One powerful Obstacle in the Situation of the Forces of the Rajah of Berar; their Position at Cuttack being directly in the Road which our Troops must pass to effect the proposed Junction with those of the Presidency of Fort Saint George, and their Vicinity to our Borders having intimidated the People of the Country, and impressed them with the Dread of an Invasion, the General is led to propose, that immediate Application should be made for them to retire; and he supports his Opinion on this Point, by observing that such a Requisition will soon discover the Reality of their Intentions towards Though the Fact itself, stated without the antecedent Circumstances which have produced it, will justify the Reasonings of the Commander in Chief, I yet persuade myself that when he is acquainted with all the Particulars and Gradations of it, he will not only change his Sentiments, but agree with me in Opinion that it will be better Policy in this Government to wait a short Time for the Knowledge of the Intentions of the Government of Berar, than by any premature Act impel it to a decided Choice, which may prove holdile to us, whether its present Inclinations are yet fluctuating, or, as I believe them to be, determined in our Favour.

red to un-

I am pleased that the General has furnished me with this Occasion to lay before the Board the true State of the Subject; and I request I may be included with a patient Attention while I deliver it, which I shall endeavour to do in as succinct a Manner as possible.

The Board will well remember (nor ought it to be forgotten) the ready and effectual Assistance which General Goddard's Detachment repeatedly received from the Government of Berar.

On the first Formation of that Corps, an Application was made to Moodajee Boosla, to permit it to pass through a Part of his Dominions; he instantly and cheerfully complied, and unsolicited wrote to Colonel Leslie, who then commanded the Detachment, inviting him to proceed, and offering him both a free Passage and the Means of Subsistence; at the same Time he caused a large Store of Grain to be provided on his Borders, where it lay Six Months waiting for his Arrival. General Goddard's Letters contain Acknowledgments of the Hospitality with which he was received, and treated during his long Continuance at Hosungabad, and the liberal Manner in which Moodajee Boosla advanced the Money due on his Bills when General Goddard formed the Resolution of marching to the Relief of Bombay, though against his repeated and urgent Remonstrances. These were spontaneous Acts and substantial Proofs of his Friendship; and whatever Policy may have dictated them, their Obligation on this Government is the same, and has acquired an increased Force by the Knowledge which we now possess of the Essets since produced by it on that Government. It has exposed it to the Resentment of the Poona Government, for having been instrumental to all the Consequences occasioned by the March of our Troops to the other Side of India.

May I be permitted to add, as a Proof of the Notoriety of the Disposition of the Government of Berar to ours, the Facility with which Mr. Elliott obtained the Surrender of Mr. Chevalier at Cuttac, fince nothing but a certain Knowledge of that Attachment could have induced the Naib to have confented to an Act which on a different Supposition would have proved of so much Danger to himself.

What has fince paded, notwithstanding external Appearances, will fully justify the Belief that its Disposition is still the same.

Whatever Movements of whatever Tendency have been made, have been previously and confidentially communicated to this Government.

The Dewan was early dispatched to Poona to negociate a Peace with General Goddard: In this Attempt he failed; but he communicated to me, and still more largely to Beneram Pundit, his Minister at this Place, every Circumstance that happened during his Stay there. It was from him as I recollect, that I first heard of the Confederacy planned by the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, and formed in Conjunction with him, the Minister at Poona, Madajee Scindia, Hyder Ally, and Moo.

dajee Boosla, against the Company.

He was called upon by the Minister, with the Command of the Pieshwa, to furnish his Quota of Troops for the common Cause, and was threatened by Nizam Ally Cawn and Madajee Scindia, that they would invade and lay waste his Country if he refused. He was totally unprepared to ressit Two so formidable Enemies, having disbanded his Troops, and reserving only a Peace Establishment. He was obliged therefore to temporize, consenting to enter into the general Consederacy, but still claiming the Privilege of Mediation. The Part assigned him was to fend an Army during the Course of the last Season to lay waste the Provinces of Bengal. With this Requisition he complied, but at the same Time informed me, that he should continue such Means to delay as should prevent the Army from approaching our Borders till the Close of the Fair Season, which would be a Pleas for not entering upon immediate Action; that in the mean Time he should be able by the next Season to raise such an Army as would essectually establish his own Independency, and qualify him to act according to the Dictates of his own Judgment. These Declarations have been literally verified, for we have seen this Body of Troops spin out a March to Four Months, which might with Ease have been accomplished in Two, and arrive at the Place of their Destination at the Commencement of the Rains. These though Marattas, and Part of them Pindaries or Plunderers by Profession, have remained as quiet as if cantoned at their own Capital. Every Letter received from the Court of Berar is filled with the most solemn Assurances of actual Friendship, and its Resolution to maintain it under every Circumstance.

I now lay before the Board the Two last Papers of Advice which have been received from Naigpoor. The First of these, which is a Letter from Dewagur Pundit to Beneram Pundit, mentions that Sedashew Pundit, the Resident of the Peshwa at Naigpore, a Man of high Rank and Trust, had been dispatched to Poona with a Repetition of the Proposal expressed in the most peremptory Terms, that Credentials should be immediately sent to Dewagur Pundit to treat with this Government for Peace, and that the Dewan was making every Preparation to set out for Bengal on the Instant of the Arrival of an Answer from Poona. This being the actual State of that Government in its Relation to ours, and no Occasion calling us to an immediate Decision, I hope the Board will agree with me to suspend it to the Period within which we may reasonably expect to be informed of theirs. I for my own Part am morally certain that it is the earnest Wish and Ambition of the Government of Berar to become the Mediator and Guarantee of a Peace between this and the Government of Poona; and it is my firm Belief, that if it shall fail of this Purpose, and be compelled at length to take a decided Part in the War, it will rather unite with us than submit to act with its natural Enemics, the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, Mhadajee Scindia, and the Poona State, its constitutional Superior.

With respect to any Requisition made to the Commander of the Forces at Cuttack for their Removal, it can be of no Effect, because he acts under positive Orders, and is perhaps as little acquainted with the real Destination of his Troops as are the Members of this Government. Such an Application might indeed be made to Moodajee himself; but this is now unnecessary, as the next Advices must amount virtually to the same Essect as any that could be expected from it.

Letter from Dewagur Pundit to Beneram Pundit.

On the 24th Rejeb I received your Letter dated the 29th Jemadiassanie, together with an Arzie for the Prefence, and a Letter to the Dewan Sahib, and became acquainted with all Particulars, and made known fully every Point which you mention to my Master and the Dewan. What you faid to the Nabob Amaud ul Dowlah, respecting the Arrival of our victorious Army at Cuttack, was very proper and advisable. The Dewan Sahib greatly praised your Conduct, and said, that if the Sirkar had any People of equal Wildom and Attachment to what you have shewn in your good and prudent Management of this Matter, every Thing would be well and properly fettled, and his Highness, upon hearing all these Particulars, expressed Ten Times more Regard and Favour for your Wisdom than he had done before. All these you will learn from Beneram Pundit, who set off the Day before your Letter arrived, and who will deliver you the Khellaat and Serpaitch for the Duffara, and receive your Thanks for it, and will be able to inform you about the Bill of Exchange for 1000 Rupees which was before fent to Ram Bhedar Pundit at Surat. In all the Views and Intentions of this Quarter you are trufted with entire Confidence; continue therefore to exert yourfelf to the utmost of your Life and Strength to execute the Wishes and Orders of our Master to his Satisfaction, and be convinced that the Dewan Sahib is in every Instance favourable and well inclined to you. I who am your firm Friend, will write to every Thing which I fee with my own Eyes, or which may be communicated to me either in public or private. The Army which is arrived at Cuttack was sent there in pursuance of a Plan of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, and of the Advice of the Ministers of Pundit Purdhaun. This has been fully explained in the Karctahs written to that Quarter, and not the smallest Occurrence or particular Requisite in the Duties of Friendship has been omitted. I cannot therefore conceive what could be his Intentions of telling you, that fo large an Army was not necessary for the Settlement of Cuttack. Where all Distinction has been taken away, every Thing should be the same to both Parties. Every Circumstance which has happened in this Quarter, has been written to that Side, without Reserve. The Army, after its Departure from hence, arrived at Cuttack at the Beginning of the rainy Season, in Six Months. Consider this likewise, that all these Delays were solely owing to the sincere Friend-thip entertained for the English. If the Friendship for the English Gentlemen, and the long Intercourse of Letters with them, the Arrival of General Goddard at Hoshungabad, the stationing of a Vackeel with them, for the providing of Provisions, &c. the coming of Mr. Watherstone to Naigpore, the paying from the Sirkar the Bills of Exchange of the Mahajuns, had not been known to them, it would not have been necessary for the Army to be levied and sent to that Quarter, and such Difficulties and Expences incurred for the Payment of the Soldiers. In an Intercounse of Friendship, all these Difficulties and Expences are easily borne by firm Friends. The explaining all this to the other Quarter, is incumbent on you: Of this, you will learn all Particulars from the Hindoilanny Letter of the Dewan Sahib, who before has written and still writes with the greatest Affection and Attachment for the English Gentlemen. On the Arrival of Bejy Ram Doboy at that Quatter, not the smallest Article of all the Views, Intentions and Dangers of this Quarter will be inknown to you, and you will then represent and explain to the Nabob every Thing which shall appeal to you of Use and advitable. The Proverb which you mention, by the Nabob's Orders, that whoever by the Strength of his Arms attempts to swim in a River, when a large Wave comes he lifes his Power of moving, and is carried away at the Cleafure of the Waters without it being possible to assume will become of him: The Maha Raja upon hearing this Proverb smiled, and immediately without any previous Thinking faid, what the Nabob mentioned was very proper and applicable; but that, by the Biefiing of God, the River was unable, notwithstanding its Violence and the Fury of its Waves, to go bayond its Banks, but is always fixed in its determined Boundaries. That the Authority, Greatness, Power and Strength of the Gentlemen were like a River that has large Waves; but that from their great and striking Virtues and their Piety and Love of God, they never go beyond the Boundaries sixed by their Treaties and Engagements: That if at any Time in their Intercourse of Friendship, Events and Circumstances, and the Common Revolution of Assairs, which are never fixed, any Difficulties should come upon their Friends, they, like a River which supports upon its Water the great Weight of large Ships, take upon themselves the Weight of them, and deposit them safely on the Shore: That the Nabob has now approved of what he had so often written in all his Letters to that Quarter, and has in some of his Karetahs written Orders to that Purport, and will continue in the same Intention. Secondly, the Nabob has mentioned another Proverb, which you have wrote as follows, That the Governor of Bombay had undertaken a Matter without his Advice, which had rendered necessary every Thing which has fince been done; but that as this Quarter is definous of feeing Peace brought, and as he is resolved to sollow the Advice of this Quarter, he will therefore make over to the Rajah the Power of Solomon's Seal. In Answer to this his Highness said, That when the Nabob, from his Friendship and Considence in him, entrusts him with the Power of Solomon, he himself must be like the Seal and Inscription, as the Power of Solomon was entirely derived from the Inscription; that when he is made Mediator and Guarantee by both Parties in the intended Peace and Reconciliation between the English Gentlemen and Pundit Purdhaun, and when he gets into his Hands written Powers from the Nabob, his Authority will then be complete; and that this Authority, from the diffinguished Character of his illustrious Family, will be productive of great Advantages: That he will keep Possession of this Seal of Solomon in the Manner that is requisite; and will, agreeable to the Representations, after the Arrival of Bejy Ram Dooby, give an explicit and final Answer: In a Word, I have written every Thing which his Highness said, in Answer to the Two Proverbs; for the rest, I refer you to the Dewan's Letters, and you will act agreeable to them, and will write every Thing, either public or fecret, which occurs in that Quarter. You will also consider the effecting a true and perfect Reconciliation of the Maha Raja to be the most necessary of all Measures, and that after the Terms of the Treaty of Peace shall be settled, it will be advisable for the Dewan to be admitted to an Interview. You will keep up a Correspondence with Raja Chimna Baboo and Bowanny Pundit Buckshy; and will write the State of Affairs, and your Advice and Opinion on all Matters.

Translation of a Letter from Dewan Dewagur Pundit to Beneram Pundit, dated 26 of Shabaun.

On the 25th Rajib I received your Letter, dated the 27th Jemmadieassanie, and understand the Contents. I perfectly comprehend what the Nabob Amaud O'Dowlah said to you, which you mention in your Letter. To this Time, Three Letters have been sent from this Quarter, and a Fourth is now dispatched; from them you will have learnt Particulars. What you said to the Nabob Amaud O'Dowlah, respecting the furnishing Provisions, and what he told you in Answer, namely, that there could be no Exception against furnishing Provisions, &c. but that he could conceive what were the Views of so large an Army at Cuttack; that God forbid any other Intentions except friendly ones should be entertained, and that of this you must be Security, and what you, keeping in View the Directions and Orders of our Master, represented in Answer; the Particulars of all these Matters, both what was written in your Hand for my private Information, and what was in the Letter of the Moonshy of Bowanny Pundit, are fully understood by me. The Nabob Amaud O'Dowlah is superiorly wise and foreseeing, and knows the proper Measures and Advice in all Matters. You must explain to him that this Army has been ready ever since the Dussaa, and that if any hostile Thoughts had existed they would have been sent by the Road of Mundella to Chutta Naigpore, from whence they would have passed into Azeemabad. But as it is now Six Years that Friendship has been strongly cemented with the Nabob through your Mediation, God is Witness that I have watched and guarded it as I would my Honour and Possessions; of this you must be fully convinced. How can a powerful Friend that has been acquired be lost? Had not our whole Desires been fixed on Friendship, how could Mr. Anderson have come to Naigpore, and Colonel Goddard to Hoshungabad, and have remained there Three Months? Or would Mr. Watherstone have been invited to Naigpore? Or should we have sent Jadoo Row and Sewo Sing, and have perfuaded Colonel Goddard to stay Three Months at Hoshungabad? At that Time you were at Naigpore, and were an Eye Witness to every Thing I mention. Although it is absurd to repeat these Points so often, yet as you have written on this Subject, I have therefore mentioned them. The Nabob ought to reslect with an Eye of Justice, on the Largeness of the Army at Cuttack, the Difficulties, Expences, and Losses with which it has loaded the Sirkar; let him consider that the coming of Mr. Anderson and Mr. Watherstone to Naigpore, the remaining of Colonel Goddard at Hossungabad, the Attack and Hostilities begun by the Bombayers against Pundit Purdhaun, and raising Batta-lions here by Mr. Watherstone, and the Negociations respecting these Battalions, and the purchasing of all Articles which he had Occasion for, in Naigpore; all these Cirumstances, the Vackeels of the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan and Pundit wrote to their Constituents; you yourself were here at the Time, and know all this to be true, as you were an Eye Witness. These Events were the original Cause of our present Difficulties, the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, having fixed upon a Plari, brought into this Dilemma, promising to march in Person towards Checkagool and Rajebundery, and obliging us to go towards Bengal, while Scindia and Holcar were to have proceeded to Surat. When Nana Furnesse and Hurry Pundit Umteah and Scindiah came from their own Habitations to Poona, to examine into this Plan, and confult on the best Measures, from the Proof of Mr. Watherstone's having been at Naigpore, they accused me of every Point, which as I above said, all the Vackeels had written to their Constituents, and pointed at me with their Fingers; to all this I fingly submitted. In an Intercourse of Friendship, should such Dissidues, Distresses, and Abuse fall on a Person? it is of no Consequence, the Shame of it is on the Friends. No Neglect was ever committed by this Quarter, the Disposition of the Maha Raja my Master, and of all this Family, is fixed in observing their Word, and in preserving Friendship, nor is he ever wanting in fulfilling any thing which he promises, either verbally, or by Writing, nor backward in performing his Engagements. Never was any Ancestor of this Family accused of Neglect or Breach in his Promises; with whomever they had entered into Oaths and Engagements of Friendship, or had a Prospect of effecting an Alliance, they never admitted any Thoughts different from that, as it would bring a Stain upon the latest Posterity. Of this you are well informed; and although by sending this Army we have brought a great Weight upon us, yet, by the Blessing of God, I am sirm in my Attachment, and hope for its Increase. This you must explain in a proper and convincing Manner to the Nabob Amaud O'Dowlah, that the Maha Raja is a firm Friend, and that I consider them both as one: Of this God is Witness!

The Nabob in Greatness and Distinction admits of no Second, and in Forelight, Prudence and Wisdom, is so far above all Praise, that in this Age no one can be found to approach him. This is my present most earnest Wish, that at all Events I may once be able to see the Nabob with my own Eyes, and may either in Benares, Balasore, or in Calcutta, it matters not which, be made happy by one Month's Residence near the Nabob, and may in Person effect a sincere Reconciliation between the Nabob and Row Pundit Purdhaun, that no Interruption may ever in future happen in it; but that they may be united in their mutual Interests, and that having next made a Treaty on the Part of the Maha Raja, I may return. This is my earnest Desire. It is absurd to repeat this so often; but in this there are Three confiderable Opponents: First the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, who upon learning this will take hostile Resolutions; Secondly, Scindeah, who is the most considertial Minister of Pundit Purdhaun, and in whose Hands at present all the political Affairs are lodged; so that the Poona Ministers were obliged to give him Intelligence of what I informed them respecting my Wish to go to Calcutta; and Thirdly, the Weight of Expences and Difficulties from this Army. But my whole Defire and View is, to secure the Peace of the People; and if between the Two Chiefs a sirm Reconciliation and Alliance should take place, and the People of the Two Countries acquire Ease and Security, how can my Distresses remain, as the Peace and Happiness of the whole World is fixed in my Mind? The Inhabitants of it cannot remain in Difficulties, nor can Friends desire it. After the Receipt of your Letter to Nana Furnesse and Hurry Pundit Tupteah, for their private Information, to the following Effect; that they must try to persuade the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan and Scindeah, of the Necessity of my going to Calcutta. I before this gave you Notice of what the Letters from Poona contained, which you will have learnt; and I have now dispatched Bejey Ram, from whom nothing is kept secret; after his Departure, as soon as Taram Reek arrived and delivered me your Letters, knowing it to be unadvisable to delay answering them, I immediately wrote all Particulars, and the Moonshy of Bowanny Pundir has wrote every Matter in Answer to the Letters, which you will soon learn.

Postscript.—During Three Months, continual Hostilities were kept up between General Goddard and Scindia and Holkar; at last, when the Rainy Season commenced, the General retired to Surat, and Scindia and Holkar went towards Oogein and Indore. The Gentlemen of Bombay making an Invásion in the District of Cokan, seized upon Three or. Four Magazines, and took Possession of their whole Contents, and committed divers other Devastations; and the Army with Serement Pundit Purdhaun sent into the same District is employed in opposing them with various Success. At present that I have written to Poona for their Approbation of my going to Calcutta, Rep. VI.

PPENDIX,

and am myself desirous of going thither, what can be thought of these violent Hostilities still subfisting in Cokan? The Nabob, at the Beginning, said, That he did not approve of the Engagements, of the Bombayers, and could not affent to them; What therefore can I effect? It is therefore necesfary, that before you receive Letters from hence, advising you of the Poona Ministers having affented to my Journey to that Quarter, you do so; that General Goddard and the Bombayers receive Directions to remain inactive, at that Time it will be proper for me to begin my Journey.

In the Dewan's own Hand Writing.

I have written to Poona, to Nana Furnesse and Hurry Punt Tanteah, and for greater Security propose sending to Poona Sadage's Pundit, who is equally trusted as myself, and resides here as Vakeel from Pundit Purdhaun to the Maha Raja, who is truly and firmly attached to this Sirkar, and is a fincere Friend of mine. After his Arrival I do not doubt but that I shall receive such Letters from Poona as I could wish, respecting my Journey; as soon as I receive them I will, after celebrating the Dussora, take Sadajee Pundit Dadda and my Moonshy with me, and go by the Road of Cuttack. I expect to receive there Letters before the End of Sawan, or Middle of Bhagdom, and immediately I will prepare all the Necessaries for my Journey, and before I set off I will write to you by the Way of Benafes. In that Letter I will mention that you must procure Orders from the Nabob Amaud O Dowlah to General Goddard and the Gentlemen of Bombay, to put a Stop to all Hostilities; in this you must exert yourself and bring it about. It is now Eight Months that the Army has suffered much from the Scarcity and Dearness of Provisions, nor do the Boephanils bring enough. It is necessary, absolutely necessary, that you represent this to the Nabob. If the Boephanils can be sent to the Army of Baboo Sahib Secna Bahadar, it is a Duty of Friendship, and ought to be done. I am Friend to the Nabob; the Friend, the Friend; of this convince him, and give entire Satisfaction on this Point: You must gain me One Interview with him, as it is my most fanguine Wish. The Nabob himself last Year expressed a great Desire for an Interview; may God grant that it be happy! I am anxious for the Receipt of Letters from Poona.

Resolved, That the Treasury be immediately opened for Loans of Money at the established Rate of Interest, being 5 per Cent, and that public Notice thereof be given accordingly.

Ordered, That the Sub Treasurer do subjoin to his Weekly Abstract of Treasury, the Sum received into the Treasury during the Course of the preceding Week, and the Diminution of the Deposits during the same Period.

Agreed, That the other Subjects of the Commander in Chief's Minute lie for Confideration. Warren Hastings, Edw Wheler.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 18th September 1780.

The Commander in Chief delivers in the following Minute in consequence of that from the Governor General recorded on the 4th Instant.

Sir Eyre Coote-I agree with the Governor General in the Propriety of deferring to fend further Supplies for the Relief of the Presidency of Madras until the Administration there shall have advised us on those Points which the Governor General has stated, and which are so very necesfary for our Information, in order to guide us as to the Nature of the Affiftance to be given them.

From the Effect which the Governor General apprehends might be produced in the Conduct of the Berar Court towards this Government by the Formation of an Army to the Southward, and in Confideration of the further Arguments he has stated in Proof of Moodajee Boosla's friendly Disposition towards us; and because the Season when our Troops can move with Facility is not yet arrived, I agree with him to suspend the immediate Execution of that Measure, and to wait further Intelligence as to the Intentions of the Government of Berar. At the same Time I must beg Leave to recommend that every necessary Preparation be made for the Adoption of such a Step the Moment it may be found expedient; and in short, that every Precaution be taken to secure the Company's Possessions from any sudden Surprize in those Quarters where it is most to be apprehended, and which may operate to the Prejudice of the Collections. In this Particular, the Province of Bahar appears first to demand our Attention, as well because of its being more exposed to the Danger of an Incursion by the Marattas, as that it is less protected than any of the others.

> (Signed) Eyre Coote.

The Board agree with the Commander in Chief in the Sentiments expressed in the above Minute. and refer it to him to take such Precautions, and to pass such Orders, as may be immediately necesfary to guard against the Event of an Invasion.

APPENDIX,

P P E N D I X, N° 305.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 22d June 1780.

THE Governor General informs the Board that he has received Advice of the Arrival of Chim. najee Boosla, the Commander of the Army of Berar, in the Province of Orista, at Cuttack. By Intelligence communicated some Time since to the Members of the Board, they have been informed of the Distress which this Army had actually sustained, and of the greater Difficulties which it was likely to incur from the Want of Provisions, and of the Order which Beneram Pundit, the Vackeel or Minister of the Berar Government, had received, to apply to this Government for Aid in procuring their future Supply: That Application has accordingly been made by the Vackeel; and as it appears to be the general Sense of the Board, that we shall consider the Government of Berar as friendly to this; and as it is entitled to some Return for the Hospitality which it afforded to our Army under the Command of General Goddard, for many Months before its Arrival within the Frontier of Be. rar, and during its Residence in it, the Governor General recommends, that Orders be issued to the Provincial Chiefs and Councils of Burdwan and Calcutta, and the Collector of Midnapore, to permit Supplies of Grain, Provisions, and other Necessaries, to pass to the Maratta Army at Cuttack, and to affift their Agents in procuring them; and that he himself may be authorized to inform the Berar Vackeel, that the Board have thought proper to iffue fuch Orders.

Mr. Wheler-Placing a much greater Confidence in the Opinion which the Governor General has formed of the friendly Intentions of the Raja of Berar, and which I conclude he has collected from his long Intercourse with the Vackeel of that Chief, than from any Evidence of them which I can gather from the Proceedings, or from the Correspondence with him, I accede to the present

Motion.

Mr. Francis-I think that we ought to continue to treat the Berar Government as Friends, without neglecting to have a strict Eye upon their Motions: If their Intentions be hostile to us, they will foon be discovered; in the mean Time I think it may be proper to give them this Proof of our friendly Disposition towards them: The Supplies may be stopped at any Time. I therefore agree to the Motion.

The Governor General-My Opinion of the Difposition of the Berar Government towards this, has been fully expressed and explained in my Minute of the 12th June. I repeat, that I believe it to be perfectly friendly, but, I must add, that it will depend upon the Conduct of this Government towards it, whether it is to prove in the End our Friend or our Enemy.

Agreed to the Governor General's Propositions.

The following Letter is accordingly written to the Provincial Councils of Calcutta and Burdwan, and to the Collector of Midnapore.

Mr. David Andersoni, Chief, &c. Calcutta Committee.

APPENDIX

Bengal Persian Correspondence.

Translation of a Letter from Dewagur Pundit to Beneram Pundit: Received 21st September, 1780.

CONFIRMING what has passed in all former Letters without the Deviation of an Iota, I write with my Attention limited by them alone, and without Restraint by the Fear of any one.

The Governor wrote the Maha Raja that he looked upon the Army under Chumnajee as his own. There is now nothing wanting to the Completion and Extent of their Friendship; therefore every Thing, good and evil, must meet with the most unreserved Communication: When you have well understood the Contents of my Letter, you will lay it entirely before him.

The Times require that a Peace be made with the Maratta Administration, and that, in whatever Mode it may be, a Treaty and Agreement take place between them. If this is not now effected, Confusion and Warfare must be carried to the greatest Lengths and Extremities. I write, appealing to God and the Friendship now established. This Dispute must be ended.

Although many Impediments are attempted to be thrown into my Way, to prevent my hoped-for Meeting with the Governor, and have fent Sadaseo Pundit to Nanna Purnaveese and Hurry Punt Purkia, well assured that the Answers from Poona will prove agreeable to my Wishes, and enable me to accomplish them. I have therefore sent inclosed, the Heads of the Treaty concluded with Colonel Upton, and Memorandums of the Claims regarding Guzerat, Ahmudabad, Cokun, Surat, and the Guicawars, &c. You must lay them without Diminution before the Governor, ask his definitive and solemn Answer, and send it to me. This is the Advice, and most necessary to be followed.

folemn Answer, and send it to me. This is the Advice, and most necessary to be followed.

The Maha Raja will never drop the Pornagor. They promised Gurrah and Mundela, and have not performed it, but this remains upon them. Notwithstanding this, it is proper and right that Peace should be brought about between them and the English, by me, that I may on this Side of the Marattas, have a Claim upon their Gratitude, for the after Performance of many unfinished Claims between them and the Maha Raja. And on the Side of the English, I shall enhance our Friendship with them. An Agreement subsisted between the Predecessors of the present Maratta Government and those of the Maha Raja, and ratisfied when Ragojee Bhosila went to Poona, by my placing him in their Arms, and they promising never to desert him. Upon this Score therefore, our Fidelity is due to them in every Form. When at sundry Times we have been distressed, they have helped us. I therefore hope now in Return to assist them. A Meeting between me and the Governor is absolutely necessary to conclude this Business.

In Repetition.

The Maha Raja, like all others of the Bhosila Family, is not self-interested. Wherever they place their Friendship, they do not hesitate to stake their Lives, much less their Fortunes, provided either can serve to cement and answer the Ends of Friendship. You have seen all this yourself, and know it from your own Knowledge.

Inform the Governor the Nabob Zuffer ul Dowla Donsah*, is at Nuzmull, and is Soul and Body united with the Maha Raja. You saw the Letters which came from him, at the Time General Goddard was at Hoshungabad, and Mr. Watherstone came to Naigpore; establish the Truth therefore with the Governor. Zuffer ul Dowla has 12,000 Gardies, 2000 Cossrees, 6000 Horse, and 40 Guns, with and under him, and is devoted to us: The Governor probably knows this: It is no Secret to the Marattas, and Nizam Ally. A friendly Letter from the Governor to him, would be of great Use. God enlighten you in this Path, that every Thing may be understood by the Governor, for if the Whole of this is not only not understood, but does not meet with his warmest Concurrence, a World will be lost.

llook up to the Governor as my own Master, and speak only for his Welfare. This is true to the least Tittle

If an oftenfible Letter from the Governor to Sindia be written, referring to me as an Agent, I can then come to your Quarter.

Again in Repetition.

Every thing has been most fully explained to you in former Letters, but for Certainty I repeat the Heads. I was at Poona when the Army under Chumnajee was proposed and recommended by Nizam Ally Khan, to the Government of Poona, to be sent into Bengal. Letters were then passing between Sindia and Goddard, about Peace, but being interrupted and broken off by the Means of Nizam Ally, he then carried the sending of our Army to Bengal. I took my Leave of Poona, and came to Naigpore. On the Day of the Dussara, Chumnajee took the Field (now one Year) and arrived at Cuttack, not till the last of Jeyt, as before explained, and unnecessary torepeat. On the Day of the Departure of the Army, 35 Lacks in Money, 3 Lacks in Cloths, Rep. VI.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 306, 307.

and 14 Elephants, were given to the Chief of it. Distress of Provisions much injured them upon the Road. Upon their Arrival at Cuttack, they experienced the same. Yet so strong is our Friendship with the English, particularly with the Governor, that we never trespassed their Bounds, and never will; God is my Witness to this. The Governor has permitted Grain to be sent to them, it must have taken place of course; the Merchants must certainly have carried it, but there is no Money with the Army. According to the lowest Calculation, 4 Lacks per Month is the least that can defray their Exigencies. It is advisable between us as Friends that this Army return in Poos and Maug. Sixteen Lacks should be sent for their Assistance, Twelve of it secretly, to Bowanny Pundit, that he may be able to repress the Army, and keep them under Controul. This is speedily necessary. Let not the Governor apprehend that this Money will thereby be thrown away, for the Bhosila and English Interest will then be but One, and much Benesit must flow from this. To bring this about is necessary, extremely necessary. I do not write for myself. This is the Advice to be followed, most certainly, or the Army will be no longer governable. Save us from this Difgrace. All my Hopes are upon you. If the Army remains till Poos and Maug, the Fear of the English will be upon all, and therefore this ought to be effected.

13th October 1780.

HAVING received repeated Letters from Moodajee Boossa, respecting the State of the Army under your Command; and regarding it, on account of the long Intimacy which has substitled between our Two Governments, as my own; I have for this Reason dispatched Bissembeer Pundit, the Brother of Beneram Pundit, to you, and have furnished him with such Aids as were in my Power, which he will deliver to you. As he is fully acquainted with all the Circumstances of my Assairs, and of my long fixed Attachment to the Maha Raja, and to the House of Boossa, he will serve in the Place of a longer Letter, and to him I refer you for all the Particulars.

Letter from the Governor General, 29th November 1780.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Sirs,

YOU will be informed by our Confultations of the 26th June, of a very unufual Tender which was made by me to the Board on that Day, for the Purpose of indemnifying the Company for the extraordinary Expence which might be incurred by employing the Detachment under the Command of Major Camac in the Invasion of the Maratta Dominions, which lie beyond the District of Gohed, and drawing the Attention of Mahdajee Scindia, to whom that Country immediately appertained, from General Goddard, while that of the General was employed on the Reduction of Bassein, and in securing the Conquests made by your Arms in Gujerat.

I was desirous to remove the only Objection which had been, or could be oftensibly made to that Measure, which I had very much at Heart, as may easily be conceived from the Means which I took to effect it., For the Reasons at large which induced me to propose this Diversion, it will be sufficient to refer to my Minute recommending it, and to the Letters received from General Goddard near the same Period of Time. The Subject is now become obsolete, and all the fair Hopes which I had built upon the Prosecution of the Maratta War to its Termination, in a speedy, honourable, and advantageous Peace, have been blasted by the dreadful Calamities which have befallen your Arms in the Dependent.

dancies of your Presidency of Fort Saint George, and have changed the Object of our Pursuit from the Aggrandizement of your Power to its Preservation. My present Reason for reverting to my own Conduct on the above-mentioned Occasion, is to obviate the false Conclusions, or purposed Misrepresentations which may be made of it, either as an Artifice of Ostentation, or as the Effect of corrupt Insuence by affuring you, that the Money, by whatever Means it came into your Possession, was not my own; that I had myself no Right to it, nor would, nor could have received it, but for the accidental Means which were at that Instant assorted me of accepting and converting it to the Property and Use of the Company; and with this brief Apology I shall dismiss the Subject.

Something of Affinity to this Anecdote may appear in the first Aspect of another Transaction which

I shall proceed to relate, and of which it is more immediately my Duty to inform you.

You will have been advised by the repeated Addresses of this Government of the Arrival of an Army at Cuttac, under the Command of Chimnajee Boosla, the second Son of Moodajee Boosla, the Rajah of Berar. The Origin and Destination of this Force have been largely explained and detailed in the Correspondence of the Government of Berar, and in various Parts of our Consultations: The minute Relation of these would exceed the Bounds of a Letter; I shall therefore confine myself to the principal Facts. About the Middle of the last Year a Plan of Consederacy was formed by the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, by which it was proposed, that while the Army of the Marattas, under the Command of Mahdajee Scindia and Tuckoojee Holkar, was employed to check the Operations of General Goddard in the West of India, Hyder Ally Cawn should invade the Carnatic, Moodajee Boosla the Provinces of Bengal, and he himself the Sirkars of Rajahmundry and Chicacole.

The Government of Berar was required to accept the Part affigned it in this Combination, and to march a large Body of Troops immediately into Bengal. To enforce the Requisition on the Part of the ruling Members of the Maratta State, Menaces of instant Hostility by the combined Forces were added by Mahdajee Scindia, Tuckoojee Holcar, and Nizam Ally Cawn, in Letters written by them to Moodajee Boosla on the Occasion. He was not in a Situation to sustain the Brunt of so formidable a League, and oftenfibly yielded. Such at least was the Turn which he gave to his Acquiescence in his Letters to me, and his subsequent Conduct has justified his Professions. I was early and progressively acquainted by him with the Requisition, and with the Measures which were intended to be taken, and which were taken by him upon it. The Army professedly destined for Bengal marched on the Dusserra of the last Year corresponding with the 12th of October; instead of taking the direct Course to Bahar, which had been prescribed, it proceeded by varied Deviations and studied Delays to Cuttac, where it arrived late in May last, having performed a practicable Journey of Three Months in Seven, and concluded it at the instant Commencement of the Rains, which of course would preclude its Operations, and afford the Government of Berar a further Interval of Five Months to provide for the Part which it would then be compelled to chuse. In the mean Time Letters were continually written by the Rajah and his Ministers to this Government, explanatory of their Situation and Motives; proposing their Mediation and Guarantee for a Peace and Alliance with the Peshwa; and professing, without any Solicitation on our Part, the most friendly Disposition towards us, and the most determined Resolution to maintain it. Conformably to these Asfurances, and the Acceptance of a Proposal made by Moodajee Boosla to depute his Minister to Bengal, for the Purpose of negociating and concluding the intended Treaty of Peace, Application had been made to the Peshwa for Credentials to the same Effect: At this Instant the fatal News arrived of the Defeat of your Army at Conjeveram. It now became necessary that every other Object should give place, or be made subservient to the Preservation of the Carnatic; nor would the Means requisite for that End admit of Delay. Peace with the Marattas was the First Object. To conciliate their Alliance and that of every other Power in natural Enmity with Hyder Ally, the next Measures were immediately taken (as our general Advices will inform you) to fecure both these Points, and to employ the Government of Berar as the Channel and Instrument of accomplishing them. Its Army still lay on our Borders, and in Distress for long Airears of Pay, not less occasioned by a Want of pecuniary Funds than a Stoppage of Communication. An Application had been made to us for a Supply of Money, and the Sum specified for the complete Relief of their Army was Sixteen Lacks. We had neither Money to spare, nor in the apparent State of that Government, in its Relation to ours, would it have been either prudent or consistent with our public Credit, to have afforded it; it was nevertheless my decided Opinion, that some Aid should be given, as well to contribute the necessary Relief, as to indicate a Confidence upon our Part, and a Return for the many Instances of substantial Kindness which we had within the Course of the last Two Years experienced from the Government of Berar. I had an Affurance that fuch a Proposal would receive the Acquiescence of the Board; but I knew that it would not pass without Opposition, and it would have become public, which must have defeated its Purpose. Convinced however of the Necessity of the Expedient, and affured of the Sincerity of the Government of Berar from Evidences of stronger Proof to me than I could make them appear to the other Members of the Board, I refolved to adopt it, and take the entire Responsibility of it upon myself. In this Mode a less considerable Sum would suffice: I accordingly caused three Lacks of Rupees to be delivered to the Minister of the Rajah of Berar resident in Calcutta, which he has transmitted: Two Thirds of this Sum I have raised by my own Credit, and shall charge it in my official Accounts; the other Third I have supplied from the Cash in my Hands belonging to the Honourable Company. I have given due Notice to Moodajee Boosla of this Transaction, and explained it to have been a private Act of my own, unknown to the other Members of the Council. I have given him Expectasons of the Remainder of the Amount required for the Arrears of his Army, proportioned to the Extent to which he may put it in my Power to propose it as a public Gratuity, by his effectual Orders for the Recall of the Troops, or for their Junction with ours.

I hope I shall receive your Approbation of what I have done for your Service, and your Indulgence for the Length of this Narrative, which I could not comprize within a smaller Compais. I have the Honour to be,

P. S. The latter Part of the News I had heard here previous to the Arrival of the Hircarrahs, who returned this Morning.

From Hyder Ally Khan, received 14th July 1780.

I have received your agreeable Letter, and understand the Contents, which gave me inexpressible Pleasure: I was before well convinced, that the Treaties and Engagements of the English are inviolable; but whenever a new Governor arrives, he will not conform to the Agreements of the Council, but acts as he pleases, making many Innovations in the established Friendships. First, the Engagements which Wallah Jah Bahadre, and the Chiefs of the Company entered into at the Time of the Siege of Chunapilly, were never fulfilled; and Secondly, it was agreed between us, under the strongest Engagements, that whenever I should require Assistance in a necessary War, it should be immediately furnished from that Quarter, and that as often as they could demand Succours, they should be fent from hence. Accordingly before this, when I was engaged in Hostilities against several Enemies, notwithstanding that I had not the smallest Occasion for it, yet to try the Strength of their Friendship and Alliance, I defired Assistance from them: but they pleaded various Excuses, and in many other Instances, acted in direct Breach of the Engagements. What Dependancethere-fore can be placed on the Engagements and Treaties of the Chiefs of the Company? Do yo Lowever act as shall seem best to you. A true Copy.

Extract of Bengal Secret Confultations, dated 25th September 1780.

THE Governor General delivers in the following Minute.

Governor General—This is not a Time either for long Deliberation at Home, or the formal governor dand tedious Process of Negociation Abroad. The Calamity which has befallen us upon the Coast, netal. and the alarming Superiority which Hyder Ally Cawn has acquired in the Carnatic; the Despondency of the Government of Fort Saint George; the Consternation and Distrust which seem to have spread themselves among all those who are subject to its Authority; its utter Want of present Means and Resources; the Diminution of their Military Strength, and its declared Insufficiency for the War which it is to fustain; and above all, the authentic Information which we have received, of a great Naval and Military Armament prepared by the Court of France, and destined beyond all Doubt to co-operate with Hyder Ally, demand the most instant, powerful, and even hazardous Exertions of this Government, to avert the Event portended by so many concurrent Difficulties. To this Point every other Consideration must now give place. Without surther Presace, I propose the following Refolutions.

1st. That the Sum of Fifteen Lacks of Rupees be immediately fent to Fort Saint George in Specie, and laden for that Purpose on the Honourable Company's Ship the Duke of Kingston, and the other Vessels which are now on the Point of failing for Madras.

2d. That the Treasure deposited in the New Fort, including the Moiety lately taken from it, be all replaced in the General Tleasury, to be applied to the preceding Purpose, and other Exigencies of this Government.

3d. That a large Detachment of European Infantry and Artillery, be immediately fent to Fort Saint George by the Duke of Kingston, and the other Vessels which are now on the Point of sailing for Madras. To this Proposition, as a necessary and essential Part of it I must add the following, viz. That the Commander in Chief be requested, and I do for my own Part, make it my most earnest and particular Request, that he will proceed himself immediately to the Coast, and take the Command of the Army on that Establishment.

(The Commander in Chief will pardon this formal and official Solicitation. I know the Ardour of his Zeal for the Public Service, and that this Principle will of itself impel him to be whereever it shall most require his Presence; but I think this a Case in which it would mark too great an Indifference to the Public Welfare, and too cold a Sense of the Utility of his Services, to leave the Offer of them to his unfolicited Opinion. I make no Scruple to avow, that although I am convinced that the Danger impending on our Interests in the Carnatic, might be easily repelled, even with the Force which it already possessies for its Desence; yet I cannot place any Reliance upon it, unless it shall be properly applied and conducted; that I do not think it has been properly applied, nor expect that it will be properly conducted, unless Sir Eyre Coote will at this Criffs fland forth, and vindicate in his own Person the Rights and Honour of the British Arms.-1 mean not to compliment his Military Experience; and above all the high Estimation in which his Name is held by the World, and especially by that Part of it where it was principally acquired, mark him as the only possible Instrument to retrieve our past Disgrace, or to preserve the British Interests and Possessions in the Carnatic from utter Ruin.

Our Armies which have been so long formed to the Habits of Conquest, will not easily recover from the Impression of the dreadful Reverse which has lately befallen them, nor be brought to act with the former Confidence under unsuccessful Commanders. The Addition of Numbers will not relieve their Apprehensions, and will but contribute to oppress the Hands which have been already proved too weak to sustain the Weight of an imperior Charge.)

4th. That an immediate Offer of Peace be made to the Maratta State, in the Mode and on the Conditions following; viz. That as the Ministers of that State have protested a Defire for Peace, which has been equally the Wish of this Government, even from the Commencement of the War; and as the Attainment of it feems to have been hitherto impeded by the Difficulty of managing a Negociation between the Principals fituated at fo great a Distance from each other; to preclude All further Delays, we do at the fame Time offer Peace, and bind ourselves to the Observance of it on their Acceptance and Ratification of the following Conditions; viz.

1fl. That all Acquifitions made by our Forces in the Course of the War, and retained in our Possession as the Property of the Company, shall be delivered up and restored to the fame Footing as that on which it flood before the Commencement of the War; but that fuch as have been conquered and ceded in virtue of formal Treaties shall remain, and be confirmed to the Perfons to whom they were so ceded; and the Treaties concluded with them remain firm and inviolate.

N D I X, Nº 310. PE

2d. That a Provision be made for the Maintenance of Ragonaut Row during his Life; and that he shall be permitted to reside where he pleases, excepting Bombay or any Place nearer to Bombay than Surat, but shall receive no Assistance from the Governor General. and Council of Bengal, nor from any other Presidency of the Company; nor, if he shall . chuse any of the Company's Presidencies or Settlements for the Place of his Residence. shall he be permitted to re-affert his Pretensions to the Administration of the Maratta State, without the entire and universal Consent and Requisition of all the Members of the State, who are included as Parties in this Treaty.

3d. That the Peshwa and Rulers of the Maratta State shall agree to an Alliance, offensive and defensive, with the Company, against the French and Hyder Ally Cawn, and shall immediately employ their Forces in Conjunction with ours in the Invalion of his Dominions, and in the Profecution of fuch Operations against him, as the Circumstances of the War, and the Judgment of those who have the Conduct of it on both Sides, shall determine; and if in the Course of it any Acquisitions of Territory shall be made, theke shall be equally shared between the Parties to this Engagement, in such Manner as shall be most suitable to the Situation and Contiguity of the Places or Dominions at this Time respectively held by them.

4th. That if the Peshwa will not agree to the proposed Alliance, Peace be nevertheless concluded, each Party retaining what it hath acquired, or that a Suspension of Hostilities shall take place on both Sides during One Year from the Date of the Treaty, for the Purpose of negociating the Terms of a future and perpetual Adjustment.

5th. That the Treaty shall be concluded with the Mediation and Guarantee of Rajah Moo. dajee Boosla, who shall be a subscribing Party to it, and shall bind himself and his Suc-ceffors to the faithful Observance and Support of it.

6th. That the Treaty shall be sealed, signed, and sanctified by the respective Parties to it, with the most solemn Oaths prescribed by their respective Religion.

7th. That One Copy of the Treaty executed in Manner above prescribed by the Governor General and Council of Bengal, being received by the Peshwa or his Ministers, Two Copies or Counterparts thereof shall be in like Manner executed by the Peshwa and principal Rulers of the Maratta State and Moodajee Boosla as the Guarantee to it in the Manner abovementioned, and shall be transmitted, one to the Government of Bombay and the other to General Goddard, or to the Officer commanding the Detachment fent from Bengal, that all Hostilities may immediately cease on both Sides, and each provide for the due Execution of the Treaty: But until the Treaty shall be thus ratified on the Part of the Peshwa, it shall not be binding on the Governor General and Council, neither shall it be binding, unless it shall be so ratified within Two Months after the Re-

5th. That a Letter be written to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, and a similar Order to General Goddard and Major Camac, requiring and commanding them immediately to sufpend all Hostilities and Military Operations on the Receipt of a Requisition in Writing to that Effect, and a Notification from the Peshwa, that the like Order has been given on his Part to the Officers commanding his Armies; and that the Peshwa be advised of these Orders, that if desirous of Peace, he may make the faid Requisition and Notification accordingly.

6th. That the Treaty being executed by the Governor General and Council, in the Manner specified by the 6th and 7th Articles of the 4th Resolution, it be forwarded to Moodajee Boosla with Two blank Copies of it; that if he should approve of it, it may be previously ratified on his Part as Guarantee, and transmitted with the Treaty executed by this Government to the Peshwa for his Ratification, in the Manner prescribed by the 6th and 7th Articles of the 4th Resolution.

This is all that I propose as immediately necessary. The Commander in Chief will offer such a Plan for the Distribution of our Troops and other Military Arrangements, as appertain to his separate Province.

Other subsidiary Measures may be the Subject of suture Deliberation.

Agreed, That the Consideration of the foregoing Propositions be deferred until the next Meet-The Board adjourn till To-morrow Morning, at 10 o'Clock.

Sir,

In Answer to your Letter of this Date, I have to inform you, that all the Europeans at the Presidency are paid to the last Day of this Month; the Engineers to the 31st of last Month; Packet. and all the Artillery Lascars, Sepoys, and Artisicers, to the 30th of June; Captain Allen M'Pherson's Battalion sent on Command, to the 31st of July.

I am, &cc. (Signed) Claud Alexander, Mily P Mr General.

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute on the Propositions recorded by the Governor General on Yesterday's Proceedings.

Packet.

Mr. Francis-I am earnestly desirous of giving every Assistance and Relief to the Presidency of Fort Saint George, that Prudence and a due Regard to our own Safety will admit of; our Endeavours to provide for the Security of the Company's other Possessions in India, should always be guided and limited by the fundamental Principle laid down for us by the Court of Directors in our general Instructions, to make the Sasety and Prosperity of Bengal the principal Objects of all our Deliberations and Resolutions: And I trust that the Board will not lose Sight of this Principle in the present Debate.

1st. I see many Objections to the Governor General's first Proposition. The Sum of 15 Lacks in Specie is much too great for this Government to spare from its own pressing Occasions, nor do I think that so great a Sum ought to be trusted at once to the Gentlemen of Madras, if our Trea-If we supply them gradually and with Moderation, it is probable they may apply fury were full. our Money with Œconomy to the Service for which we intended it; if not, I very much fear it will not only be misapplied but wasted. Before we part with any Thing, we ought to look into the State of our own Treasury, and see what Supplies can be afforded from it, consistently with the immediate Demands, and other indispensable Services of this Government.

We had Yesterday an apparant Balance of 44 Lacks of Current Rupees, including 4,65,196 Bills receivable; 1,26,990 unstated Treasure, and Deposits of private Property to the Amount of C. R'. 16,51,653: This is our actually existing Fund. The Paymaster General's immediate Demand on this Fund is for 17 Lack 59,556; other Orders unpaid amount to C. R. 15,91,441. The Civil Service I believe is univerfally in Arrears. The Artillery Lascars, the Artificers, and all the Sepoy Battalions are Three Months in Arrears. talions, except One, are Three Months in Arrears. On the First Day of next Month, the Paymaster General will call upon us for C. R. 5,47,000, exclusive of any Bills that may be drawn by General Goddard and Major Camae; put these Demands together, and see in what State we shall be left when they are satisfied, as some of them at least must be without Delay: In Fsset we have no Fund to meet our most pressing Expences; nor do I see by what Means it will be possible to create such a Fund as our Situation requires. Before we have a considerable Sum in Hand, I would not undertake to fend large Supplies to the other Prefidencies. For these Reasons, I think that the present Supply to Fort Saint George should not exceed Half the Sum proposed, nor could any thing but their pressing Necessities extort even this Sum from me in the present

State of our Treasury. 2d. If it depended on me, I would rather take Measures to encrease the Deposit in the new Fort, than proclaim our Distress to all India, by taking away the Residue now left there. It is a dreadful Confideration or 30 Lacks in Specie at its Command.

Confideration, that a Government fuch as this should not at all Times have a Reserve of 20.

3d. On the first Part of the 3d Proposition I must submit to the Judgment of the Commander in Chief, Whether a large Detachment of European Infantry and Artillery can be spared with Sasety. from the Desence of Fort William, and of these Provinces? It is not ascertained by what Conveyance they are to be fent. The Kingston, it is said, may be ready in Ten Days; but this is the only Ship now under Orders for failing; and it is to be feared that even she will arrive on the Coast at a Time when it may be very difficult, if not impossible, to land the Stores or Men. deem this to be a Point of very great Consequence, and hope the Board will attend to it, as the Governor General declares, that he is convinced, that the Danger impending on our Interest in the Carnatic might be easily repelled, even with the Force which it already possesses for its Defence, if properly conducted.

I concur in the Request proposed to Sir Eyre Coote; but I do not see the same Necessity for sending a Reinforcement of Troops.

4th. I agree to the Fourth Paragraph, with the following Reservations, viz. That all Acquisitions whatever, on the Malabar Coast, made by us since the last Rupture with the Poona Govern. ment, shall be restored: I would not continue the War for the Sake of keeping Futty Sing in Pos. fession of any Part of Guzerat. With respect to the Rana of Gohud, I would secure him, if possible, in the Possession of whatever is properly his own Dominions; but I would keep Guilior, which is a Royal Fortress, and not his, to be made use of in our Accommodation with the Marattas; that is, I would exchange it for Baffein, and garrifon it until that Point can be accomplished. I agree to the Article respecting Ragonaut Row; except, that he should not be permitted to reside at Bombay: And, if he could be removed entirely from that Coast to some other Residence, I think that one principal Cause and Instrument of suture Quarrel with the Marattas would be thereby removed.

On the 3d and 4th Articles of the 4th Propositions, I am of Opinion, the 'we' ought to make Peace with the Marattas at all Events; because I deem it a Case of indispensable Necessity, which fuperfedes all other Confiderations: It is, undoubtedly, much to be defired that they should join with us against Hyder Ally; but, in our prefent Circumstances, it is of itself a Point of so muca Consequence, and will give us so great a Relief to put an End to the War with the Marattas, that I think it ought not to be embarrafled with any Conditions which they can reasonably refuse. All they define as I understand is, that we should restore them their Property: They are conter to fit down with the heavy Lofles and Diffresses they have suffered in the Course of our chit as Invasions of their Country. I shall not object to the Mode proposed for obtaining a speedy betermination of the Question, Whether the Marattas will accede to our Proposal or not? The Government nor General knows better than I do, what Dependance is to be placed in the Zeal and Friendship of Moodajee Boofla. For my own Part, I fear Delays, and am inclined to think, that if Major Popham, or some other Officer from that Quarter, were sent to Poona with the Treaty in his Hand, it would be the shortest Course, and the most likely to succeed.

I submit to the Board, Whether, in case the Marattas should not join in an offensive Alliance with us, it would not be proper to infert an Article in the Treaty, to provide for the free Paffage of General Goddard's Army through their Country, and its Return Home, supposing we should at any Time think fit to demand it? I have not mentioned the Recall of Major Camae's Detachment, nor any thing that relates to the Arrangement of the Troops for the Defence of these Provinces, especially to the Southward towards Cuttack; as I understand these Points have been duly attended to by the Commander in Chief, in whose Care and Judgment I conside, I think it would be proper to recommend it to Sir Eyre Coote, to infift on the Restoration of Mr. Hollond to his Rank in the Company's Service, from which he was difmiffed by a most arbitrary and unjust Resolution of a Majority of the Select Committee formed by the cashing Voice of the President. It was an Indignity to this Government which we ought to rife at, as well as an Injury to Mr. Hollond which we are particularly bound to repair, fince it was drawn upon him by his Compliance with our Instructions: I need hardly add, that, in the present Juncture, his Services at the Nizam's Court may be turned to the most advantageous Account. An offensive Alliance with this Prince seems to me one of the first Objects to be aimed at; and with some Concessions, which in Effect would cost us nothing, I thould think it might cafily be accomplished.

But there still is another Point which I deem effential to the Success of every Measure we take for the Defence of the Carnatic, and which I must again beg Leave to bring into View. I mentioned it Yeslerday in Discourse; and if we are unanimous I should have no Scruple to record my Opinion of it. If we are not unanimous, the Subject had better not be mentioned.

These Ideas are thrown together, I consess, with much less Care and Deliberation than the Importance of the Subject of them demanded: The Shortness of the Interval since the Close of Yesterday's Council obliges me to defer entering into many other important Considerations which are fuggefled to me by a general View of our Situation.

I beg Leave to annex an abstract State of our Treasury, with the present and immediate Denrands upon it.

The Governor General—As the principal Part of the Resolutions which I had proposed for the present Deliberation of the Board, depends on the Reliance which I had placed on the Disposition of the Government of Berar, I request that the Board will permit Beneram Pundit, the Minister of that Government, to attend them, and answer such Questions as may be put to him, for the Purpose of fatisfying all Doubts which may remain, respecting the Credit which is to be given to the Propositions of that Government. He is now waiting, if the Board should think proper to order his Attendance Ordered, That Beneram Pundit be defired to attend the Board.

The Minister, Beneram Pundit, attends the Board accordingly. Mr. Nathaniel Middleton, being in waiting, is called in to interpret between the Board and Beneram Pundit.

The Governor General—With the Permission of the Board, I will propose the first general Question to be put to Beneram Pundit.

Question. The Board desire to be informed, generally, of the Disposition and Intentions of your Mafter, the Rajah of Berar, respecting this Government, and that of the Paishwa, in such Points as have a common Relation to both.

Answer. To the Paishwa, my Master is bound by his Faith and his Religion; to this Government, by a strict Friendship. The Rajah's Desire is to become the Instrument of effecting a Reconciliation between the Paishwa and this Government.

Question. If we shall employ him as the Instrument of Peace and the Mediator between us and the Paishwa, and the Terms that we may offer shall be such as his Master shall approve, will he in such Case be the Pledge to us for the Concurrence of the Paishwa? or, in case he cannot answer for that Event, and our Offers should be rejected, the Treaty be broken off, and the War continued, what Part will your Master take in such a Case? Will be preserve his Neutrality between us? or, will he take a Part actively as our Friend, or as our Enemy?

Answer. The Rajah is willing to pledge himself, that in case he should be employed as the Instrument of Peace and the Mediator between the Two Governments, and the Terms proposed by the Company shall be approved by him, that they will be accepted by the Paishwa; if they are not, the Rajah himself will become the Company's Ally, and assist the Company to the utmost Question. You have said, that the Rajah of Berar is bound to the Paishwa by his Faith and Religion; and you now fay, that if the Paishwa will not ratify his Approbation of our Proposals, he will be our Ally: How can he be in any Case our Ally, if he is bound to the Paishwa by his Faith and Religion?

If the Terms proposed by the Company be reasonable, and rejected by the Paishwa, a Answer. Breach of Faith is on the Paishwa's Side, and my Master will be justified in becoming the Company's Ally. The Rajah has written to me, that in case the Paishwa rejects, he will quit his, the Paifhwa's Caufe, and become the Company's Ally.

Quellion. In the Answers which you have given, have you spoken from Authority, or from your own Belief only?

Answer. I have spoken from the Authority of my Master's Letters. I am an Ambassador. Question. If your Master is so desirous of Friendship with the English, what Occasion is there for keeping up a large Army at Cuttack, which he must do at a great Expence?

Answer. My Masser is obliged to keep up Appearances, in conformity to a Plan by Nizam Ally Khan.

Queflion. With whom is that Plan concerted? Answer, With the Paishwa, with Nana Furnesse.

Question. Is the Rajah Party to that Agreement between the Nizam and the Paishwa?

Answer. He is not. When Dewagur Pundit, the Dewan of Rajah Moodajee Boosla, was at Poona, Letters were received from Nizam Ally Khan, by him and Nana Furnesse, declaring, that as the Rajah his Master was the Means of introducing the English Army into Decan, Nizam (b)

APPENDIX, Nº 310.

Ally and Nana Furnesse had forwarded a Plan, in which he must take a Part, and that he must march an Army to invade Bengal.

When did Chimnajee Baboo, Commander of the Army at Cuttack, receive his, Question.

Dispatches?

Answer. The Army marched in the Day of the Dussorah, and arrived at Cuttack at the End of Question. In the Postscript of the last Letter written to the Governor-General by the Rajah, he refers the Governor General to you, concerning Aids to be given to Chimnajee Boosla: What were the Orders which you received upon this Subject?

Answer. The Rajah writes to me, that a Supply of 16 Lack of Rupees will be needful; but that 12 Lack at all Events will be indispensably necessary. This Money will not be lost; it will be made good from the Acquisitions that will be made by the united Operations of the Company's and Rajah's Troops.

Question. Were this Government to comply with such a Requisition, what Security or Pledge has it, or can it have, that the Army for whose Benefit it is intended will unite with us, or that it will not act against us?

Answer. The Reputation of the Family of Boosta is of long standing. It is not possible that the Rajah could facrifice or risque it, or violate his Faith for a Consideration of 12 or 16 Lacks of Question. Would you yourself take upon you to be answerable for the Fidelity of your Master in fuch a Cafe?

Answer. My Master writes, that he is the firm Friend of the English; to the Truth of which God is Witness. On the Faith of this Declaration I can venture to pledge myself for my Master's Fidelity.

Question. Do you think this Assurance a sufficient Voucher for this Governy with acking in Trust for the Interests of the Company, and of the King of England?

Answer. Yes, I think it is. The Rajah himself has written to the Governor General, and pledged his Faith. I pledged my Faith.

Question. Will you be personally answerable to this Government, that the Force now at Cut-tack will in no Case enter our Provinces, if not provoked by Hostilities on our Part?

Answer. My Master's Faith is in my Hands, and pledged to me. On the Strength of that I can venture to be answerable, that the Force now at Cuttack will in no Case enter the Company's Provinces, if not provoked by Hostilities on their Part.

Question. If that be the Case, can your Master have any Objection to the Removal of the Force from Cuttack, if this Government should think it necessary? The Position of it at Cuttack gives Alarm to the People of these Provinces.

Answer. He will have no Objection, if this Government desire they should be removed.

Question. Will you be answerable, that if we defire to send a Reinforcement to our Settlement on the Coast, their Passage shall not be opposed or interrupted by the Army now at Cuttack, or otherwife by the Rajah?

Answer. I will be answerable that they shall not be opposed or interrupted by the Army now at Cuttack, or otherwise by the Rajah.

Question. Is the Rajah at this Time stronger in Force, or richer in Revenue, than he was a Year and a Halfago, when General Goddard was at Hoshuagabad?

Answer. He is not richer in Revenue, but has more Troops.

Question. What Force had the Rajah on actual Establishment at the Time when General Goddard was at Hoshunnabad?

Answer. He had 5,000 Horse belonging to his own House, and 10,000 the Property of the Ridey, and 7,000 Patna Jaghierdars.

Question. What is his present Strength?

Answer. I do not know my Master's present Force at Naigpore; but I know that 30,000 Horse are at present at Cuttack.

Question. Are the Whole of the 30,000 Horse at Cuttack paid by your Master, or is any Number of these paid by the Ministers at Poona?

Answer. They are entirely under my Master's Orders, and have no Connection with the Ministers at Poona. Question. Are there not 5, or 6,000 Horse in the Army at Cuttack, called Poona Wallahs, or denominated from Poona?

Answer. There are Men who have come from Poona, who may be called Wallahs; but they are all the Rajah's Servants.

Question. If Hyder Ally Cawn should have entered into an Alliance with the French King, and have received from him fuch an Affiftance of Ships of War and Soldiers as would give him a Superiority in the War in which he is engaged with the English in the Carnatic; how do-you understand that such an Event would interest the Paishwa, and the other Rulers of the Maratta State?

The Day of the Dufforah, last Year was in the 5th of Cautic, which answers to the 19th October 1779. The last Day of Bylac 1187, answers to the 11th May 1780.

Andrew

P P E N D I X, N' 410.

Answer. The Paishwa, and the other Rulers of the Maratta State, could not be pleased with such an Event, as they would have every bad Consequence to expect from such an Acquisition of Power and Strength to Hyder Ally, who is their natural Enemy, and has already conquered their Country as far as the Kistna, and with such an Accession of Strength would not stop there.

Question. In the Third of the Requisitions stated by Dawagur Pundit, on the Behalf of the Paishwa, it expressed, that no Demand for the Reimbursement of Expences shall be made on either Side; Pundit Purdhaun and the English Gentlemen shall recover their heavy Expences by uniting themselves and jointly attacking their Enemies: Who do you understand to be meant by the Term Enemies?

Answer. Hyder Naig; there is no other Enemy.

The Board proceed to confider the Governor General's Propositions, delivered in his Minute recorded Yesterday.

First, "That the Sum of Fifteen Lacks of Rupees be immediately sent to Fort Saint George, in " Specie, and laden for that Purpose on the Honourable Company's Ship the Duke of Kingston, " and the other Veffels which are now on the Point of failing for Madras."

Sir Eyre Coote—I agree to the Proposition.

Mr. Wheler—I am of Opinion that we cannot furnish from our present Funds so large a Supply as 15 Lacks of Rupees; neither am I fully convinced that the Presidency of Madras is in immediate Want of it. I am therefore for dividing the Sum proposed to be sent into equal Shares, remitting the Half of it by the Ships now destined to carry the Company's Troops, and the Remainder after the Change of the Monfoon.

Mr. Francis-My Opinion on the Governor General's several Propositions is contained in my Minute which I have already recorded.

The Governor Ceneral—I agree to the Question. I should be glad to join with the other Members of the Board in forming any Means for restricting the Presidency of Fort Saint George to the Application of this Moncy solely to their military Charges.

Refolved, That the Sum of 15 Lacks of Rupees in Gold, be immediately fent to Fort Saint George, in Specie, and laden for that Purpose on the Honourable Company's Ship the Duke of Kingston, and the other Vessels which are now on the Point of failing for Madras.

Read the Governor General's 2d Proposition, viz.

2d, "That the Treasure deposited in the New Fort, including the Moiety lately taken from " it, be all replaced in the general Treasury, to be applied to the preceding Purpose, and other Exi-" gencies of this Government."

Sir Eyre Coote—I agree to the Proposition.

Mr. Wheler-I confider the Deposit of Treasure now in the New Fort, to have been made for the Purpose of destraying such extraordinary Demands as this Government from Time to Time might become subjected to, either from the Effects of War, or other public Calamities. I understand that a Mosety of the original Deposit hath already been replaced in the general Treasury, with a View of applying the same to our present Exigencies; and I do not believe we shall be enabled to defray the present unsatisfied and growing Demands upon our Treasury, without the Application of the Remainder, or without every other possible Measure of Exertion; I am, therefore for applying it agreeable to the Terms of the Queilion.

Resolved, That the Treasure deposited in the New Fort, including the Moiety lately taken from it, be all replaced in the General Treasury, to be applied to the Purpose mentioned in the foregoing Refolutions, and to the other Exigencies of this Government.

Read the Governor General's 3d Proposition; viz.

That a large Detachment of European Infantry and Artillery be immediately sent to Fort St. Mr. Fra. " George by the Duke of Kingston and the other Vessels, which are now on the Point of failing

" for Madras; and that the Commander in Chief be requested to proceed himself immediately to " the Coast, and take the Command of the Army on that Establishment."

The Commander in Chief delivers in the following Minute:

Sir Eyre Coote-I cannot help feeling in the highest Sense the distinguished Terms in which the Governor General has folicited me to undertake the immediate Command of the Forces on the Coast of Coromandel; nor am I less sensible of the Honour done me by the other Members of this Board, by their having joined in a Requisition so much to my Credit.

I should do Injustice to those Motives which actuated my Return to India, and to the Expectations which both my King and my Country formed from it, did I not on this Occasion express the Readiness with which I now consent to undertake a Service, on the Success of which the Honour and Interests of the British Nation are so materially concerned. And I flatter myself I enter upon the arduous Task with a Degree of Zeal and Fortitude equal to what I did many Years ago in a similar Conjuncture of the Affairs of both the Company and the Nation in that Part of India, and that my Estate will be compand with Success. and that my Efforts will be crowned with Success. At the same Time I scruple not to confess that I feel myself embracing the Road to Honour and Glory under a Disadvantage which I did not then experience, a Diminution of personal Activity, which the Addition of Years has involuntarily entailed upon me. The other Difficulties which I have to encounter in taking upon me the Command of an Army, disheartened and Apritted by the late unfortunate Defeat by Hyder Ally Cawn, the Governor General has sufficiently elucidated; it only therefore is left for me to add the further Confideration of my having to overcome an Enemy, who can bring treble the Number of our Forces into the Field, and who, from their late Conduct, appear to be in higher Discipline than any we have yet encountered among the native Powers of Hindostan.

Whilst the Steps which are necessary to be taken for the Security of our Possessions here, and for the Relief of our Distresses at Madras, from their Nature oblige us to relinquish the Prosecution of the offensive War which we had commenced against the Marattas from this Side of India; I agree entirely in Opinion with the Governor General, that Orders should be sent, in the Manner and on the Principle he has pointed out, for a Cessation of Hostilities in the respective Quarters on the other Side of India, and that Proposals for Peace, and an offensive and desensive Alliance, on the Terms he has stated, should be immediately offered to them. I cannot help looking upon the present Season as one favourable for that Purpose, as I conceive the late Victory Hyder Ally has obtained over us, added to his Conduct in latter Years, whereby he has evinced a Disposition to encroach upon the Maratta Dominions, will render them extremely jealous of his Power, and induce them rather to wish for a Connection with us, than to act in concert with him against us.

The very accurate and just Description which the Governor General has given, of the Danger that at present impends the Interests of the British Nation in India, I am persuaded will have the same Influence upon the Mind of every other Member of this Board as it has had upon mine, and tend to produce that Freedom of Deliberation, Concord, and Unanimity in our Councils, so necessary for the Public Good. In full Considence that no other View can exist amongst us, I with the greater Chearfulness undertake that Part of the Service which falls to the Lot of the Station I fill; and relying on the Support of this Board therein, most readily repose my Military Character and Credit in their Hands.

Reference

In Conformity to the Request made at the Close of the Governor General's Minute, I now deliver in a State of our Force in this Establishment, and of the Disposition proposed to be made of it, for the Protection of these Provinces, and for the Relief of Madras.

Commander in Chief. ,

The present Strength in Troops at the upper Stations at and above Chunagur is as sollows:

2 Regiments of Cavalry,
3 Companies of Artillery,
Captain Mayaffer's Detachment of D*,
1 Regiment of Europeans, ½ Batt*,
Company of Rangers,
21 Battalions of Sepoys.

Proposed Disposition of said Corps:

Gwelior to be garrisoned with 3 Battalions of Sepoys,

Captain Mayaffer's Detachment of Artillery and the Company of Rangers,

The Four remaining Battalions at present with Major Camac to return, and the Detachment of Cavalry with him to join the 2^d and 3^d Regiments.

Daranaghur, One Battalion of Company's Sepoys, 1000 of the Vizier's Infantry, and fent fuch a Number of Fyzulat Cawn's Troops as may be thought necessary.

An Army to be formed at Allahabad, or in any centrical Position thought most eligible, of the following Troops:

2 Companies of Artillery,

2^d Regiment of Europeans, 10 Battalions of Sepoys,

1000 of the Vizier's Candahar or best Horse. If 1000 cannot be obtained, as many as can possibly join.

N. B. From the above Two Companies of Artillery, the finall Detachments at Dananagur and Channar Gur to be supplied.

Chunar Ghur, One Battalion of Sepoys as usual.

Bahar Province, the Two Regiments of Cavalry to be ordered down there, to be joined by Four Battalions of Sepoys, the Third Company of Artillery from the Field, and 1000 Horse, if they can be procured from the Rajah of Benares. Boggah Battalion to make One of the 4 Battalions for this Service.

Thus the Troops at the upper Stations to be disposed of for the present; and there will then remain 3 Battalions of Sepoys from the before-named Number of 21 Battalions, for other Services; our Force with said 3 Battalions included at and below Berhampore will then be,

Artillery 6 Companies, and the Remainder of Captain Mayaffer's Company. First and Third Regiment of Europeans, and 18 Battalions of Sepoys,

To be employed as follows:

At Berhampore, covering the One Company of Artillery, City, or ready for any Ser- One Battalion of Europeans, and vice that might occur, — Four Battalions of Sepoys, PPENDIX, No 3 to.

Madras

Madras Detachment.

The Proceeding of the Troops by Land or Sea for this Service, ought to be determined by the Part the Maratta Force at Cuttack mean to take. If they are Friends, our Armament for the Coast might proceed by Land; but if they are hostile to our Cause, as one of the first Objects is to assist the Presidency of Madras as soon as possible, the Detachment for that Service should proceed by Sea; but whether the Sepoys can be brought voluntarily to embark, is by no Means a certain Point. If the Embarkation could be adopted, the Detachment should confist of

2 Companies of Artillery,

1 Battalion of 3d Regiment completed to 300 Rank and File, and

4 Battalions of Sepoys.

This is on a Supposition that the Cuttack Forces are in Opposition to us, in which Case 4 Battalions at least will be wanted on the Midnapore Side, with the present Detachment of Artislery there, and the Chain of Troops as above stationed will be able to oppose the Fnemy whenever they attempt entering the Provinces: There will also then remain for the immediate Protection of Fort William and this Quarter,

3 Companies of Artillery, 1 Regiment of Europeans, 6 Battalions of Sepoys;

But if it can be proved that we have no Opposition to apprehend from the Force at Cuttack, I then recommend that the Army for the Affiftance of Madras should proceed by Land; viz.

2 Companies of Artillery,

1 Battalion of Europeans, 300 Rank and File,

8 Battalions of Sepoys, with a light Field Train.

They would arrive by Land in the Carnatic, at this Scalon of the Year, as foon as by Embarkation, even if the Sepoys would without Hesitation embark: For such a Force as mentioned could not with Salvy proceed by Sea from hence till late in November or December, when the Height of the N. E. Monsoon will be abated on the Coast.

From the Movement by Land the different Country Powers will also be awed, the Nizam particularly kept in Check, and Hyder's Troops opposed if they should again make the Circars their Object. If this Mode is adopted, as it is on the Supposition that the Marattas at Cuttack are not inimical, the upper Stations will not then want such a powerful Chain of Troops for their Defence; and from the connected Polition of the different Bodies of Troops, stationed as before mentioned, any Part of them, when wanted on Exigency, can be drawn down for the Protection of Bengal in general, or of the Presidency in particular. If the 8 Battalions were to proceed to Madras by Land, there would be no Occasion for Four Battalions at Midnapore, Two would be sufficient for the Service required there, and these might be drawn from Berrampore, that the Force at the Presidency might not be weakened.

The Independent Corps at Chittagong, and Ramgur Light Infantry, are not included in the above Disposition of the Troops; they are supposed occupying their present Posts; as well as the Corps of Militia, at their different Stations.

Calcutta, September 27, 1780.

The Governor General—The Season of the Year, and the marshy State of the Roads through which an Army must pass from hence to the Carnatic, especially through the Districts of Midnapore, Jellasore, and the whole Province of Orissa, will render it impossible to march an Army by Land, until late in the Month of November. We have not Shipping to transport the requisite Number of Sepoys by Sea; neither if we had would it avail us. The Remembrance and Tradition of the path Sufferings of those who have been transported by that Mode of Conveyance, would be an insuperable Objection on the Part of the Sepoys themselves, especially at this Season. I must beg Leave, therefore, to change the Terms of the Question, and substitute for, "what we would wish to do," what we can do." I should agree with the General, and do agree with him, in the Proposition of sending a considerable Reinforcement of Sepoys, as well as Europeans, to Madras; but this must rest for a future Resolution; and I mean to add on another Day, a fiesh Motion to that Effect. For the present Question, I propose, from the Terms of the General's Minate, that Two Companies of Artillery with their Complement of Lascars, and One Battalion of one of the Regiments of Infantry, completed to 300 Rank and File, be immediately embarked, as many as can be on board the Duke of Kingston, the rest on any of the Ships offered for that Purpose by Mr. Ferguffon.

Agreed, That the Commander in Chief be requested to proceed himself immediately to the Coast, and to take the Command of the Army upon that Establishment Refolved, That Two Companies of Artillery with their Complement of Lascars, and One Battalion of one of the Regiments of Infantry, completed to 300 Rank and File, be immediately embarked for the Presidency of Fort Saint George, as many as can be on board the Duke of Kingston, and the rest on any of the Ships offered for that Service by Mr. Fergusson.

Ordered, That Returns be made to the Commander in Chief, of the Number of Ships offered by Mr. Fergusson. and of the Number of Men that each Ship can carry.

Agreed REP VI.

PPENDIX, Nº 310.

Agreed to the Disposition of the Troops proposed by the Commander in Chief; and ordered. that a Copy of it be sent to Brigadier General Stibbert, after the Departure of Sir Eyre Coote, that he may iffue the necessary Orders for carrying the same into Execution when the Season will permit Adjourned till To-morrow Morning at 10 o'Clock.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 27th September 1780.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, President, Philip Francis, Esquires. Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote.

The Board having met agreeable to Adjournment, resumed the Consideration of the Governor General's Propositions, contained in his Minute of the 25th Instant.

Read the Governor General's 4th Proposition, and the 1st Article of the proposed Treaty included in it; viz.

"That an immediate Offer of Peace be made to the Maratta State, in the Mode, and on the " Conditions following; viz.

That as the Ministers of that State have professed a Desire for Peace, which has been equally the Wish of this Government, even from the Commencement of the War, and as the Attainment of it feems to have been hitherto impeded by the Difficulty of managing a Magazintion between the Principals situated at so great a Distance from each other, to preclude all further Delays, we do at the same Time offer Peace, and bind ourselves to the Observance of it, on their Acceptance and Ratification of the following Conditions, viz.

First, "That all Acquisitions made by our Forces in the Course of the War, and retained in our Possession as the Property of the Company, shall be delivered up and restored to the same " Footing as that on which it stood before the Commencement of the War; but that such as have " been conquered and ceded to others in virtue of formal Treaties, shall remain and be confirmed to " the Persons to whom they were so ceded, and the Treaties concluded with them remain firm and " inviolate."

Governor General-In the first Article of the Treaty which I have recommended to be offered to the Paishwa, it is proposed that all Acquisitions made from the Maratta State, and appropriated to the Company in the Course of the present War, shall be restored, and nothing reserved to the Company but what it possessed and was intitled to by the Treaty of Poorunder: But as there are strong Grounds to expect that Bassein may by this Time, or before the Notification of our Intentions to the Peshwa can be made, be in our Possession; and as the Possession of that Place has long been an Object of the Company, and may be rendered of much more Importance to them, and easier of Desence than any other Territory which we possess on the Continent, at a Distance from the Seat of our Government, on that Side of India, although greatly inferior in Point of Revenue, and as Bassein is a Part of the Patrimony of the Peshwa himself, and upon that Account the more likely to prove an Impediment to the Conclusion of the Treaty, unless an Option be lest to the Maratta Government to be reinstated in the Possession of this Place, if its Consent cannot be obtained to the Cession of it on such Terms as we may offer as an Alternative; I would recommend, that a further Clause be added to this Article, that if the Fort of Bassein shall have been conquered by our Forces, and shall have been in our Possession before the final Ratification of the Treaty, an Option shall be given to the Peshwa, either to receive back the Fort of Bassein in the Manner stipulated by the preceding Part of this Article, and that the Fort with its Dependencies shall be ceded to the Company for ever; and all the Possessions and Rights which were ceded to the Company by the 5th Article of the Treaty of Poorunder, shall be restored to the Paishwa in lieu thereof; that is to say, that the Possessions of the Company dependent on Bombay, shall be limited to the Island of Bombay, the Island of Salsette, and the other smaller Islands, which were obtained by Treaty with Ragonaut Row, the Fort of Bassein and its Dependencies, the City of Surat and its Dependencies, subject as before to the Chout, and the entire Property of the City and Purgunnah of Broach, together with the trading Factories which were established before the Commencement of the War. It is necessary that I should remind the Board, that the District of Bassein was estimated by Mr. Tayler in his Letter of the 29th October 1775, at 4 Lacks annual Revenue; and that the Cessions which by the foregoing Clause I have proposed to yield up in lieu thereof, do amount by the same Estimate to 14,59,000 annual Revenue:

PPENDIX,

That is to fay, the Purguinnah's of to which must be added the Right acquired by the Company, by the 5th Article of the Treaty of Poorunder, to a further Territory of 3 Lacks, hitherto unadjusted, but reduced by our Instructions to General Goddard, to the Sum of Rupees 2,09,000. I will add, that I regard the District of Bassein estimated but at 4 Lacks, as of much greater Value to the Company than the remote and scattered Purgunnahs of Guzerat, were their real Value equal to it, or even much greater. It will reduce our Dominions, on that Side of India, to a compact and desensible Compass; free from expensive Establishments of Collectors of Revenue; from Disputes of Boundaries and other Competitions, which private Interest will be too apt to excite with the Collectors of the adjacent Lands, and other similar Occasions for future Disturbances; from new Military Establishments, more proportioned to the Distance of Relief than the Worth of the Territory which they are to protect; and multiplied Accumulations of Expence on every Approach or Suggestion of future Invasion.

Sir Eyre Coote-I agree to the first Condition proposed by the Governor General, in his Minute of the 25th Inflam, with the additional Clause to it now proposed.

Mr. Wheler—I agree also to both.

Mr. Francis-I entirely agree in the general Principles laid down in the Governor's last Minute; they are the same which I have invariably professed, and of course I shall be at all Times ready to support any Plan that is founded upon them.

Refolved in the Terms of the Governor General's 4th Proposition before recited, with the Amendment fince proposed.

Confidered the 2d Article of the proposed Treaty included in the Governor General's 4th Propolition, viz.

" That a Provision be made for the Maintenance of Ragonaut Row during his Life; and that he " shall be permitted to reside where he pleases, excepting at Bombay, or any Place nearer to " Bombay than Surat; but shall receive no Assistance from the Governor General and Council of "Bengal, nor from any other Presidency of the Company; nor, if he shall chuse any of the Company's Presidencies or Settlements for the Place of his Residence, shall he be permitted to re-assert his Pretensions to the Administration of the Maratta State, without the entire and uni-" versal Consent and Requisition of all the Members of the State who are included as Parties in " the Treaty;"

Agreed to.

Confidered the 3d and 4th Articles of the propofed Treaty included in the Governor General's

3d. "That the Paifhwa and Rulers of the Maratta State shall agree to an Alliance, offensive and " defensive, with the Company, against the French and Hyder Ally Cawn; and shall immediately " employ their Forces in conjunction with ours, in the Invalion of his Dominions, and in the " Profecution of such Operations against him as the Circumstances of the War, and the Judgment " of those who have the Conduct of it on both Sides, shall determine: And if in the Course of it any Acquisition of Territory shall be made, these shall be equally shared between the Parties to " this Engagement, in fuch Manner as shall be most fuitable to the Situation and Contiguity of the "Places or Dominions at this Time respectively held by them:"

4th. "That if the Paishwa will not agree to the proposed Alliance, Peace be nevertheless concluded, each Party retaining what it hath acquired; or, that a Suspension of Hostilities shall " take place on both Sides, during One Year from the Date of the Treaty, for the Purpose of nego" tiating the Terms of a future and perpetual Adjustment:"

Sir Eyre Coote—I agree. Mr. Wheler—I agree.

Mr. Francis—My Opinion is already given in my Minute.

Agreed to the 3d and 4th Articles. Considered the 5th Article; viz.

"That the Treaty shall be concluded with the Mediation and Guarantee of Rajah Moodajee " Boossa, who shall be a subscribing Party to it, and shall bind himself and his Successor to the faithful Observance and Support of it;

Agreed to.

Considered the 6th Article; viz.

E N D I X, N' 310.

"That the Treaty shall be sealed, signed, and sanctified by the respective Parties to it," with "the most solenn Oaths prescribed by their respective Religions;" Agreed to.

Confidered the 7th Article.

"That One Copy of the Treaty, executed in the Manner prescribed by the Governor General "and Council of Bengal, being received by the Paishwa or his Ministers, Two Copies or Counterparts thereof shall be in like Manner executed by the Paishwa and principal Rulers of " the Maratta State, and Raja Moodajee Boosla as the Guarantee to it, in the Manner above-" mentioned, and shall be transmitted, one to the Government of Bombay and the other to Ge-" neral Goddard, or to the Officer commanding the Detachment sent from Bengal, that all Hos-tilities may immediately cease on both Sides, and each provide for the due Execution of the "Treaty. But until the Treaty shall be thus notified on the Part of the Paishwa, it shall not " be binding on the Governor General and Council, neither shall it be binding, unless it shall be " fo ratified within Two Months after the Receipt of it;"

Read the Governor General's 5th Proposition. "That a Letter be written to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, and a similar " Order to General Goddard and Major Camac, requiring and commanding them immediately to

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Draft of a Treaty with the Paishwa, formed on the Resolutions of the 27th ultimo. He thinks it incumbent upon him to add, that he had finished it before he received the Information of Mr. Francis's Intention of bringing on the Question, which has taken up the Time of this Meeting in their Public Department, because under fuch a Discouragement he doubts whether he could have undertaken it, and because he now entertains Doubts of its proving effectual.

Unless the Treaty shall be ratified in the Manner and within the Time prescribed by this Article, it shall not be binding on our Part, but be from this Time and for ever void.

To Moodajee Boosla: Written 12th October 1780.

Have received your Letter, &c. &c. all of which I fully understand, and have imprinted it on my Mind. You inform me, that you have assumed my Name as your own; nothing could be more gratifying to my Wishes, to my Credit, or my Friendship. Remember this, I shall fet a Value upon it, as upon the highest Title of Honour, and shall consider not only our Union as complete, but that of our Two States, as connected by Principles of everlasting Durance. There are Instants in which the Minds of Men are irradiated by the Divine Insluence, and when the Secrets of Futurity are imperfectly displayed to your Perception: God knows whether it is from such our Inspiration, that I exult in the Hopes that the Chronicles of these Nations will transmit to the remotest Posterity our Names together, recorded in the same Page, and connected with Events not less illustrious in your Atchievements than important to the Interests of Mankind. If such should prove the Consequence of our Connection, remember with how constant and unremitted a Perseverance I have laboured to improve and perfect it during the Course of Seven Years since it first began: Nor have your Inclinations or Actions been wanting to promote the fame End.

At your repeated Instance I consented to enter into an early Accommodation of Peace with the Peishwa, and rejoiced at the Offer of your Guarantee for the faithful and effectual Maintenance of it; and I have been long waiting in anxious Expectation of a Meeting with your Dewan Dewagur Pundit, whom you had intimated your Delign of deputing to me with Credentials and full Powers, both from yourself and the Peishwa, to negociate and conclude it. But in the Correspondence which has passed between us, so much Time has elapsed that the Season for Action has already commenced, and the Operations of War may be drawn into indefinite Lengths, and produce such Variations in the State of each Party as may defeat the Purposes of Negociation; and besides this, a new Scene has opened, which requires a new Train of Measures and a different Principle of Action.

You will doubtless have heard of the sudden Irruption which the Nabob Hyder Ally Cawn has made in the Carnatic, and of the Confequence with which it has been immediately attended, through the Want of Exertion and Failure of Preparation to oppose it. At the same Time we learn from undoubted Authority, that in confequence of an Alliance long fince concluded between him and the King of France, a large Armament of Ships of War and Land Forces has been dispatched from the Ports of France to join him, and are at this Time either arrived, or are daily expected. The Objects of this Alliance are to profecute his Designs, in the Execution of which he has been so long engaged, on the Maratta State, and those of the French on the Carnatic.

It is equally the Interest of this Government, of the Peshwa, of his Friends and Adherents, and of all Hindostan and Decan, to oppose Attempts of so dangerous a Tendency. The Differences between the Peishwa and the Company have prevailed against my Inclination from the Beginning; of that you are a Witness, and of the early Desire which I manifested to accommodate them: Their Continuance can produce no possible Good to either Party, and must be attended with much Evil to both. The Laws of Nature, and the Principles of true Policy, require that they should be upon Terms of mutual Friendship, since they want nothing from each other but Peace; and united, may dictate Peace to all Nations in India.

On these Grounds, and to prevent further Delays, I have precluded the formal and tedious Piocets of Negociation, and in Conjunction with the Counsellors of this Government, have at once formed and executed a Treaty, which require only your Guarantee and the final Ratification of the Peishwa to conclude ir. The Terms are nearly the same you yourself have proposed, and they are such as it is the Interest of the Peishwa to accept, if Peace and the Sasety of his State be the real Objects of his Ministers. I send it to you inclosed with this, and with it Two Counterparts, intended for the Ratification of the Peshwa: To each of these Papers I hope you will add your Sanction in the Forms and Manner proposed, and forward them all with the Letters accompanying them to the Peishwa Nanna Furneese, to whom they are directed.

This is enough for the present. The Plan of Operations I intend shortly to write you in ano-

This is enough for the present. The Plan of Operations I intend shortly to write you in another Letter; and if you continue in the Intention of deputing your Dewan Dewagur Pundit to this Quarter, than which nothing can be more agreeable to my Wish, every Thing which will not admit of a Discussion by Letter may be adjusted to our mutual and complete Satisfaction.

P. S. Regarding the Expences of the Cuttack Army, Beneram will write you the Particulars. It is necessary you should send immediate Orders to Chumna Baboo to act in Conjunction with our Troops, whenever, and in any Manner, we may find it expedient to call upon him. If this cannot be done, he must be ordered to withdraw his Troops to Naugpoor, as their Situation so close to our porders cannot but have an unfavourable Appearance in the Eyes of People who are not acquainted with the real Motives for their being stationed there; or with the Friendship which subsists between this and the Berar Government. In my next I will inform you of the Plan of Operations it is intended to pursue, and the Part it is expected you will take in it.

To Dewagur Pundit: Writen 12th October, 1780.

Your friendly Letter reached me the 13th September, and I clearly understand the Contents. Beneram Pundit has also communicated to me the Substance of Two Letters which he has received from you, the latter whereof, being written in the Persian Language, he submitted in the Original to my Perusal. These are too long, and the Subjects too important, to be abstracted; but I have considered them, and every Syllable of their Contents is imprinted on my Mind. Beneram Pundit knows how little Time I have to spare; but he also knows that I have employed many Hours, even Days, in considering upon all these Points, and upon the Means of facilitating and expediting our mutual Intentions. I have also explained to the Council all these Matters, and in Conjunction with them have resolved on several Points and Measures of which it is necessary you should be informed.

The Season being now arrived for acting, will not admit of Time for Negociation. This Government has no Object in the War with the Peishwa; nor can it, any more than the Peishwa, gain any Thing by it. I was forced into it, and from the Beginning have fought Peace, as you well know, you being at Poona and acquainted with the Instructions given to General Goddard for that Purpose. Our Reputation had suffered the greatest Disgrace, and the Company's Settlements brought into Danger, by the Failure of an ill-advised Expedition, set on foot by the Governor and Council of Bombay. It became necessary for this Government to exert its Power and Resources in endeavouring to repair the Disgrace which had thus been brought on our Reputation, and to preserve the Company's Settlements:

The Credit of the English Name has happily been restored; the Danger which threatened the Presidency of Bombay removed; all therefore that I wished for has been accomplished, except Peace. And why should I defire to see the Company involved in a War with the Maratta State, whose Territories lie every way upon our Borders, and are as it were a Screen between us and others, who are our professed and irreconcileable Enemies?

Hyder Ally Cawn has invaded the Carnatic, and by the same Improvidence which had nearly ruined the Company's Affairs at Bombay, he has been suffered to ravage that Country, while by the Dissipation of our Army he has prevented its Junction and cut off a Part of it. The same Obligation which claimed our Interference at Bombay, how demands our utmost Exertion in Defence of the Carnatic. Thus, from no Impulse or Act of my own, from no Interests of this Government, you see me again drawn forcibly into a Participation of Troubles, only the Lot of others, but which falling on the Interests of the English Nation, which are generally under my Charge, I am compelled to take the same Part in them as if they had been excited by me.

Hyder Ally Cawn, from former Connections with the French, our everlatting Enemies, and from the War which has subsisted so many Years between him and the Peishwa, is alike the common and natural Enemy of both. He has been incited in the Invasion of the Carnatic by a League concluded by him with the King of France, in consequence of which a large Maritime and Military Force is now on its Way, and perhaps at this Time actually arrived at some of the Parts of his Dominions. I have no Doubt that by the Blessing of God, which has always supported the English Nation, the Spirit of its Rulers and People which has ever risen in Proportion to the Danger surrounding it, will bear them singly through their present Difficulties with Conquest and Glory; and their Resources are very great; yet it is the Part of Wisdom and Foresight to make every possible Provision against impending Difficulties, and to leave as little as possible to the Power of Fortune, to which Providence in its Dispensations is often pleased to leave human Affairs. Should it happen, (which God forbid) that this combined Force should prevail over our Forces in the Carnatic, let it be considered what an Accumulation of Power this will give to Hyder Ally Cawn; and, whether the Peishwa in the present distracted State of his Government would be able to withstand it, should he, as he certainly will, resume his former Hostilities against the Peishwa's Government. His Arms have been employed for these Six or Seven Years against the Peishwa, and with such Success, though unassisted with any other Alliance, that he has possessed himself of the Maratta Donvinions to the Banks of the Kishena; and the strong Fortress of Merrick has been the sole Obstacle to his surther Progress. But the Capture of sortised Places is to Europeans the Work of Art, and reducible to Certainty. In the Event which I have supposed, every Thing is to be dreaded in the Dominions of Decan, whether appertaining to the Peishwa or to Nizam Ally Cawn; and neither the known Bravery of the Chief of Berar, nor the Wisdom which is known to have ever regulated his Councils, can exempt him from a Share in the common Lot. For all these powerful and united Reasons, it is necessary that the Peishwa, the Raja of Berar, and the English, should enter into a strict Friendship and Combination, and exert all their Strength to repel this ambitious Invader. This Government is safe: Armed by its Resources and the unconquerable Desences which Nature has provided for it, its Seas, Rivers, Woods, and Mountains, the Imbecillity of the Nations which surround it on its North and East Borders, and its Contiguity to your Country, which covers it with the Shield of Friendship, it can have nothing to apprehend; but it cannot be an unconcerned Spectator of the Dangers which threaten its remote Dependencies, or its Connections; therefore it is that I have represented to you all these Things in so strong a Light. You have frequently offered your Mediation and Guarantee between the English and the Peishwa and have pressed me in the most urgent Terms to conclude a Peace. I have not only confented to it, but have also offered it on such Terms as I conceive will be most agreeable to you, to him, and to his Ministers. These I intended to have reserved for a Negociation and personal Discussion with you, and had repeatedly signified my Wishes to you on this Subject in sormer Letters, but the present Occasion will not admit of this Delay; I have therefore taken my decided Resolution, and have formed a Treaty on the Ground of your Advice and Solicitations, in which, giving up all the Advantages we have obtained by the War, I have placed every thing nearly on the same Footing it was at the Commencement of the War. This Treaty executed by this Government in all the necessary Forms I now send you, with a Letter requesting you will add your Ratification and Guarantee to it. I also send you Two blank Treaties to be executed by the Peishwa and his Ministers, to which I request you will previously add your Ratification and Guarantee. The Letter I have written to the Peishwa I enclose with this, and as it is necessary you should be informed of the Contents, I fend a Copy of it for your Perusal: You will fend this Letter with the Treaty. I rely on your Friendship and Influence to render this Measure effectual, and to obtain the immediate Ratification of the Treaty in its present Form without any Deductions or Additions on the Part of the Peishwa and his Ministers, because that would be productive of Delays and defeat my Purpose in sending them in their complete Construction; and I have for this Reason made Concessions, to which I should never have submitted in the Progress of a deliberate Negociation: And remember, it is by your Defire and at your repeated Instances, and from the Impulse of my Friendship to you, which exceeds every Consideration but that of my public Duty, that I have consented to a Peace on these Terms, and have made these Advances to obtain it. If Peace on these Terms shall be accepted, it is well; if, added to Peace, the proposed Alliance should take place, it will be better, and every Party will find its Account in it: If neither of these can be obtained, which my firm Reliance on your Friendship and Sincerity will not allow me to doubt, I have done my Duty, nor shall have ought to reproach myself with for the Consequences, which I shall chearfully wait, not doubting but by the Blessing of God all will turn

When these Matters shall have been discussed and settled with the Peishwa and his Ministers, I shall be very happy to receive the Visit you have so long intended me, and I doubt not but the Interview will be satisfactory to us both, and tend to our mutual Advantage: For other Particulars I refer you to the Letters of Beneram Pundit.

P. S. The fame as that to Moodajee Boofla in the foregoing Letter.

To the Peishwa: Written, 12th October 1780.

Two Years have now elapsed since the present War, which has brought considerable Losses on both Nations, sirst took place. God is Witness that this was never of my seeking, but that on the contrary, although from a Concurrence of Circumstances I have been reluctantly drawn into it, my sole Thoughts have been ever employed on the Means of preventing its Continuance, and I have Reason to believe that your Wishes have equally tended to this View, the sole Bar to which has been the Distinctly of managing a Negociation between the Principals situated at so great a Distance from each other. With a View to remove these Obstacles, Maha Raja Moodajee Boosila has offered his Mediation and Guarantee to any Treaty we may resolve upon, and has proposed to send his Minister Dewagur Pundit for the final reconciling of all Disterences: But as this last Step would require a Process of Deliberation, during which the present Hostilities, far from substiding, might by some unforeseen Accident and Occurrences be drawn into an indefinite Length, I have taken the Resolution of making the first Advances myself, and have drawn up a Treaty, executed under the Seal of the Company, and the Signatures of the Council, and confirmed by the most solemn Oaths, which I have forwarded to Moodajee Boosila, that it may be by him ratified as Guarantee, and transmitted to you for your final Ratification. In this Treaty I have restored and surgestered rendered every Thing, except what is fecured by former Treaties, to Futty Sing, the Randa of Gohud, and have left nothing for future Discussion; and I deliver up every thing in my Power, reserving to myself only my Honour and my Faith to prior Engagements. Should the Terms of this Treaty meet with your Acquiescence, you will ratify it in the Manner therein provided, and the one executed by us will then remain with you, that the present Hossilities may immediately coase, and the Subjects of both Nations regain their former Ease and Security. Be affured that my continual Endeavours have been exerted to promote the Attainment of this desirable End, and to root out all Differences and Misunderstandings.

To Ballajee Pundit: Written 12th October 1780.

Having taken into Confideration the Defire of Peace which the Ministers of the Maratta State have professed, and which it has been equally the Wish of this Government to promote, provided the Attainments of it could be procured on Terms by which neither the Company's Credit and Honour shall be affected, nor former Treaties actually existing infringed; I have been induced from these Circumstances, added to others which it will be unnecessary to mention, to propose a Treaty of Peace to be concluded between the Governor General and Council of Bengal, and the Peilhwa and Rulers of the Maratta State, on certain Conditions, mutually binding upon both Parties. With respect to the War itself, I must observe in the sust Place, that it was not originally of my feeking, and even from the Commencement of it to this Period, my Endeavours have been exerted to prevent its Continuance; but the Difficulty of managing a Negociation between the Principals, situated at so great a Distance from each other, has hitherto been a Bar to the Accomplishment of this End. With a View however to remove every Obstacle that has been in the Way, Maha Raja Moodajee Boosila, in several Letters which I have received from him, has been very folicitous and proffing for Peace, offering his Mediation and Guarantee to the Fxecution of any Treaty we might refolve upon, and proposing at the same Time to depute an Ambassador on his Part for the final Settlement and reconciling of Differences. But this last Step would require a Process of Deliberation too formal and tedious, especially in the present Moment, which ought to be that of Decision and Action. I have therefore connected the whole of this Subject into one Point of View, weighing the good Consequences that might be derived from the Mediation and Guarantee of Maha Raja Moodajee Boosila; the immediate Necessity of putting an effectual Stop to the Depredations and Ambition of Hyder Ally Cawn; and the obvious Utility not only in regard of present Interest, but suture Permanence and Prosperity to the Maratta State, by making common Cause with the English, and cementing a close and compact Alliance with them, offensive and defensive, against the French and Hyder Ally Cawn, at this Time united in Alliance, drawn up a Treaty with the several Articles to be observed, and the particular Reservations to be excepted, and have inferted the Name of Maha Raja Moodajee Boofila as a subscribing Party, to the End that when it shall be properly executed by the Governor General and Council, it may for the greater Dispatch be forwarded to Moodajee Boosila, with Two blank Copies of it, that it may be previously ratified on his Part as Guarantee, and transmitted to the Peishwa for his Ratification in the Manner especially set forth and prescribed.

I shall now refer you to the Treaty itself, persuaded that you will find the Terms of it liberal, equitable, and fair, preserving the Faith of Treaties inviolate, and consulting as much as may be the Sasety, Honour, and Advantage, of every Party subscribing to the Engagement. Under these Circumstances I doubt not of your chearful and ready Acquiescence, together with a Determination upon no Pretence whatever to break or evade the Treaty, or to deviate, in the smallest Instance, from the Stipulations therein named and provided for.

To Madajee Scindia: Written 12th October 1780.

From a Concurrence of Circumstances not in my Power, I have been driven into a War with the Maratta State infinitely against my Inclination; as I think it our mutual Interests to unite constantly against all other Enemics, instead of quarrelling ourselves, I have been from the first perpetually aiming at a Peace, and finding all Attempts to negociate to have been constantly bassled and vain, I have now determined to put an End to the Contest, at least on my Part, and have to that End sent a Treaty to the Peishwa, ready executed, and only wanting his Ratification. The Treaty is to give up every Thing I have gained by the War, excepting what has been ceded by Agreement to Futty Sing Guicawar, and the Ranna of Gohud, so that I shall remain without the least Benefit from the War; while I have in necessary Form addressed myself upon this Occasion to the Peishwa and the Ministers, I cannot overlook, in a Matter of such Moment, one, whose Person forms so material a Support to the Maratta State; and trust you will think my Terms too reasonable to withhold your Concurrence.

While as an Enemy I may regret the Maratta Arms being conducted by such Courage and Ability as have always been conspicuous in your Conduct, yet I cannot as a Man withhold my Esteem for the Virtues and Wisdom you have displayed; as a Tribute to those, receive this Letter; and as I have experienced you a powerful Opponent, so let me know you are an able Abetter.

PENDIX, Nº 311.

To Moodajee Bhoosla - 15th October.

On Thursday the 12th Instant I dispatched, by the Way of Benares, a Letter to you, with a Treaty executed conformably to your Desire, on the Part of this Government with the Peshwa, proposed for your Signature as Guarantee, and to be afterwards forwarded with Two Copies for his Ratissication of the latter, with other Papers. Of all these a Duplicate Packet is preparing to be fent to you by the same Road. I early apprized Beneram Pundit of my Intentions respecting these Particulars, and promised to enclose his Letters in my Packet; but as much Time has been confumed in preparing it, and I was impatient with the Delay, I forgot to give him Notice in Time, which is the Cause that his Letters did not accompany mine: At his Request therefore I write this for Explanation. I have given him a Copy of the Treaty which he will send you; although I hope you will before have received the Original. I see him daily, and as I keep nothing secret from him, his Letters and mine will afford you a complete State of the Affairs of this Govern-

The Day before Yesterday General Sir Eyre Coote embarked with a large Detachment of European Infantry and Artillery for Madras, destined for the War against Hyder Ally Cawn, of which he will take the Conduct. You cannot be a Stranger to his Name and Reputation. It was to his Bravery and Military Skill that we owe the Preservation of the Company's Interests in the Carnatic, and the Extirpation of the French from that Country in the last War between that Nation and ours; and, by the Blessing of God, I trust he will be the Instrument of retrieving the Losses which we have recently experienced in that Quarter. He is a Counsellor of this Government, and the Commander in Chief of all the English Military Forces in India. I will add, that he is in his Heart my Friend, and therefore your's. Inclosed is a Letter from him to you. I request that you will favour him with your Letters, and fend him express Notice of what you shall have resolved and done respecting the Guarantee of the Treaty, and of the Part which you propose to act in the Proposals which I have submitted to you, with your Advice for the Assistance of his Conduct in the great Assairs of which he has charge. In this you will confer a Kindness on me.

To Dewagur Pundit - 15th October.

Of the same Tenor as the foregoing, and affigning as a Reason for the General's not having written to him, that his Letter to Maha Raja was from the Ship, and that in the Hurry of Departure he probably forgot to accompany it with one for him.

To the Peshwa — 17th October 1780.

On Thursday the 13th Instant, (Month of Shawal) I dispatched a Letter to you with a Treaty completely executed on the Part of this Government, and Two Copies of it proposed for your Ratification of them through the Channel of Maha Raja Moodajee Boosla, which I hope you will have received. Lest any Accident should have befallen this Packet in the Way, I have thought it proper for the greater Certainty to send you a Duplicate of it through the same Channel.

General Sir Eyre Coote, who is Commander in Chief of all the English Forces, and a Counsellor Cou of this Government, embarked on Friday last for Madras, taking with him a large Force of European Soldiers and Artillery for the War of the Carnatic against Hyder Ally Khan. By the Blossing of God all the Troubles there will soon be removed by his known Military Skill and the Bravery of our Troops, who want only the Presence of an able Commander to lead them to Conquest.

Having proposed to you an Alliance with the Company against our common Enemy Hyder Ally Khan, and perfuaded that the Wisdom of your Ministers will dictate to you the Policy of an immediate Combination of your Forces with ours, for the early Prevention of his Deligns, which are folely founded on an Enmity to you, as those of the French, his Allies, are to us; I request that so soon as you shall have ratisfied the Treaty which I and the Counsellors of this Government have offered for your Acceptance, if you shall have approved it, you will immediately cause Letters to be written to Sir Eyre Coote to advise him thereof, and of whatever else may be necessary in consequence thereof.

May God advance the Progress of our Friendship and of your Prosperity.

To Ballajee Pundit - 17th October.

On Thursday the 13th of this Month Shawal I dispatched a Letter to you with a Treaty compleatly executed on the Part of this Government, and Two Copies proposed for the Ratification of it on your Part, through the Channel of Mahe Raje Moodajee Boosla, which I hope you will have received. Lest any Accident should have befallen this Packet in the Way, I have therefore for the greater Certainty, thought it proper to fend you a Duplicate of it through the same Channel.

PENDIX, Nº 311, 343.

Let not the Novelty of this Proposal either surprize you or render you averse to the Ratissicaion of the Treaty; I have acted on this Occasion both as the Necessity of yours and of our Affairs has required, as I have found them too urgent for Delay; I rely on your Wisdom to review mis Action in its proper Light.

Hyder Ally Cawn, who is more your Enemy than ours, has with a large Army invaded the Carnatic, and from the Neglects and Misimanagement of that Government has gained some signal Suc-The French, our natural Enemies, are daily expected with a confiderable Armament, Naval and Military, destined to act in Conjunction and in Alliance with him. Their Object is the Conquest of the Carnatic; his, as you must know, the Resumption and Prosecution of his Designs against the Dominions of the Peishwa: It is therefore your Interest equally at least with mine, to provide against the Effects of so formidable a Combination. Therefore, relying on the concurrent Policy of our respective States and on your Wisdom, to which it will be obvious, I have resolved on this uncommon Measure; I have performed my Part, the rest depends on you.

General Sir Eyre Coote, who is Commander in Chief and a Counsellor of this Government, emwanted only the Presence of an able Commander to lead them to Conquest.

Having proposed to you an Alliance with the Company against our common Enemy Hyder Ally Khan, and persuaded you will approve the Policy of an immediate Combination of our Forces for the early Prevention of his Designs, I request, that as soon as the Treaty shall have been ratified on your Part, which the Counfellors of this Government have offered for your Acceptance if you shall have approved it, you will cause Letters to be written immediately to Sir Eyre Coote to advise him thereof, and of whatever else may be necessary in consequence thereof.

May God advance the Progress of our Friendship and of your Prosperity.

To Maha Raja Moodajee Boossa - 17th October.

On Thursday the 13th Instant of this Month Shawal, I dispatched to you a large Packet with fundry Letters and Papers, of which I now fend you Duplicates, lest by any Accident the Originals should have miscarried by the Way. Having perused them, I request you will be pleased to forward those intended for the Peshwa and Ballajee Pundit without Loss of Time.

I also send a Duplicate of my last Letter to you.

Agreed also, That the Governor General be requested to write to the Raja of Benares, requiring Rajah of B him to furnish such Part of his Cavalry entertained in his Service, as he can spare for the Service of this Government; and to inform what Number he can supply. That a Letter be written to Mr. Francis Fowke, directing him to make the same Requisition of the Raja; and at the same Time, to obviate any Jealousy which the Raja may conceive that this may be converted to a permanent Imposition upon him, by assuring him, that the Board will require the Services of these Forces no longer than while the present War lasts; after which they will be returned.

consequence of the Delays used by the Rajah in the Payment of his Subsidy.

Decining it just and proper that the Rajah should be desired to afford every Assistance in his Power to this Government, to whose Protection and Support he owes all that he possesses, the Governor General has been requested to write to him to furnish such Part of the Cavalry enter, tained in his Employ as he can spare for the Service of the Company; but as some Jealousy and Apprehension may arise in the Rajah's Mind, that his Aid may be converted to a permanent Imposition on him, we think it necessary that such Fears should be obviated, and direct you there, fore to affure him that we shall require the Services of this Force no longer than during the Continuance of the present War, after which it will certainly be returned.

THE Proceedings of the 26th Instant read, and approved.

Read the following Letter from Brigadier General Stibbert, enclosing an Address to Lieutenam General Sir Eyre Coote from Major Brisco.

Brigadier Gene-28th October.

Gentlemen,

The enclosed Letter from Major Brisco, who commands the Detachment posted at Damagur, being addressed officially to Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, I opened it Yesterday on its being presented to me. As it contains some Information by no Means uninteresting at this Juncture, I have judged it proper to lay it before you.

The Season approaching when the upper Rohilcund will be considerably exposed to the Inroals of the Seicks, or other Adventurers from the Western Side of the Ganges, owing to the great Number of Fords which lead across that River in the dry Months, I purpose reinforcing Major Brisco by a Battalion from Futty Ghurr (Three Battalions having till lately been always stationed there) unless the Board should offer any Objection to the Measure. However, when the Extent of Country, and numerous Ghauts to be defended by the Daranagur Detachment, is considered, flatter myself, Gentlemen, that you will agree to this Expediency. I presume that on a Perusil of the Major's Letter, the Necessity of pressing both the Vizier and Fyzoola Khan to contribut effectually to the Protection of the Rohilcund will not fail to appear to the Board. I have the Honour, &c.

clofure in ociofure in coeral Stib-ert's Letter com Major rifco to Lieu-mant General his Byre Coote.

I had the Honour of addressing you Twice on your Way down to the Presidency, respecting this Station, and I now beg Leave to give you every Intelligence of my Transactions in the Protection of Rohilcund.

The River Ganges is already fallen so very low, I am under the Necessity of fending large Detachments to guard the Ghauts and Passes of the River, as the Seicks and Goodiers (Enemies of this Country, the Nabob Vizier's Dominions) are beginning to cross the Ganges, and committing Depredations in Rohilcund. The Troops I have detached in consequence will prevent them.

The Goodiers are an Enemy in Possession of the Country on the opposite Side the Ganges to Rohilcund, and are constantly very troublesome. The Seicks are a People who inhabit a Country 2 great way to the Northward of this, bordering on Timur Shaw's Territories; and as they are a Set of Freebooters, they are generally at War with some of the neighbouring Powers, and frequently make Vifits, and want to invade Rohilcund; and if it were not for the Detachment at Daranagur, they would in a very short Time lay waste the whole Country, and only wait an Opportunity.

The Seicks and Goodries are mostly Horsemen, and are a good deal like the Marrattas, in that they commence Hostilities wherever they go, and have made several Attempts on Rohilcund at different Times, Three or Four Years back; however, at present there are no very large Body of them assembled on these Frontiers; there are only Parties of them scattered about. But the Seicks at Times can collect a very large Army together, Thirty or Forty thousand Men.

form a Treaty with them. I do not know what Designs Neizop Cawn may have, but he is making great Preparations for War, &c. I have Information that Neizop Cawn is tampering with the Seicks, and using Endeavours to

On my being appointed and taking the Command at Daranagur, I was not honoured with any Instructions from you regarding the Nabob at Rampore, Fyzoola Cawn's Troops. I have only Five hundred of his Horse, and the Nabob in his Agreement with Government is obliged to keep up Five thousand Troops for affishing in the Defence of Rohilcund. A few Months ago Three Battalions were stationed here with Colonel Muir, besides a Body of the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn's Cavalry; and they were well employed, and had enough to do in protecting the Country from Invasion. The Command is greatly reduced. One Battalion taken away, and Fyzoola Cawn has not afforded more than Five hundred Men since I have been here, which is a great deal too small a Force from him, as I acquainted you in my former Letters Two Battalions were too small to command Rohilcund from Invalion. I want a larger Detachment from the Nabob.

I understand you intended ordering the Nabob to furnish Fisteen hundred Men when you recalled the Battalion; and it is absolutely necessary that he should, as they are very much wanted on the Frontier Station where I have my Detachments.

I hope to be honoured with your Directions relative to Fyzoola Cawn's Troops, as foon as convenient. I wait the Honour of your Instructions.

I have the Honour to be, &c. (Signed) H. Brifco.

Ordered, That the above Letters lie for Confideration until our next Meeting.

Extract of Bengal Secret Confultations, 9th October 1780.

THE Governor General lays before the Board the following Draft of a Letter to Brigadier General Goddard in Raphy to those which have been been a feet of a Letter to Brigadier General Goddard, in Reply to those which have been received from him, under Date the 27th May, 20th June, and 15th July, and which are yet unanswered.

We are to acknowledge the Receipt of the feveral Letters which you have written to us under Date the 27th May, 20th June, and 15th July.

The candid Manner in which you have justified your Conduct in your Observations on the Paper of Madras Intelligence, transmitted to you with our Letter of the 24th January, is to us convincing also of the Falsehood of it; and we defire you to be affured that in sending this Paper to you, and requiring your Answer to it, we were actuated by no Motive but that of affording you an Opportunity of exculpating yourself from Charges which might have some Weight with the Public, though the Sense which we have always entertained of your good Conduct would not permit of their having any Weight with us.

The successful Enterprizes of which you have advised us of Detachments under the Command of Major Forbes and Lieutenant Welch, and particularly of those under the latter, did not come to our Knowledge without heightening the favourable Opinion which we before entertained of the Merits of these Gentlemen, and have not passed without leaving the Impression which they deserve with us. We desire that you will present our Thanks to Major Forbes and Lieutenant Welch, for their Gallantry and good Conduct on the Occasions recited in your Letter of the 27th May and 20th June, as well as to the Officers and Men under their Command. performed by the Regiment of Cavalry and by the Officers in Command of it, call for our particular Acknowledgments; and it is our Order that you make the same known to them on the Receipt of this Letter.

Our Orders to you of the 20th April, for the Reduction of the Regiment of Cavalry, were founded on our Belief that it was not of that Use to your Operations which was intended by our Appointment of it, to make Part of your Detachment. You had not to that Time made any Mention to us of Services performed by it, though you had particularly observed on those of the Candah's REP. VI.

To Genera Goddard.

Horse, and we saw not sufficient Reason to maintain an useless Corps, which could not be supported but at the heaviest Expence. It has given us the greatest Satisfaction to find such ample Reason for entertaining an opposite Opinion of the Use to be derived to the public Service from this Regiment, and we chearfully abandon our former Sentiments concerning it for others more favourable, which we take up in lieu of them and under the Impression of its Utility, as a Reward to a Body of our Troops, which instead of Dismission merit Encouragement; and on your Recommendation we revoke our Orders of the 20th April for disbanding the Regiment of Cavalry with your Detachment, and consent to its Continuance in the Service.

We adhere to the Orders which we fent to you respecting your Demand on Futty Sing, for Payment of the Expence of the Troops stationed in Ahmedabad, and we not only now confirm them, but direct that before Ahmedabad be delivered up to Futty Sing, you claim and receive from him, in Behalf of the Company, full Payment of the Expence of the Troops employed for its Defence, from the Time that they were left there, as well as any Extra Expence incurred by the Company in the Capture of it.

Our Commands for the entire Reduction of the Allowance granted to Ragoba, were so strict and positive, that we cannot but be in some Degree astonished at the Liberty you have taken, under any Circumstances, to grant him a Stipend from your Treasury; but we at the same Time confess that the Reasons which you have adduced to the Justification of your Conduct are very powerful; and if they do not entirely acquit you for Inattention to our repeated Orders on this Subject, they yet go far to support you under it; they are such too as, including Considerations which were not be. fore us when our Orders were fent to you, now induce us to approve of the reduced Allowance which you have granted to Ragonaut Row: You will be pleafed to affure him that the Orders which we gave for the Reduction of his Stipend, did not arise from any Disregard to his Rights or to his Claims to our Support; that he may depend on our Protection during the War in which we are involved with the Peshwa, and on our Regard for his personal Sasety and Interest, so far as it may be in our Power to provide for him after it; but we are certain that he cannot be furprized at our Inability to supply him so largely from our Treasury, as the uscless and idle Expence of an Indian Prince might demand from it; that the War in which we are engaged is burthenfome to the Company, and highly fo; and that during the Continuance of it, it is incumbent on this Government to be as frugal in their Difbursements as the Occasion renders possible; but that we willingly allow the Sum of Ten thousand Rupees for his Monthly Support, and have given you Directions to iffue it to him, hoping that it will answer every necessary Expence.

With respect to the Plan of Operations for the Campaign, which we must now suppose to have been some Time commenced, we must leave it to your Judgment, guided and assisted by the Opinion and Advice of the Gentlemen at Bombay. We have only One positive Order to transmit to you; viz. that if the French land an Army on the Coast of Malabar, you employ the Troops under your Command for the Defence of Bombay, and render every Aid in your Power to that Presidency. You know our general Intentions, and we approve of the Sentiments delivered in your late Letters; but at this Distance we cannot venture to give Orders for any Plan of Operations for the Forces under your Command, fince on your Receipt of it a new and unforefeen Cause may prevent you from adopting it: You must not therefore wait for our Instructions; we leave you to act for the general Benefit of the Company under the Advice of the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay; and to be guided by Circumstances as they may present themselves.

We are, &c.

Fort William, 9th October 1780.

Mr. Francis-There are some Parts of this Letter in which I cannot concur. I have not altered my Opinion with respect to the Regiment of Cavalry; and in regard to Ragoba, I am of Opinion not only that our repeated Orders ought to have been attended with inflant and literal Obedience; but that, exclusive of the Expence, it is not prudent in us to furnish Ragoba with a Sublistance. We shall assuredly be burdened with him as long as he receives it; and while he is with us, he will always be a Difficulty and an Obstacle in the Way of Peace.

Having already in Discourse submitted my Opinion to the Board, of the Object to which General Goddard's Army should be directed as soon as an Alliance or Peace with the Marattas shall leave him at Liberty to act, and finding that it concurs with the Views and Opinions of the Governor General, I shall omit to say what I was prepared to say on that Subject; I think that no Time should be lost in suggesting it to General Goddard, and instructing him to prepare him self eventually for the Execution of such a Service the Moment it can be undertaken.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 320.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 5th June 1780.

PRESENT,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,

Esquires.

THE Governor General informs the Board, That having himself examined the Copy of the Treaty concluded with Futty Sing Guicawar, and compared the English Counterpart with the Persian Original, and it appearing to him that they differ considerably both in Form and Substance, he thought it proper to cause an accurate and literal Translation of the latter to be made for the Information of the Board, and employed Mr. D. Anderson (with whose Knowledge of the Persian Tongue the Board are well acquainted) in this Service. He now lays before the Board the Office Copy of the Treaty, with Mr. Anderson's Translation, and desires that they may be entered in opposite Columns in the Consultations, by which their Agreement or Disagreement will be most apparent. Besides the general Disagreement between the English and Persian Transcripts of the Treaty in the Copy received from General Goddard, the Governor General begs Leave to call the Attention of the Board to the 5th, 6th, and 10th Articles in particular, as he apprehends that in their present Form, they are liable to many Subjects of Contention. The 6th and 10th Articles making the Exchange of specific Districts express Conditions of the Treaty, may admit of a Construction which would deprive the Company of the Benefit intended by the 5th, which specifies, that in any new Partition, the original Amount of the whole of each respective Share shall be preserved; by which the Board have understood, that whatever Partition had taken place, or should hereafter take place, between the Company and Futty Sing, the final Distribution should be so ordered as to place each Party precisely in the same Situation with respect to the Value of the Possessions allotted to each. That for Example, if the Possessions lately held by Futty Sing in Guzerat did amount in their yearly Revenue to 57,71,200 Rupees, and the Paishwa's Share of the same Province to 40,98,800 Rupees, the Lands ultimately appropriated to each should yield those Sums to each respectively; but, as this Partition is stated as a suture and eventual Consequence of a Requisition on the Part of the Company, and the professed Object of it to prevent Disputes by the Intermixture of the Lands appertaining to each for want of proper Boundaries, it may be doubted or disputed that the Lands which originally appertained to the Paishwa on the North of the River Myhie, and estimated by the Presidency of Bombay to yield a yearly Revenue of 27,00,000 Rupees, and which were given up to Futty Sing in Exchange for the Posfessions expressed in the 6th and 10th Articles, amounting by the same Estimate to 10,62,900 Rupees, are included in the Provision made by the 5th Article. The Board will therefore probably think it both prudent and equitable to put this Point beyond a Dispute, and to insure to the Company the Right which they undoubtedly possess, by the general Tenor of the Treaty, to that Share, or an Equivalent which was originally possessed by the Paishwa, and to which they are entitled as standing in his Place.

The 5th Article contains a technical Expression of a similar Ambiguity with that of Jumma Khamil, which has occasioned so much Dispute in the Treaty of Poorunder, and an Inaccuracy in the Construction which might likewise serve as a Pretext for suture Cavil. On both these Points the Governor General has thought proper to consult Mr. Ducarel, Superintendant of the Khalsa Records, with the Aid of the Naib Canongoes, the proper Official Judges of the first, and of the latter only as being necessarily consulted upon the first, and competent to decide upon it by their general Knowledge of the Persian Language. Mr. Ducarel's Report is as follows:

Honourable Sir,

Agreeable to your Commands, I have examined the 5th Article of the Treaty between Futty Sing Guicawar and the Honourable Company, as expressed in the Persian Language, and submitted it to the Canongoes Gunga Govind Sing and Scuce Narain Mustofy, for their Opinion of the exact Meaning conveyed by the Words az Company—Kesil Mokurrurry, and Amdanni muassuch

They agree with me in Opinion, that the Word az, which signifies from or by, is a Mistake, put in place of the Word beb, to, which alters the whole Meaning of the above 5th Article, requiring the Company to give what it is intended they should receive.

The Canangoes are farther of Opinion, that the Words Kefil Mokurrurry, and Amdanni muaffuch Mamool (the literal Meaning of which is, fixed Collections and Receipts agreeable to established Usage) respecting the actual Collections, and not a Jumma or Demand which, though established by Law or Usage, may not be realized: But they think that the Addition of the Words Receipts agreeable to established Usage (which they apprehend were not necessary) may leave room for throwing the Charges of Collection into the Cession, or including them as a Part of the Produce of the Lands to be ceded.

I have the Honour to be,

(Signed) G. G. Ducarel.

Mr. DucareF the Governat General.

A P P E N D I X, N° 320.

By this Letter it will appear, that it is at least necessary to give a Revision and Correction to the Treaty before it can be ratisfied.

Treaty between the Honourable English East India Company and Futty Sing Row Guicawar, Shemseer Bahadar, concluded at the Village of Candeela, in the Purgunnah of Dubhoy, January the 25th 1780.

The Ministers of the Maratta State having refused to accept of the reasonable Terms of Accommodation offered them by Brigadier General Thomas Goddard, in the Name of the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, and by their obstinate Perseverance in hostile Intentions against the English, compelled them to take up Arms in Defence of their own Rights and Possessions; the Honourable the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay, with the Sanction and Approbation of the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, have appointed and authorized Brigadier General Goddard to settle and conclude a Treaty of lasting Peace and Alliance betwixt the Honourable the English East India Company on one Part, and Futty Sing Row Guicawar, Shemfeer Bahadar, for and in the Name of all the Guicawar Family, on the other; and the following are the Articles of Convention mutually entered into:

Article 1st.

The English and Futty Sing Row agree to a League of defensive Alliance, and to protect each other against all foreign Enemies whatever.

Article 2d.

The Ministers of the Maratta State, by repeated Violations of Treaty, as well as their late Conduct, having drawn upon themselves the just Resentment of the English; having also, by undue Acts of Oppression, proved themselves the Enemies of Futty Sing; for these Reasons, and because the most firm and sincere Friendship has long subsisted betwixt the Honourable Company and Futty Sing, the contracting Parties mutually agree to enter immediately into an offensive League, excluding the Government of Poona from all Share of Country in the Province of Guzerat whatever.

Article 3d.

have, with mutual Consent and Inclination, settled and entered into this Treaty.

Whereas the Ministers of Poona not having liftened to Propofals which were reasonable and fuitable to the Times, the Supreme Council of Calcutta fent General Goddard with full Powers into this Country: And General Goddard having also sent every Proposal to the Ministers of Poons that could tend to terminate the Dispute and promote the Welfare of both Parties; but they not agreeing thereto, bound their Loins with Enmity, and intriguing with the Enemics of the English, entertained treacherous Designs in their Minds; wherefore it became necessary for the Chiefs of the English Company-to service Affairs with them: And the Gentlemen of Bombay having approved of the Propositions and Measures of the Supreme Council of Calcutta are impowered to form a Treaty of Alliance with Futty Sing Row Guicawar, Sena Khafs Kheel, Shumfhere Bahadar, and all the Guicawars; and accordingly the faid Row and General Goddard have agreed together on the following Articles:

- Ist. A Treaty between the Chiefs of the English Company and Futty Sing Row Guicawar, Shumsere Bahadar, is concluded under solemn Engagements, that the Friends of the one shall be the Friends of the other, and the Enemies of the one the Enemies of the other: If any one shall invade the Territories of the English, it shall be incumbent on Row Shumshere to punish him; and if any one shall pass into the Country of the said Row, the Chiefs of the English Company shall use their Endeavours to repel him. In this let no Deviation happen.
- 2d. Whereas the Ministers of Poona have repeatedly violated the Treaty, which under the ftrongest Engagements they entered into with the Chiefs of the English Company; and whereas they have committed various Acts of Hostility towards the English, and having also bound their Loins with Enmity against Futty Sing Row Guicawar, Shumshere Bahadar, have greatly oppressed him, wherefore it has become necessary for their Honour to check and refent the Injuries which have been committed by the Ministers of Poona: It is therefore at present agreed, that having removed the Government of the Ministers of Poona from the Country of Guzerat, we will conquer and possess ourselves of the whole Country of Guzerat, and the Soubah of Ahmedabad, and make such an Arrangement that the Minister shall not be able to receive or collect a fingle Daum from that Country.

Article 4th.

In order to accomplish this Service, a firm Friendship is now established betwixt the English and Futty Sing; the latter agrees to join the English with 3,000 Horse, according to Custom, and as many more as he can possibly raise, to act in Conjunction with them during the present War, whenever they shall call on him to do fo.

Article 5th.
As the present Mode of Partition betwixt the Poona Government and Futty Sing is attended with great Lofs and Inconvenience from the Difputes that must arise from the Interference of each in collecting the Revenues of the same Places and that lay interspersed with one another, it is agreed upon that a new Settlement of the Province of Guzerat shall take place for the mu-tual Benefit and Convenience of both Parties; the express Object of which will be, an absolute and specific Partition of the whole Territory betwixt the Honourable East India Company and Futty Sing, according to the Proportion of the Revenues now respectively held by him and the Marattas.

Article 6th.

Ahmedabad and its Dependencies, that is to fay, the Country to the North of the River Myhi, now possessed by the Poona Government, to be allotted to Futty Sing, in lieu of which the Fng-lish are to be put in Possession of the Guicawar Division of the Country South of the Tappey, known by the Name of Attaveissie, and their Share of the Revenues of Surat.

Article 7th.

The English will give such Assistance of Force as Futty Sing may require, to conquer and put him in Possession of the Poona Share of the Country to the North of the Myhi.

Article 8th.

The final Partition and Settlement of the Guzerat Province being made, each Party is to have the distinct and sole Government and Possession of the Division allotted him, and to hold his Share independent of and unconnected with the other, except when united for their common Defence against a foreign Enemy, which they mutually and in the most solemn Manner agree to do. And this Partition, and this Settlement mutually REP. VI. agreed

And the Chiefs of the Englith Company shall not fail to support and assist Row Shumshere Bahadur.

4th. As it is of particular Importance to fettle the Country, and as a Treaty of Union is effablished betwixt Row Futty Sing Shumshere Behadur, and the English; Row Shumshere Behadur engages that he will supply for the present War Three thousand Horse as usual; and further, as many more as he can, at the Requisition of the Chiefs of the English Company, and will perform all that is incumbent on a Conjunction of Interests.

5th. Whereas in the Divisions held by the Guicawar and the Ministers of Poona respectively, by reason of the double Government which exist in the fame Town, and the Vicinity of their Villages to one another, Disputes and Quarrels daily take place, the Collection of the Revenues of the Country is impeded and prejudiced, and the Ryots are diffressed; the English Chiefs are for these Reasons desirous of settling a new Partition, fo that a Treaty having mutually taken place, no Difference may arise: And with a View to the Interest and Welfare of both, a Poition of Country, equal to the Share held at prefent by the Ministers of Poona, according to the established Collections and customary Receipts of Revenue, shall, after the Conquest of these Districts, be given in Exchange to the Company, it is intended that there shall not be a Daum Difference.

6th. The City of Ahmadabad, together with the Purgunnah, that is to fay, the whole of the Country laying on the other Side of the River Myhi which is now poffested by the Poona Government, shall be conquered and given to Row Shumshere Bahadur; and in exchange for it the Purgunnahs of Surat, Attaveissee, and the Chout of the City of Surat, shall be allotted to the Share of the Chiefs of the Company.

7th. Whenever Row Shumshere Behadur shall require Troops to conquer the Country comprehended under the Share of the Ministers of Poona, and laying on the other Side of the River Myh, they shall be supplied by the English Company.

8th. After the Partition of the Country of Guzerat is effected, each Party shall have the sole Government in the Districts allotted to their tefpective Shares, and shall have no Depandance on one another, except when any Person shall pass into the Country of Row Shumshere Bahadur, in which cafe Assistance shall be brought by the English Company: And if any one shall invade the Share of Country allotted to the English

And this Partition of the Country of Guzerat, which hath with mutual Approbation been settled betwixt Row Shum, shere Behadur and the Chiefs of the Company, shall perpetually remain and be continued to they respective Descendants and Successors: In no see spect shall it be broken through by either.

Article 9th.

Futty Sing having requested that the English support him in witholding the annual Tribute hitherto paid by him to the Poona Government, it is stipulated that the Honourable Company will do so till a final Peace shall be concluded betwixt them and the Poona Government, in which the Interests of Futty Sing shall be carefully and equally attended to with their own.

Article 10th.

In Confideration of the Advantage that will arise to Futty Sing from the above Article, and as a Proof of his sincere Regard and Friendship for the English, he agrees to cede to them the District of Zinnore, and the Villages situated in the Broach Purgunnah, now belonging to him, both which are to remain for ever in the Possession of the Company.

Article 11th.

All the Countries and Places made over to the English in this Treaty by Futty Sing are to be delivered into their Hands, and the Collections accounted for to them from the Day that Futty Sing is put in Possession of the City of Ahmedabad; and no Demand of Collection for any past Time is to be made in them by Futty Sing.

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 26th June 1780.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastlings, Governor General, President,
Philip Francis,
Edward Wheler,
Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent.

The Secretary informs the Board, That in Obedience to their Orders of the 5th Inftant, he has prepared Two Drafts of the Treaty with Futty Sing Guicawar, in the Manner prefcribed by those Orders; and now lays before them that of the Two Drafts, in which the Treaty stands in its original Form, agreeable to the Translation made by Mr. Anderson, with the Corrections resolved on by the Board, but with the Omission of those Numbers in the Original which formed the 6th and 10th Articles.

Treaty between the Honourable English East India Company and Futty Sing Row Guicawar Shemseer Bahader, concluded at the Village of Candula, in the Pergunnah of Dubhoy, January the Twenty-sixth, One thousand Seven hundred and Eighty.

The Ministers of the Maratta State having refused to accept of the reasonable Terms of Accommodation offered them by Brigadier General Thomas Goddard, in the Name of the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, and by their obstinate Perseverance in hostile Intentions against the English, compelled them to take up Arms in Desence of their own Rijts and Possessions; the Honourable the President and Select Committee of Bombay, with the Sanction and Approbation of the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, have appointed and authorized Brigadier General Goddard to settle and conclude a Treaty of lasting Peace and Alliance betwixt the Honourable the East India Company on one Part, and Futty Sing Row Guicawar Shemseer Bahader, for and in the Name of all the Guicawar Family, on the other; and the following are the Articles of Convention mutually entered into:

Article First.

A Treaty between the Chiefs of the English Company and Futty Sing Row Guicawar Shemseer Bahader, is concluded, under solemn Engagements that the Friends of the one shall be the Friends of the other, and the Enemies of the one the Enemies of the other: If any one shall invade the Territories of the English it shall be incumbent on Row Shemseer to punish him; and if any one shall invade the Country of the said Row, the Chiefs of the English Company shall use their Indeavours to repel him. In this let no Deviation happen.

Article Second.

Whereas the Ministers of Poona have repeatedly violated the Treaty, which under the strongest Engagements they entered into with the Chiefs of the English Company; and whereas they have committed various Acts of Hostility towards the English, and having also bound their Loins with Enmity against Futty Sing Row Guicawar, Shemseer Bahader, have greatly oppressed them; wherefore it has become necessary for our mutual Honour to check and resent the Injuries which have been committed by the Ministers of Poona: It is therefore at present agreed, that having removed the Government of the Ministers of Poona from the Country of Guzerat, we will conquer and possess ourselves of the whole Country of Guzerat, and the Soubah of Ahmedabad, and make such an Arrangement that the Ministers shall not be able to receive or collect a single Daum from that Country.

Article Third.

The Share of the Country of Guzerat belonging to the Guicawar shall be continued and kerst entire; and the Share of the Ministers of Poona shall be enjoyed by the English Company; and Row Shemseer Bahader shall support and assist the Chiefs of the English Company in taking it, and in keeping Possession of it; and the Chiefs of the English Company shall not fail to support and assist Row Shemseer Bahader in the Desence and Maintenance of his Share.

Article Fourth.

As it is of particular Importance to fettle the Country, and as a Treaty of Union is established betwixt Row Futty Sing Shemseer Bahader and the English, Row Shemseer Bahader engages that he will supply for the present War Three thousand Horse as usual, and farther, as many more as he can, at the Requisition of the Chiefs of the English Company, and will perform all that is incumbent on a Conjunction of Interests.

Article Fifth.

. Whereas in the Divisions held by the Guicawar, and the Ministers of Poona respectively the reason of the double Government which exists in the same Town, and the Vicinity or their Vil lages to one another, Disputes and Quarrels daily take place; the Collection of the Revenues of the Country is impeded and prejudiced; and the Ryots are distressed; the English Chiefs are for these Reasons desirous of settling a new Partition, so that a Treaty having mutually taken place, no Difference may arife; and with a View to the Interest and Welfare of both, a Portion of Country equal to the Share held at present by the Ministers of Poona, according to the established Collections and customary Receipts of Revenue, shall after the Conquest of these Districts be given in Exchange to the Company. It is intended that there shall not be a Dauin Difference.

Article Sixth.

The City of Ahmedabad, together with the Purgunnahs, that is to fay, the Whole of the Country laying on the other Side of the River Mahé, which is now possessed by the Poona Government, shall be conquered and given to Row Shemseer Bahadar; and in Exchange for it the Purgunnahs of Surat Attaveeffee, and the Chout of the City of Surat, shall be allotted to the Share of the English Company: Whatever Difference may arise in the Revenue of the respective Shares by this Exchange shall be adjusted according to the preceding Article.

Article Seventh.

Whenever Row Shemseer Bahadar shall require Troops to conquer the Country comprehended under the Share of the Ministers of Poona, and laying on the other Side of the River Mahé, they shall be supplied by the English Company.

Article Eighth.

After the Partition of the Country of Guzerat is effected, each Party shall have the sole Government in the Districts allotted to their respective Shares, and shall have no Dependance on one another; except when any Enemy shall invade the Country of Row Shemseer Bahadar, in which Case Affistance shall be brought by the English Company; and if any Enemy shall invade the Share of Country allotted to the English Company, Row Shemseer Bahadar shall afford Support and Affistance. And this Partition of the Country of Guzerat, which hath with mutual Approbation been fettled betwixt Row Shemfeer Bahadar and the English Company, shall perpetually remain and be continued to their respective Descendants and Successors: In no Respect shall it be broken through by either.

Article Ninth.

Agreeable to the Representation of Row Futty Sing Bahadar, the Money which he annually sends to Poona must not be sent, he must keep it with himself: Whenever any Negociation for Peace shall take place with the Ministers of Poona, the Interest and Welfare of Row Shemseer Bahadar shall first be discussed. The Interests of Row Shemseer Bahadar and the Interests of the Company are one and the fame.

Article Tenth.
As the above Article is for the Advantage of Row Futty Sing Shemseer Bahadar, he, from the Friendship and Regard which he bears towards the Chiefs of the English Company, shall make over to the Company the District of Zinnore, together with the Villages of Broach, which are at present in his Possession: Whatever Difference may arise in the Revenue of the respective Shares by this Exchange, shall be adjusted according to the Fifth Article.

Article Eleventh.

All the Purgunnahs and Villages abovementioned shall be delivered over to the Chiefs of the Company from the Day on which the City of Ahmedabad is delivered over to Row Shemfeer Ba-From the Day on which Possession is taken of the City of Ahmedabad, the Revenues of the above Purgunnahs shall be enjoyed by the English Company, and from that Day no Claim of Collection shall be made on Account of the Time past in these Purgunnahs.

Article Twelsth.

It is agreed, That Two Copies of this Treaty be immediately sent to the Honourable President and Select Committee of Bombay, for their Approbation, and to be by them transmitted to the Honourable Governor General and Council of Fort William, under whose Sanction it is concluded, in order to receive their final Confirmation and Ratification; after which one Copy so authenticated is to remain with the Honourable President and Select Committee of Bombay, and another with Futty Sing.

Approved the Drafts; and ordered that a fair Copy of them be made in Duplicate to receive the Signature of the Members of the Board, and to be sealed with the Seal of the Company.

Agreed, That when the Treaties shall have been signed, and the Seal of the Company been affixed to them, they be transmitted to Brigadier General Goddard, with the following Letter:

We have for some Time past had under Consideration a Copy of the Treaty concluded by you on the 26th of January last with Futty Sing Guicawar, and transmitted to us by the President and Stlect Committee of Bombay in the English and Persian Languages for our Ratification.

On a Comparison of the English Counterpart of this Treaty with the Persian, they appeared to us to differ so considerably both in Form and Substance, that we determined to remove the Doubts which we had on this Point, by employing some Person in whose Knowledge of the Persian Lan-REP. VI.

We think proper to give you this Explanation of our Sentiments, that you may conform to them in suture, on any Occasion that may present itself to bring the War to an harmstall Constitute. honourable Conclusion.

We have in all our late Letters informed you of the Difficulty we had found in making the large Remittances of Cash which we had fent to Bombay for the Support of that Presidency, and to Surat for the Supply of your Army: We are alone unequal to fo great a Charge upon our Income, and have therefore in our Letter to the Sclect Committee of Bombay of this Date, defired then to appropriate the Accession of Revenue which may immediately arise to the Company from the Operations and Successes of your Army, exclusively to that Expence. We trust that you will be able to secure from the Ravages and Incursions of the Enemy the Districts which you may have ob tained; and that the Collections will equal the Estimate made of them, at least during the ram, Season, in which they will be less liable to Interruption; and for such further Sums as you me indispensably want, we authorize you to draw Bills upon us at Par; but we positively prohibe them on any other Terms.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 2d October 1780.

READ the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard:

Gentlemen,

I have the Henour to acknowledge your Letter of the 15th May.

In Answer to what related to the Partition of the Territory made with Futty Sing, I shall endea vour to explain the Circumstance you have alluded to as clearly as I possibly can; and do not doubt being able to effect that Point to your entire Satisfaction.

After the express Declaration contained in the Fifth Article of the Treaty with Futty Sing, where it is provided that a new and equitable Settlement of the Province of Guzerat shall take place, it would have been in me a Proof of an unpardonable Inattention to the Interests of my Country and the Honourable Company, could I have suffered them to be so materially injured as the supposed Difference of the Value of the Lands mutually ceded, admitting that Settlement to be just, would prove it to be the Case: Nothing but the strongest Considerations of political line pediency could have justified such a Step; and had such existed, I should have deemed myself highin culpable in withholding from you in the First Instance every minute Information upon a Point of so much Importance. I acknowledge however that the Necessity for making such a Sacrifice never did exist; and I also affirm that the present Partition of Country, as far as my Knowledge of the respective Value of each Share, drawn from the best Authority and Information I could procure, enabled me to judge, it was not only made in an equal and just Proportion, but from many Considerations greatly to the Benefit and particular Advantage of the Company, exclusive of the general Conveniences, and, when it was formed, defirable Object of the Alliance itself.

I could have wished the Honourable President and Scheet Committee of Bombay had deferred transmitting you their Letter to me of the 24th February till they received my Answer; that both might have been fent at the same Time, in order to prevent any partial Impression, and by having the Matter more fully stated, enable you to decide with more Certainty and Precision upon the several Circumstances of it. They will no Doubt have corrected this, by submitting it to your Consideration as soon as it reached them, but less they may have neglected to do so, I beg Leave to transcribe for your Perusal, such Part of my Letter to the Honourable Select Committee of Prophery of the 7th of March as release to the Subject in and the select Committee of Prophery of the 7th of March as release to the Subject in and the select Committee of Bombay, of the 7th of March, as relates to the Subject in question, and to which I further beg n was as follows:

"Respecting the Statement you have been pleased to send me of the Revenues of Guzerat, as " shared by the Peshwa and Guicawar, but which you had, you do not answer for being altogether " accurate; I beg to affure you, that from the most exact Information I received, it is exceedingly erroneous and incorrect. I shall take an Opportunity of laying before you an Extract and satis-" factory Statement of the Collections of this Province, for your more particular Information, very " foon; at present only permit me to observe, that the Estimate made of the Peshwah's Share " of the Districts to the North of the Myhie, exceeded the proper Value by at least Fifteen Lacks " of Rupees. I shall mention Three Instances in which they are greatly exaggerated; First, re-" specting Pirlad, the whole Revenue of which may be reckoned at Six Lacks, Three only of " which are accounted for to the Peshwah: Second, the City of Ahmedabad, whose Collections " amounted to about Three Lacks, and little more than Half belonged to the Poona Circar. "The Revenue mentioned under the Name of Muluckgeery, the real Value of which depended upon the Force employed, and was never valued to the Peshwa at more than Three Lacks; if " to these Deductions be added the Expences necessary to collect the Revenues from the Ze-" mindars, as well as to protect the Country from the Inroads and Depredations of the Cottywars, " and other Freebooters; it will be found that the real Value of the Pergunnahs ceded to the English by Futty Sing, exclusive of the Conveniencies and Advantage of their Situation, is "equal if not superior to that guaranteed to him by the Company in lieu of it."

The Facts being as above stated, and the Honourable President and Select Committee of Bombay not having yet thought proper to controvert or weaken their Force by any Objection to the Argument I had used, I cannot help remaining fixed in my former Opinion, that the Exchange of Territory made by Futty Sing was equitable, and proportioned to the Claims of each Party, and calculated to promote the true Interests of the Company.

I shall however, in Obedience to your Commands, further consult with that Government on the feveral Points you have mentioned relative to this Treaty: And as the express and declared Intention of its Formation was, exclusive of its general and political Object of uniting with Futty Sing against the common Enemy, to possess ourselves of the full and undiminished Share of the Province formerly belonging to the Peishwa, should any Thing yet be wanting to the complete Attainment of that End, I shall most carnestly and zealously assist in contributing to its Accom-

I cannot quit the Subject entirely without venturing a few Words upon what you are pleafed to observe respecting the local Advantage arising to the Company from the Exchange of Territory made with Futty Sing. This Measure was strictly conformable to the Plan proposed and recommended to me by the President and Select Committee of Bombay; and I must confess, from many Reasons, it then did and still does appear to me the most advantageous Mode of Participation that could be followed.

If the Lands to the North of the Myhie are further removed from the main Power of the Marattas than those we gain, and rendered difficult of Access by the Interposition of Three capital Rivers; they are also separated, and in a Manner unconnected with the Company's former Possessions; and in case of an Attack, the same Obstructions of Rivers, together with the Distance, would unite to prevent our being able to furnish the necessary Assistance for their Desence, except at an increased Expence, and at extreme Hazard and Inconvenience, as all the Country we do hold to the Southward would in such Case be left entirely exposed to the Insults and Inroads of the Enemy; besides, the Entrance into the Northern Districts is, at the Season for Military Operations, always open to the Marattas by the Province of Malva; and whenever they have meant feriously to make an Attack on Guzerat, it has always been by beginning their Efforts to the Northward.

I shall on this Point also, in Conformity to your Directions, avail myself of any Advice the Government of Bombay may give respecting it, and at present take Leave of the Subject of Futty Sing, by expressing my sincere Wish, that as the Treaty with that Chief was entered upon by me after the maturest Deliberation and Attention to every collateral Circumstance, possible Benefit or Disadvantage to the Company; and as I promoted it with Ardour, from a Conviction of its great Utility, which has fince been proved, on the Eve of an important and dangerous War, no Deficiency in the Means of attaining these Objects, or Cause of Alteration may be adduced, by which the Public Faith, or my private Character, may suffer the most distant Shadow of Reslection.

The Letters which I have from Time to Time addressed you since that of the 28th of March, will have fully confirmed the Accounts then given of Scindia's Infincerity and Duplicity of Conduct, and the Impossibility of deriving any solid Advantages from a Connection with that Chief, or even of forming one, but upon Terms the most disgraceful and unprofitable. That his principal Objest is to get the Person of Ragoba into his own Hands, is obvious; but notwithstanding the fair Openings given him in the Course of his Negociation with me, he never availed himself of them to offer Concessions to the English adequate to such a Sacrifice on our Part, or even in the smallest Degree calculated to inspire us with an Inclination to make it.

ENDIX, N° 321 and 322.

N° 322.

The Idea conveyed in your Injunctions relative to Ragoba, has been the Ground of my Treatment of that Chief hitherto, of the Plan laid down for the Profecution of the War last Second and of my subsequent Conduct towards Scindia; I shall continue to make it my invariable Rule, and I trust, that the Honour and Dignity of the Nation may still be preserved unblemished; and it will never be necessary to relax in it towards him.

It is always with the most real Concern and the strongest Repugnance imaginable, that I am compelled to deviate in the smallest Tittle from the strict Letter of your Instructions. With these Sentiments, if I at any Time do depart from it, nothing but the Expediency of the Case, and a Regard for the Public Good, which I know to be paramount in your Breast to all other Considerations, could justify me to myself, or furnish any Shadow of Excuse to you. Should my Judgment unfortunately err, I have so often experienced your Candour and Indulgence, that I know you would pardon the Error of the Action itself from the Goodness of the Intention which led to it.

When I wrote to you last, I informed you that I had entirely withdrawn the Allowance granted to Ragoba; this was my Determination; and in communicating to him the Necessity of such a Step, I endeavoured to reconcile it to him in Terms the best calculated to remove every Idea of R. originating from any Alterations in the friendly Sentiments of your Government towards him; and at the same Time to convince him of the political Justice and Propriety which dictated it. He pleaded his Poverty, and entire Dependance on us, with the strongest Force of Language; but as he had no other Argument to make use of than his Necessities, he was compelled to acknowledge the Reasonableness of your Decree, and only solicited me to lay before you the distressful State to which he was reduced. A few Days after that, I learned that some Jewels belonging to Ragoba had been offered for Sale in the City, and that he had disposed of some Golden Female Ornaments, He shortly after renewed his Solicitations; he described to me his extreme Distress in the most moving Manner, informing me of his Attempt to fell the few remaining Jewels left of his Family; but that, availing themselves of his Necessities, the Merchants refused to buy them but at a Third of their Value; declared that he was unable to furnish the necessary Subsistence for himself and Family; and concluded, after expressing his grateful Sense of the many Favours he had received from the English, and his Regret at the inadequate Return it had been, and was then in his Power to make them, by frankly declaring, that as by his Continuance at Surat he must inevitably experience the Want of even the common Necessaries of Life, it would be expedient for him, in order to save his Family from perishing, to direct his Course to some other Quarter; and requested me to advise him in what Manner he should conduct himself in these trying and difficult Circum-This was the Substance of his Conversation.

As I was sensible of the Truth of his Representations, I felt myself greatly embarrassed how to to the Feelings of Humanity, I found united in his Favour, many Considerations of political Convenience and Necessity, all which I have taken the Liberty of laying before you on former Occasions; but at this Time they received an additional Weight, as I know from good Authority, that both the Minister and Scindia had their Engines at work, and were endeavouring by the most fair and splendid Offers to bribe him into a Considence of their good Disposition towards him, and avail themselves of the Dissatisfaction they knew he must seel from finding that we considered ourselves as Principals in the War, without admitting him into any Participation of the Territories acquired by its Success. From all these Considerations, I thought it an expedient and advisable Measure, which from its good Policy, and I may add Necessity, would meet with your Approbation, to relax from the entire reducing of Ragoba's Allowance before resolved upon; and as he had, from the first Intimation given him, dismissed almost all his Dependants, preserving such only as could not decently be difpenfed with, to allow him monthly, for their bare Support and the Sub-fiftence of himself and Family, the Sum of Ten thousand Rupees, till I might receive your final and decifive Sentiments for my further Guidance; for be affured I shall not in the smallest Degree depart therefrom.

I have troubled you with this minute Detail, that you may be clearly informed of every Circumstance, and by that be enabled fully to discover the Reasons which operated with me on this Occation; the force of which I trust you will admit; and in this Confidence I chearfully submit myself to your Judgments.

Permit me to acknowledge, with the deepest Sense of Gratitude, the honourable Marks of Distinction conferred on me by the Approbation you have been pleafed to convey of my Conduct, in your Letter of the 19th of May, which came to Hand at the same Time with that of the 15th I can only repeat what you have so often indulged me with an Opportunity of faying, that it shall be my constant and unwearied Study to make the fole Return in my Power for such unlimited Goodness and Confidence, by exerting myself on all Occasions to promote the Interests of the Compuny, and the Honour and Success of your Government; and that my future Actions will, I troft, prove to you the Existence of those Sentiments in my Breast, which Language would in vain attempt to describe.

A P P E N D I X, N° 324, 325.

My Letter of the 20th ultimo fully explained the Situation of Affairs in the Maratta State, respecting which I have received no new material Information; nor has, I believe, any Change whatever taken place. I look with anxious Expectation for your Reply to that Letter, and your Sentiments on the Plan of Operations for the ensuing Campaign, therein recommended and proposed. The Description I then gave of our new Acquisitions, of which the Company now remain full and peaceable Possession, and must, until the Conclusion of the rainy Season, will, I hope, make good your Expectations of Revenue from that Resource; but it is unnecessary to remark to you, how uncertain and precarious any Dependance on their Produce must prove during the Wir. When the Period of Military Operations in the Field arrives, and from the entire Want of Resources in this Government, I must rely solely upon your Wisdom and Vigour for the future Support of the Army.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 4th September 1780.

Minute of the Governor General, 28th August 1780.

WHEN I took Charge of this Government, under the former System of it, I sound it loaded with a bonded Debt of One Crore and One Lack of Rupees, which Amount, in a very short Time after, grew to One Crore and Twenty-five Lacks; it was my good Fortune and Happiness to see this enormous Debt wholly reduced, and a Sum accumulated in our Treasuries, which, as I recollect, amounted at one Time to Two Crore and Twenty-one Lacks of Rupees. Since that Time our Expences have been increasing, our Means declining (I will not in this Place enumerate the Causes of both) and it is now my hard Lot, and a painful Duty imposed on me by the Necessity of the Times, to propose that we should again have Recourse to the Means of supplying our growing Wants, and provide against the multiplying Exigencies not of this State only, but of the other Presidencies, whose Existence must depend upon our Care of them, by taking up Money at Interest. The Sum I do not propose, because I think it should not be limited. The Subject is itself of too much Importance for a precipitate Decision. I desire only to submit it at this Time to the Consideration of the Board; and request, that the other Members of it will be pleased to contribute their Opinions upon it, hoping that it may be resumed, and a final Conclusion drawn upon it, at our next Meeting in this Department.

A P P E N D I X, N° 325.

Considerations upon the present Political State of the Company in India; written at Madras in January 1780.

THE Measures lately pursued at Bengal and Bombay in Support of Ragonaut Row, having drawn on the Company the Resentment of the Maratta State, given Offence to Nizam Ally Cawn, who is in Friendship with that State, and a declared Enemy to Ragonaut Row, and opened the Way to a Rupture with Hyder Ally, by promoting Peace between him and the Marattas, and leaving him at Liberty to execute the Threats which he has denounced against the Carnatic; it is become a Matter of serious Importance with the Company, to consider how they may best avert the Evils that surround them, and what Line of Conduct it may be proper to adopt, for establishing their Assairs in suture upon a solid and permanent Footing.

A P P E N D I X, N° 325.

It was hardly possible to have imagined a more difficult, dangerous; and unjust Enterprize, than that of supporting Ragonaut Row's Pretentions to the Regency at Poona; and if the Measure itself be examined without the least Regard to the unfortunate Consequences that have happened, it will be found diametrically opposite to the wife Maxims laid down by the Company for the Conduct of their Servants, and in its Nature liable to all the Difficulties we now experience from it *.

Ragonaut Row at the Time he was first taken under our Protection, was a Fugitive without Friends or Party. His ambitious Views upon the Maratta Government had been accomplished by the treacherous Murder of his own Nephew Narrain Row, then Peshwa; after this Action, he forced the Chief Power into his own Hands; but such was the Horror which his Crimes had excited, that a general Confederacy soon appeared against him in Favour of the Insant Son of Narrain Row, and he was driven from the Maratta Dominions, and sorced to sly for Sasety to the Territories of the Company.

In this Situation, and under these Circumstances, the Government of Bombay espoused his Cause, and waged War against the prevailing Powers at Poona to replace Ragonaut Row in his usurped Authority. The Company's Arms were not successful, but by the timely Interposition of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, a Treaty of Peace was made with the Minor Pessivals and Ministers at Poona; in which it was agreed that Ragonaut Row should have an annual Stipend for his Maintenance from the Maratta Government, in Consideration of the Company; withdrawing their Protection from him, and taking no further Part in his Concerns.

By this first Step in favour of Ragonaut Row, there seems to have been a manifest Deviation from what the Company had prescribed as a fundamental Rule of Policy to be observed by all their Presidencies, viz. "to engage in no offensive Wars or Alliances with any of the Country " Powers, nor interfere in any Divisions which might lead to the Interruption of the public Tran-" quillity." But, exclusive of these wise Precautions, there were other Circumstances that should have weighed strongly against this particular Measure; and first, the Injustice of taking Part in the domestic Troubles of a State, without being called upon by the ruling Power, or having received the least Injury to provoke our Resentment, cannot but be admitted in this Case with peculiar Force, as the Party in whose Favour we acted was marked by a Crime of such a Nature, as should, with us, have effectually destroyed his Right, if he had ever possessed any. Secondly, This Measure, as might have been foreseen, was likely to be treated by the Nizam as a Breach of the Company's Engagements with him of 1768, by which it was stipulated, that the Enemies of the one should be considered as the Enemies of the other; and the Nizam had declared Ragonaut Row to be his inveterate Enemy; and expressed his Intention of affisting the Powers at Poona against him. Thirdly, The Support of this Chief had a direct Tendency to disengage the Marattas from their Wars with Hyder Ally, to which the Company had for several Years owed the Tranquillity of their Possessions on the Coast of Coromandel.

Such were the obvious Inconveniences attending the Proceedings of the Government at Bombay. As to the Advantages expected from the Alliance with Ragonaut Row, it may be fafely affirmed, that nothing was or could be proposed of sufficient Importance to justify it under the Circumstances above described.

No fooner was the Treaty of Poona concluded by the Means of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, than Ragonaut Row, from an Apprehension that the Place appointed by that Treaty for his future Residence was not safe, sted to Bombay, and again claimed the Protection of that Government; which was openly granted to him: "Ragonaut Row," say the Gentlemen at Bombay; "has resused to accept the Terms stipulated for him by Colonel Upton, thinking his "Life would be endangered by putting himself so entirely in the Power of his Enemies, and has "claimed our Protection, which we esteemed ourselves bound by every Tie of Honour and Humanity to grant him; and this the Ministers pretend to term an Infringement of the Treaty;" and well they might; What, because Ragonaut Row had thought proper to reject the Conditions made in his Behalf, and to sancy the Ministers at Poona would not afford him the Security they had promised, was it the Part of a Company's Government to protect him against the superior Obligations of a solemn Treaty? Where was the Honour of such a Conduct? Humanity, indeed, if it were at all concerned in this Case, might have been employed in autempting by fair and persuasive Means to strengthen his Security; but upon what Principle could we pretend to remedy a Desect or Omission in the Treaty, by breaking a positive Stipulation of it?

in the Treaty, by breaking a positive Stipulation of it?

The Governor General and Council of Bengal, who were the Makers and Guardians of this Treaty, appear not to have disavowed the Protection given to Ragonaut Row, for it was continued in the most open Manner from April 1776 to the Month of November or December 1777, when, in Consequence of some Divisions in the Administration at Poona, said to have been favourable to Ragonaut Row, a new Plan was eagerly formed at Bombay for supporting his Pretensions. This Measure had the express Sanction of the Governor General and Council, who approved it so much

This Judgment may seem harsh, since the Measure has been countenanced by the Court of Directors; but I persuale myself that all the Circumstances relative to it have not been stated, or at least not fairly stated, to them by their Servants, otherwise they would have conceived insurmountable Objections to every Part of the Design.

APPENDIX, Nº 325

that they proposed to join a Body of their own Troops to savour the Operations from Bombay) State Battalions of Sepoys, One Company of Native Artillery, and about a Thousand or Fifteen hundred Horse, were ordered about the End of February 1778, to march across the Peninsula for that Purpose. In the mean while the Gentlemen at Bombay were not so active as might have been ex pected. The Ardour with which they had begun, appeared fuddenly to have abated. Some Dir ficulties arose that had not been foreseen or provided for; they wrote a Letter to stop the March of the Bengal Troops which were on their Way to join them; afterwards they defired the Troops might still advance, without proposing any Object or Plan of Operations for them; and at length, to close these Inconsistencies, while the Troops were advancing they undertook the Cause of Ragonaut Row with their own Force only. The Event of this Expedition is too disgraceful to be touched upon; fuffice it to fay, that with the Experience we had already purchased in the former Attempt, with all the probable Consequences to be apprehended from this fresh Provocation of the Maratta State, and of the Nizam, to renew the Enterprize in favour of such a Man as Ragonaut Row, and with the Force of a fingle Presidency, seems to have been a Strain of Imprudence that could only be exceeded by the Choice of the Time for such an Expedition, which was after the Commencement of a national War, when the Strength of every Presidency was likely to be called forth against the common Enemy, and when Bombay itself was supposed to be in Danger of an inflant and powerful Attack from them.

Let it be remembered too in this Place, that the whole of the Proceedings concerning Ragonaut Row, from the first Alliance with him in 1775 to the late unfortunate Catastrophe, were carried on without ever consulting with the Presidency of Fort Saint George upon the Propriety of any one Measure, although from the Situation of the Company's Possessinos on the Coast of Coronandel, it be certain that their Interests were more involved in that Quarter than in any other; and had the Governments of Bengal and Bombay only waited to hear the Objections which could have been urged as winst their Proceedings from Fort Saint George, it is not impossible but that Things might have taken a more favourable Turn.

The ill Success of the last Expedition in support of Ragonaut Row has thrown the Company upon the very Brink of those Dangers which were reasonably to be apprehended from it. The Government at Bengal having resused to ratify the Treaty by which the Bombay Army was suffered to escape from the Hands of the Marattas, fresh Terms were proposed. These have now been in Discussion Four or Five Months without producing the desired Effect; though by every Information I can learn, the Marattas are well disposed to an Accommodation upon the Footing of the Treaty of 1776, which is even more than can be expected from them, considering their Success: But it is said, that General Goddard, who is negociating with them, insists upon a very large Sum of Money to desiral the Expences of our Measures in behalf of Ragonaut Row; and this, as they observe (with Justice) is a Demand of so extraordinary a Nature, that they can by no Means come into it. In the mean Time, to strengthen themselves as much as possible in case of a Rupture, they have, even during our Negociation, actually concluded a Treaty of Peace and Alliance with Hyder Ally, in order to engage his Assistance against us; and the Nizam is heartily disposed to enter into the Combination.

Whatever be the Event of these Appearances, allowing, as I hope will be the Case from the great Moderation shewn by the Marattas, that the Cloud which hangs over us shall be dispersed, still it must be consessed, that our Situation will be unpleasing enough; for, besides the Expence, the Danger, and the Disgrace into which we have successively fallen, it is certain that the Country Powers have but a very indifferent Opinion of our public Faith; and so inconsistent has been our Conduct with respect to Ragonaut Row, that the Maiattas themselves, who bear the Character of most faith-less, declare they can place no Considence in any of our Engagements, and call us a most decertful People. If such then have been the Effects produced by our political Transactions, it is high Time surely to correct our System, to scrutinize rigidly into past Measures, and to mark strongly those Parts wherein we have acted imprudently or with Inattention to our Treaties, that so we may avoid the Shame of such Imputations in suture, and recover that sacred Regard to public Faith which should accompany us in every Part of the World, and if possible be the more attended to where it will do us most Honour, among the Powers of India.

In order to affift in this necessary Retrospect, as far as my Judgment and Materials will permit, I shall endeavour to shew from our principal Treaties and Engagements, what Objects have been proposed or attained by our political Conduct; whether those Objects have been consistent with the true Interests of the Company, or the Plans laid down for the Government of their Affairs; and lastly, in what Points our present Treaties appear defective, that we may by Degrees, if it be thought necessary, rectify such Errors as shall be found still to exist in them.

With respect to our Treaties in general with the Country Powers, supposing we act upon the strict Principles of public Faith, it is evident that we lie under a great Disadvantage, arising from a contrary Disposition in the Natives, who are swayed only by the Views of Interest or Ambition, and who, notwithstanding they are constantly reminding us of our Engagements to them, certainly do not suffer the least Scruple of Faith to come in Competition with their Designs, when it suits their Convenience to execute them. I mean not to infer from this that we ought to be less mindful of the Treaties we make with them; but that we should be extremely cautious of concluding any Treaties at all; and that when we do make them, we ought to confine ourselves simply to Engagements of Peace and Friendship, and not enter into Articles which we cannot perform without Rep. VI.

Embarrassment, nor evade without a Breach of Faith. To illustrate my Opinions of such Treatie; Fshall recite a remarkable Fact, which, as it is descriptive of the Principles of every one of the native Powers, will serve better perhaps than a whole Volume of Reasoning upon the Subject.

In the Year 1766, the President and Council of Madras concluded a Treaty of Friendship and Alliance with Nizam Ally Cawn; by one Article whereof it was agreed, That the Company should furnish that Prince with a Body of Troops whenever he should require it, to settle the Affairs of his Government. The Nizam at that Time meditated a powerful Attack on the Dominions of Hyder Ally, in Conjunction with the Marattas; and it appears by the Negociation of the Treaty, that our Aid of Troops was to be first appropriated to this Service. The English Army accordingly marched and joined the Nizam's Forces in the Beginning of 1767. He carried it along with him into the Heart of Hyder's Country; and then, without even giving the Government of Madras, or the commanding Officer of the Troops acting with him, the least Intimation of his Design, he sold a Peace to Hyder for a Sum of Money; said, he had no further Occasion for our Troops, and left them to return Home in the best Manner they were able, through an Enemy's Country: But as if this Act of Treachery were yet incomplete, he soon after found a Pretence to quarrel with us; and having first involved us upon his own Account in a War with Hyder, he joined his Troops to those of our Enemy, and attacked us with as much Inveteracy as Hyder himfelf. This extraordinary Proceeding raifed a Flame which was not extinguished in lefs than $T_{
m WO}$ Years, and its Progress was marked with nothing but Devastation, Expence, and Ruin, both to the Company and the Nabob of the Carnatic. The Reslection of the Court of Directors upon the Conduct of their Servants on this Occasion, was just enough: "The general Alliance," fay they, " with the Soubah and the Marattas, produced the Effect we shall always expect from Alliances " among Powers uncontrolled by the Law of Nations, or any Principle to establish good Faith among them."

In examining our principal Treaties with Nizam Ally Cawn, Hyder Ally, and the Warattas, it will appear that they all originated in Propofals and Schemes of our own, tending to the further Aggrandizement of ourselves or our Neighbours, and comprizing Measures of such a Nature at were calculated only to involve us in the Wars that followed them. But this was not the only Inconvenience arising from our ill-judged Treaties: The Wars we were involved in could not be closed without new Treaties and Engagements, which contained the Seeds of suture Wars; so that for the last Fourteen Years the Company have been proceeding in a perpetual Round of Treaties, Wars, and Negociations; and are now plunged into fuch a Multiplicity of Engagements, that there is no Safety but in returning, if it be practicable, to the Point from whence they fet out, and there endeavouring to fix themselves. These Observations, however strange they may seem, will be verified in the following short History of our Treaties.

Our first Treaty with the Nizam was concluded at Hyderabad the 12th November 1766, and deserves particular Consideration. We had in the Year 1765 obtained the Mogul's Phirmaunds, or Grants, for the Five Northern Circars; Ellore, Rajahmundry, Mustaphanagur, Cicacole and Guntoor, as a free Gift, without Tribute or Tax of any Kind. As these extensive Districts were then in the Possession of the Nizam, who certainly could not be pleased to have them thus abfeinded from his Government, it was thought advisable to obtain his Confent to our Enjoyment of them; not from any Apprehension of his Power, which was too weak to have resisted any Attempt to possess ourselves of these Countries by force; but from a Desire of accommodating our Rights as much as possible to his Inclinations, that to we might be secure from the Disturbance which he was capable of giving to us in the Collection of the Revenues. This was an Advantage that merited some Sacrifice; and if it had been purchased by the Payment of a Sum of Money, in the Way of Friendship, or by any other Means consistent with the Company's Honour, and the Tranquillity of their Possessions, the Measure must undoubtedly have been approved. But in the Treaty that was made on this Occasion, such Concessions were granted, as will appear astonishing for so small an Object. In the first Place, the Company's Right to the Circars under the Mogul's Phirmaund was given up, and the Nizam's Grant taken in lieu of it. 2dly. The Company were made to pay Five Lacks of Rupees annually to the Nizam for the Circars of Rajahmundry, Ellore and Multaphanagur, and for those of Cicacole and Guntoor, as soon as they should be put into their Hands, Two Lacks each; in all Nine Lacks of Rupees per Annum, which was supposed to be as much, if not more, than the Nizam ever received from them before they were granted to us. 3dly. The Circar of Guntoor, which was included in the Mogul's Phirmaund, was allowed to remain as a Jagueer with the Nizam's Brother, and to revert to the Company only at the Decease of that. Prince. 4thly. The Nabob Mahomed Ally Cawn was in this Treaty released by the Nizam from all Demands, past, present, and to come, on Account of the Carnatic, for Five Lacks of Rupees, † while the Company were taxed with a Tribute of Nine Lacks of Rupees per Annum for the Letter from England, 25th March 1768.

† When the Mogul granted the Circars to the Company, he gave the Nabob a Phirmaund to hold the Carnatic independant of the Soubah of the Decan, and this being a Measure which must have displeased the Soubah, at least as much as the Grant of the Circars to the Company, I cannot help thinking it strange, that the Nabob should have obtained his Consent and a Release from all Demands on the Carnatic, for 5 Lacks of Rupees, at the Time the Company were facristicing so largely for the quiet Possessions of a few Districts. It would seem as if we had been made to pay for the Nabob and ourselves too. and ourfelves too.

A PPENDIX, Nº 325.

Five Circurs only. 5thly. To crown all, the Company were obliged to affift the Nizam with & Body of Troops to settle the Affairs of his Government whenever he should require it; an Article of itself worth all the Circars put together, not only from its probable, but its actual Consequences; since we became instantly embroiled by it in a War with Hyder Ally, the most ruinous we had ever engaged in, and productive of Treaties which have since created nothing but Risk, Fmbarraffment, and Loss of Reputation. *

In this War, as I have already mentioned, our new Friend and Ally, to whom we had made fuch ample Concessions, was guilty of that consummate Piece of Treachery which I have before noticed, and which ended in his joining Hyder against us. But our Arms proving successful in the Beginning of the War, he detached himself from Hyder with the same Facility that he had separated from us, and having made Overtures of Peace, a new Treaty of Friendship and Alliance was concluded with him in February 1768.

The Contest still continued between the Company and Hyder Ally, until the Month of April 1769, when the Government of Madras entered into a Treaty with that Power, which though it restored Peace to the Carnatic, proved the Source of much future Embarrassment and Loss of Reputation to the Company; fo that after a War that laid waste the Carnatic, and cost £. 600,000 Sterling, with the Lives of a confiderable Number of Men, for all which no fort of Equivalent was obtained, either in Territory or Money, our political Situation became more intricate and perplexing than ever.

Having made so unfortunate an End of our first Step in offensive Treaties, the Dictates of Prudence certainly sorbad us to engage in any further Schemes of the like Nature; and yet, scarcely had the Company been allowed Time to recover from the ruinous Effects of the War with Hyder Ally, when their Government at Bombay brought them into fresh Troubles; first, by seizing on the Islands of Salsette and Caranja, belonging to the Marattas (without any Provocation that I could ever learn) and then, by engaging in the Support of Ragonaut Row, and entering into an open War with the Marattas in Favour of that Chief's Pretensions. The Motives which induced the Government at Bombay to embrace this last Measure, will be best explained by the following Extract of their Letter to Madras on the Occasion; and by reciting the 4th Article of their Treaty with Ragonaut Row.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor and Council of Bombay, to the Governor and Council of Fort St. George, dated 10th April 1775.

"Your Honour, &c. we make no Doubt are perfectly well acquainted with the Divisions at present subsisting in the Maratta Empire. We have deemed it for the Interest of our Honourable "Employers, to embrace the Cause of Ragonaut Row against his Enemies, the ministerial Party; and our Army, to the Number of 2,500 Men, have in consequence proceeded to Cambay to " his Affistance. And though his Affairs, owing to his Miscarriages a short Time before our Forces " fet out, do not wear the most favourable Aspett, yet we hope when our Forces shall join the Re" mainder of his Army, they will be quickly retrieved," &c.

Extract of the 4th Article of the Treaty with Ragonaut Row; dated 6th March 1775.

" The Honourable the President and Council of Bombay, in Behalf of the Honousable Company, " and in Consideration of the undermentioned Grants and Cessions made by Ragonaut Row to the Company, do hereby engage and agree, so soon as these Articles of Agreement and Treaty are fully " ratified on the Part of Ragonaut Row, to affift him with a strong Body of Forces, with proper "Guns and Warlike Stores, and a Field Train of Artillery, which are to join his Army and act in " Conjunction with his Forces against his Enemies, the ministerial Party, &c."

Such were the Grounds of our first Alliance with Ragonaut Row; which having immediately led to all the Consequences stated in the former Part of these Reslections, it becomes unnecessary in this Place to examine more particularly than I have already done, the Reasons assigned for abrogating the Treaty of Poona, and concluding a Second offensive Alliance for restoring Ragonaut Row to the Government; the Rise, Progress, and Result, of these Transactions; are sufficiently known and felt.

But as if the Measure of our Experience were not yet full, while Matters at Bombay were in such a State, that it was yet doubtful whether the last Treaty with Ragonaut Row would take place, the Governor General and Council of Bengal formed the Scheme of an offensive and defenlive Alliance with the Rajah of Berar, Chief of a Maratta Province, bordering on the Territories of Bengal. When we see those Gentlemen whom the Legislature hath appointed to superintend over our Wars and Treaties, moving by themselves in a Sphere of Action which requires so much

^{*} The Court of Directors severely, but with great Justice, condemned the whole of this Treaty, in their Letters to Fort Saint George on the 25th Match, 5th April, and 13th May, 1768. These Letters deserve much Praise, as containing the most sensible Reslections on the past Conduct of their Servants, and the wisest Maxims in my Opinion that could possibly be laid down to the Conduct of their Assistance. be laid down for the future Government of their Affairs. Ability, Ability, as well as Dignity and Propriety of Conduct; we should be naturally inclined to expect fome Instances of peculiar Skill in Negociation; of great Discernment in tracing and consulting is true Interests of the Company; and of the most studied Attention to the Faith of former existing Treaties. Let us see how far their Conduct may have answered such Expectations.

We must remember here, that after the Governor General and Council of Bengal had given . Presidency-at Bombay a Power of concluding the Second Treaty with Ragonaut Row, which was to place him in the Administration at Poona, there suddenly appeared an unaccountable Slackness in the Measures of that Presidency, sufficient at least to alarm the Governor General and Council, who had sent a considerable Body of Troops across the Country to support those Measures. Find ing themselves deceived in their Hopes of a more vigorous Conduct on the Side of Bombay, and their Troops being now advanced into the Maratta Countries, as far I believe as the Borders of the Berar Province, it became requisite to seek some Expedient for saving their Credit in the Part they had taken. This apparently gave Rife to the Negociation which it was proposed to open with the Rajah of Berar; and the Measure was quickened by a Circumstance that should in Reason have delayed it—the Advice received at that Time of our Rupture with France.

Moodajee Boossa, Rajah of Berar, is in Fact no more than a Vassal of the Maratta Government, and owes the same Allegiance with all the other Chiefs scattered through that wide Empire. Such a Man at first Sight would not appear a fit Subject to raise to the Dignity of an Ally; and there. fore to remedy this Defect, it was discovered that he had some distant Pretensions to the Sove. reignty of the Maratta State; distant indeed, or extremely unavailing, fince they were never advanced or supported (at least so I learn) until the Governor General and Council of Bengal took that Office upon themselves.

With this Man then, it was proposed to enter into an Alliance of a more extensive and important Kind than any which appears in the Annals of the Company. The Agent employed on this Occasion, was first instructed to make it desensive, then conditionally to extend it to offensive;

Objects of fuch a Nature as would have involved the whole Peninfula in a Flame.

" If," say the Gentlemen at Bengal in their Instructions to their Minister, " from Mr. Mostyn's to "Advices, or the Information you can obtain on the Spot, you are assured that the Presidence of Bombay have not entered into any new Engagement either with Ragonaut Row, or any other  Party among the Marattas, which may clash with the Tenor of the following Instructions: If " you shall at the same Time understand, either that a French Force is actually arrived at Poone, " or is expetted; or that the Chevalier St. Lubin + is still there; or, if you are convinced from other " Circumstances, of the Existence of the Engagements which we suppose to have been formed between him and the Ministers; or even if no Circumstance shall have come to your Knowledge that may afford you Cause to doubt it; in these Cases we authorize you to make an Offer to Moodajee Boosla, " to unite with him in a direct and open War with the ministerial Party of Poona." Such a Latitude to close in a Measure of the first Importance, without waiting even for the Sanction of his Superiors, and upon Information wherein the Negociator might be very much deceived, with all his Diligence, was never before, I believe, given to any public Minister; at least, when the Stake was so great as that which was to be hazarded by this Treaty.

But after all, What was the Object of these bold and offensive Measures? There had for some Time been at the Court of Poona, a French Agent, whose Commission was not certainly known, but it was supposed, from some doubtful Intelligence, that he had made an Agreement on the Part of the French Nation, to supply the Marattas with Troops and Stores. Allowing the Fact, was this a sufficient Reason for plunging us into a distant War, against a powerful Nation, before we knew the Extent of those Supplies, to what Objects they were directed, or what Calls we might have for our Armies in Desence of our own Settlements? Besides, were it not unreasonable to the last Degree, to imagine that the French had either the Means or the Will to extend their Influence at Poona to any alarming Length, while their own Establishments in every Part of India were ablolutely starving for Want of Supplies of all Kinds, and in Danger of finking under the first Attempt that might be made upon them?

The Imprudence of the proposed Alliance and Union with the Rajah of Berar, appears in a much stronger Light still, if we consider the Motives intended to be offered as an Encouragement to engage him in our Measures. The Bengal Agent was instructed at his Discretion to enter into an express Treaty for supporting Moodajee Boosla's Pretensions to the Sovereignty of the Maratta State: And he was authorized likewife, if Moodajee should press it, to engage our Assistance for the Recovery of some Conquests made from him a sew Years ago by Nizam Ally Cawn; adding thereby a new Enemy to the Number already upon our Hands.

But what contributes more than any Thing I have yet mentioned, to give this whole Proceeding a peculiar Air of Wildness, is, that at the very Time is was in Agitation, the Government at Bombay had Authority from Bengal to conclude an Engagement for affilting Ragonaut Row in his Pretensions to the Government at Poona. There was also at that Time an existing Treaty of Friendship with the actual Power in the Maratta State (which that People in general considered as the legal one) confifting of the minor Peshwah and his Ministers. And we had likewise a Treaty of Brick Friendship and Alliance with the Nizam, made in 1768, which was directly struck at by the proposed Measure of assisting the Rajah of Berar in an offensive War against him. Here then appears to our View the strangest Scene of Politics that can well be conceived. Various and contending Claims. Interests and Pretensions raised by our absurd and contradictory Engagements; and all of them supported occasionally by our shifting from one to another, as our supposed Interest leads, without regard to Treaties, and in direct Opposition to the fundamental Orders and Maxims of the Company*.

^{*} The Company's Refident at Poons. 1 A supposed Agent with Powers from the Court of France.

PPENDIX, N° 325:

Having now given my Opinion of Treaties in general with the Country Powers, and attempted to shew, by a Deduction from our principal Treaties, that the only Misfortunes sustained by the Company in India, have been occasioned by a Train of very imprudent and offensive Measures, I shall proceed with great Considence to lay down the following Positions; first, That all Sorts of Engagements, offensive and defensive, with the native Powers of India, are dangerous, and inconfiftent with the Views of a trading Company, as leading them frequently into Measures much beyond their real Strength; and diverting those Resources to the Purposes of War, which are intended for the Purposes of Commerce. Secondly, That the Company have already, or might have with very little more Expence, a Force sufficient in itself to protect all their Possessions from Insult, without any foreign Alliance whatever; and that if they cannot depend upon their own Force for this Security, it were better to give up what they cannot themselves desend, than call upon a Country Power to affift them.

In these Sentiments I think all reasonable Men will agree, who restect how little we have gained, and how feverely we have fuffered, by our past Alliances. It has been too much the Fault of the Company's Servants in India to confider the Company as a great Power, whose extensive Possessions made it expedient for them to take an active Part in the Politics of the Country; and to aim at preserving a Balance among the neighbouring States; an Idea which led them at once, as we have seen, from the solid and immediate Interests of the Company, in Pursuit of distant Objects which restented nothing but Infecurity and Danger.

The Company themselves very justly observed to their Servants, upon the Treaty with the Nizam in 1766+, " If it had not been for the imprudent Measures you have taken, the Country Powers " would have formed a Balance of Power among themselves, and their Divisions would have left " us in Peace:" And again t, " Conscious of our own Superiority in India, it seems to be our proper " Line of Conduct to observe a steady Neutrality till such Time as our own Dignity and Interest " call upon us to interfere, and then a favourable Moment should be seized, &c. The Dissensions " among the Indian Powers can only ferve to augment our Confequence: And while we show our "Strength, and keep it up, we shall be courted equally by all Parties: The Moment we take a "Side we make Enemies of all but One."

To correct the Imperfections which pervade the prefent System, and to extricate the Company from the Difficulties in which their Wars and Treaties have involved them, will certainly be a Work of Time; but it should be an Object continually present with them, and accomplished by Degrees, as Opportunities may offer: For I do maintain, that the only Way to a permanent Sasety is, to retreat back to their former Limits, to entrench themselves within their own Power, and confine their Views folely to the Prefervation and Defence of what they have already acquired, without suffering any Temptation, however great, to lead them farther §. I would even propose that a severe Penalty should be inslitted upon any of their Servents who shall transgress these Bounds. The Company, in their Letter to Madras of the 13th May 1768, fay, "The Dewanny of Bengal, Bahar and "Orixa, with the Possessions we note in those Provinces, are the utmost Limits of our Views on that Side of India; on the Coast, the Protection of the Carnatic, and the Possession of the Circars, free from all Engagements to support the Soubah of the Decan, or even without the Circars, free from all Engagements to support the Soubah of the Decan, or even without the Circars, free from all Engagements to support the Soubah of the Decan, or even without the Circars, free from all Engagements to support the Soubah of the Decan, or even without the Circars, free from all Engagements to support the Soubah of the Decan, or even without the Circars and the Possession of the Decan, or even without the Circars and the Decan and the Decan are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Coast and the Possession of the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of our Views on the Circars are the utmost Limits of the Circars are the utmost Limits of the Circars are the utmost Limits of the Circars are the utmost Limits of the Circars are the utmost Limits of the University of the Circars are the utmost Limits of the University of the University of the University of the University of the University of the University of the University of the University of the University o "cars, preferving only Influence enough over any Country Power who may hold them, to keep the French from settling in them; and on the Bombay Side the Dependencies thereof, the Possessions of Salsette, Bassein, and the Castle of Surat; the Protection of these is easily within " the Reach of our Power, and may mutually support each other without any Country Alliance " whatever. ‡ Letter from the Company to the Select Committee at Madras, 10th April 1771.

§ The Charters granted to the Company have no Tendency to enable the Company to enter into offensive Wars; and great Circumfpection is necessary in the Alliances they enter into with the Indian Powers, lest the Assistance they afford under such Treaties should give just Cause of Umbrage and Resentment to European Powers, and kindle the Sparks of a new War in Europe. We never thought that an offensive or desensive Alliance with an Indian Prince against all the World, was warranted by the Company's Charter or the Laws of Nations. In case of Attacks, the India Company have a Right not only to repel Invaders, but to obtain Satisfaction for Injuries they may have sustained. Letter from the Court of Directors to Madras, 25th March 1768.

" shall find no Security but in the Subjection of the Whole; which, by dividing your Force, would " lose us the Whole, and end in our Extirpation from Indostan."

You will observe by the whole Tenor of these Dispatches, that our Views are not to enfer into " offensive Wars in India, or to make any further Acquisitions beyond our present Possessions." "We do not wish to enter into any Engagements which may be productive of enormous Ex-" pences, and which are seldom calculated to promote the Company's essential Interests; on the "contrary, we wish to see the present Indian Powers remain as a Check one upon another, without our our interfering: Therefore we recommend to you so soon as possible to bring about a Peace out our interfering: Therefore we recommend to you so soon as possible to bring about a Peace upon Terms of the most perfect Moderation on the Part of the Company; and when made, to "adhere to it upon all future Occasions, except when the Company's Possessions are usually attacked; and not to be provoked by fresh Disturbances of the Country Powers to enter into new " Wars."

I propose now to point out the Desects subsisting in the present Treaties of Alliance with the Country Powers; and which I wish to be remedied as Occasion may offer, without exposing the Company to any Imputation of Breach of Faith. And first I shall name as Defects, all Articles in general which may be construed into offensive or defensive Engagements: For I am satisfied, exclusive of the Dangers and Inconveniences I have before recited, that the Company may, in another Respect, be faid to make very bad Bargains whenever they conclude fuch Treaties: For what Advantage can they expect in either offensive or defensive Operations that regard themselves by a Junction of the Troops, or rather Rabble of a Country Ally, with their own regular and disciplined Forces? And, on the contrary, What Advantages may not such an Ally expect from their Assistance in any Undertaking whatsoever? In another View likewise the Difference is equally striking; the Loss of European Officers and Soldiers to the Company is an Hundred-fold greater than the Loss of Natives can be to any Ally; and this is a Circumstance of no small Moment in the Estimate of such Bargains.

Our Treaty with Hyder Ally, made at Madras in April 1769, contains an Article of defensive Alliance, which has fince been productive of infinite Embarrassiment to the Company's Servants.—It is the Second Article, which runs in these Words, "In case either of the contracting Parties shall be attacked, they shall, from their respective Countries, mutually assist each other to drive the Enemy out, &c." At that Time Hyder had Reason to apprehend a powerful Attack on his Country from the Marattas, and proposed the above Article with a View of engaging our Support. The Company's Servants were aware of the Design, and endeavoured all in their Power to evade it; but as Hyder would come to no Accommodation on any other Terms, it was thought expedient to yield in the then Situation of Affairs; and the Article was inserted accordingly. Every Thing that was foreseen soon after happened: The Marattas invaded Hyder's Country upon all Sides: Hyder claimed Assistance from us in Terms of the Treaty: Excuses were made, under the Pretence that it was necessary to wait for Orders from the Company: The Nabob too feemed extremely averse to our joining Hyder; and went so far as to propose that we should even assist the Marattas against him. The King's Minister Plenipotentiary, who was then at the Nabob's Court, supported these Opinions, and strongly pressed the Government to adopt them; which was a little remarkable, considering that this Officer of the Crown was sent out, as he himself declared, to support the Honour of the Company and the Nation; and to enforce it particularly in the Observance of Treaties. However, notwithstanding the Pains taken by this Gentleman, and by his Succeffor in Office, to instigate the Company's Servants into a War against the Man whom they were bound by Treaty to affilt, they were too firm to be moved, and this Firmness deservedly gained them the Applause of their Masters; though it would have been still more commendable, if Circumstances had permitted them, to carry it a little further, by fending Succours to Hyder agreeably to their Engagements: But the Nabob's Aversion to the Measure was certainly a great Obstacle; and indeed, without his hearty Support and Concurrence, nothing of this Kind could well have been attempted.

The Company in their Letter to the Select Committee at Madras, dated the 10th April 1771, fpeak of this defensive Alliance in the following Terms:

" We cannot but consider the defensive Alliance (with Hyder) as a Source of infinite Evils; and " we hope that no temporary Confideration will in any future Time induce our Servants to em-" barrafs us with Claims, the fulfilling of which may tend to wound our commercial Interests, and " endanger the public Tranquillity; and the Refusal whereof may in any Degree be construed as an

" Impeachment of our Honour."

With respect to the Treaty with the Nizam, concluded in February 1768, there are some Defects for which it seems difficult to account; since the Government at Madras could not plead the fame political Necessity for embarrassing the Company with Claims that operated in the Case of They had just obtained a decisive Advantage in the War, and by their Treaty with Hyder. marching a Detachment of Troops towards the Nizam's Capital, had in a Manner compelled him to fue for Peace. This was the Time therefore to get rid entirely of those inconvenient Articles in their former Treaty of 1766, which had brought them into so many Difficulties; and this feems indeed to have been their professed Intention at the Beginning of their new Agreement: But before they reach the End of it, they lose Sight of the Object and stipulate fresh Articles of the same Tendency, tho' not quite so impolitic as those of 1766. Thus in the 5th Article they saddle the Company with an annual Peiscush, or Tribute, for the Northern Circars, which now by that that. Treaty is rifen to the enormous Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees per Annum: And in the 6th Article it is faid, that, "The Company, and the Nabob Waw Law Jaw, willing however to shew " their voluntary Attachment to the Soubah, will always be ready to fend Two Battalions of Sepoys, and Six Field Pieces, manned by Europeans, whenever the Soubah shall require them, and " the Situation of their Affairs will allow, &cc."

The Nizam has not yet indeed made any Demand of the Assistance above stipulated; but when he does require it, the Company may probably be as much embarrassed as they were by the Claims of Hyder; and if they comply with such a Requisition, they may again see the same Troubles that followed their Compliance with the like Article in the Treaty of 1766.

As to the Peiscush, there is at this Time nearly the Amount of Three Years, or 15 Lacks of Rupees, due to the Nizam; and the Non-payment of it for fo long a Term has excited Apprehensions in his Mind, that we mean to withhold it all together; tho in Fact the Desiciency has been occasioned by an unexpected Failure in our Receipts from the Circars, and by the great Expences of the War, which has disabled us from making the necessary Payments. The Stipulation however is in itself not only burthensome, but disgraceful; and by being inserted in a public Treaty, without any Refervation whatever, the Non-payment of it subjects us to the Charge of a Breach of Faith.

The proposed Treaty with the Rajah of Berar, should it have taken place, or be still intended, either in whole or in part (of which I am not able to learn) will inevitably create Embarraffinent without End. A defensive Alliance, even with such a Man, under all the Circumstances I have mentioned, would be full of Danger, without producing one fingle Advantage to the Company. The Country Powers are not capable of diftinguishing between a defensive and an offensive Treaty: and were we to defend the Rajah of Berar with our Troops against the Attack of any other Power, we should unavoidably make an Enemy of that Power, just as effectually as if we had entered into an offensive War, to despoil him of his Possessions, or overturn his Government. As to any Advantage that might be expected on our Side by introducing Ten or Twenty thousand Maratta Horse into the Provinces of Bengal to defend them in case of an Invasion, I am humbly of Opinion, that any Stipulation of this Kind were better let alone; for exclusive of the Pay of so large a Body of Cavalry, which must be provided for, it is to be feared that such Defenders would do more Mischief than any Invaders we could possibly be troubled with *.

Having thus pointed out what I conceive to be great Imperfections in the fublifting Treaties with Hyder Ally and the Nizam, and in the proposed Alliance with the Rajah of Berar, I should proceed also to examine our Engagements with Ragonaut Row and with the Maratta State; but as there will probably undergo confiderable Alterations in the Event of a new Treaty upon the Settlement of the present Differences, it may be proper only to observe in general, that the Marattas have always been considered as the worst Allies that are to be found among the Indian States. Altho' they have appeared to some Advantage in their late Transactions with us, they certainly have themselves no Idea of abiding by any public Engagement longer than it may be for their lirterest so to do. In Wars, their sole Object is Devastation and Plunder; and in this Respect they make so little Distinction between Friends and Enemies, that it is almost as dangerous to act with them as against them.

Should the System, which I have ventured to recommend, of a perfest Neutrality, be disapproved, and the Company think it necessary to prosecute the Idea adopted by their Servants, of taking Part in the Disputes of the Country Powers; the ambitious Designs of the Marattas point out Hyder Ally as the Person to be supported against them, because he is the sole Power of any Consequence remaining, who has not submitted to their Yoke, and because his Country is situated between their Possessions and the Carnatic; and should it ever fall into the Hands of the Marattas they would probably become very troublefome Neighbours, both to the Nabob and the Company. This Support, however, if it be given at all, ought not I think to be expressed in the common Form of a defensive Alliance, which may leave it in his Option to call for our Affishance whenever he is attacked, but rather promised in these general Terms: "That while he remained in Peace and " Friendship with the Company he might be affured we should never join his Enemies against " him, and that if he be at any Time in Danger of being overpowered by them, we shall then " give him Affistance as far as our Circumstances and Situation may permit;" or if this be going

^{*} It may perhaps appear extraordinary that the most important Negociations that were ever yet set on Foot in India, should have been all entrusted in the Hands of Military Officers: The Negociation and Treaty of 1766 with the Nizam, were conducted by General Caillaud; the Negociation and Treaty concluded at Poona in 1777, were entrusted to Colonel Upton; the Negociation of the proposed Treaty with the Rajah of Berar, upon the Death of Mr. Essiot, the Gentleman first employed, was transferred to General (then Colonel) Goddard; and the Negociation of Peace, now or lately on Foot with the Marattas, was entrusted to the same Officer. That Military Officers are possessed of as much Zeal for the Public Service as any other Men, cannot be questioned; but they have no Opportunities of acquiring the least Knowledge of the Commercial or Political Interests of the Company, and the Habits of their Profession give them too strong a Bias to the Side of War. The Company upon the Occasion of General Caillaud's being employed to conclude the Treaty with the Nizam in 1766, writes as follows, "We must observe to you, that we think it very extraordinary, that the whole Negociation with the Soubah should have been conducted by a Military Officer, unaccompanded by a Civil Servant: When Mr. Pybus's Illness was known, another should have been immediately appointed, for it is highly displeasing to us, and contrary to our Orders, that a Military Officer should be alone employed in Negociations of our Commercial or Political Interest."

too far, let it be a general Instruction to the Company's Servants, without pledging themselves at all, to give him Assistance in case they see him at any Time in Danger of being totally subdued by the Marattas, leaving the Quantum and Nature of it to their Discretion.

I have now gone through all that I have to fay on the Subject of Foreign Treaties and Alliances, Our Home Politics, in which I include the Engagements sublisting between the Company, and such Princes as are closely united with them in Friendship and Interests, form a distinct Branch, which is conducted upon Principles very different from those of our Foreign Alliances, though as yet without any regular System whereby the precise Nature and Extent of these Engagements can be afcertained, or any Line drawn for the Government of those in whose Hands the Preservation of them is intrusted.

The First and most distinguished of our Connections, is that which has been long formed with the present Nabob of the Carnatic. The Cause and Progress of this Alliance have been often traced, and are now so generally known, that it were superfluous to dwell upon them. It began upon a Principle of mutual Advantage, and has been cementing during a Series of more than 30 Years, by the Exchange of all Sorts of good Offices; so that at this Time or at least very lately, it might be said to have ripened into a sincere and equal Attachment. Much indeed were it to be wished that all our Alliances had been formed on the same Principles, and that we had never taken Advantage of our Strength to establish a Superiority which might perhaps have been as well or as permanently acquired by more justistable Means. Our Instrucce in the Carnatic is sounded on the free Will and Consent of the Nabob; from his Considence in our Attachment and our Power, he requested of his own Accord that the Company might garrison his Forts and maintain Troops at his Expence, for the Protection of the Carnatic. Such a Considence ought never to be abused: To have deserved it, restects Honour upon our Moderation; to abuse it, would be to throw an indelible Stain upon our Character and Memory.

I have often wondered that a Connection of more than 30 Years standing should have subsisted, without any specific Treaty or Agreement; for I do not remember that any was ever yet formed between the Company and the Nabob; possibly it may be owing to this Circumstance that their Friendship has continued so long. Where express Stipulations are established as the Ground of an Alliance, the Parties are so much upon their Guard, and so watchful of the Conduct of each other, that Jealousy and Distrust too often assume the Place of Confidence and good Will. These Inconveniencies are more likely to be felt where the Intercourse is frequent and even constant, as that which has always existed between the Nabob and the Company. By maintaining a Connection upon the mutual Exchange of good Offices, without expressly defining the Views and Wishes of either Party, such a Latitude is given, as cannot fail of producing Confidence and Friendship. In these Cases Misunderstandings when they happen, are removed by liberal Explanations and Arguments drawn from general Officions, and not by the Construction of Words and Phrases which may admit of various Opinions, and be strained occasionally to the Views and

But although it be allowed that such Advantages have arisen from the Nature of our Connection with the Nabob; yet in another View, it must be confessed, that the want of some precise Line for the Guidance of the Company's Servants in their Intercourse with him hath been and must continue to be productive of much Embarrassment: For Example, The Nabob has always been considered and treated by the Company as an independent Prince; an Union of Interests and of Measures has generally taken place between them, and at his Request, a certain Force is continually kept up under the Company's Authority for the Defence of the Carnatic: It has not however yet been fettled how far the Nabob in virtue of his Independency, or the Company in the Character of his Friends and Protectors, should direct and superintend the Interests of the Carnatic. If this Privilege belong folely to the Nabob, and he (as is natural to suppose) should wish to exercise it, then the Company may without, and even against their Consent, be drawn into Measures directly affecting their own Interests and Possessions; for it is not possible in any Case to separate their Cause from that of the Nabob without totally giving up all Concern in his Affairs. On the other Hand; if the Company in virtue of their Character, as Protectors of the Nabob's Government, claim the Right of directing the Interests of the Carnatic, then they infringe the acknowledged Independency of the Nabob, and become in Fact the Rulers instead of the Defenders of his Country. It feems reasonable indeed that the Company, who have taken upon themselves the Office of Protector, should be allowed the Lead in all political Transactions that affect the Carnatic, and this the Nabob has hitherto generally admitted; but there are Instances on Record, where he has claimed the Privilege of acting for himself, even in Opposition to the Advice and Remonstrances of the Company's Government, and it is upon these Occasions that the Company's Servants will always find themselves perplexed, until it be absolutely determined how far they or the Nabob are to yield upon any Differences in Opinion.

There are other Embarrassiments of a different Nature attending the close Connection we have with the Nabob, which do not come so properly within my present Purpose to mention; but it is certain, that all the Inconveniences we suffer are amply conpensated by the Advantages derived from an exclusive Influence in the Nabob's Country, sufficient to establish a decided Superiority, and to prevent all Competitors, European or Native, from hurting the Commerce or disturbing the Possessions of the Company. It is unquestionably to this Insluence that we are indebted for a great Part of our Prosperity, for our Success against the French in India the last War, and for the declive Stroke made against them so early in the present War, to which, as Affairs have since turned out, we owe perhaps our present Existence in the East.

Under these Circumstances, if our Gratitude alone be too weak a Tie to bind us to the Nabob, , a Sense of Interest should teach us the Importance of so useful an Attachment; and by shewing how much we have profited and may still profit by it, instruct us on the other Hand how different our Situation would have been, and may still be, if that Attachment should ever be dissolved, or transferred to our Rivals.

But it has been often urged, that the Benefits refulting from this Connection are reciprocal, and that the Nabob having received the same Advantage from our Alliance and Support that we have derived from his Friendship, is equally bound upon Principles of Gratitude and of Interest to remain stedfast in his Attachment to the Company. There can be no Doubt that the Nabob owes the Possessin and Security of his Government to the Company; and he has never been wanting in Acknowledgments for their Favour and Protection; tho' it be certain that the Support of the Company was originally given to him, not upon his Account, but their own: And that having effectually answered their own Purposes by establishing him in his Government, the numerous Gists and Favours he has fince bestowed on them ought to be considered rather as Earnests of his Attachment than Returns for Benefits received.

Such being the State of our Connection with the Nabob, it were extremely to be wished, that nothing had been ever done by us which might tend to impress on his Mind any unfavourable Ideas of our Justice, or the Sincerity of our Attachment. There is Reason however to believe, that the late Transactions relative to Tanjore, have produced this Effect in a remarkable Degree; and as I conceive it to be properly connected with my present Subject to touch upon those Measures, I shall do it with all due Deference to the respectable Opinions that have been already advanced, and more with a View to the Justice and Policy of our Conduct, than to any personal Regards what-

While the Province of Tanjore was subject only to the Claims of the Mogul, and to such Demands and Pretentions as were usually advanced by the Nabobs of the Carnatic, the Company had properly no other Concern in that Government than to maintain a friendly Correspondence with the Person who might happen to be the Rajah; nor did they ever pretend the smallest Right to interfere in its Affairs until the Year 1762, when their Servants made a Treaty between the Nabob and the Rajah, which gave Rife to all the subsequent Measures relative to Tanjore.

This Treaty, to which the Company became Guarantees, was framed by their Servants in the Character of Arbitrators: But the Claims of these Princes upon each other were not voluntarily submitted to their Decision; and it would be difficult to conceive any other equitable Ground upon which they could act as Arbitrators *. A proper Attention to this Circumstance is absolutely neceffary to form a right Judgment of the Treaty of 1762. It is indifputable from the Records of the Company, and avowed indeed by those who made and have defended this Treaty, that the Company's Servants in adjusting the Pretensions of the Nabob and the Rajah, decided entirely by their own Ideas of Justice, and obliged both Parties to conform to their Decisions. An Authority of this Kind is without Doubt necessary to an Arbitrator; but it can be founded only on his being voluntarily chosen by both Parties to adjust their Differences; and their being mutually bound to each other, and to him, to abide by his Award, whatever it may be. If this Formality were obferved in settling the Treaty of 1762, the Conduct of the Company's Servants must be deemed unexceptionable in every Part; but if it were wanting altogether, or there were any material Defect in it, then their Proceedings, under the Malk only of Jullice, became highly injurious to both Parties, and might have been disputed with as much Propriety as an Individual might dispute any Attempt to wrest from him his undoubted Property.

That the Nabob gave no fuch previous Confent, as I have mentioned, to the Appointment of the Company's Servants as Arbitrators of his Differences with the Rajah, or any Promife to be bound by their Decifions, is evident from his Correspondence with the Governor at that Period. By this it appears, that the Company's Servants were defirous of interposing their Mediation to adjust the Claims of the Nabob and the Rajah. That both Parties in consequence stated their respective Demands; that the Nabob's went much further than the Company's Servants seemed inclined to allow; and that the Company's Servants thereupon framed their Objections, which were answered by the Nabob, in a Manner that sufficiently shewed his Dislike to their Proceedings. Upon the Whole, there appears not the least Room to doubt, that nothing but the decided Influence and Superiority which the Company's Servants had then lately acquired by the Expulsion of the French from the Country, and his Fears of giving Offence to them, could have prevailed with

REP. VI. the. (m)

An indifferent Person reading the Accounts of this Treaty, and particularly that published in a Book called Lord Pigot's Defence, would suppose that Lord (then Mr.) Pigot, who was the prime Mover in the Treaty, was some great Monarch, and that the Nabob and the Raja of Tanjore were his Vassals, whose Differences he condescended to adjust in his own Way; for in the Book abovementioned, after speaking with much Encomium on Lord Pigot's Decision upon the Merits and Claims of the respective Parties, the Writer goes on to observe: "To reward the Fidelity of the one, "and check the Ambition of the other, Lord Pigot adopted the only essential Measure. He guarantied the Kingdom of Tanior to Pertaub Sing and his Descendents;" which is repeated also a Second Time with peculiar Emphasis, Page 40, and 41.

the Nabob to fet his Name to a Treaty which he confidered as depriving him of his most estential Rights *.

With respect to the Rajah of Tanjore, so far were the Company's Servants from consulting his Inclinations before Hand, that when they had brought the Nabob's Demands down to what they thought reasonable, they drew out the Treaty between him and the Rajah; got the Nabob first to fign it, and then sent it in this State to Tanjore by their Agent, with Instructions to him, " to endeavour to prevail on the Rajah to accept the Terms proposed +." But what appears still more cx-traordinary in this Transaction is, that the Company's Guarantee was affixed to the Treaty before it was fent to the Rajah for his Acceptance, with this Expression, "We do hereby promise to guarantee the Performance of the said Treaty, being thereunto invited by both Parties:" From whence it feems reasonable to conclude, that the same Guarantee was likewise tendered to the Nabob for his Acceptance, with the Articles of the Treaty; and that both of the Parties, inflead of inviting the Company's Servants, were invited, or rather obliged by them, to accept of their proffered Guarantee: Yet it is upon this Guarantee so obtained, that the Company have built their Right to interfere in all the subsequent Measures that have been pursued with respect to Tanjore; and finally, upon the Conquest of that Country made by the Nabob, with the Assistance of their own Servants, to take it into their Hands and restore it to the Rajah.

The Advocates for the Treaty of 1762, have urged chiefly in its Defence, that it was expedient in Point of Policy to keep Arcot and Tanjore in the Hands of separate Princes. Supposing it to be so, if the Princes of Arcot and Tanjore had Claims upon each other, was it the Part of Justice for the Company's Servants, because they were stronger than either, to settle them in their own way, and with a View to the Advantage of their Masters? Allowing the Nabob's Claims upon the Rajah of Tanjore to have been in some Points extravagant, and according to our Notions of Equity, unjust; upon what Ground could the Company's Servants pretend to regulate them by their own Ideas of Propriety? Admitting the Nabob to have been the Dependant of a Dependant of the King of Dehli; still with respect to the Company, he was sovereign and independent, and their Servants had no more right to adjust his Pretentions, than they had to adjust those of the King of Dehli himfelf ‡. Does it feem probable that the Nabob, by his own free Will, would have concluded fuch a Treaty as that of 1762, with the Rajah of Tanjore? If not, so far as the Company's Servants acted on that Occasion against his voluntary Consent, so far they acted without Authority; and by whatsoever Name they may term the Part they took in this Treaty, whether it were that of Friends, Mediators, or Guarantees, their Conduct will always be liable to the Imputation of an unjust Inserference.

The Occurrences which intervened between the Conclusion of the Treaty of 1752, and the first Expedition against Tanjore in 1771, are sufficiently known. Much Argument has been employed, both to prove and to arraign the Justice of aiding the Nabob in that Expedition; but as the Measure itself proved nothing decisive against the Rajah, and was closed by a new Treaty between him and the Nabob, in which the Company's Servants had no Part, I shall only observe upon the Subject, that from an attentive Perusal of this whole Proceeding, and of the Orders and Opinions of the Company as they may be gathered from their Correspondence, it appears to me, that the War against the Rajah was fully justified by repeated Provocations, and that the Court of Directors themselves considered the Treaty of 1762, as violated by his offensive Conduct, and their Guarantee of course abolished, sometime before the Expedition and Treaty of 1771 took place. How else shall we account for their Orders of 1769 and 1770, wherein they complain of the Rajah's withholding his Assistance from the Company and the Nabob when they were acting in Defence of the Carnatic against Hyder Ally, and after speaking of former Contributions made by the Rajahs of Tanjore in like Cases, enjoin their Servants "to give the Nabob such Support in "his Pretentions as may be effectual; and if the Rajah refused to contribute a just Proportion to the Expences of the War, then to pursue such Measures as the Nabob may think confishent with the Justice and Dignity of his Government?" In another Letter they say, "the plain Fact " is, that the King of Tanjore, who is tributary to the Nabob, ought to have furnished his Quota 10-

"wards carrying on the War, which he has not done."
With regard to the Second Expedition against Tanjore in 1773, which terminated by the Capture of the Place, it were to be wished, that the Company's Servants had been fully instructed by their Constituents, before they were called upon to execute that Measure; as it was, being left to their

The Idea of the Nabob's being forced to fign the Treaty has been ridiculed; but if such an Instuence were employed as he could not resist without hazarding the Affections or perhaps feeling the Resentment of those who had the Power to hurt him, it carries to my Mind as much the Idea of Force as if he had been compelled by a stronger Arm than his own to affix his Name to the Treaty.

† Vide Instructions to Mr. Du Pré, dated 20th September 1762.

† There are several Rajahs or Zemindars in the Carnatic, over whom the Nabob exercises the same Rights that he formerly claimed, and still claims over the Rajah of Taujore; yet the Company never pretended to examine or question those Rights, and would now probably think it a great Injustice, however they may have been acquired, to interfere with them in support of those whom the Nabob holds in Dependance. This Pretence assumed by the Servants of the Company to adjust the Claims of the Nabob, tempts me to put the following Case: Supposing the Nabob or any other Indian Prince were sufficiently powerful, to enquire into and adjust the Rights of the Company, either by their own succuraing Notions of Equity, or even by the fixed and just Standard in Use with more enlightened People, how many Complaints should we not make, and how many Wars wage, in Desence of our Claims?—and is there the smallest Difference between this Case and that of which I am now speaking? this Case and that of which I am now speaking i own Discretion, and having the Power of the Company in their Hands, whether they used that Discretion with Wisdom or not, their Actions were to all Intents and Purposes as binding on the Company as if they had been performed by the express Authority of the Court of Directors. They were required by the Nabob to aid him as Auxiliaries against the Rajah of Tanjore: In that Character, they made public Engagements with the Nabob, and sent their Troops to affish him in reducing the Fort of Tanjore, and placing that Conquest in his Hands. As the Whole of their Company by their own Authority abrogate these Proceedings in Opposition to the Will of the Nabob? Engaged by their Servants as Auxiliaries, how could they assume the Character of Principals? But as Principals and Equals even in this Transaction, they could justly abrogate nothing without the Nabob's Consent. They go then still higher: They act as the Nabob's Superiors, and not only take from him the Country which their Servants had conquered, and put into his Hands, better than before the Conquest was made.

As to the Ground on which the Company built their Claim of Interference in this Case, viz. The Treaty of 1762, to which their Servants had made them Guarantees, I have already shewn upon what Idea that Treaty was concluded, and what strong Reasons there were to believe, that one of the Parties had been as it were compelled to enter into it; I have also, and I think, upon good Reasons, urged that the Treaty of 1762 was considered by the Company themselves as violated by the Conduct of the Rajah of Tanjore, even before the Commencement of the First Expedition against him in 1771; but if the Company, after they had in Essect declared those Fingagements at an End; after their Servants had made one Expedition to Tanjore, which ended in a new Treaty between the Nabob and the Rajah, wherein that of 1762 is not even mentioned; after a Second Expedition had been undertaken, which ended in the Capture of the Place: I say, if the Company, after all these Transactions, think proper to revive the Guarantee of 1762, which was a discretional Act of their Servants, what Reason can be given why the Ingagements with the Nabob of 1771, and those of 1773, which were also discretional Acts of their Servants, should be disregarded and set aside? And why are those Stipulations which were made by their Servants in savour of the Rajah of Tanjore, who had no particular Claim upon the Company's Friendship, to be approved and revived in a Manner the most distinguishing to him, and those reiterated Engagements which were made with the Nabob, who had so many Claims upon their Friendship, to be disavowed and abrogated in a Manner the most disgraceful to him?

But the Guarantee of 1762, even allowing it to have been in Force, could only entrust to the Company the Care of the Stipulations included in the Treaty fo guaranteed. The Operation of this Guarantee therefore in its fullest Extent, could not place the Rajah of Tanjore in any other Situation than that in which it found him in 1762. In that Situation, he was wholly independent of the Company, and the Nabob had still some Claims upon him, which were not given up by the Treaty: How different becomes his Situation now he is restored to his Government by the Company. The Conditions of his Restoration were, "that he should admit a Company's Garrison " in his Fort; that he should assign Revenues sufficient to maintain this Garrison; that no Troops " except those of the Company should be permitted to reside within the City of Tanjore, and " except also a few native Guards, which were not to be exceeded or augmented by the Rajah " on any Account or Pretence whatfoever; and that he should make no Treaty with foreign " Powers without their Concurrence."-This is in Fact a Situation of Dependance, though diftinguished by the Company under the flattering Names of Friendship and Alliance; and when we add, that the Company have fince requested and obtained profitable Grants of Land in the Tanjore Country, the whole Transaction carries with it an Appearance extremely unfavourable, and gives to the Nabob too much Reason to complain that Justice and Friendship have been facrificed to the mere Views of Interest and Policy.

With respect however to the Policy of this Measure, I shall never be induced to think it eligible in that View, to maintain so close an Alliance with Two Princes whose Disagreements never can be reconciled, and whose respective Situations are such as cannot fail of producing surther Disputes in which we must necessarily take Part. The Nabob superior in Power, and the most naturally our Ally, possesses by much the greatest Portion of the Carnatic, and the Rajah of Tanjore is also by our Alliance supported as a Power within that of the Nabob, his Province being in the Heart of the Nabob's Possessima. In this Situation, though dependant on the Company, he considers himself wholly independant of the Nabob: And from the Transactions that have passed, the Interests of the Two Princes are become totally opposite and incompatible with each other. If any Dispute happen between the Nabob and the Rajah, and the Nabob in Revenge of a just Offence should think proper to attack the Rajah, which he may do with his own Troops independant of us, and without breaking any one Engagement, then by our Stipulations with the Rajah, we are bound to act in his Desence, and to consider the Nabob as his Enemy. If we aid the Nabob, as we ought in a just Cause, then that Part of our Troops which is maintained for his Support, may be employed against that Part which is entertained for the Desence of the Rajah. On the other Hand, should the Rajah have any just Cause of Offence against the Nabob, it will be expected of us, as his Friends and Allies, to obtain Redress: Here again we may be involved, either with him or the Nabob. With respect to soreign Powers, our Figagements to the Rajah become still more hazardous. The French had lately, and the Dutch and Danes now have, Settlements within his Territories; to those Settlements the Rajah's Servants or Renters are perpetually flying. for Protection against his Government: And as our Troops only are employed in the Tanjore Country, the Rajah on these Occasions calls upon us to support his Authority. Once already have we been on the Point of embroiling ourselves with the Dutch: And very lately an Insult was of fered upon the Danish Settlement at Tranquebar, by some of our Sepoys employed in the Collections under the Authority of the Rajah's Managers. With regard to the Indian States we see likewife in the same Predicament from this Alliance. If the Rajah's Country be attacked by Hyder Ally or the Marattas, we must defend it, not only with the Troops appointed for its Protection, but totis viribus, otherwise it will inevitably be conquered. How then are we to act in this Case Our Strength chiefly confifts in the Military Establishment kept up for the Desence of the Nabob, and paid by him; but the Nabob has now no Interest in the Rajah's Country, nor can we imagine he will easily be induced to spend his Money and expose his own Possessions in fighting the Rajali's Battles; and indeed this is one of those Cases in which it would be an Infult, after what has past d. to defire his Affiftance; much more to use Influence or Compulsion for obtaining it. In a World so far from thinking it politic to support an independent Interest within the Carnatic, opposite, and even inimical to that of the Nabob, it appears to me to be a System productive of nothing but Confusion and Danger; nor can we possibly maintain it long without making Enemies of both the Princes we are bound to defend; without involving ourselves in infinite Troubles; and hazarding still further than we have already done, the Honour of our public Engagements.

Either the Rajah should have been left in the Situation in which we found him before the I reaty of 1762, that is, before we had any public Engagements in his Behalf, or all the Acts which the Servants of the Company have deemed it necessary in various Conjunctures to pursue, relative to Tanjore, should have been confirmed. In this last Event the Nabob would now have been in Possession of Tanjore, and the Company, besides preserving the Faith of their Engagements, would have had only One instead of Two Interests to support. It has been said, that such an Increase of Territory might have made the Nabob too powerful, and placed him beyond the Controll of the Company; but the Idea in this Case is fallacious. To have added any Territory out of the Camatic (that is in the Belaghaut or above the Passes) to the Dominions of the Nabob, would have no Doubt been impolitic: But it is unquestionably more safe, as well as more advantageous, for the Company to have only One Interest on this Side the Passes, let that Interest be ever so powerful, than to have Two diffinct Interests, both perpetually clashing, and both upheld by our Support. If the Nabob had continued to possess Tanjore, would not the Company have maintained the same Checks over him in that Province that they now hold throughout the whole Carnatic, by having Garrisons in all his Forts? By having his Person and Family in their Power? and lastly, by having the little Army which he keeps in his immediate Pay commanded by their own Officers? But what still more effectually destroys the Idea of the Nabob's becoming too powerful by the Accession of Tanjore, is, that when he actually possessed that Country, and even had a large Garrison of his own Troops in the Fort, he allowed himself to be deprived of it, and saw it given to his avowed Enemy, in a Manner the most humiliating and disgraceful to himself, without even a Semblance of Opposition.

I have dwelt the longer upon the Affairs of the Nabob separately, and as they are connected with those of Tanjore, because as he is the oldest, and properly speaking, the only natural Ally of the Company, it is fit that his Situation, his Grievances, his Embarrassiments, should be perfectly known and understood. If it shall appear from a cool and candid Examination of past Measures, that he has been treated with a Severity ill fuited to the long and faithful Attachment he had confessedly born to the Company: If it shall appear that we have in any Instances used our Power unjustly to exact Compliances from him, which he might have otherwise thought it dishonourable to grant: If it shall appear, that we have raised into our Favour and Alliance, a Man whom he, and whom the Company have confidered as a Dependant on him, who was obnoxious to him, who had deservedly in more Occasions than one drawn on himself the Company's Displeasure, and who never made any Effort to deserve their Friendship *: If it shall appear that we have done this in a Manner the most distinguishing to that Man, the most humiliating and disgraceful to the Nabob: And lastly, if it shall appear that these Acts have been committed at the Expence of our public Faith, pledged to the Nabob in repeated and politive Engagements: I am at a Loss to conceive how we shall be able to atone for such accumulated Injustice. Certain it is, we ought to lose no Time in making every Reparation in our Power; and though we have as yet been flow in our Attempts towards it, I hope we shall not confirm and add to the Injuries we have committed, by neglecting any longer to redrefs them.

When I observe the Raja never made any Effort to deserve the Company's Friendship, I speak of the Period of his Independance; for since he was restored to his Government, I cannot consider any Concessions he may have made in that Light: However even lately, when he was applied to for a Grant of the District of Nagore, a short Time only after his Restoration, he complied with a very ill Grace, saying, that although he had one so much for the Company, and his Country was so much impoverished, still he was forced to grant them large Jagueers (vide Letter from him to the Governor, received 16th May 1778.) This Jagueer which he was forced to grant amounted to about £.20,000 per Annum, whereas the Nabob granted to the Company at one Time as a Proof of his Friendship, a Jagueer of near £. 150,000 per Annum. per Annum.

PENDIX,

I propose now to return to the general Subject of these Sheets, and to bring it to a Conclusion, after making a few Remarks upon the System at present established for the Government of the Company's political Affairs in India.

It has been observed in the Course of my Reslections, that some Inconveniencies have arisen from the Want of a free and equal Communication of Measures and Sentiments among the Three principal Presidencies of the Company, Bengal, Madras, and Bombay. This Communication is so necessary in all Transactions that relate to Wars or Engagements with the Country Powers, that there is no Possibility of preserving any Degree of Union and Consistency of Action without it. The Clause in the late regulating Act of Parliament, which gave a controlling Power to the Governor General and Council of Fort William in certain Cases, has been the chief Foundation of this Evil, not from any Defect in the Clause itself, but from its being strained to Purposes which the Legislature never could have intended it. The Power therein conveyed was meant, as I have always understood, solely to establish among the several Presidencies an uniform Plan of Action with respect to their Wars and Treaties; for when the Presidencies were in these Respects independant of each other, it had sometimes happened, that the Company's Servants at one Settlement were making War against a Power with whom their Servants at another were under Engagements of Peace and Friendship. In order to remedy the Absurdity of this System, the Wisdom of the Legislature judged it expedient to fix a controlling Power in One of the Company's Governments, fufficient to restrain the rest from making Wars or Treaties without its Concurrence, and consequently to establish that general Uniformity of Action so requisite in Assairs of this Nature.

Such appear to have been the Ground, Extent, and Meaning of the controlling Power, but the Governor General and Council of Fort William, have given it a much greater Latitude. Instead of confining themselves to a restraining Power in Two Points, they have assumed and exercifed upon different Occasions an active compelling Power, extending to all the political Transactions of the Company at the other Presidencies. They have formerly promulgated among the Indian States, that the Servants at the other Presidencies are appointed to manage the Company's political Affairs under "their general Control and Directions;" and they have in virtue of this affumed Power, interfered with the Governments of Madras and Bombay, in a Manner the most hurtful to their Consequence that can be imagined, and as it were with the sole View of degrading them in the Eyes of the feveral Powers around them

The Effects of this Usurpation are, I conceive, extremely injurious to the Interests of the Company. The Governor General and Council of Fort William have annexed to it such a Degree of Superiority over the other Presidencies, that they issue Orders to them in the same Style as the Court of Directors; nor will they condescend to ask or to be guided by the Opinions of the Company's Servants at Madras or Bombay, in Points even that relate folely to the Interests of these Presidencies, though they themselves are not in a Situation, even if they had Experience and Time sufficient to acquire a Knowledge of them: The Consequence is, that with partial Views only they form Plans, and adopt Measures that comprize the general Interests of the Company; and when they come to be put in Execution, it is found that they clash with some Interest or some Engagement at another Presidency, which had been overlooked. Thus the Scheme of supporting Ragonaut Row in his Pretensions had a direct Tendency to involve the Carnatic in a War, and interfered with an express Treaty made by the Government at Madras with Nizam Ally Cawn, yet the Governor General and Council of Bengal never asked the Advice or Opinion of those who were immediately charged with these Interests and Engagements; probably they knew not or had forgot that any such existed. Again the Governor General and Council of Bengal formed in like Manner a Scheme of an offensive and defensive Alliance with the Rajah of Berar, and authorized their Agent to put it in Execution; though One Article of the proposed Alliance could not have been made without a direct Breach of the same Treaty with the Nizam, to which I have above alluded, nor of course without involving the Presidency who executed the Treaty, in a War against that Power.

I cannot help remarking on this Occasion, but with the greatest Deference and Submission to that most respectable Body which determined otherwise, that the Situation appointed for the Residence of the controlling Power, has not been happily chosen; nor can I perceive a single Advantage that naturally intitles it to such a Pre-eminence, except it be one to possess more Wealth and a larger Territory than any other Establishment in India; this might be a Consideration sufficient to determine a Preference where the Advantages were in more effential Points equal to those of any other Place; but I am humbly of Opinion, that the proper Seat for a controlling Power is that Presidency which is most central with respect to the other Presidencies, and most central in respect to the Country Powers, with whom we have our chief Intercourse. Fort Saint George indis

[•] A striking Instance of this happened very lately: The Government at Madras endeavoured to obtain from Nizam Ally Cawn a Relief from the great Burthen of Perscush, annually paid for the northern Circars. The Nizam at first Ally Cawn a string of Dissipation to comply with the Demand, and even expressed himself on the Occasion in Terms of much shewed a strong Dissipation to comply with the Demand, and even expressed himself on the Occasion in Terms of much shewed a strong Dissipation to comply with the Demand, and even expressed himself on the Occasion in Terms of much shewed a strong the Agent whom the Government of Madras employed at his Court, gave Hopes that by persisting in Resemble 1 himself of the Authority of the Demand, the Nizam might be brought to a Compliance. gal, Bombay and Bencoolen. It has a more frequent, safe, and speedy Communication with Fingland, and with the other Presidencies, than any other Settlement can have. It is the Place to which the greatest Part of the India Ships, outward-bound, with Military Stores, Recruits, &c. are ordered to touch before they proceed to the other Parts of India and China; and it is the Place to which all Naval or Land Armaments sent out by the King for the Service of India are the rected, and from whence all their Operations are planned and executed; forming by these Means a much more respectable Appearance in the Eyes of the Natives than Bengal itself. With regard to the Country Powers, its Situation is no less advantageous. The Company and the Nabob's Possessing at Fort Saint George join to the Territories of the Nizam, and of Hyder Ally Cawn: And the Capitals of these two Powers are so near, that Letters pass to them from Madras in Eight or Ten Days; to Poona, the Capital of the Marattas, Letters can pass directly by Land in Twenty Days, or by the Way of Bombay in almost the same Time. I must not omit likewise, that Military Operations against either European or Indian Powers, can no where be carried on with so much Ease and Expedition as at Fort Saint George, on account of its Vicinity to the European Settles ments, and to the Territories of the principal Indian States.

Bengal certainly does not possess any of the Advantages I have mentioned in any Degree equal to Fort Saint George. Calcutta is inconveniently situated for Communication either with the other Settlements or with Europe; and as to the Country Powers I have mentioned, it is in a Manner quite removed from the Scene of their Politics or Military Operations, and so distant from them, that I believe, until the Government of Fort William was invested with a controlling Authority, and began in consequence to assume a leading Part in the general political Interests of the Company, the Indian States paid very little Regard to it; because though it maintained a formidable Force, that Force was too remote to be of any immediate Consequence, either in promoting or checking their Views.

The Kingdom of Bengal is of such wide Extent, that the Government of it in all its Branches, Civil, Military, Political, and Revenue, will be found a sufficient Task for any Five, or even any Ten Men of the First Abilities. To engage them in the Concerns of other Presidencies is to take off a Portion of their Time and Attention from the Objects committed to their chief Care, and to employ it in directing Interests at a Distance, which are, and must be certainly more safe in the Hands of those who are immediately appointed to the Charge of them, and whose sole Duty it is to study them. But the controlling Power lodged in the Governor General and Council of Bengal, though it were confined in its Exercise (which it is not) to Wars and Treaties only, would engage them in a Scene much too extensive for Men who are entrusted with the Government of so great a Kingdom, because they cannot use this Power to Advantage, without attending to the political Concerns of the Company in every Part of India, and watching the gradual Changes which they undergo from a Variety of Occurrences too trivial perhaps to be noticed, but by those who are Eye Witnesses of them, or those who have sufficient Leisure to mark them in a Series of voluminous Correspondence.

I shall now conclude the Subject of these Sheets, by observing, that as I have been induced by public Considerations only, to present a faithful View of our political State in India; and to recommend such Measures as are in my Judgment best calculated to remedy the Errors and Defects of our late Proceedings, so I shall think myself amply rewarded for the Pains I have taken, if it be my good Fortune to have proposed any thing which may meet the Approbation of those whose Opinions I respect, or contribute in any Degree to restore Peace and Prosperity to the Affairs of the Company.

^{*} When the Governor General and Council of Bengal determined in February 1778, to fend Troops to affift the Military Operations on the Bombay Side, they ordered them to march across the Peninsula; I suppose chiefly, if not solely on account of the Aversion which the Bengal Sepoys have to go on Ship-board. This Body of Troops did not reach Surat till May 1779, that is Fourteen Months after they were put in Orders to march. Besides the Risk of passing through such an immense Tract of the Maratta Dominions, the extra Expence of sending these Troops by Land, must have been at least 20 or 25 Lacks of Rupees; whereas the whole Armament suight have been transported from Fort Saint George (where our Sepoys have not the same Aversion to go on Ship-board) in less than a Month, and at the Expence of about One Lack, or One Lack and a Half of Rupees.

PPENDIX,

Extract of the General Letter from Fort Saint George to the Court of Directors; dated 3d April 1735

Par. 10. WHEN we reflect upon all that has passed from the first Treaty made with Ragonaut Row by the Presidency of Bombay in 1774, to the present Time, we are clearly of Opinion, that no Means should have been left untried to bring about a Peace upon Terms of the most persect Moderation. If it ever were in General Goddard's Power to promote an Accommodation upon the Footing of the Treaty of Poorunder, we think he should have gladly embraced the Opportunity; because after the Disaster which the Bombay Troops met with, and the disgraceful Capitulation made in consequence by Messrs. Carnac and Egerton, nothing could in our Idea be more definable for the Company, both in Point of Honour and Safety, than to obtain a Release from the severe Terms of that Capitulation, and a Renewal of the Treaty of Poorunder. We think too that such Concessions, or even less favourable ones, acquired in this Manner, are infinitely preferable to any that can be obtained by Force of Arms. If the Object of a War with the Marattas be the Conquell of Territory, we do not apprehend that the Company in the End will be any Gainers, even by the most successful Expeditions that can be made; for befides the vast Expence of Blood and Treasure which always actends distant Military Projects, there is too much Reason to sear that such remote Acquisitions can only be retained by the fame Mode in which they are won; and that the Company may in their Defence be subject to a State of perpetual Warfare.

11. The only Situation, we humbly conceive, in which the Company can carry on their Affairs in Security, is that of Peace and Friendship with all the Country Powers, which never should be disturbed but when they are compelled to draw the Sword for the Defence of their prefent Possessions: To this their Power is very equal; but the Moment they pass these Bounds, and engage in the Disputes between the Indian States, or in any distant Plans of Conquest, their Force, by being divided, is much too weak either for offensive or defensive Measures; and in such Case their Settlements and Territories must inevitably become exposed to the Mercy of the first powerful Invader. We do not conceive that your Armies were ever meant for any other Purpose than the Desence and Protection of your Possessions; or that your Resources could ever be thought adequate to the Support of remote and offensive Wars: If any such Ideas prevail, they will be instantly removed by comparing the present State of the Resources in Bengal with their Condition Two Years ago; and then reflecting, that exclusive of about 20 Lacks of Rupees, which were fent to this Presidency, and expended in the Reduction of Pondicherry and Mahé, the Remainder of the Treasure there accumulated, or a very considerable Part of it, has gone to the Support of General Goddard's Detachment, confifting only of Six Battalions of Sepoys, One Company of Native Artillery, and about a Thousand Horse.

12. We have thought it our Duty to deliver our Sentiments freely upon the Subject of your Affairs on the other Side of India; because, being no further concerned in them than as acting in Support of the Measures which have been adopted by the Presidencies of Fort William and Bombay, the Opinions we give are likely to be free from that Partiality which Men naturally feel in favour of their own Measures; and we advance them with the more Confidence on this Occasion, because we find them perfectly confonant to the general Maxims which you have laid down for the Government of your Affairs.

13. We have advised your Honours from Time to Time of the Disposition and Movements of Hyder Ally Cawn: This Chief, by Means of our Wars with the Marattas, is now grown to a formidable Height of Power; and his Genius is to afpiring, his Refources to various, and his Authority throughout every Part of his Dominions so completely established, that he is become an Object of the first Importance in the political System of India. Before we were engaged in Disputes with the Marattas, that Nation turned all its Views to the Reduction of Hyder's Power, and waged incessant War for that Purpose during many Years. Hyder, by his superior and active Genius, was able to withstand their Attacks, which though very powerful, were of no long Continuance; and whenever the Marattas quitted his Country he always found Means to recover himfelf so far as to be prepared for their next Invasion. In this perpetual Scene of Warfure between the Two first Powers of India, your Asfairs were every where carried on in perfect Peace and Security, your Forces extremely respected, and your Friendship courted by the Parties at War, and by every other State in India. This then was precisely the Situation in which we think you should and might easily have continued: Nothing could possibly have altered it but the Engagements entered into by the Presidency of Bombay with Ragonaut Row, and the different Attempts formed in consequence to overturn the reigning Government at Poona. The Views of the Maratta State became by those Means instantly turned from Hyder to the Company. They withdrew all their Forces from his Country to defend themselves against the Attacks of Ragonaut Row and his Allies. Hyder availed himself of this Opportunity to recover the Conquests that had been made from him by the Marattas, and to recompence himself by Conquests upon them; and the Marattas at length seeing no Prospect of Relief from their Wars with the English, were forced to conclude a Treaty with Hyder, which they made offensive, that they might have the Benefit of his Assistance against us.

14. Such have been the Effects produced by our Disputes with the Marattas; and if the Country, Powers were capable of taking all the Advantages which a Combination might give them against us, we should severely seel the Weight of their united Operations; but fortunately for the Company, their Jealousy of each other is too strong to admit of any sincere or permanent Agreement and we think even now, notwithstanding the Provocations which the Marattas have received by our Measures in Support of Ragonaut Row, were we to grant them any reasonable Terms of Accommodation, they would instantly turn their Arms against Hyder, and leave us once more to the Enjoyment of that Tranquillity which we experienced from their former Contests with this Chief,

P E N D I X, N° 328.

Letter from the Governor General at Fort William to the Secret Committee of the Honourable Court of Directors of the Honourable United East India Company, 2d December 1780.

Honourable Sirs.

IN the present alarming Situation of your Assairs which their Distance, the long and momentous Interval which will have passed before you can receive the Knowledge of them, and the Distensions which are ever attendant on public Calamities, will be too apt to exaggerate, you will probably expect that I should inform you, of my particular Sentiments concerning them; and I am the more defirous of conforming to this Supposition, from a Belief too strongly founded, that the Measures necessary to the Preservation of your Possessions and Interests in India, will be inevitably productive of one Consequence of which you ought to be early apprized, that you may be enabled to obviate it in the Provisions which I understand will fall regularly under your Confideration foon after the probable Receipt of these Dispatches. I bear too high a Respect for the Characters to which I address myself, to treat them with the Managements of a preparatory and gradual Introduction of an unpleasing Report; and as it is the only point of substantial Information which I shall have to convey to you in this Letter, I shall therefore make it the first Subject of it.

The Consequence to which I allude is the Necessity to which I foresee that we shall be compelled of making a large Reduction, and possibly a total Suspension, of your Investment for the ensuing Year. I cannot pronounce what our Ability may be beyond that Period; this will depend on Contingencies too variable and remote for present Conjectures. In Justification of the Measure itself which I have predicted, I must remark that it will be less an Act of the Board than, as I have before intimated, the Refult of an unavoidable Necessity, in which no Option will be left us, but either to facrifice the temporary Profits of the Company, or to hazard for ever the Existence of all that they possess, for the Sake of retaining them. It will be impossible at the same Time to provide for the vast Expence which will be required for the Subsistence and Defence of both your other Presidencies, and for an Investment, in Addition to the increasing Exigencies of this Government, and all from its own unaffifted Refources.

We have been already reduced to the mortifying Extremity of borrowing Money at Interest, by which we have raised the Sum of 64,44,601. 1. 6. This Resource cannot last: It must cease at a certain Period, and that perhaps not distant; but the Exigency which called it forth will still remain the same, and must be answered. We have no other Fund from which we can defray it, with the present Appropriation of our Means; for exclusively of the foreign Calls, our own internal Expences have accumulated, and will yet increase, notwithstanding all the Care and Œconomy that we may use to check them, as we must replace all the Native Troops which we have detached to the Relief of the Carnatic, and as it is to be apprehended that our Revenue may suffer by the large Drasts which we shall be obliged to make of our current Specie.

I will confess that I am myself more alarmed at the Novelty of the Measure, than convinced of any real Detriment of which it will prove to your Interests, when I consider, that your Ships are detained in their Outset for Months by the Want of Hands to navigate them, and liable without any Exemption or Distinction to the same Hardships as the Necessity of the public Service imposes on common Vessels of Trade; that they arrive too late to be dispatched in the same Season; that equal Delays often attend them in their Return, which is accomplished with Hazards so great, that at least a Part of their Cargoes cannot fail, without great Negligence of our national Enemies, to fall into their Hands; and in that Sense so much of your Investment may be affirmed to be provided for their Benefit, equally with your Loss: I can venture to assure you that every Precaution will be taken by this Administration, with the Advice of the Board of Trade, to prevent the Inconveniences to which the Business of your Investment may be liable in its Renewal, from its having been discontinued. Respecting the Expedients which may be recommended tot supplying the Deficiency of your Investment in the Case of its Stoppage beyond the next Year, upon these I do not presume to offer my Opinion; they will not escape your Penetration, and I know that they will be suggested by a Judgment and Experience in these Points, superior to

P P E N D I X; Nº 328.

I do not know whether your Supracargoes at Canton will stand in any need of our Allstance, I should think not; but it is unnecessary to add, after what I have herein premised, that it will be equally out of our Power to afford it.

I wait in anxious Expectation of an Answer from the Government of Berar to my Dispatches which conveyed the Treaty proposed for its Guarantee, and the Ratification of the Administration of Poona. This may arrive in the Course of another Week: I have every Reason to believe it will be entirely consonant to my own Wishes. With the Aid, or even Neutrality of this Power, I have no Doubt of being able to make the Refources of this Government equal to every Service which may be exacted from them, both for Maintenance of the actual Peace of these Provinces, and the Restoration of your Asfairs in the Carnatic, however desperate they may now appear, if they continue under the Conduct of your present Commander in Chief.

I cannot venture to pronounce what may be the Determination of the Administration of Poona: Confidered as a State, it has certainly every Caufe to dicad the Aggrandizement of Hyder Ally Cawn, its natural Enemy: As a Faction, though not wholly uninterested in the Event of his Success, it may be influenced by other Causes; by the Ties of Consederacy; by its own Weakness; by the Jealoufy of Ragonaut Row; by the Afcendant of Mahdajee Sindia, and his feparate Views, which are incompatible with Peace; and perhaps by national Refentiment—Yet I think it probable that the Example of the Government of Berar may contribute to turn the Scale in our Favour. But I have no Grounds for fuch an Expectation in any recent Act or Appearance.

Permit me to offer a brief Reflection on the prefent State of your prefent political Affairs: I have been told that the Maratta War has been, I know not on what Ground or Suggestion, attributed Maratta to me: Your Honourable Court is possessed of the fullest Evidence of the contrary. The Occasion of the War was planned and executed without the Knowledge or previous Concurrence of this Government, which has had no other Participation in it than in providing, by an extraordinary Exertion, for the Support of the Measures undertaken by the Presidency of Bombay, if these succeeded; and for its Preservation if they failed: Our Detachment arrived seasonably for the last of these Objects, and for the Redemption of the National Honour, which had been without it irretrievably loft.—I had indeed flattered myself that the War would have soon terminated in such Advantages as would have amply atoned for the past Calamities which had attended it. Whatever Conviction I may entertain of fuch a Conclusion, it is now reduced to an Argument of unavailing Speculation, in which every Person is at Liberty to form his own Opinion.

Another and more interesting Occasion has now called for the Exertion of this Government in the Preservation of that of Fort Saint George: This at least will not be imputed to the Government of Bengal. If the extorted and palliated Confession of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn may be credited (and we have the Evidence of the most public Notoriety to consirm it) it was the sole Effect of a Confederacy formed at his Instigation, and dictated by his Resentment of the Infringements made by the Select Committee of Fort Saint George on his Rights, obtained by the Treaty fubfisting between him and the Company, and his natural Apprehension of Hostilities intended by that Government against him. Whatever be the Cause, such have been the l'ssects; and it is our Duty to do all that may be in our Power to avert them. This we have already done to a Degree as great as the Time and our Means would admit: We exhaufted our Treasury: We have deprived ourselves of the Flower of our Army for their Relief: We have abandoned our own Measures in the Crisis of their Success: We have formed a powerful Detachment which will be in a Condition to march in a few Days from this Date; and have used Means, which though new and untried were the most likely to prove of speedy and of certain Essect, to win Allies to their Cause, even of our present Enemies. I hope it will not appear the Assumption of an undue Merit, to observe that, extensive as the Aids are which we have already afforded them, and at a Season in which the Rules of your Service have hitherto interdicted the Navigation of these Seas in confideration of the Dangers attending it, they arrived in Sascty at Fort Saint George in less Time than Two Months from the Date of the Calamity which furnished the Occasion for them, computed from the Return of the Army under Sir Hector Munro to the Mount, on the 14th September, to the Arrival of the laft Ship of the Fleet, the Duke of Kingston, at Fort Saint George on the 5th of November.

We shall continue to employ the same vigilant Attention to your Interests: And I have no Fears for the Event while I have the Happiness to possess my present Means, with the same able and willing Assistance which Fortune has given me in my present Associate of this Go-

I most humbly beg Leave to conclude this Letter with a Recommendation of Major Popham to Captain. your Favour: The Services which he has rendered in the Expulsion of the Marattas from the Dominions of your Ally the Rana of Gohud, and especially in the Capture of the important Fortress of Gwallier, have given him a Claim to my Solicitation in his Behalf; and you will permit me to observe, that in whatever Mode you may be pleased to stamp your Approbation of his Services, you cannot have a more deserving Subject for it, nor a Season in which the Zeal of your Servants REP. Having this Day received a Packet to your Address from the Honourable Company, by the War of Bussora, we take the Opportunity of transmitting it by a Country Ship fortunately on the Point of failing.

We have also forwarded to Admiral Hughes the Intelligence therein contained, and earneslly recommend to him to bring round His Majesty's Squadron to this Coast as expeditiously as possible; as it might be attended with the utmost Danger to the Company's Possessions, should such a formidable French Armament make its Appearance, now that we are engaged in a War with the Ma-

We have taken a Copy of the Dispatches from the Honourable Company, which we shall transmit by another Opportunity. The Letter referred to by the Committee of Correspondence in the sinft

E N D I X,

Extrast of General Letter to Bombay, dated 12th April 1780.

21. HAVING taken into our particular and most serious Consideration the State of the Company Military Force at your Settlement, we have refolved to appoint an able Officer to the Command of the Troops at Bombay.

22. And having the highest Opinion of the Zeal, Experience, and Military Abilities of Colonel Thomas Goddard, we have thought fit to appoint Colonel Goddard Commander in Chief of the Company's Forces at Bombay, and granted him a Commission of Brigadier General in our Service 23. We have also requested His Majesty to grant a Commission of Brigadier General, with local Rank, to Colonel Thomas Goddard, which we doubt not will be granted accordingly.

27. It is our Order, that Brigadier General Goddard have a conflant Seat as Third in our faid Council and Select Committee. We likewise direct, that Mr. Henry More be the Fourth Member of our Select Committee at Bombay.

28. As a further Mark of our Approbation of the Conduct of Brigadier General Goddard, we have directed that the Pay and Allowances received by him from Bengal, as Commander in Chief of the Detachment sent from that Settlement, be continued to him and paid by our Governor General and Council, so long as those Troops shall remain under General Goddard's Command on the Western Side of India; he must also receive the Pay and Allowances of Third of our Council and Select Committee at Bombay. But if our Governor General and Council shall recall the Bengal Detachment, the Pay and Allowances received by General Goddard on that Account must be difcontinued, and cease immediately upon the Return of the said Detachment, as it will then be no longer under his Authority or Command, and after that Period General Goddard must receive the Pay, and Allowances of our Commander in Chief of our Troops at Bombay.

At a Council; PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President, Philip Francis, Esquires. Edward Wheler, Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, K. B.

Bombay, 17th August

READ the following Letter from the President and Select Committee at Bombay.

Inclosed is Duplicate of our Letter, dated the 30th ultimo.

The President soon after laid before us a Plan for the Operations of the ensuing Campaign, which we take this first Opportunity of transmitting to you, together with a Copy of the Letter we sent to General Goddard, conveying our Sentiments of the Plan, and the Measures we propose pursuing on our Part in Consequence.

The President's Minute and our Letter containing a full Statement of the present Situation of Affairs, as relative to the Maratta War, as well as of the proposed Measures; it would be useless Repetition to give them in Detail here, and we therefore beg you will be referred to the Papers in the Packet.

We shall however explain ourselves more fully to you on the Subject of the exclusive Approbation you have defired us to make of the Receipts from the late Acquisitions, for the Payment of the Army under General Goddard.

If with our former Resources, we were under a Necessity of requiring in Addition a constant and stated Subsidy from you, to support the Charges of this Presidency, that Necessity will not in any Shape be lessened, but very considerably augmented, by the late Increase of our Possessions; if the Revenues are to be diverted to another Channel, and so long as our Receipts continue to fall short of our Expences, we shall not only stand in Need of this ordinary Supply from Bengal, but also of further Aid, in Proportion to any extraordinary and unprovided for Demand which we may have to answer; or, to bring the Matter exactly to a Point, supposing an Aggregate made of the Expences of this Presidency, and of the Army under General Goddard, opposed to our Receipts and Revenues, the Desiciency can be supplied from no other Resource but your

If it should appear these Receipts are unequal to the single Demands of this Presidency, it can be no Relief to your Government to leffen General Goddard's Demand upon you by increasing ours, which is equally preffing, but only varying the Proportion of the respective Supply to each. If you find both Expences too heavy to support, we have foreseen that Contingency, and pointed out a Remedy, which will not be found in the Measure you have proposed to us; which, exclusive of the Distress it will occasion, is humiliating to this Government in the highest Degree, when neither the Army we are to pay, or the Application of the Money we are to furnish, are under our Controul.

We have already upon different Emergencies, afforded to General Goddard confiderable Aids of Money, not without involving ourselves in great Difficulties; and if our Means are increased by the late Acquisitions, we shall most readily contribute more liberal Assistance: But too much Confidence must not be placed in the immediate Receipts from that Source, considering that the Districts from whence this Revenue is expected were not taken into the Company's Possession till nearly the End of May last; and we have yet no Knowledge but from Country Accounts, of what Sums they may afford, nor Dependance upon making the Collections, but from the Protection that is given to the Country. We request these Circumstances may be attended to, when the Estimate now sent by the Board in consequence of your Letter of the 1st May, comes under Confideration.

To prevent the Diffress that would result from a Desiciency in the Supplies from you occasioned by an over-rated Computation of the Sums to be produced by that Resource, we subjoin Extracts of Letters from the Chief of Surat, containing the last Information on that

ENDIX.

The Importance and absolute Necessity of the Expedition into the Conkan is very subjected plained in the Governor's Minute: It is, in short, essential to the Success of the War; and the Conquest of Bassein would only be an Addition to our Eurthens, unless the Country is single secured, nor could the Army be substitted otherwise. The present Position of the Army under the court of his Persent to essential to the Country and we have therefore under the substitute of his Persent to essential to the Country is one of his Persent to essential to the Country is one of his Persent to essential to the Country is one of his Persent to essential to the Country is one of his Persent to essential to the Country is one of his Persent to essential to the Country is one of his Persent to essential to the Country is substituted to the Succession of the War; and the Country is substituted to the Succession of the War; and the Country is substituted to the Succession of the War; and the Country is substituted to the Succession of the Country is substituted to the Country is substituted t General Goddard puts it out of his Power to effect this in Time, and we have therefore undertaken the Execution of this Service, which we will venture to pronounce, is more calculated to poduce a favourable Criffs to the War, than any other which could at present be adopted. Endeavours must be entirely deseated were we to throw our Resources out of our own Hands; and we shall trust, that when you are informed of the general Tendency of our late Measures to relieve you from your present intolerable Burthens, and the vigorous Exertion for which we are now preparing, you will at least provide for the Payment of the Bengal Troops, even if the Low. nels of your Treatury should disable you from assisting us further; and we shall in the mean Time appropriate the Receipts from the new Purgunnahs to the general Purposes of the War, and admit General Goddard to fuch a Participation as we can possibly afford.

If you should judge it an expedient Measure, upon the Grounds of the Governor's Minute, we request you will negociate a Loan in Calcutta to the Amount of Ten Lacks of Rupees, on the Bonds of this Government, and fend the Amount in Specie to Bombay, for the Purpofes therein explained.

We hope that the Line of Conduct we have recommended to General Goddard, to be observed for the present towards Futty Sing, will meet with your Approbation.

We acquainted you, in our Letter of the 30th ultimo, with the Conduct of the Nabob Hyde Ally to the Resident at Onore; and it is proper we should mention, that as the Nabob did not return any Answer to the President's Proposals of sending a Gentleman to him, we countermanded

Mr. Horsley's intended Journey.

In our Dispatches of the 2d January, we transmitted the Information we had received from General Goddard of the Correspondence carried on by the Dutch Chief at Surat with the Poona Ministers. The General has, in a subsequent Letter which you will find in the Papers now sent, strongly pressed us to take public Notice of the Conduct of Mr. Vande Graaf, which we have deferred doing, till we receive your Instructions, for which there will be sufficient Time before an Opportunity will offer for Batavia, if you should think it proper for us to make a Representation to the Dutch Governor General. Translation to the intercepted Letters are now enclosed, and the Original of that from Mr. Vande Graaf is in our Possession, and sealed with his official Seal, as a Director at Surat.

We have directed Mr. Henshaw to obtain the most authentic Testimonials he can at Goa, of the feveral Facts relative to the Seizure of the English Vessel at Mangulore; which when received shall be transmitted to you.

Enclosed is a Duplicate of our Letter of the 14th instant; and the original Packet from the Honourable Company therein mentioned, is now forwarded by the Duke of Grafton.

Bombay Castle, 17th August 1780. We are with Respect, &c. (Signed) William Hornby, &c. Select Committee.

Ordered, That the Enclosures in the above Letter be entered after the Consultation, and that the Letter itself do lie for Consideration.

President's Statement of the present Posture of Assairs, and Proposal of a Plan for the Operations of the enfuing Campaign.

1. The present Scason which obliges both our Troops and those of the Enemy to remain inactive, affords us an Opportunity, uninterrupted by cafual intervening Circumstances, of reviewing the general Posture of our Affairs as relative to the Maratta War, the Advantage or Difficulties of our pretent Situation; and of confidering how far the one may be improved, or the other relieved.

2. The War the Nation is at present engaged in with France and Spain; the uncertain Disposition of the principal Powers in India who yet remain neuter in the Contest between us and the Marattas; and the reduced State of the Company's Finances in India, while Government at Home is calling on them for extraordinary Supplies, in Aid of the Public Necessities, sufficiently evince the Expediency of bringing this Maratta War to as early a Conclusion as possible.

3. At present however there seems no Likelihood of effecting this desirable Purpose by Treaty, all Attempts that have been made of this Kind having hitherto failed. We need not be at a Loss for the Reason why the very moderate Terms demanded by the Governor General and Council last Year, could not be accepted by Nana and by Scindia; and that Reason still subsists in its sull than the Reason still subsists in its sull than the Reason still subsists in its sull than the Reason still subsists in its sull than the Reason still subsists in its sull than the Reason still subsists in its sull than the Reason still subsists and that Reason still subsists in its sull success that the Reason still subsists in its sull success that the Reason still subsists in its sull success to the Reason still subsists in its sull success to the Reason still subsists in its sull success to the Reason still subsists in its sull success to the Reason still subsists in its subsists and the Reason still subsists in its subsists success the Reason still subsists success the Reason still subsists success the Reason still subsists success the Reason still subsists in its subsists success the Reason still subsists success succe The public Faith engaged to Ragoba for his Security, and the Views of both Nana and Seindia in desiring to obtain Possession of his Person, form an Obstacle which in a separate Treaty with Nana seems insurmountable, and with Scindia, is certainly of no small Difficulty. I do but touch on these Subjects, for since the Commencement of Hostilities between General Goddard and Mhadjes

A P P E N D I X, Nº 330.

Mhadjee Scindia, all present Expectations of a Peace by Treaty with Nana and Scindia, jointly of separately with either, has been at an End. The Governor General and Council have not even been pleased to inform us, whether they have empowered General Goddard to enter into surther Negociation since the Termination of that which they authorized him in June last to commence with the Government at Poona, and with Futty Sing, after the Re-commencement of Hostilities, nor with their Views in any suture Negociation for Peace.

of them to its final Termination, we must conclude correspond with ours; not indeed from any direct Communication of theirs to us on this momentous Subject, but from their Approbation of my Plan for the Conduct of the War, delivered in this Committee last Year *; according to which, the Partition of Guzerat with Futty Sing, and the Reduction of Bassein, which with its Districts would connect our Possessin one continued Line from hence to the Myhic, were to be the Objects of the War, and the Boundaries of our Views in regard to the Acquisition of Territory for this Prefidency.

3. All Treaty for the present being at an End, and whenever re-commenced, there being such Difficulties as to render the Conclusion of a Peace by this Means very doubtful, I confess I have but little Hope of it, unless by Success in vigorous Measures directed to certain Objects, and strictly confined to them. What they are, as far as we are informed, and what they ought to be, according to our repeated Resolutions and Opinions, is above expressed in a few Words, and already in part accomplished. The Reduction of Bassein, and its dependent Districts, alone remains to compleat our Views; and when effected will bring us to that Period, when, if the Enemy result to accept of a Peace, they must continue the War with us on our own Terms, as we shall then be in Possession of a Revenue equal to all our Expences, on a Plan of mere Desence, which the Nature of the Country will make easy to us; while our Situation will render our Force in the highest Degree formidable to them during the War, and at all Times respectable.

6. It is true however, that neither the Revenue of all this Territory, nor much more, will suffice both for the Support of General Goddard's Army, and of our own Establishment, which besides we may sear will be growing more and more burthensome, on account of the Expectation our Troops naturally entertain of being supported on the same Footing with the Bengal Army, which tho given way to at first, only as a temporary Indulgence, will soon be grounded on the Plea of Precedents; and when our Officers have once formed their Expences upon this (extravagant) Plan, the Inefficacy of opposing Regulation to establishing Habit and Custon, will be felt here as it has been already experienced in other Governments.

7. By the Advices last received from the Governor General and Council, we learn, "that their "Distress for Money is such, that they shall be unable to make adequate Remittances for the "Support of this Presidency, and the Pay of the Army under General Goddard." This Distress may continue so long, or encrease so for as to overbalance by many Degrees all the Advantages derived from the Assistance of the Bengal Detachment. And the only Security we can have against the Evil, is in the Dispatch we use in putting our Affairs into such a Posture as to dispense with this dangerous Aid.

8. This we could never have done but by making such an Augmentation of our Military Force, as we have with this very View resolved on, and which, if the Events of the next Campaign do not much disappoint us, we may hope will enable us to fend back the Bengal and Madras Battalions as early as we can receive the necessary Communications in Reply to the Letters already written to Bengal on this Subject, and the Season will well permit; that is to say, by February or March next.

9. In a Word then, Peace, either formally or substantially, should be the first Object of our Wishes. The Second, (and hardly of less Importance to this Government than the First) to fend back the Troops of the other Presidencies, which we have no present Means nor suture Hope of being able to maintain, unless by Supplies from Bengal, which we are plainly told are no longer to be depended on.

10. We have ourselves scarce ever selt greater Distress for Money than at this Time, and must full expect to feel for fome Months; and I am well aware of the Impediment we may meet from this Cause, in the Execution of any Plan that can be proposed; yet this is no Reason with me against our entering on Action, but indeed the contrary; for if we can by any Means advance, we may still as we proceed hope to find some Relief to our Necessities, which, while we remain inactive, must be still encreasing on us till we are unable even to attempt a Remedy. The Expence of our present Establishment must be borne, whether our Troops are kept in Action or in Idleness; and this Expence alone is fufficient to fink us: The only Difference therefore is, that by the former we have a Prospect of relieving our Necessities; by the latter, none; for no Resource remains for us, but such as we may find in our own Efforts. These I flatter mysels will prove successful; but if they do not, we shall have the Consolation of having made them, and shall be subject to no Reproach for want of Forefight, or for Inactivity or Delay; and shall at least put off the Moment in which we are to give up all our Hope to the last. We must therefore, in spite of all Difficulties, resolve to struggle on reward, the Accomplishment of the End we have in View, and determine to be Ropped by nothing the additional Alibilities. I am not we hout Hopes too, that the Governor General and County and a second and Lowness of their Treasury, fall on some Expedient for affishing us, when you is read of the Tendency of our Measures to render all Supplies from them for REF (p)

the future unnecessary, and to relieve our Employers from the intolerable Burden the Bengal Anny on this Side of India has proved to them.

11. Before I proceed to propose the Sentiments I mean to submit to the Committee, relative to the Operations of the enfuing Campaign, it is necessary to take Notice of some Circumstances of our Connection with Futty Sing, to which the last Letter from Bengal refers, as well as of all other Particulars of our present Situation which are to be taken into Consideration in order to form a just Judgment with regard to our future Measures.

12. The Governor General and Council have been pleased to inform us, that they shall consorm to the Caution given them by us, relative to the apparent Disproportion between our Share of the Partition of Guzerat and Futty Sing's, in their final Ratification of the Treaty with him. They likewife feem inclined to think that exclusive of the above-mentioned Disproportion, the Exchange of Territory agreed on with him must rather prove disadvantageous to the Company, because, as they say, We gain for Lands lying remote and rendered in a Degree inaccessible to the Marattas by the In-" terpolition of Two Capital Rivers, a District immediately on their Borders and open to their 4 Incursions."

13. They have accordingly recommended Three several Ways of finally adjusting the Partition of the Province; viz.

1st. Either to annul the Exchange altogether, and both Parties to possess their Share according to the former Division between the Peshwa and Futty Sing; for this I apprehend to be the Meaning of the Governor General and Council, who feem to have mifunderstood the Situation of Zinnore and Dubhoy, and to have confidered them as having both formerly belonged to Futty Sing, and to have supposed likewise that he had possessed no Part of the Province to the Southward of these Places.

Or, 2dly. Futty Sing to make up the Disproportion by further Cession of Land to the Company,

Or, 3dly. By paying an equivalent Subfidy in Ready Money.

14. The Committee will recollect, that General Goddard in his Reply to their Letter of the 20th February, expresses his Opinion positively, that the Division in point of Revenue is already in our Favour; and till we have an Opportunity of informing ourselves with Certainty on this Point, it will be highly impolitic to alarm Futty Sing with the Appearance of inflituting fresh Claims: And as the Governor General and Council have kept this Matter open for future Adjustment, I conceive that for the present this is sufficient; and it will be advisable to wait a more convenient Season than the present for the Discussion.

15. With regard to the Objection which the Governor General and Council have stated to the Situation of our Division of the Province, it seems to me totally without Foundation. General Goddard has in the Principal of the Exchanges with Futty Sing, conformed strictly to the Plan which was originally concerted with him, and approved by the Governor General and Council. The Southern Part of Guzerat will, after the Reduction of Bassein and its Districts, connect in one continued Line with the rest of our Territory. The Mountains which stretch Northward from thence are a Security to it from the Southward and Eastward; and the Myhie, which forms our Boundary to the Northward, and the Nerbuddah and Tappy which interfect our Portion of Guzerat, and are navigable higher than any other Rivers of the Province, give a clear Advantage to this Part of the Country over that North of the Myhie, from which, if we were possessed of it, we should be cut off by Futty Sing's Division to the Southward, and during great Part of the Fair Seafon should have but a tedious Communication with it by Sea, on account of the North West Winds which then prevail, and the Difficulties of the Navigation in the Gulph of Cambay; while on the Side of Malwa and Candeish, it lies equally exposed with the other, as well as to the Depredations of the numerous Bands of Freebooters who are in Possession of the Country to the N. W. By which and by the various Oppressions it has suffered from its many Masters, within these last Thirty Years, it is totally changed from what it formerly has been; a melancholy Inflance of which may be seen in the present State of the once-slourishing City of Ahmedabad.

16. The Governor General and Council therefore having defired that we would afford General Goddard the Aid of our Advice on this Subject, and in a Manner that seems to refer the Decision on it to us, I would propose that we should recommend to General Goddard to adhere by all Means to the first Intention of referving the Southern Part of the Province to ourselves, and likewise for the present, wave entering on the more exact Adjustment of the respective Proportions of the Company, and of Futty Sing in the Division of it. The Revenue we shall be in immediate Receipt of, as we are now fituated in that Quarter, and the further Views we have to profecute on this Side rendering it most prudent in my Opinion to avoid a Subject that may give Cause of Dissaulfaction to Futty Sing, to whom (if necessary) I think it might even be expedient to confirm any Advantage he may have, according to the present Partition, rather than to hazard a Breach or even Coolness with him, that would oblige us in any Degree to withdraw our Attention from the Pro-fecution of the Objects which so pressingly demand it to the Southward.

17. I have the Pleasure to observe that General Goddard's Sentiments with regard to the Reduction of Bassein, as the first Operation of the ensuing Campaign, entirely concur with ours, and he has defired "to receive from us the earliest Communication of the Plan we would recommend for carrying it into Execution, the Manner, Time, and every Thing else that may be conducive " to its early Success." He is even so anxious for undertaking this important Enterprize, that he feems to wish to come down by Sea, as soon as ever the Season will permit of his embarking his

Troops

PENDIX,

Troops from Surat, where he informs us he is providing every Material necessary for constructing the Works and carrying on the Siege which can easily be conveyed by Water; but depending entirely on us for Assistance of such Artillery, Stores, and Ammunition, as may be requisite, and also for the necessary Supplies of Provisions.

18. The General informs us likewise that Scindia and Holkar are certainly separated, the former being gone to Eugene, and the latter to Indour; and that he has recommended to the Governor General and Council to affift in a Plan of detaining them in the Northern Provinces, while we pursue our Views here, by causing a powerful Diversion of their Forces on the Side of Malwa; and we must suppose, that it is to this Purpose that the Operations of the Detachment under Captain Popham, in Conjunction with the Rana of Ghode, are now directed, though we have heard nothing from the Governor General and Council on this Subject, and know nothing of the Proceedings of that Detachment but by the Intelligence of private Correspondents.

19. By the Success which has attended the Detachment ordered by General Goddard against Gunnese Punt, in driving him entirely out of Guzerat, and in taking Possession of the Forts to the Southward of it, the General's Quarters are now extended to the Borders of the Districts dependant on Bassein, and the Revenue from our Division of Guzerat is secured for the next Scason. Scindia and Holkar are the only Enemies who can molest us from the Northward; and even if their Attention should not be engaged on the Side of Bengal, yet there is no Reason to suppose that they will be able to affemble their Troops and settle the Terms on which they are to afford their Asfistance to Nana, so as to attempt any Thing against us next Season earlier than they did the last; that is to fay, before the End of February: And indeed Scindia's Operations during the last Campaign seemed rather directed to cover his own Country than to attack ours; and if that be still his View, we shall have nothing to apprehend from him on the Side of Guzerat while our Troops are employed on this.

20. General Goddard, however, I dare fay will be able to provide fufficiently for the Protection of that Province when he comes this Way, as in case of Necessity a strong Reinforcement from the Garrifon of Surat and Broach may take the Field to join fuch Troops as the General may think proper to leave behind him to the Northward.

21. In the mean Time I confider the Polition of General Goddard's Army, till the Scason for Action commences, as very advantageous, by fecuring the Pergunnahs from which we are to expect fo large a Part of our Resources for the next Year against the Incursions of the Enemy from the Southward: This Advantage will still be maintained, and even extended, by his bringing down his Army to the Attack of Bassein by Land, as he will in fact by this Means take in the whole Country as he advances; he will too be in Readiness for undertaking the Siege of Bassein immediately on his Arrival there; whereas if he comes down by Sea to Bombay, some Time will be necessary to furnish him with the necessary Apparatus for the Siege. And after the Reduction of the Place, his Army will require to be fitted out afresh for the Field, in which we are under great Disadvantages from the Nature of our present Limits; and in the mean Time the Country between the Hills and the Sea lying open to the Enemy, they may do confiderable Damage to our Northern Pergunnahs by Incursions from the Concan.

22. At the Time General Goddard proposed coming down by Sea to the Attack of Bassein, he was unacquainted with the Footing we had gained on the Continent, nor can he yet be informed of the Purposes to which we may be able to apply this Advantage in favour of his Operations against Bassein, and his March to the Southward; these I statter myself are of the most decisive Kind, and will I think appear fuch with fo great a Degree of Evidence, as I proceed to explain the Part I propose our Troops should take in the next Campaign, that I do not doubt of the Concurrence of the Committee.

23. By possessing ourselves of Callian we have secured one of the most favourable Openings into the Concan, fituated at easy and nearly equal Distances from the principal Passes leading to and from the Decan; it must be by possessing these, and by a respectable Body of Troops to cover the Country, that we must endeavour to exclude the Enemy from it, and render it useful to oursclives. I would accordingly propose that Five Battalions should be assembled at Callian, and all neceffary Preparation made for them to take the Field as early as the Season will permit, it being a Point of the last Importance to have this Body of Troops in Readiness to protect the Harvest before the Enemy can begin their Operations: I do not pretend now to fix the precise Time for their entering on Action, which must depend on the Season and on many Particulars of local Knowledge, which can only be judged of on the Spot, I therefore should think it sufficient for the present to appoint the Officer we pitch on for this Command, together with the commanding Officer of Artillery and the Commissary, who should now be made acquainted with our Views in forming this Army, and be employed as may feem necessary in making the requisite Preparation in their several These Views, according to my Idea, are to secure to ourselves the Possession of the Country, and by that Means a plentiful Subliftence for our Troops during the Campaign, to guard the Passes from the Decan into the Concan, and otherwise cover the Country till General Goddard's Arrival, and then to cover the Siege of Bassein.

24. By the Appointment of the above-mentioned Officers, and communicating our Plan of Operations thus early, I make no Doubt of having every thing put in the necessary Degree of Forwardness in the several Departments, without any unnecessary Encrease of Expence. The Officers we entrust with this Command will acquire, before the Season for Action opens, a thorough Knowledge of the Country, in which the Enemy have a vast Advantage over us at present, and man present pare by many small Enterprizes and Movements for the main Service on which he knows he is to be employed, and thus greatly facilitate its future Success.

25. The Advantage we shall derive from the Position of our Troops and of General Goddard's Army, seems to me to be of the greatest Consequence, it will secure to us the Produce of an extensive and plentiful Tract of Country, at a Time when our Distress for Money will render such a Resource doubly valuable; the Enemy will be obliged to sight for an Entrance into the Consequist they presume to attempt it, which I think they hardly will, as they will then be shut up between the Two Armies; we may consider the Country therefore as ours from the Moment our Troops take the Field, if we are beforehand in this respect with the Enemy.

26. With an Army from hence in the Field to prevent the Enemy from entering the Country on this Side, it will not be very material whether General Goddard is a little fooner or later in undertaking the Siege of Bassein. Our Army in the Conkan will secure his unmolested March to the Southward, he will find a plentiful Country to supply his Army as he comes along, and we hope to meet with little Opposition in the complete Reduction of it with so respectable Force both in Numbers and Situation.

27. The Troops will better bear running in Arrears while they are kept employed on actual Service and subsisted from the Country, than they will while they are idle in Garrison, and have no other Dependance than their Pay; in this Respect therefore Money will be less necessary to us, though we may feel the Want of it in others; but the Reputation of Success, and the near Prospect of bettering our Finance, will of themselves keep up a Credit that may prove a Resource which we shall hardly obtain by any other Means.

28. A further Confideration worthy of Attention is this, that the Difference of a Month earlier in the Field may make the Difference of a whole Year or more in point of Revenue, or in the Aids of Subfishence to be expected from the Country, for if the Enemy are able to consume and destroy the Produce, it is certain that nothing can be had from it till a new Crop comes in; and we may likewise reckon as our Loss, the Detriment the suture Revenues must suffer by the Depopulation of the Villages.

29. The Fall of Bassein, our indisputed Possession of the Country and Passes, and the actual Strength of the Two Armies, will certainly spread an Alarm at Poona, that may not improbably be expected to form a Crisis, that may be improved to the great Work of Peace, but will certainly at least serve to secure the Tranquillity of our more distant Possessions, as the Enerny will hardly venture to send their Forces from Decan, while they see ours assembled so near the Capital.

30. In order to heighten to the utmost the Impression this Situation may make on the Enemy, and at the same Time to keep alive the Reliance Ragoba has still had on us for Assistance; it might perhaps be worth while to let him try his Fortune in the Southern Parts of the Conkan, between this and Goa, with such Forces as he could collect, and backed by a small Detachment of ours. He has yet some Partizans in Arms in the Country. Monackjee Funera has sent to me, offering Assistance, and I know that there are now Overtures making to Ragoba on this Subject by the Rajah of Callapore, whose Country gives an Opening into the Decan, on the Banks of the Kislna, not far from Meritz; Ragoba might then be able to form some Establishment for himself, in which, while the War continued, he would be casily supported by us, engage much of the Enemy's Attention, and render the Work of Peace more casy than it is at present. This, however, is rather thrown out as a Hint, that may be pursued at its proper Season, than as a Part of the present Plan.

31. If instead of stepping forward in the War, we confine ourselves merely to maintaining our Garrisons in Callian and Bellpore, and waiting there General Goddard's Arrival from Surat, we must be satisfied to see the Enemy possessed of the Country, as soon as ever the Season will allow them to take the Field, and our Garrisons insulted with Impunity, and straitened for every Neessary of Life. The Enemy will support themselves by Means of the Resources we have sailed to avail ourselves of, and may prepare for General Goddard's March to the Southward, by laying waste the whole Country so compleatly, as not to leave a Blade of Grass between him and Callian By like Means, in a much less Distance, only 13 Miles, Mhadjee Sindia effectually flooped General Goddard's Progress last Season; and in the present Instance we have the more to apprehend from this Mode of Desence on the Enemy's Part, as it may go near to starve us on our Islands and thus, besides our own Distress, disappoint General Goddard in the Dependance, he expressly say the has on us for Provisions, which it will be impossible for us to surnish, unless by securing the Country, from whence it is produced.

Country, from whence it is produced.

32. If when the Enemy is once come down into Conkan, these Dangers appear so pressing, as to induce us to send over our Troops to act against them, we shall find, that for want of local little necessary Preparation they will be landed in so crippled a State that they will be unable to act, or but to little Essect; much of the Mischief will be already done; and the Enemy, who might easily have been kept out of the Country, being once in it, will render it so difficult a Matter to supply ourselves, either with the necessary Cattle for Carriage and Drast, or with Privisions, as will perhaps put it out of our Power, but certainly render it very difficult to expel them; General Goddard indeed may still come down by Sea, and though under manifest Disalvantages, he may reduce Bassein, the Acquisition of which would burden us with another chargeable Garrison, without enlarging our Means of maintaining it; for General Goddard, if he come down down by Sea, will have to fit out his Army anew for taking the Field; and if the Enemy are interpolation of the Country, will be as little able to effect it as we shall, for an Encrease of our Numbers will only prove an Encrease of Difficulty. These Considerations, I think, make it evident that the Reduction of Bassein will be performed with infinitely greater Advantage if General Goddard come by Land, than in the other Mode of bringing down his Army by Sea.

33. After stating thus at large the Reasons on which I found my Recommendation of the above-mentioned Measures, I shall not differable the Objections to which they seem most liable.

- 34. It may perhaps be thought that at a Season when we may probably expect to be attacked by an Armament from France, we ought not to carry our Views beyond our own Defence till that Danger is past. My Answer to this Objection is, that in the first Place it is probable that our Troops cannot take the Field in the Conkan before the Season for an Attack on this Island by the French is past; and secondly, that this Scene of Action is proposed to be confined so much to our own Neighbourhood, that they will always be at Hand to return to our Affistance at a few Hours Warning. From the Advices last received, we have no Reason to think the Probability of such an Attack at all encreased; but even if it were far greater than any one I suppose can at present think it, I confess, no more Probability seems sufficient to justify us in remaining inactive. Under such Circumstances as we are now in, we have it not in our Choice to make Peace either with the French or the Marattas, and therefore must remain subject to the Risk of a joint Attack from them; for which very Reason it seems necessary that we should exert ourselves with greater Vigour, in order to establish our Superiority over one, before the Arrival of the other. I am by no Means insensible to the Danger we might be exposed to from an Attack by the French while we are engaged with the Marattas. But I think this Danger better guarded against by pushing hardily through the Difficulties that press the most nearly on us, than by timid Precautions, which provide against only one of our Fears, and that the most remote.

 35. An Objection of far greater Weight than that abovementioned, in my Opinion, is sounded
- on our present Want of Money to carry on a Plan of active Service into Execution. The Balance of Cash on the First of this Month was only about 40,000 Rupees; and from that Time to the End of October, I fee no Probability of our receiving more than Three, or at most Three Lacks and a Half. Our ordinary Expences for the same Time cannot be estimated at less than One Lack and a Half per Month, which, with One Lack to be fent from Tellicherry, One Lack for the neceffary Preparation for our Troops to take the Field according to the above Plan, and One more for their unavoidable Expences, will bring our Charges within the fame Time to Nine Lacks of Rupees. We may flatter ourselves with the Hope of Supplies from Bengal; but we cannot depend on them, and therefore must look for such Resources as are to be had within ourselves; and in my Opinion there never was an Occasion which demanded our most strenuous Exertion than the prefent, for we are now fo critically fituated, that in the State of our Affairs for the enfuing Year, and even the Fortune of the War, will depend on the Forwardness in which we may be for Action at the very first Opening of the Season. Whatever Resources therefore may present themselves after October next, if in the mean Time we are unable to find Cash for our necessary preparatory Expences, they will come too late for our Purpoles; the Enemy will be in Possession of the Country before us; we shall be obliged to act against them under all the Disadvantages of an unfurnished Army, and experience all the Difficulties which their great Superiority in Cavalry enables them to oppose to us; and if at last we drive them past the Mountains, we shall have possessed ourselves only of a depopulated and exhausted Country that will yield us neither Revenue nor Subsistence.
- 36. In Circumstances of such pressing Necessity, and with Objects of so great Magnitude in View, I should not doubt of the Propriety of our resolving on the most desperate Remedies, if none others were lest. I flatter myself however that we have yet one Resource within our Power, which will furnish us with an immediate Supply of ready Money within the Time abovementioned. There is now in our Warehouse Copper to the Value of about Seven or Eight Lacks, which I would propose should be peremptorily fold, to be paid for in ready Money within Three Months, under a Penalty of Fisteen per Cent. in Default of Payment at the stipulated Terms. It would be necessary likewise, that it should be sold in large Lots, not less than 1000 Maunds each, in order that the Whole might be purchased by responsible Men, who might be depended on for making good their Engagements. I think too we ought to make this Sale without Delay, as the Arrival of Ships that may now be expected, may reduce the Price of our Copper much below the Price it may now setch.
- 37. Notwithstanding the present Scarcity of Money, it is generally believed that there are lodged in this Place large Sums of Gold and Silver, which, since the Troubles in the Maratta Empire, some of the richest Bramins have deposited here as a Place of greater Security than any other they could pitch on, on Account of the Nature of our Government, and the established Rights of private Property among us. These People are not indeed Merchants, but Copper being considered here as a Sort of precious Metal, they would I believe exchange the Money for it, if they saw Prospect of sufficient Advantage in it; we must expect therefore that it would sell low, comparatively to the Price we have lately sold at, on the long Credit usually allowed at our Sales; yet I think we shall still get at least a saving Price for the Company. And I am persuaded every one who considers the State of our Affairs with any Degree of Knowledge or Attention, must be satisfied that a present Command of Money for the Purposes of the War, is of greater Moment than any Difference of Price in the Sale of our Copper, which can never be put in Competition with any Rep. VI.

Nº 220. N D I X. E

one of the Objects now in Contemplation; excluding the Enemy from the Conkan; fecuring the immediate Possession of it to the Company, together with the Subsistence of our Armies and Gar. risons; compleating our Line of Territory; bringing the War as near as possible to a Termination, and relieving our Establishment from the Expence of the Bengal Army.

38. I intirely concur with the Governor General and Council, that as much as possible of our Revenue, and the whole of that arising from the new acquired Purgunnahs, should be set apart for the Purposes of the War. Our Aid however from this Service till after October, will be nothing. From that Time till the End of December, I hope we may be able to procure about Six Lacks from Surat and Broach, which will just serve to support our own indispensable Expences. After the Commencement of the next Year, I flatter myself our Supplies from the Northward will be confiderable enough to render our Situation somewhat easy. And supposing our Business in the Conkan effected and that we are relieved from the Burden of the Bengal and Madras Battalions, I think we shall see the Affairs of the Company on this Side of India in a fair and prosperous Train.

39. As ready Money will be absolutely necessary for the Payment of the Troops of the other Presidencies before they are sent Home, and the Necessities of the Governor General and Council. feem so pressing as to oblige them to turn their Views even to us for Assistance, which I cause think we shall be able to furnish from any Funds which we shall be in Receipt of so soon as the Month; and the whole Property of this Place being already in a Manner invested in the Compan, Bonds, so that we cannot expect to be able to procure any further Sums at Interest here; I thank it would be expedient to request of the Governor General and Council to negociate a Loan in Cal. cutta to the Amount of Ten Lacks of Rupees on the Bonds of this Government, and to finding round the Amount in Specie; with which we should, I think, find ourselves sufficiently in Cash to affift in discharging the Arrears of the Bengal and Madras Troops previous to their Departure.

40. The Extent and Importance of this Subject has led me into great Length. I wish therefor before I quit, to bring my Opinion, together with the principal Facts and Arguments on what they are founded, within one general and comprehensive View.

41. I think it absolutely necessary to bring this Maratta War to as speedy a Conclusion as possible, at the same Time I see little present Hope of Peace by Means of Treaty or Negociation: I would wish therefore to see the War confined strictly to what I conceive ought to be the Objects of n, 1. the Attainment of which we may either compel the Enemy to Peace, or reduce the War on ea Part to a mere Plan of Defence, for which the Revenue we shall be in Possession of after the Reduction of Bassein and its dependant Districts, will amply suffice (if we are once relieved from the Burden of the Bengal and Madras Troops, to the Expence of which, added to that of our ona Establishments, much more than the Revenue of all the Territory we hope to acquire, would prove adequate). The Reduction of Bassein and its dependant Districts then I think should be proceeded on, without fuffering our Attention to be diverted from this by any other Object. But as the Posses fion of Baffein alone without the Country, will only be increasing our Charge at a Time when we need every Resource to enable us to support our Exertions, I would have our Operations to planned as to provide at once for the Reduction of Baffein and of the Country which we must depend on for Subfiftence, and thus difappoint the Enemy in the only Plan of Defence in which the can hope for Success; for these Purposes it seems indispensably necessary that we should take out Measures so that our Troops may be in the Field some Time before the Enemy; and I accordingly propose to make such Appointments of Officers, and such a Communication to them of our Plan as feems necessary, in order to prepare for its Execution. Sensible of the Difficulties we have to struggle with from the low State of our Finances, I think it necessary to take our Measures as fuch a Manner as may most effectually tend to the Relief of our Necessities; but I do not that those Necessities, nor the Difficulties arising from them, any sufficient Reason for Inaction. If our Want of Money is now great, it is likely to become much greater, unless relieved by our own Effort. If these are now disficult to us, they will soon be impossible, and if they are so already, we are the already undone; yet even in this Case we owe to ourselves and to our Constituents to bring the Point to the Proof, that nothing may remain unattempted that hereafter may be thought likely to have afforded a Remedy. I am far however from thinking our Affars fo desperate, and have proposed such Measures as to me seem likeliest to put our Affairs in a prosperous Train, together with my Reason for what I propose the Committee will judge both of one and the other, and likewise consider whether there is any other Plan more suitable to all the Circumstances of our present Situation. If the Committee concur with me, I think we cannot be too early in communicating our Measure to General Goddard and to the Governor General and Council, who though " une " able to make adequate Remittances both for the Support of this Prefidency and the Pay of the " Army under the Command of General Goddard," we may be confident will not neglect to provide for their own Troops at least, at a Time when we are straining every Nerve to bring the Wat to fuch a Period as will relieve them not only from their present heavy Charges on this Side of In dia, but from all other in Time to come.

APPENDIX, N° 330.

Copy of a Letter from General Goddard, dated at Surat the 6th August 1780, and received the 14th following.

Gentlemen,

I have the Pleasure to acknowledge your Letter of the 3d Instant. I am sorry at the Necessity which you have informed me has induced you to appropriate the Two Lacks of Rupees sent round from Bengal on the Belborough, to the Payment of the Arrears due to the Detachment furnished by your Presidency, because it is a Proof that your own Wants are exceedingly pressing, and disappoint every Expectation I might have formed of Relief and Assistance from you in discharging a Part of the Expences of the late Campaign. I could not indeed build any thing on this Hope, from the frequent Descriptions you had given me of the low State of your Finances, nor did I think it the less incumbent on me to provide an adequate Fund to the Payment of the Arrears due whenever it might be in my Power, and for that Purpose I meant to have taken the first Opportunity of remitting a Sum of Money to Bombay, which can always be done without any Bois, and generally with some Advantage of Exchange.

Respecting what you mention of Colonel Hartley and the Paymaster, being unable to inform you of any Provision having been made for the Payment of your Troops by me, it is not at all furprizing, as I was myfelf at that Time unacquainted with the Extent of the Refources it might afterwards be in my Power to command, and of course could not speak with any Certainty either to the Amount of the Sum itself, or to the Time when it might be allowed me to furnish it. Upon the March of your Detachment, low as my Finances were, I thought it necessary to make every possible Exertion, and advanced what could be then ill afforded from the general Stock, R' 1,10,000. I at the fame Time told Colonel Hartley I should take the first Opportunity of remitting whatever Sum might be requifite to clear off the Arrears; which I meant to do when an Application might be made flating their Amount, and the improved State of the Treasury put it in my Power.

The Paymafter, in his Estimate given you, has generally faid it will require upwards of Three Lacks to pay off the Arrears; of this Sum he has already received from you Two I acks, and the Paymafter of the Bengal Detachment has by my Orders discharged Bills on his Account to the Amount of near R' 1,40,000. This Sum exceeds Mr. Lewis's Statement; but as he has never delivered in any Accounts of his Office from the first Formation of Colonel Hartley's Detachment, 1 am at a Lofs to know whether he confines his Estimate to the Arrears of the Troops actually returned to the Prefidency, or extends to every Expence of those Troops while in the hield. therefore induced to beg you will be pleafed to call upon Mr. Lewis for an Account of the Expenditure of fuch Sums as he has already received, and direct him to transmit me the regular Accounts of his Difbuildments to the latest Period possible, by which the Balance due, if any, may be exactly afcertained previous to my Compliance with the Application you fay you have left him to make to me for what further Sum may be wanting.

Although the Honourable Governor General and Council will most probably have themselves transmitted you their Sentiments upon the Exchange of Territory in the late Treaty with Futty Sing, as it may not have reached you I beg to transcribe Extract of their Letter to me on that Subject.

" We have received from the Prefident and Select Committee of Bombay, a Copy of your Cor" respondence with them to the 24th February.

"It appears by their last Letter in this Correspondence, that in the late Treaty with Futty Sing, you " have ceded to him Districts which they estimate at the Annual Revenue of 27 Lacks of Rupces, " but that in Return there was only vielded the Company the Possession of a Country estimated at " 10,62,000 Rupees, by which a Difference of 16,37,100 R' arifes, which appears to be an entire " Loss to the Company: We are only able to account for this Exchange, which has occasioned fuch a Diminution of the original Value of our Portion of the Province of Guzerat, by sup-" poling that your Knowledge of the Character of Futty Sing might suggest to you the Expedi-" ency of having some Check over him, that the Fort and District of Dubhoy from its Conti-" guity to Brodera, might appear to you a defirable Possession for the Company on this Account; but uninformed as we are of the other Circumstances on which the comparative Advantage of " the Districts may depend, it feems to us that, exclusively of the Disserence, the Exchange " made must rather prove disadvantageous to the Company; as we gain for Lands lying at a "Distance, and rendered in a Degree inaccessible to the Marattas, by the Interposition of ca-pital Rivers, a District immediately bordering upon theirs, and at all Times open to their " Incursions.

"This Confideration, we believe, did not occur to you; but as it appears to us deserving of your "Attention, we defire that you will reconfider the Part of the Treaty with Futty Sing to which "it belongs, and avail yourself of any Advice respecting it, which you may receive from the President and Scleet Committee of Bombay, whom we have requested to affish you with it.

" Such being our Opinion of the Exchange of the Land stipulated in the Ticaty, we think " proper to direct,

" rit. That you either require the Consent of Futty Sing to annul this Exchange, and to give the Possession of the Districts which formerly appertained to the Peshwa on the North " of the River Myhie, and which were ceded to him by you, and to receive back the Diffries of Zinnore and Dubhoy, originally the Guicawar Share on the South of the Tappey, which were ceded to him by you in like Manner:

"Or, Secondly, allowing the Exchange to continue, to affign and to deliver over to the Company Possession of an additional Portion of Land, yielding a Revenue equal to the Difference " produced by that Exchange, in the Manner prescribed to you by the President and Select Com-" mittee of Bombay, in their Letter to you of the 24th February:

"Or, Thirdly, to enter into a special Engagement for a Subsidy payable in ready Money

" equal to that Amount.

"The Treaty has been transmitted to us by the President and Select Committee of Bombar for our Ratification, and we shall return it to them in a few Days, properly confirmed; but "guarding it with a Refervation, providing a new and equitable Settlement of the Province of Guzerat, according to the 5th Article."

You will perceive by it the Information on which they ground their Objections to the present Partition and Alteration they have proposed, contained in your Letter of the 24th February, to which Period only they had received a Copy of our Correspondence from you. I have therefore thought it necessary to send them an Extract of my Answer to you of the 7th March upon the Iame Subject.

Since writing this Letter, I have made every minute Enquiry into the Amount of the Peshwa or Revenue North of the Myhie, and have Reason to be convinced, from the patticular Information I have received, and a Comparison of the several Accounts I have been able to obtain, that the Statement you transmitted was greatly exaggerated, as indeed you acknowledged yourselves you could not depend on its Accuracy; that the Corrections I offered in my former Letter relative to the Valuation of Amedabad Pitlad, and the Article of Muluchgan, was just and well founded upon real and indisputable Facts, and that upon the whole, the Exchange of Lands was not only fair and equitable, but attended from concurring Circumstances with particular Advantages to the Company. The supposed Revenue of Muluckgurry, is too variable and precarious to be a defirable Object of any Government, except one like that of the Marattas, which is founded upon violent Measures and Rapine. Even the small Sum collected from that Source, which I will venture to say has not for the last Ten Years exceeded Two Lacks Annually, require a confiderable Force to collect it, and beyond that, as no Means but Compulsion, and the full Exertion of that Claim which the Strong may be faid to possess over the Weak, could be used with any Prospect of Advantage (the Rajahs and independent Zemindars not acknowledging any Subjection) every Encrease of Revenue from that Quarter must depend upon, and will be in Proportion to the Numbers and Success of the Troops employed to inforce it. A just and equitable Division of Country between the English and Futty Sing, proportioned to the Value of the Districts before possessed by the latter and the Poona Government, being the avowed Intention and express Object of the Treaty, I have assured the Honourable Governor General and Council, that I shall cheerfully and zealoufly co-operate with you in every Meafure that may be found requifite after a minute and close Investigation to effect that End, towards which I have myself thought it improper and impolitic to take any immediate Step, and shall therefore be happy to receive your surface. Sentiments upon a Subject of so great Importance.

Respecting the Opinion passed by the Honourable Governor General and Council, of the local Advantages, exclusive of the Considerations sustained by the Company in the Exchange of Territory I beg Leave to transcribe for your Perusal the Sentiments I have expressed to them on that Subject, and do not doubt, from the Opportunity you possess of observing the State of the Country, and your Knowledge of the just Grounds upon which I have founded my Remarks, but that the Opnion I have given will meet with your Concurrence.

" This Measure was conformable to the Plan proposed and recommended to me by the President " and Select Committee of Bombay. And I must confess, for many Reasons it then did and still does appear to me the most advantageous Mode of Partition that could be adopted.

" If the Lands to the Northward of the Myhie are further removed from the main Power of the Marattas than those we gain, and rendered difficult of Access by the Interposition of Three " Capital Rivers, they are also separated, and in a Manner unconnected with the Company's " former Possessions, and in case of an Attack the same Obstructions of River, together with the " Distance, would unite to prevent our being able to furnish the necessary Assistance to their Defence, except at an encreased Expence, and at an extreme Hazard and Inconvenience, as all the Country we do hold to the Southward would in such case be left entirely exposed to the " Infults and Inroads of the Enemy; besides, the Entrance into the Northern Districts is, at the Sca-" fon for Military Operations, always open to the Marattas by the Province of Malva; and whenever they have Means to make an Attack upon Guzerat, it has always been by beginning their Edicas to the Northward."

The Governor General and Council having further informed me that they have fignified to you their Defire of appropriating every Excess of Revenue which may immediately arise to the Company from the Operations and Success of the Army under my Command, and exclusively to the Support of that Expence, I take the Liberty of requesting that you will be pleased to give the necessary Orders to your Chiefs at Surat and Broach for that Effect. The low State of my Treasury, and no other Source of recruiting it now offering, but by drawing Bills upon the Government of Bengal at a confiderable Loss, and even that but temporary and precarious, I hope you will approve of the Proposals I beg Leave to make, that Instructions may be given to the Gentlemen at both these Stations, whenever the Sum collected may amount to One Lack, to pay it into my Hands.

Copy of a Letter from the Select Committee to General Goddard.

· Sir,

The Season for Action now approaching, the President has laid before us a Statement of the present Situation of Assairs, as relative to the Maratta War, and his Sentiments in respect to the Operations of the ensuing Campaign, with a general Plan of Measures most suitable to the Circumstances in which we now are.

We lose no Time in transmitting to you an Abstract of the President's Minute on those Points which are requisite for your immediate Information, and in advising you of the Measures which appear to us most expedient to be pursued at this Juncture.

The President's Statement of our present Difficulties is just in every Particular, and we entirely concur with him in the Necessity of the most vigorous Exertions on our Part for averting the further Distress we should be exposed to by Inactivity, and for bringing the Maratta War to as speedy a Conclusion as possible; nor can we indulge any Hopes of effecting either of those, or of improving our Situation, but by the timely Execution of the Measures he has proposed, and strictly confining our Attention and Efforts to the Objects already defined and explained to you as the Boundaries of our Views in regard to the Acquisition of Territory for the Presidency.

The Plan of Operations proposed for the ensuing Campaign appears calculated with every Probability of Success to answer these important Ends, and to be concerted with all possible Attention to our present Circumstances and Means of Execution; and we have accordingly determined to send an Army into the Conkan as early as the Season will possibly permit, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, to anticipate the Enemy in securing Possession of the Country and Passes into the Decan, whilst the Army under your Command moves down to the Siege of Bassein, when our Forces may be employed in covering the Siege, or as Occasion may require. The Advantages of this Plan are so obvious, and so clearly explained in the President's Minute, that we shall not repeat them here; and shall only observe, that we see no other possible Method of securing Subsistence for the Army, for which you have acquainted us you shall entirely depend on us.

It will be effential to the complete Execution of the Plan for fecuring the Country before it is ravaged and destroyed by the Enemy, that the Bengal Army should move down by Land to the Siege of Bassein, and we think more eligible in every other Respect than transporting it by Sea; not only by the Saving of much Time and Expence; but as it will tend to distract and impress the Enemy with an Opinion of our Strength, exclusive of the Argument that may be drawn in support of our Opinion from the Aversion the Bengal Sepoys entertain for the Sea, the Chance of Accidents, and the Disgust they may conceive to the Service, if embarked contrary to their Intentions. What is urged on this Head we doubt not will fully convince you that the Reduction of Bassein will be performed with infinitely greater Advantage, as well as other very important Points provided for more essectually, if the Army is moved down by Land, rather than in the other Mode of transporting it by Sea: And we trust, that when you have attentively considered the Reasons on which our Opinion is grounded, any further Recommendation will be needless to induce you to adopt the Measure of marching the Army by Land to the Siege of Bassein.

We cannot point out the exact Time for your commencing the Siege, as that will depend on the Weather, but according to the usual Course of the Seasons, we imagine you will be able to put the Army in Motion the 1st of October. We however recommend to you to commence your March as soon as you shall judge it practicable, and the Rains sufficiently abated to permit the Passage of the Rivers; whilst, as already mentioned, we shall exert our utmost Findeavour to preferve the Country in a Condition to afford the necessary Supplies to the Army during the March and the Continuance of the Campaign in this Quarter.

We shall surnish the Artillery Stores and Ammunition requisite for the Siege agreeable to your Desire, and lodge them at Danavie, where they will be in Readiness for Service immediately on your Artival, and we shall provide Vessels for transporting them to the Place where they are to be landed; and for keeping your Communication open to Sea.

We understand there is now a large Force in Bassein, sail to consist of 8 or 10,000 Men; and as the Fiterny must for some Time have expected our Attack, we conclude they are not unprepared for the Event. You will no Doubt see the Importance of making an effectual Disposition for the Protection of Guzerat during your Absence to the Southward. So principal a Part of your Resources depending on the Receipt from the late Acquisitions, to enable you more sufficiently to provide for their Desence, we now send Directions to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach to afford you such Reinforcements from the Garrison as can be spared, if you should judge such Assistance necessary, and make a Requisition to them on that Head.

REP. VI. (r)

The Governor General and Council have in a late Letter given their Sentiments on the Exchange of Territory made with Futty Sing according to the late Treaty, and recommended other Modes of Partition which are particularized in the Governor's Minute, as well as the Objections that lay against those Modes; but circumstanced as Matters now are, we are persuaded you will agree with us in Opinion, that it will be more expedient for the present to avoid a Subject that may give Dissatisfaction and raise Doubt in Futty Sing, and to wave any further Discussion of the Matter till 4 more convenient Season.

Our Distress for Money is so very great, that we shall find the utmost Difficulty in furnishing the necessary Sum, even for the slender Equipments of the Body of Forces to be sent into the Conkan, a Service on which so much depends; and at a Time when our own Necessities press so hard upon us, our Embarrassiment is doubly encreased by the Intimation we have received from the Go. vernor General and Council, that their own Distress will put it out of their Power to make adequate Remittances for the Support of this Presidency, and the Pay of the large Army under your Command; on which Account they desire that every Accession of Revenue which may arise to the Company from the Success of that Army, may be set aside, and appropriated exclusively to that Ex. pence: We shall not, however, renounce our Reliance on more effectual Support from Bengal, when the Governor General and Council have received our late Representations, and are informed of the Levies made with your Advice for the Defence of our new Possessions, for which it was neceffary we should make Provision, as their Desence must in the End devolve on us; but when they fee the vigorous Exertion we are making to bring the War to an advantageous' Crisis, we confidently hope they will strain their extensive Resources to second our Endeavours, or at least that they will provide for the Payment of the Bengal Army, and make this exclusive Appropriation unnecessary as it is impossible. In the mean Time, the Revenue arising from the new Acquisitions shall be set apart for the general Purposes of the War; and we shall be very ready to afford you, out of this or any other Resource, such Sums as we can possibly spare from our own Occasions, to affift in defraying the Charges of the Forces under your Command.

We have received your Letter of the 8th ultimo.

The Information you before gave us on the Subject of Mr. Vaande Graass' Correspondence with the Poona Minister, has been already transinitted to the Governor General and Council, and will be followed by your Letter above mentioned; when, if they should judge it proper to take public Notice of his Conduct, we shall have sufficient Time to make a Representation to the Dutch Governor General before any Opportunity will offer for Batavia.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

It being true and incontestable that the Crown of Portugal for many lawful Causes, since allowed as Rights, made the Conquest of the East Indies:

That the Fortress of Bassein and Tannah, with all the other Forts, Countries, and Jurisdictions, from Choul up to Dumaun, and in Possession of the same Crown and its State of India for the Space of Two hundred Years:

That notwith anding, that the Marattas Forty Years past, without just Cause, invaded and by Violence seized some Forts and Lands of the State, which they held in the Northern Province, detaining them by Force of Arms:

It is nevertheless indubitable that the Crown of Portugal lost not the Sovereignty and Rights which it had and has in all the faid Forts, Lands, and Countries relating thereto, notwithstanding it is deprived of the Possession thereof agreeable to the true and incontestable Law of Rights. The Sovereignty is always preserved whilst the Crown reserves to itself the Right of Reversion, and never divests itself of Intentions of re-annexing them, nor has it omitted to use every Means possible to incorporate them again with its Dominions. It waited only for a fortunate Conjuncture, such as now offered, when the interior Divisions and Civil Wars of the Marattas had divided the Supreme Authority into Two Parties, and the Subaltern Powers into as many Heads and Chiess as there are Officers and Governors of Forts, and from this Situation, the Crown thought to have got Possessing through the Channel of Negociation.

The State has for Years kept an Emissary at Poona, charged with the public Business, and more especially with the Claim of Restitution of the Forts, Villages, and other Lands of its ancient Jurisdiction; it was in Part concluded on, and Orders given for passing the Sunnuds for the Delivery of fundry Lands.

In the Restoration of the above Forts and Countries, the Crown of Portugal has Claim in a Preference to all Sovereigns, especially to that of the Crown of England, founded on special Right, for by the Articles of Peace and Treaty of Marriage of her Screne Highness Donna Catharina, Infanta of Portugal, with Charles the Second King of England, and from the Declarations wherewith the Delivery of the Island of Bombay adjacent to the Province of the North was made, having been given in Dowry with said Donna Catharina; it is expressly declared, that the Crown of Britain at no Time whatever shall impede the Jurisdiction of the other Islands of Bassein and other Countries, nor deprive the State of India of the Commerce and Liberty which they have in them, and that the English never shall claim in the Portugueze Jurisdiction more than what was ceded to them by the said Marriage Treaty, as fully appears from the Conditions under which was delivered to them the said Island, inserted in the Act of Possession received from them under Date the 18th February 1665.

By this same solemn Convention entered into by the Two Crowns, that of Portugal has a clear Right to be affilted by the English at any such Time as they designed to regain the Province of the North; for in the faid Treaty of Peace the King of England obliges himself to succour that of Portugal on all Occasions which require it, as is declared in the Royal Orders of the 9th April

1662, whereby we are ordered to deliver the Island of Bombay, as follows:
"By the other Articles of this Treaty you (Vice Roy of India) will be informed of the Union we celebrate, and of the Obligations that the King of England is under to affift us in all urgent Occasions that may arise and require it; if the Situation you are in makes it necessary to avail of the English Assistance, you will do it.

From whence may with evident Certainty be inferred, that the English ought to succour the State in the difficult Enterprize of regaining the North, and that by no one Title can they pretend to assume to themselves the Sovereignty of these Countries without Breach of the Laws of Nature and of Nations of the Treaty of Peace, and of the Faith and ancient Friendship which always subsisted between the Two Crowns.

But the contrary has taken place, from the public and constant Information received, that your Excellency and your Noble Council have planned and undertaken an Expedition, and have taken the Field with a most numerous Army, under the specious Pretext of assisting Ragoba, and with him at the Head, have blockaded and possessed themselves of the Fortress of Parnel, and propose extending their Conquests to the Forts of Bassein, Choul, and other Places of the ancient Jurisdiction of Damaun, garrisoning the Forts conquered with Troops, and recovering the Revenue and Customs dependent thereon.

This Intelligence is very afflicting to me, and I am convinced that your Excellency and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council, when you met to refolve thereon, were guided more by the Assatic Interests of the British Nation, than by regard to that public Faith that ought to be observed in Promises authorized by solemn Treaties: And for the Conservation of the Royal Domiser of the Royal Domises and District Marie Leading Land Conservation of the Royal Domises. nion, the Crown of her most Faithful Majesty has in those Forts, Lands, and Districts, of the Province of the North, I require of your Excellency, Honourable Governor, and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council of Bombay, that you defift from an Undertaking fo foreign to the Intentions of his Britannic Majesty, and so injurious to the good Faith of the English Nation, Friend and Ally of the Crown of Portugal.

In case your Excellency and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council do not comply with my Demand, I hereby make a most formal Protest, not only to preserve to the Crown of Portugal its Sovereignty in all the Forts, Districts, and Lands, of the Province of the North, which it has no Intent to give up, nor to depart from its Royal Right in all the Countries of the faid Province, but to have and reposses them on a fit Opportunity with all Losses and Damages fustained.

I protest likewise against your Excellency, Honourable Governor, and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council, as Violaters of the Public Peace of the Two Nations, in a Manner so inconfiftent with, and so opposite to the defensive Alliance subsisting between Her Most Faithful Majesty my Mistress and His Britannic Majesty.

I likewise also protest for all the Prejudice sustained by the State of Portugueze India; and I beg you to reflect on the Losses your Excellency, and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council are causing to said State, and of which I shall quickly advise and inform Her Most Faithful Majesty, to the End that she may indemnify herself for the same, as to her seems best, our of the great and important Pledges that the Crown and Nation of Great Britain has in her Kingdoms; far more considerable than the Prejudices that your Excellency, and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council, have created and intend to create, without reflecting on the Danger to which you expose all those Interests which you derive from your Alliance with Portugal.

Your Excellency, and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council, should restect, that on this Conduct you are subjecting your Bank in Europe to the Risk of losing the many Millions which it draws from Portugal for the Support of its Public Credit-That you are likewife subjecting your Nation to the Loss of its Trade in Portugal and Algarve, should Her Most Faithful Majesty once determine to retaliate upon the English in Europe, the Losses which result to her in Asia from the present projected Conquests.

Lastly, I cannot dispense with acquainting Her Most Faithful Majesty of what I have above obferved from the full Belief that the King and the whole British Nation will deem your Excellency, and the other Gentlemen of your Noble Council, responsible for every Consequence resulting on this Account.

Copy of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the Select Committee at Bombay, dated 10th August 1780.

Gentlemen,

I had the Pleasure of addressing you the 4th Instant, which has been dispatched by the Hart and Boat, and will I trust reach you safe.

I have nothing new or material to communicate to you relative to the Defigns or Situation of the Maratta Leaders, further than the Report of the great Preparations making at Poona by the Minister, and the Repetition of the Story of last Year, that he is to be aided with powerful foreign Allies in the Operation of next Season against us.

This Expectation will, it is probable, prove as fallacious and ill-founded as the former, but there is Reason to believe, from the Silence he has observed, having hitherto made no Overture or Attempt towards an Accommodation whatever, that he is meditating some Effort of Importance; and that he is buoyed up with Hopes from some Quarter not yet fully discovered by us, of retrieving the Losses of the last by the Superiority he expects to obtain in the ensuing Campaign.

I am from these Considerations induced to be most earnest in my Wish, of seizing the first posfible Opportunity to commence the Operations of the War by attacking Bassein. The rainy Seafon is now approaching to a Conclusion, at least the violent and stormy Months, which from obstructing the Navigations would have proved the greatest Obstacle to that Enterprize, are now past.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 330.

I cannot help being of Opinion, that by a vigorous and unexpected Effort we may anticipate the hostile Preparations of our Fnemies, and have accomplished that Service before they are in a Condition to act in any effectual Manner against us in that or any other Quarter. Your superior Information and Knowledge of the Situation of Bassein will enable you to judge how soon any Operations against the Place will be practicable; but in this Point of so great and real Importance to the Success of the present Contest, I must venture to offer it as my Opinion, that Considerations of the Difficulties we may expect to encounter in the Attempt ought to give way whenever Circumstances are such as to present any reasonable Prospect of Success:

Upon this Principle I beg Leave to confult, and to request you will communicate to me your Sentiments and Instructions upon the following Points:

As I am exceedingly defirous, and think it effential to the Conduct of the enfuing Service, to have an Opportunity of personally concerting with you the Plan of its Operations, previous to their Commencement, I shall, whenever the Season permits, set out for Bombay, and this I hope will be during the present Month, as the Vessels for the Surat Station are expected shortly to arrive.

The Troops which can be supplied from this Place without exposing in any Shape your Possessions in this Quarter, and which I would recommend as necessary to be employed against Bassein; are the Madras European Artillery and Infantry, and Battalion of Sepoys. The Difficulty of the Roads from the deep and rapid Rivers, and the Country being so much overslowed, will not for some Time admit of marching any of the Bengal Troops along the Coast, but I propose transporting a strong Detachment of them by Water, consisting of a Force at least equal to Two Battalions.

These Circumstances I think it necessary thus early to submit to your Consideration, that the requifite Vessels may be sent up for their Transportation as soon as possible.

The Force you can furnish from Bombay, with the Madras Detachment, and a numerous Artillery, would I conceive amply suffice for the Reduction of Bassein; but I have resolved upon the surther Reinsorcement of the Bengal Sepoys, from an Idea it is probable the principal Scene of the War will be transferred to your Neighbourhood, and that a respectable Force will become requisite in that Quarter to secure the Gauts, and to carry on such further Operations against the Enemy as Circumstances shall render practicable and eligible.

With respect to the necessary Train of Artillery and Ordnance Stores, I suppose it will be in your Power to make every proper and ample Provision of them at Bombay: I would however propose, if it meets with your Approbation, to carry with me the Four Eighteen Pounders employed at the Siege of Ahmedabad, as I have had an Opportunity of trying and proving their Utility and Excellence, and think they may be employed to great good Purpose on the approaching Service. In order that nothing may be wanting for carrying into immediate and effectual Fxecution the proposed Attack, I have also ordered to be prepared under my own Inspection many Materials for the Use of the Engineer's Department at the Siege, so that no Obstruction can arise to the instant Commencement of Operations, from any Delay in putting them in Readiness. For the Transportation of these and such other Stores as you may think requisite to be conveyed from this Place, the Chief of Surat will easily supply the necessary Boats whenever you shall be pleased to give him your Instructions for that Purpose.

The next and most material Point to be adjusted, is the Place for the Troops from the Northward to land, and as your Knowledge of the Situation of Bassein and the Country round it, puts it in your Power to judge of the most eligible and convenient Spot for that Purpose, I shall be entirely guided in that Particular by your Advice and Determination; it will save a good deal of Time and prevent Delays, which must necessarily arise by disembarking at Sassette, and afterwards crossing over to the Continent, if the Troops and Stores from your Presidency could effect a Junction with me off Terrapore, in which Case the Whole might be landed immediately to the Northward of Bassein on the Southern Shore of a River, which I understand empties itself into the Sea about Ten or Twelve Miles from Bassein. But of the Propriety of this Plan, the superior Information you have of the Situation of the Country will enable you to form the best Judgment; and I beg to repeat that I shall act conformable to such Mode as you may chuse to recommend.

I dispatch this Letter express by Hircarrahs, whom I have promised to reward if they use Expedition, and I hope to receive your Answer in order that I may make the necessary Arrangements previous to my Departure.

Should I find it expedient to fet out before your Answer arrives, I shall take such Measures with Mr. Boddam, your Chief at Surat, and leave such Instructions with the Officer in command of the Troops, as may effectually prevent any Impediment or Delay to the immediate Execution of your Orders and Intentions relative to this Service.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

Surat, August 10th 1780. (Signed) Thomas Goddard.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 350.

Copy of a Letter from General Goddard, dated at Bonibay the 24th August 1780.

Gentlemen.

I have the Honour to reply to your Letter of the 6th August, inclosing Abstract of the Honourable President's Statement of the present Posture of Affairs, and cannot find Words expressive of the Satisfaction I have received from the clear and ample Information it gives of their Situation and Prospect, as well as the general Propriety of the Plan he has recommended for the Operations of the ensuing Campaign, which appears to me formed with a due Regard to present Circumstance and to provide for every suture probable Occurrence as far as the Extent of human Foresight and Wisdom can possibly reach. I shall however venture to trouble you with a few Remarks on this important Subject, in which the very ample and minute Detail entered into by the President will greatly relieve me from the Necessity I might otherwise be under of commenting more at large on the Measures proper to be adopted at this so critical a Period, and on which the sucultage of or bad Fortune of our present Contest with the Maratta State seems entirely to depend.

I beg Leave to call your Attention to the Sentiments contained in an Address I had the Honor to deliver in to this Committee last November, which the Event has since proved to have been justly founded, and of which the Honourable President in his Minute scens now in fully sensible.

The Disappointment I met with in my Endeavours to negociate a Peace, and the unreasonable I may add, insolent Demands made by the Poona Minister, presented Obstacles to its Artach ment, which I was convinced at that Time were insurmountable; and furnished me with Aroments for urging the immediate Prosecution of active and vigorous Measures, as the only Measure by which we could ever hope to recover the Company's Affairs on this Side of India from the Embarrassiment they were then under, or obtain Terms of Advantage or Honour in any sutual Accommodation.

To the Objection of Expence which the low State of our Finances would ill enable us to support, and towards which you declared your Inability of affording an adequate, or indeed any Supply, I ventured to make use of the same Reasoning which the President now urges in so clear and pointed a Manner, and suggested the Necessity of an immediate Commencement of Hostilines, to enable us to provide a Fund for the suture Maintenance of our Armies, which while they remained inactive, exceeded our Abilities to support; and being subsisted at an Expence little inserior to what they would require on active Service, could only tend to exhaust the Resources we were possessed of, and deprive us even of the Power of Desence when the Period should arrive in which we might be called upon to strain every Nerve and Sinew of War against an elated and presumptuous Enemy.

You, Gentlemen, were convinced by the Propriety and Force of the Arguments; and I am happy that it is in my Power at this Day to congratulate you on the Success which I have been enabled, by your vigorous Exertions and timely Assistance, to obtain hitherto in the Prosecution of the Measures formerly resolved upon in concert with you.

The Honourable Prefident has founded his Plan for the Operations of the enfuing Campaign upon the Basis of that mutually agreed last Year, and which the Honourable Governor General and Council have been pleased to fignify their Approbation of, as best calculated to promote the laterests of the Company, and produce that great and desirable Object to which their Inclination have been always so strongly and manifestly directed, an advantageous and honourable Peace.

The Possession of Bassein, which only remains to complete your Views of territorial Acquisition, and the Command of the Passes leading to and from the Decan, which will be requisite to give Value and Security to those Possessions, are from Considerations of immediate Benefit, as well as the source decisive and savourable Consequences to be expected from them, the principal Objects of our prefent Purfuit and Attainment.

In a Letter which I had the Honour of addressing you from Surat, previous to the Receipt of your's, enclosing the President's Minute, I proposed the immediate Embarkation of the Troopfrom thence, in order to undertake the Siege of Bassein. My Reason for this I gave you at the same Time, which was founded upon the striking Advantage we should derive by possessing outselves of that Fortress previous to the Possibility of any Army's being assembled to oppose us, and the Command of that strong Hold would inevitably give us of the whole Country below the Ghaurs. Nothing would then remain to be done but to secure the Passes leading into the Decambisch Service, after leaving a sufficient Garrison in Bassein, we might have effected with our whole united Force, or at least such considerable Body as might have given us an affured Superiority over the numerous Troops which the Minister will certainly collect to oppose us whenever our Force shall begin to be in Motion.

The Idea of Anticipation, by the Plan you have adopted of fending Lieutenant Colonel Hartley with the Forces of your Prefidency to fecure the Ghauts, is now sufficiently destroyed, because a Commencement of Hostilities on our Part will be a Signal to the Maratta Government to affeore ble their Forces from all Quarters; and as they have, during the present inactive Scason, discovered no Inclination for Peace, I must conceive, that sensible of our hostile Designs, they are a ready and prepared State to resist them; and it is not even improbable that if the Alarm is given by any early Movement of our Troops, they will march so large an Army into the Conkan, and with such Expedition as to demand the Attention of our whole Force; and retard at least, if not provingly entirely frustrate, the present Accomplishment of our Views against Bussein. The Honourable President however has not fixed the precise Time for entering upon Action, which he says must depend on the Season: And I would also propose, that your further Determination on this Point should be made with a particular Attention to the Period when it will be practicable to move the Troops from Surat, which you observe, according to the usual Course of the Scason, cannot be before the 1st of October.

Upon the Plan of Operations you have adopted, I entirely concur with you in the Expediency of marching the Troops down by Land; and as they are in a State of complete Preparation, I shall readily embrace the instant Occasion of the Roads being in any Degree passable to put them in Motion.

In my last Letter to you from Surat, I took Occasion to declare my Opinion, that whenever we should begin our Operations against Bassein, the principal Efforts of the Enemy would be directed to that Quarter, which would become the Seat of War during the Campaign. The Vicinity of that Place to the Maratta Capital, and the imminent Danger to which Poona must be exposed whenever we open ourselves a Passage to the Decan, by securing the several commanding Passes that lead to wards it, confirms such Bellet almost to a Certainty.

I therefore must assure myself, altho' the Terms in which you have described the Service intended for your Troops do not expressly declare so, that you propose to leave me the entire Direction of their Military Operations, in fuch Manner as I may find expedient to advance the general Plant previously concerted with your Government.

The Division of Force, with a powerful Enemy in the Field, which we have every Reason to ex pect, is at all Times attended with Inconvenience, and feldom produces any adequate good Confequences to the manifest Danger it threatens. Such Division may however be sometimes proper, and even requifite; but the Officer who commands upon the Spot, and has informed himself of the Strength, Situation, and Defigns of the Enemy, can be the only competent Judge when it is to be attempted with Success. The Idea of Two Armies acting separately and independently of each other, while employed against One common Enemy, in Profecution of the same general Plan, and in the fame Tract of Country, is too abfurd, and combats too much against every Principle on which the System of War is founded, to make it necessary I should trouble you with further Remarks on the Subject.

The sew Observations I have made on this Head are derived merely from Considerations of Military Expediency, and these I deem at this Time sufficient, because I canot help being firmly perfuaded it is your Intentions that the Troops from your Prefidency, ferving on the Continent, should act under my immediate Orders and Direction whenever the Army under me shall arrive in the Neighbourhood of Baffein, or at fuch Place as the Operations of the one may be materially affected by those of the other.

I would not be thought, from what I have before advanced against the too early Movement of your Troops, to fuggest the smallest Objection against that Part of the Plan proposed by Mr. Hornby, or the Service which it is intended they should perform; on the contrary, I am convinced it will tend to facilitate and render more expeditious and unmolefled the Progrets of the Troops from the Northward.

It will effectually diffract the Attention of the Enemy: It offers the most regionable, the only possible Means of preserving the Country from Desolation; and will, I trust, help to secure that effectual Supply of Provisions of which we shall stand so much in need.

The Season of the Year would however obviate the Danger of our feeling the same Effects from the devastating Hands of the Marattas, which we so severely experienced in a Distance only of 18 Miles, last April, when the scorching Winds and Sun to powerfully affilted the Efforts of Madjee Scindia, and burnt up every Blade of Grass upon the Ground; but even there, I beg Leave to obferve, that other Confiderations than the Difficulties this occasioned, operated effectually to slop my Progress; and that had not political Reasons, which my Letters written at that Time to the Committee fully explained, detained me on the Confines of the Guzerat, I should have found it a much eafier Tafk to advance than to have continued fo long as I did on the fame barren defolated Spot.

I observe with real Concern and Disappointment the Distress for Money which you so strongly represent, because my own cannot be inserior, and the Honourable Governor General and Council have depended upon the Resource of the new required Revenue for the greatest Part of my

I have been compelled for some Time past to draw Bills upon them at a considerable Loss, which nothing but the most urgent and extreme Necessity could justify, to provide for the mere Subsistence of the Troops; but even this Resource has proved inadequate, and the Army is greatly in Arrears: It is now no longer to be depended upon. I am firmly perfuaded of your Readiness to afford me every Affillance in your Power, and in that Confidence, urged by the preffing and immediate Necellities of the Service, hope you will find it practicable to comply with my Request of appropriating the first Payment of the Revenues of the Country dependent on Surat, which is paid in advance, to the fole Use of the Army now under my Command.

In a Letter transmitted you from Surat some Time 250, on the Subject of the Treaty made with Futty Sing, I delivered you my Opinion fully, regarding the Sentiments expressed by the Governor General and Council on the Exchange of Territory made with him, and am happy to find it corresponds with those contained in the President's Minute, and recommended by you. It is there fore unnecessary to take up your Time with suture Observations on that Point at present.

You may rely upon my taking every effectual Measure in my Power, for protecting the Province of Guzerat from the Intults and Depredations of the Enemy, during the Absence of any Part of the Troops to the Southward, which with the Aid of Reinforcements from your Garrisons of Surat and Broach, will easily be accomplished, except Scindia should himself return with a large Army, in which Case the Force that can be spared for the Defence of the Province might be unequal to keep the Field; but all Apprehensions from that Quarter of Scindia (and from no other can there be any Cause to fear) will, I trust, be removed by the Plan which the Government of Bengul may find it expedient to adopt to detain him in the Province of Malva. It remains now, that I say a sew Words respecting Ragoba. The President in his Minute has suggested a Mode of employing him to the Southward, but which he adds, is rather thrown out as a Hint that may be pursued at a proper Season, than as composing Part of his present Plan.

It may not however be improper just to take Notice of it, in treating of the Subject of Ragoba. as it tends to recommend the Line of Conduct it may be most expedient for us to follow regarding him. The Two Chiefs mentioned by the Prefident, have been long Partizans of Ragoba. and have been lately in Arms against the Minister: It is true they defeated some Troops that were fent against them, but they obtained no decisive or material Advantages: If Ragoba was to join them, which however I am persuaded he will not venture to do, their Force would receive no Augmentation, and the Minister would detach a more respectable Army against them, the Confequence of which must end in their Defeat, and irrecoverable Ruin of Ragoba, who would either fall into the Hands of the Minister, or, which is more probable, fly to Hyder for Protection: The Disappointment Ragoba has met with from us, in not being decreed any Parlicipation of the Revenues of the conquered Country, has affected him a good deal; and if he was once to execute the Defign of leaving us, he would not be induced to return to his former Afylum. It feems now no longer a Contest for Empire with him; he has seen all the Hopes he might once have entertained of being supported by powerful Partizans in the Empire, disappointed, and all he can now have any Wish for, must I should think in a great Measure be confined to Subsistence, and Safety to himself and Family; while he confines his Views to these Presents, even those who were jealous of his Pretentions to Power, may relent, and Despair might also have the Effect of making him rely upon their Promifes and Professions.

I am therefore induced to give it as my Opinion, that Ragoba should remain immediately under our own Eyes, and that no partial or inserior Attempts should be made in his Favour, which might end in Disappointment, and perhaps fix upon us the Imputation of having relieved ourselves from the Weight of a Tax we did not chuse to pay, by resigning him to Destruction. The sinal Opinion I have been led to form respecting Ragoba's Connection with us, is this, That though he can bring no material Aid, or render any essential Service to us in the Prosecution of the War, from the extreme Contempt and Hatred he is held in by all the principal Leaders, that his Presence will be of infinite Use in improving our Successes, when any suture Plan of Negociation is entered upon, and the great Work of Peace through his Means be more speedily and essectually sinished, than if the Minister was entirely relieved from any Apprehension on his Account.

I shall conclude my Remarks upon the present Posture of Assairs, the clear and full Investi-

I shall conclude my Remarks upon the present Posture of Assairs, the clear and full Investigation of which Subject in the President's Minute, leaves me so little Room to enlarge, by venturing a few Words on the Observation he has made, concerning the Want of Information from the Honourable Governor General and Council, relative to their Views in any future Negociation for Peace with the Poona Government; and on this Point I shall take upon me to speak only from the Circumstances he has himself premised, and the Conclusion which must indisputably be deduced from them.

The Honourable Governor General and Council have all along confidered the Attainment of a permanent and honourable Peace as the grand and primary Object: Their Instructions to me in June last, which were imparted fully to this Government, pointed only to this End: Since the Failure of that Negociation, they have repeatedly declared their strong Desire of effecting a retionable Accommodation; they have approved and authorized the Plan concerted last Year for profecuting the War, which had then become necessary; and have concurred with you in the Object to which its Operations should be directed.

Their Views once accomplished, I consider myself authorized, from the Nature of their former Instructions, which have never been revoked, and their repeated Wish expressed for Peace, to conclude such Terms of Amity with the Maratta State, by the Advice and Concurrence of this Government, as the Successes of the War may entitle us to expect; as may be best suited to every concurrent Circumstance at the Time when such Opportunity of Accommodation offers itself, and calculated to promote the true Interests of the Company in general, and the Prosperity and Success of this Presidency in particular.

I have the Honour to be,

Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

We were very highly pleafed to find by the Letter you laid before us at our Meeting on the 28th ultimo, that the general Plan of Operations propoted for the entiting Campaign coincided to entirely with your Sentiments, and having already fully deferibed the Service intended for the Bombay Detachment under Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, it only now remains to explain the Powers we have judged it expedient to give you over this Detachment, for the Profecution of the general

We are inclined to the Opinion, that if it can fill continue to protect the Country, at the fame Time that it covers the Siege of Baffien, it will be making the most advantageous Use of it; but as the Siege will be the grand Object, and when once undertaken, our Success must be provided for to the utmost, we shall commit to you the entire Direction from the Time that you may arrive in the Neighbourhood of Bassein with the Army under your Command, and we shall accordingly direct Lieutenant Colonel Hartley to pay first Obedience to all such Orders as you may think proper to give him from that Time.

We shall likewise continue your Command over this Detachment during the Remainder of the Campaign in the Conkan for the Profecution of the concerted Plan, though we wish that so long as you may judge it advisable to have a covering Army, the Bombay Detachment may be employed in that Manner; and if you should at any Time think it necessary for them to join, we would still wish to have our Troops kept up in the same Manner as when they were acting separate, in order that they may be maintained in a Condition to act separately again, if it shill be hereafter found necessary. For the same Reason, we shall be glad they may be as little as possible fubdivided or feattered into fmall Petachments; and we must remark that the securing the Crop of Grain in the Country for which this Detachment was principally formed, will depend on their being kept in a Condition and Station to protect it.

We shall give Orders to Lieutenant Colonel Hartley to correspond punctually with you as soon as you approach Baffein, and we shall also direct him to continue to correspond with us; we shall wish to receive the readiest and most direct Communication from all Quarters of the State of Affairs. We cannot foresee any Circumstance at present which can render it necessary for us to give any special Directions to Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, while he may be acting separately from you under your Orders; but should any such Occasion occur, we shall give you the earliest Notice.

The Time for our Troops taking the Field will depend chiefly on the Weather; but imagine it may be early in next Month, about which Time we suppose you will be able to put the Forces in Morion from the Northward.

The battering Cannon and heavy Stores for the Siege will be embarked in proper Boats, and kept in Readiness in Salsette River, to join you as soon as you can possibly have Occasion for them.

As you propose bringing down the Europeans by Sca, and it will be a prudent Measure to have them near the Prelidency at the Opening of the Scalon, we now fend up the Revenge and Bombay Grab for the Accommodation of yourself and Suite to Surat, and to bring down the Europeans, with the necessary Convenience and Expedition, and they may be cantoned on Saliette till there may be Occasion for their Services.

Our Situation in Point of Money has been fully explained to you; but in order to afford you every Affistance in our Power, we now fend Directions to the Chief and Council at Surat to make good to you the First Collections from our Purgunnahs under their Management, for the sole Use of the Army under your Command; and to lessen your Expence of ready Money we shall give you a Credit on the Bombay Treasury for such Sums, as you can discharge by Assignment.

We hope foon to congratulate you on your Arrival again in our Neighbourhood; and are,

That you may be fully informed of every material Transaction that has since happened, and clearly comprehend the present Situation of Affairs, together with the Plan of Operations proposed for the ensuing Campaign, I beg Leave to transmit for your Perusal, Copy of a Letter, N° 1. I received from the Select Committee previous to my Departure from Surat; and of the President's Minute, N° 2. which they sent me inclosed; I also submit to you my Reply thereto, N° 3. delivered in to the Committee upon my Arrival at Bombay. The Contents of these Papers, as they touch upon every Point that appears of Moment on the present Occasion, almost renders unnecessary my surther Remarks, since you will from a Perusal of them be at once able to judge of the proposed Plan of Operations, which is founded upon the Principles of what I have already ventured to lay before you, both with respect to the Object of the War itself, and the Means by which it may be most easily and certainly attained.

which it may be most easily and certainly attained.

To attempt to point out to you the Advantages we must derive from prosecuting the War upon the System now laid down, would be only a Repetition of Sentiments frequently delivered to you; and indeed would be further superstuous, as you have already signified your Sense of it in your Concurrence with Mr. Hornby's Plan originally, and your Approbation of the Measures resolved upon at the Opening of the last Campaign, of which those at present entered into are intended as a Completion; and cannot fail, with the effectual Aid and Support of your Council and Endeavours, to produce the End so much defired, "a Termination of our present

"Contest by an honourable and advantageous Treaty."

You will understand both from the Expressions used in Mr. Hornby's Minute and the I are I have myself written you on the Subject, that the Plan adopted by the Committee is conform to the Sentiments I had avowed to them relative to the general Objects of the War, and is partial only with respect to the Part they have assigned their own Troops in the Conkan previous to my Arrival before Bassein, which Measure was determined upon and in some Degree entered into before I received any Communication of their Intentions.

Sensible of what serious Importance it is to the public Cause to preserve a Confidence and good Understanding with this Government, I shall make that Object my most earnest and principal Study, and I trust the Readiness with which I have concurred in Prosecution of their Views for the public Service at this Time, as well as the Warmth and Zeal with which I shall co-operate with them for the same good Purpose hereafter, will obtain its Reward in your future Favour and Approbation.

I shall, in pursuance of the Plan fixed upon, take the earliest Opportunity of putting the Troops from Surat in Motion, which I apprehend on account of the uncommon Quantity of Rains that have fallen this Year and still continue to fall, cannot possibly be before the 1st October. I hope, however, there will be no Necessity of Delay after that Period, and as I propose returning to Surat in a few Days, and the Army is already prepared to take the Field, no other Impediment but the Inclemency of the Season, and the consequent Difficulty of the March along the Coast from the swelling of the numerous Rivers that empty themselves into the Sea from the Hills that are adjacent, can possibly occur to protract my Operations: I shall not fail to give you immediate Notice of my Movements, and of the Disposition of Force I may find it necessary to make for the Protection of the Company's Territories in Guzerat.

The Sentiments of the Committee relative to the Partition of Territory made with Futty Sing, precisely correspond with those I have already ventured to give you upon the same Subject; and I flatter myself you will admit of their present Justice and Propriety.

I need not, I am convinced, call your Attention to that Part of the Committee's Letter which relates to the Supplies of Money, fetting forth their Diffres, and the Impossibility of an exclusive Appropriation of the Revenues arising from the new-acquired Purgunnahs to the Payment of the Army under my Command, as its own Importance will give it a Claim to your immediate and particular Notice. Their Resolution of setting them apart for the general Purposes of the War, involves such a Variety of Charges and so extensive a Field of Expence, that exclusive of the Precariousness and at present inadequate Extent of the Revenue itself, leaves, I must confess, but little Hopes of Benefit or effectual Affistance from it. Let me therefore repeat my earnest Solicitations that you will exert every Endeavour to remedy the Evils already self, and prevent those still more severe which we must inevitably experience, unless you strain every Resource at this Time to administer Relief. I have so often troubled you with Representations on this Subject, and you are yourselves so well informed of the circumscribed Means possessed by this Government towards extricating themselves and me from our present Distress, that I feel at once the Impropriety of enlarging further on it I cannot help however anticipating the Accomplishment of that Event predicted in the Conclusion of Mr. Hornby's Minute, "when you shall be relieved from all future Expence in support of this Government," which I think the savourable Train of their Affairs at this Juncture, seconded by vigorous and united Efforts, cannot fail of producing before the Termination of the ensuing Campaign.

I come to that Point which of all others appears to me the most interesting, and demanding your particular Attention and Consideration; I mean when the successful Operations of the War shall have brought us to that happy Crisis so much to be desired, and which we have besides every Reason to expect capable of being improved to the great Work of Peace.

Although the Instructions I have received from you, and the Sentiments you have been pleased to communicate from Time to Time on this Subject, leave me at no Loss regarding the Objects you would would look to in a Treaty, or the Measures I ought to pursue for their Attainment; yet it does not appear that the Gentlemen of this Government deem themselves sufficiently informed of your Views to afford that full and unreferved Participation of Sentiments I could wish to receive from them whenever a Negociation shall be set on Foot. I have in a sew Words explained my Idea of your Intentions in reply to Mr. Hornby's Remarks, "of this Committee having received no Communication of your Views, in any future Negociations for Peace, since June 1779;" and I slatter myself that you will approve of what I have suggested on that Occasion. I repeat it, that I feel myself possessed of sufficient Grounds, from the Instructions and Information already received, to profecute your Views in a Treaty with the Maratta State, should an Opportunity offer of doing so previous to the Arrival of any further Directions from you for that Purpose. But as a sufficient Time will certainly intervene, betwixt your Receipt of the present Dispatches and the Period of Negociation to which I have alluded, to obtain a full Communication of your Sentiments, I beg Leave to express my Wish, that in order to prevent every Possibility of Inconvenience or Delay from any Misconception of your Instructions or Intentions, you will please to transinit a clear and definite Explanation of them for our mutual Direction and Guidance, as early as possible, that you may be informed of every particular Circumstance, and of the Steps now taken or proposed to be taken. I also enclose you Copy of a Letter, wrote me by the Select Committee, N° 4, previous to my fetting out for Surat; from which Place I shall again address you, and have the Honour to be, with the greatest Respect, &c.

(Signed) Thomas Goddard.

Bombay, September 6th 1780.

The Accompanyments of the above Letter being only Copies of the Papers received from the President and Select Committee of Bombay, and entered on the Proceedings of the 3d ultimo and this Day, there is no Occasion to record them in this Place.

Read another Letter, as follows, from Brigadier General Goddard:

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to address you from Bombay, the 6th instant, enclosing Copy of my Correspondence with the Select Committee; the Opinion we had mutually formed of the present Posture of Affairs; and the Plan of Operations proposed to be followed for their Improvement and Success the ensuing Campaign. As this Dispatch was sent round by the Nancy, Bengal armed Vessel, I make no Doubt but it will reach you safe; and as it contained every particular and possible Information, both with respect to the present State of the War, and our Intentions for its suture Prosecution, I find it unnecessary, nothing material having since intervened, to trouble you farther at this Time on the Subject.

In pursuance of the Plan determined upon at Bombay, the Detachment of Madras Europeans, Infantry, and Artillery, embark this Day; and as nothing prevents me but the Severity of the Weather, and the consequent Height of the Rivers and Nullahs on the Road, I flatter myself this Obstacle will now soon be removed, and that I shall have the Happiness shortly to acquaint you with the whole Army's being in Motion.

Permit me to congratulate you upon the fignal Success of your Arms under Captain Popham, and the Honour they have acquired in the Capture of the strong Fortress of Gwalior, which opens so favourable and promising a Prospect to the Operations of the War in the Northward.

I have within these few Days been savoured with your Letter, in Triplicate, of the 15th May, on the Subject of Mr. Farmer's Representation, which has been attended to, and his Claim admitted by the Government. I beg Leave to acquaint you, that I have received no Letter from your Government of a later Date than the 17th May.

I have the Honour to be,

With the greatest Respect, &c. (Signed) Thomas Goddard.

Extract of a Letter from the President and Select Committee of Bombay to the Honourable the Gavernor General and Council; dated 23d September 1780.

HAVING fince then received some very interesting Intelligence from Mr. Henshaw at Goa, we now enclose Copy of his Letter, which we immediately communicated to General Goddard and pressed him to use all possible Expedition in bringing down the Army for the Siege of Bassein And we shall likewise take every Measure in our Power to anticipate the Portugueze in their View of getting Possession of that important Place.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Robert Henshaw to the Honourable William Hornby, Esquire President and Governor, &c. &c. dated Goa, 9th September 1780.

Honourable Sir.

I fend away this Boat, express, to acquaint you of some Measures of this Government, in regard to their Possessions (as they Term them) North of Bombay. I Yesterday learnt of their having actually received Orders from Poona, to the Governor of Bassein, for receiving a Portugueze Garrison therein, and hoisting Portugueze Colours. In consequence, Two of their Frigates are getting ready, working Night and Day for this Purpose, and upwards of Five Companies of Europeans and near One Thousand Sepoys (Irregulars) are now here at this Village, ready to embark the Moment the Vessels get over the Bar. It is given out they are going to Demain. Their Hope is to be before Hand with us; but I anxiously wish them disappointed. I beg your Honour will return a Patamar Boat to me, having none to forward any Intelligence or Packets from Madras. It is very long since I heard from Stewart.

Goa, 9th September 1780. I am with the highest Esteem and Gratitude,
Honourable Sir,
Your most obliged,
And grateful humble Servant,

Copy of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the Honourable the Governor General and Council dated the 15th October 1780.

Gentlemen,

I HAVE the Honour to enclose you Copy of an Extract from the Honourable Company's Commands, dated the 12th April last, which has been transmitted me by the Honourable Select Committee of Bombay.

The Marks of Diffinction they have been pleased to confer upon me are in no Respect more honourable and grateful than in the Opportunity they give of continuing to merit your Favour and Approbation, by an implicit Obedience to your Commands, and the Hope of conducting to a successful Termination, under your Auspices, the Service you have entrusted to my Care and Direction.

It is with Pleasure I can inform you, that every thing at present promises the most favourable Issue to our first Attempt upon Bassein: The Madras Europeans are safe arrived at Durwa Point upon the Island of Salsette, where the Stores requisite for the Siene are all collected, with Boats,

A P P E N D I X, Nº 332, 333.

Boys, &cc. ready to transport them to the opposite Shore, whenever the Army under my Coul mand shall arrive; and as from the Accounts brought me by my Hircarrahs, of the Condition of the Roads, which from the unufual heavy Rains that have fallen this Season, have continued impaffable longer than was expected, I have Reason to hope it will now be in my Power to overcome every remaining Difficulty. I propose putting the Army in Motion the 16th instant, and shall march with all the Expedition in my Power to Bassein: I shall write you immediately upon my Arrival at that Place; and shall not fail to address you, should any thing material happen on the Road.

No Change has taken place in the Situation of Affairs fince I last had the Honour of writing 100; and from the Reports that prevail here, of a large Body of Troops from Bengal having croffed the Jumna, on their Way to Gohud, I am encouraged confidently to hope that Scindia and Holkar will find themselves too much employed in the Desence of their Northern Possessions to have any Leifure to attend to what is transacting to the Southward.

I have provided as far as I could, confishently with the Plan of Operations, and the grand Objects to be pursued this Campaign for the Protection and Security of the Company's Territories in Guzerat, which from the present Appearance of a favourable Crop, and the Extent and Value of their Collections, promise so large an Accession of Revenue this Season, as to render the Security of them a Point of the most serious Importance to our suture Success; and unless Scindia and Holkar should themselves invade the Country with a very large Army, I am under no Apprehension that it will be in the Power of the Enemy to make any Impression upon it.

To the Detachment already stationed at Ahmedabad, and the Two Battalions left at Zinnore, which provide for the Sasety of the Country North of the Nerbuddah, a Body of Troops, consisting of Two Bombay Battalions of Sepoys, will also be formed in the Neighbourhood of Surat, to be in Readiness to move to repel any Attack of the Enemy from the Southward; and these it is intended shall be all directed to unite, should the Approach of any large Army of the Marattas render it necessary.

The common Object to which the Service of these several Detachments is thus directed, requiring that their Operations should be under one general Controul, in order that they may be ordered to act conjunctively, or separately with each other as Circumstances shall render most expedient, I have thought it necessary to leave Major Forbes, an Officer of Experience and long Service, and of whose Courage and Military Talents I have had repeated and recent Proofs, in the Command of the Whole; and I flatter myself his Conduct in it will be such as to merit your Approbation, and answer the good Opinion I have been led to form of him.

I shall address you when any thing material occurs; and have the Honour to be,

With the greatest Respect, Gentlemen,

Head Quarters, Camp near Surat, 15th October 1780. Your most obedient, and most humble Servant, Tho' Goddard. (Signed)

Extract of a Letter from Governor and Council of Bengal, in their Secret Department, to the Court of Directors of the East India Company, dated the 7th January 1781.

Par. 8. W E think it proper to fend for your Information an Extract of a Letter which we have received from the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay, under Date the 23d September, accompanied by a Letter to them from Mr. Henshaw, their Resident at Goa; it goes therefore a Number in this Dispatch; but we deem the Report therein conveyed to us unworthy of our ferious Attention. We are generally inclined to believe, that although a Connection may subsist between the Portugueze and the Marattas, its Effect cannot be important: They have no Rank among the Powers in India; they have no Means of subfishing their Army in the Field; and no such Advantages are likely to be yielded to them as can weigh against the strong Consideration of the Alliance which has long subsisted between our Nation and theirs. The Claims which they prefer are Slaims of Form, and perhaps would be preferred by any other Nation having them, whether they were or were not justly founded.

Force, it seems to us nugatory; and it cannot be effectual, since we have received certain Antice that Brigadier General Goddard with his Army was before Bassein on the 18th November last; and we are informed, that there was no Force, excepting that in Garrison, to oppose his early Capture of the Place.

A P P E N D I X, N° 334.

Letter from Bombay, 11th January 1781, to the Honourable the Secret Committee of the Honourable of Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Gentlemen,

Par. 1. OUR last Advices, dated the 25th July, were forwarded by the Way of Bussora, and we have the Honour to address you, in Duplicate, by the same Route, accompanied by Transcript of our said Advices.

2. Since the above Date, the following Letters have come fafely to Hand.

Received the 24th August.

Company's Letter, and Letter from the Committee of Correspondence, both dated the 24th March 1780.

Received the Letter from Chairman and Deputy Chairman, dated 9th July 1779.

Company's Letter, and Letter from the Committee of Correspondence, dated 12th April 1730.

Letter from the Committee of Correspondence, dated 29th April 1780.

3. The necessary Communications were immediately made to the other Presidencies, and to the Admiral, in consequence of the Advices contained in these several Letters; and the Dismissions or dered in the Honourable Company's Commands of the 12th April took place on Receipt thereof.

4. Mr. Draper begs Leave to return his humble and hearty Acknowledgments for the very fewourable Orders respecting him; and to assure his Honourable Masters, he will use his best Endervours, that his future Conduct in the Service may prove equally acceptable to them, as that they have been pleased to notice.

5. In consequence of Mr. Carnac's Disinission, and the Death of Mr. Moore, Mr. Stackhouse has become a Member of this Committee, agreeable to the Honourable Company's Orders, dated 10th April 1778.

6. We immediately fignified to General Goddard, then with the Army at Surat, your Appointment of him to the Chief Command of the Forces under this Presidency, who has expressed himself exceedingly sensible of the honourable Marks of Distinction you have been pleased to confer upon him; and hopes to discharge the Duties of that important Station with Honour to himself and Satisfaction to you. He has sent Advice of this Appointment to the Governor General and Council in order to receive their particular Sentiments regarding it; but has not as yet assumed the Exercise of his Command.

7. Our last Advices lest both our Troops and those of the Enemy inactive: The Season of the Year necessarily occasioning an Intermission of Hossilities, the President made use of this Opportunity to lay before us a Review of the general Posture of Assairs, as they related to the Maratta War. The Advantages as well as Difficulties of our Situation, and a Plan of Measures for immediate Prosecution, evincing, by the most accurate Statement of our Situation, the Necessity of bringing the Maratta War, to as a vely a Conclusion as a possible.

bringing the Maratta War to as early a Conclusion as possible.

8. By a well-founded Conclusion from past Events, and an attentive Consideration of Views and Interests of the several leading Men in the Poona Government, we gave up all present Expectation of essecting this desirable Purpose by Treaty; nor were we empowered, or informed that General Goddard was empowered, to enter into any further Negociation. We could not therefore entertain any Hopes of Peace, unless from Success in the most vigorous Measures; which, pressing as the Difficulties were under which we laboured, arising especially from the very low State of our Finances, we resolved to adopt, and to pursue steadily the Execution of the Plan formed upon the Grounds of your Orders, and entered upon our Diary under the 30th March 1779, according to which the Reduction of Bassein and its Dependencies alone remained unaccomplished to complete our Views in regard to the Acquisition of Territory.

9. The Principle of Conduct recommended to us by the President, and upon which we resolved to proceed, was, in short, by a vigorous Pursuit of the War, strictly confined to the Objects already defined, either to compel the Enemy to Peace, or reduce the War on our Part to a mere Plan of Desence, and thereby to put ourselves in a Condition as early as possible, to send back the Troops of the other Presidencies, for the Expence of which no Resources within our most sanguing Hopes could prove in any Degree adequate.

IC. As

As the possessing Bassein without the Country would only be burthening ourselves with an expensive Garrison, and increasing our Charges without enlarging our Resources. The Measures proposed were so planned as to provide at once for the Reduction of Bassein, and the Protection of the Country, so far as our Means would permit; as it was of the utmost Importance to prevent, if possible, the Fnemy from consuming or destroying the Produce, which would not only disappoint us of the Revenue for a whole Season, but of all Aids of Subsistence expected from the Country. By the Possession of Callian, we had already secured Footing, and a very favourable Opening into the Country, affording also a convenient Station for assembling our Troops, and making early Preparations for taking the Field.

11. This Service could only be effected by Troops from Bombay, the Position of the Bengal Army rendering it impossible to General Goddard. We therefore, after due Communication with him, sent a strong Detachment into the Field under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Hartley, as early as the Season would permit, whilst the General undertook his March from Surat, which the Severity of the Weather did not permit him to commence until the 16th of October; and even then, the Army met with such Dissiputies and Obstructions, from the extreme Badness of the Roads, and the numerous Rivers, that they did not reach their Ground before Bassein until the 13th of November, where he was joined by Reinforcements and Stores from Bombay; and Colonel Hartley, according to his Instructions, was from that Time to act under the General's Orders, and be employed in covering the Siege, or otherwife, as might be found neceffary.

12. The General represented, that finding the Place very strong, and defended by a numerous Garrison, under the Command of Visfagee Punt, he determined to carry on his Operations with Regularity and Precaution. On the 28th in the Morning he had completed a Battery of Six Guns, and Six Mortars, within 900 Yards of the Place, and under Cover of the Fire, carried on his Approaches to the Spot where he erected the grand Battery of Nine 24 Pounders, which was opened the 9th ultimo in the Morning, within 500 Yards of the Wall; besides which a Battery of 20 Mortars of different Sizes was opened upon one of the Flanks of the Parapet: These were served with such Essect, that on the 10th in the Morning, a practicable Breach being nearly completed, a Message was sent from the Fort, offering to surrender; and we have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that after some Demur on the Part of the Enemy, which obliged the General to renew the Fire from the Batteries, the Place surrendered the next Day at Discretion; the Garrison marched out and laid down their Arms in Front of the Fort, being only allowed to carry away their own private Essects. We beg Leave to congratulate you most cordially on this important Acquisition, which has been so long the Object of our Wishes. And what adds greatly to the Satissaction we seed on the Occasion is, the very small Loss sustained in the Siege; One Officer only, Lieutenant Sir John James Gordon, having been wounded, who is since dead, and about 12 Men killed and wounded, of whom Four only were Europeans.

13. A confiderable Quantity of Ammunition was found in the Fort, and 220 Pieces of Cannon, and 10 Brass Mortars; of which 19 Pieces of Brass Cannon, several of a very large Calibre, 128

Pieces of Iron Ordnance, and all the Mortars, have been reported ferviceable.

14. It is not material to give a Detail by this Conveyance of the Operations of the Detachment under Lieutenant Colonel Hartley; which, upon the Whole, we doubt not facilitated the Success of the Siege, which was carried on without Interruption whilft Colonel Hartley took up the Attention of a large Body of the Fnemy, fent, we apprehend, to attempt the Relief, with which he was fuccessively engaged for the Three Days preceding the Fall of the Place; immediately after which General Goddard moved to his Support; but Two Days before he joined, the Enemy had retired to a considerable Distance.

15. We fignified to Lieutenant Colonel Hartley the Mark of Favour you intend him; and he affures us he shall ever consider your Approbation as the highest Honour, and that whenever an Opportunity offers, he shall not fail of shewing to the utmost his Zeal for your Service.

16. After the Reduction of Bassein, the General repaired to Bombay, to consult with us respecting his further Operations; but by that Time a very material Change had taken place in our political Situation.

17. The Select Committee at Fort Saint George had advised us, in a Letter dated 28th July, received the 13th September, that Hyder Ally had invaded the Carnatic with a large Army, and that they could only act upon the Defensive. They gave their Opinion, that the War should be carried into Hyder's Possession on the Coass of Malabar; and expressed Hopes that we should be in a Situation to act with Vigour against him, at least when the Maratta War was at an End. We did not fail to give them a faithful Account of our Condition and Inability to co-operate with them in any Degree, until the Maratta War was brought to a Conclusion, and had no surther Account of their Proceedings until the Arrival of the Fleet on the 19th ultimo, when the Admiral delivered us a Letter from the Select Committee, confirming Reports we had before heard of a most dreadful Disaster having besel a considerable Part of their Army under the Command of Colonel Baillie. The Account we now give of this unfortunate Assair is in their own Words.

With these alarming Accounts we received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, dated the 9th of October, advising that they had come to a Determination to offer Peace to the Markttas; and enclosing Copy of a Treaty of which they had agreed for that Purpose, to which they refer us in so many Words for the Knowledge of every Particular; having therefore no further Information to afford, we think it especially necessary to transmit a Copy of this Paper, with with which we received a peremptory Order to suspend all Hostilities and Military Operative against the Marattas, immediately on Receipt of a Requisition in Writing to that Effect, an a Notification from the Peshwah, that the like Order had been given on his Part to the Officer, commanding his Armies: But in the mean Time, and until the Receipt of such Requisition and Notification, they earnestly recommended to us a vigorous Prosecution of the War, and sending the like Order to General Goddard. The Copy of the proposed Treaty sent to us has no Date but the Letter accompanying it as above mentioned, is dated the 9th of October, and what we have now communicated contains the whole Substance of the Information given us by the Governor General and Council respecting this Measure.

19. When Hyder Ally, by his Invasion of the Carnatic, had commenced open Hostilities against the Company, a Body of his Troops also joined the Malabar Powers in the Attack of Tellicherry: Finding the Defence of this Settlement an insupportable Burthen, and the Maratta War requiring that every Resource of this Presidency should be confined to that Object alone, we saw the Expediency of abandoning Tellicherry altogether; but after the Opinion given by the Select Committee at Fort Saint George, of the Necessity of carrying the War into Hyder's Possessions on this Coast, we did not think it proper without first consulting them to give up a Place which might be of much Consequence towards the Success of such a Measure whenever Circumstances may permit of its being carried into Execution, and which might also have a material Effect upon their present Operations. We at the same Time stated our Inability to furnish the necessary Supplies of Men, Money and Stores, to sustain a Siege which promised to continue so long, as the Army in the Carnatic continued to act on the Desensive; and submitted to them, whether the Fort of Tellicherry was of such Importance to the Success of the War as to be equal to the Expence of maintaining it; in which Case we defired to know, whether they would take that Charge upon their Government; for as we then acquainted them, we were not able to support it, further than by sending a temporary Relief until their Answer could be obtained.

20. The Select Committee, in their Answer subsequent to the Disaster of the 10th of September, recommended the evacuating of the Place; and we had lodged previous Orders at Tellicherry for the Garrison to act in this Point according to the Answer from Fort Saint George, which for that Reason we defired might be immediately communicated to the Resident, that Measures might be taken for withdrawing from the Place under the Countenance and Protection of His Majesly's Squadron, which we expected would arrive there nearly at the same Time with the Answer from Fort Saint George.

21. The Admiral, when he arrived at Tellicherry, was possessed of the Governor General and Council's Intentions of offering Peace to the Marattas; and on being consulted by the Resident and Factors respecting the Measures for withdrawing the Settlement, he gave it decisively as his Opinion, from the great Difference which had arisen in the State of the Company's Affairs, both as to War and Policy, since the Date of our Instructions, the Place ought not to be abandoned until surther Orders from Bombay; and to enable them to hold out until then, he offered Supplies of Ammunition, Military Stores, Provisions, Men and Money; and immediately dispatched a Letter to us, strongly urging the Necessity of maintaining the Place at this Time, and under the present Circumstances of the Company's Affairs; and requesting and desiring we would take this Matter under our most serious Consideration, and speedily dispatch such a Reinforcement of Troops and other Requisites as might be fully sufficient to drive the Enemy from before the Place; when, if we should not think the Settlement worth keeping, it might be evacuated, the Company's Essects saved, and the Honour of the National Arms preserved.

22. The Admiral accordingly landed a Detachment of 100 Marines, and such Stores as were judged adequate by the Commandant to the Desence of the Place, until a Reinforcement could be sent from Bombay; and also lest the Ships Ponsborne and Contractor, to assist with the Company's Cruizers stationed there in keeping the Port open. We cannot omit mentioning the further Proof the Admiral gave of his Zeal for your Service, by offering to land a Body of Men from the Fleet, to assist in storming the Enemy's Works, but which Major Cotgrave thought proper to decline.

23. The Admiral, in his Passage up the Malabar Coast, has considerably weakened Hyder Ally's Marine Force, by cutting out One Ship from Callicut Road; and at Mangalore, with the Boats of the Fleet, he destroyed two Grab Ships, a large Ketch, and took another Ketch of Ten Guns. He then proceeded to Bombay with the whole Fleet, which now consists of only Five Ships of the Line, and One Frigate; Three Ships being returned to England, One Frigate sent to China, and the Nymph Sloop to the Cape. The Sartine Frigate was lost at Callicut.—The Ships at Bombay are proceeding in their Resitment with all possible Expedition.

24. Such was the State of Affairs when after the Reduction of Bassein it became necessary to determine what further Measures were to be pursued, and we requested the Admiral and the General to meet us in Committee for that Purpose.

25. The Admiral declared it to be his Opinion, that the Safety and Prefervation of the Company's Settlements on the Coast of Coromandel, and of the Army under Sir Eyre Coote, depended on this Presidency being able to make some vigorous Effort against the Possessions of Hyder Adly on this Coast; and urged in strong Terms the Necessity of a speedy Peace with the Marattas, to mable us to act with our whole Force against Hyder Ally, who now threatens Destruction to the Carnatic, and even to Fort Saint George itself, if aided by a Body of French, which there appeared a great Probability might be introduced into the Country.

26. We

15. We allowed much Weight to the Sentiments delivered by the Admiral, and that in the unhappy Situation to which Affairs at Fort St. George are reduced, a Peace with the Marattas was most ardenely to be wished for, and which we shall I about most zealously and stremously to obtain; but until that Event takes place it must be admitted as an absolute Impossibility, that we can make any effectual Attack against the Possessions of Hyder Ally on the Malabar Coatt, for were we to relax in our Operations against the Marattas, or to weaken the Army so far as to disable it from acting with Vigour against them, this Presidency might soon be reduced to as bad a Situation at Fort St. George; or the Marattas relieved from all Apprehensions on this Quarter, might unite with Hyder Ally in the Invalion of the Carnatic, and complete the Ruin of that Prelidency.

27. A Pursuit of the Maratta War with all possible Vigour as recommended by the Governor General and Council, promised with the most rational Expectation to promote a speedy Accommodation, fooner than any other Plan of Conduct; and indeed our own Safety, as well as the geheral Safety of the Company's Possessions, made it necessary that we should either find Employ-ment for the Marattas or bring them to Terms. In these Circumstances therefore it would be n the highest Degree imprudent and impolitic, by a Division of our Forces to disable ourselves rom pursuing the Line of Conduct so necessary for the public Sasety.

28. At the same Time we were very earnest in our Wishes to preserve Tellicherry, until at east we can form a better Judgment what Probability there may be of the Marattas accepting the proffered Terms, or of the War being otherwise brought to a Conclusion; and on consulting he General respecting the State of the Army, we found we could furnish a very describe Garrifon for Tellicherry without difabling him from an active Profecution of the War against the Mar-pittas; and we have therefore determined for the prefent to maintain it.

29. Immediately on the Reduction of Bassein and before the Receipt of the Letter from Bengal of the 9th of October, we had on the President's Proposal recommended to the General, to equaint the Poona Ministry that if they were desirous of Peace on equitable and moderate Terms he was still ready to enter into Treaty with them; at the same Time supporting the Offer with fuch Motions of the Army as might feem most likely to ensorce the Acceptance of it; keeping still in Mind the main Objects of the Campaign, the complete Reduction of the Conkan or Country below the Gauts, in which were several Forts of difficult Access, the Possession of which would be of great Importance to preserve it in Tranquillity: The General did not altogether coinfide in the 1d a, but feemed to think that greater Advantages might be derived from the Fall of Buffein, and although he did not absolutely propose to penetrate into the Decan, he gave it as his Opinion, that with all the Force we could collect, the first military Essort would be to secure the Paffes of the Gauts, there to take Post, and either advance or continue to act on the Defensive, as nay be found most expedient, carrying the Terror of our Arms as near to the Enemy's Capital spossible, without risking too far the Sasety of the Troops or endangering their Return. This Step he thought most likely to produce a Peace, and supported his Proposal by remarking the unprepared State of the Poona Government to resist our Arms, arising from the Absence of their Two principal Officers, Scindia and Holkar, who we do not find have yet moved to this Side, is well as the Improbability of their receiving Assistance from any other Power hostile to the Company.

30. As we were equally folicitous to reduce the Maratta Government to Terms, and the Governor General and Council left the Conduct of the War to General Goddard, we have only in general Terms recommended to him to pursue his Operations with all possible Vigour, and to the utmost Extent he may find practicable with the Force under his Command.

31. While the necessary Preparations are forwarding for the most vigorous Operations, a Detachment of the Army is employed in the Attack of Arnaul, a Fort on the Sea Coast to the Northward of Bussein; and the Admiral at our Request has sent Two of the King's Ships to assist in this

32. We have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that your Possessions to the Northward have remained in perfect Tranquillity, and we expect to receive a confiderable Revenue therefrom this Season, which however will be far from equal to our Necessities, now pressing to a Degree never before experienced, as we are obliged to appropriate a Part for the Expences of the Bengal Army.

33. By a Letter communicated to us by General Goddard, we learned with great Satisfaction that the Detachment under Captain Popham surprized and took the important Fortress of Guilier on the 4th of August last, but we are not able to give any sarther Advice of the Operations of that Detachment, or to what Object they are directed.

N° 10.

Fort Saint George, 12th November 1782.

Dear Sir.

I must take a future Opportunity of replying to such Parts of your Letters of the 2d july, 2d 14th September, as may not be answered by what follows in this.

Before Heft Bengal, your Letters to the Governor General and Council, containing Copies of the Advices which you had received from England, of an Armament being in Readiness to sail from France to act against us in India, and informing them of your Resolution to leave this and proceed to the Malabar Coast to counteract the Enemy, as you expected they would first make an Attempt in that Quarter, either to distress our Settlements there, or form a Junction with Hyder Ally Caus, had arrived. By the Answers which were written to them, and which I hope have reached your Sasety, you will be informed of the Call that was made upon me to proceed hither in order to take upon me the Command of the Army at this Presidency; a Call, which you may suppose as the letters of the Public were so effentially concerned, I embraced with that Alacrity which my Hershas ever dictated to me on such Occasions. By the same Dispatches you are also informed of the Resolutions which the Supreme Council had come to, of making Peace with the Marattas, a Messer which in the present Situation of our Affairs was equally necessary and to be wished for a trust therefore that the Proposals we have made towards bringing about an Accommodation will be attended with Success. If you can be serviceable in this Business I am consident you will.

I took my Departure from Bengal on the 13th ultime, and arrived here on the 5th Instant. That brought with me Fifteen Lacks of Rupees for the Services of the War, Two Companies of Furo pean Artillery with their Complement of Lascars, a Battalion of Europeans confishing of 370, and about 40 Gentlemen Volunteers. I did flatter myself, that with this Addition to the Strength et our Army here, I should have been in Force sufficient to have taken the Field against Hyder; his to very short have I found it of my Expectations, and in so distracted and unprepared a State, Assassing in general, that however willing I feel myself to check him in his Career of Success, it is now in possible: First, because of the Monsoon which has set in with very heavy Rains, and obliged refor the present to order the Troops into Cantonments; and next, because the Fall of Arcot, the Capital of the Carnatic, into the Hands of Hyder, which happened Two Days before my Arrival has put him in Possession of not only a most formidable Asylum for his whole Army, but a conf derable Quantity of very useful Military Stores, either for maintaining the Footing he has already obtained, or for prosecuting his further Views of Conquest. By the best Information I can obtain his Army does not consist of less than a Hundred thousand Black Infantry; between Two and These hundred of Furguesian Infantry, under the Congress. hundred of European Infantry, under the Command of a Mr. Lally; Thirty thousand Horse, 1 large Train of Artillery; not less than a hundred Pieces of Cannon of different Calibres, and in well ferved, as in the late Siege of Arcot, to have frequently difmounted the Guns on our Barteries. This is not a China and a contract of the contract of th teries. This is not a Circumstance collected from mere Report, but communicated to me by the Officers and others who are arrived from the Garrison of Arcot, under Articles of Capitulation All these Circumstances considered, and added to the Difficulties which we should, after leaving this Place, unavoidably experience on the Score of Provisions, I see no Probability of having it fpeedily in my Power to act offentively against Hyder, unless I should have the Happiness to hear foon that Peace is concluded with the Maratta, and that they have united their Forces with General Goddard, and invaded his Possessions on the other Side of India.

I inclose you a Copy of my Letter to Brigadier General Goddard: You will perceive from it that he is under my Orders; but you will observe also, that as I write without any certain Intelligence, either of his Situation, of the Process of his late Expedition against Bassein, or of the State of our Negociations with the Marattas, I am obliged to leave him in a great Measure to his own Discretion: I only point out to him that I now confider the Maratta War as a very fecondary Business, and that he will direct his whole Views towards distressing the Possicssions of Hyder on the Malabar Side, as, until the Detachment of Eight Battalions of Schoys, which I have been advised from Bengal, are under Orders of March for this Place, under Command of Colonel Pearle, arrive, it is the only Hope I have, by obliging Hyder to divide his Force, of enabling me to act offensively against bin, and to drive him from the Carnatic.

After these Observations, and convinced of the Zeal with which Sir Edward Hughes is inspired for the Service of his King, and for the Honour and Interests of the British Nation, I know it is unnecessary for me to express even a Wish of his concerting such Measures as his Line of Service may enable him, and he may deem eligible, towards diffresting Hyder on the Sea Coast of Malabar, and of his co-operating with General Goddard in every Instance that may be in his Power, and whereby the grand Object of their mutual Exertion may be promoted.

I have, purposely to convey this Dispatch to you, sent round the Indus Schooner, Captain Jones, belonging to Bengal; and which, as I shall be extremely anxious to receive early Intelligence of both your own and General Goddard's Plans, I hope you will return as speedly as possible, as well as fend me the earliest Information to the same Essect, in Duplicate and Triplicate, by the safest and most expeditious Land Conveyance.

I trust that by our joint Endeavours we may yet restore the Interests of the Nation in this Quarter of the Globe to their wonted flourishing State, and that with Honour and Credit to ourselves. With most sincere Wishes for all possible Success to crown your Operations, I have the Honour to be, with much Efteem and Regard,

Dear Sir, Your most obedient and most humble Servant, Eyre Coote.

P. S. It had almost escaped me, that the Supreme Council having thought proper to suspend Mr. Whitehill, the Government in confequence devolved upon Mr. Charles Smith.

His Excellency Sir Edwd Hughes, K. B. &c. &c. &c.

N° 11.

To Brigadier General Goddard, or the Officer commanding the Bengal Detachment. Sir,

I inclose you a Letter from the Governor General and Council, of which they communicated to me the Contents, but fent me no Copy; I therefore opened it, that I might be enabled to fend you an exact Duplicate by Land from hence, and which I shall fend To morrow.

I have also, to give these Dispatches every Chance of reaching you with Sasety and Expedition, fent a Duplicate by the Veffel which carries this, and which the is to put on Shore at Nagore, from whence I have written to the Resident there, Mr. Huddleston, to sorward it to Mr. Torlesse at Anjengo, and to whom I have likewise written to expedite it with all possible Care to you.

The Terms of the Governor General and Council's Letter, placing your Detachment under my Orders, are in themselves sufficiently clear and decisive to render all Definition by me unnecessary. I shall therefore, without further Preamble, proceed to communicate to you in as concise a Manner as possible, the State in which Things are in here, and what Share I could wish you to take, in order to affift in extricating them from the Difficulties with which they are loaded.

I shall in the first Place inform you, that I lest Calcutta on the 13th of last Month, and arrived fase here on board the Kingston Indiaman, the 5th instant, having brought along with me a Detachment from the Bengal Army, consisting of Two European Companies of Artillery with their Complement of Lascars, One Battalion of European Infantry amounting to 370, and 40 Gentlemen Volunteers. With fuch an Addition to the Strength of the Army which I expected to find here, I had little Doubt of being in Force sufficient to cope with Hyder in the Field; but to my great Concern the pleafing View I had formed of entering immediately upon Action, has, from a Combination of untoward Circumstances, become altogether visionary. Instead of Eight or Ten complete Sepoy Battalions which I laid my Account with meeting, I can hardly muster from their Remains enough of effective Men to complete Three. The Cavalry, both Nabob's and Company's, when collected together, will not be a Thousand strong. The Complement of Europeans, which after leaving a very finall Garrison in this Fort, I could carry into the Field, would not exceed 1400. No Provisions to be had any where in the Country Five Miles beyond Madras, which has been 14. vaged, and is now infelted by Hyder's Horse in large Bodies; and at this present Time the Inhabitants are living on the Supplies which have lately come from Bengal.

Under these Circumstances you may imagine that it would be no easy Matter to equip an Alms for either a long or active Campaign, which could command no other Refources for Subfiflence than what it had immediately within itself. With such powerful Obstacles as these to encounter; I confels my Mind has received some small Relief from its Disappointments, by the Necessity which the fetting-in of the Monfoon has furnished me with, of throwing my little Army into Cantonments, which however I have formed contiguous to where it was encamped, that I might not give an unfavourable Impression, by appearing to quit the Field. When the Detachment of Fight Battalions of Sepoys under Orders of March from Bengal, under the Command of Colonel Pearle joins, (which however it will not do in less than Four Months) I shall be competent to any Thing: But ere that Time, I conceive Matters will be brought to a Crifis one Way of another, for Hyder has advanced with fuch rapid Success, that I must not remain to lon, inactive.

Having made you acquainted with what immediately concerns myfelf, I shall now inform you of what belongs to Hyder.

He is in Possession of Arcot the Capital of the Carnatic, which he took Two Days before my Arrival. The Pettah he took by Storm, and the Citadel capitulated. His Infantry are computed at a Hundred thousand, of which there are Twenty thousand in regular Battalions, and well disciplined; between Two and Three hundred Europeans under the Command of a Mr. Lally, and 30,000 Cavalry, together with a very formidable Train of Artillery, not less than 100 Pieces of Cannon, and which at the Siege of Arcot were so well served, as repeatedly to have dismounted our Guns on the Batteries. By the Capture of this Town and Garrison he has got Possession of an Asylum for his whole Army, and of a very large Quantity of Military Stores, which will prove very useful, not only in maintaining what he has already acquired, but in affifting his further Views of Conquest. These are Circumstances which threaten us with the most serious Consequences.

I hope that ere this reaches you, you will have been informed of the Refolutions which the Governor General and Council had come to, of offering Peace to the Marattas, and that the Terms have been received and proved acceptable to the Court of Poona; that Matters are in a fair Train of being amicably accommodated; and that I shall soon receive the agreeable Tidings of their having united their Forces with you to act against Hyder. However this may be, and as in the present Situation of our Affairs, I consider it as a very secondary Business; I must earnestly define that you will of yourself endeavour by every possible Means to distress Hyder's Possessions on your Side India; and if there is any Expedition which you are of Opinion might, in concert with the Admiral, be successfully undertaken against any of Hyder's principal Places, and would produce the Effect of obliging him to send Part of the large Force he has here to the Security of his own Country, I depend on your Military Experience and Activity for speedily executing it, I should then I think be able, even with the Force I now have, to drive him from the Carnatic. I write to Sir Edward Hughes on this Subject, who I am perfuaded will cheerfully co-operate with you in any Measure that may promise Success to the general Operations of the War. As I have no late Accounts where you now are, nor any Advices concerning either your own or the Transactions of the Marattas in your Expedition against Bassein, I have it not in my Power to point out to you any direct Line for your Plan of Operations. I must therefore rely on your local Knowledge of Circumstances and Discernment, for pursuing such a Conduct as may serve to promote the great Object I have above suggested.

As nothing can be more material to the mutual Success of our Operations in the War than particular and frequent Intelligence, I must beg you will be constant in your Communications upon every Occurrence which may be in any Shape useful for me to know; and you may depend on my being punctual in my Correspondence from hence.

As the first Step which has occurred to me might be of Service to your Operations, I have sent Orders to Major Cotgrave, in Command of a Detachment from the Troops of this Prefidency formerly stationed at Tellicherry, and lately ordered to march from thence to Anjengo to obey any Orders you may fend him to join you if necessary; if not, his Detachment would be of great Service here: I would therefore, if fafe, advise his coming to Pallamcotah where he will receive further Orders. I have the Honour to be, with much Esteem and Regard,

Fort St. George, 12th Nov. 1780. Your most obedient humble Servant, (Signed)

Fyre Coote.

No 336. E N D $I \cdot X$

Bengal Secret Consultations, the 9th October 1780.

THE Secretary lays before the Board Drafts of Letters to the President and Select Committee of Bombay and to Brigadier General Goddard, grounded on the Refolutions of the Board of the 27th ultimo.

Gentlemen,

To Bombay.

We have received the several Letters which you have written to us under Date the 29th May, 6th June, 30th July, and 14th August, with the Accompanyments to each. We are also to acknowledge the Receipt of your Letter of the 17th August, which has reached us within these sew Days, and to which we propose to send a separate Reply in a very short Time.

At so great a Distance as this is at which we are placed, from the Scene of General Goddard's Operations, it is impossible for us to prescribe any fixed Plan of Action for the Army under his Command: We have therefore left it to his Judgment, guided and affilted by your Opinion and Advice, to employ our Troops after the Reduction of Baffein, which we suppose by this Time accomplifhed, or nearly so, for your Desence against the French, if necessary for the general Benefit of the Company's Interests and Annoyance of the Enemy. The Line of Conduct marked out by the Company's Instructions, and to which you seem to adhere in your late Letters, is the Rule by which we desire you to be guided; but we are happy to leave the Plan of Operations to your Determination and to that of the Commander of our Troops, not doubting but that your Judgment and Information will determine on the best that can be pursued.

We are now, Gentlemen, to inform you of a Refolution which we have passed, but which we desire may be kept inviolably secret while it be in the Power of our Enemies to oppose and defeat the Success of its Object. Without surther Preface then, we make known to you the Determination which we have paffed, to offer Peace and Friendship to the Marattas. The enclosed Copy of the Tracty on which we have agreed for this Purpose, will convey to you the Knowledge of every Particular; and we hereby require and command you immediately to suspend all Hostilities and military Operations against the Marattas on the Receipt of a Requisition in Writing to that Effect, and Notification from the Peshwa that the like Order has been given on his Part to the Officers commanding his Armies; but in the mean Time and until your Receipt of such Requisition and Notification, we earnestly recommend to you a vigorous Prosecution of the War as far as your Troops may be engaged in it.

A similar Order has been sent to Brigadier General Goddard.

We are, &c.

Fort William, the 9th October 1780.

In our Letter to you of this Date already written, we have replied to such Parts of your Letters hitherto unacknowledged as appeared to us to require an Answer. The Purpose of this Letter is distinct and particular; it is meant only to convey to your Knowledge a Resolution which we have formed, and Orders for your Guidance grounded on it; and we direct that for some Time to come the Whele be kept inviolably secret, and not permitted to pass beyond your own Information. We have refolved to offer Terms of Peace and Friendship to the Maratta State, and for your Knowledge of such Part of the Treaty as may affect the Motions of your Army we herewith fend you an attested Copy of the Treaty which we have determined to propose.

And we hereby politively require and command you immediately to suspend all Hostilities and Military Operations against the Marattas, whenever you may receive a Requisition in Writing to that Essect, and a Notification from the Peshwa that the like Order has been given on his Part to the Ossicers commanding his Armies; but in the mean Time and until such Requisition and Vicense Not fication be received by you, we direct that you profecute the War with the utmost Vigour, and act in all Circumstances as if the foregoing Information had not been sent.

DI Χ, N° 238. N

Extract of a Letter from Sir Edward Hughes, K. B. to the Earl of Hillsborough; dated Bombay, the 2d January 1781.

BY the Ponsborne I received Letters from the Select Committee of Fort Saint George, inclosing also a Letter directed to me, dated the 2d October last, from the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in Answer to mine to them of the 14th September last; a Copy of which Letter, No 2.15 herewith inclosed for your Lordship's Information, as containing Matter of much Importance to the Affairs of the Company in particular, and of the Nation at large.

On the 24th November in the Evening, in Sight of Callicut Road, a Port of Hyder Ally's, I faw at an Anchor there His Majesty's Ships Exeter, Burford, Fagle, and Sartine, the Two last engaging Two Ships lying close to the Shore with Hyder's Colours flying on board them, but being still anxious to proceed to the Relief of Tellicherry, one of the Company's Settlements on this Coast, that had been belieged Nine Months by the combined Forces of the Nairs affisted by a Detachment of Hyder Ally's Troops; and its Garrison, by the Information I had received at Anjengo, reduced to great Want of every Article effential to its longer Defence, I continued my Course to that Place with the Burford in Company which joined off Callicut, and arrived in Tellichery Road on the 27th, where I found Two of the Company's armed Snows, and a Transport Ship which had brought some Stores and Ammunition to the Garrison; in the mean Time the armed Boats of the Ships in Callicut Road cut out and brought from thence One of Hyder Ally's Ships, and forced the other on Shore; but in the Course of their Operations the Sartine being warped into shoal Wa ter to cannonade the Ships, struck on the Rocks at low Water, and filled to that she was totally loft, Part of her Sails, Topmasts, Booms, and some other Stores, being all that could be faved out of her.

On the 28th I went on Shore to Tellicherry at the Request of the Chief and Council at that Place, to deliberate with them on what was best to be done in the then Situation of that Place; and prior to our Meeting I received from them the Letter of which N° 3 is a Copy, and N° 4 a Copy of my Answer, by which your Lordship will observe that I strongly urged the Propriety of maintaining the Place, and tendered them every Assistance in my Power for that Purpose.

On the 28th and 29th the several Ships of the Squadron with the Company's Ships Ponsborne and Contractor, and Merchant Ships, joined me in Tellicherry Road, and on the 1st of December His Majesty's Ship Coventry joined me, last from Bombay; this Ship I had sent from Madras in February last with my public Dispatches, and a Packet from that Presidency to the Court of Directors, to be landed at Suez under the Care of Mr. Wooley, who was charged with the Conveyance of them over Land; the Coventry did not get up the Red Sea quite as far as Suez, on account of contrary Winds, but landed Mr. Wooley at Cossier, a Port not far distant from Suez, who prosecuted his Journey to Cairo; and I hope the Packets arrived sase in England.

By the Coventry I received a Letter from the Select Committee of Bombay, dated the 13th November, of which N° 5 herewith inclosed is a Copy; by which your Lordship will observe that the Maratta War was still uppermost in the Minds of that Presidency, notwithstanding the known Distress of the Company's Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel, and of their own Settlement of Tellicherry.

After much Correspondence with the Gentlemen of Tellicherry, of which Nº 6 is a Copy of the Resolutions of a Council of War held there; Nº 7 a Copy of a Letter from me to them; and Nº 8. their Answer thereto; will enable your Lordship to form a Judgment; they came to an unanimous Resolution, to maintain the Place until further Orders from Bombay, provided a Reinforcement of an hundred Marines with their Officers, and a thousand Barrels of Powder, were landed from the Squadron, and the Company's Ships Ponfborne and Contractor left in the Road to keep the Post open for Supplies of Provisions; and having landed the Marines and Powder accordingly, I failed from Tellicherry Road towards Bombay on the 5th of December, with all the Squadron, except the Coventry left as a Convoy to the Trade up the Coast, taking with me the Company's Two armed

On the 8th of December being off Mangalore, the principal Sea Port of Hyder Ally on the Malabar Coast, I shw Two Ships, a large Snow, Three Ketches, and many smaller Vessels, at an Anchor in the Road, with Hyder's Colours flying on board; and flanding close into the Road found them Veffels of Force and all armed for War; on which I anchored as close to the Enemy's Ships as possible with Safety, ordered the armed Boats of the Squadron to attack and destroy them, under the Cover of the Company's Two armed Snows and the Prize Ship taken in Callicut Road, which were anchored in Four Fathoms Water, and close to the Enemy's Ships; this Service was conducted on the Part of our Boats with a Spirit and Activity that do much Honour to the Officers and Men employed in them, and in Two Hours they took and burnt the Two Ships, One of 23 the other of 26 Guns full of Men for their Defence; One Ketch of 12 Guns was blown up by the Fnemy at the Instant our Boats were boarding her; another Ketch of 10 Guns which cut her Cables

A P P E N D I X, Nº 338.

Cables and endeavoured to get to Sea was taken; the Third Ketch with the finaller Veffels were driven on Shore; and the Snow only escaped into the Harbour, having thrown every Thing overboard.

On this Service the Squadron lost Lieutenant Goin of the Burford and 10 Men killed, Lieutenant Sutton of the Superb, Lieutenant Maclellan of the Eagle, and 51 Men wounded: There were several of the Enemy's Ships and Vessels within the Harbour, but so little Depth of Water on the Bar at the Entrance, that even the Company's Snows could not go in without being lightened; and under the Muzzles of the Enemy's Guns, with a Garrison of 4000 Men, who could wade to our Boats when within the Harbour, I did not think it practicable to destroy them by our Boats alone without a very great Loss of Men, and therefore early on the 9th I proceeded with the Squadron for Bombay; and the same Day was joined by the Coventry from Tellicherry Road, which brought me Letters from the Select Committee of Fort St. George and General Sir Eyre Coote, under Dates the 12th and 15th November, of much Importance to our Assairs in this Country, especially the Copy of Sir Eyre's Letter to Brigadier General Goddard; Copies of which, N° 9, 10, and 11, I now have the Honour to enclose with this for your Lordship's Information, by which, amongst other Missortunes, your Lordship will observe the Loss of the Capital of the Province of Arcot, and the almost ruined State of the Army on the Madras Establishment.

On the 20th December I arrived here with the Squadron in this Harbour, and the fame Day iffued Orders for preparing the Ships for docking and refitting with all possible Expedition, on the 23d I met the Select Committee at their Desire, and entered with them into Deliberation on the present State of the Company's Affairs both on the Coromandel Coast and on this Side of India; the Result of which your Lordship will see in N° 12, of this Packet, being a Copy of the Minutes of our Consultation, at the same Time I received from the President, a Copy of the Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal to this Presidency, with the Copy of the Treaty proposed by the Governor General and Council of Bengal to the Peshwa and the Maratta Administration; of which Letter and Treaty I have the Honour to enclose Copies, N° 13 and 14, for your Lordship's Information.

On the 24th I received a Letter desiring the Assistance of His Majesty's Ships Worcester and Coventry, on an Expedition against the Maratta Town and Fort of Arnaul, situated on a small Island at the Entrance of a River of that Name, which forms the Northern Boundary of Bassein; a Copy of which Letter, N° 15, I have the Honour to enclose with this; and I ordered the Worcester and Coventry on that Service accordingly, on which they are now employed, co-operating with the Company's armed Vessels, and a Part of General Goddard's Army, under Colonel Parker.

I have taken the Liberty to trouble your Lordship with this minute Detail of my Transactions with His Majesty's Squadron under my Command, as well as the most essential Parts of my Correspondence with the several Presidencies since my last Address to your Lordship, because I think it necessary in the present Situation of our Assairs all over India, that your Lordship should be furnished with every possible Information.

The Marattas have as yet made no Requisition on their Part to the Presidency of Bombay, not-withstanding the proposed Treaty has been received Fourteen Days ago at Poona, their Capital, distant only Four Days Journey from Bombay; and until such Requisition is made, this Presidency is authorized by the Governor General and Council of Bengal, to prosecute the War against the Marattas; which they appear to me more disposed to do, than to march the Army under General Goddard into the Dominions of Hyder Ally, to make the Diversion General Sir Eyre Coote thinks so necessary for the Preservation of the Carnatic against him, and which indeed they cannot do till a Reconciliation with the Marattas takes place.

do till a Reconciliation with the Marattas takes place.

I beg Leave to affure your Lordship that I will lose no Time in repairing and resitting His Majesty's Squadron under my Command for Service and that the Force entrusted under my Direction shall be employed in the best Manner I can for the Desence of the Company's Trade and Settlements in this Country; and I have the Honour to inclose for your Lordship's farther Information, N° 16 and 17 Copies of the latest Intelligence I have been able to procure from the Mauritius, by which your Lordship will judge of the Naval and Military Force already accumulated at that Place, and the Expectations our Enemies there have of still greater Additions to both.

N° 3.

To Sir Edward Hughes, Knight of the most honourable Order of the Bath, Rear Admiral of the Red, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships in the East Indies.

Sir, 1st. We were honoured with your Letter of the 26th instant; and you may depend on our exerting ourselves in giving the Squadron under your Command every Supply and Affistance that our present Situation will afford.

2d. The Honourable the Select Committee of Bombay were pleased to write us under the 23d September, that the War in which they are engaged with the Marattas requiring the utmost Exertion of that Presidency, and not permitting them to divert their Resources to any other Object, they were not able to send us any further Assistance after the Dispatch of the Royal Charlotte; and therefore therefore unless the Enemy should withdraw from the Attack, or the Government of Madras to dertake to surnish the necessary Supplies of Men and Stores for our Defence, they should be under an absolute Necessity of abandoning this Place.

3d. They further informed us, that they had then wrote fully to the Select Committee at Madrace on the Subject, and enclosed us a Copy of their Letter. Also, that the Select Committee at Madrace had recommended to them that the Malabar Powers should be excited to raise Commotions, and revolt against Hyder's Government; that it would be a good Measure should we find the Settlement was to be maintained; otherwise it would be only needlessly exposing the Nairs to his Resentment; and that therefore we were to act in this Point according to the Answer from the Select Committee at Madras.

4th. In consequence of the above Orders from the Select Committee of Bombay, we addressed a Letter to the Select Committee at Madras, under the 9th ultimo, giving them an Account of the State of the Malabar Country from the Time Hyder Ally conquered it till the present Period, with our Sentiments of the Practicability of exciting a Revolt among the Nairs, and their Inclinations to co-operate, should such a Measure be adopted. A Copy of our Letters accompanies this for your Observation.

We have yet received no Answer to the above Letter from the Select Committee at Madras; but by your Squadron have received one under the 13th ultimo, to which we beg Leave to refer you.

In Compliance therefore with the Orders of the Select Committee of Bombay to communicate to you the Situation of our Affairs, on your Arrival we shall proceed to lay the same before you.

We are, Sir, to inform you, that although we are confined within the Limits of the Districts of this Settlement, and have been from the first Commencement of Hostilities on the Part of the Nairs, subject to Hyder; and since, by Hyder's Troops under the Command of an Officer named Sader Cawn; that they have never yet been able to make any material Impression on our Lines; and could the Presidency of Bombay have afforded us, or could at this present Period afford us, the Support of a Battalion or Two of Sepoys, with a Proportion of Europeans, that we should have been enabled to have acted offensively against the Enemy, and to have obliged them to retire. We have little Doubt also, that had the State of Affairs on this Coast admitted of such Support, that it would have been productive of those Events so much wished for by the Presidency of Madras, as several of the Malabar Powers are at this Period ripe for a Revolt against Hyder's Government, and only wait for the Moment when they shall find us in a Situation to support them, or rather indeed to support ourselves, in the Maintenance of this Settlement.

You, Sir, from the Papers now before you, will perceive that the Two Presidencies, however much they wish to maintain and support this Settlement, doubt the Practicability of it, engaged as they both are in a War with the Marattas and Hyder Ally; and therefore direct, that if driven to the lamentable Necessity (for such indeed we must term it, all Circumstances considered) to abandon the Place to the Enemy.

Your known Zeal, Sir, for the Interest of the Company, from which the National is in no ways distinct, has led our Superiors to direct we should consult and advise with you in our present Situation: And as your Knowledge of the present Designs and Intentions, both of the Supreme Council at Bengal and the Presidency of Madras, as to their Operations and Views in the Prosecution of the present War with Hyder Ally and the Marattas, renders you a far better Judge than we can be in what Degree the Interest and Honour of the Company may be affected by abandoning this Settlement at this Period; we hope to be favoured with your Advice and Opinion on this im portant Subject.

We think it incumbent on us to make known to you, that the East India Company have been in Possession of this Settlement since the Year 1708; and have now to the Number of 30,000 Inhabitants living under their Protection; all of whom, as well as those Malabar Powers who have afforded us Support in our present Troubles, and who have proved themselves staunch in the Interest of the Company, and have even rejected all Overtures made them by Hyder, look up to the Company for Protection, and whose Ruin must be complete if ever this Settlement falls under Hyder's Government. Although it is our most earnest Desire to put in Execution the Wishes of the Presidency of Bombay in respect to this Settlement, as far as we can judge of them, yet we should feel the most sensible Concern, if by any Change in the present political System of Affairs, of which we are unacquainted, the Desence and Protection of this Settlement might be considered of Importance; which consequently makes us so desirous of obtaining your Advice and Opinion on the Subject.

After this Statement of our Situation, it is necessary to say something as to the present Strength of the Fnemy now acting against us; that you, Sir, may be able to form a better Judgment what Measures are necessary to be taken, should you advise and recommend the Settlement being maintained until the further Pleasure of the different Presidencies can be known, or until your Squadrons return to Madras, should it then be judged necessary to give it up. The Troops under Sader Cawn, Hyder Ally's Officer, from the best Information we can obtain, consist now only of about 3,000 Sepoys, and about 30 Pieces of Cannon; the Nairs, Moplas, and Tivas with him, are supposed to be about 6,000 Men; but we have Occasion to believe, that since your Attack upon Callicut, and Appearance here, that he has drawn off about 2,000 Men. Major Cotgrave, who is in Command of our Troops, and who has had a long Experience of the Enemy's Condition and Strength, is well convinced, that they must sly before us the Moment we can act on the Ossensive; and would consider himself in an ample Situation so to do, had he an Addition to his present Force of 1,000 Sepoys, or Half the Number of European Troops. If therefore, Sir, you should be of Opinion that it is political and advisable, engaged as the Company at present are in a War with Hyder, to oblige his Troops to retire from before this Place, you will now be able to judge what Assistance it would be necessary to afford from His Majesty's Squadron now under your Command. Major Cotgrave is of Opinion the Service would be very soon effected, and attended with every savourable Consequence we could wish or expect from it. As to the Supplies of Stores, we shall be able to hold out for some Months to come, after the receiving the Powder you have on board the Squadron; and in respect to the Article of Rice, as we hope to collect from the Ships under your Convoy between Two and Three thousand Bags, we shall in this Particular also be able to supply our Garrison until some of the Bengal Ships may appear.

Gentleman,

REP. VI.

I have received your Letter of the 28th of this Month, in which after your promifed Affiftance of a Supply of every Thing you can afford to His Majesty's Squadron under my Command, you are pleased to inform me, that the Select Committee of Bombay, to which you are subordinate, had been pleased to write you under Date the 23d September last, " that the War in which they were " engaged with the Marattas requiring the utmost Exertion of that Presidency, and not per-" mitting them to divert their Resources to any other Object, they were not able to send any " farther Affistance after the Dispatch of the Ship Royal Charlotte, and therefore, unless the Inc-" my should withdraw from the Attack, or the Government of Madras undertake to surnish the necessary Supplies of Men and Stores for your Desence, they should be under the absolute Necessity of abandoning the Place: And in the Third Paragraph of your said Letter, you are pleased to inform me of your further Instructions from the Presidency of Bombay, under the same Date, fignifying that the Presidency of Madras had recommended it as an eligible Measure to excite the Malabar Powers to raise Commotions and revolt against Hyder's Government, if you found the Settlement in a Condition to be desended, otherwise it would be only unnecessarily exposing the Nairs to his Resentment; and that therefore you were to act in that Point according to the Answer from the Select Committee of Madras. In your Fourth Paragraph, you are pleafed to inform me, that you had written to the Presidency of Madras, giving them a State of the Malabar Country, from the Time Hyder Ally conquered it to the present Period, with your Sentiments of the Practicability of exciting a Revolt amongst the Nairs, and their Inclinations to co-operate with you; to which you have as yet received no Answer: And you then proceed, in Compliance as you say with the Orders of the Select Committee of Bombay, to communicate to me the State of your Affairs on my Arrival here, and to confult and advise with me under that Situation, as my Knowledge of the Designs and Intentions of the Supreme Council of Bengal and the Presidency of Madras, as to their Operations and Views in the Prosecution of the present War with Hyder Ally and the Marattas, renders me a far better Judge than you can be, in what Degree the Interest and Honour of the Company may be affected by abandoning your Settlement at this Period, and that you hope to be favoured with my Advice and Opinion on the important Occasion. In the subsequent Paragraphs, you have stated, with a due Sense of Honour and Humanity, the Situation of 30,000 Inhabitants living under the Company's Protection in your Settlement, all of whom, as well as those Malabar Powers who have afforded you Support in your present Troubles, and who have proved themselves staunch in the Company's Interest, and have even rejected all Overtures made to them by Hyder Ally, look up to the Company for Protection, and whose Ruin must be complete if ever your Settlement falls into Hyder's

You then proceed to give me a Statement of the Force of the Enemy employed against you, and of the Means which you think would be sufficient to enable you to act, not only defensively and of the Means which you think would be sufficient to enable you to act, not only defensively but offensively against Hyder Ally and the Nairs.

Having deliberately considered every Matter contained in your Letter, as well as the Instructions you have received from the Presidency of Bombay, as the Letter of the 13th of last Month from the Presidency of Fort Saint George, and also the State and Condition of the Settlement and its the Presidency of Fort Saint George, and having also maturely weighed the great Difference Inhabitants as you have represented it; and having also maturely weighed the great Difference which has arisen in the State of the Company's Affairs, both as to War and Politics, since the Date of your last Instructions from Bombay, and the Letter from Fort Saint George; I am Date of your last Instructions from Bombay, and the Settlement until you have farther Orders clearly of Opinion that you ought not to evacuate the Settlement until you have farther Orders from Bombay; and to enable you to hold out against the Enemy until such farther Orders arrive, I will order you a Supply of such a Proportion of Ammunition, Military Stores, and Provisions, as can be spared from the Squadron under my Command, and immediately dispatch Letters to the Presidencies of Bombay and Fort Saint George; to urge them to surnish you with ample Succours; and if you stand in Need of Money for the immediate Service, I will direct a Supply to be furnished you for your Bills on the Presidency of Bombay.

At a Council of War held in Tellichery, 28th November 1780.

PRESENT,

Major John Cotgrave, Captain David Muirhead, Captain William Seward, Acting Captain, Thomas Smith, Lieutenant Peter Campbell.

Major John Cotgrave, commanding Officer of the Forces, lays before the Council a Letter which he this Day received from the Select Committee of Madras; wherein he is ordered to return to the Coast of Coromandel with the Madras Troops. He also acquaints the Council of an Offer made this Day by Sir Edw Hughes, K. B. and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships in the East Indies, viz. That for the Preservation of the Honourable Company's Settlement of Tellicherry he will exert his utmost, and offers to land from Eight hundred to One thousand Men from the Squadron under his Command, for the Space of Two or Three Days, if Major Cotgrave thought, with their Assistance, he could disposses the Enemy of their Posts and drive them away.

The Opinion of the Council is, that this Service could not be effected in fo short a Time: And even was it possible to do it, the Posts could not be maintained, having so few Troops in this Garrison, nor could the Works be destroyed without a vast deal of Labour and Time.

The Admiral further said, for the Honour of the British Nation, he thought it of the utmost Importance to desend this Settlement to the last Extremity; and if the Major thought he could do it in One Month, with the Assistance of One hundred Men from the Squadron, he would land them, and immediately on his Arrival at Bombay represent to the Board, and insist on their sending so strong a Reinforcement to put its Sasety beyond Doubt. And the Admiral still surther added, from the Alteration in the Company's Assistance the Date of the Letter from the Select Committee to Major Cotgrave, he was certain it would be more to the Advantage of our Honourable Masters, that Major Cotgrave, with the Madras Troops under his Command, should remain and defend Tellicherry in Preserence to returning to the Coast of Coromandel, agreeable to Orders received.

The Opinion of the Council is, that with the Assistance of Two hundred Men (Europeans) Seven hundred Barrels of Gunpowder, Four hundred Coolies (able bodied Men) to work daily, a Plenty of Provision, and Eight or Ten Twelve Pounder Guns, the Settlement may be defended against the present Enemy.

PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, Daniel Draper, Esquires. Nathaniel Štackhouse,

afident's Plan Operations spoted by him THE President lays before us the following Plan of Measures he would propose to be now purfued by him fued in consequence of the Reduction of Bassein; and the same being deliberately considered is entirely approved, and must be immediately transmitted to the General, with a strong Recommendation from us immediately to pursue the Measures therein proposed, which we flatter ourselves will coincide with his Sentiments.

The Surrender of Baffein makes it unnecessary to send the large Supply of Gunpowder requested by General Goddard in his Letter of the 10th, and which we could but ill afford to spare.

The President's Plan of Operations he proposes to be pursued in consequence of the Reduction of Bassein.

The Reduction of Bassein being now happily accomplished, I think it will be proper that the General should be recommended immediately to acquaint the Poona Ministry, that if they are convinced of the Superiority of our Arms, and are desirous of 1 eace on equitable and moderate Terms, he is still ready to enter into Treaty with them on this Subject; at the same Time supporting the Offer with such Motions of his Army as may seem most likely to enforce the Acceptance of it, keeping still in Mind the main Object of the Campaign, the complete Reduction of the Concan. It is not improbable that Nava may accept the Offer of a Treaty with a View to gain Time; this can only be known by the Event, and need give him no Advantage. We ought, I think, to be persuaded of his Sincerity, and without delaying the Business we have to accomplish, encourage as much as possible the Idea of the certain and inevitable Conclusion of Peace; for a Persuasion of this Sort would prove one of the most powerful Motives with all the Killedars in this Country to make their Terms, and would be an Encouragement to the Inhabitants to return, and would thus contribute to lettle the Country more speedily and advantageously under our Government than it can otherways be done; so that whether Nana meant Peace, or only Procrassination, we should draw our Advantage from his accepting the Offer of a Treaty The General ought, I think, to move his Army immediately to the South East, without remaining at Bassein now it is taken, because great Promptitude in his Motions would tend to confound the Enemy and improve the Impression made by the Fall of Bassein; he need not however be in too great a Hurry, but should, I think, shew himfelf before Mowlee, Byramgur, Shetgur, and all the Way along the Foot of the Ghauts to the Southward, where there are a Line of Forts just below the Ghauts, and of very great Importance to the Tranquillity of the Country, summoning them to surrender, but not suffering himself to be detained by such as are absolutely inaccessible, and seem determined on Resistance; but of the First that could be taken after slighting the Summons, à severe Example should be made; as after the Reduction of Bassein, which may be considered as the Capital, Resistance in the other Places of less Note ought not to be held justifiable, and if these little Places are encouraged by an ill-timed Lenity to hold out, we may probably find our Conquest of Bassein very unprofitable to us for a considerable Time to come. While the General is advancing he will be supposed still to have an Expedition in view to Poona, and so long as this Idea lasts we shall have Leiture for effecting our real Purpose of compleating the Reduction of this Country, as the Enemy will hardly descend the Ghauts with their main Army, but will probably reserve it for what they will think a Purpose of infinitely greater Consequence, the Desence of the Capital, and expect to meet us with Advantages in the Decan sar superior to any they can hope for below the Ghauts.

Enclosure in Sir Edward Hughes's Packet to Lord Hillyborough, Secretary of State.

Nº 12.

Bombay Castle, 23d December 1780.

At a Select Committee; PRESENT,
The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor,
Rear Admiral Sir Edward Hughes, K. B.
Daniel Draper, Esquire,
Brigadier General Thomas Goddard,
Nathaniel Stackhouse, Esquire.

The Admiral now meeting the Committee in confequence of our Defire fignified to him Yesterday by the Secretary, the State of the Company's Assairs, so far as they can be affected by our Resolutions, is taken under our most attentive Consideration, the several necessary Papers having been previously read.

The Admiral declares it to be his Opinion, that the Safety and Preservation of the Company's Settlements on the Coast of Coromandel, and the Army under Sir Eyre Coote, depend on this Presidency being able to make some vigorous Effort against the Possessions of Hyder Ally on this Coast; and urges in strong Terms the Necessity of a speedy Peace with the Marattas, to enable us to act with our whole Force against Hyder, who now threatens Destruction to the Carnatic and even Fort Saint George itself, if aided by a Body of French which there now appears a great Probability may be introduced into the Country.

The Select Committee then proceeded, affifted by the Admiral and the General, to confider the feveral important Matters before them, and the Sentiments delivered by the Admiral, in which they allow there is great Weight; and having duly weighed every Circumstance, the following is the Refult of their Deliberation, in which the Admiral and General concur.

That in the unhappy Situation to which Affairs at Madras are now reduced, a Peace with the Marattas is most ardently to be wished for, that we may have it in our Power to make a vigorous Attack against the Possessions of Hyder Ally on this Coast; but at the same Time it must be admitted as an absolute Impossibility that we can make any effectual Diversion in their Favour until the Maratta War is brought to some Conclusion, as this Presidency might soon be reduced to as bad a Situation as Madras; or the Marattas united with Hyder might complete the Ruin of that. Presidency were we so far to weaken our Army as to disable it from acting with Vigour against them, or to relieve them from further Apprehensions of the Essects they have experienced of our Force.

A Pursuit of the Maratta War with all possible Vigour, as recommended by the Honourable the Governor General and Council, promises to promote a speedy Accommodation sooner than any other Plan of Conduct, till when it will not be in our Power to act with Vigour or Essect against Hyder; and indeed our own Safety as well as the general Safety of the Company's Possessons absolutely requires that we should either find Employment in this Quarter for the Murattas, or bring them to Terms of Accommodation.

In these Circumstances therefore it would be in the highest Degree imprudent and impolitic, were we by any Division of our Troops to disable ourselves from pursuing the Line of Conduct so ne-ceffary for the general Safety.

Whilst the Necessity of our co operating with the Presidency of Madras against Hyder is so obvious and apparent, we can easily conceive how much it will add to their Distress and Disappointment, if instead of giving our Assistance, we abandoned the only Place of Strength we possess in his Dominions, the Attack whereof at this Time occupies a Part of his Force, which in that Case might be added to the Numbers of the Fnemy now in the Field against them: We are therefore very earnest in our Wishes to maintain Tellicherry, at least until we can form a better Judgment what Probability there is of the Marattas accepting the proffered Terms, or of the War being otherwise brought to a Conclusion. We are strengthened in this Disposition not only by the Reasons which militate against withdrawing the Settlement at this particular Time, but also by the Difficulties we can foresee would arise even in the Execution of an Attempt to evacuate the Place, which no Doubt would be opposed by the auxiliary Nairs, as well as the numerous Inhabitants, whose Sasety is involved with our Continuance there; so that we think the Garrison could not be withdrawn with Sasety until rendered sufficiently strong first to dislodge the Enemy! This Measure may be taken under Consideration on the Return of the Fleet, when we shall be better able to judge what Probability there is of our Wishes for Peace being accomplished.

REP. VI. (aa)

E N D I X. N° 339, 340.

On consulting with the General respecting the State of the Forces, we are of Opinion we can furnish a defensive Garrison for Tellicherry, without disabling him from an active Protecution of the War against the Marattas; and Two Battalions of Sepoys being judged fully sufficient for that Purpose, and to relieve the Madras Sepoys now there, which is absolutely necessary, and likewise Captain Seward's, as recommended by the Resident and Factors; Resolved accordingly, That Two complete Battalions be fent down by an early Opportunity, which we shall take care to provide; and that Major Cotgrave with the Madras Sepoys be returned to Anjengo; on the Arrival of the Troops from Bombay, Captain Seward's Battalion may be detained for a further Time if judged necessary: We are inclined to think it may not be impracticable before the Madras Detachment is returned to make an Effort with Success, to dislodge the Enemy from their Works.

If it should be found necessary, in order to furnish the Force for Tellicherry, a Part of the Sepovs may be drafted from the Northward, the Importance of defending our Poffessions there being lessened by the Probability of their being restored to the Marattas, and the most considerable Paul of the Revenues for this Season will soon be collected.

We can only in general recommend to General Goddard to pursue his Operations against the Marattas with all possible Vigour, and to the utmost Extent he may find practicable with the Force under his Command, and we think nothing would tend more to the speedy Accomplishment of a Peace, than some decisive Advantage gained over the Enemy in the Field.

The first immediate Object of his Operations being the Reduction of Arnaul, and the General representing that His Majesty's Ships and Seamen might be of great Use in the Undertaking, the Committee at his Instance now make a Request to the Admiral to spare Two Ships for this Scrvice. The Admiral on their Requisition readily agrees to spare the Worcester and Coventry, upon its being represented to him, that the Service will not in all Probability detain them more than Seven or Eight Days, and that the Distance is so small they may be recalled in 24. Hours, should it be found necessary.

The necessary Orders must be given to the Commander of the Company's Ships now on the Arnaul Station.

Select Committee.

To Sir Edward Hughes, Knight of the Bath, Rear Admiral of the Red, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships in the East Indies.

T being judged absolutely necessary to profecute the War against the Marattas with all possible Vigour, in order to bring them to Terms of Accommodation; and the Reduction of the Fort of Arnaul being a material Object in which the Commander in Chief has represented, that the Assistance of His Majesty's Ships might be of essential Service; we were induced by this Consideration, and our Experience of your Zeal for the Company's Interest, to request, when we had the Honour to meet you this Morning, that you would spare Two of His Majesty's Ships to co-operate with the Company's Forces and Vessels in this Undertaking, which in all Probability will not detain them more than Seven or Eight Days, and the Distance is so small, that they may be recalled within 24 Hours should you find it necessary.

Arnaul is a Fort fituated upon a finall Island at the Entrance of a River of that Name, which forms the Northern Boundary of the Island of Bassein, from which Place it is only distant about Twelve Miles. The Possession of that Place is therefore highly necessary to secure Bassein from Interruption, whilst the Company's Troops may be employed in a more distant Quarter; nor will it in that Case be prudent to leave in the Hands of the Enemy a Place of Strength immetric by the characters of Possession and mishous reliable the Company's Possession and mishous reliable the Company reliable diately adjoining the Company's Possessions, and without which the Conquest of Bassein is not

We thank you for the Readiness with which you consented to spare the Worcester and Coventry for this Service, which we flatter ourselves will with their Assistance be effected without any material Difficulty. We shall give Instructions to Commodore Nesbitt, now commanding the Company's Ships on that Station, to communicate to the commanding Officer of His Majesty's Ships every Information in his Power that may be useful in the Execution of this Service, and to obey all such Orders as may be given him. We also beg Leave to request, that you will give Instructions to the Naval Officers to co-operate with General Goddard, who on his Part will exert every Effort in his Power in concert with them, to ensure Success to this Enterprize. Extract of Bombay Select Consultations, the 11th February 1781.

PRESENT,

The Monourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, Daniel Draper, Esquire, and Nathaniel Stackhouse, Esquire.

THE President now lays before us an Extract of a Letter he wrote to the General under the 8th President, the Instant: and as we intirely concur with him in the Propriety of what he has therein suggested; William Horn. Ordered, That it be entered after this Confultation, and another Copy immediately transmitted to the General, left any Accident should have happened to the Original.

Extract of a Letter from the President to General Goddard.

With respect to your going to Poona, I do not know what Essect it may have in bringing the Marattas to Terms, or of accepting the Proposals made to them by the Governor General and Council of Calcutta, through Moodajee Bouncello; but I think and recommend that you should take Raja Matchee, as it may be very useful in many Respects, both for lodging your Provisions, &c. and as a Place to which you may return, should it be found necessary; indeed I think it would be risking too much the going with your Army too far into the Decan in the present Posture of Assairs with Enemies on all Sides; for should the French appear at this Place, we have no Force here to oppose them, should any unforeseen Accident happen to your Army, and the Squadron have left this Place; all which are Matters of such Consequence, that should not be forgot by you, nor do I think the appearing at or before Poona will be of any Consequence; as it is an open Town, they will certainly abandon it, and fly to some of their strong Holds or Forts; and I understand that all the Merchants and People of Consequence with their Property have been for some Time removed.

8th February 1781.

To the Honourable the Secret Committee of the Honourable the Court of Directors of t United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Gentlemen, 1. We addressed you last in Duplicate, under the 11th of January, via Bussorah; and Mr. Latouch has acquainted us, that he transmitted you another Copy: We now send a further Transmitted you another Copy:

2. We have now to advise, that the Period limited by the Governor General and Council for the Acceptance of the Terms offered to the Poona Durbar, expired the 9th of this Month, without their having declared their Acceptance of them; and consequently they remain no longer in force. General Goddard, after the Reduction of Bassein and Arnaul, marched to the Gauts, forced the Enemy's Post, and gained Possession of the Pass of Bhore Gaut: Soon after a Maratta Agent came into Camp, but without any Powers or Credentials from the Minister hunsels, and expressed in general Terms the Defire of the Marattas for Peace; and asked what Conditions we expected. In the first and every Stage of this Intercourse (for it did not amount to a Negociation) the Maratta professed entire Ignorance of the Terms offered by the Governor General and Council, through the Medium of the Rajah of Berar; on which Account, and to convince them of our pacific Disposition, we defired the General to fend a Copy of the Articles directly to the Ministers; having no Doubt at the fame Time, but that he was perfectly acquainted with the Particulars. The General did accordingly transmit them, with a Letter of the most friendly Professions, and received a Reply containing a positive Resusal to accede to the offered Terms; which, he says, were not approved by the Rajah of Berar, who had for that Reason sent them back to the Governor General and Council: And the Minister also says, that Conditions for another Power must be included in whatever Treaty may be made with the Marattas; by which we understood he meant Hyder Ally. It is to be observed, the Minister sent to the General the first A lvice we received of the Arrival of the French Fleet on the Coast of Coromandel, which must have reached the Maratta Camp after the first Overture had been made, and probably influenced him in his fublequent Determination. As we have thus lott all immediate Prospect of a Peace with the Marattas; and every Object we had proposed to acquire in the Course of the War being accomplished, we have taken Measures, in concert with General Goddard, to confine our future Operations to a mere Plan of Defence, and the Security and Prefervavation of our present Acquisitions; to reduce as much as possible the enormous Charges attending the Army, and to yield what Affiftance we can to the Prefidency of Fort Saint George: The General will accordingly make a fuitable Disposition to protect and cover our Possessions, and for the Defence of Bombay in case of Necessity; and we are preparing to fend back all the Fort Saint George Troops ferving on this Coast, by which our Military Charges will be greatly reduced, and the Army under General Coote strengthened with a very considerable Reinforcement. The Meafure, which we have taken for the general Safety of our Possessions, makes it doubly necessary that you should comply with our repeated Requests for a Supply of European Recruits. We are concerned to be at the same Time under a Necessity of putting our former Resolution into Execution, of withdrawing from Tellicherry, as fully explained in our last Letter, which will be done as foon as Shipping can be prepared for transporting the Fort Saint George Troops, in which we have requefted the Affistance of the Admiral.

We have received Advice from the Select Committee at Fort Saint George, and have feen other authentic Accounts, of a French Squadron which appeared off that Place on the 25th, 26th, and and commanded by Chevalier D'Orves. The Commander of a Country Vessel which was taken and ransomed, and who was on board the French Admiral, gives an Account, that there did not appear to be any considerable Number of Military on board, and they have no Transports. By a private Letter from Fort Saint George, dated tst of February, we find they proceeded to the South, without making any Attempt on the Five Indiamen then in the Road, with a Number of Vessels laden with Grain and Provisions; the destroying of which might have been easily accomplished, and would have been severely felt. They arrived at Pondicherry the 29th of January; but it is supposed they have neither a Stock of Provisions, nor can procure Supply sufficient to enable them to continue long upon the Coast of Coromandel. It is said the Arrival of the French Fleet has not prevented General Coote from pursuing his Operations: The General has retaken Carangoly, and the Energy withdrawn the Troops, with which for many Weeks they have been besieging Vellore, Permacoil, and Wandewash. Hyder Ally was also employed in moving his heavy Cannon and Stores from Arcot; but it seemed to be the general Opinion, he will not withdraw his Army before he has hazarded a Battle.

The Fleet under Admiral Hughes will fail for the Coast of Coromandel about the 20th of next Month.

Extract of Bombay Scieet Confultations, the 15th February 1781.

RECEIVED the following Letter from General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

I beg Leave to make you acquainted with a Circumstance that has occurred, which though of ral, Lener and on a Subject and a control of the co the most important Nature, and on a Subject at present the most interesting to us of all others, I find it impossible to form any certain Judgment of what may be the probable Result, or how far it may be considered as favourable to our Views. I shall however proceed without surther Preface to make you acquainted with the Particulars.

Yesterday, the 12th Instant, a Man arrived from the Enemy's Camp, sent, as he previously intimated to me, from the Maratta Minister. His Name is Runsoor Senoy; and I understand that he was many Years ago employed by the Poona Government to transact their Affairs with the Presidency of Bombay, where he resided a long Time in the Character of their Vackeel. Upon admitting him to a Conference, I found that the Letter he had brought was not from Nana Furnesse himself, but from Byroo Pundit, a Person who Runsoor informed me, and indeed I had heard myself from other Authorities, was a good deal in the Minister's Confidence. I expressed my Surprize that he should have neglected to provide himself with the Credentials of his being really employed by Nana, and without which I told him it was improper for me to enter into any Conversation with him. He made many Apologies for the Neglect, principally founded upon the Doubts the Minister pretended to entertain of the friendly Disposition of the English towards him; and added such strong verbal Assurances of the sincere Intentions of the latter, that though not convinced by his Arguments, I thought it most expedient for the Public Good to acquiesce in his Proposal of being heard at this Time, and give this Proof of my Readiness to concur in any proper Measures for terminating the Difference now fublifting, rather than by too nice a Regard to ceremonious Forms, throw any Obstacle in the Way of a Reconciliation that was so much the Object of our Desire and Interest.

The Letter from Byroo Punt was in general Terms acquainting me with the earnest Desire of the Minister to conclude a Peace; and his having dispatched Runsoor Senoy to converse with me upon certain Points, to which if my Answer proved savourable, he would immediately send an Ambassador to me with full Powers from the Sircar to conclude a Treaty.

Runfoor began by declaring on the Part of Nana his fincere and friendly Intentions towards the English, and his Desire of immediately entering into an Alliance with them. He did not condescend upon any particular or specific Conditions for effecting this Alliance, but affected to consider it as a Point that might be attained without any Difficulty, if both Parties were but sincere in their Desire of accomplishing it. On this Head I thought it sufficient on my Part to make the same general Affurances which the Minister had communicated to me through him, and he seemed to be persectly fatisfied with them.

The other Point, and that on which he laid the greatest Stress, related to Hyder Ally; here he faid the Minister found himself a good deal embarrassed; he had lately received Letters from Sir Eyre Coote, proposing to him to conclude a Peace with the English, and unite his Forces with theirs against Hyder. He affirmed on this Head, that however willing he was to consider Hyder Ally an Enemy to the Maratta State, which he had always proved himself, and at this Time was in Possession of a Country belonging to the Sircar, and yielding a Revenue of Sixty Lacks of Rupees, it was impossible for the Minister to commence Hostilities against him immediately, on Account of Engagements they had lately formed together; that he therefore proposed to write to Hyder, acquainting him with the Arrival of the English Army at the Top of the Gauts; that he had thought it expedient to enter into an Alliance of Friendship with them, in which he intended that Hyder also should be included; and the Result of this Plan, he added, would be, that as Hyder's Anfwer would furnish him with a fufficient Pretext for breaking with him, the united Arms of the English and Marattas should take the Field immediately after the Rains, and march into his Country. The Reason he gave for delaying the Operations till that Period was, that before an Answer could be received to the Letter he now proposed writing, the Scason of Action would be nearly over, and the Rains at Hand, which must render it impossible for an Army to keep the Field. He further added, that even admitting it was in every other Respect convenient for him to break with Hyder and enter upon Action immediately, the Season is already too far spent to enable us to make any considerable Progress. Runsoor concluded this Subject with declaring, that it was not the Intention of Nana to defer the Conclusion of the Treaty betwixt the English and the Maratta State, which he wished should be executed immediately, and that what related to Hyder should remain secret in a separate private Treaty; besides which, if any Doubts were entertained of the Sircar's Sincerify, he offered to deliver up to the English a Man of the first Consequence as a Hostage, in which Case he also would expect the same.

Having maturely confidered the important Objects to which this Proposal relative to Hyder must lead, and the necessary Attention it deserved in the present State of our Assairs, I expressed REP. VI.

APPENDIX,

in general Terms my Satisfaction with the Sentiments thus communicated to me by the Minister, and the mutual Advantages which must accrue from the Prosecution of the Plan he had laid dow; At the same Time I thought it prudent to avoid entering more particularly into the Subject, by pointing out any Mode of Attack, either with respect to Time or Place, or indeed by proposing any Conditions of mutual Benefit as the Basis of our Compact against Hyder. These Points I conceived could only be discussed with any Propriety when a public Vackeel should arrive; when it appeared that any reasonable Dependance could be placed upon the Sincerity of the Maratta Governs ment, and when your Sentiments should be transmitted to me on the important Subjects now communicated, and your Instructions founded on them be received for my future Guidance. The Man returned to the Enemy's Camp early this Morning; and as the Minister is encamped beyond Tilliagong, the Time necessary for going there and returning, together with that requisite for the Discussion and Preparation of the important Points to be afterwards adjusted, will occasion a Delay of Eight Days, at the Expiration of which he declared a public Vackeel would arrive in my

The Time thus limited will cause no Inconvenience, or even Delay in my Operations, as I hope that Interval will be usefully employed in receiving the necessary Supplies of Provisions from Bellapore, and give you Leisure to weigh fully the Subjects on which I have solicited your Sentiments, and which I shall wait for with the greatest Impatience.

In the Course of Conversation with Runsoor, he gave me to understand, though it is a Circumstance by no Means probable, that the Proposals from Bengal had never been received by Nana, but that Moodajee Boosla, through whom they were sent, finding no satisfactory Offer made relative to Ragoba, had returned them. Supposing this to have been actually the Case, the Copy of these Proposals will no doubt have been sent them by Moodajee, and as it appears they do not mean to produce the Original, there is Reason to suspect that either Moodajee must have been averse to, and designedly prevented the Success of the proposed Compact against Hyder, or that the Marattas themselves have suppressed these Proposals, with a View of obtaining more favourable Conditions in a present Treaty with us; though this last Suggestion is, I must confess, very unlikely and improbable.

Upon the Whole, and indeed their own Declarations confirm this Opinion, the Variety of Channels through which Application have been made to them, while it tends to perplex and confound, fills their Minds with Diffrust and Diffidence of the Powers vested in any Individual with whom they may treat, and an Apprehension of the Invalidity of the Terms which may be concluded upon under fuch Circumstances.

This Subject leads me to mention another Fact which Runsoor communicated to me, and affirmed to have been one very principal Reason why the Minister had deferred for some Days sending him to me. I know the various Artifices practifed by these People, and therefore do not put much Confidence in his Affertion; but as Admiral Sir Edward Hughes is on the Spot, who can fatisfy you with respect to the Truth of it, or otherwise, I shall only mention the Circumstance, and refer you to him for further Information. Runsoor told me that a Musfulman, named Bapoo Cout, arrived in the Maratta Camp, fent, as he faid, from Admiral Sir Edward Hughes, with a verbal Message to the following Effect: "That the Governments of Bengal and Bombay had violated " Peace, and waged an unjust War against the Maratta State; that he (the Admiral) was vested " with full Powers, and desirous of putting an End to Hostilities, by restoring to them what " had been taken, and therefore wished to be acquainted with their Complaints." No Answer was given by the Minister, but the Man ordered to depart immediately.

I have fully weighed this Circumstance in my own Mind, and if Runsoor's Information is true, am convinced that this Man must have acted without Authority; since Admiral Sir Edward Hughes would never have sent a Message of any particular Nature, to a Power with whom we were actually engaged in War, and proposing to conclude a Treaty upon the Instructions received from the Governor General and Council, without first communicating his Intentions to your Committee and to myfelf, who are intrusted with the Management of this Alliance, as an opposite Conduct from the Appearance it carries of Disunion and differing Interests, cannot but be productive of the greatest Inconvenience and Detriment to the Public Service.

I have wrote you several Letrers on the Subject of Supplies of Provisions for the Army, to which I know it is unnecessary further to call your Attention. In a Letter of this Date, I have enclosed for your Perusal an Address from the Commissary General, and now beg Leave to submit to your Consideration another from Mr. Horsely, the Commissary of your Detachment. The Propriety of his Request, and the Justness of the Arguments which he used to enforce it, both with regard to what relates to himself, and the suture Prosecution of the Service, strikes me in to forcible and particular a Manner, that I find it unnecessary to add any Thing to what he has represented, further than to recommend it most earnestly to your serious Attention and Consideration.

Extract of Bombay Select Consultation, the 22d February 1781.

We can only express our Approbation of the Manner in which the General appears to have Goddard, treated the Maratta Agent, but do not think it material to enter into any further Discussion on the the Manner the Manner in which the General appears to have Goddard, and Goddard, a Subject of the General's Letter, till an Agent arrives with proper Credentials from the Minister himself, and there appears a greater Certainty of a Negociation taking place.

An Extract of those Passages relative to the Admiral has been delivered to him, which we suppose he will of course explain.

Received the following Letter from General Goddard, with the enclosed Paper.

Goddard, Gen

Gentlemen,

Having received early this Morning the Minister's expected Reply to my Letter sent him the 1st Instant, I lose no Time in communicating it to you; and that you may be enabled to judge more fully of the real Disposition and Intention of the Maratta Government, I have enclosed an exact Translation of his Letter to me, together with a Copy of mine, to which his is an Answer.

This Letter I can but consider as an absolute Resusal of the Offers of the Government of Bengal, and proves beyond a Doubt what I have all along had Reason to suspect, the Existence of an Alliance and Connection with Hyder Ally, which has for its principal Object a mutual League against the English Nation; and that Hyder is expressly alluded to in that Part of the Ministers Letter, when he says that if I am servent in my Desire of Friendship, it is requisite that I make a Treaty, which shall include the Proposals of such Persons who are allied to and connected with the Sircar.

Having therefore no Grounds to expect that the Minister will in the most distant Degree be inclined to enter into our present Views against Hyder by any further Attempt to negociate on my Part, and indeed thoroughly perfuaded that no Terms could now in Policy be proposed to the Maratta Government, that had not the mutual Profecution of the War against Hyder for its express and fole Object, the prefent Expediency and Necessity of which could alone justify any further Sacrifice on our Side, I have determined to confider the Minister's Answer, as it is certainly intended by him, decifive with respect to the present Negociation, and to make no new Proposals or Advances, which could only encrease his consident Presumption, subject us to the Mortification of a Second Refusal, and besides promise no reasonable Prospect of Success; since, if Nana Furnesse was really defirous of Peace, he would have availed himself of the Opening now given, and at least have communicated in Writing, or fent a Person to declare what the Terms are on which he is ready to conclude a Treaty, and in some Respects have explained the Nature of the Proposals he wishes should be included for the Benefit of the Persons who he says are allied to, and connected with the Councils of the Sircar.

I request to be favoured with your particular Sentiments on this Occasion, and your Opinion of the Propriety or good Policy of prosecuting any further Plan of Negociation under the discouraging Circumstances that now present themselves; which unless some unsoreseen Event occurs, I shall not myself think of attempting till I receive your Answer to this Letter. I have under my Consideration your Letter of the 12th ultimo, relative to the suture Operations of the War, in the Conduct of which I shall be generally guided by the Opinion you have therein expressed, and which concurs with the Sentiments formerly delivered to you by myself.

I shall however be glad to receive any further Communication of your particular Ideas on this important Point; and have the Honour to be,

Head Quarters, Condolah, 5th March 1781.

Gentlemen, Your most obedient, and most humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

Draft of a Letter from General Goddard to Nana Furnesse, March 1st 1781.

Letter from I neral Godda to Nana F

Notwithstanding you are already fully acquainted with the friendly Sentiments of the English, and their earnest Desire for Peace with the Maratta State, which have been particularly communicated to you through the Means of Runfoor; yet, in order to convince you still more of the Sincerity of my Intentions, and that you may not possibly urge in Excuse for neglecting the Interests of the Sircar at this important and dangerous Time, your Ignorance of the favourable and very friendly Disposition of the English towards you, I now enclose the Proposals of the Honourable Garages of Canada and Canada an Governor General and Council of Bengal, for concluding a Treaty of perpetual Alliance with the Maraeta State, Original of which has been transmitted by them to you, through the Mediation of Modajee Boossa, the Rajah of Berar. Should

APPENDIX, Nº 342.

Should the original Proposals not have been received by you through Moodajee, I think it pro. per to declare to you in the Name of the Honourable Governor General and Council of Bengal that I am invested with full Powers in their Name, and in Behalf of the Honourable Company, to agree to the Conditions proposed in the Paper I now send you, provided they are accepted of by you in the Manner and within the Time prescribed by the Honourable Governor General and Council of Bengal.

You will perceive from the Date of the Proposals, that the Five Months limited will expire in Nine Days from the Date of this Letter, that is on the 9th of March, corresponding to the 13th of Rubba ul Divil in the 1195 Year of the Hegira.

I therefore think it necessary to declare to you, that if before that Time you do not agree to the Proposals, I am not authorized to grant or to treat on those Terms afterwards, and they will therefore become then and for ever after void and of no Effect.

If the Proposals now made meet with your Concurrence, it is necessary that a Person be sent from you, fully authorized by the Sircar to negociate, as with no other can I in future hold Correspondence. What more?

er from a Furnesse eneral God-

Your agreeable Letter having been received, I am made acquainted with the Contents.

You have wrote, "That Mr. Hastings and the Government of Calcutta sent a Treaty to the Minister of the Peishwa, through the Mediation of Moodajee Boossa, which pethaps may not " have arrived, and on that Account you have fent a Copy; from a Perufal of which every Particular will be made known." You also add, "That Mr. Hastings and the Government of Cal" cutta have invested you with full Powers to conclude and settle the Business of these Parts."

Before this, Moodajee wrote the Sircar, that Imad ul Dowlah and the Chiefs of Calcutta had fent him a Treaty, but as it did not meet with his Approbation, it would answer no End to fend it to the Sircar; and that therefore he had returned it to Mr. Haffings.

At present the Copy of that very Treaty which you have sent me, has been read from the Beginning to the End by your Friend, and it is certain that the Contents therein written are not proper or fit for the Approbation of the Sircar. If you are fincere and fervent in your Defire of Friendship, it is therefore incumbent upon you to make a Treaty that shall include the Proposals of those Persons who are allied to, and connected with the Councils of the Sircar.

It is not my Defire that the Violence of War should continue to rage on both Sides, and the Inhabitants be ruined. But betwixt the Government of the Peishwa Pundit Purdhaun and the English Company, a firm and constant Intercourse of Friendship and Alliance long subsisted: On whose Part this has been interrupted and destroyed, that Friend well knows; there is no Neccifity for me to point it out. What more shall I write?

Extract of Bombay Select Confultations, the 24th March 1781.

By Pattamars received the Two following Letters from Brigadier General Goddard. The Original of that of the 12th Instant has never been received.

ird, Gene-

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour of addressing you the 5th Instant, informing you of the Result of the Overtures I had made to the Minister; since which nothing new or material has happened. Every Doubt and Uncertainty with respect to the Ministers real Determination, being now removed by his positive Resusal to accede to the Terms offered by the Honourable Governor General and Council of Bengal, and an absolute Bar put to our Hopes of effecting a Peace with the Maratta State at this Time, upon any Conditions fince those already rejected have actually become void with the Expiration of the Period limited for their remaining in Force, and were we even disposed to make still more liberal Advances and Concessions, there does not appear any reasonable Hope of Success to our Endeavours; it becomes incumbent upon us in this Situation to determine upon some Plan of future Operations that may remedy, by every possible Means, the Disappointment given to the Views of the Bengal Government, and provide as far as Circumstances will admit for the general Interests of the Company's Affairs, and the Preservation of their valuable Settlements and Acquisitions in India. I shall therefore presume to lay my Sentiments before you on these momentous Points, that you may take them into your serious and full Consideration, and such System of Conduct be immediately adopted, as shall appear best calculated to promote those defirable Purposes.

Before

A P P E N D I X, Nº 342.

Before the Commencement of the present Campaign, the express Objects of our military Operations were declared to be the Conquest of Bassein and its Dependencies, the Expulsion of the Enemy from the Concan, and besides, providing for the Desence of our new Acquistions in Guzerat, the ultimate, and as it then appeared, every probable Hopes of Terms of Honour and Advantage to the Company. Upon this Plan Hostilities have been prosecuted, and every Part of it has been hitherto attended with the wished-for Success, except our Expectations of attaining a Peace, the Cause of which Disappointment we unfortunately find to be for remote from any Powers of Remedy we may possess, as to have desied all our past, and to throw an invincible Obstacle in the Way of any present, Efforts to remove it. If under such Circumstances it may be permitted to indulge any particular Cause of Satisfaction, I must consess I cannot on this Occasion avoid deriving a secret Pleasure from the conscious Resection that no Means have been less unattempted by us, either to produce the pacific Disposition in the Minister we so much wished for, or, sailing in that, to obtain a thorough Knowledge of his real Views and Designs.

In this latter Aim I think we have perfectly succeeded, and however much Reason and good Policy may condemn the Idea, I cannot help being now confirmed in the Belief that, encouraged by the Success of Hyder, or seduced by his Promises, the Maratta Minister has determined to adhere to the Engagements mutually formed, and fleadily perfevere in the Alliance, I am not perhaps far wrong, when I fay, general Confederacy of the Powers South of the Nerbeddah, against the English; it is only therefore by a seasonable and effectual Check to the Progress of Hyder that we can hope to bind the Maratta Ministry to Peace. It may not be improper here to make some Remarks upon the Effects which an immediate Profecution of further vigorous Measures might be expected to produce in their Councils; especially as from the Posschion of the Gauts, and the Vicinity of their Capital, it is evident that we could march and possess ourselves of it in 6 or 7 Days at furthest, but it is also well known that should we determine upon this Step, they have resolved to fet Fire to it themselves, so that neither would the Acquisition of it be of any Value to us, nor would it advance us One Step towards an Accommodation with the Peshwa, which alone, in the present Situation of Assairs, would in any Degree justify ourselves penetrating into the Decan: And indeed were there not other weighty Confiderations at this Time to demand our most serious Attention, and did no other Wars employ our Arms in India, I am far from thinking that a Plan of Conquest on this Side, beyond what has been already pursued, is for the Interests of the Company; and conceive that the Preservation and Security of the Possessions we have acquired, would be an Object far more beneficial in its Consequences than the Glare of additional Conquests, which, from their Distance and relative Situation, besides involving an enormous and ruinous Expence, would be too hazardous and difficult to maintain.

The System of Desence, which under such Circumstances would be an Object of Choice, is now a Measure of Necessity; and if while prosecuting it, we can at the same Time be ready to guard against any Attempts of the French on this Side, and be assisting to the Operations of Sir Eyre Coote against Hyder on the other Coast, we shall accomplish Three Objects the most beneficial to the Company's Interests at this Period, and provide, as far as lies in our Power, for the general

Safety of their valuable Possessions in India.

I shall first speak to the latter Point, viz. Our affording Relief to Sir Eyre Coote: And since the Obstinacy and Enmity of the Maratta Minister will not admit of our doing it in the Extent we could have wished, we must make every Effort to do it to the Extent we possibly can, consistent with the Sasety and Existence of this Settlement: I therefore beg to propose, as the only Step lest in our Power, that the Madras Detachment, serving in the Army under my Command, be sent back to the Service of the Coast of Coromandel; that it stop at Tellicherry, and, reinforced by the Troops under Major Cotgrave, proceed to Anjengo, from whence Colonel Brown, the Officer commanding the Whole, will direct his March through the Travencore Country, and in Conjunction with the Rajah, make a powerful Diversion towards Dindigal, conformable to the Plan already proposed for the Operations of Major Cotgrave's Detachment, by Sir Eyre Coote; or be ready to follow such further Instructions as the latter shall find it necessary to fend to meet him at Anjengo.

This, Gentlemen, is all that, in the present critical and dangerous State of Assairs, I am of Opinion can be attempted in favour of Sir Eyre Coote, consistent with your own immediate Sasety; For, in order to effect this, it will be requisite to spare at least One Battalion; or, if Captain Seward is withdrawn, Two Battalions from the Troops of your Presidency to relieve Major Cotgrave, and the Remainder, in Conjunction with the Bengal Battalions, will not be more than sufficient for the Desence and Protection of your own Acquisitions, the relinquishing of which at this Time, unless for the essential and solid Objects of Advantage proposed by the Honourable Governor General and Council, which we have essayed and sound to be unattainable, would be most impolitic, and probably involve the Ruin of all the Company's Settlements on this Coast.

I shall now make a few Remarks respecting the future Disposition of the Troops for the Purposes of a Plan of Defence. It is very evident, that while we keep Possession of this Gaut, the Misses of a Plan of Defence. It is very evident, that while we keep Possession of this Gaut, the Misses of a Plan of Defence. It is very evident, that while we keep Possession of this Gaut, the Misses of a Plan of Defence in Capital: There is there-nister will not venture to detach any considerable Body distant from the Capital: There is there-nister will not be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; fore no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materially disturbed; for no Reason to be apprehensive of our valuable Acquisitions in Guzerat being materiall the Concan; at any rate he will not venture to detach any Guns, and the Bodies of Cavalry that may molest the open Country, will in all Probability retire before the setting in of the Rains.

I would therefore propose, as a Plan the most expedient and advisable, that Two or more Battalions of Sepoys, with a Proportion of Artillery, be stationed upon this Gaut in a strong fortified Post; and the Remainder of the Army encamped during the Rains in some Part of the Concan, the most convenient for the Purpose of moving with Expedition to the Support of this Gaut, or to affist in the Desence of Bombay, as Circumstances may render expedient.

As it will be of the utmost Importance to keep up a safe and regular Communication from Bombay with this Post; and its Security will become an Object of the first Confequence, in order effectually to check and overawe the Maratta Power, I would recommend that some Place for encamping the Army be fixed upon, as near to Bhore Gaut as possible; and therefore, provided no Objections exitt in Point of Situation or Conveniency of Supplies, which are at present to me unknown, I am of Opinion that Panwell, or even Chouk, which is Half Way between Panwell and this Place.

On this particular Point it is not however so necessary to come to any immediate Determina-tion; and I have at present introduced it principally to give you a clear and precise Idea of the genc. ral Plan I beg Leave to recommend to your Confideration, in order that you may come to fome fpeedy Decision, and avail yourselves of the Presence and Assistance of Sir Edward Hughes, in deliberating upon a Plan of so great Importance to the Interests of the Nation in India, and particularly in executing that Part of it which relates to the immediate Transportation of the Troops.

I beg Leave to express my earnest Wish to be favoured with an immediate Answer to this Letter, as indeed I have been confiderably disappointed in not receiving a Reply to mine of the 5th Instant, Duplicate of which I have dispatched by this Opportunity, lest some Accident should have befallen the Original.

Head Quarters, Condelah, March 12th, 1781. I have the Honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient, humble Servant, Thomas Goddard.

Gentlemen,

id. Gene-

I was Yesterday favoured with your Two Letters of the 8th and 9th Instant, the former enclosing a Letter from the Secretary to the Honourable Governor General and Council to my Address; and thank you for the Steps you have taken relative to the Bills of Exchange which came enclosed.

I most sincerely selicitate you upon the favourable Intelligence which you have communicated to me, of the State of Affairs on the Coast, and have not any Doubt but the most fortunate and decifive Success will soon follow so auspicious a Beginning.

In Reply to what you are pleased to observe in your Letter of the 9th Instant, relative to Colonel Hartley's Detachment, I did suppose the Events that immediately followed the Reduction of Basfein, both respecting the Situation of that Detachment in particular, and the Operations of the Army in general, were so well known to you, that any particular Explanation of them would never have been wanted from me. It is true, the Bombay Detachment, at the Period you mention, was placed, and has ever fince continued, under my Command; but the finallest Reference to the peculiar Circumstances that first occasioned my March to join it at Visrabhoy, to the Service on which the Troops were employed immediately after, to the Object proposed, of driving the Marattas out of the Concan, and to the Expediency, nay even Necessity of making no Division of Force where the Enemy had already shewn themselves so dangerously powerful, will be sufficient to convince you that no partial Purposes of Collection could possibly have been attended to by me, without the greatest Inconvenience and Hazard to the Public Service.

This Explanation on my Part will probably account fully for the necessary Failure that may have happened to your Expectations of Supplies since the Reduction of Bassein; but as the Season for Collection had commenced at least Two Months before that Period, the greatest Part of which no Enemy whatever molested the Country, I should conceive the Hopes you were led to form, during that Time, of being relieved by the Produce of the Concan, cannot possibly have met with the same Disappointment.

On the Subject of further Negociation with the Maratta Minister, and what relates to Tellicherry, as well as the general Plan of Measures to be pursued. I have already troubled you with my particular Sentiments, and wait to receive your Opinion and Determination on them.

In the mean Time, as it will be absolutely necessary in the Event of maintaining a strong Post upon the Top of the Gaut, (a Measure, the Expediency of which cannot I think admit of a Doubt) to leave for its more perfect Security, some Guns of a heavier Metal than any at present with the Army, I must request of you to give immediate Orders to be sent to Bellapore, to be ready to accompany the first Escort coming from thence, Two 18 and also Four 12 Pounder Pieces of Ordnance, with their Tumbrels, and a large Proportion of Ammunition, &c.

The Danger of the Road rendering my Dispatches to you very precarious, and liable to be intercepted, I have not enclosed you a formal Return of the State of the Army, but transcribe you shall conclude this Letter with informing you of an Action that happened at Chouke the 16th ant, with a Body of Marattas under the Command of Purriss Ram Boa, and the Escort comfrom Panwell, consisting of the 5th Battalion of Bengal and the 1st of Bombay Sepoys, and Candahar Horse.

The former to the Amount of between 12 and 15 Thousand Horse and Foot, made a most bold daring Assault upon the Escort, a very short Time after coming to their Ground early in the ming; but after repeated Essorts, from which however they did not altogether desist till about on, were obliged to relinquish the Attempt without making any Impression upon the Detachnt, though not without considerable Loss to themselves both of Men and Horses. The good Contand Military Skill of Captain Mackay, who commanded, in the Disposition he made of his ce, was equalled by the Spirit and Intrepidity of the Officers under him, who exerted themselves most extraordinary and gallant Manner. I beg Leave to express my warmest Sense of their rits and Services on this Occasion, which I statter myself will appear deserving of your Apbation.

One Company of Sepoys belonging to the Bengal Battalion, who had routed a Party of Horse, pursued them too eagerly and incautiously, were suddenly turned upon and attacked by them, sustained some Loss; I have not yet ascertained the exact Number of Killed and Wounded. In Night of the 16th Captain Mackay advanced a sew Miles, and having been joined by a Reincement I sent from Campoly the Morning of the 17th, arrived safe in Camp that Evening with Whole of his Convoy, which I have the Pleasure to tell you was a very large and considerable

The State of the Two mbay Battalions which have joined Major Forbes, and of the rest of your Troops in Guzerat and the Presidency, as well as those composing the Garrisons of Bassein, Callian, and Bellapore, you sufficiently acquainted with, to form a certain Estimate of their Strength; and it is not in my wer to give you a more particular Return of them at present than you are already possessed of.

GENERAL Goddard's Definition of the Objects of the War, and of our Political Views on the Side of India, is exactly the same as have been repeatedly expressed by us in all our Proceeding and Plans of Conduct, and by which we have been invariably guided in all our Operations.

We entirely concur with the General, and indeed the Proposition came first from us, as appears our Minutes of the 9th, that a System of Defence is now a Measure of Necessity, and our own Dissicult is in the Choice of Measures for pursuing that System. Various Objections occur against keeping a large a Force at the Head of the Gauts during the Monsoon; the Danger and Dissiculty of atlording them Supplies, the vast Expence of Stores and Ammunition, and the Danger of leaving so large Part of our Force in a Situation where perhaps we could not command their Services, if there shows be a Necessity for them at Bombay, or be able to give them Assistance, if they should be hard problem After all, it does not appear that maintaining a Post at the Head of the Gauts will answer the Purpul of keeping the Enemy out of the Conkan, for it is evident by the General's Letters on the Table, the notwithstanding the present Situation of the Army, a very large Body of the Enemy is now in the Country, by which a large Convoy was exposed to imminent Danger. If the General could have adopted our Proposal of, making himself Master of Razematchy, the Possession might have be maintained with a small Body of Men, and it would have assorted secure Lodgement for the Troop and Stores, without the Expence attending the proposed Scheme of raising Works and sortifying Post, building Magazines, Casemates, &c.

Upon the Whole, we think that if at any Time hereafter it may be judged expedient to possible ourselves of the Gauts, they may be again secured or taken Possession of with much less Loss, Difficulty, and Danger, than would attend maintaining a Post there during the rainy Season: And it is therefore resolved to recommend to the General to drop this Idea, and to employ the Army the Remainder of the Season in protecting the Conkan, and if possible, to reduce Paib, or some other of the strong Holds, which might afford convenient and secure Stations for Part of the Troops during the Rains; and the Security of which in our Hands will protect and encourage the Inhabitants in the Cultivation the enfuing Season.

As it will be impossible for the Maratta Horse to act in the Conkan during the Rains, we apprehen there can be no Danger; and it must be accordingly suggested to the General to canton the Armyn Two or more Divisions, at the most convenient Stations for covering the Country, which we judy may be about Panwell, Calian, or Visrabhoy, from which Places the Troops may with Ease be train ported to Bombay in case of Necessity; or form a Junction against the Opening of the Season, with out Danger from the Enemy.

We shall, agreeable to the General's Proposal, take immediate Measures for returning the Mada Detachment; and are glad to have it in our Power to assist that Presidency, though in the present st duced State of our Establishment we wish Circumstances would permit of our detaining the Europeans. The General must in consequence be desired to give immediate Orders for returning the Madras Detachment to Bombay, in Readiness to embark.

We also propose, previous to the serting in of the Monsoon, to withdraw the Bombay Troops int Garrison, which will cause a further confiderable Reduction in the Expences of the Army; and we conceive the Bengal Detachment will be fully sufficient to secure the Country, and strong enought refift any Attempts that can possibly be made by the Enemy at that Season of the Year.

We must now, with whatever Reluctance, put in Execution our former Resolution of abandoring Tellicherry, which, as already full explained in our Proceedings, it is absolutely out of our Power to maintain any longer, since we have no longer any Hopes of bringing the Maratta War to a Conclision. When the Madras Detachment arrives from the Army, which, as the Season is late, the Gener must be defired to expedite, we shall consult with Colonel Brown about the Plan to be observed withdrawing the Garrison, and the Expediency of landing his Force, in order to make an Effort dislodge the Enemy, which we apprehend will be necessary before the Place can be evacuated; an will also enable us to do it with less Loss of Credit and Risque to the Inhabitants.

Ordered that the Commander of the Royal Admiral be directed to get his Ship in immediate Read ness for Sea, to affift in transporting the Madras Detachment to Tellicherry and Anjengo.

Read the Letter from Admiral Hughes, entered under the 19th Instant.

Resolved, that our Resolutions of this Day respecting the Madras Detachment and the withdrawif of Tellichery be communicated to the Admiral, and a Request made to him to order One or more. His Majesty's Ships to affist on these Services. Whatever Ships he may think proper to order, me take on board the Marines he left for the Defence of Tellicherry.

Extract of Bombay Select Confultations, the 28th March 1781:

Signed the following Letter to General Goddard, agreeable to the above Minutes:

To Brigadier General Goddard.

We have received a Duplicate of your Letter of the 12th Instant, the Original of which never came to Hand, and the Duplicate did not reach us till the 24th, at the same Time with your Letter of the 21st. We are forry to find our Letters of the 8th and 9th met with equal Delay in the

Your Definition of the Objects of the War, and the Extent of our Views in Point of Acquisition, entirely coincide with our Opinion and the Plan of Measures originally formed for the Prosecution of the War, and by which we have been invariably guided in all our Proceedings and Deliberations; nor have we a Wish or View beyond the Security and Preservation of our Possessions in Guzerat and Upon this Principle, and confidering every other Circumstance necessary to be attended to, we are entirely of the Opinion before expressed to you in our Letter of the 9th Instant, that our Measures should now be confined to a defensive Plan; and we have accordingly directed our Deliberations folely to the Choice of Measures for pursuing a System of Defence.

Various and strong Objections occur against keeping so large a Part of our Force at the Head of the Gauts during the Monfoon: The Danger and Difficulty of affording them Supplies, the vast Expence of Stores and Ammunition, and the Imprudence of hazarding a Body of Troops in a Situation where perhaps we might not be able to command their Services in case of Necessity, or to give them Affishance if they should be hard pressed; nor by a fair Conclusion from past Events can it be urged, that maintaining a Post at the Gauts will answer the Purpose which alone could justify such a Measure, namely, preventing the Enemy from fending a Force into the Conkan; for it is evident, that notwithstanding the present Position of the Army under your Command, the Enemy have by the other Passes detached a very considerable Body of Horse into the Conkan, and, as we understand, with Guns, by which a large Convoy was exposed to imminent Danger. The Possession of the Fort of Razemachy would have removed some Part of these Objections, as it would not only have given us a firm Footing on the Gauts, but might have been maintained with a small Body of Men, and would have afforded fecure Lodgment for the Troops and Stores without the heavy Expences incident to the proposed Scheme of making a fortified Post, with Storehouses, Magazines and Lodgments, for a large Garrison, constructed with a sufficient Degree of Strength and Solidity to result the Attacks of the Enemy, and the Impression of the Weather during the Monsoon.

Upon the Whole, we are of Opinion, that if at any Time hereafter it may be judged expedient to gain Possession of the Gauts, they may be secured or forced with much less Difficulty and Danger than would attend maintaining a Post there during the rainy Season; and we must therefore recommend to you to drop that Idea, and to employ the Army during the Remainder of the Season, in compleating the Reduction of the Conkan, and getting Possession of Paeb, or some other strong Holds, which would afford convenient and secure Stations for Part of the Troops during the Rains, and in our Hands would protect and encourage the Inhabitants in their Cultivation for the ensuing Season.

As it will be impossible for the Maratta Horse to act in the Conkan during the Rains, or for some Time after, we apprehend there can be no Danger in cantoning the Army in Two or more Divisions, at the most convenient Stations for covering the Country, which we judge may be about Panwell, Callian, or Vizrabtroy, from which Places the Troops may with Ease be transported to Bombay in case of Necessity, or form a Junction at the Opening of the Season, without Danger from the Enemy.

We acquiesce in your Proposal of sending back the Madras Detachment under the Command of Colonel Brown, to be joined at Tellicherry by the Party under Major Cotgrave, and are glad to have it in our Power so far to assist that Presidency; though in the present reduced State of our Establishment, we wish Circumstances would permit of our detaining the Europeans.

We shall take immediate Measures in concert with the Admiral to provide Embarkation; and as the Season grows late we recommend to you to lose no Time in ordering the Madras Detachment to Bombay, to be in Readiness for embarking: We also propose, previous to the setting-in of the Monsoon, to withdraw the Bombay Troops into Garrison, in order to relieve ourselves from the heavy Expence of keeping them in the Field, as we conceive the Bengal Detachment will be sufficiently strong to resist any Attempts that can possibly be made by the Enemy at that Season of the Year.

ENDIX. N° 343.

Since we have no longer any Hopes of coming to an Accommodation with the Marattas, it is ut. terly beyond the Reach of our Resources to maintain the Settlement of Tellicherry, which we have accordingly resolved to abandon; it will not therefore be necessary to make any Arrangement for its Defence, but we doubt not you will see the Necessity; and we request, that for the present this In. tention may be kept inviolably secret.

Mr. Boddam has acquainted us of his having received the Bills in your Favour for Five Lacks of Rupees, and has lately remitted the Sum of R. 1,80,000 for the Service of the Army, which is depo.

The Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, President and Governor, Daniel Draper, Efquire, and Nathaniel Stackhouse, Esquire.

Received the following Letter from Brigadier General Goddard:

I did myself the Pleasure of addressing you the 15th Instant, and acquainted you with the safe Arrival and Junction of the Escort under Colonel Brown.

Having previously fent down to the Gauts as many of the Guns, Tumbrils of Ammunition, and Bag. gage of every Kind as I possibly could, consistent with the Security of the Post, and the Prevention of too full a Discovery of our Intentions; on the 17th in the Afternoon I ordered the remaining Bazars and Baggage, together with such Artillery as I had found it necessary to detain, to proceed to Campoley, and I followed myself at Day-break, with the Rear Division of the Army, which reached the Encampment at the Bottom of the Gaut about Nine o'Clock, without having been annoyed by the Enemy in the smallest Degree, or suffering any Loss or Inconvenience whatever.

This fortunate Circumstance I attribute to the Success of the Precaution I had used to conceal as much as possible from the Enemy our Intentions to relinquish the Post at Condolah, of which I am convinced, from the subsequent Intelligence brought me by my Hircarrahs, as well as from the certain Proof their Conduct furnished, they had not the smallest Knowledge, till Day-light discovered to them that we were gone. About Eight o'Clock a Party of Horse made their Appearance at the Top of the Gaut; a few Foot only shewed themselves; but none of them thought it prudent to advance or attempt to molest the March of our Troops, who were at that Time near the Foot of the Pais.

I have been obliged to halt this Day to refresh the Cattle after the excessive Fatigue which they have lately undergone, and in particular during the Day and Night of the 17th; but I propose to march To-morrow, and hope to arrive at Panwell the 23d Instant, as I fear, on account of the necessary Attention to Water sufficient for the Supply of the Army, I shall be detained a Day longer on the Road than would otherwise be requisite.

I shall however use every Endeavour to reach Panwell the 22d, and therefore request you will order the necessary Boats to be ready at Bellapore for transporting the Troops arrived from your Presidency.

as well as the Madras Detachment, to Bombay with every possible Expedition.

The Enemy have not yet ascended the Gauts Holkar with his Force, unincumbered by any Baggage, is at the Bottom of the Cessere Pass; and Purriss Ram Bow has sent off all his Bazars and Baggage to the Columby Pass, about Three Coss faither to the Northward, and Eight from this Ground, where I learn he intends also following himself during this Day.

Head Quarters, Campoley, 19th April 1781. I have the Honour to be, Gentlemen.

humble Servant,

lard, Geneetter from.

Gentlemen, I had the Pleasure of addressing you the 22d Instant from Chouke, and acquainted you with my Intention of marching towards Panwell the following Day. As I knew the Road from Chouke to Burwah, more than Half-way to this Place, lay through a Country full of thick Jungles, broken Ground, and narrow Defiles, where the Enemy would possess every Advantage they could wish, of concealing themselves and annoying our Troops, I thought it expedient to send off all the heavy Stores, Baggage, and every Incumbrance, at 2 o'Clock in the Morning, under the Care of a strong Escort, and remained myself with the main Body till Day-break. The Success fully answered my Expectations: The Baggage, &c. moved off undiscovered by the Enemy, who had not an Opportunity during the March of attacking or giving them any Disturbance whatever.

Λ P P E N D I X, N° 343.

Alittle after Sun-rise the Enemy made their Appearance, at first in small Parties, throwing Rockets and discharging their Musquetry upon our Rear, from the numerous Thickets and Hollows that favoured their Approach. Their Numbers continued to encrease; and soon after their whole Force, which I am consident from the full View I had of them at different Times Yesterday, the Names of their Leaders, and the repeated Intelligence of my Hircarrahs, could not be less than 50,000, of which there may be 6000 Infantry, shewed themselves, lining the Tops of the Hills on Right and Lest, and behind every Bank or Bush where there was a Possibility of concealing themselves. Their Horse kept behind their Guns, and generally at too great a Distance for our Artillery to reach them; though sometimes considerable Bodies came near enough to receive the Fire of our Guns, which were exceedingly well served, and must have done very great Execution.

Their most serious and determined Attack was made when we came near Burwach, with their

Their most serious and determined Attack was made when we came near Burwach, with their whole Force, Horse and Foot; at which Time the Rear being very hardly pressed, I took Possession of an Eminence with the 6th Battalion of Bengal and 13th of Bombay Infantry, which essectually commanded the Spot where the Enemy had posted themselves, and drove them osl, after they had suftained very considerable Loss from the Guns of these Battalions.

The Whole of the Army reached Burwach about One o'Clock; when finding the Enemy shewed no Inclination to advance, but on the contrary were retreating, seemingly tired of the warm Reception they had met with, and despairing of Success in their Attempts to make any Impression upon our Line, I thought it most expedient, notwithstanding the Fatigue the Troops had tustamed, as the Whole of the Baggage, &c. was secure in our Front, to push on to Panwell; and accordingly having halted some Time to resees the People, prosecuted my March, and arrived at Panwell about an Hour before Sun-sec.

Here with the greatest Concern I have to acquaint you with the Loss of Colonel Packer, who commanded in the Rear, where, exerting himself with that Courage and military Ardour that always distinguished him on every Occasion of active Service, he received a mortal Wound in the Belly, of which here pared on the March a sew Hours after. Inclosed is a Return of Killed and Wounded in the Action of Yesterday; and I also take this Opportunity of sending you a particular List of our I of supor the 2-18 Instant.

The Residence a cuts upon your Presidency will embark this Day at Noon; at which Time also the Reliefs for the Garrison of Bellapore and Parseek will proceed. I shall also send off with all possible Expedition the Eive Companies belonging to Captain Carpenter's Battalion, to strengthen the Garri-fon at Callian, with One Company of the Fourth Battalion of Bombay Sepoys.

I expect to receive particular Accounts by my Hircarrahs of the Situation of the Enemy, and of their Defigns. By Intelligence brought in early this Morning, I learn that their main Body is encamped at Chouke, and that they have a Body of about 5000 Horse posted at Burwach. I shall do myself the Pleasure of communicating any further Information as soon as it arrives; and have the Honour to be,

Head Q¹, Panwell, April 24th, 1781. Gentlemen,
Your most obedient
humble Servant,
Thomas Goddard.

To the Honourable the Secret Committee of the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Gentlemen,

1. You receive herewith an Address, dated the 31st ultimo, containing a short Abstract of the System we had adopted for our Conduct in the present Situation of Assairs.

2. We had made every necessary Arrangement for putting in Execution our Resolution of withdrawing from Tellicherry, and the Time fixed for the Departure of the Fleet was arrived within Two Days; when on the 18th Instant we received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, dated the 7th of January, (which might and ought to have reached us Seven or Eight Weeks sooner) wherein they acquainted us of their having sent round Five Lacks of Rupees for the Service of this Presidency, on the Duke of Portland; and gave us Authority to pass Drasts upon them for such further Sum as we might stand in need of. We had also private Intimation of their having provided a large Quantity of Rice for the Service of this Presidency, of which we actually received a Part by the Vessel that brought their Letter.

3. These Resources in View, we immediately determined, late as the Season was, to use our utmost Exercion to preserve Tellicherry; and made a Request to the Admiral, to postpone his Departure for a few Days, in order to give us Time to collect Troops, and the necessary Supplies for the Garrison, to be sent down in Company with the Fleet, without whose Assistance we could not have executed our Measures. The Admiral expressing great Satisfaction in our Resolution, cheer, fully complied with our Request, and by a vigorous Dispatch the Royal Charlotte and Royal Admiral were equipped for Sea. Troops brought from the Foot of the Gauts, and with Stores and Provisions, embarked within Seven Days upon different Vessels, which with the Fleet sailed from this Place the 27th of the Month.

4. The Royal Charlotte has been detained a few Days, to wait for Rice, to complete a Stock for the Rains; that Ship, as well as the Royal Admiral, will proceed from Tellicherry to Fort St. George, to affist in transporting Major Cotgrave's Detachment to the Coast of Coromandel, and will then pursue her Voyage to China, whilst the latter will return to Bombay, whence the will be dispatched to England early in the ensuing Scason.

5. The Prime will shortly sail for England, and carry our Advices and Proceedings at full Length. We shall not now enter into a Detail of the Operations of the Army, but shall only men. tion, that General Goddard has in pursuance of our Advice, relinquished Possession of the Pass of Bhore Gaut, where he had proposed forming a fortified Post; marched the Army to Panwell, in order to lodge his Stores and heavy Baggage, and proceed in his future Operations according to the System of Defence we had concerted with him in March: This being a Country favourable for the Mode of Attack observed by the Enemy, the Army was extremely harrassed by numerous Bodies of Horse and Foot, which had poured into the Concan Country, and pressed upon our Troops with a Degree of Boldness, which can only be imputed to their Exultation at the Appearance of a Retreat; our Troops in this Situation behaved with their accustomed Firmness and Resolution, and baffled every Attack of the Enemy to make an Impression either on the Line or Baggage, though our Loss from fuch continual Attack could not fail being considerable; and we find from our Returns that during the Two Days taken up in the March, Three Officers and Fifty-Five Men were killed, and Fifteen Officers and Three Hundred and Ninety Men wounded, though we derive some Satisfaction that amongst the Privates killed and wounded, few or none were Europeans. We are very forry to add, that in the last Day's March Colonel Parker, who commanded the Rear Guard, was mortally wounded, and died in a few Hours.

6. Arrived at Panwell the 23d Instant, when the General, immediately upon our Requisition, sent over the Troops we had appointed for the Garrison of Tellicherry, and will next proceed upon a Plan for securing the Country from the Ravages of the Enemy in the best Manner possible, until the lateness of the Season shall compel them to retire. For this Purpose the Army will immediately change its Position, and move near Callian, a more centrical Situation, and where it is proposed to canton them during the Rains; the Europeans and Bombay Troops will be brought into this Garrison.

7. We very much wish we had any late authentic Account to give you of the Situation of Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel, the Hopes of which were the principal Cause of our detaining the Mercury so long: We can only now acquaint you, that it is certain the French left the Coast of Coromandel in February, without landing any Affistance for Hyder, or doing any other material Damage; and that they seemed much distressed for Provisions; the Position of General Coote's Army, nd his burning all the Boats at Pondicherry, preventing them getting any Supplies from the Shore. Country Intelligence, collected by Mr. Stewart at Goa, mentions that Hyder had quitted the Carnatic.

8. We have the Pleasure to advise you of Colonel Carnac's having gained a very complete Vicory over Mhadajee Scindhia; which is the more agreeable, as the Colonel had been obliged to retreat, nd was harrassed Four Days together by a very powerful Army; after the Fourth Day's Retreat he Colonel countermanded a Detachment from his Army in the Night, with which he got in the lear of the Enemy, and attacked their Camp, which was forced and plundered, and Two Guns, four Elephants, and a large Booty, fell into our Hands. Several Accounts concur that the linenies Loss amounted to Eight thousand Men; and Scindia himself escaped with Difficulty to Serenga, ttended by only Horsemen.

Bombay Castle, 30th April 1781. We have the Honor to be with Respect, Honourable Gentlemen,

Your faithful and obedient humble Servants,

Will^m Hornby, D. Draper, N. Stackhouse.

Extract of the Select Letter from Bombay, dated 27th May 1781.

We mentioned in our Address of the 11th of January, the Attack of the Fort of Arnaul, which as not reduced till the 18th of that Month; General Goddard then moved with the Remainder of ne Army, and joining the Division of Bengal Troops and the Bombay Detachment, late under the ommand of Colonel Hartley, which had remained in the same Position at Vizzaboy ever since the 4th of December, put the Whole in Motion on the 27th of January. It had, as already advised, een settled, that in the Interval which remained of the Term limited by the Governor General and council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Account of their Branch and Council for the Council for th ouncil for the Acceptance of their Proposals, the General should pursue his Operations with all offible Vigour, and to the utmost Extent he might find practicable, with the Force under his Com-hand, in the Hopes by this Plan of Conduct, or some decisive Advantage, to dispose the Minister an Accommodation. The Enemy, who, during the Siege of Arnaul, and while the Detachment their Position at Vizzaboy, had committed great Ravages in the Country, immediately retired on the 3th February the President took Occasion to lay before us an Extract of a Letter he had mitten to the General on the Subject of the Operations of the Army, and as we entirely concurred Dopinion with the President, we also recommended the same to his Consideration. The Substance this Letter was to recommend his possessing himself of Razemachy, a strong Fort at the Head of he Ghauts, and offering Objections against his carrying the Army to Poona, or too far into the becan.

Our Army, advancing as the Enemy retired, arrived at the Foot of the Ghauts on the 8th February, and the General finding the Enemy had posted a Body of about 4000 Infantry, with several Guns, to clend the Pass, and were constructing Works for its Defence, determined upon making the Attack hat very Night before they could have Time to collect a more numerous Force, or to improve their Vorks. The Pass of Bhore Ghaut was accordingly stormed that Night by a strong Party, under Diary, 12th Fethe Pass, and encamped on the Summit of the Ghauts on the Ground formerly occupied by le late Captain Stuart.

From this Post the General gave us his Sentiments with respect to the Measures to be pursued Remainder of the Campaign, in order, if possible, to bring the War to a Conclusion: The 3001a Government had not then made any Overture or Proposal for Peace, and the Minister being Possession of the Terms on which he might, if he thought proper, put an immediate End to e War, the General thought any further Advances on our Part would rather encourage the nemy to perfift in Hostility, and to encrease in their Demands and Expectations of Advantage: hele being his Sentiments with respect to any Advances to a Negociation, he next explained Opinion of the most eligible Plan for prosecuting the War; the first Object he proposed was to ablish a strong Post upon the Ghauts, which he thought might be defended by One Battalion of poys against any Force whatever, and that our Possession of this Pals which opened us a Passage the Maratta Capital, might perhaps sucline the Enemy to think feriously of Peace. The next Point was to collect a Magazine of Stores and Provisions at the Ghauts sufficient for Six Weeks, hould it be deemed expedient to march forward to Poona; with respect, however, to that Meaure, the General observed he did not then see any sufficient or ade juate Reason to authorize it, but hat at any rate he was under the Necessity of remaining at the Ghauts till he received a Supply of

We entirely coincided in the General's Ideas, respecting the Impolicy and Inefficacy of making my further Overtures towards an Accommodation, as the Minister was in Possession of our Terms, and little more than Three Weeks then remained of the Period limited for their Determination. We then hoped, the short Time they had for Deliberation, the advantageous Position of the Army, and vigorous Preparations for further Measures might produce the wished-for Crisis, which we did not think could be accelerated by any further Advances on our Part.

We accordingly gave every Assistance in our Power for furnishing the Army with Provisions, that the General might have it in his Power to prosecute his future Operations in the Manner that might be judged most expedient, upon further Knowledge of the Conduct the Minister might observe in 24th February.

onlequence of the Polition of the Army and our Preparations.

Diary, 14th and

Then followed the General's Intercourse with a Maratta Agent, mentioned in our Address of the 31st March, when, though every Readiness was shewn on our Part to listen to any reasonable Proposals, we are forry to say, never advanced to any direct Negociation: The General's Account of the Arrival, and of his Reception of the Agent, appears on the Diary under the 15th of February, and in the same Letter is mentioned a Circumstance related to him by the Agent, of the Admiral's Interference, by sending an Agent to the Ministers with a Message on the Subject of the present War and the projected Treaty.

Those Passages of the General's Letter, relative to this Affair, were communicated to the Admiral, who never explained himself to us in Writing on this Subject.

Under the 25th is entered another Letter from the General, containing an Account of his further Proceedings with the Maratta Agent; in which, as we observed, the Minister affected Ignorance of the Conditions proposed by the Governor General and Council, though we were satisfied he was fully acquainted at least with the Substance of them: We thought it could have no bad Effect, and would testify our earnest Desire to promote a Peace, were a Copy of the Bengal Proposals to be sent directly from the General to the Minister; we therefore suggested this Measure to the General, which we thought would equally put to the Test the Sincerity of the Minister's Disposition for Peace.

We understood that the Four Months limited by the Governor General and Council for the Acceptance of their Proposals, was to expire the 9th of March, and therefore, to prevent the Minister taking any Advantage to protract the Conclusion of the Treaty, we advised the General to accompany the Copy of the Proposals with a Declaration, that we should consider the Four Months to expire from that Day, and not to commence from the Delivery of the Proposals by

$P \cdot P$ E N D IX,

The General accordingly sent a Copy of the Proposals directly to the Minister, with a Letter from himself, to which he received an Answer, containing an absolute Refusal of the Offers made by the Bengal Government, as already noticed in our Address, dated the 31st of March.

The General's Letter, and an exact Translation of the Minister's Answer, are entered in our Diary under the 7th of March.

Having no Grounds to expect the Minister would be induced to enter into our Views again Hyder, by any further Attempt to negociate, the General determined to consider the Minister Answer as decisive with respect to the Negociation, and to make no more Proposals or Overtures which would only expose us to the Mortification of a Second Refusal, without promising any reason able Profpect of Success, fince, if the Minister had been really desirous of Peace, he certainly would have availed himself of the Opening given him, and take some Method to explain the Proposals which, as he says in his Answer, it is necessary should be included for the Benefit of the Person allied to and connected with the Councils of the Maratta Government.

The General however requested our Opinion of the Propriety or good Policy of profecuting any further Plan of Negociation, which we concurred with him, after the liberal Advances made in the Minister, would be highly impolitic, and could not possibly answer any good End; and as the Expiration of the limited Period was then actually arrived, we proposed waiting to hear the Relative thereof from the General, when if the Minister did not declare his Acceptance of the office Terms, we should finally determine what Measure to pursue, which, as we then acquainted the General, we were of Opinion must be confined to a defensive Plan.

Owing to a Stoppage in the Communication, we did not again hear from the General till the 24th of March, when an absolute Bar being put to Hopes of Peace, as the Proposals, besides being rejected, had become void with the Expiration of the Term limited for their remaining in Force the General submitted to us a Plan of Measures to be pursued in our then Situation, which have already been briefly mentioned to you, and are explained at Length in his Letter entered under the Date.

General Goddard's Definition of the Objects of the War, and of our political Views on this Sid of India, is exactly the same as repeatedly expressed by us in all our Proceedings and Plans of Cup duct, and by which we have been invariably guided in all our Operations.

We entirely concurred with him, and indeed the Proposition was our own, that a System of Defence was now become an Act of Necessity, and our only Difficulty lay in the Choice of Meafures for pursuing that System. Various Objections lay against keeping the large Force now pro posed by the General at the Head of the Ghauts during the Monsoon, such as the Danger and Difference and Differ ficulty of affording them Supplies, as had already been experienced in a high Degree, the vall Expence of Stores and Ammunition, and the Imprudence of leaving so large a Part of our Forces a Situation, when we could not command their Services if there should be Occasion for them a Bombay, or be able to give them Affistance if they should be hard pressed; and after all it did not appear, that maintaining a Post at the Head of the Ghauts would answer the Purpose, which alone could justify the Measure, namely, preventing the Enemy from entering the Conkan; for it was evident by the General's Letters, that notwithstanding the Position of the Army, a very considerable Body of the Enemy had entered the Country by other Pastes, of which there were several, by which a large Convoy of Provisions had been exposed to imminent Danger, and considerable Loss actually sustained. If the General could have adopted our Proposal of making himself Master of Razemachi the Possession of that Fort might have been maintained with a small Body of Men, and it would have afforded secure Lodgement for the Troops and Stores, without the Expence attending the proposed Scheme of raising Works, fortifying a Post, building Magazines, Casemates, &c on structed with a sufficient Degree of Strength and Solidity, to resist the Attacks of the Enemy, and the Impression of the Weather during the Monsoon.

Upon the whole, we were of Opinion, that if at any Time hereafter it might be judged expedient to possess ourselves of the Gauts, they might again be forced or taken Possession of with much less Lofs, Difficulty, and Danger, than would attend maintaining a Post there during the rainy Scalons and we therefore recommended to the General to drop the Idea, and to employ the Army the Re mainder of the Season in protecting the Conkan, and reducing the strong Holds which still remained in the Hands of the Enemy.

The General in Reply acquainted us, that although he entirely concurred with us in the superior Expediency of the Measures we had recommended, he was unable at that Time, owing to a particular Train of Circumstances, to carry them into Execution; for having under the 28th of March detached a very strong Escort to Panwell, under the Command of Colonel Brown, to bring a Supply of Provisions to the Army, Holkar had descended the Gauts with the whole of his Force, and by this Addition of Strength to the Enemy then in the Conkan, had rendered the Return of the Escort if not impracticable, at least too dangerous to be attempted without a Reinforcement. Colonel Brown in the March to Panwell had been harraffed by the Enemy's Troops, and lost a considerable Number of Bullocks; and in this Emergency the General tound himself obliged to request we would immediately order a Detachment from the Garrison of Bombay to join Colonel Brown and proceed with him to Camp, after which the General proposed immediately to relinquish the Post on the Gauts. He strongly urged to us to comply with his Requisition, as he found it impracticable 10 march a Detachment from Camp to join the Escort, or to relinquish the Post until the Return of Colonel Colonel Brown with the Draft Bullocks; and further mentioned that his Stock of Provisions would not last more than Twelve Days.

In this critical Situation we immediately exerted every possible Essort to extricate the Army, and Diary toth April cordingly instantly formed the strongest Detachment our Garrison would afford, to reinforce Colo-Brown; with which we had the Pleasure to learn he conducted the Convoy of Provisions to the army without any Lofs, notwithstanding the repeated and powerful Efforts of the Enemy, who athim every Day, and in particular on the March of the Second Day, when he was attacked by the Enemy's whole Force, confifting of at least 20,000 Men. The Troops however suffered, Eighgen being killed and Eighty-eight wounded.

The General bestowed great Commendations on the Conduct and Military Skill of Colonel Brown, preferving and protecting his Convoy during fo long and inceffant an Attack, and we likewife thought it just to express our Approbation thereof.

At this Period the Letter arrived from Bengal, mentioned in our Address of the 30th ultimo; in confequence of which we took the Refolution then communicated to you, for maintaining Tellicherry, which you will find more fully explained in our Proceedings under the 19th, where our Letter to the Admiral on the Subject is also entered, and his Answer under the following Day. In this Place we must mention, that the Admiral on every Occasion where his Assistance could be of Use, has manifested the utmost Zeal and Attention for the Company's Service.

Upon the Junction of Colonel Brown the General moved from the Gauts with the Stores and Provisions collected there, and after fustaining severe and continual Attacks on the March, as already advised in our above-mentioned Address, arrived at Panwell on the 23d ultimo. The General's Letters, containing particular Accounts of these Actions, are entered on the Diary under the 23d and poth, with the Returns of the Killed and Wounded, amongst which we were forry to find Colonel Parker, who commanded the Rear Guard, and was killed on the last Day's March.

The Army remained at Panwell till the 20th Inflant, employed in embarking the Sick and Wounded, Stores and Baggage, for Bombay and Callian, when they marched to the latter Place unter the Conduct of Colonel Brown, the General having come over to Bombay. The Army is to be Diary 29th April antoned at Callian during the Rains, except the Madras Europeans and the Troops of this Esta-hishment, which are to emain in Garrison at Bombay.

We had intended to return the Madras Detachment to the Coast, as already mentioned, immehiately on Close of the Campaign; but the General has given his Opinion in throng Ferms, the Necessity of their remaining on this Side of India, in which we also entirely concur, until Circumflances more favourable than the present shall admit of their Return. As the Service of the Madras Europeans appears indispensable in the shattered State of our Battalions, and the Expence upon their prefent Footing of a Detachment on Foreign Service is very heavy, we have it in Contemplation to return the Officers and incorporate the Men on this Establishment, at least till we are in a Condition to return them, by which we shall receive a very material Addition of effective Strength, and Diary 18th April the Company be relieved from a very burthensome Expence which the Funds for the Army are totally unequal to sustain.

In our last Letter from the Governor General and Council they express high Approbation of the Sentiments delivered in the Prefident's Minute of the 1st of August, on the Plan of Operations for the Campaign then entuing; but Events having taken place fince that Period which could not be foreseen or provided for, the Interests of the Company required that the Operations of their T500ps should be directed against another Enemy, and that their System of Policy should of course be changed. That it was now become necessary that the whole Force which could be collected and spared from the immediate Defence of the several Presidencies, should be employed in curbing, and, if possible, overfetting the increased Power of their ambitious Enemy in the Carnatic, and they hoped that the Order which General Goddard had received from Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote would have been followed by the immediate Direction of his Arms towards the Territories of Hyder Ally Cawn.

Letters riom General Coote on this Subject, both to General Goddard and to us, are entered on Diary 23d Deer, our Diary, under the 15th of April, and our Answer under the 26th; but we think it totally needless to use any Arguments to you to demonstrate to obvious an Impossibility, as that we could divert the Army from our own Detence against the Postessions of Hyder Ally, before the Maratta War is brought to a Conclusion; should our Wishes for Peace be happily accomplished, we shall most zealoufly co-operate to the utmost of our Ability against the common Enemy, in which Case likewise the Aid of the Madras Europeans will be indupentable; but, as we observed to General Coote, it is not because we are desirous of Peace, or that Peace is necessary to our Assairs, that will prove Arguments with the Marattas to consent to an Accommodation. Let the same Arguments be applied to Hyder Ally, with whom a Peace is equally necessary, and we believe the Effect will be equal. We confess we know not what further can be undertaken on the Plan of Negociation. The Minister has declared in very intelligible Terms, that Hyder must be included in whatever Treaty may be made with the Poona Government, and we have transmitted this Declaration to the Governor General and Council, who alone are competent to treat upon that Ground. In the President's Minute of the 1st, and our Letter to Bengal of the 17th of August, our Distress for Money is described with the utmost Strength and Justice The Governor General and Council have in Part and P have in Reply acquainted us, that they wished to leave in Suspence their ultimate Resolution on that Part of our Letter, wherein we communicated our Observations on the Defire they had expressed that the Receipts from the Acquisitions in Guzerat should be appropriated exclusively to the Payment of the Army under General Goddard. They further observe, that their Ability to continue Supplies to a short had been obliged to augment their one of the continue Supplies. is not encreased, but on the contrary lessened, as they had been obliged to augment their own My tary Strength to supply the Place of Detachments, and that the Prosecution of the War in the Ca natic depended folely on Remittances from their Treasury.

Besides the Assistance we have afforded to General Goddard from the Collections made from the Surat Purgunnahs, we also gave him as a further Relief, a Credit on our Treasury for the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Discharge Country of the Cou of fuch of the Army Bills as did not require Ready Money, by which means our Bond Debt has bee very confiderably increased.

It is an inexpressible Disappointment to us, that out of the Five Lacks configned to us by the Governor General and Council on the Duke of Portland, Three have been landed and detained Madras, without even the smallest Notice given to us on the Part of that Government. We sha however endeavour to avail ourselves of the Permission we have received to pass Drafts on Bengal, b which, and our other Resources, applied with the most frugal Management, we must hope to keep Affairs in a Currency: But our Difficulties are and will be very great.

We mentioned in our Address, by the Hawke, the Conduct of the Governor at Goa respecting the Capture of an English Merchant Vessel at Mangulore, and the Governor General and Council have transmitted our Representation of the Assair to the Admiral; his Opinion on the Subject is entered on the Diary, under the 25th of September. The Sentiments of the Governor General and Council will appear in their Letter entered the 9th of July; but we do not find the Admiral has taken any further Steps in the Affair; and the Governor General and Council have lately deputed Mr. Auriol their Secretary, to Goa, to make Overtures to the Portuguese for a Coalition against Hyder Ally, though we understand Mr. Auriol has been unable, through bad Health, to proceed further than Madras.

We have, as you will observe by our last Consultations, judged it expedient to detain the Ponsborne till we shall come to some final Determination respecting the Madras Detachment,

We have no late Intelligence of the State of Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel.

PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, President and Governor, John Carnac Esquire. Daniel Draper Esquire. Read Letters received this Morning from Brigadier General Godddard and the Chief of Surat.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 344.

The present low State of our Finances, and the indispensable Occasions we have for our own unavoidable Expences, make it utterly impossible for us to engage to accept General Goddard's Drafts, or to give the Chiefs of Surat and Broach Authority for that Purpose. It must be observed, that since the Date of General Goddard's Letter, we have directed the Chief of Surat to advance him Two Lacks out of the expected Loans at that Place, which the Chief in his Letter before us acquaints us he should accordingly pay; and we trust this Sum will prove a considerable Relief to the Exigencies of the Army: But still, to provide as far as we possibly can for their further Demands, it is now also resolved to empower the Chiefs of Surat and Broach to make good to General Goddard, for the Service of the Army, the Amount they may recover from the new-acquired Purgunnahs, and this is the utmost we can possibly do to affish him.

General Goddard must be again reminded of the Inability of our Garrisons at Surat and Broach to protect and secure the Purgunnahs, which he has desired them to take Possession of, and that we cannot spare Man from this Garrison. It appears to us he might add much to his Resources by enabling our Settlements to secure the Collections of such extensive Districts, and it will rest with him to determine whether this can be effected without Injury to the Service, by any Disposition of the Forces under

Extract of a Letter from General Goddard.

Gentlemen,

I beg to acknowledge your Letter of the 18th Instant, mentioning the Arrival of the Ship Elizabeth with Stores from Madras, upon the Subject of which I have already wrote you.

I beg now to address you in the most particular Manner, on the Subject of the Money for the Pay and Subsistence of the Troops. I ventured to assure you, when at Bombay, that with the Ten Lacks coming round from Bengal, and the Money I should myself be able to procure at this Place for Bills on the Honourable Governor General and Supreme Council, I hoped to prevent the Inconvenience of a Want of Cash, till the effectual Supply which I was certain would be sent by the Government of Bengal, when they received Intelligence of the War in which they were involved, might ar-Mive. Of the Ten Lacks above mentioned, Five only are come to hand; the Remainder, in Specie, is shipped on the Britannia, and on the Way; so that my Expectations on that Account have met with a temporary Delay in their Gratification: And with respect to the Resource I assured myself of finding in my Credit with the Merchants of Surat, I have been entirely disappointed by the Instructions transmitted by your Committee to the Chief, to borrow Money upon Account of the Company, which has put a Total Stop to my Drafts. It was my Belief for some Time, that the Expedient thus adopted by your Government was intended for the Support of the common Cause; but I find you propose reserving whatever Money may be thus borrowed to be sent to your Treasury at Bombay. I know, Gentlemen, your own Scarcity of Cash, but I beg Leave also to represent the Expediency and found Policy of affifting and relieving my Wants all in your Power: For these Reasons, let me propose that you will authorize your Chiefs of Surat and Broach to advance me any Sums which the Neceffity of the Service only shall compel me to draw for; that you will be pleased to direct the Amount of the Revenues collected from the new Purgunnahs to be appropriated to the Expences of the prefent War, for which they will be a very timely Supply, and paid to me; and that you will adopt such other Expedient for the Convenience and Benefit of the Service, and to relieve my present Distress, as you may judge most eligible, either by permitting me to make Drafts on your Treasury, which may be accepted by you as Loans and Deposits, or otherwise as your own Wildom and Experience in these Matters may suggest, &c.

Extract of a Letter from Surat.

The Sum of Two Lacks shall be paid to General Goddard agreeable to your Directions, and as fast as the different Persons that have engaged for Loans pay the same into the Treasury, it shall be transmitted to the Presidency; but it will be the Middle of next Month before the Whole is collected, as several of the Merchants, on assenting to their Loans, particularly specified Two Periods for making good the same.

PPENDIX, N° 344, 346.

To Brigadier General Goddard.

Sir, Our Letter of the 27th ultimo, acquainting you of the Effort we have made to affift you by the recting the Chief of Surat to advance you Two Lacks of Rupees for the Service of the Army, which you were not apprized of at the Date of your last Letter; but with the most zealous and cordial Inclination to relieve your Wants, the low State of our Finances, and the indispensable Occasions we have for every Rupee we can raile from our stated Resources, for our own unavoidable Expences, make it utterly imp fible for us to engage to accept your Drafts, or to give the Chiefs of Surat and Broach unlimited Authority for that Purpole—The Supply just mentioned, will, we trust, prove a considerable Relief to your Exigencies; and in order to provide to the utmost Extent of our Power for your further Demands, we shall now direct the Chiefs of Surat and Broach to pay to your Order the Amount of such Collections as they may make from the new Purgunnahs, if the Necessity of the Service should compel you to require such Supply, which we should be very glad may not be the Case; but this is the utmost we can do to assist you.

Our Sentiments respecting the Expediency of protecting the Purgunnahs adjoining to Surat and Broach were made known to you in our last Letter, with the Inability of those Garrisons to tuch an extensive Service; and the Chief of Surat has since acquainted us, that the Motion of the whole Army to the Northward has put it entirely out of his Power to make Detachments for securing the Purgunnahs that were to fall under his Charge, which made the first of the Plan recommended to you. It appears to us you might add much to your Resources by enabling our Settlements to secure the Collections of such extensive Districts, and it will rest with you to determine whether this can be effected without Injury to the Service by any Disposition of the Forces under your Command.

Bombay Select Consultations, 28th January 1780.

To General Goddard.

We have received your Letters of the 6th and 10th Instant.

We have the Pleasure to acquaint you that the Britannia is arrived at Bengal, and now proceeds to Surat with a Confignment of Eight Lacks of Rupees in Specie for the Service of the Army under your Command. This ample Supply will, we doubt not, render it unnecessary for you to pass any Drafts upon the Settlements of Surat and Broach, in consequence of the Latitude lately given you, and which we therefore defire you will not make, as our own Exigencies for Money are very preffing.

The Governor General and Council also acquaint us, that they shall soon send you a further Supply of Two Lacks by the Besborough.

Extract of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard:

Gentlemen, 3. HE Settlement of Guzerat being effectually accomplished by the Conquest of Ahmedabad, and the Expulsion of all the Garrisons belonging to the Maratta Minister, before stationed in the different Purgunnahs to collect the Revenues of the Province, I had full Leisure to attend to the Business which next appeared of the greatest Importance; and accordingly, having left Major Fullerton with Eight Companies of Sepoys drafted from the several Battalions, and Two Field Pieces, and Tw in a strong Post within the City of Ahmedabad, formerly the Residence of the Guicawar Collector of Futty Sing's Share of the Revenues, in order to affilt in the Defence and Settlement of the Phice; and further, to secure a useful and decided Influence to the English in the Northern Part of the Province, I marched myself with the Remainder of the Army to the River Myhie, which I croffed on the 6th Instant, having previously sent off all my heavy Stores, Artillery, and unnecessary mage ge, • to Cambait, to be fent from thence to Broach.

10. I must here beg Leave to observe, that of the Reinforcements ordered to join me from Madras, Five hundred Europeans only, under the Command of Colonel Browne who commands the Whole of the Detachment, have arrived at Surat.

11. No Part of the Troops from Tellicherry are joined, owing to Causes that appear to me most unaccountable, but which have been alledged, very unfortunately for the present Juncture, to render the Service of so large a Force totally useless to this Campaign; for by the last Advices they were detained merely to oppose the Irruptions of the Nairs; a Race of Banditti who possess the Hills adjoining to Tellicherry. Although Colonel Braithwaite, in the Letters he formerly wrote me, alcribed the Detention of the Mahie Detachment to his Fears of Hyder's hoffile Defigns, which have fince proved without Foundation; but admitting that the Tellicherry Troops were now permitted to fet out, the Season is so far advanced that they could not possibly arrive in Time to be employed upon any Service before the letting in of the Rains.

12. I must beg Leave here to represent the considerable Increase of Expence that will be requisite to maintain all these additional Troops who will look to be supported by me as their Commander and immediate Representative of your Supreme Government. I should expect and think it must be deemed strictly consistent with Justice and Propriety, that every Accession of Revenue which may immediately arise to the Company from Operations of this War, should be set aside and solely appropriated to affift in defraying the Expences of it, and hope you will fignify your Sentiments to the Select Committee of Bombay accordingly; but as the Collection of these newly acquired, and so likely to be the Scene of future Hostilities, must at present be very precarious and uncertain, let me entreat you will continue to send me such Supplies of Money as will be absolutely necessary to support the large Army I shall have with me, and prevent my having Recourse to the Expedient of drawing Bills on your I Ionourable Board, which I might perhaps be compelled to do at a very confiderable

A P P E N D I X, N° 349.

Extrast of a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the Governor General and Council: Dated Ben. bay, 6th September 1780; received 20th November.

I Shall take the earliest Opportunity of putting the Troops from Surat in Motion, which I apprehend, on account of the uncommon Quantity of Rain that has fallen this Year, and still continues to fall, cannot possibly be before the First of October.

Let me repeat my earnest Solicitations, that you will exert every Endeavour to remedy the Evils already felt, and prevent those still more severe, which we must inevitably experience unless you strain every Resource at this Time to administer Relief. I have so often troubled you with Representations on this Subject, and you are yourselves so well informed of the circumscribed Means possessed by this Government towards extricating themselves and me from our present Distress, that I feel at once the Impropriety of enlarging surther on it.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 350.

Extract of Bombay Scleet Confultations, 6th March 1780.

THE Factors at Tellicherry must have Permission to land from the Besborough Two Lacks and a Half of Rupecs out of the Five Lacks expected from Bengal on that Ship, having no other Method of supplying them to the Amount they require; and lest the Ship should have passed their Port, 50,000 Rupees will be immediately sent from hence on a Vessel which will be ordered for that Purpose.—The Resident at Onorc must also have Permission to land One Lack of Rupees from the Besborough.

13th March 1780.

Extract of a Letter to Mr. Richard Church, Resident, &c. Factors at Tellicherry.

Gentlemen,

We have received your Letters of the 25th and 28th of January, and 2d, 9th, 11th, and 21th ultimo.

The Eagle arrived here the 7th Instant, with Mr. Petrie.

We have, as before advited, given you Authority to land Two Lacks and a Half of Rupees from the Besborough out of the promised Supply from Bengal; and though it must be attended with Los to the Company, we can find no other Mode of supplying you to so large an Amount. But in case the Besborough should have passed Tellicherry before the Receipt of this Order, we now send you by the Morning Star, a Supply of Fifty Thousand Rupees for your immediate Expences, and shall furnish you with the Remainder of the Sum required in the most expeditious Manner; which we shall be very glad to see appropriated to the Purchase of Pepper, instead of being expended in Military Charges.

We cannot give any Orders about the Works at Tellicherry, till we receive what Mr. Dacer has to offer further upon the Method of putting them into a more compact State of Defence.

We enclose a Copy of our Letter of this Date to Major Cotgrave, and an Invoice of the Treasure and Stores on board the Morning Star, for your Settlement, the Whole amounting to - - - - Rupees.

After landing the Confignments of the Morning Star, you will return her to the Prefidency immediately.

Extract of Bombay Select Consultations, the 18th April 1781.

Letter from Governor General and Council at Fort William; dated 7th January 1781.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I N our Letter of the 9th of October, which we have the Pleasure to forward to you in Tranfcript, we acknowledge our Receipt of the Letter which you had written to us under Date the 17th of August. We have fince received those of the 11th and 23d September.

We have read with Attention your President's Minute transmitted to us with your Letter of the 17th of August, and highly approve of the Sentiments therein delivered on a Plan of Operations for the ensuing Campaign: It seems to us to be the best that could be adopted at the Time when it was written; but fince that Period, Events have taken place which could not have been foreseen or provided for; the Interests of the Company requires, that the Operations of their Troops should be directed against another Enemy, and that their System of Policy should of course be changed. It has now become necessary that the whole Force which we are able to collect and to spare from the immediate Defence of our Presidencies, should be employed in curbing, and if possible, oversetting the increased Power of our ambitious Fnemy in the Carnatic; and we hope, that the Orders which General Goddard has received from Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, with whom it was left by us to fend him fuch as he should deem expedient, will have been followed by the immediate Direction of his Arms towards the Territories of Hyder Ally Cawn.

We wish at present to leave in Suspense an ultimate Resolution on that Part of your Letter wherein you communicate to us your Observations on the Desire we had expressed, that the Receipts from the Acquifitions in Guzerat should be exclusively appropriated to the Payment of General Goddard's Army. Our Ability to continue Supplies to it and to your Prefidency, is not increased fince we made the Requisition; but on the contrary, considerably lessened, for we have been obliged to augment our Military Strength to supply the Place of the Detachments made from the Force composing it; and the Prosecution of the War in the Carnatic depends solely on Remittances from our Treasury.

We have fent to your Presidency on the Ship Duke of Portland, the Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees, which we hope will prove to you a seasonable Supply, and we authorize you to draw on us for such further Sums as you may want, at a reasonable Rate of Exchange; but the Exchange of Bills procured here payable at your Presidency is so extravagantly high, and the Risk of Conveyance of Treasure to the other Side of India so great, that we cannot promise you Supplies in any other Manner.

We have perused the Translations which you have sent us of the intercepted Papers from the Dutch Chief at Surat and the Maratta Vackeels, but we deem them as unimportant as defective in Proof; and would recommend that the Complaint be permitted to left to a future Day.

We are not of Opinion that the Information contained in Mr. Henshaw's Letter inclosed in your's to us of the 23d September, is of sufficient Importance to require our serious Attention; so far otherwise are we inclined to believe than that the Portugueze are disposed to be hoslile to the Company, that we have lately determined to make Overtures to them for an Union with us in diffreffing Hyder Ally, by fending a Body of Forces into his Country. The Infults which have been offered to the Portugueze by this common Enemy; the Friendship and Alliance which has long subsisted between their Nation and ours; and independantly of this last Confideration, the Interest which they have, in common with us, in curbing an Increase of Power in that ambitious Chief, have prevailed with us in making them the Overtures abovementioned; and we have deputed on this Service Mr. James Peter Auriol; who has been instructed to advise you regularly of such Part of his Proceedings as may be necessary for your Information.

Extrast of a Letter from Sir Edward Hughes, K. B. to the Earl of Hillsborough, dated Tellicherry Road, 15th May 1781.

A LTHOUGH His Majesty's Squadron under my Command was in a perfect Condition for Sea, and the Season at Hand when bad Weather might be expected on this Coast; yet knowing the many good Consequences that would result to the public Service by effectually preventing the Settlement of Tellicherry from falling into the Enemy's Hands, I readily complied with the Request of the Select Committee; and on the 28th of last Month having embarked 40 European Artillery Men and 60 European Infantry on board the Ships of the Squadron, and 1160 Sepoys with 40 Artillery Lascars on Four Transports, I proceeded with the Squadron and Transports (as named in the Margin) to Sea the same Day, and arrived at this Place the 7th of this Month, and sound it closely invested on all Sides by the Enemy under the Command of Sadier Caun, an Officer of Rank in Hyder Ally's Service.

On the Day after our Arrival all the Troops from Bombay on the Squadron and Transports were disembarked, and the Boats and Men from the Squadron have been constantly employed fince in unlading and landing a very large Quantity of Provisions, and all Kinds of military Stores, from the Company's Ships Royal Admiral and Royal Charlotte, which last arrived here from Bombay on the 10th of this Month with a farther Reinforcement of 500 Men for this Garrison: The Service of landing the Stores and Provisions has been attended with much Trouble and Delay, as there is a very high Surf on the Shore at this Season of the Year, and very few Shore Boats at this

The Ships Royal Admiral and Royal Charlotte being now cleared of all the Provisions and Stores intended for this Place, and the Detachment of Madras Troops under Major Cotgrave, amounting to 1180 Men, Europeans, and Sepoys, embarked on the above Ships and Three Transports, I shall immediately proceed to Sea with His Majesty's Squadron and these Ships, and make the best of my Way to the Coromandel Coast, together with such others as have taken the Benefit of Convoy.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on Service.

THE following Minute from the Governor General having been circulated on the 16th instant, it was returned with the Minute from Mr. Francis, which is entered after it.

Governor General—Among the many important Measures which have been Objects of the Deliberations of this Government, one most effentially necessary has escaped the Attention of the Commander in Chief, as well as myself and Members of the Board.

PENDIX, N° 355.

The numerous Detachments from this Prefidency, now in the Field, unless acting in concert, and connected in their Operations by one uniform Plan, may tend, instead of supporting, to counteract and even to defeat what is, and must continue to be for a long Time to come, our principal Object - the War against Hyder Ally Cawn: To this every other Measure must be secondary and subservient; for on the Event of this may depend the Salvation of the British Dominion in India. In every Situation of the Army under General Goddard it may be employed to create a Diversion in favour of the Operation of the Commander in Chief. It is impossible to lay down any determined System, or even fixed Principles, of prosecuting the Operations of the War, as they must be guided by Circumstances. Peace may be concluded with the Marattas. Peace negatively, or Peace with an offenfive Alliance; or they may only agree for a Truce, or the War may be continued, and in this Event the State and Contingencies of it are liable to infinite possible

His Operations of course must be influenced in some Degree by any Result of these Suppositions, and ought at the same Time to be so constructed as to coincide with the Views of the Commander in Chief.

For this Reason, I recommend that the Commander in Chief be empowered to issue such Orders to every Detachment that has or may be made from the Military Establishment of this Presidency, as he shall judge expedient for the general Service of the War; and that Orders of course be sent to the respective Detachments, to obey all Orders which they shall receive from the Commander

As there is yet Time for the Commander in Chief to receive the Authority which I have proposed, before his final Departure, I am anxious to solicit the Board for their immediate Determination upon it.

> (Signed) W. Hastings.

Agreed. Edward Wheler.

Mr. Francis- I think it very necessary that Brigadier General Goddard should be instructed to Mr. Francis's act in concert with the Commander in Chief, and to obey his Orders. This was the Point to which I alluded in my Minute of the 9th Instant. I agree to the Whole of the Motion, though I think that in Effect it can only be applied to such Detachments as are now or may hereafter be fent to either of the Two Coasts.

P. Francis. (Signed)

The Governor General's Proposition having been agreed to, the following Letter was written to the Commander in Chief, and the Letters which are entered after it were written to Brigadier General Goddard, and to Major Camac.

As the Detachments now in the Field from the Forces under this Presidency, unless acting in concert, and connected in their Operations by one uniform Plan, may instead of supporting, tend greatly to counteract what is, and must continue for some Time to come, to be our principal Object, viz. the War against Hyder Ally Khan; we think it necessary to empower you to issue such Orders to every Detachment that has been made from the Military Establishment of this Prefidency as you may judge expedient for the general Service of the War.

We are, &c.

Chief, now embarking for the Presidency of Fort Saint George, to issue such Orders to every Detachment that has or may be made from the Military Establishment of this Presidency, as he shall judge expedient for the general Service of the War in which the Company's Forces are engaged; we direct that you implicitly obey all fuch Orders as you may receive from him after your Receipt of this Letter.

A P P E N D I X, N° 356.

Extract of Bombay Select Consultations, the 29th April 1781.

Extract of Letter from the President and Select Committee at Bombay to Brigadier General Goddard, dated 29th April 1781.

In the present State of Affairs, we agree with you that it will be a very proper Measure, and of Benefit to the Public Service, to detain the Madras Detachment till more favourable Circumstances will admit of their Return, and we shall therefore in our next Advices acquaint that Presidency of the Motives which have induced us to alter our former Resolution of sending back these Troops; which we hope with you will be attended with no Inconvenience to them at this Time.

As you are well acquainted with the present reduced State of our European Establishment, it is unnecessary to point out how descient we are in our Artillery and Infantry Corps. We wish therefore to be favoured with your Sentiments how far in your Opinion it might be proper and practicable to incorporate with our Troops the Non-commissioned Officers and private Men of the Madras Detachment, by which we should have an Addition of material Strength so necessary at this Time, and not to be expected from Europe, besides relieving the Company for some Time of a considerable additional Expence. If you coincide with us in this Step, the Officers now serving with these Men may be returned to the other Coast on the Vessels which will shortly sail thither.

Extract of Bombay Select Consultations, the 26th May 1781.

PRESENT,

The W° Daniel Draper, and Esquires. Nathaniel Stackhouse,

The Commander of the Ponsborne having reported to the Board that he will be ready to sail on the 28th of this Month, Mr. Draper observes to the Committee, that it is material this Ship should remain here until we have come to a final Determination respecting the Madras Detachment, in order to surnish an Opportunity for conveying round a Proportion of the Officers, should it be resolved upon to incorporate the private Men; and that her Detention here for a short Time is a Matter of no Importance to the Company, as she will be dispatched in very sufficient Time to proceed from Madras to China. Agreed therefore, for the above Reasons, that we propose to the Board, which will meet this Morning, to refer the Dispatch of the Ponsborne to this Committee.

A P P E N D I X, N° 357.

Letter from the President and Select Committee of Bombay to the Honourable the Secret Committee of the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, dated 28th July 1781.

Honourable Gentlemen,

Par. 1. WE addressed you by this Channel in Duplicate, under the 31st of March and 30th of April, and now forward Triplicates; we have fince addressed you more at length under the 27th of May by the Prime.

2. The Morning Star being now dispatched to the Gulph to convey to India any Packets or Intelligence of Importance that may arrive at Bussorah after the Dispatch of the Mercury, we take the Opportunity of giving you brief Advice of our Situation.

3. The Season of the Year necessarily prevents all Military Operations, and the Troops are disposed in Quarters and Cantonments at Bombay and Callian; neither has any further Negociation been attempted either by us or the Enemy since the Proposals offered by the Governor General and Council, and the Advances made in consequence by this Government and General Goddard, the Result of which has been already communicated to you.

4. It

ENDIX, N° 357.

4. It is as yet too early for us to fix upon any precise Plan, or to determine absolutely upon further Measures. The late Occurrences, our Situation, and Circumstances, have been made known to the Governor General and Council, and we may expect their Orders, founded upon full Knowledge and Information thereof. In the mean Time it is our Business in this Season of Inaction to watch Events with a careful Eye, and to endeavour hereafter to make a judicious Application of them to the Company's Advantage.

5. You have been already advised in our Letter dated the 31st of March, that on the Failure of the Negociation, we judged it more expedient to reduce the War on our Part to a mere System of Defence: This Plan does not feem to be agreeable to the Sentiments of the Governor General and Council. They tell us in a late Dispatch, that the Unwillingness of the Minister to accept the Offer of a Treaty, does not disappoint, but on the contrary has rather pleased them, as it leaves them at Liberty to secure to the Company the important Possession of Bassein, and the other Advantages acquired at the Time the proposed Treaty was written; and will warrant them in declaring their Resolution not to part with that valuable Acquisition, unless some great Reverse of Fortune should attend the Operation of our Arms. The ill Success which had attended their Advances, discouraged them from looking to any favourable Termination of the War, but the most vigorous and successful Prosecution of it; and under this Impression they intimate their Wishes that our utmost Aid might be afforded to General Goddard's Operations.

6. They impute to us a sudden Alteration of Sentiment, with respect to the Mode of prosecuting the War against the Marattas. This is not an Opportunity for entering into a particular Defence and Explanation of our Measures. Our Address of the 11th of January, and Proceedings transmitted by the Prime, will shew the Grounds and Principles upon which we acted when we communicated to General Principles upon the Principles upon the Principles upon the Principles upon the Principles upon the Principles upon the Principles upon the Pri , in future, a Pursuit of the War with all possible Vigour, and to the utmost Extent practicable with the Force under his Command; and that this Recommendation was in exact Conformity to our Instructions from the Governor General and Council; in Hopes by an active Exertion, or by some decisive Success in the Interval limited for the Acceptance of their Proposals, to dispose the Maratta Governmens to an Accommodation. Our subsequent Plan of Conduct was a necessary Consequence of the Failure in these Hopes, and of our Situation and Circumstances at the Time, which stand fully explained in our Proceedings above referred to.

7. The Governor General and Council advise us under the 7th of May, that besides the other Causes which diffuade them from making any further Overtures of Peace to the Administration of Poona; another Objection had recently occurred, in the Connection they had lately formed in the Government of Berar, which they had every reasonable Hope would be attended with a very essential Change in their political Influence. The principal Points of this Engagement are subjoined, as communicated to us.

8. The First of the Inform appoints Thousand Cavalry to overtake Colonel Pearce's Detachment, and to assist in War against Hyder Naig.

9. The Second flipulates, that the Berar Army shall immediately leave the Province of Oriffa, and Marine Day. An Expedition against Gurrahmyndalla, aided by a Body of the Company's Troops, in the Reduction of it.

10. Third and last Articles are preliminary to a still nearer Connection of the Two Governments, and fix the Means by which this may be effected.

11. Messis. Eyles Irwin, and John Richmond Smith, arrived here from Bussorah the 29th of May, and we received at the same Time your Commands of the 10th of January, which had overtaken them on the Defart. Mr. Irwin was furnished with One of your Cruizers to Madras, from whence she was to proceed to Fort Marlborough, with Advice of the Rupture with Holland, which we had before advised the President and Council appeared to be inevitable. Messirs. Bensield, Selon Stuart, and Conran, arrived here the 7th Instant, with Duplicates of these Dispatches, and soon after proceeded to Madras. Mr. Woolley is not yet arrived from Muscat.

12. We have given Orders for dispossessing the Dutch of their Factories at Broach and Surat; we have had Advice of the latter being effected; and have Reason to believe a considerable Property will be found belonging to the Dutch East India Company, which shall be secured for the Benefit of the English East India Company.

13. General Goddard has taken upon him the chief Command of the Troops on this Establishment, and a Share in our Administration, according to your Appointment; still reserving the separate Powers he holds under the Governor General and Council. Mr. John Halfey has also been admitted a Member of this Committee, in the room of Mr. Stackhouse, who proceeded to England on the

A P P E N D I X, N° 358.

Letter from the Governor General and Council, to the Honourable William Hornby, Esquire, Prefident, and Select Committee at Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

SINCE writing to you on the 7th Instant, we have received your Letter of the 30th March.

It concerns us to observe so sudden an Alteration in your Sentiments with respect to the Prosecution of the War with the Maratta State. On the 15th of January last, you declared to us your Concurrence in the Opinion of General Goddard, that a Pursuit of the War with all possible Vigour, as recommended by us, promised with the most rational Expectation to promote a speedy Accommodation, sooner than any other Plan of Conduct. It does not appear that any Disaster has befallen our Arms; on the contrary, every Success has attended them Our Troops were in the Neighbourhood of Poona, and in such Force as well as Character, as was likely to overcome all Opposition, and to compel the Enemy to Terms, yet in this prosperous State of the War, we are informed of your Resolution to reduce it on your Part to mere Desence, and to the Security of the Possessines obtained to your Government, by another Mode of conducting it.

We have repeatedly declared, that we wish sincerely for a Peace with the Maratta State; it is our fixed Object, and we shall deem the Accomplishment of it, on honourable Terms, a most desirable Event. One Mode of obtaining it has been tried; Advances have been made, but these Advances have not been successful; a Repetition of them would, in our Opinion, have no other Effect, than to fix an Opinion of our Weakness in the Maratta Government, arm them with Spirits against us, and instead of shortening, prolong the Duration of the War. We repeat our firm Conviction, that nothing but a vigorous and successful Prosecution of it, will produce an honourable Termination of it. Under this Impression, our Instructions to General Goddard have been framed and continued, and under the same Instructions, we express to you our Wish, that your Aid may be assorbed to General Goddard's Operations.

We, on our Receipt of your Letter, gave immediate Information to the Commander in Chief, according to your Request, of the Determination which you have passed relative to the Madras Detachment.

Fort William, 10th May, 1781. We are, &c. &c. &c. (Signed) The Honourable the Governor General and Council,

APPENDIX, Nº 360.

Letter from the Governor and Council of Bengal, in their Secret Department.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Mer's chants of England trading to the East Indies; dated 7th January 1781.

Honourable Sirs.

Par. 1. THE Departure of Major John Scott to Europe, by express Appointment from the Governor General, as his private Agent, affording us an Opportunity of addressing you, we have the Honour to avail ourselves of it, in transmitting to you in Triplicate our last Advices from this Department by the Ships Fox and Walpole. Major Scott has taken his Paffage on a Portugueze Ship, which being to stop in her Way at Fort Saint George, we have recommended it to the President and Select Committee at that Place, to embrace the same Occasion of transmitting to you a Relation of Occurrences upon the Coast to the latest Period of Major Scott's Stay. We beg Leave to recommend this Gentleman to your Favour; and that he may be restored to the Company's Service without Prejudice to his Rank, if he should be hereaster desirous of returning to Bengal.

2. We fend to you Numbers in this Dispatch, Copies of the Letters which we have received from Dated to Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, fince we had the Honour of addressing you by the Fox. We are much concerned that the Information contained in them, obliges us to say, that we still continue in Expectation of more favourable Accounts of the State of your Affairs on the Coast. The Considence which we place in the Exertions of Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, in his Experience in Military Affairs, and in his Zeal for the Public Service, will not permit us to despond of a prosper-ous Change in it, while he continues at the Head of your Army; nor shall any Assistance be wanting which we can render to give Effect to his Efforts. The Military Expences are indeed large, but we have promised to provide for them as long as we are able; and acting upon that Promise, we have ordered that the Sum of CR² 4,23,672. 10. 3. should be remitted to Fort Saint George in Specie, by the Ship Duke of Portland, now under saling Orders. We have taken Measures to continue to that Prefidency, Supplies of Grain and other Articles of which they are in need; and shall in no Instance relax in our declared Resolution to relieve their Wants, as far as we may be able to supply them; but it is not in our Power to afford that Aid which the Army is faid greatly to require, in an Encrease of its Strength in Europeans. The unfortunate Disaster which besel the Detachment from General Munro's Army near Conjeveram, in September last, was attended with an important Diminution of it; and we are not able to spare from the Defence of our own Provinces more than have been already detached from them.

3. This Consideration, added to others which arise from the present State of your Affairs on the Coast, and the Necessity which we feel of giving every Aid to your Presidency of Fort Saint George that can possibly be obtained, without too disproportionate a Sacrifice of the Possessions of the Company, or of those of the Nabob Walaw Jaw, have induced us to propose a Treaty of Alliance with the Dutch, whose Possessions at, and adjacent to, Cochin, have lately been invaded by Hyder Ally Khan. The Treaty itself appears on our Proceedings of the 4th Instant, which go a Number in the Conf. 4 fans Packet, and has been formed with the Advice and Correction of Mr. Rofs, Director and Governor of the Dutch East India Company's Settlements in Bengal.

4. It appears from an Account which the Governor General informs us has been communicated to him by Mr. Ross, that the Force actually stationed at or near Cochin, will easily enable that Government to supply the Proportion, both of European Infantry and Artillery, which are chiefly wanted, and of Malays specified in the Treaty; and these may be marched at a very short Notice, and by a very near Route, into the Carnatic, if the Governors of Columbo and Cochin, on which they depend, will accede to the proffered Alliance. To engage their Assent, which will in such Case involve both in great personal Responsibility, as we understand that they have no regular Powers to bind their Company in fuch an Act without the Sanction of the Superior Government of Batavia, we have offered to them much greater Advantages than perhaps are suitable to the common Interest which the Dutch Company have in the War, or than we should be inclined to yield in an equal and formal Negociation; but for this we have no Time; the Necessity of the Company require an instant Relief, and the dependent State of those whom we solicit to be the immediate Parties in the Treaty, claims some additional Concessions, both to indemnify them, and to win the Concurrence of their Superiors

5. Urged by thele Considerations, we have proposed in the Treaty the Cession of the Country of Tinivilly to the Dutch East India Company. Its Situation is such, that it may, as we conceive, be separated from the Government of the Carnatic, without either present Embarrassment or Danger of future Competition; and from its Contiguity to the Dutch Possessions in Ceylon, will prove a greater Acquilition to them than Loss to the Nabob.

The Treaty has been suddenly prepared, without his Knowledge, and of course without his Consent; and the latter is, we know, indispensably necessary to that Article of it in which the Cession of Tinnively is suggested, and which, on our Part, we can only propose, but it is the only Part which he is likely to have in the War, although the Principal in it; and we have, in our Opinion, a Right to claim at least this small Return, both for the Hazards which we incur and the Exertions which we make for the Support of his Cause; a Return amounting only to the Sacrifice of a minute Portion of his Dominions, and that the most distant of them, for the Salvation of the Whole.

7. A Copy of the Letter written by the Governor General to the Nabob on Occasion, described well as of those addressed to the Governors of Colombo and Cochin, and to the Superior Government of Batavia, appear on our Proceedings of the 4th Instant, to which we have already referred you for a Transcript of the Treaty itself. The latter has received our Execution of it, and has been entitled with our other Dispatches to Fort St. George to Mr. James Deighton, whom we have recommended to the President and Select Committee to be employed to proceed with the Treaty and last ters, and such other Dispatches as they may have Occasion to add, to the Governments of Colombo and Cochin.

8. We think it proper to fend for your Information, an Extract of a Letter which we have received from the Prefident and Select Committee at Bombay, under Date the 23d September, accompanied by a Letter to them from Mr. Henshaw, their Resident at Goa; it goes therefore a Number in this Dispatch; but we deem the Report therein conveyed to us, unworthy of our serious Attention. We are generally inclined to believe that, although a Connection may subsist between the Portuguese and the Marattas, its Essect cannot be important: They have no Rank among the and India; they have no Means of subsisting their Army in the Field, and no such Advantages are likely to be yielded to them as can weigh against the strong Consideration of the Alliance which has long subsisted between our Nation and theirs. The Claims which they prefer are Claims of Form, and perhaps would be preferred by any other Nation having them, whether they were or were not justly founded.

9. With respect to the supposed Intention of asserting and maintaining the Claim on Bassein by Force, it seems to us nugatory, and it cannot be essectual, since we have received certain Advices that Brigadier General Goddard with his Army was before Bassein on the 18th November last, and we are informed that there was no Force excepting that in Garrison to oppose his early Capture of the Place.

Hyder Ally, the Friendship and Alliance which has long subsisted between their Nation and ours, and, independently of this last Consideration, the Interest which they have in common with us, in curbing an Encrease of Power in that ambitious Chief, have induced us to make Overtures to thus Government for an Union with us in distressing Hyder Ally by sending a Body of Forces into his Country; and we have availed ourselves of the Services of Mr. Auriol, our Secretary, who had before received our Permission to proceed to the West of India for the Re-establishment of his He skh, by deputing him to Goa on this Occasion.

our Expectations of Success, from the Overtures made to the Viceroy of Gon are not very fanguine; but there appeared to us a Possibility of adding to the Force engaged against Hyder Ally by the Union of that Government with ours, and we were not willing to neglect even the remote Chance of such an Advantage.

12. The perfidious Conduct of those of the French Nation at Pondicherry, as represented in Sa Eyre Coote's Letter of the 19th November, suggesting to us the Necessity of taking immediate Measures for preventing the Example from having Effect among those resident at Chandernagore, and within the Provinces, we have given public Notice to the higher Class of Frenchmen, of our positive Requisition, that they all quit the Provinces by Sea on or before the 31st Instant, on pain of being made Prisoners should they be found in them after that Period; and we have given Orders for the immediate Seizure of those of the lower Class. They had been all required in June last to leave the Provinces by the 1st October, and our Indulgence had permitted their remaining in them to this Time, but the slagrant and hostile Conduct of their Countrymen at Pondicherry would not allow us to continue the Favour shewn to them any longer.

13. We have the Honour to fend to you enclosed Copies of the Letters which we have received from Brigadier General Goddard, since we addressed you by the Fox. The Information before quoted of his Arrival at Bassein will not be found in them, but it is sufficiently authenticated by our Receipt of a Bill of Exchange drawn by him, and dated the 18th December.

14. Excepting the Letter from Bombay beforementioned, and which is sent a Number in the Packet, we have received no Advices from that Presidency of a later Date than those transmitted to you in our Proceedings sent by the Ship Fox. We have remitted to them by the Ship Portland Treasure to the Amount of Five Lacks of Rupees, and we have authorized them to draw Bills on us of our Establishment those capital Advantages which can only result from exact Discipline, tempered with a strict Administration of the Rights of the Soldiery, it was positively necessary thoroughly to reform and new model the Corps composing this Part of our Military Force, presented to us on the 26th ultimo, a Series of Propositions best calculated, according to his Judgment, for compassing so important and useful an End. These Propositions were accompanied with figured Statements, exhibiting as nearly as might be, the extraordinary Expence which would be incurred by the new Sepoy Establishment, and the Annual Saving which would accrue from the general Arrangements.

ENDIX.

16. The Letters which we have received from Brigadier General Stibbert on this Subject, and Copies of the Statements and Propositions accompanying them, are sent to you Numbers in this Difpatch. After maturely confidering the Principles on which the Plan submitted to us was obviously founded, after measuring the Extent of the Advantages it promised to produce, and after latisfying purceives that it united Œconomy and Utility, we delayed it, in the Conviction that the av Military Constitution of our native Infantry was pregnant with Defects, which, unless timely corrected, threatened the most serious and alarming Consequences, to pass the Whole of General Serious Propositions into Resolutions of our Council.

17. We will here delineate, as far as may be necessary, the general Ground-work of this new Superflucture, marking the less obvious Motives of particular Regulations, and diffinguishing in a concife Manner the Advantages they possels over former Institutions and Arrangements.

13. The apparent Strength of the Battalions of the European Regiments being at all Times very meonfiderable (rarely exceeding 300 Rank and File) and their politive and effective Strength being frequently below 200 Men, the large Establishment of Officers annexed to these Corps, appeared to be productive of an utterly irrequifite Expence, without yielding a fingle Advantage in a Military Poir of View. Influenced by these Reslections we made it our Request to General Subbert to examine the Txp (Southling up the Battalion of the Regiments; and accordingly we have had Untilling up the Battalion of the Regiments; and accordingly we have had the Satisfiction of receiving his Concurrence in a Measure, that while it occasions in our Monthly Expences a Retrenchment of 37,186 Sonat Rupees, furnishes us with a confiderable Number of Officers towards compleating our native Infantry on the new Eftablishment.

19. Although the Commander in Chief has, in the annexed Propositions, inserted a Clause, exproffing, that when the Strength of the Luropean Regiments shall exceed 762 Rank and File, they that evert to their former Conflitution (because in that Case the Corps would be too unwieldy for the Purpole of manœuvring with Coletity and Exacinels) yet we must remark, that it is by no Means probable that we shall be reduced during the Continuance of the War in Europe, to the Necessity of re-adopting this burthentome System on the military Principle suggested, and that the Period at which alone such a Necessity is likely to occur will be the best suited to its favourable and

20. Having resolved in consequence of the approaching Departure of a Division of our Army towards Madras, to augment our military Force, we issued Orders for the raising of Six new Battalions; but the Commander in Chief having suggested to us the Expediency of new-modelling the native Infantry, and of applying an immediate and effectual Remedy to the Abuses which had crept into the Corps composing this Part of the Army, to the great Detriment of the Service, we thought proper to recall those Orders, and to fignify to him that we were prepared to receive his Sentiments at large upon this important and interesting Subject; when he accordingly presented to us the annexed Propositions, explaining them as far as was requisite, in our Consultations of the 26th ultimo, at which he was prefent.

21. As the Advantages of the new Sepoy Arrangements, as far as relates to the Purpoles of maaccuvring and disciplining the Corps, as well as to the Effects which may be produced on the Minds of the Country Powers by such an apparent Encrease of the Number of Battalions on our Establishment, are fully set forth in General Stibbert's Letter to us of the 31st of October, we beg Leave to refer you to the same for his Arguments on these Heads; which we are to observe had their due Weight with us. We must also request of you to seek in the same Letter, the Reasons adduced by him for abolithing the Office of Native Commandant to the Sepoy Regiments, in the Propriety of which we energly acquiesced, as well as in the Expediency of the Regulations, directing the Native Adjutants to be made from Jamautdars (inflead of Subadars) with a View of preventing these Officers from fucceeding to the dangerous Influence and Authority of the Commandants.

2. At the same Time that, in order to the correcting of the Abuses which had crept into the army, and which were of a Nature tending directly to the Destruction of the Corps composing it, it was become necessary to fix such Checks, and to establish such rigid Rules, with regard to mustering and paying the Sepoys, as should put it totally out of the Power of the Commanding Officers of Regiments to derive any Emoluments from their Corps, and thereby engage their Attention wholly to the disciplining of them; it also became requisite to annex such Rank and Allowances to the Command of these Officers as suited its Importance, and the Length of their Service; for to have entirely excluded them from all Perquifites and Emoluments whatfoever, without advancing their Rank and Salary, would, supposing it possible to have established such a Regulation, have produced no other Consequence than that of rendering them to a Man disassected to the Service; an Evil that must have necessarily been followed by an universal Relaxation of Discipline, for which the most violent Remedy would, under fuch Circumstances, be ineffectual.

23. This Danger however is avoided by granting, as we have done, advanced Rank and Allowances to the Officers commanding Regiments of Sepoys, who no Doubt will ere long be reconciled to the Reform, and being dilengaged from the Purluit of other Objects, exert themselves more than ever in training and disciplining the Corps committed to their Charge.

24. You will be satisfied on examining the annexed Papers, that notwithstanding the great Encrease of Field Officers and Captains, consequent of the new Arrangements, there will still be an annual Saving on the whole of near Three Lacks and an Half of Sonat Rupees, after allowing for the actual Encrease of Force gained to the Establishment; but as the Commander in Chief is aware that exclusive of Pay and Batta there may be some other Expences incurred by his Regulations, of which he has not taken any Notice, he does not rest their Propriety or Utility on the Head of Saving He will be farisfied if they should not encrease the Disbursements on the Army Account; and though, contrary to Appearances as well as to his Hope, they should add in a small Measure to the military.

Burthen, he afferts himself consident that the beneficial Consequences which will in due Time result from them, will be abundantly more than adequate to the extraordinary Expence they may

25. It is unnecessary for us to offer any Remarks on the other Parts of the annexed Regulations; we conceive that they will speak for themselves; and we are particularly hopeful that the prescribed Forms for mustering and paying the Native Troops will convince you, that it was our Design (in these Arrangements) to strike at the Root of every Abuse that could possibly affect either the good Order and Discipline of your Forces, or the Rights of the Native Soldiery.

26. We send you herewith a Return of the European Infantry and Artillery on this Establishment: It will serve to place before you in a clear View, the alarming Disproportion of our Strength in Eupeans to the Number of Native Infantry; and at the same Time the Necessity of an early and strong Disproportion of the Strength of Paris Strength of the Strength of St Reinforcement of the former. We have before frequently suggested to you the Necessity of preserving this Establishment entire; it was particularly submitted to your Attention in one Letter of the 13th October last, and we must now repeat to you our most earnest Request that you will give the Subject an early and particular Consideration. Your First Establishment of Europeans, even in Time of Peace, is not more than sufficient to give Respect to your Military Forces. In Time of War it is greatly inferior to its Wants; and when the existing Numbers are below the Establishment, it is our Duty to declare to you that your Possessions are in Danger of a Ruin as sudden as it may prove irretrievable. The essential Strength of this Country, and the only Strength on which you can depend, is in the Number of Europeans. You are not Strength to this East, and although there is not be supposed to the Number of Europeans. is in the Number of Europeans: You are not Strangers to this Fact, and although there is no late Proof from Experience of the Truth of the Affertion, it cannot be inferred from this Instance of our good Fortune, that we may never experience the Reverse.

27. The Sum of Forty-five Lacks of Rupees, to which the first Loan on Bonds bearing an Interest of 8 per Cent. per Annum, was restricted by our Resolution of the 2d October last, having been completely subscribed, we have determined to authorize the Receipts of such further Sums into the Treasury as might be tendered to it for like Bonds.

Fort William, 7th January 1781. We have the Honour to be, Honourable Sirs, Your most faithful humble Servants, Warren Hastings, Edw Wheler.

PENDIX, N° 360.

Fort William the 4th January 1781.

At a Council; PRESENT, The Honourable Warren Haftings, Governor General, President, and Edward Wheler, Efquire.

Serret Dopt. Thuriday.

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote absent on Service.

The Misfortunes which have attended the Company's Arms in the Carnatic, in the War with Hyder Ally, and the Diladvantages which attend the Profecution of it, requiring that every Aid should be given to the Presidency of Fort Saint George that can possibly be obtained without too disproportionate a Sacrifice of the Possessions either of the Nabob or the Company, the following Draft of a Treaty has therefore been formed, with the Advice and Correction of Mr. Ross, the Director of Chinsura; the Expediency of it having been suggested by the late Hostilities which have been committed by Hyder Ally Cawn upon the Dutch Dependencies at Cochin. The Force actually stationed at and near Cochin, as appears from an Account communicated by Mr. Rols to the Governor General, will very well enable that Government to supply the Proportion both of European Infantry and Artillery which we chiefly want, and of Malays, specified in the Treaty; and these may be marched at a very short Notice and by a very near Route into the Carnatic, if the Governors of Columbo and Cochin, on which they depend, will accede to the proposed Treaty. To engage their Assent, which will in such Case involve both in great personal Responsibility, as we understand that they have no regular Powers to bind their Company in fuch an Act without the Sanction of the Superior Government of Batavia, we have proffered to them much greater Advantages than perhaps are suitable to the common Interest which the Dutch Company have in the War, or than we should be inclined to yield in an equal and formal Negociation; but for this we have no Time; our Necessities require an instant Relief, and the dependent State of those whom we solicit to be the immediate Parties in the Treaty, claims some additional Concessions, both to indemnify them and to win the Concurrence of their Superiors. It is for this Reason we have agreed to propose the Cession of the Country of Tinnevelly to the Dutch. Its Situation is fuch, that it may, as we conceive, be separated from the Government of the Carnatic, without either present Embarrassment, or Danger of future Competition; and from its Contiguity to the Dutch Possessions in Ceylon, will prove a greater Acquisition to them than Loss to the Nabob. His Consent indeed is essentially and indispentably necessary to this Article of the Treaty, which on our Part we can only propose; but it is the only Part which he is likely to bear in the War, although the Principal in it; and we have a Right to claim at least this small Return, both for the Hazards which we incur, and the Exertions which we make for the Support of his Cause; that is, the Sacrifice of a minute Portion, and that the most distant of his Dominions, for the Salvation of the Whole.

For all the foregoing Reasons we have resolved both on the Substance of the Treaty, as we have constituted it, and on its immediate Execution on our Part; and that it be transmitted with the Letter entered on the Proceedings of this Day to the President and Scle& Committee at Fort Saint George. Other Remarks upon the Treaty itself we presume will be unnecessary, as we conceive their Object and Tendency will be obvious.

Proposals for a Treaty of Alliance between the English and Dutch East India Companies and the Nabob Walla Jah Bahadr.

Whereas the Nabob Hyder Ally Cawn has without any Cause invaded the Carnasic Payengaut, and Proposed T the Possessions of the English East India Company which are situated therein, and attacked the Settlements and Forts of the Dutch East India Company dependent on the Government of Cochin on the Acos. Malabar Coait; wherefore it hath become the common Interest of the Nabob Walla Jah Bahadr, who is the Sovereign of the Carnatic Payengaut, and of the Two Companies aforesaid, to unite in repelling and defeating the Attempts and Deligns of the faid Hyder Ally Cawn; the Governor General and Council of Bengal, with the Advice and Suggestion of the Director for the Management of the Affairs of the Dutch East India Company in Bengal, do propose and offer the following Conditions of a Treaty to the Nabob Walla Jah, and to the proper Agents and Representatives of the Dutch East India Company aforesaid, hereby declaring them to be from the Time in which the faid Conditions shall receive the Seals and Signatures of the other Parties to this Treaty, binding on the Governor General and Council, and on all the Governments and Dependencies of the English East India Company, in virtue of the Seal of the Company, and the Signatures of the Governor General and Council herein first prefixed; viz.

Article the First.

The Governments of Columbo and Cochin shall engage to provide and assign for the Quota of the Durch East-India Company in the War with Hyder Ally Cawn, at or near Cochin, a disciplined Force consisting of not less than One thousand European Infantry, Two hundred Furopean Artillery, and One thousand Malays, with their Complement of Officers, not exceeding the Rank of Captains, tains, it being understood and agreed that all the Officers of a superior Rank shall either be furnished by the President and Council of Fort St. George, or appointed by Commissions from them. The Forces shall be delivered over to the Charge of such Officer or Officers as shall be appointed by the President and Council of Fort St. George to receive them, who shall for that Purpose proceed to Cochin to receive Charge and Command of the same; and from that Time the said Forces shall remain subject to the general Authority and Command of the Commander in Chief of the English Forces, in like Manner as the English Forces in India are subject to his Command, until the Councilion of the War, whether by the sinal Conquest of the Dominions of Hyder filly Cawn, for his Peace concluded with him, and their Re-delivery in consequence thereof to their original and proper Government: And their Pay, according to the Rates at which they are paid in the Service of the Dutch East India Company, together with all Expences of the Field of Garrison, shall be at the Charge of the English East India Company, from the Day on which they are transferred to the English Command, until the Day of their Return and Re-delivery at Cochin, or such other Piace of thall be mutually appointed for that Purpose.

Article the Second.

In Consideration of the Assistance granted in the Manner stipulated in the preceding Article, besides their Pay and Expence, which are to be defrayed by the Governor General and Council on the Part of the English East India Company, it is proposed and recommended by the Governor General and Council to the Nabob Walla Jah Bahadr, that he shall on his Part grant and assign, by proper Sunnuds, to the Dutch East India Company, his Right and Property in the Province or District of Tinnevelly, together with the exclusive Right in the Pearl Fishery of all the Coast lying to the South of Remiserim, to the Dutch East India Company; who shall be permitted to take Possession thereof from the Day on which this Treaty shall receive its final Ratification, without any Let or Impediment on the Part of his Aumils or Officers of whatever Denomination; and the said Province or District shall remain the Property of the Dutch East India Company for ever.

Article the Third.

It shall be allowable to the Government of the Dutch East India Company at Cochin to carry on any separate Operations against the common Enemy with their own Forces, and to make Conquests of any Lands or Countries adjacent to Cochin, and to keep Possession of the same, without any Claim of Participation on the Part of the Nabob Walla Jah Bahadr, or of the English East India Company.

Article the Fourth.

If a further Aid of Troops shall be required from the Dutch East-India Company for the Maintenance of the War, they shall engage to furnish the same so soon as they can be obtained from the Supreme Government at Batavia, on the same Terms, and in the same Manner, as are slipulated in the First Article.

Article the Fifth.

This Treaty being first executed in the Manner abovementioned by the Governor General and Council of Bengal, for and on Behalf of the English East India Company, shall be next tendered to the Nabob Walla Jah Bahâdr for his Acceptance and Ratification, and having received the same it shall be forwarded to the Governments of Columbo and Cochin, that it may in like Manner receive their Assent and final Ratification without any additional Diminution or Alteration whatsoever, to be made either by the Nabob Walla Jah Bahâdr, or by the Government of Columbo and Cochin.

Ordered, That the Treaty above proposed be copied fair, and that it be circulated by the Secretary to the Members of the Board for Execution.

Agreed, That Mr. James Dighton be appointed Agent on the Part of the Governor General and Council on this Occasion, with the usual Allowances; that he be entrusted with the Care of our Dispatches to Fort Saint George, and recommended to the President and Select Committee to be employed by them to proceed with the Treaty and Letters written to Columbo and Cochin; together with such other Dispatches as they may have Occasion to add to those Governments.

The Governor General lays before the Board the Draft of a Letter which he has prepared to his Highness the Nabob of the Carnatic.

Nabob

To his Highness the Nabob Walla Jah, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Highness,

The very critical Situation in which the Affairs of your Highness are at present involved, by the Invasion of the Carnatic by Hyder Ally Cawn, the Disgrace which the British Arms have lately sustained on the Coast, and the consequent Necessity of every vigorous Exertion on your Part, not only to recover what has been lost, but to preserve what remains, are Points too closely connected with your Highness's Interest and Prosperity to require many Arguments to enforce them. From these Circumstances which alone I conceive to be of sufficient Weight, but which derive greater Force from the Obligations your Highness is under to the Company for the Benefit of their Protection and Assistance upon repeated Occasions, I cannot but entertain Hopes that your Highness will readily and chearfully to-operate with us in any Plan which may be proposed for the common Advantage, and for the more successfully deseating the ambitious Designs of Hyder Ally Cawn; especially when you reflect how much has been already done by this Government, and in how short a Space or Time from the first Intelligence of the late heavy Disaster which has befallen our Arms on the Coast, to redeem as far as it is in our Power the national Credit, and with it to retrieve the particular Lofs which your Highness has suffered, and the great Sacrifice we have made in relinquishing the Protecu tion of the Maritta War, almost in the Moment when we had Reason to expect from the Successes which have attended it, that it would have speedily terminated in an honourable and advantageous Peace. Relying therefore upon the Effect which I doubt not these Considerations will produce on the Mind of your Highness, I proceed to acquaint you, that in consequence of the Information which has long fince been received of the Hostilities and Depredations committed by Hyder Ally Cawn on the Territories belonging to the Dutch, at or adjacent to Cochin, and his late Invalion of the Carnatic, by which the Safety of your Possessions is endangered equally with those of the Company, we have prepared the Draft of a Treaty of Alliance between the English and Dutch East India Companies and yourself; and having first tendered it for Approval to Mr. Ross, Director and Governor of the Dutch East-India Company in Bengal, and obtained his Concurrence, we have affixed our Seals and Signatures to it, declaring it to be binding on us; and have requested the President and Select Committee at Fort St. George to present it to your Highness for your Assent and Ratification, with an Apology for having introduced your Name into the Treaty without the previous Sanction of your Authority; but as this Step would have required too tedious a Process, and would have opened a Channel of Negociation and Correspondence, by which the Ends proposed by the Treaty, which are immediate Affistance, would have been defeated, your Highness will perceive the Impossibility of an Application of this fort, which otherwise that proper Respect and Attention which is due to your Highness would most certainly suggested. When the Treaty has been approved of and figued by your Highness, it will be transmitted to the Governments of Columbo and Cochin for their final Ratification. Depending that your Highness, from your firm Alliance with, and Friendship for the Rast India Company, and from the Considence which you repose in them, will contribute chearfully your Affistance, in the Manner and on the Terms which have been stated in the Treaty, I will conclude with wishing an Encrease of Health and Prosperity to your Highness.

Agreed to the Draft of the Letter proposed by the Governor General, and ordered that it be translated.

Agreed, That the following Letters be written to the Governors of Columbo, Cochin, and to the Superior Government of Batavia.

To the Governor of Columbo.

Honourable Sir,

Having long fince received Information of the Hostilities and Depredations committed by Hyder Ally Cawn on the Dutch Territories at or adjacent to Cochin, and taking into our Consideration the Circumstance of his being at present in open War against them, together with the Necessity of repelling his ambitious Designs upon the Carnatic, which involve your State equally with those of the Nabob Wallajah and the English Company, we have prepared the Drast of a Treaty of Alliance between the English and Dutch East India Companies and the Nabob Wallajah Bahader, upon such Terms as we trust will be accepted by you and the Governor of Cochin, having first tendered it to the Perusal of Mr. Ross, Director and Governor of the Dutch East India Company at Bengal, and obtained his Approval of it; and as the evident Advantage to be derived to the Dutch Company from the Ratisfication of the Treaty on your Parts must free you from every Apprehension of Responsibility to the Superior Government at Batavia, for having acceded to it without the previous Sanction of their Authority, the Obstacle which might otherwise have been allowed Weight will by this Means be removed.

The same Reason which prevented us from making an Application direct to Batavia, will be sufficient to evince the Impossibility of its entering into a Correspondence with your Government and that of Cochin on the Subject, since in both Cases the Time which would be required for receiving an Answer respecting the Ratification of the Treaty, would have deseated the Ends of it, which are immediate Assistance.

We have therefore for the greater Dispatch as fixed our Seals and Signatures to the Treaty, declaring it to be binding on us, and on all the Dependencies of the English East India Company, and have transmitted it to the President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George, requesting them to tender it to the Nabob for his Assent; and as soon as the Nabob shall have made himself a subscribing Party to it, that it may be forwarded with all possible Expedition to you, depending, that when the true Interest of your Nation is provided for so materially, you will not be the Cause of a Moment's Delay in the Execution of it.

We have the Honour to be, &c.

(The same to the Governor of Cochin.)

A P P E N D I X, N° 360

To the Superior Government at Batavia.

Honourable Sirs,

In consequence of the Information which we have long since received of the Hostilities and Depresent dations committed by Hyder Ally Cawn on the Dutch Territories at or adjacent to Cochin, and his late Invasion of the Carnatic, by which the Safety of your Possessions in that Part of the World is endangered equally with our own; and in Confideration of the Necessity of a mutual Co-operation to repel the Designs of so ambitious an Enemy, we have prepared the Drast of a Treaty of Alliance between the English and Dutch East India Companies, and the Nabob Wallajah Bahader, having shift tendered it for Approval to Mr. Ross, Director and Governor of the Dutch East India Company in Bengal, and obtained his Concurrence in Consideration of the Terms of it being so savourable to your Company; and we have now, to prevent Delay, dispatched it to the President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George, with our Seals and Signatures affixed, together with a Declaration, that it shall be binding on our Parts; and we have further requested, as soon as the Consent of the Nab b Wallajah shall have been obtained to the Treaty, that it may be forwarded with all possible-Expedition to the Governments of Columbo and Cochin for their final Ratification and Concurrence. As the Time which would be required for receiving an Answer from you respecting the Ratification of the Treaty, would have defeated the Ends of it, which are immediate Affistance, the Impossibility of a previous Application for this Purpose will, we trust, be sufficiently evident, and apologize for our having Recourse to the only Method which could be effectual in so critical a Conjuncture, that of forwarding it to the Governments of Columbo and Cochin, who, we doubt not, will obtain your Approbation for having subscribed to a Treaty, in which the manifest Advantages to your State will free them from every Share of Responsibility.

Fort William, the 4th January 1781.

We have the Honour to be, &c. &c. &c

Ordered, That Copies of the above Letters of the proposed Freaty, and of the Letter from the Governor General to the Nabob, be prepared for the Perusal of the Gentlemen at Fort Saint George, and that a Letter be written to them as follows:

To the Honourable Charles Smith, Esquire, President, &c. Select Committee, Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Having long fince received Information of the Hostilities and Depredations committed by Hyder Ally Cawn on the Territories belonging to the Dutch at or adjacent to Cochin, and taking into Confideration the Circumstance of his being at present engaged in open War against them, together with the Necessity of defeating his ambitious Designs upon the Carnatic, and preserving, as far as in us lies, the Possessity of the Company and the Nabob, we have, with the Advice and Suggestion of Mr. Ross, Director and Governor of the Dutch East India Company in Bengal, prepared the Drast of a Treaty of Alliance between the English and Dutch East India Companies and the Nabob Wallajah Bahader, upon such Terms as we have every Reason to hope will be accepted. But as the Time which would be required for receiving an Answer from the Superior Government of Batavia, respecting its Ratification of, and final Assent to the Treaty, would entirely frustrate the Ends of it, which are immediate Assistance, we have resolved to make our Application direct to the Governments of Columbo and Cochin, for which Purpose we have affixed our Seals and Signatures to the Treaty, declaring it to be binding on our Parts; and we request, that on the Receipt of it you will use all possible Expedition in dispatching it to those Governments, having first tendered it to the Nabob and obtained his Assent to it. You will be pleased to accompany this Tender with an Apology to the Nabob from us, for having introduced his Name into the Treaty without the Sanction of his Approbation; but as this Step would have been attended with too tedious a Process, and would have opened a Channel for Negociation and Correspondence, which would have impeded the instant haccution of the Measure proposed, upon which in this critical Moment so much depends, we trust he will perceive the Impossibility of our previous Application to him, which otherwise a proper Attention and Respect to him would not have suffered us to omit.

In the Event of a Refusal on the Part of the Nabob, we desire you will represent in the strongest Terms to him the Nature of his Situation, and the indispensable Obligation he is under of making common Cause with the Company, less to secure their Possessions than his own from the Encroach ments of the Enemy—that his very Existence is now at Stake—that he is more a Principal in the War than ourselves—that it is not by any Means which can be surnished by him, or by any Resources or Treasure of his, that the Carnatic is to be saved and defended, but by the Wealth of Bengal, and the Blood of British Subjects sacrificed in its Service; that therefore we expect his Assent to the Treaty, and urge it as a just Claim which we have upon him, in return for the Protection which he has experienced at our Hands.

P P E N D I X, N° 360, 361.

We shall wait to hear the Result of your Application, not doubting that from Motives of Policy and Necessity, as well as Justice, he will accede to the Terms which we have offered in his Name.

We have appointed Mr. James Dighton to be the Bearer of our Dispatches, and have entrusted to his Care, a Copy of the Letter addressed by the Governor General to the Nabob separately, together with Copies of the Letters to the Governors of Columbo and Cochin, for your Inspection; and we request that he may be employed to proceed with the Treaty and Letters, together with such other Dispatches as you may have Occasion to add, to the Governments of Columbo and Cochin.

We rely upon your Zeal and Activity in this Business, and depend on receiving every necessary Information as early as it is in your Power.

We have the Honour to be,

Bengal Secret Consultations, 28th December 1780.

Instructions to James Peter Auriol, Esq.

HAVING given you Permission to proceed in the Ship Portland to the other Side of India, we are willing to avail ourselves of the Services which you might render to this Government during your Absence from Bengal, and have accordingly deputed you to act as our public Minister at the Portuguese Settlement of Goa on the Malabar Coast.

We enclose a Letter of Credence to you for this Purpose, and accordingly direct that you proceed to Goa with all convenient Expedition. On your Arrival there you will deliver the Letter to the Viceroy which is herewith given to you in charge, and open the Negociation with which you are intrusted.

The Insults which have repeatedly been offered to the Portuguese by our common Enemy Hyder Ally; the Friendship and Alliance which has long subsisted between their Nation and our's; and independently of this last Consideration, the Interest which they have in common with us in curbing an Encrease of Power in that ambitious Chief; induce us to instruct you, as we do accordingly, to make Overtures to the Portuguese Government for an Union with us in distressing Hyder Ally, by sending a Body of Forces into his Country.

In Addition to the Motives which we have recited to you for the proposed Negociation, and which we direct you to use as the general Ground of your Arguments for giving it Effect, we leave it to you to endeavour to engage the Compliance of the Portuguese Government, by such further Reasons and Inducements as may occur to you at the Time; and we leave it to your Management and Discretion to obtain their Assistance in the most effectual Manner, independently of a Junction of their Troops with our Army.

You will not omit to advise us regularly of your Proceedings, and to make the same known to the President and Select Committee of Fort Saint George, as well as that of Bombay, inasmuch as may be necessary for their Information.

Fort William, 28th December 1780. We are, Sir, Your most obedient Servants, (Signed) Warren Hastings, Governor General.

APPENDIX, Nº 362.

Bengal Secret Consultations, 3d October 1780.

THE Commander in Chief delivers in the following Minute from Sir Eyre Coote.

Minute from Sir Evre Coote. The great Loss of Troops upon the Coast, of which we have daily Confirmation, and the dispirited Situation to which those remaining are reduced, will render the small Number now going by Sea very inadequate to the Service expected, unless supported by a Detachment of Sepoys to march by Land into the Circars; the Defence of which must now be extremely weakened by the Necessity there must have been of drawing the Troops stationed for their Defence towards the Presidency: I therefore propose that 6 or 8 Battalions of Sepoys with their Guns, and One Company of Artillery, be ordered to be in Readiness to march through the Cuttack Road towards Madras; and the Order for their March to depend upon the Hopes we have given us, that the Maratta Army now lying there will either join us or return; as without this, or a Peace concluded with the Marattas, I never can advise any Detachment to Troops marching from hence to the Coast.

(Signed) Eyre Coote.

Agreed to the Proposition made by the Commander in Chief.

Warren Hastings, P. Francis, Edw Wheler.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, dated 26th October 1780.

The Governor General—In Consultation the 3d October last, it was recommended by the Commander in Chief, and resolved, That 6 or 8 Battalions of Sepoys with their Guns, and One Company of Artillery, be ordered to be in Readiness to march through the Cuttack Road towards Madras; the Order for their March being to depend on the Hopes given us, that the Maratta Army now lying there will either join us or return. To form a Detachment of this Strength will require many preparatory Arrangements, which can hardly be compleated in less Time than a Month, or perhaps Six Weeks, from its first Formation. The fair Season is now begun, and the Answers from the Government of Berar to our late Dispatches must be expected much within the Course of the ensuing Month: If these are favourable, the Detachment ought not to lose an Instant after their Arrival in commencing its March. I myself have every Reason to believe that their Answer will be as favourable as we can wish: These Reasons I shall now communicate to the Board. In the mean Time I move, That Orders be immediately issued for forming the Detachment, and that it do consist of One Company of Artillery and Six Battalions of Sepoys with their Guns. I take the Liberty to recommend, that Lieutenant Colonel Pearse be appointed to the Command of this Detachment, and Major Edmondstone to be the Second in Command. The First of these Recommendations I can venture to assure the Board will be agreeable to the Commander in Chief, and that it was his Intention to have offered it himself: The Second proceeds solely from my Opinion of the Qualifications of Major Edmondstone, whom I know only as an Ossicer, neither is he acquainted with my present Wishes upon this Subject.

If the Board shall approve of those Propositions, I further beg Leave to suggest the Expediency of replacing the Number which will be thus taken from our Native Infantry, by such Means as shall be judged the most effectual and least burthensome in their Expence; that which has occurred to me, and which I submit to the Consideration of the Board, is to augment all the Battalions which remain, by an equal Number of Rank and File distributed amongst them, to be hereafter drafted and formed into regular Battalions of the established Strength, when they shall be required for actual Service. This Expedient, if the Board approves it, may be referred to the Provincial Commander in Chief, and his Opinion upon it desired; or in place of it, any other which he may judge more suitable to the End proposed.

The Governor General lays before the Board for their Perusal, a Translation of a Letter from Maha Raja Moodajee Boosla, received on the 20th Instant; and of a Letter from Dewangur Pundit, the Maha Raja's Dewan, to Beneram Pundit, referred to in it.

Mr. Wheler—I agree to the forming of the Detachment now proposed by the Governor General, (in consequence of the Resolution of the 3d Instant) in order that it may be in Readiness to act as we may judge proper, after receiving the Advices that are expected from the Government of Berar. I accede to the Wishes of the Commander in Chief in the Appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Pearse to the Command of this Detachment, and to the Governor General's Recommendation of Major Edmonstone to the Second in Command. I also agree to refer to the Provincial Commander in Chief the Expedient proposed roposed by the Gyvernor General, respecting the Number of Sepoys which will be taken from the resent Strength of our Military Establishment by this Measure.

Mr. Francis-Mr. Wheler has so exactly pressed what I meant to say, that I shall content myself ith subscribing to the same Answer to the Governor General's Motion.

Agreed, That Orders be immediately issued for forming a Detachment to proceed over Land toards Madras: That the same do consist of One Company of Artillery and Six Battalions of Sepoys ith their Guns; and that Brigadier General Stibbert be directed to carry this Resolution into Exe-

Agreed, That Lieutenant Colonel Pearse be appointed to the Command of the Detachment, and Major Edmonstone to be Second in Command of it.

The following Letter is written to Brigadier General Stibbert.

Having thought it necessary to resolve on detaching a considerable Force towards Madras, and having this Day determined that the same shall consist of One Company of European Artillery and Six Battalions of Sepoys with their Guns, we request that you will immediately issue Orders for carryng this Resolution into Effect. The Command of this Detachment is given to Lieutenant Colonel Pearle, and the Post of Second in Command of it to Major Edmondstone.

Deeming it expedient that the Numbers taken from the Native Infantry by this Measure should be replaced, and by Means the most effectual and least burthensome in their Expence, it has occurred to us that such Purpose might be best effected in an Augmentation of the Battalions that remain, by an equal Number of Rank and File distributed amongst them, to be hereaster drafted and formed into regular Battalions of the established Strength whenever they shall be required for actual Service. On this Expedient we defire your Opinion, or in the place of it, that you will offer any other which you may judge more fuitable to the End proposed.

Read the following Letters from Brigadier General Stibbert.

Gentlemen,

I was Yesterday honoured with your Letter of the 6th Instant, informing me of your Resolution to detach towards Madras One Company of European Artillery and Six Battalions of Sepoys with their Guns, &c. desiring me to issue immediately the necessary Orders for carrying this Measure into

Your Instructions I beg you will be affured shall be obeyed with all possible Dispatch; but as you have omitted acquainting me where you would chuse to have the Detachment assembled, I find myself necessitated to retard my Proceedings till you shall be pleased to satisfy me on this Head.

In the mean Time, I hold it my Duty to state to you the Strength of the Forces at present stationed at Fort William, and the other Parts of Bengal, from which the Detachment ordered must necesfarily be formed.

P P E N D I X, N 362, 363.

Should it be urged that the Recruits ordered to be levied will supply the Place of the Trootis designed to be detached, I must observe, that it will be impossible, let the Care and Attention of the Officers be ever so unremitted, to discipline and train these Recruits, so as to render them sit for the tual Service in less (to speak within Bounds) than Six or Eight Months; respecting the Mode eligible to be purfued in railing and forming these Levies, I shall do myself the Honour of addressing the Board in a separate Letter.

On the other Hand, there appears to me no less Difficulty in the Measure of strengthening the Force below by the Recall of so considerable a Part of the Troops stationed in the Vizier's Provinces, and beyond the Jumna, as One Company of European Artillery, the Two Regiments of Cavalry, and Six Battalions of Sepoys, which I find to have been the Proposition of Sir Eyre Coote: For I submit it to the Board, whether it would be expedient or proper to reduce the Army in that Quarter so materially, at a Time when all Accounts agree in representing that Nudjiss Cawn is making great Preparations for taking the Field, when the Seiks are in Motion, and when it is considently said, that Madhajee Scindia is fetting on Foot an Expedicion towards Gualior and the adjacent Country. Such being the apparent Situation of Affairs, I must offer it as my Opinion, that having a Regard to the Security of the upper Provinces, and to the Maintenance of our Consequence in that That or the Country, we cannot withdraw from thence, at this critical Period, a greater Body of Troops than will be sufficient to assist in the Defence of Patna and the Bahar Province.

I cannot conclude this Address without declaring to the Board my Apprehensions that the Appointment of the Commandant of Artillery to the Command of the Detachment ordered to be formed for marching towards Madras, being a Thing unprecedented, will occasion much Discontent among the Field Officers of Infantry, who from the Usage of the Service will be led to consider it as an Infringement of their Rights, if not a Resection on their military Talents.

Fort William, 29th October 1780. I have the Honour to be, &c. G. Stibbert.

P. S. I have been prevented from fending my Letter in till this Day, by being obliged to wait for a Return of the Third Regiment; and at last have been under the Necessity of making use of one for July last. If the Board approve of it, the Detachment may be assembled at Manurgur, near Midnapore.

G. Stibbert.

APPENDIX, N° 363.

From Moodajee Boosla; dated the 16th Zehiedja: Received the 9th January 1781.

YOUR agreeable Letter, acquainting me that the Sincerity of my Attachment and Friend-fhip, and of my Advice and Proposals, was fully known to you, after you had understood, from the Representations of Beneram Pundit and the English Translations, the Contents of my friendly Letters; and that you had, in consequence of your knowing the Necessity of the Times and Circumstances, settled all Matters in the most prudent and advisable Manner with Row Pundit Purdhaun on this Condition, That I should become Guarantee to the Durability of the Treaty on both Sides: That you had therefore fent Three Copies of a Treaty for my Ratification: And after recounting the Articles, you mention that I must first put my Seal on them as Guarantee, together with the Seal and Signature of my confidential Minister, and then, having informed you and the Council of it, must send them to Poona: That when the Rulers and Chiefs of that Place shall in the same Manner have put their Seals and Signatures to them, they are to keep One of the Copies, and to fend the other Two to the Governor of Bombay and General Goddard, that every Matter may be amicably fettled, and the War entirely stopped. You further mention the Particulars of Hyder Ally Khan, and his Friendship and Alliance with the French, the confirmed Enemies of the English: That your sole Attention was taken up with preparing for repelling and punishing them in a proper Manner: That this Enmity to Row Pundit Purdhaun is of long and ancient Standing; and that if he increases his Power and Strength in this Manner, he will by Degrees destroy their Kingdom: That it is therefore most advisable for them to station a considerable Force under a Commander of Experience and Trust with the English Army, by which Means the Pride and Presumption of Hyder will be reduced, and whatever Treasure or Country may be taken from him shall be divided equally between both Parties; that the fuffering to confiderable an Enemy to acquire Strength, without any * Attempts to depress him, would most certainly give rise to great Losses and Disputes. This Letter arrived in a lucky Hour, and by removing my former Anxiety and Expectations, gave me mex-preffible Pleature, and added confiderably Friendship. The Advances which you have made are highly commendable among Persons who have great and important Objects in View, and are calculated to infure the Peace and Satisfaction of the People, and put an End to the Labours and Districtes of the Soldiers; and the taking the Resolution of sending the Treaty, is a compleat Proof of your Friendship and Sincerity. From the first, down to the present Time, the present Hostilities and Disputes were not from your Inclination or Wish; but whatever was done originated from the Governor of Bombay; and in that case, there being no other Remedy, you were compelled to exert yourself for the remedying it, and for the Preservation of your Possessions and the Desence of every thing dear. By the Bleffing of God, your good Intentions are well known to the whole Wolld. As before the Arrival of the Treaty I had received repeated Intelligence by the successive Letters from that Quarter of your Intentions for Peace on the Part of the Company, and that the Treaty would be fent afterwards, my Desire was, that as soon as the Treaty should arrive, I should send my Minister, Dawargur Pundit, for the Purpose of settling this Matter, that every Article might be determined agreeable to my Wishes, and at no future Time any Disagreement about a single Letter might arise: But when I had perused the Treaty, and had reslected on the several Articles of it with the most attentive Consideration, I discovered some Points which were contrary to the Treaty of Colonel Upton, in so considerable a Degree that the Poona Ministers will never give their Assent to them; for if there are some few Things in it which I cannot approve of, how can they ever be expected to confent? and what I myself do not comprehend, how should I explain to another? I have therefore delayed affixing my Seal and Signature to it, but have carefully kept it with me. To the Variations of the Times and the Revolutions of the Heavens it is entirely owing, that although you were sincere and approved of Peace and Friendship on every Condition, yet such Delays and Obstructions have arisen in the Matter, that the Business of To day has been put of till To-morrow, and what was approaching to a Conclusion has been delayed to a future Time; but where there is a Steadfastness, Faith, and Sincerity, there is no room for any Prevarication, but that of the Times and Circumstances, to raise such Obstructions as it is impossible to prevent. Thus from the Distance of the Road Three Months have elapsed entirely in the coming and going of the Cossids, otherwise the Refusal and Assent of all the Articles of the Treaty on your Part, through the Mediation of this Government, would not have met with these Delays, and every thing would have been settled in the best Manner. As it does not feem to me advisable that the War should be suffered to extend on every Side, and as my friendly Heart has on all Occasions and in all Situations wished to perform the Duties and Obligations of Friendship, I have therefore, in Antwer to every Article of the Treaty which you have fent, wrote fully and explicitly in such a Manner as was proper, and as my Friendship, Faith, and Regard to Treaties required, so that the Intents of former Treaties might not be srustated, and that I might not seem partial to either Side; these Answers having been prepared in my Presence, are written on a detached Paper, from which you will gain compleat Information: Nothing in that is new or innovating, but all conformable to former Agreements. In case of a Peace, it is necessary for both Parties to give up all Places agreeable to ancient Treaties, whether acquired before or in the When you shall have done what is requisite, the other Side will likewise perform their present War. When you shall have done what is requisite, the other Side will likewhe perform their present with the present their Engagements. In Answer to what you write respecting Ragonaut Row, Part, agreeable to their Engagements. In Answer to what you write respecting Ragonaut Row, Futty Sing Guicawar, and Ranna of Gohud, it is certainly incumbent on all Persons who have any Futty Sing Guicawar, and Ranna of Gohud, it is certainly incumbent on all Cases for the Assistance of Paputation to exert themselves in all Cases for the Assistance of th Regard for their Word, their Honour, or Reputation, to exert themselves in all Cases for the Assistance of any one who takes Refuge under the Shadow of their Protection, that it may be known to the whole World, that whoever throws himself on the Protection of the English Gentlemen, will through their Aid attain the Completion of his Views; and that whatever distressed Person they will take by the Hand, they will place safely on the Shore from the troubled Sea of War: This is without Doubt the Usage of the World. But where the Standard of Treaties and Engagements has been erected, and a Person has been pitched upon for Guarantee, and entrusted with the equal balancing of Interests, it then becomes incumbent on that Guarantee to do nothing that is not confistent with his Faith and Word, or that may feem partial to either Party, but to remove all Suspicions and Doubts, to keep firm to the Truth, by faying and writing nothing but the Truth, and by exerting himself in settling the Arguments of both Sides: Why therefore should we make Hesitation in the delivering up Ragonaut Row to the Poona Ministers, agreeable to former Treaties, under Pietence of his being the Master where he chuses to reside; since it is much more advisable to put an End to all Disputes, and since the Ministers of Poona will never fail in the smallest Point of Respect, Attention, and careful Treatment to one of their illustrious Family. Futty Sing Guicawar is likewise a Branch of the Rauge, and is besides protected by you; his Concerns will therefore certainly be attended to equally with those of a Brother: And as to the Ranna of Gohud, conformable to what you write, no Spark of Enmity against him will remain in their Minds; why should you therefore take any Trouble in their Affairs? Let it be written in the Treaty, that on this Condition it is binding, otherwise that it is void. Enter therefore on this Matter with the greatest Sincerity, and do not put any more Refusals in it, but prepare and fend me a Treaty agreeable to the enclosed separate Sheets, in which there is a full Difcussion, and a Plan for a Treaty at the Foot of each Article; you will thus remove the Responsibility REP. VI.

from yourself to me: And if the Poona Ministers should not then agree and affent to it, you will not be blamed. What is to happen will happen. The Short of it is this; that I have at all Times and in all Situations been refolved to observe and attend to your Wishes, even above those of the Council and of the Chiefs stationed in the other Presidencies. God is Witness that I am in no Instance partial or inclined to the other Side. You will from the Friendship and Knowledge of Events and Circumstances approve of what I have written.

The Treaty which you have fent me, I have kept with the greatest Care and Caution, and will foon return it, together with my Answers to all your Kareetahs. Further Particulars you will lead from the Representations of Beneram Pundit.

Postscript. As to what you have written from the Excess of your Friendship, that a considerable Army has been fent to Madras under the Command of General Coote, and that it is necessary 1 should write to Shimdojee Bhosila, directing him to join 2 or 3000 Horse with the General, which would be a great Addition of Strength; or should it not be convenient to spare this Force, that in fuch Case I ought to recall the Army which is arrived at Cuttack; the Fact is this: Of the State of all Matters, and of the full Particulars of this Quarter, not one Article is unknown to you; and I myself have so often written them to you that they cannot be secret to you. I'll Peace shall have been settled, and the Treaty finally ratified, I cannot adopt either of these Proposals; but when I shall have assembled there an Army of 50,000 Horse, with all Stores and Necessaries, I may then fend an Army to join General Coote, or recall it altogether from thence. This Matter will be more fully explained to you by Beneram Pundit. Be convinced, that in all Circumstances and Situations I shall be your stedfast Friend.

Till Peace is finally settled, it is absolutely necessary for me to act in the above Manner.

The Answer to the First Article.

" All the Forts, Towns, and Places belonging to Pundit Peishwah, which may have been taken, or shall be taken by the English Army, from the Beginning of the War till the Ratification of the Treaty, shall be delivered over to the Peishwah, except the Fort of Ahmedabad, and the Share of the Country of Guzerat, which shall remain in the Possession of Futty Sing Guicawar; and the Fort of Gevalior, which shall remain in the Possession of the Ranna of Gohud, and no one shall oppose it."

This requires some Consideration, and I request you will restect with Justice on what I say: When a Town and Fort has been from Time immemorial in the Possession of the Family and Chiefs of Pundit Purdhaun, and Futty Sing is one of the ancient Dependants of the Family of the Rauje, what The Nature of his Connection was this; Connection can he have with the English Gentlemen? that when General Goddard arrived in the Province of Guzerat with a respectable Army, Futty Sing with his whole Family was in Bedodah; but having no Power or Strength to oppose his Enemies or defend his Property, he being remediless, joined himself with General Goddard, and at this Time has sent several Letters to Poona; that having no Resource at that Time, except the Protection and Assistance of the English, he had therefore united himself with them. Before this, respecting the Reconciliation of the Two Brothers who had began Disputes and Hostilities about the Division of their Talooks, I wrote in the Articles of the Memorandum, that as Futty Sing had taken Part with you, it would be necessary for both Sides to exert themselves for the Reconciliation of the Two Brothers, when their Talooks might remain to both of them in Security. You must therefore write respecting them in the Treaty, that Futty Sing is a Chief and Dependant of the other Party, and had joined you solely from the Necessities of the Times; that as Peace and Alliance has taken Place between the Two Parties, it is incumbent on Friendship to forget all the past, and that the Two Brothers having been reconciled, must be made to remain peaceable and quiet as before, on their Shares of Jaghires, which will be greatly to your Satisfaction, and to the Completion of your The same must be written respecting the Ranna of Gohud, who has always been a Dependant and Expectant on the Peshwah, and who has now, by the Assistance of the English, got Posfession of the Fort of Gevalior, which is of such Strength that the Ministers of Poona can never permit or suffer to remain quietly in his Hands: Therefore, towards procuring Peace it is necessary that both Sides, for the maintaining of former Articles, restore all the Places which they may have taken of whatever Strength they may be; and let it be mentioned, that on the Subject of the Ranna no further Misunderstandings shall remain, since the Friends of one Side are likewise the Friends of the other Party.

The Second Article.

"Towards the Support and strengthening the Peace and the Interest of both Sides, that on future Occasion no Disputes or Misunderstandings may arise, it is agreed, That in case the Fort of Bassein shall have been taken by the English Army before the final Ratification of the Treaty, should Pundit Purdhaun chuse to exchange it for the Mahals which have been given up to the Company, and in their Possession, agreeable to the 3d and 7th Articles of the Treaty of Poorunder, conformable to the former Treaty entered into by the Governor General and Council of Bombay with Futty Sing Guicawar; but should Pundit Purdhaun not chuse to exchange, we will then, agreeable to your First Article of this Treaty, deliver up the Fort of Bassein to Pundit Purdhaun; and the Country delivered up to us by the Treaty of Poorunder shall remain in our Possession."

The Case is this; that I frequently have seen the Treaty of Colonel Upton, and have often wrote the Particulars of it, but never yet heard that the Treaty of Poorunder was made conformable to a former

former Treaty entered into by the Governor and Council of Bombay with Futty Sing Guicawar, that it should now be mentioned. What has the Treaty of Futty Sing to do with the Treaty of the Peshwa? or, what Connection can Dirt have with a Person of Distinction? Futty Sing is one of the Dependants and Chiefs of the Rauje; if he chuses to deliver over by Writing to any one, the Towns and Forts belonging to the Rauje, how can it be agreed to? or what Authority and Voucher is that, that it will be affented to? Whatever the Owner and Poffessor of the Country gives in Writing, that alone is binding.

Amonis Case, therefore, it is necessary that all Mahals and Places in the Province of Guzerat, Cokan, and other Parts which formerly belonged to Pundit Purdhaun, and which have been taken in the present War, should all be delivered up; and besides, if the Fort of Bassein should be taken, that also must be restored to the People of Pundit Purdhaun. But do not insist upon these Points, which are difficult to be affented to ; for these bring with them a Breach of former Treatics, and can never be agreed to. Abide entirely by the Engagements of Colonel Upton, and restore every Thing which has been taken in this War, or may be taken before the final Ratification of the Treaty; that the Tree of Friendship may blossom with the Flowers of Sincerity, and that the Thorn of Ennity may be removed. It is not wife to add a little to a large Treasure.

Third Article.

" After faying that Ragonauth Row shall be allowed for his Expences during his Life, according to the former Agreement, you write " That what was settled in the former Treaty respecting the Place of his Residence shall be void; that he shall reside wherever he may chuse, except in Bombay and Surat; that you will never assist him in any Claim on the Maratta Government, unless all the Chiefs who fign the Treaty should agree to it and desire it."

The Case is this: When he had been taken Prisoner in the Bombay War, at that Time no Neglect or Deficiency was found in the Respect, Attention, and good Treatment of him. At present, that he comes under the Protection of so great a Chief, what Refusal can they make to supply his necessfary Expences? But giving him Power to refide wherever he likes, which would be certainly attended with Losses and Damage to all Quarters, can never be admitted of; and in what Light can your Letters on this Subject be considered? At the Time of making Peace and Treaties, the Door of Disa-greements is closed and not left open. How can the former Treaty be rendered void? From his having this Liberty great Damage may be expected; for should he ever under the Protection of Hyder Naig join himself with a French Army, it would be attended with great Inconveniences to both Sides. The greatest Circumspection is requisite. Nothing more need to be mentioned respecting Ragonauth Row, except the delivering him up to the Poona Ministers, agreeable to the former Treaty. The Article relating to the Assistance of him, in case all the Chiefs who may sign the Treaty should defire it, is likewise unnecessary.

The Fourth Article. " Pundit Purdhaun, and the other Maratta Chiefs, shall enter into an Alliance with the English, and shall in Conjunction with their Army attack Hyder Ally Khan, both for the Protection of their own Country and for the Conquest of his: They shall invade his Country with the English Army, and shall mutually join for his Destruction. Whatever Portion of Country may be conquered from him Cally and the Conquest of his conquered from the Cally and the Cally are the conquered from the Cally and the Cally are the conquered from the Cally are the conquered from the Cally are the call are the conquered from the Cally are the call are the ca him shall be equally shared, in such a Manner that they shall take what borders on their Country, and the English shall possess what lies near theirs and the Nabob Wallanjaw's."

The Answer to this is as follows: When after the Bombay War Ragonauth Row had been taken Prisoner, and had been delivered in Charge to Madajee Row Scindia, who sent him under Care of a confidential Servant of his to Ugeen, in the Way to which Place he found an Opportunity, and escaping to Surat, was a Second Time taken under the Protection and Assistance of the English. At that Time my Minister Dewargur Pundit, who was at Poona, was asked by the Ministers of the Peishwa his Advice, that for many Years Hyder Naig had not paid the smallest Part of the Peshcush due to them, and had besides possessed himself of some of their Mahals; that after the End of the Bombay War, there being some Prospect of Tranquillity and Peace, by Ragonauth Row's being brought to them, they had resolved to send an Army of great Strength against Hyder Naig, and to reduce his Violence; but that when General Goddard had arrived at Surat, and Ragonauth Row had returned to him, and was preparing to renew the War at that Time, how could they hope to be able to oppose Two fuch powerful Enemies, and maintain themselves against Two such violent Attacks? The Pundit told them in Answer, That they should enter into a friendly Correspondence and Connection with the one who was an English Chief, Supreme over all the Possessions of the English, and who was unequalled in his Prudence, Foresight, Faith, Sincerity, and Observance of Treaties, (namely, the Nabob Amaud ul Dowlah) and then engage in vigorous Measures against the other (Hyder Naig) and either entirely destroy him, or take from him the Money and Talooks which they want. The Minister agreeing to the Advice, sent Letters and confidential Persons to General Goddard successively, on the Subject of Peace and Alliance; and at that Time Letters from the General were likewise received, full of Expressions and Promises of Friendship, and saying that they ought to ascribe Ragonauth Row's being admitted to reside with him, to no other Reason but his (the General's) Friendship for them, to prevent Ragonauth's applying to any other Quarter; that if they wished it, he would come in Person to meet them, and fettle every thing in a personal Conference. At that Time certainly this Matter would have been settled to mutual Advantage, and many Points of Consequence would have been properly adjusted by personal Agreements and Consultations. But of every thing which the General had written, not one came to pass; for neither did he find Leisure to come himself to Poona, nor did he enter into Negociations with the confidential Agents fent to him, nor did he pay any Attention to the Letters of Dewargur Pundit: In short, Affairs at last ended in open War and Hostilities, and it became necessary for them, having lost so sincere a Friend, to unite themselves with their old and established Enemy; and they, after mature Consideration, agreed to this desperate Remedy, and having entered into friendly Connections with him, fettled every Matter agreeable to his Plan and Propofals. As the Opportunity which is once suffered to escape can never be recovered, it is a Matter of some Sorrow, that now when Peace might be made with the English, an Army cannot be fent into the Possessions of Hyder, in Company with the English, without being treacherous to him, and without being guilty of fuch a Breach of Faith and Engagements as to deter any other in future from trufting to or believing their most solemn Promises: This however can never be admitted by the House of Pundit Purdhaun, nor will it ever be admitted. As the Disposition of Hyder Naig is bent on Treachery and Disputes, there is no Doubt but that in a short Time he will be guilty of some Breach. of Treaty, such as uniting himself with the French, or conceiving some hostile Schemes, when immediately in consequence of such Breach they may join in the destroying him: but till he takes off the Mask and discovers such Disposition, they cannot think of any contrary to their Engagements. Leave this therefore to Time, and do not mention it in the Treaty, but wait to see when it may happen.

The Fifth Article.

"Should Pundit Peshwa not agree to form an Alliance against Hyder Naig, nevertheless Peace shall be made on this Condition, that both Sides shall remain in Possession of what they have got, and a Cessation of Hostilities shall take place for One Year from the Date of this Treaty, during which Time Peace may be settled in such Terms as to insure its perpetual Stability."

In Answer to this; what I learn from it is, that at any rate Peace and Friendship is your Wish; this is very proper and satisfactory; but a Cessation of Hostilities, without a final Competition of Peace, is not the Custom of this Country. The Practice of Europe is this, that Two Kings will set down on the same Carpet, and will play at Chess together, and their Armies will remain peaceably together, while they receive continual Accounts of each other's Intentions; and if they should put an End to all Hostilities, they agree to a Cessation for a certain Number of Years, after which they renew their Attacks and Hostilities: But this is not the Method in Decan, for whatever Engagements are entered into there, are lasting and perpetual. You must therefore write this much, That if they will join their Army with that of the English it is well, and if not it makes no Difference; that you will with your single Force attack the Enemy, but that at any rate you are desirous of Peace with the Poona State.

The Sixth Article.

"As Peace is made with Pundit Purdhaun, at the Intercession of Moodajee Bhosilah, it is necessary that he become Guarantee to it: The Treaty is therefore first sent to him, that he may certify it under the most solemn Oaths of his Religion, with his own Seal, and the Signature of his considential Minister; that he approves of the Treaty, and agrees to be Guarantee to it; that no Breach shall ever happen in it; that as long as both Sides abide by it, he will be the Friend of both; and whoever shall break it he will be his Enemy, till he shall atone for such Breach."

The State is this; that I am, without Doubt, the firm Friend of your Quarter, and likewise am a Well-wisher of Pundit Purdhaun, in Conformity to my Attachment due to the Family of the Rauje, and have taken upon me this Trouble and Exertion merely for the Ease of the People, and from my Regard to Truth and Sincerity, and my Knowledge of the Rights and Properties of every one. I likewise hoped, that upon the taking Place of the Peace and Alliance, I should attain the Completion of my Views, and should, by the Assistance of both Parties, be relieved from the Dissiculties incurred by the Expences of the new-raised Sepoys: I therefore agreed to become Guarantee and Security to both Sides, and whichever should have failed in his Part of the Obligation, I should first attempt to make him sensible of his Fault, and if that failed, I should then, to the utmost of my Abilities, punish him for it, and not be reconciled to him till such Time as he returned to his Duty. But what you have written in the Treaty, that you have agreed to this Peace to give me Satisfaction, is by no Means necessary. This only need be mentioned, that I am Guarantee and Security of this Treaty to both Parties, and that whichever Side shall be guilty of any Breach of it, I shall continue his Enemy till he has made Atonement for it, and has remedied such Breach of Treaty.

The Seventh Article.

"Three Copies of this Treaty are fent; after they shall arrive at Poona, Ballajee Row Purnaveese and the other Chiefs having affixed their Seals and Signatures on them, shall keep One of them, and shall send the Second to the Governor of Bombay, and the Third to General Goddard, that the War and Hostilities may immediately cease, and every Matter be finally settled. Should this Peace be finished, and the Treaty agreed to, within Five Months from the Date of it, it is well, otherwise it shall be altogether void."

In Answer to this, the Distance from Calcutta to Poona is 900 Cos; and besides, the Discussion and Explanation, Assent and Denial of the important Articles in the Treaty, are in hand; why therefore should the Dates and Times be circumscribed? and why is this Clause mentioned, that if it is concluded

Concluded within fuch particular Time it is binding, otherwise that it will be void. I have kept the Treaties by me with the greatest Caution, and have tent off these Letters to you. After the Receipt of your explicit Answers the Treaties shall be sent to that Quarter. Set your Mind at rest. In short. I have with the greatest Attention and Care made myself thoroughly acquainted with all the Articles, and have understood all the good and bad of them, and have written whatever was consistent with my Regard to the Rights and Obligations of both Sides. What might prevent the Interests from preponderating might perpetuate the Verdure of the Garden of Friendship, and keep off the Blast of the mipping Winds. This you must read and consider with Justice, and not think me in the smallest Digital partial to the Interests of Pundit Purdhaun, for a faithful Guarantee must always have Regard to his Oaths and Engagements, and in all Cases consider the Interests and Advantages of both Sides: You will therefore, agreeable to these separate Sheets, prepare and fend a Treaty without any Addition or Diminution, that my Minister, Dewargur Pundit, may be sent to Poona, and settle every Point agreeable to your Desire, when, from the Opportunity of the Times and friendly Connection between us, many and great Advantages will be derived.

From Dewagur Pundit.

I received your Letter in a lucky Hour, in which you write, that, &c. (the same Recapitulation as the one in the Maha Raja's Letter.) The Instant that I saw it, my Heart selt an immediate and surprising Satisfaction from the Hopes and Prospest of a secure and peaceable Future for the People; for by the speedy End to all the Cruelties and Oppressions of the Armies, the Repose which the Chiefs would find from their former continual Occupations, the Attachment of many and great Advantages to both Sides by the Connection between them, the raising your Reputation among all the other Chiefs of the Council and the English Gentlemen, and even in the Sight of the powerful King of England; and the Hopes of a perpetual and lasting Friendship and Connection between Pundit Peisswa, the Rajah my Master, and the English Gentlemen, by an equal Balance of Interests, I immediately conceived the Desire of departing instantly express, that having opened the Papers on the Road, I might arrive in 10 Days at Poona, and deliver the Treaty with my own Hands, and settle the Basis of it with the Ministers of Poona in such a solid Manner, that on no Occasion any Alteration or Desect might ever happen: And after I should have adjusted those important Points are sense to your Intentions, I might get my Dismission to go to Calcutta, where, being honoured with an Interview with you, I might inform you of every Thing which from a long Time has been upon my Mind respecting the true political Measures.

But afterwards reflecting that it was not advisable for me to be in such Haste before I had fully understood all the Contents of the Papers, I opened them in the Presence of the Maha Raja, when all the Karetas, Letters, Copies, and Treaties, were perufed with the greatest Attention and Care, First, they convinced us of your great Truth and Sincerity, and that you never, from the Beginning to this Time, were inclined to the present Disputes and Hostilities; and next, that you have not included in the Articles of the Treaty any of your Wishes or Inclinations; and, in short, the Garden of the Treaty appeared to us in all its Parts green and flourishing, but though the Fruit of it was excellent, yet they appeared different from those of Colonel Upton's Treaty (the Particulars of which I have frequently written to you) and upon tasting them, proved to be bitter and very different when compared to the former Articles. How can any of the old and established Obligations be omitted, and new Matters agreed to, when it is plain that they will produce Losses and Damages? Some Points which you have mentioned under the Plea of the Faith and Observance of Treaties, are of fuch a Nature that the Poona Ministers can never affent to them: In all Engagements and important Transactions, in which the Words But, and Although, and Besides, and Whereas, and Why, and other such Words of Doubt, are introduced, it gives an Opening to Disputes and Misunderstandings. A Treaty is meant for the entire Removal of all Differences, not for Encrease of them. My Departure to Poona has therefore been delayed; and the Rajah my Matter likewise having put off the affixing his Seal, faid, that although he was determined to fign the Treaty as Guarantee agreeable to your Letter, yet he could not suffer that after his Seal should have been affixed, it should be rejected by the others; that he mull therefore consider maturely before he signs the Treaty, that no one may afterwards make Objections to any Part of it; and if after having laboured to explain it to them, to fatisfy them, and bring them over, they should in any Manner not comprehend it, or join in it, we may then make use of that as a sufficient Reason to act against them; but before we can be able to anfwer all their Questions and Doubts we must first comprehend thoroughly ourselves. Although these Lines which you have written in your Kharetas with the greatest Truth and Sincerity, that such Haste was not your Question, but that from certain Circumstances you have, agreeable to the Advice of this Quarter, dispatched a Treaty with all Expedition, in which you have restored every Thing taken in this War, and placed all Matters on the same Footing they were before the War, are very proper and friendly, and entirely conforming to the Articles of Colonel Upton's Treaty, is consistent with the present Interests and suture Advantages, and will insure the Perpetuity and Friendship, and render REP. the Guarantee of my Master, the Maha Rajah, more secure; yet there is no Remedy for the Variations of the Times, which always produce a hundred successive Events of the same Kind, and in the Settlement of all Affairs causes so many, as to endanger the Peace of the People and the Security of the Property and Possessions of both Sides. Time does every thing which he chuses, and there is not the smallest Controll over him. But your Prudence and Wildom has undertaken this Matter with a thorough Knowledge of the Influence of Circumstances. I entertain great Hopes that you will at all future Occasions attend to every thing which your old and sincere Friends may write to you, from the Sincerity and Friendship of their Hearts, and without the smallest Partiety the other Side, and by the Bleffing of God our Alliance and Intimacy will go on encreasing: But No. great Distance of 800 Coss from Calcutta to Naigpore, and from Naigpore to Poona, which makes Two Months, and to Poona Three Months, necessary for the going and returning of Cossids, cannot be What can I do? I am a Man and have neither Feathers nor Wings. The Ground is hard, and the Heavens are far off: I am unluckily far removed from the Presence: Had I been near you, I should before this have informed you of every Particular relating to this Business, and have adjusted every thing to your Satisfaction; the Treaty would have been prepared in the best avianner, and great and many Advantages would have been derived from it, and I should have acquired univerfal Praife. Even at present I am exerting myself to the utmost of my Power, in promising what is incumbent on my Attachment, and am defirous of speedily bringing to a Settlement whatever Pundit Purdhaun may propose conducive to a thorough Reconciliation: I have therefore kept the Treaty with the greatest Care and Caution in my Possession, and having taken a Copy of it, I have added to each Article another which appeared to me proper and advisable, and without any Loss or Disadvantage to the English, or any thing more in favour of the Pundit Purdhaun, than what was contained in the former Treaties: This I have fent to you, and hope that you will prepare and fend a Treaty conformable to that, without any Besides, or If, or Why, or But, and Whereas, that as soon as it arrives I may depart from Poona; and having united with me Row Madajee Scioliah, and having brought over the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah to this Business, I may settle and adjust all Matters which are in this bad Situation. As foon as I have received my Dismission from thence I would set off for Calcutta, and represent to you every thing which for a long while I have had on my Mind; and by this Transaction erect to the View of all the World the Standard of the Greatness and Goodness of the English, and of my Master, and extinguish the Flames of War with the Waters of Friendship. The compassing all these Advantages and happy Prospects depends entirely upon your Will and Consent, and the Power of bringing them to an Issue is in your Hands alone. Further Particulars you will learn from my Letter to Beneram Pundit.

Translation of a Letter from Maha Rajah Moodajee Boosla to Beneram Pundit; dated the 16th Zeheidga.

I have lately received 8 Arzies from you. The first Two which arrived informed me that the Nabob had told you he resolved to enter into a Treaty with Pundit Purdhaun under my Guarantee and Security, but that the Articles which you had proposed did not meet with his Affent; that Dewan Dewargur Pundit need not take the Trouble of coming to Calcutta; and that you were not likely to come or go as you might chuse. After this One or Two more Letters arrived, acquainting me that the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah had held a Council, at which he told you he was determined on Peace. Three other Letters I received with the Treaty. As you had at first written that you was greatly affected by that Convertation, and withed to retire to Benares, I wrote in confequence of that to Hydrabad, to Poona, and to Cuttack: About 10 Days afterwards I received your Letters, informing me that Peace had been determined on, and all Doubts removed; and I learnt the Contents of the Treaty from the Persian Copy of it. In the First Place, what regards Ragonauth Row is written in an infincere Manner. Where Friendship is wished for, and is under Discussion, no Word admitting of Doubt or Infincerity ought to be used, and every Article ought to be written without the smallest Obscurity: I have therefore not thought it advisable to send my Minister Dewargur Pundit 10 Poona with the Treaty. But if every Article of the Treaty had been plain and free from Doubts, the Dewan would certainly have been fent to Poona to employ himself for the Completion of Peace. This could not however be done; and the Length of Time, which from the great Distance of the Way is requisite for the arriving of Letters and the receiving the Answers, cannot be remedied. But God is Witness of the Friendship and Affection which from my Heart I entertain for the Nabob; yet there is now no Remedy, except the Execution of the Plan which the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowla and Pundit Purdhaun have fettled. For these last 14 Months I have continually written every Occurrence and Transaction, without omitting the smallest Circumstance; and in the Kharetah which I have now written to the Nabob, I have mentioned every thing which was incumbent on my Friendship, and

E. Hay, Ade Sed":

Translation of a Letter from Dewan Dewargur Pundit to Beneram Pundit; dated the 16th Zeheidja; i. e. 13th December 1780.

I have received your successive Letters, dated the 17th, 19th, 22d, 24th, and 29th of Ramsaun, and the 1st, 7th, 21st, and 23d Shaival, and the 22d of Zekaida. First Two Letters arrived to the tollowing Purport: That the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah had told you that he was defirous of conclud-Mg & Treaty of Peace and Alliance with the Chiefs of Poona, under the Guarantee of the Maha Rajah, but that he could not assent to the Conditions proposed by us: That he had forbid my coming to Calcutta, and had told you that you were at Liberty either to stay or go; that you had accordingly for the Departure prepared. After that another Letter was received, in which you wrote, That the Nabob having held a Council, told you that he was refolved to make a Peace; and having called you into the Council, held a Confultation with you on all Matters; and afterwards faid to you in private, that as the Maha Rajah had from his great Friendship written to him Letters containing all his private Secrets, which were more facred to him than his own Life, it was therefore incumbent on him to exert himself for the Completion of Peace, and that he had accordingly prepared a Treaty with Pundit Purdhaun, under the Guarantee of the Maha Rajah, which he was dispatching, together with Karetahs from himself. . Three Karetahs and Letters accordingly arrived, and were fully understood; and we learnt from them that Money had been fent to Rajah Chimnajee Bahadre, with many other Particulars. As we first received Letters from you, acquainting us of the Treaty and Conditions not being approved of, and expressive of your Defire to go to Benares, conformably to them we wrote to the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, to Poona, &c. Ten Days afterwards other Letters were received: In them you wrote, that the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, from his great Favour, shewed you much Attention, and told you he was fettling a Peace with Pundit Purdhaun, under the Guarantee of the Maha Rajah; that he would restore Bassein and the Guicawar, and Guzerat, and the Talooks of Kullian; but that they must unite with him for an Invasion into the Country of Hyder Naig, and for his Reduction : All this we perfectly understood: And you besides wrote, that in Two or Four Days the Treaty will be prepared and dispatched. Accordingly Four Days after we received the Treaty, with Three Letters; this Treaty was written on one Side of the Paper in English, and on the other Side in Persian; and on one of these Treaties there was a Seal; the other Two were Copies without Seals. After them arrived Three more Copies of the same Treaty, and Three Karetahs, addressed to this Quarter, to Pundit Purdhaun, and to Scindia. The Contents of the Treaty we learnt from the Persian Side of it, and were fully comprehended by us. The Answers to every one of the Articles have accordingly been written to the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah. When Peace is really and fincerely wished for, it is proper to write every Arcicle without Obscurity: Had this Treaty been plain and without Doubts in all its Parts, I should then have instantly set off for Poona, where I should have explained and satisfied them on every Point. First, the Opportunity was suffered to escape, namely, when I went to Poona and wrote myfelf to General Goddard, and received his Answer; had at that Time an Interview taken Place between the General and Nanna Purnaveese, all Misunderstandings would have been cleared up, and by this Time Hyder Naig would have been so entirely ruined, that neither his Name nor any Sign of his having exitted would have remained, and Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob would have become One Soul in 1 wo Bodies. That Opportunity was loft, and as Matters were referred to the Decision of Arms, Pundit Purdhaun readily consenting to his own Disadvantage, entered into an Alliance with Hyder Naig, on this Agreement, That they should carry Ruin and Desolation into the Country of the English. And the Nabob Nizam-ul Dowlah wrote to Pundit Purdhaun, and having with him settled a Plan, brought us into this Distress against our Inclination and Wishes. Had I not agreed to this I should have been blamed for the Missortunes of the Ranjee; and I who am a Well-wisher and faithful Servant of the Ranjee, should have suffered every Reproach and Accusation. As General Goddard had arrived at Hashungabad, and Mr. Weatherstone had come to Naigpore, and they had been supplied from this Quarter with Bullocks for their Artillery, and all other Duties of Friendship had been performed, this was made use of as an Argument for blaming and accusing us; and Pundit Purdhaun openly affirmed to me, that we had a close Alliance and Friendship with the English Gentlemen : And at the same Time Monsieur Chevalier the French Chief, having escaped from Calcutta had come to Cuttack in Hopes of Protection, and Mr. Elliot who was coming to this Quarter, having arrived at Cuttack, requested him; notwithstanding that in Political Affairs it is very blame-worthy to forlake a Penon who has claimed Refuge with you, yet in Consequence of our Friendship we delivered him up: And although the Inhabitants of this Country were displeased and blamed me, yet I considered solely my Friendship, and by this I had become obnoxious and suspected. Having no Remedy I found it absolutely necessary for me to affent to the Plan, and in Consequence of that to raise 30,000 new Horsemen. It is now 14 Months that we have laboured under inexpressible Distress, and been loaded with an Expence of Crores of Rupees for the Pay of these Troops, but without endangering the Friendship and Alliance of the English Gentlemen. I was defirous to negociate a Reconciliation at any rate between them and Pundit Purchaum, I in fuch a Manner as to enfure the Perpetuity of the ancient Alliance of this Quarter with both Sides During thele 14 Months I have therefore continually informed you of all Matters, and have theat fully submitted to all Dissiculties and Distresses. But when the first Opportunity having been lost, a Treaty is at last received, even in that the Concerns of Ragonaut Row are expressed in a do ibiful and ambiguous Manner; besides which, in the Assaus of Gwalior Futty Sing Guicawar and the Ranga of Gohud, there is great Room for Disputes. The Particulars of all these Points were hir ted at large in the Perlian Letter, and are too long and tedious to be repeated here. There is a Distance of go Coss between us, and a considerable Time lost in lending Letters and receiving the Answers. unlucky Events and Circumstances I have been compelled to fend an Army under the Command of Rajah Chimnajee Bahadre; but how long am I to labour under the Difficulties and Diffresses for the Pay of the Soldiers, which is immense? Though Two or Three Lacks of Rupees have been received, of what Affistance can that be, or how does that relieve us from the Weight of the Airears? We have entered into Engagements with Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah; but that has not tended to the diminishing our Difficulties, nor can they be removed till Pundit Purdleum English Gentlemen are reconciled. The Maha Rajah has accordingly exerted and employed his utmost Abilities for this Purpose, and has written to you on the Subject; but the Event has not turned out as he wished and hoped for; and now that the Treaty is arrived, even in that there is great room We are without Resource and Remedy. God knows and is Witness whether I am for Alterations. the Friend or the Enemy of the English; but the Earth is hard, and the Heavens are far removed. The Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah is prudent and forefeeing, and all the Difficulties of every Measure are well known to him: At any rate he will not blame me, I am without the smallest Resource, and can see no Remedy. Had the English Army under General Goddard never arrived at Hoshangabad, what was then done would not have given Umbrage to the Decan People, and we should not have been compelled to send an Army to Cuttack, and to submit to such a Weight of Expence, but we should have been free and at Liberty in all Points, nor would any Difficulty have come upon us. From a Period of Twenty Years our Friendship has been daily encreasing, but from the Plan determined on by the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, which has occasioned all these Distresses, I am fallen into great Embarrassment. Had a Peace been concluded between the English and Pundit Purdhaun, I was in hopes, that from the Friendship of the Nabob, I might have requested some small Assistance, (on which Subject I accordingly wrote before, and the Nabob has kindly granted us 3 Lacks of Rupees). I also hoped that Pundit Purdhaun would likewise have given some Share, and that the Nabob Nizamul-Dowlah would certainly have contributed his Proportion, while we ourselves would have repaid the rest out of the Country of Hyder Naig. But on the contrary this Prospect has not been realized, and the Negociations are extended to an unforeseen Length: The Will of God is superior to green thing. As yet, what Advantage has accrued to this Quarter from the Name which the Maha Rajah has adopted, from all the Pains and Exertions which I have taken during the last 14 Months, and from the many Letters I have written, in which I continually style myself the firm Friend, the Friend, the Friend. Fourteen Months have now elapsed since we raised 30,000 Horsemen: If there were only paid 300 Rupees, what a large Sum it would make; but the established Allowances of this Country are 400 and 500 Rupees for each Horseman, and some have even more than that; besides which, there are large Allowances to the Jematdars and other Officers: confider then well how great the Expence of the Whole must be. Having fully understood this Matter you must explain it to the Nabob. For 14 Months we have supported ourselves, and how much longer must we wait in Expectation? It is incumbent on me to do any thing that may promise Relief from these Distresses, and if I am negligent and dilatory in executing it, the whole State will be brought into Danger. I have never been guilty of the smallest Neglect, and yet I am without Reason blamed and accused, and I have continually written all Particulars; but the Will of God is superior to every thing. The Nabob must read with Attention every Syllable of the Persian Letter which I have written to him, and must write back his Intentions. At this Time it is not advisable to send the Army in Cantonments, and still more imprudent to recall it, as nothing but Losses can be expected from acting contrary to the Plan which was determined on: Something must therefore be done. Should the Nabob think me inexcusable for writing in one Manner, and acting in a different Manner, Distress for Money is my Excuse, and for that I have no Remedy: But if I was escaped from this Whirlpool, and was able to keep myfelf alive, my fole Attention and Endeavours would certainly be employed in cultivating the Friendship of the Nabob, which I hope never to lose; or should the Nabob, forgetting this, give me the Name of Enemy, it is my Misfortune, nor can I remedy it; but still I will never give up my Friendship for him. The Expences of the Army have rendered me without Resource. War and Hostilities are going on in Two or Three different Quarters; from one of these it is necessary to be free, and at the same Time Faith and Truth are to be observed. All these Particulars you must fully explain. Like the common Story of the Villager, " If I men-"tion it, my Mother dies; if I conceal it, my Father will eat an unclean Dog;" both Causes are difficult. In the same Kind of Dilemma, which I could not foresee, am I fallen; and this the Nabob, who is unequalled in Wisdom and Prudence, must reflect upon with Justice. I write from the Dictates of my Friendship; and should the Nabob conceive different Ideas of what I wrote, I am remediless. Had the Treaty been written without Ambiguity there would have been no Occasion for all this: But it can never be consented that Ragonaut Row should remain in full Liberty to act as he pleases; for this Reason, that Madho Row Peithwa, at the Time of his Death, putting the Hand of his Brother Narain Row into the Hand of Maha Raja Ianoijce Bhosila, made them swear eternal Friendship, and that they would by all Means in their Power prevent the Connection from being broken; and Maha Raja Ianojee Bhofila procured the Release of Ragonaut Row, who was at that "Time in Confinement. The treacherous Conduct which Ragonaut afterwards observed towards Nair in Row, who had a Thousand Rights vested in himself, is well known. After the Murder of Narrain Row, the Maha Raja entered into new Engagements, "that though he could not act in any hostile Way against Ragonaut Row, yet he would never suffer him to be at Liberty to act as he should please." This therefore never can nor will be agreed to; and as it was not possible to be Segario, For fuch an Article, the Treaty has therefore not been fent to Poona, but has with Letters Len carefully kept here, and shall be dispatched on the Receipt of your Answer. How can Pundit Purdhaun at this Time act inimically against Hyder Naig? It he should, no one in the whole World would ever again confide in him, but in the Family of the Poshwa. There is no want of Faith that they should break their Engagements with a Person who solicited their Friendship; besides, at this Time Hyder Naig has, in consequence of his Connection with the Peshwa, exerted all his Abilities; they must wait till Hyder is guilty of some Infringement of his Engagements, which at present he faithfully observes. The Opportunity of this Attack, which I informed you of in the Month of Cautick, upwards of 14 Months ago, and which perhaps you recollect, or have Letters respecting, If the Plan had been executed agreeable to my Information, by this Time was suffered to escape. no Mark of him would have remained; but at present, that to maintain their Friendship he has exerted himself in this Manner, how can they act with Enmity against him? All this has proceeded from the War, and no Advantage has been derived from it. The Chief of Bombay gave Rife to these Hostilities and Enmity, and has brought Matters to this Pass; no Fault laid in the Nabob. The Nabob was compelled to protect the Honour and Reputation of the English, and had he not attended to that, it would have given Occasion to unlucky Events. All the present Cucumstances are owing folcly to his Wish to maintain his Honour. If all these Misunderstandings can be removed through the Mediation of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah or Scindiah, it makes no Difference; I am certain that the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah will now not write me any Letter for this Reason, because that Rajah Chimnajee is on the Borders of Bengal, and perhaps some Damages have been done by him, and which has given the Nabob some Displeasure. Let the Nabob think what he pleases, I am still his fincere Friend; but Misfortunes have no Remedy.

In the Hand Writing of the Dewan:

God knows what Diffresses, and how great have been the Expences of 25,000 Men, which we have raised within these 14 Months. I am now without Remedy, and am in Embarrassiment from I wo Querrer son one Sid there are Treaties and Engagements, and on the other a long and established Connection of Friendship. I know not what to do; the Nabob is wife, and is well convinced of the Variations and Ficklenels of Times and Circumstances.

Postscript, written in Persian.

You write in your Letters of the 22d and 30th of Ramzan, regarding "a Neoociation taking place for Peace; the Conferences of the Council; and that after much Ditpleature one "Governor had approved, and came into a favourable Disposition to make a Treaty to made by " the Engagements entered into by Colonel Upton, to withdraw entirely from Guzerat, the Dependencies of Surat, Cokan, and the other Places which have lately been taken Possession of, and until " a Treaty can be effected to stop all Operations." All this is extremely right and laudable, and tends to perpetual Advantages.

The Answer which you gave in the Conference with the Council and to the Governor, was extremely proper; a Hundred and a Hundred Praises. The Wishes of my Heart to establish Truth and Sincerity, and what tends to evince my Desire of promoting the Welfare of the English, have been strongly demonstrated, and will continue to be so in your Measures and Observations, which were equally prudent and wife. True it is, that Experience is the Touchstone which discovereth the Value of a Man. All is very proper, provided that the Treaty from that Quarter is concluded with Candour and Truth; and with regard to former Treaties, and that the Places which have been taken Possession be given up, great and small; that Favour be not shewn to Ragonaut Row, and that he be delivered up to the Row Pundit Purdhaun. I have the fullest Confidence that the Governor, without further Stickling or Debate regarding any of these Articles, will pay a Regard to the future, and confulting true Wisdom, will send a Treaty concluded with a sincere Disposition, so that I may have Doubts or Difficulties in speaking or writing to the Pundit Purdhaun and his Ministers; that I may take a determinate Part in enforcing their Acquiescence; and that I may dispose the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah and Scindia with Unanimity both in Forms and in Meaning to join in promoting these Measures. But it is above all Things necessary that Letters should be sent to me addressed to the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and also to Sindiah, the Pundit Purdhaun, and Balajee Row Jenardain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and it is highly requilite that the Satisfaction of Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling of his just dain; and the settling dain; and the s Pretentions, should be effected through the Channel of this Court; fo that, with the Affishance of the faid Nabob and Sindiah, I may take Measures to lay a proper Foundation for a Treaty with Pundit Purdhaun. It must not depend entirely on the Negociations of Mr. John Hollond; for if that Gentleman is employed it will not be in our Power here to make fure of the Affiftanle of the abovementioned Nabob: He will be drawn another Way, and this will be the Means of interrupting the As that Gentleman will write in one Style to Calcutta, and I in another, hence-a whole Business Difference will arise, which will occasion Doubts and Suspicions. It is particularly necessary to be careful to prevent this; for the Nabob is the first and most distinguished of the Chiefs of the Decan, and he is in some Measure satisfied with the English Gentlemen on the Restoration of Mortezanagur. It is therefore very advisable that he should be conciliated by Civilities and Professions, and the Settlement of his just Pretentions, and thereby brought over to co operate in promoting the defined Objects. You write, that the Governor after expressing many Doubts and Objections about the lying the Expences of the Proops which are arrived at Cuttack, and after you had fatisfied him, said "The Gentlemen of the Council will not agree; for my own Part I approve of it. For the present " I will give thus much Money; but the Troops of this Place are going to Madras: Let near 3000 " Horse of the Troops which are at Cuttack accompany them, so that they may arrive in Sascty at the Place of their Destination; but let nothing be faid of the Chout of Bengal, for this would "draw great Discredit on me with the Council and the English; and where Advantages of Cross and Lacks are in Contemplation, it is improper to look to such inconsiderable Objects. Some Compensation will be found for it." The Case is this: In all the Correspondence which Lis passed during Two Years, not a Word has slipped from my Pen that has had the least Relation to Avarice or Self-Interest. But I am embarrassed on Account of the Troops which are arrived at Cuttack, from my Friendship to both Sides, namely, the Pundit Purdhaun and the English; they are prevented from ravaging any of the English Ferritories from a Regard to the latter; and they are prevented from returning from a Regard to the Plan which has been laid down by the Pundit Purdhaun. I am perplexed therefore betwixt a Regard to my Friendship: I had no other Motive in what I wrote. But Two positive Conditions are proposed by the Governor before he will agree; the one is to relinquish the Chout of Bengal out of Friendship to the English; the Second is to send 3000 Horse along with the Officer who has been detached to Madras. The Case is this r The Exertions which were made by the late Rajah to obtain the Chout, the Labours he went through, and the Valour he displayed, are as apparent as the Sun. In these Wars, Worlds were overturned, Multitudes were trampled under the Feet of Horses; the Treasures and Goods of Merchants, Bankers, and Inhabitants of that Country, were plundered and destroyed, and Two and Twenty of the most diffinguished Chiefs of this Country, together with many of their Companions and Friends, from the Treachery of the Soubah of Bengal, fell in the Service of their Master; till at length our hereditary Right and Property of the Chout was fully established and consirmed. Although from an Union with the English the greatest Advantages can be obtained, yet how can we relinquish these Rights and Inheritances which commemorate the Fame of our Ancestors, without forfeiting at the same Time our Dignity and Rank as Princes? In the fame Manner as the Governor fays Discredit would be drawn upon him with the Council, so would this draw upon us the Contempt of all our Neighbours. What therefore is written regarding the Relinquishment of the Chout of Bengal, is no ways proper. It is advisable that our Name should be preserved in that Soubah; but except this, mention any other Difficulties which occur, so that they may be obviated. In preserving the Name of our Chout great Advantages will be derived to the English; every one will be a fraid to invade their Country: This will be a great Advantage. If Troops were to be fent along with the Officer of the English, Intelligence thereof would doubtless be carried to the Peshwa and Nizam-ul-Dowlah; and they will say with Certainty, that Booshla and the English have in their Hearts been secretly united, and now it is discovered: He is in sact, therefore, one of the English, and we must concert Measures and provide against him. All that has been written to Poona and to the Nabob, regarding Peace and the Treaty which is coming from Calcutta, will be rendered ineffectual, and a War will be occasioned with the Chiefs of the Decan: Then at least 50,000 Horse, besides the necessary Stores and Ammunition, must be got ready before any thing can be done. By the Blessing of God, whenever my Letters arrive, as many Troops as are wanted can be procured; but I am without Money. As the Courage and Bravery of the Family of Booshla is well known, great Revenues would be necessary. Although with the Spirit and Ability of the English, the Assistance of Crores and Lacks is not so very great a Matter, and Men who accumulate Treasure, accumulate it for such Days as these; yet when so many Objections are made to assist in paying the Expences of the Troops at Cuttack, how can I place my Expectations in obtaining larger Heaps? If so much Spirit be shewn from that Quarter, I am ready; and I know well that this will not be done by the Council. As the Friendship of the English is at all Events the first and most necessary Consideration, I will therefore exert myfelf in establishing Peace; for the Power of making Peace with all is the best Object. To this all other Measures are subservient; and this will certainly be done by them (the English.) You write, "That after having laid the Foundation of Peace with the Pundit Purdhaun, it is requisite that some Troops should be sent along with Colonel Goddard against Hyder Naig, and take Possession of his Country, when all these Engagements and Proposals may be affented to." My Reason is confounded in discussing this Suggestion. At a Time when Hyder Naig is in every Respect in Alliance with the Peishwa, and has assisted with his Soul and Life to repel the English, so as to unite our Troops with those of the Enemy, and endeavour to extirpate him, would not this fix the Stamp of Infamy upon us for ever? Would any Prince, for Generations to come, ever after affift or unite with the Peishwa? Be yourself the Judge; and whether such a Conduct would become a Prince, or not? Why then do you mention it? Why do you write it? The Case is as follows: At first there was the utmost Enmity betwixt Hyder Naig and the Pundit Purdhaun, and there was the fullest Intention of fending Troops into Hyder Naig's Country: And after the Conclusion of the War with Bombay, and the Capture of Ragonaut Row, it was firmly resolved to fend Troops into that Quarter, and a Reliance was placed on the Treaty which was entered into by the Gentlemen of Bombay before the War; but when Ragonaut Row again went to them, and General Goddard was ready to commence Hostilities, when no Regard was paid to the friendly Proposals made by us and the Pundit Purdhaun, when they defisted from coming to Poona agreeable to their Promite, and a categorical Answer was given to the Deputies from Poona, the Ministers of Poona then consulted amongst then lives, and having advised with the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, they considered that as Enemies were appearing on both Sides, and it would be difficult to cope with both, what was to be done? Peace must be made with one of them, and War must be carried on with the other. They wished above all Things in their Hearts to make Peace with the English Gentlemen, and unite with them to punish Hyder Naig: But these Gentlemen had plainly refused to enter into any Terms of Reconciliation; it was therefore advisable to accommodate Matters with Hyder Naig. Although he had long been an Enemy, what else could be done? Having nothing else lest for it, they were compelled to enter into an Union with Hyder; but as the innate Disposition of that Prince is composed of Ingratitude and Infidelity, and he can never cease to err, it is certain that he will violate the Treaty and yield; a Pretence that will render it advisable for us, in Conjunction with the English, to take Vengeance, without incurring the Imputation of a Breach of Treatics. We must therefore wait for an Opportunity when he shall commit some Fault, and doubtless he will commit one; but the Time and Opportunity are still to come, and this is the Way: After the Treaty formed with Sincerity and Candour arrives from your Quarter, I will fet out for Poona to conclude these important Matters, and will accomplish every thing as wished for. I will unite Sindiah with me, and I will satisfy the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah; and as the utmost Difgust subsides in the Hearts of the Miniflers and Nizam-ul-Dowlah against Hyder, yet for the Sake of Appearances, as some Pietence is necessary, we will consult together; find out some Accusation against him. We must fix all our Thoughts on this; but some little Delay is necessary to effect all these Objects. This you well underfland, and be not impatient. Things which at first can casily and speedily be accomplished, from the Vicissitude of Assairs may afterwards be difficult. At present, the Establishment of Peace between the English Gentlemen, the Pundit Purdhaun, and the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, is highly expedient; and, as I formerly wrote, the Lois which each Party has full fined from keeping up their Armies, may be indemnified from some Operations carried on by them in Conjunction. This is certainly true. In former Times it might have been done immediately: If now, a Delay of tome Days must take place, it doe not fignify: What comes slowly, comes well. The Root and Existence of Hyder Nag will, in process of Time, be extirpated. To conclude: Formerly along Correspondence of the 8 Kind took place with Lord Clive, which arole from a cordial Friendship on both Sides; after that, no Correspondence was kept up, till knowing the diffinguished Character of the pretent Governor, and friding that he was capable of comprehending all thefe Objects, an Intercounter and confidential Communication has been chablished. God, who feeth the Infide of all Hearts, is a Witness whether it proceeded from Interestedness, or from the sincerest Friendship. The Event will infallibly evince, that it would be difficult to find throughout the whole Extent of the Decan, and of India, a Friend to truly attached as the Rajah my Master.

Possectipt. To the Letter which you wrote to Bowanny Pundit to this Effect, That if Pundit Purdhaun should not be satisfied with the Treaty on Account of the News of Hyder Naig, it is proper that you should cultivate the Friendship of the English, because many Advantages may asise from it, and the Governor reckons you his firm Friend. I hope that all these Advantages agreeable to my Inclinations will be brought about. This is the Answer; That after the Arrival of the true and undissembling Treaty from Calcutta to this Fssect, to forsake Ragonaut Row, and to deliver him to Pundit Purdhaun, and to restore all the Places in the Kokan, and Guzerat, and the Talooks of Hind. I will go to Poona, and will get a Treaty on his (the Peishwa) Part; and whatever is in my Heart I will get established in the Treaty. But if the Peishwa does not agree to this equitable Treaty, and peremptorily resules it, I will then write to you (agreeable to your Letter) whatever is proper to be written. To keep an Army, much Money is requisite; but I shall in no Respect be neglectful in preserving Friendship with the English, and withdrawing from all others will adhere to them.

Translation of a Letter from Rajah Seina Behadar to Bencram Pundit, dated the 23d Suffier; and a Duplicate to the same Purport: Received the 26th February.

Having committed many Particulars verbally to Bissumber Pundit, I dispatched him to your Quarter. All those Particulars you will have understood, as also the Letters which have fince been written to you. From the Friendship of the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowla, we are loaded with the Reproaches of Pundit Purdhaun and Nizam Ally Khan; and out of Regard to the Friendship of the Nabob, no Objection or Opposition has been made to the March of Colonel Pearse; but how will the Event Event of this appear? The Maha Raja formerly wrote to me that he was at a great Distance, but that the Nabob was near me, and that whatever was proper I should write to the Nabob and act agreeable to his Orders. Accordingly, to this Time I have acted in that Manner; and it is therefore incumbent. and necessary for the Nabob, in Consideration of his Friendship, to think of and settle some Plan for the Relief of our Distresses. You must now explain fully to the Nabob this Letter, and satisfy him. Inform me of its Success. After the Distresses of the Army shall have been removed, and the Foundation of our Friendship strengthened, great Advantage will accrue. To this Time, from an Attention to my Friendship, I have readily submitted to these Expences and Reproaches which have been thrown upon us by Pundit Purdhaun and Nizam Ally Khan. The Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah is with It is necessary that he pay Regard not to the Money but to the Friendship of the Maha Raja, and that he performs what ought to be done. This Friendship will be of great Utility. I dispatch this Letter under Charge of Two Cossids: Return them with an Answer speedily.

In the Raja's Hand:—I have said to Bissumber Sheo Behader whatever was proper to be said. He will have made every Point known to you. Send him back hither soon, and return a speedy Answer.

From Bowanny Pundit Appa to the Same; 23d Suffier.

Having committed several Points of Negociation to Bissumber Pundit, I have dispatched him to your Quarter; and afterwards other Letters were sent, which you will have received, and understood the Contents: You will now learn all Particulars from the Letter of the Raja. From the Friendship of the Nabob great Expences and Distresses have come upon us; and Seremunt Row Pundit Purdhaun and the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan have reviled and reproached us; it is therefore incumbent upon the Nabob not to pay any Attention to the Money but to the Friendship of the Maha Raja. a Well-wisher to both Sides, and must explain this in a proper Manner, and send a speedy Answer.

In the Pundit's Hand:—Mr. Anderson arrived, but no Opportunity offered for an Interview He has sent the Letters which was with him, and which I understood. We have done what the Nabob requested, and the Nabob must now keep his Eyes on the Friendship, to give us Relief in the Article of Pay to the Army; by fo doing the Nabob would ensure great Advantage to himself.

From Rajah Ram Pundit to the Same; 23d Suffier.

I have before this written to you all Particulars which you will have understood. Bissumber Pundit having obtained Permission from the Presence, sent for me from Cuttack. When I arrived at the Army by the Advice of the Pundit, and agreeable to your former Letters received at Cuttack, I explained every Particular in a proper Manner to Appa Saheb, and represented them likewise to the Rajah. I also spoke, at Bissumber Pundit's Desire, respecting the March and Station of the Army, and got it settled that Colonel Pearse should march without any Molestation with his Army, such Days Journies as he may chuse. Accordingly, all the Requests of Bissumber were agreed to, and the Pundit has been dispatched to the Nabob and to you. Do you now execute whatever Plan may bring Things to an Issue. I am the least of the Servants of the Sirkar. Out of the Regard to the Friendship of the Nabob, we for 10 Months, to prevent the smallest Injury being done, detained the Army in Cuttack, and to the Extent of our Abilities to bear, brought into these Distresses not only ourselves but our Relations, Friends, and Allies, and attempted to defray those Expences. Bissumber Pundit is well acquainted with the Sentiments, Views, and Wishes of this Quarter, and will have explained them to you. I have, to compleat the Point you have proposed to me, spoken to the Appa Saheb, and by procuring a free Passage for the Battalion have, with my Eyes open, submitted to a heavy Reproach; and leaving only the Propriety of this Matter to you, I have executed it, as this was for the Interest and Advantage of both Governments: But how long is this Friendship to be maintained through the Intervention of others? The Nabob from his Wisdom and Prudence having conquered the whole Country, has for these 20 Years sent to Europe large Sums of Money; and it is well known, that for these 20 Years the Maha Rajah has never once sent an Army towards this Country; and as he for 10 Years did not think the Friendship of the Nabob advisable, the Nabob remained in Peace, attending to the Management of his Country, and raising his Glory. If I was to make an Account of the Chout, to how much would it not amount? But Fear of God is necessary. For a whole Year an Army of 30,000 Horse has remained with their Eyes towards that Quarter, and continued within their own Limits, and did not commit the smallest Injury in the Country of Bengal, to the Damage of even a dry Leaf. Much Money will be received, but it is difficult for this Season, and the Advantages of Friendship to be attained. 1 am now released from this, the Blame of it belongs forthe Nabob. I performed the same friendly Offices at Hoshungabad, and enabled them to go sit Safety to Surat; and in this Place what could be my Motive for delivering up the Frenchman to the Nabob? God is Witness that it was to give Pleasure to the Nabob. It is now univertally known that I procured a Passage for the Battalions. Should the Nabob at this Time after his Frentments God will bear Witness. This Time is distressing; the Soldiers pray that they may be led to Both and Plunder, and daily and nightly make this Request. You will explain all these Particulas of the Nabob in a proper Manner, and having settled it, write me Intelligence of it. The Scalan of Opportunity is gone; this may be of great Consequence and Advantage. If he is inclined to maintime and typport his Greatness, let him remain firm in his Friendship for the Nabob. Restort on this invariance is as I am satisfied as to the Pay of the Army, I will do every thing which may be for the Interests of the Nabob; having settled this, speedly inform me of it.

Your Letters dated in Suffier, was received the last Day of that Month. According to your Delici am going with Munnijee Pundit to the Army: After my Arrival there, I will represent all Particulars to you. I have heard that Bissumber Pundit being arrived at Ballasore, is remaining there, in Expectation of seeing Mr. Anderson; before this he is doubtless arrived at Calcutta. Colonel Pearse is arrived with his Army at Balasore, and Buggerunt Row Nanna has had an Interview with him. At this Time Letters are received from Rajah Seina Bahadre and Rajah Ram Pundit to Dewan Huderam and Munjoo Choudry, to this Purport: That between the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah and the Maha Rajah the simple Friendship exists; that Colonel Pearse is going with an Army to oppose Hyder Naig; that I must therefore come immediately to Gunnese Nagur Ghaut, and prepare the Ferry Boats for the Army to cross as soon as they may arrive there; and that Munjoo Choudry and Namdar Khawn must accompany them to the Limits of Ganjam: That I must quiet the Inhabitants of the Town, and prevent their conceiving any Apprehensions; that the Battalions are going to Madras and will do no Injury; and that I must give positive Orders to the same Essect to Shawbeg Khan and Nabar Khan, &c. who are on the other Side of the River Gunjoory. Whatever further may learn will represent to you.

E. Hay,

A Second Letter from Rajah Ram Pundit to Beneram.

Whatever I and Bissumber Pundit together represented to the Rajah and Appe Saheb, will have been made known to you by the Pundit, who has been dispatched from hence. Colonel Pearse has had Permission to march, and strict Orders have been given to the Beuslaries to furnish him with Provisions; and having sent an Agent from us with him, he has been forwarded to the Southward from the Neighbourhood of Cuttack. Bissember Pundit at the Time of his Departure petitioned from the Presence, that they would not leave Cuttack till he should address an Arzee to them after his Atrival at Calcutta. The Troops here complain greatly, that they came in the Hopes of enriching themselves in the Country of Bengal, and that to this Time they had neglected all those Hopes of acquiring Money and Goods; that they had now, for the sake of Friendship, given free Passage to Colonel Pearse; that they must now either give them Intelligence where to get their Money, or elle suffer them to shew their Courage and Activity. How long are these Discourses to last? We are anxiously expecting Letters from your Quarter. We have performed the Duties of Friendship. To this Time you and I have, in all Cases and Seasons, exerted ourselves in representing all Matters, and pointing out the Opportunities. The Execution of every thing depends upon the Nabob: He will do whatever is right.

E. Hay,
Act Secry.

From Bowanny Pundit, Moonshy to Moodajee Bhoossa, to Beneram Pundit; dated 20th Mobervira, and received in Calcutta the 22d Suffer, 21st February.

Your Letter dated the 6th Zeheidja arrived on the 9th Mohurrim, under Charge of the Cossels of Teek Chunder Meerdha; together with Hindostanny Letters, addressed to the Maha Rajah, my Master, and the Dewan; and the Receipt of it made me acquainted with all Particulars, and gave me the greatest Satisfaction. You write, that at first you could not agree in any Point of your Conversations, till after the Arrival of the Letters from the Presence, and from Dada Saheb; when on the contrary every thing was unanimously assented to, and the Paper of Advice and Requests, and all Rep. VI.

the other Points, were approved of, agreeable to what they had written: That upon these Particulars being determined on, Karetahs and Letters from the Nabob, with a Treaty under the Seal and Signature of the Council, written in English and Persian, and with Letters from you, were dispatched by the Way of Benares, and by that of Cuttack; and that the Letters from hence were returned by the fame Conveyance: That as yet no Answer had arrived to any one of them, which Circumstance had thrown you into the greatest Terror and Apprehensions, lest these Papers, containing Secrets of fuch Importance, should not have arrived safe at the Presence, but should have been lost in the many Dangers of the Road: That you request the Receipt of them may be acknowledged as speedily as possible, in order to restore Tranquillity to your Mind: That you have, agreeable to the Contents of the Letters from the Presence and Dada Saheb, dated the 20th of Raisszan, represented to the Nabob the Means of supporting the War on all Four Sides, which requires the Presence of an English Army in every Quarter, and will be attended with a considerable Expence; and that you enquired of him, in case he should not adopt this Plan, and should not chuse to incur too great an Expence of Money, in that Case what Advice and Resolution he would take, and what he would determine on for us? and if he does not act in that Manner, what other Plan he has adopted? That the Nabob is accordingly meditating on the above mentioned Points, and has begun to fettle about the Money, which will be entirely adjusted after the Arrival of the Answers from hence: That the Nabob declares that he has given up the affifting of Ragonaut Row folely out of Friendship for the Maha Rajah, for that otherwise there are many Chiefs and Ministers in Decan who are ambitious, and who would give Money and Treasure for Assistance: That at this Time Keeroo Butt, a trusty Servant of Ragonaut Row, is come for this very Purpose, on the Part of several Persons of Credit and Distinction, and promises Money on Condition of Ragonaut's being placed on the Throne; but that he pays no Attention to such Promises, being resolved to maintain the Friendship of the Maha Rajah, and never to affift Ragonaut Row; and that now he has fent the Treaty, he can never think of giving any Affistance, and that he is anxious for the Receipt of the Answers from hence. That you said in Answer, that the Maha Rajah also was in every Situation attentive to his Friendship, and would, without Doubt, act agreeable to what the Nabob had written: That it is advisable to send an Answer as speedily as possible, because, in short, to this Time every Convertation and Negociation has been founded on a Defire for Friendship and Alliance. But what is learnt from Bowanny Pundit Buckshy being of a contrary Nature, and Rajah Chimnajee Baboo having lest his Cantonments and encamped, and intending to enter the English Dominions, Colonel Pearle, an English Chief, has been ordered to march with 8 Battalions by Land; that they are waiting in Expectation of the Answers from hence. If these arrive soon it is well, if not, they will not remain long patient, but will march forwards and begin Hostilities; and the Valour and Courage of the English, which is universally known and extolled, will give a bad Issue to the Matter; the Receipt of the Money will be prevented, and Plunder and Rapine must be expected in the room of it: That it is therefore most advisable to remain on friendly Terms with the English, and to enter into Alliance and intimate Connection with them, and at all Events to effect a Reconciliation between them and Pundit Purdhaun. That you have, agreeable to the former Letters from hence, set on Foot a Negociation respecting the Money, of which there are required several Lacks; and that you will inform us of whatever may be determined after the Arrival of the Answers from hence. What you write conformably to the Letters from hence, dated the 2d Zekaida, that although the Favours which the Nabob shews to you encrease daily, and although he has a sincere Assection for you, yet if it is the Pleasure of the Presence that you should remain, you must be informed of it, otherwise you will go to Benares. All these Particulars are perfectly understood; and from the Newspaper of the Royal Durbar, the Manner and Method of all the Affairs at the Durbar, and the open and undifguised Proceedings in transacting all the Concerns of the Sultanut and Country were likewise fully learnt: And the Paper, containing the Preparations of the English in collecting Troops at Benaics, Ellahabad, Fyzabad, the Neighbourhood of Gwalior, and in the Carnatic, was peruled, and the full Particulars of your Letter, together with the Abstract and Abridgement of several Secret and Important Points were in a proper and compleat Manner explained to the Maha Rajah and his Ministers, and the informing us of all Occurrences and of the Situation of Affairs which you at this Dillance fend continually and repeatedly: The explaining the concealed Parts of all Matters; the discovering the Whole of our Views and Wishes; the foreseeing the End of every Thing at the very Commencement of it; the holding fast in your Hand the Chain of Caution and Circumspection for the Interests and Advantage of your Master; the being from your Heart and Soul employed in maintaining Truth and Faith, and in observing the Duties of Gratitude; your keeping up at the Durbar of the English a Distinction and Superiority above all the rest; have gained you the Favour and Affection of the Maha Rajah and his Minister; and the Advantage to result from that, will, by the Blessing of God, shortly appear to the utmost of your Wishes. Showing it to be incumbent on my Friendship to give you the earliest Intelligence of this lucky Event, I have written it to you.

The Karetahs and Treaties which were sent in Duplicate by the Way of Benares, are all safe arrived, and Letters from you were received accompanying them, besides a separate Letter conformable to what you wrote; but by the way of Cuttack no Karetah or Letter was received. In answer to these, Karetahs and Letters were dispatched at Two different Times, under charge of the Cossid which came from your Quarter, accompanied by others from hence; first from Ramleez the 15th Zeheidja, and afterwards from Naigpore the 2d Mohurrem. Doubtless, they have arrived in successive Order, and have made you acquainted with all the Contents. You need not be under any Apprehension respecting the Arrival of the Letters of the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, Khan, which you fent back, as they were fafely received at the same Time as the Letter for Zufferud-Dowlah; but Two Papers of News written by Kissen Row Billall remain with you; those like-Wise you will without Doubt send. The Letter which I wrote to you, under Date the 6th Mohurrem, and dispatched under Charge of Cossids belonging to the Sirkar, was written conformable to the Orders of the Maha Rajah and the Directions of the Dewan, and was free from all Obscurity and Difguile, was full of Truth and Sincerity, and had not the smallest Degree of Doubt, Excule, or Dissimulation; and at this Time also, whatever I heard from the Maha Rajah my Master, and from his Minister, I have written in the fullest Manner: It is as follows; That what the Nabob has faid, namely, that notwithstanding the English Forces are stationed in all Quarters, from Benares and Disputes from the Four Quarters, and for the Recovery of their military Reputation, and for supplying the Expences required by these Measures; and that notwithstanding that many of the Chiefs and Ministers are inclined towards Ragonaut Row, and promise to supply large Sums of Money in case of his being restored to the Throne; yet he has, solely with a View to please the Maha Rajah, fept of himself a Treaty, and has desisted from all Assistance of Ragonaut Row; for that otherwise, to this Time he had no Inclination to enter into Peace and Alliance with them; that he is anxiously expecting the Answer of the Maha Rajah. The Case is this: That in the Commencement of a War, the Event of it, which must be either Deseat or Victory, is known only to God, who sees the inward as well as outward. It is first necessary to quit the Guard of one's own Country before one can carry Fire into the Dominions of another; and while the other does not commit any Breach of his Engagements, to bind on without Cause the Girdle of Enmity, and to act in Opposition to all Faith and Treaties, is contrary to the Opinion of all wife Men, and is the Heighth of Infidelity. Besides this, General Goddard's being at Hoshungabad was considered and pointed at through all Parts of Decan, as a Proof of the Friendship and Alliance between these Two Countries: For this Reason in the Letters from hence it was advised and requested, conformable to our Friendship and good Wishes, that Peace and Reconciliation be effected, and in consequence of that not being approved of, a Karetah was lent to you, containing the Means of supporting this arduous War. In answer to this the Nabob wrote, That he had dropped that Intention, and wished for nothing but Friendship. From this you must reslect, that if the Letters from this Quarter to that Quarter had had any Weight, out of those Two Proposals, One would certainly have met with his Approbation. Enough When after the Bombay Defeat the Dewan went to Poona, and Hyder Naig had no other Kind of Connection with Pundit Peshwa, except the sending an Army into his Country, and General Goddard from himself had proposed Peace and Friendship, and when his declining to assist Ragonaut Row, and his promifing to come to Poona, was folely for the Purpole of a Reconciliation; and at that Time although the Dewan in Person exerted and employed the most powerful Arguments for this Purpose, yet they had no Effect. Having no other Resource, the People of Poona entered into an Alliance with Hyder Naig; and whatever was to be done in consequence has been done, and is still doing. At that Time, why did not the General act for the Maha Rajah's Satisfaction? It is now become absolutely necessary for us to approve the Plan and Scheme, and to raile an Army and fend it into Oriffa, otherwise we should never have had Occasion to raise an Army and fend it into Orissa, or to submit to an Expence of Lacks and Crores of Rupees. this has been the Confequence of General Goddard's coming to Holhungabad, and our Wish to maintain the Friendship of the English. You must be just, and consider well from what have proceeded the Difficulties of this War and the prefent Alarms. Afterwards, when the Dewan returned to Naugpore, the Army which is arrived at Cuttack was put into Cantonments folely for the Friendship of the English Gentlemen. Karetahs and Letters were sent from hence, containing many political and friendly Sentiments, and advising, that as Peace was a Thousand Times preferable to War, and as Observance of Treaties and Engagements was the Standard of Faith, Peace should be effected; or, that if this was not agreed to, then the Profecution of War on the Four Quarters, the stationing of English Battalions on all Sides, and the providing Money for the Expences, must be thought of. When Letters from hence to this Purport were repeatedly received in that Quarter, yet the Nabob, rejecting all the Rights of Friendship and Affection, said to you, That we were partial to Pundit Purdhaun, and wished for his Friendship and Alliance; that he would decline our Alliance; that it was of no Use for you to remain with him, but that you might return Home. Reflect what Wish to give Satisfaction to this Quarter; was there any such Expression it would have been right in him to have faid, That he had not the smallest Intention of making Peace with Pundit Purdhaun; that we are his Friends, and are pointed at by all the People of Dekan on account of our Friendship with him, who are not amicably inclined towards us, and wish to see no other Intercourse between us than that of Disputes; that we have therefore sent an Army into Oriffa, and that it was necessary for us to unite ourselves with him, by which Means the Army at Cuttack would become his; that as for the opposing his Enemies, a large Force was requisite, it was therefore necessary for him to collect Troops, and that for that Purpose he would give us such a Sum of Money, and would pay us so much for the Support of the Army of Cuttack. If he had spoken in this Manner it would have set our Minds at ease, and we should, in Hopes of Assistance from him, have determined on Plans and Measures to be pursued: But he rejecting these Words, which would have been consistent with the Advice required by the Circumstances, said to you only this, That you might return Home. At that Time where was his Wish to give us Satisfaction, which he now writes has alone prompted him to make Peace and to fend the Treaty? As in Friendship and Alliance such a Dispute is not proper nor becoming, we have therefore affented and approved that he makes Peace merely to please us, but only in case the Treaty is made conformable to the former Engagements. This will be an Obligation conferred on his Friends, and will reflore Tranquillity to the Inhabitants, will extinguish the Flames of War, and will chablish the Reputation of our true Friend the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah; but when we have affumed the Name or Amaud-ul-Dowlah, why should we render it abortive, and of no Esfect, on account of these Expresfions about our Satisfaction? What we do for him, we do for ourfelves; but only on Condition that the Treaty be plain and undifguifed, and conformable to former established Engagements. When the Articles of it had been maturely considered, in the Point of Ragonaut Row's being Liberty to reside wherever he may think proper, in that of the Fort of Ahmedabad, and the Share of Guzerat being and maintained in the Possession of Futty Sing Guicawar, agreeable to your Engagements; and in the like Article fecuring Gwalior to the Rana of Gohud, there appeared a Vallation from former Treaties, and a Necessity for an Alteration, besides the Article engaging to attack and ruin Hyder Naig in concert; all which Articles as we knew could never be affented to by the Poona Ministers: We therefore wrote in Answer, whatever was right and was required by fraith and Observance of Treaties, with the greatest Sincerity and Truth, and dispatched the Karetahs and Letters to your Quarter, where I have no Doubt but they are safe arrived. If Truth, and Faith, and Observance of Treaties, and Peace, and Reconciliation, should be their Wish, they will then give their Assent to every thing which has been written from their Quarter, and will consider it to have been dictated by Friendship. Whatever they may have determined upon will be best. But I swear by the Almighty, and by my Holy Religion, that the Maha Rajah my Master, and the Dewan, notwithstanding that their Plans and Counsels above written have not availed or been approved of, have no other Thoughts or Views but the Interests and Advantages of the English Gentlemen, and the Glory of the Nabob Amaud-ul Dowlah; and how great, and of what a long Standing must their Friendthip be, which, notwithstanding repeated Denials and Contradictions, has received no Injury? This will by Degrees be tried and plainly feen by the Nabob: At prefent many Things veil it and keep it under Darkness, as a Cloud does the Sun; but at last the Light of the Sun breaks forth by its own Vigour. As the illustrious and noble Family of Bhooslah are famed for their Observance of Faith and Sincerity, and have been brought into the Plan and Measures of Pundit Purdhaun, they are therefore without Remedy and Resource, and are wishing to extricate themselves from their Engagements with the Poona Rulers. The Maha Rajah had for this Purpose imagined and Engagements with the Poona Rulers. The Maha Rajah had for this Purpose imagined and settled a Scheme which he explained to me himself, and ordered me to write it to you in my Letter of the 6th Moheuran, from which Letter you will have thoroughly comprehended it. In this Case, if the Dependencies of the English have suffered from the Army at Cuttack, or if from the Dread of the English Battalions the Province of Orista has received any Damage, or even if any small Hostility has happened between them, it makes no Difference, because wherever the Hearts are fincerely unanimous, no outward Appearance of Milunderstanding can be of any Effect; from that a Plea may be procured for separating ourselves from the Connection with Pundit Purdhaun, but it must not be looked upon as an Act of Enmity: This you must explain to the Nabob, and convince him that the fole End proposed from this Measure, is to separate ourselves from Pundit Peishwa, and that after extricating ourselves from our Engagements to him, and from this distressing Plan of his, every Measure will be settled with the Assistance and Advice of the English Gentlemen. But the Means of supporting the Expences of the Pay to the Army at Cuttack, and to the new Troops, which this Plan will require to be raifed, depend altogether on the Assistance of the Nabob Amaud-ul Dowlah; having settled this Point in a binding Manner, you must write us

The Reason of the determining on this Plan is as follows: When Copies of the Treaty had been fent to the Poona Ministers after Two Months, when Bassein had been lost, and War had commenced in Bore Ghaut with the English, they sent Answers to this Purport; That they could place no kind of Dependance on the Promises and Engagements of the English, who had repeatedly entered into Treaties and as often broke them; that we ought to examine what want of Faith they had ever shown that the English should commence such Hossilities against them, and should employ themselves for the Assistance of Ragonaut Row, and then say that any Breach of Treaty which happened was committed by the Chief of Bombay; but after the Defeat of the Bombay Army, from what Side have the present Hossilities and Devastation arisen? That the present Treaty therefore can be no more relied on. That it is therefore necessary for the Army at Cuttack to lose no more Time in use-less Delays, but to enter the English Dependencies. The Maha Rajah therefore to extricate himself from these Measures, has of himself imagined this Plan, and has made me write it to you, that you might represent it in a proper Manner.

Postscript. While this important Plan is under Discussion, it is advisable and necessary that you remain with the Nabob, who doubtless will willingly and with Pleasure retain you: Why do you therefore mention any thing respecting your coming to Benares; you must exert yourself in the Service of your Master, and in your Attachment to the Nabob for the prosecuting the Points now in Consideration, and the other important Concerns; to the promoting the Friendship between the Nabob and the Maha Rajah, that it may derive inwardly Advantage from these seeming outward Contradictions. To write more to you who are wise would be useless.

Postscript:

A P P E N D I X, N° 363.

Postscript. This is the Season to fix ultimately the Plan proposed, that from the Four Quarters Armies be sent to the English Dependencies, and War be commenced; and should Peace be thought advitable, let it be by the Intervention and Knowledge of every one; namely, the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, Pundit Peshwa, and the Maha Rajah; and at this Time, in consequence of his Connection with Pundit Purdhaun, Hyder Ally Khan has entered himself into this Negociation, and, like the Elephant at Chess, has claimed this Plan on the Four Sides, that one of them without the other cannot act in this Measure: But this Connection and the Conditions of the Engagements between Hyder Ally Khan and Pundit Peshwa, were entered into without the Knowledge of the Nabob Nizam Ally Khan, for which Reason he has conceived Displeasure and Enmity against Hyder; and Hyder, from the Pride of having a large Army and a confiderable Treasure, of seeing his Country in Security, Thoughts very far distant from his Situation and Rank, and sent a Vackeel to the Presence, to the Vizier Nudjiff Cawn, and represented, that as he had shewn such Courage and Conduct in the War against the English, he hoped from the Royal Favour that he might receive as a Reward the Sunnuds for the Soubahs of Deckan; and that if he obtained fuch his Desire, he would lay at his Majesty's Feet every thing which his Loyalty and Obedience could require. Accordingly the Vackeel was admitted to his Majesty's Presence, and to an Interview with the Vizier; and a Firmaun, containing the Praises and Virtues of Hyder, and promising him his Request, together with a Turban from his Majesty's Head, and a Khellaut from his Wardrobe, were sent to Hyder. We shall soon see what more his Negociation there will effect. As this same News must have been contained in the Papers fent to your Quarter, any more on this Subject would be superstuous. In short, the Nabob Nizamul-Dowlah being enraged at these Transactions, is watching for an Opportunity to revenge himself: It is therefore most advitable for the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah to exert himself by all Means to give Satisfaction to the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and not to refuse sending them Presents and Gifts, but at any rate to gain, through Mr. Hollond, the Friendship of so great a Chief, who is the Support of the Throne, and is possessed of such Armies and Resources; and when this shall have been firmly settled, and this powerful Chief has been gained over, besides the Maha Rajah and the Nabob Zusserud-Dowlah, who are fincerely attached to the English, and are likewise united with Nizam-ul-Dowlah both in Schemes and Counsels, and in the Management of War and Hostilicies, what Power or Ability would then remain for the Chiefs and Rulers of Poona to act hostilely against the English Gentlemen, without the Permission of the Nabob and Maha Rajah? on the contrary, they would certainly be reconciled, and would act in every thing by the Directions of the Nabob and Maha Rajah; and at that Time Treaties and Engagements, such as are wished for, will be effected. The Abstract of this long Letter is, That by prudent Management and Conduct the Iron Chain which is strongly bound on the Feet of the Elephant will be removed, and what remains, which is only the Chain from Hyder's Foot, must be separated by the Strength of the Sword, and he must be destroyed by the combined Force of the others, and his Country shared according to Agreement which will then be made; and being relieved from all Dangers by the Guarantee of the Nabob and the Maha Rajah, they will then remain in Peace and Security at Home. You will therefore, in a proper Manner, represent the above written Particulars to the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah; but till this important Point can be adjusted and finally effected, you must write to us in an explicit Manner from Calcutta; till that Time the seeming Preparations on both Sides to enter each other's Dominions, some small Hostilities, and even a Degree of Plundering on both Sides, is to be recommended as advisable, and as Veil over the Plan. This must be considered as sweet to the Taste, and must not be looked upon as bitter, as a bitter Medicine is of the most Service to the Body; you will therefore exert your utmost Abilities to effect this Plan, and will at any rate satisfy and convince the Nabob, that all what I have written are Secrets entrusted to me by the Maha Rajah and his Minister, and I take God to Witness that it is true. You must consider this as a Secret more precious than your own Life, and must tear the Letter, as it would be of the greatest Detriment should any one else be acquainted with it. For the keeping of this Secret you are bound by your most binding of all Oaths, your Duty to your Master. I need write no more, the rest depends on your Management and Conduct. Translation of a Letter from Dewan Dewagur Pundit to Beneram Pundit. Dated the 20th Mohurren.
Received the 8th March.

Your Letter has been received, and the Contents understood. You write, That the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah has dispatched a Treaty full of Oaths and Engagements, with separate Karetahs addressed to Row Pundit Purdhaun, to Nanah Purnavese, to the Maha Rajah, to the Nabob Zusser-ud-Dowlah, and to me; but that as yet no Answer has been received to any one of them, which he is anxiously looking for. You further mention, that a Karetah has been sent from Calcutta to the anxiously looking for. You further mention, that a Karetah has been sent from Calcutta to the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, which, with other Contents of your Letter, is understood, and the Treaty and Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused; and agreeably to what the Nabob Amaudand Karetahs have been carefully and attentively perused.

ul-Dowlah wrote, we have kept with us the original Treaties and Karetahs, and have written the Particulars and Contents of them to Pundit Purdhaun. What was written respecting the Oath to prevent any Deviation from the Treaty, that it should be neither encreased nor diminished, has been fully comprehended. The Case is this: That in the first Place the chief Article for Pundit Purdhaun, namely Ragonaut Row, is not written in a plain Manner; neither are the Articles respecting Guealior, Guzerat, the Guicawar, and the Forts, and many other Points which ought to have been rendered satisfactory, written with any Plainness, otherwise I should have gone in Person and exerted myself to adjust every Point. I have therefore not sent the Treaty, but have kept it and exerted myself to adjust every Point. I have therefore not lend the care; that is to say, carefully in my Possessino. At the Beginning the Opportunity was suffered to escape; that is to say, when I wrote Letters to General Goddard. Answers were say. ceived, if at that Time an Interview had taken place between Pundit Purdhaun and General God dard, all Misunderstanding would have been cleared up and reconciled, and the English and Pundit Purdhaun would have become one Mind and one Soul, and would have ruined Hyder Naig and conquered his Country: But this did not take place, and the General and Scindia prepared for War, and Pundit Purdhaun entered into Alliance with Hyder Naig, and gave him a Country of 80 Lacks of Rupees on the other Side of the Kishna, with this View, that he might carry Desolation litto the Country belonging to the English. Engagements were entered into, agreeable to which the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah fettled a Plan, and having written to Pundit Purdhaun, forced me into these Difficulties. Had I not agreed to the Plan, it would have caused to the Rauje, and great Damage to me who am united with the Rauje: It being therefore necessary for me to assent to the Plan proposed, I was compelled to raise 30,000 Men, and to send them under the Command of Rajah Chimnajee Saheb towards Bengal. A Year and a Half have nearly elapsed, during which these Troops have brought us under a Load of Expences, amounting to upwards of 1½ Crore, and have remained all the Time on our own Confines without acting in any Manner. My earnest Wish is, that at any rate Peace and Friendship may be effected between the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah and Pundit Purdhaun, and that our Friendship to both Parties may remain entire; with this View I have taken all these Pains, and the Maha Rajah has adopted the Name of Amaud-ul-Dowlah, and has continually written, that he is the Friend, the Friend, in Friend, and that he is determined to effect and compass this Point: But Raja Chimna Saheb is in great Distress for the Expences of his Army. My Wish was, that in case of Peace taking place Pundit Purdhaun would contribute something; that some Part might be procured from the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, and another Share from the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah, while we should have submitted to bear the Remainder; by which Means all our Difficulties would have been remainder. by which Means all our Difficulties would have been removed. I had great Dependance on this; but Peace does not take place between the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah and Pundit Purdhaun. How long and I to wait in Expectation? Great Difficulty is come upon me from the Plan which had been settled; and Rajah Chimnajee Bahader from the same Plan is fallen under great Distress; so that we must do whatever appears likely to remove these Difficulties. I am a sincere Friend, and never omit any Duties towards him with whom I enter into Friendship. From the Want of Reconciliation between the Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah and Pundit Purdhaun, am I fallen into this Dilemma. Be convinced that this is true. I have, to preserve my Friendship with the Nabob Amaud-ul Dowlah, been backward in the Prosecution of the Plan which had been settled: I have readily submitted to whatever is come upon me, and folely from my Desire to effect a Reconciliation between the Nabob and Pundit Purdhaun, have these Difficulties arisen; yer, notwithstanding all this, he is not my Friend: I am fallen into the Dilemma of that Plan, and have no Remedy. The Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah is just, and will reslect on this with Justice. How long must I repeat the same Thing? What has happened must necessarily have happened from that Plan, and we must submit to it. The Maha Rajah is connected by Treaties with Pundit Purdhaun, and the Family of Boosla is known for their Faith and Observance of Engagements; they never did nor will vary a Hair's Breadth from any Treaty: Many Powers have attempted to injure them, but their Government has remained firm and gains daily Strength, solely from their exalted Faith and remarkable Fidelity. The Nabob Amaudul-Dowlah is wise, and will be convinced, that to this Time I have never been guilty of any Neglect in the Duties of my Friendship, in which it is necessary to explain every thing sincerely and plainly, and to avoid all Appearance of Dissinction.

In the Dewan's own Hand.

I am convinced and sensible of the great Zeal and Conduct which you have shewn in the Maha Rajah's Service, and in promoting the Friendship and Alliance of the English. I have accordingly before written to you in Persian on that Subject, and now the Moonshy will inform you of every thing which the Maha Rajah said respecting it. You will represent to the Nabob, that his Possessions and those of the Maha Rajah are one, and have no Kind of Distinctions; but there is a Treaty and Engagement which circumscribes us, and from which it is necessary we should be released. This alone distresses us, for there is no other Cause: There is already One Crore of Rupees due to the Army, and it is daily encreasing. The Cause of all these Difficulties is the Arrival of General Goddard at Hoshungabad, and our performing the Duties of Friendship and Hospitality to him, which it is unnecessary to write or represent: By this we are become the Mark for every one to point at, and by this Affairs are brought into this State. The Nabob Amaud-ul-Dowlah is wise, and is thoroughly convinced that we have never been forgetful or negligent. There is no Remedy against the Necessary Necessity of the Times. In future no Variation shall ever happen in our Friendship, in which we ary firm and Redfast.

APENDIX,

Letter from Bengal. Secret Department.

To the Homeral of the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of "Ingland trading to the East Indies; dated 27th April 1781.

Honousal Sirsy

1. WE had the Honour of addressing you from this Department by the Fox and Walpole, on the 19th November. We have fince written to you under Date the 7th and 13th January by Majo Wott, and the 3d February in Duplicate by the Way of Busiorah. Duplicates of the Letters written by Major Scott, and a Triplicate of that addressed to you over Land, are transmitted with the Dispatches. We have also the Honour of forwarding by the Neptune, the Annual Set of our Confultations in this Department for the Year 1780, and a broken Set of our Proceedings from the 2,d November to the 2d Instant.

2. We were honoured on the 13th ultimo, with the Receipt of Letters from the Committee of S:creey, under Date the 9th July 1779, 12th, 29th April, and 17th May, 1780, by the Packets of the Neptune, Bellmont, and Grosvenor; the Dispatches of the latter Ship being conveyed to us by the Neptune, in consequence of the Resolution taken at Fort Saint George to detain the Grosvenor at that Prefidency, for the Purpose of sending her to Europe in the Month of June. We received on the same Day Copies of the Letters dated in July 1779 and April 1780, from Bombay; together with your Dispatches transmitted over Land by Richard Scott, Esquire, according to the List of We have nothing to fay in Answer to the Letters which we have the Honour to acknowledge, and in Addition to the Information already fent to you, but that the Orders given to us have received, and always will receive, our punctual Execution of them.

10 You were advised in our Letter of the 7th of January, transmitted to you by Major Scott, of the Motives which had induced us to propose a Treaty of Alliance with the Dutch, whose Possessions at and adjacent to Cochin had lately been invaded by Hyder Ally Khan. The Treaty was fent to your Prefident and Select Committee of Fort Saint George, by Mr. Dighton, and it was left with them to obtain the Nabob Walla Jaw's Concurrence in it, as well as afterwards to transmit to Cochin and Columbo our Dispatches relative to it. A Reference to their Letter of the 16th of February, co will make you acquainted with the Reasons which had operated with your President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George, against promoting the Ratissication of it. The Treaty itself was founded on the desperate Necessity of their Assairs, and was one of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs, and was one of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs, and was one of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs, and was one of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs, and was one of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of their Assairs of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the great and numerous Exertions which Desperate Necessity of the gr we made for their Relief. A more prosperous State having since succeeded, the Measure has been rendered unnecessary, and we are well pleased therefore that they have thought proper to reject it. The great Object of the Treaty was a Supply of European Strength. It was of so much Importance, that we determined to avail ourselves of other Means also of obtaining it; and on the 22d of January, we wrote to your President and Select Committee at Fort Marlborough, to desire that they would spare to us the European Force at that Presidency, consisting of 400 Men. We considered them well able to do us this Service, as their remaining Force consisting of Coffrees and Malays, is sufficient for the Defence of Fort Marlborough against the Enemies of the Country, and the small Force in Europeans unequal to its Defence against an Attack from an European Enemy. Our Letter to the President and Select Committee at Fort Marlborough, appears in the Consultations noted in the co.

tr. About the Middle of the last Month arrived in Fort William, Syed Assam Cawn Behaudre, Dewan of his Highness the Nabob Walla Jaw, accompanied by Mr. Richard Joseph Sulivan; their Arrival was reported to us by the Governor General on the 29th of that Month, and a Translation of their Credentials as Ministers and Plenipotentiaries extraordinary from his Highness the Nabob Walla Jaw was laid before us, together with a Paper of Requisitions prepared by the Dewan, who in the Name of his Master requested the Board's Reply, expressing their Resolution on each Article as expeditiously as possible; their Object being of the utmost Importance, not only to the future Prosperity of his Country, but also to the Safety of the English Possessions in the Carnatic, and to the Relief of his numerous Creditors, whose Claims and Necessities he represented as great and distressing.

had a few Days before received from the Nabob's new Consolidated Creditors, a Proposal for the Satisfaction of the Debt owing to them from his Highness, and your Select Committee at Fort Saint George had transmitted to us with it a Copy of their Minutes on a similar Proposal made to them.

12. Sensible of the heavy Load of Difficulties under which the Nabob Wallah Jaw hath laboured for a considerable Length of Time, and anxious that a permanent Plan should be adopted for the suture Regulation of the Affairs of the Carnatic, we readily acquiesced in the Desire of Syed Assam Cawn, that distinct Replies should be given by us to each of the several Propositions of the Nabob; and we agreed, that the Replies, if approved by the Dewan, should serve for the Basis of an Agreement between this Government and that of the Carnatic. As the Agreement includes many Particulars which cannot be made so clear in an Abstract of them as in the Perusal of the Agreement itself, we have thought it necessary to transmit to you a Copy of the Requests of the Nabob Wallah Jah, and of our Replies to them, which together form the Agreement, Numbers in this Dispatch. The Agreement having been fairly engrossed on Two distinct Papers, bearing the Seal and Signature of the Nabob Wallah Jaw, and the Dewan Syed Assam Cawn Behauder and Mr. Richard Joseph Sulivan; attending at our Council on the 2d Instant, it was sealed and signed by them in our Presence, and by us in their Presence, and formally interchanged.

13. We should have previously acquainted you, that we were fully satisfied with the Sufficiency of the Powers with which Syed Assam Cawn Behaudre and Mr. Richard Joseph Sulivan were invested on the Part of the Nabob Wallah Jaw; and being anxious that speedy and effectual Remedies should be applied to the disordered State of the Assamplies of the Carnatic, deemed it of essential Moment that the entire Sanction of the controlling Government of India should be given to the Agreement; and the more especially, as in the Letters which have been received from the Presidency of Fort Saint George since the Commencement of the late Troubles in the Carnatic, they have repeatedly declared their total and absolute Inability to obtain from the Carnatic the smallest Supply of Money for the Maintenance of the War, or the Support of their current Expences."

14. In consequence of the Request of the Nabob Wallah Jaw, the Purport of which we duly weighed, being equally convinced of the Necessity of the Appointment of a Person to reside with the Nabob as the Representative and Minister of this Government, for the Maintenance of the Agreement actually concluded between us; being also firmly of Opinion, that without the Resources of the Carnatic, the War in which it is engaged cannot be supported but by uncertain and languid Supplies from Bengal, and eventually involve both in one common State of Distress, if not utter Ruin; and having also considered the Recommendation made by his Highness the Nabob in Favour of Mr. Richard Joseph Sulivan, together with the Reasons which have been urged as his Inducement to it, and deeming these as well as the Objects of the Appointment of too great Importance to be facrificed to that Punctilio which on a less urgent Occasion might disfluade us from employing a Servant of another Presidency, although equally a Servant of the same common Masters; we have appointed Mr. Richard Joseph Sulivan the Representative and Minister of this Government at the Court of the Nabob Wallah Jaw, for the Purpose of maintaining the Faith of this Government in the Agreement concluded with the said Nabob, and for the Representation of such Matters as may at any Time require his Interpolition in that Character and in our Name, either with the Nabob, or with the President and Council or Select Committee of Fort Saint George; and our Credentials have been granted to him to this Effect in the usual Form.

15. The Letters which we have written to the President and Select Committee at Fort Saint George, and to Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, appear on the Proceedings noted in the Margin, as well as that from the Governor General to the Nabob of the Carnatic.

16. The Line of Conduct followed by the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn fince we had the Honour of addressing you last, will appear to you in the several Letters which we have received from Mr. John Hollond, and recorded in our Proceedings noted in the Margin. It has hitherto been in general neutral, and so far we are happy to observe to you, that our Endeavours to preserve the Peace with the Nizam, by promising to do him Justice, have been attended with Success. It is also deserving of Remark, that of Four great Powers combined against the Company, Two only have been yet brought to act against them; and that of those Two, One is nearly deseated by the successful Operations of your Forces under this Government. The Nizam, availing himself of the Company's present Situation, has frequently urged Mr. Hollond for immediate Payment of the Arrears of the Pischush. As our last Reply to Mr. Hollond on this and other Subjects is material, we think it necessary to transmit it to you for your Information, a Number in this Dispatch.

necessary to transmit it to you for your Information, a Number in this Dispatch.

17. Mr. Hollond's ill State of Health not permitting his Continuance at Hydrabad, he has requested our Permission to resign his Office, of our Resident at the Nizam's Court: Concerned as we are for the Cause which obliged him to make this Request, it was yet of so forcible a Nature, that we could not refuse our Assent to it. We have permitted him therefore to resign the Office which he held at the Court of his Highness the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, and as an Acknowledgment of the Services performed by him during his Residence thereat, as well as a Testimony of the high Estimation in which we held his Abilities and Zeal for the Service of the Company, we have desired his Acceptance of a Gratuity of Ten thousand Rupees, and authorized him to continue drawing his Allowances, and the Charges of his Establishment, until his Rezurn to Fort Saint George. No one is yet appointed by us to fill the Station at Hydrabad, vacated by Mr. Hollond, but the Governor General

General has written to the Nazein, to be informed of his Pleature concerning the Nomination of any ther Minister to reside at his Highness's Court.

18. We are well pleafed to acquaint you, that the Prefident and Select Committee at Fort Sun George have thought proper to refeind the Act by which Mr. Hollond was surpended from the Service of the Company on that Effablishment, and admitted him to a Seat in the Council. We have fome Weeks before the Receipt of their Letter, advising us of their Refolution, recommended it strongly to them; but we have the Pleasure to observe, that the intended Effect of our Defice was anticipated by their own Regard to Mr. Hollond's Merits.

You were informed, in our Letter of the 29th November, of the Refolution which we have Taken, to detach over Land towards Madias, a Company of European Aitillery, and a Body of Six Battalions of Native Infantry, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Pearle, to aid the Operations of our Troops on the Coast. This Detachment having been collected near Narainghur, in Midnapore, marched from the Place of Rendezvous on the 21ft January, and croffed the Soubenzeka on the 9th February.

20. Although the low State of the Country through which its Route lay, the long Continuance of the Rains, and the uncommon Difficulties which, after the Exertions made to furnish our first Aids to Fort Saint George, prefented themselves in the Equipment of this Force, were sufficient Impearments to an earlier Movement of it; we had besides a political Motive for not urging it tooner, in the Defire of waiting for Replies from the Government of Berar, to the Dispatches which we had tent thither in September, with our Offers of Peace to the Maratta State; left, by a precipitate March or the Detachment into the Borders of Cuttac, before Time had been allowed to the commanding Officer of the Berar Troops which lay there; and in its destined Passage, we might expose them to mutual Hostilities, and defeat the Ends of our Negociation with that Government. But when the expected Replies arrived, and contained a total Rejection of our Proposals, founded, as we had every Reason to believe, on an Opinion that our Affairs were reduced to so desperate a State as might render it too hazardous for them to take a decided Part in our Favour, and afforded them no Hope of Success in the Mediation which had been prescribed to them; we then deemed it incumbent upon us, equally on the Principle of maintaining the Credit of our Power, and on the fubftantial Grounds on which the Expedition had been originally planned, to order its inflant Commencement. Orders to this Effect were accordingly and immediately iffued: But that we might at the same Time provide for the unmolefted March of the Detachment through the Province of Oriffa, and mark that Attention which was due to the Relation in which we had till that Time flood with the Government of Berar, we chose to depute a confidential Person to Raja Chimnajce Boosla, the Chief of the Berar Army, who should notify to him the Order which we had given to Colonel Pearle, to request him, in our Name, to cause fuch of his Troops as might yet be in the Road through which the Detachment was to pass, to remove at fuch a Distance from it as might prevent Individuals on either Side from engaging in mutual Broils; and if the Raja should be disposed to take a more decided Part in our Favour, to folicit the Aid of a Body of Cavalry, to accompany Colonel Pearle, and to act under his Command. -Mr. David Anderson was appointed to this Service.

21. The Instructions which we gave to Colonel Pearse were contonant to those given to Mr. Anderson; and at the same Time that they cautioned him in the strongest Manner to prevent, to the utmost of his Power, any Acts, or the Permission of any, on the Part of his Detachment or its Followers, which could lead to Hostilities with the Government of Cuttac or the Berar Army, they directed him, in the Event of his Progress being obstructed, to make his Way against all Opposition. The Event has fully answered our Expectations, as will be shewn in the Sequel.

22. Mr. Anderson missing Raja Chimnajee Boosla, who was engaged in a remote Expedition, and the Communication being stopped, was ordered to return at the Solicitation of the Maratta Chief. He was a Second Time deputed to him, and foon after returned, bringing with him Rajah Ram Pundit, the Naib of Cuttac; with whom an Engagement was formally concluded in the Name of his Master Raja Chimnajee; by which it was stipulated, that a Body of 2000 essective Horse should Conf be detached from the Army at Cuttac, and placed under the Command of Colonel Pearle; their Pay to be issued by our Pay Master, at the rate of One Lack of Rupees per Month; and that a Party of the Company's Forces should assist the Government of Berar in afferting its Pretentions to the District of Gurra Mundela, a small Territory lying on the Banks of the Nerbudda, and under the actual Possession of the Peishwa. Major William Popham, a most deserving Officer in your Service, whom we have before had the Pleasure to distinguish to you for his spirited and gallant Conduct in the Capture of the Fort of Gwalior, as well as on other Occasions of Military Duty, has been accordingly ordered on this Service with the Regiment of Native Infantiy, and the other Troops which had been in Gwalior, to garrison that Fortress.

23. It was at the same Time resolved, That a Gratuity of 13 Lacks of Rupees, being the Remainder of the Sum of 16 Lacks of Rupees, proposed as a Contribution for the Relief of the Forces in the Province of Cuttic, in the Event of the Acquiescence of the Government of Berar in the Proposals which were transmitted in October last to them, should be granted and delivered to Rajah Rain Pundit, in the Behalf of Chimnajee; for the Relief of the Army represented to be in the greatest Distress, and as an Acknowledgment for the past and seasonable Instances assorted of the Friendship of that Government. It was also resolved, That a Loan of Ten Lacks, requested for the same Purpose, should be granted to Chimnajee, on the Part of the Government of Berar, on the Security of Rajah Ram Pundit for Payment.

24. As

PPENDIX,

24. As the Detail of this Negociation contains many Particulars which are improper to be entered in the Body of our Consultations, we have therefore judged it expedient to form a detached Nariative of it, and to transmit it in a separate Copy to the Secret Committee of your Honourable Court.

25. We shall briefly observe, that we have laboured, and we think with a Success now decided, to detach the most powerful Member of the Maratta State, and in its Relation to Bengal the most capable of any in India to do it either Service or Hurt, from the general Confederacy which has been formed against us, and have converted it, ostensibly at least, into a Party to our Cause.

Event will shortly prove the Truth of our Conclusions.

26. During the Course of this Transaction, the Detachment under the Command of Colone Pearse proceeded by a quiet and unmolested Progress to Ganjam, where it arrived on the 17th ultimo, accompanied to the Borders of that District by a Person of Rank, deputed by the Order of Raja Chimnajee, and abundantly supplied with Provisions and every other Aid and Accommodation it required. Some of the Plunderers of Chimnajee's Army made an Incursion on our Frontier, which he feverely refented, instantly causing the Offenders to be seized and punished in a public and exemplary Manner. This is the only Instance in which our Provinces have suffered any real Injury from the suspicious Situation of the Berar Army during so long a Time in our Neighbourhood. It is now on its Return to Naypore.

27. All Apprehensions of an Invasion from the Marattas being removed, we have given Orders for the Return of the 3d Brigade, and of the Regiments of Sepoys which were fent from Barrackpore to join it, to their respective Stations, excepting the Artillery, which we have ordered down to the Presidency.

28. In the Interval between the Time at which the Detachment left Midnapore, and the Day of its Arrival at Ganjam, nothing fufficiently material to be noticed happened respecting it, excepting a numerous and extraordinary Defertion, which originated in the first Instance with the 20th Battalion of Sepoys, formerly commanded by Captain Peter Grant: For the Occasion of this Defertion, and our Proceedings in consequence, we beg Leave to refer you to our Letter from the Public Department. With respect to the Causes which have operated to the Desertion of those Men who did not belong formerly to Captain Grant's Battalion, we are at a Loss to account for it on any other Principle than the Contagion of Example.

29. Soon after the Arrival of Colonel Pearse's Detachment at Ganjam, an infectious Disorder pervaded the Camp, which obliged him to leave Ganjam and march to Itchapore. Our last Letters from him are from Culwall Delaub, a Place about Five Miles distant from Itchapore. The Disorder which we have mentioned prevailed generally, and has had very severe Consequences; but the Means taken by Colonel Pearse to put a Stop to it for the present, having been in the latter Respect nearly effectual, we hope foon to hear that the Troops have generally recovered; and we are affired hy Colonel Pearse, that he will not suffer a Moment's Delay, which can be by any Means avoided, in the further Profecution of his March.

30. Our Concern on this Occasion is not confined to the Effect of the Disafter in the Sickness of a large Body of Men, or in the Diminution which it has occasioned of Colonel Pearle's Force, though such Consequences are felt by us in the most sensible Manner; but the Delay which is thereby necesfarily and unavoidably occasioned in the March of the Troops, is another serious Evil which attends it, and cruelly opposes the Wishes and Expectations we had formed of their early Arrival at Fort Saint George.

31. The Disorder to which we allude has not been confined to the Country near Ganjam; it afterwards found its Way to this Place, and after chefly affecting the native Inhabitants, so as to occasion a great Mortality during a Period of a Fortnight, it is now greatly abated, and pursuing its Course to the Northward. The Letters which we have received from Colonel Pearse, from the Time of his 1, to the Northward. The Letters which we have received at Ganjam, are according to the Dates, and Feb. leaving the Midnapore District to that of his Arrival at Ganjam, are according to the Dates, and appear on the Proceedings noted in the Margin.

32. When we had the Honour of addressing you on the 13th of January, we congratulated you on the important Capture of the Fortreis of Bassein on the 12th December, by your Forces under the Command of Brigadier General Goddard; and we transmitted to you a Copy of the Papers of Intelligence which advised us of it. We had soon afterwards the Pleasure of receiving a Letter from the General, in which he himself communicated to us the pleasing News of this Event. The Particulais of the Siege appear in a Letter to the Commander in Chief, recorded on our Proceedings of the 26th February. Every Preparation had been previously concerted and made for a successful Attack, and a respectable Force was lest in the Province of Guzerat to defend it against the Enemy if they should venture to invade it. After the Success at Bassein, General Goddard's Operations were directed against the Fort of Arnall, which surrendered at Discretion to a Detachment of his Army on the 18th of January. The Fort of Arnall is represented by General Goddard likely to be a very useful Possession to the Company, as compleating the Line of Conquests from Guzerat to Bombay, and as being to be defended by a small Body of Men against any Force that can be brought to act against it. The whole Army marched afterwards towards the Gauts, at the Foot of which the Enemy had continued for some Time. A Letter which we have lately received from General Goddard, under Date the 11th February, and which we have the Honour to transmit to you with its Enclosure a Number in the Packet, acquaints us, that the Enemy is entirely driven out of the

P E N D I X, N 364.

Concan; and that your Army under his Command were then in Possession of Bhou Gaut, beyond . which the whole of the Maratta Forces were encamped on the Road to Poona.

33. With a Letter received by us from the Prefident and Scleet Committee of Fort Saint George, under Date the 23d January, and recorded on our Proceedings of the 23d of the following Month, is transmitted to us Copy of a Letter received by the Nabob Wallaw Jaw from his Vackeel at Poo-na; on which the Gentlemen at Fort Saint George observe, that "They are happy to perceive the "Administration there are inclinable to pacific Terms." A Suggestion of this Nature raised our Curiofity to a Knowledge of the Terms which the peaceable Intentions of the Poona Government were to be proved to us; and as we fincerely wished for a Peace with the Marattas, we were in Iopes that the Terms proposed would have been such as to admit of our according to them. You will judge then of our Surprise when we found the following to be the Conditions recommended: " That we should deliver up to the Marattas the Islands of Salfette and Bassein, the Fort of Gualior, " the Forts in Guzerat, and all the Countries which we had taken from them in Concan, &c. and

" furrender to their Pleasure the Person of Ragonaut Row."

34. Although we wish for Peace with the Maratta State, we will not make Peace on Terms dishonourable to ourselves; we will not difgrace the English Name by submitting to Conditions which cannot be complied with without a Sacrifice of the Honour and Interest of the Company; yet such are the Conditions prescribed in the Proposal to which we have alluded. On Hyder's Invasion of the Carnatic, and on the unfortunate Intelligence which we received of the Defeat of a Detachment of vour Troops near Conjeveram, you have been advised, that such Terms were agreed to be proposed to the Maratta State, through the Mediation of the Rajah of Berar, as appeared to us very reasonable, and fuch as might be honourably yielded to on both Sides; they were fuch, therefore, as we thought would not be refused by the Enemy. But the Event has been otherwise: Instead of finding them inclined to make Peace, the Diffress which the Company's Affairs have suffered in the Carnatic, and their Belief of our consequent Inability to support the War against them, has raised their Prefumption, and induced them to infift on Terms for the Conclusion of it, which the worst State of your Affairs would not warrant us in yielding to. We are morally convinced, that nothing but a vigorous and fuccessful Profecution of the War will prevail on them to make a Peace, or overcome their present Dianchnation to it. Peace is our Object, and we are determined to puriue the Means which appear to us likely to give it an honourable Effect, and we will readily accept it when we can.

35. The several Letters which we have received from Lieutenant Colonel Camac, whom we appointed to the Command of a Detachment employed on the Western Side of the Jumna, appear in the Proceedings noted in the Margin.

36. The first Operations of Lieutenant Colonel Camac's Detachment were directed against Sippree, the Capital of a confiderable Territory extending from the Narwar País, which it commands, to Niah Sirai. He proceeded to Seronge, where he arrived on the 16th of February. Here he unfortunately took Post, and thereby afforded an Opportunity to Madajee Scindia, who having affembled his Forces, met him at this Place to furround him, and cut off his Supplies. In this Situation, and with a Prospect of the greatest Distress for Want of Provisions, Lieutenant Colonel Camac sent repeated Letters, pressing Colonel Morgan who commanded the Troops appointed for the Desence of the Vizier's Dominions, and Colonel Muir, to afford him instant and powerful Assistance.

37. In consequence of this Desire, and of other Letters received by Colonel Morgan respecting Conf. 22dMarg Lieutenant Colonel Camac's Situation, he ordered Three Regiments of Sepoys, Two Regiments of Cavalry, and a Company of Artillery, under the Command of Colonel Muir, to march immediately to the Relief of Lieutenant Colonel Camac's Detachment. We expect to hear daily of the Junction of the Two Detachments, and as Colonel Muir being a fenior Officer to Lieutenant Colonel Camac, is in consequence entitled to the Command of the collected Forces, we have sent Orders to Lieutenant Colonel Camac to deliver up the fame to him, and to Colonel Muir to receive it. A Copy of the Instructions sent to Colonel Muir for his Guidance, is transmitted to you a Number in the Packet.

38. It appears by Letters under Date the 10th and 11th of March, received by the Governor General from Lieutenant Colonel Camac, that the Want of Provisions had obliged him to retreat from Seronge into a Country where the Troops were plentifully supplied with Provisions; and we have great Pleasure in acquainting you, that in a successful Attack made upon Scindia's Camps, your Troops under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Camac, have possessed themselves of the Enemy's Guns, Stores, and Ammunition. There are 13 Guns, 21 Camels, 2 Elephants, and the Flag Elephant with the Enemy's Grand Standard.

39. Lieutenant Colonel Camac having urgently and repeatedly represented the Necessity of a Body of Cavalry to the Operations of his Detachment, and the Nature of the Service on which he is cmployed appearing to us to require it, One of the Regiments stationed at Futtyghur was ordered to

40. The Conquest of the Fortress of Gwalior having been made for the express Benefit and Behalf join it. of the Rana of Ghode, and so especially guaranteed to him by his Treaty with the Company, that in the 8th Article of it, it is made an Exception to any Cessions which may be hereafter made, whenever Peace shall be concluded between the Company and the Maratta State, although the Time in which it should be put into his Possession is not prescribed; the Rana having also repeatedly urged his Claim to this Acquisition, and having been informed from Authority, that the Rana having heard of Colonel Camac's Situation, when it was most distressed, had resolved to march to his Assistance in Person, declaring his Intention by this Conduct to manifest his Attachment and Fidelity to the Company;

Conf. 16th Jan 8th and 19th

APPENDIX,

we for these Reasons, and because we thought it peculiarly necessary at a Time in which we were est deavouring to form new Alliances of the first Consequence to our Interest, to remove every Circuit stance that might tend to throw Doubts on the Company's Fidelity, to their Public Treaties, have resolved to deliver up Gwalior to the Rana; and accordingly sent Orders to Major Popham to the

i Apil. Purpofe.

41 In consequence of the Recommendation of the Commander in Chief, Colonel Morgan was & rested on the 12th of February to march with the 2d Brigade to Ackbarpoor, distant a few Coss from Culpee, in order to strike an Awe into the Maratta Chiefs possessing the District lying between Culpee and Narwar, and by engaging them at Home, prevent them from annoying the Rear of Colonel Camac's Detachment; such also being the Situation of Ackbarpoor, as to enable Colonel Morgan is advance to Itawah, should Nudjiff Cawn attempt any thing against the Quiet of the Daub. Colonel Morgan was at the fame Time directed to hold his Troops in Readiness to cross the Jumna, whenever our farther Orders should require them to do so.

- 42. The Station to which Colonel Morgan had been thus directed to conduct the Forces under his Command, bringing him into the Neighbourhood of Culpee, the present weak State of the Maratta Government in that Quarter affording also sufficient Grounds to us to hope that the War might be successfully carried on there, in such Mode as might contribute to the Relief of the heavy Expenses. which have hitherto attended it, we thought it expedient on the 19th ultimo, to order the immediate Detachment of a Force from that Command, of fuch a Strength as the Commander in Chief should judge adequate to the Service, to take Possession of the Fort of Culpee; and a Letter which we have lately received from Colonel Morgan, fixes us in the daily Expectation of hearing that these Orders have been carried into Execution with Success. Our Instructions to Colonel Morgan have also been to require the Chiefs of the Diffricts dependent on the Government of Culpee, to Jubmit themselves and their Dominions to the Authority of the Company, and to pay to the Company the same Tribute or Revenue as has hitherto been drawn from them by the Maratta Government. We have left it to Colonel Morgan's Diferetion to apply fuch immediate and temporary Measures as he shall judge neceffary, for securing the Revenue eventually acquired in Execution of this Plan, and shall wait to receive his Report thereof, before we transmit to him our final Instructions upon the Subject.
- 43. We think it proper to acquaint you, that in consequence of the many Representations of a Want of Force to aid the Collections from the Countries in his Excellency's Dominions assigned to the Company, the native Sibandy Establishment being unequal to this Purpose; and in consequence of Orders, that all the scattered Detachments of your Troops near the Frontier should join their respective Stations, we recommended it to the Vizier to re-establish the Corps lately commanded by Mr. Ofborne; and as Captain Clarke, a deferving Officer in your Service, was in every Respect qualified to fill the Command, it was recommended to the Nabob to appoint him to it.
- 44. Some Delays arising, which were likely to prevent Mr. Auriol from commencing his Negociations with the Portuguese Government for some Months, and the State of his Health being such as to make it doubtful whether it would be advisable for him to proceed to the Malabar Coast or not, we have in a great Measure left the Prosecution of his Commission to his Option. If the State of his Health should oblige him to proceed to the other Side of India, and he should receive no Orders from us in the mean Time to defift from the Profecution of the Commission, it is continued; but if his Health should be so far restored as to permit him to return, we have authorized his Return.
- 45. Mr. Crommelin, a Man in Years, and of very respectable Character, who formerly filled a high Station in the Service of the Company, is appointed to succeed to the Office of our Minister at Goa, when it is relinquished by Mr. Auriol.

46. Mr. Francis Fowke having been recalled from his Residency at Benares, and appointed Agent for the Provision of Boats to the Army after the Expiration of the present Contract, we have appointed Mr. William Markham to that Residency.

47. We beg Leave to refer you to Mr. Middleton's Letters, recorded on the Consultation noted in the Margin, for a particular Account of the Situation of his Excellency the Vizier, and of the Provision which he has been enabled to make for the Company's Demand on him. His great Diftress would not permit him to make compleat Payment of the Company's Claim on him for the last Year, and that Distress not only continuing but encreasing, we have been obliged to be content with the following Settlement made with his Excellency for the present Year:

In Assignments Rupees 98,95,345 Bonds 43,18,613 142,13,958

We think it necessary only to observe to you further on this Subject, that the Amount of the Affignments by Mr. Middleton's Calculation, exceeds the necessary Claim upon the Company for the Services of the Current Year by above Six Lacks.

48. The Nabob Vizier having repeatedly and urgently represented to the Governor General the Injuries which his Authority and Revenues have endured, from the Abuses of the Agents acting under the commanding Officers at the fixed Stations, in the Management of the Camp Buzars, we thought it proper to publish to the Army serving in his Dominions, the general Order which appears on our Records of the 15th February, for the Prevention of similar Causes of Complaint in future; but as this Regulation in redressing the Injury done to the Nabob might deprive the commanding Officers of a long-established, and under just Restrictions perhaps a just, Perquisite in the Dunes collected upon the Provisions and Necessaries voluntarily brought into their Camp, the Nabob has been requested to grant such a Gratuity, in lieu of the Emoluments taken from the commanding Officers, as he and our Collector Mr. Nathaniel Middleton may mutually agree upon as equitable, the same being previously submitted to us for our Approval.

49th. It appearing from Letters which his Excellency the Vizier has written to the Governor General, that the Nabob Fyzulla Khan has evaded the Performance of his Part of the Treaty between the late Nabob Shujah-ul-Dowla and him, to which the Honourable Company were Guarantee, and upon which he was lately summoned to furnish the stipulated Number of Troops, which he is obliged furnish, as the Conditions to which he holds the Jaghire granted to him, it has been recommended to the Nabob Vizier to fend a Deputation to him, accompanied by an Agent from Mr. Middleton, in Behalf of this Government as Guarantees, and that in Presence of proper Witnesses they do unitedly, upon the following Clause,

"That he will consider the Vizier's Friends as his Friends, and all his Enemies as his own; that " with whomsoever the Vizier shall declare War, Fyzulla Khan shall join with his Army Two or "Three thousand Men, to the utmost of his Ability; and that if the Vizier marches against any " Enemy in Person, he shall then bring his whole Army to join him; and if he is unable to join " him, because the Number of 5000 Men, to which his Standing Army is limited, are too few; in " fuch Case he shall have Leave to raise Four thousand more, that he may then join him with a suf-" ficient Force, and these Expences shall be defrayed," demand immediate Delivery of 3000 Cavalry. If the Nabob Fyzullah Khan shall evade or refuse Compliance, the Deputies are to deliver to him a formal Protest against him for Breach of Treaty, and return, making their Report to the Vizier, which Mr. Middleton is to transmit to 50th. In the case of Compliance of Fyzullah Khan, by the Delivery of the Horse required, Mr. Middleton has been directed to establish some Mode of securing a Fund for the regular Payment of them, that they may not from want of Pay become troublesome instead of useful, or the Company run the Risk of being involved by the Necessity of making Advances to them.

Letter from Bengal (Secret Department)

To the Honourable the Committee of Secrecy of the Honourable Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies; dated 30th April 1781.

Honourable Sirs,

I. IN our general Letter to the Honourable Court of Directors, bearing Date the 27th Instant, we have acquainted them with our Intention of transmitting to you in a separate Address, an Account or Narrative of our Proceedings, with respect to the Berar Government and the Army of the Berar Rajah, stationed for a long Time in the Province of Orissa, which contained Matter of too secret a Nature to appear on the Face of our Records, and we have now the Honour of communicating the same to you.

2. To render the Subject of the Narrative clear and intelligible, it will be necessary to revert to some Circumstances which happened a few Months ago, and to unfold the Dispositions and Views of fome of the principal Powers of Hindostan.

3. In the Month of September 1780, Advices were received here from the Governor and Council

3. In the Month of September 1780, Patrickment, the Retreat of the Army under of Madras, of the melancholy Fate of Colonel Baillie's Detachment, the Retreat of the Army under General Munro, and the desperate State of our Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel: It was imme-REP. VI.

diately refolved that the most vigorous Measures should be taken to assist the Presidency of Madras with Men and Money from Bengal. Accordingly, Transports were fitted out with all Expedition, and General Sir Eyre Coote was sent round by Sea with a Supply of 15 Lacks of Rupees, and a strong Detachment of European Infantry and Artillery, the Flower of our Army; and it was agreed, that a further Reinforcement of Five thousand Sepoys should be assembled at Midnapore, and sent afterwards by Land under the Command of Colonel Pearse.

At this important Period we were engaged in a War with the Maratta Government at Poona, which had lasted for some Years; much Expence had already been incurred, and notwithstanding a constant Train of Successes which had attended all the Operations of our Army under the Command of General Goddard, we had still no immediate Prospect of terminating the War.

It was at this Time known that Moodajee Bhoossa the Rajah of the Maratta State of Berai; and Nizam Ally Cawn the Soubah of the Decan, had united in a Plan of Confederacy against the English with Hyder Ally the Nabob of Mysore and the Ministers of the Peshwa's Government at Poona. Moodajee was to invade Bengal, and the Nizam was to enter the Company's Circars of Chicacole, whilst Hyder Ally was to pass the Ghauts and lay waste the Carnatic. The Government of Poona, pressed in their own Territories, could only contribute to this Plan of offensive War by Grants of Lands to its Allies.

The Rajah of Berar had nevertheless on many Occasions given the most evincing Proofs of his pacific Disposition towards the English, and had even given us early Intimation of this Confederacy, alledging, that he had been compelled to enter into it from a Dread of the Resentment of his Associates; and assuring us, that whatever Appearances he might be constrained to assume, he would not involve the Berar Government in a decided Enmity with the English. In Conformity to this Plan of Policy, Mocdajee had sent from 30 to 40,000 Horse, under the Command of his Second Son Chimnajee Baboo: They received their Dismission on the Day of the Dusserah, on the 11th of August 1779. The Plan of Operations prescribed to them by the Confederates, was to march into Behar, which they might have reached in Two Months; but instead of following this Plan they took a disferent Road, and by studied Delays had only reached Cuttack in the Month of May following, being about the Time when the periodical Rains usually set in in that Province, which of course served them as a Pretext for deferring the Prosecution of their prosessed Design; and they were at this Time still laying at Cuttack.

The Nizam had committed no open Hostilities against us, though there is every Reason to suppose (and he has even himself avowed it) that he was the Projector of the Confederacy, and had secretly supplied the other Powers with Money to carry on their Operations against us.

The Advices from Madras proved but too fully the Activity and Spirit with which Hyder had begun to perform his Part in this alarming Confederacy.

Such was the Posture in which we stood with respect to the Powers of this Country. Our Advices regarding our European Enemies were uncertain; it was however firmly believed, that an Expedition would be attempted by the French, in the course of the Season, against some of the Company's Settlements in India, though it was impossible to see whether it would fall on Bengal, Madras, or Bombay, though the latter was most probable.

Under these Circumstances it became expedient to contract as much as possible the Sphere of our Military Operations, so that without endangering the Sasety of our own Possessions in Bengal, we might be able to act with more Force and Essicacy in our Endeavours to recover the Carnatic, and to revenge the Injury which the English had sustained from Hyder Ally Cawn. The Government at Poona had long borne an inveterate and avowed Enmity against Hyder, and though temporary Policy had now united them in one Cause, yet his great and unexpected Successes might naturally revive their former Jealousy, and alarm the Ministers of Poona with Apprehensions for the future Sasety of their own Territories: The Opportunity therefore seemed favourable for proposing to them Terms of Reconciliation from this Government, and as Moodajee Boosla had always professed the strongest Desire of essecting a Pacification betwixt us and the Maratta States, it was thought necessary to engage him as a Mediator in the intended Negociation. With these Views a Treaty was drawn out by us, and sent to Naugpore, and Moodajee was desired to get it executed by the Peshwa and his Ministers, and to sign it himself as the Guarantee for the punctual Observance of it on both Sides.

Whilst this Negociation was in Suspence, it was agreed to postpone the March of the Detachment destined by Land for Madras, because its Route lay through the Territories of Moodajee Boosla, and it must necessarily pass by that Part of his Army which was laying at Cuttack, under the Command of Chimnajee; Circumstances which, without having obtained the previous Concurrence of Moodajee, might, in the unsettled State of our Connection with that Prince, not only expose the Detachment to Difficulties and Opposition in its March, but lead it into Operations very different from the Intention of its Equipment, and draw on us the decided Enmity of Moodajee, whose Power when exerted against us would prove an important Acquisition to the Strength of Hyder and the Ministers of Poona. The great Exertions which had already been made by this Government, required also some Time before the necessary Arrangements could be made for sitting out a new Detachment, which was to perform so long a March, and be employed in Service of so much Importance.

On the 9th January 1781, Answers were at length received from the Rajah of Berar and his Ministers, which contained however so many Objections to the proposed Treaty, that little room was left to hope for an immediate Accommodation with the Government of Poona; and besides the Points which came into Discussion, from their immediate Connection with the Treaty, these Letters contained a Variety of Claims and Propolitions afferted by Moodajee on his own Account, which though they were not wholly new, were recapitulated in a Style that impressed us with Doubts regarding the Sincerity of Moodajee's former Professions and Assurances.

The Season for Action was now far advanced, Colonel Pearse's Detachment was almost ready, and the State of our Affairs on the Coast would not admit of longer Delay. It was evident also, from the Answers which had been received from Moodajee, that he conceived that our Affairs were reduced to a State more desperate than they really were. To remove therefore this Impression, as well as to afford the most speedy Assistance to the Presidency of Madras, it was resolved, That the Detachment should immediately proceed and make its Way through the Province of Orissa against all Opposition. To reconcile Moodajee however to this Measure by every Mark of Attention in our Power, and to prevent, if possible, a Rupture from the Meeting of the Two Armies, it was agreed to depute a Gentleman from this Government to Chimnajee Baboo at Cuttack. Mr. Anderson was selected for this Service, and the following Instructions were given to him:

To Mr. David Anderson.

We hereby appoint you our special Minister to Rajah Chimnajee Bhoosla, the Commander of the Army of the Government of Berar, now in the Province of Cuttack; and we direct you to proceed thither with all possible Expedition for the following Purposes.

First, You will produce to the Rajah your Credentials, and deliver to him and to the Dewan Bowanny Punt Appa, the introductory Letters which you will receive from the Governor General.

Secondly, You will notify to them in Form, that Orders have been given to Lieutenant Colonel Pearle, the Commander of the Army lately formed at Midnapore, to march into the Carnatic by the Way of Cuttack, its only practicable Route; apprizing them that this Information is given them in Consideration of the ancient Friendship which has subsisted between our Forces in the Carnatic and the Government of Naugpore, and for the Prevention of any Cause which might eventually disturb it. For this Reason we have instructed you to request them in our Name to cause such of their Troops as may yet be in the Road through which our Army must pass, to remove at such a Distance from it as may prevent the Individuals on either Side, and particularly the Followers of the Camps, whose Licentiousness is the most difficult to be restrained, from engaging in mutual Broils which might imperceptibly lead to serious and alarming Consequences, affecting the Union of the Two States; and to acquaint them that the strictest Orders have from the same Motives been issued to the Commander of the English Army, who is a Man of Understanding and Prudence, to observe all the Duties of Friendship with the Rajah and his People, and to avoid whatever may tend to create a Misunder-standing with either. That the Force has been some Time since assembled and ready to march; but Letters having been before sent to Naugpore, containing the Substance of a Treaty proposed for the Guarantee of Rajah Mhoodajee Bhoofla, and the Acceptance and Ratification of the Ministers of the Peshwa, with other Subjects tending to draw the Two Governments of Berar and Bengal into a closer and firmer Connection of Friendship and Interest, the March of the Army was therefore withheld till an Answer should be received from Naugpore: That an Answer has been received, but not conclusive, many Points remaining for Adjustment which may be the Work of Time: That we are affured of the inflexible Determination of the Rajah to maintain the ancient Friendship of the Bhossla Family with this Government, and to unite with it in one common Cause, whenever the Terms and Objects of it can be settled to our mutual Satisfaction; but that we cannot suffer the necessary Plans and Mealures of Government to remain suspended in the Expectation of this Conclusion, nor our Armies to lose the Season of Action, while those of our Enemies are employing it against us; and that having acquitted ourselves of the Obligation imposed upon us by our Sense of the Relation subfifting between the Two Governments, the rest remains with them, and they must be answerable for the Consequences if they do not conform to our Example. You will be careful to make them understand that the Orders to Colonel Pearse are positive to prosecute his March, and make his Way against all Opposition.

Thirdly, If you find the Rajah and his Dewan disposed to take a more decided Part in our Favour, of which indeed we have no Expectation, we defire that you will solicit the Aid of 2000 effective and cholen Horse, or any less Number which they may be willing to contribute, to accompany Colonel Pearse, and to act under his Command, and receive their Pay from the Company through their Pay Master; the Mode and Rate of which we empower you to settle by written Stipulation.

Fourthly, We expect that this Application will draw from them other Demands; but these we direct you to transmit to us, and wait our Answers to them, not judging it either necessary or expedient to give you more positive Orders upon other Points.

It is our Order that you correspond with Lieutenant Colonel Pearle, transmitting to him speedy and regular Information of all Matters proper for his Knowledge.

Fort William, the 14th January, 1781.

Mr. Anderson having received these Instructions, proceeded on his Journey towards Cuttack; on his Arrival at Ballasore, he found that Chimnajee had marched with his Army against the Fort of Dhekanall, which is situated amongst the Hills, and that it would be impossible at that Time to penetrate through the Passes which were in the Possession of the Mountaineers. Mr. Anderson communicated this Difficulty to the Governor General in the following Letters.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire.

Honourable Sir,

I arrived here this Morning. The Maratta Army is I find engaged in the Siege of Dhekanall, which lays amongh the Hills, a confiderable Diftance to the Westward of the Cuttack Road. The Communication is I am told almost entirely stopped, as there is a thick Jungle of near 17 Coss in Length betwixt the Road and Dhekanall, which is so much infested by the People of the rebellious Rajah's, that some Days ago a considerable Body of Horse which attempted to penetrate to the Army, with some Supplies from Cuttack, were obliged to return.

I foresee therefore a great Difficulty in reaching Chimnajee's Camp in Time to carry on any Negociation, before the Arrival of Colonel Pearse's Detachment; and what will I fear considerably augment it, is the Absence of the Phousdar of this Place, for whom I brought a Letter from Beneram Pundit. I have delivered the Letter to his Naib, but having no previous Notice, he seems undetermined how to act until he shall receive Directions from the Subahdar at Cuttack. This would require a Delay of 4 or 5 Days, but you may be assured 1 shall endeavour to find Means of proceeding sooner.

Whilst I regret extremely this Delay, it is with some Pleasure that I remark that the same Circumstance which is the Cause of it, renders the Object of my Deputation less important than it would have been, had the Army of the Marattas been unemployed and on the high Road to Cuttack.

If I can get the Naib Phousdar's Permission, and a few of his Servants for my Protection, (which I find from Experience is absolutely necessary) I shall set out To morrow for Cuttack, and there wait until I can hear from Chimnajee, or until I can get an Escort to conduct me through the Hills.

Ballasore, I have the Honour to be, with much Respect, &c.

22d January 1781.

Honourable Sir,

Your, &c.

Honourable Sir,

I had the Honour to write you Yesterday. I have now determined to set out for Cuttack Tomorrow Morning at all Events. The Naib Phousdar has promised to fend Two or Three of his Sepoys along with me, which will I hope prevent any Delay from my being stopped by the Chowkeydars on the Road. Biffumber Pundit is I find with Rajah Ram Pundit at Cuttack. I shall consult with him about my future Operations, and if the Road to Chimnajee's Camp is impracticable, I shall wait at Cuttack until I shall receive your Orders, or until I can find Means to convey a Letter and receive an Answer from Chimnajee. I do not understand that there are many Troops in this Part of the Country, they are mostly gone with Chimnajee into the Dhekanall Country. The few that are left are I believe under the Command of Rajah Ram Pundit, who is a Man of high Rank, and much respected among the Marattas. I think it is probable that the chief Object of my Deputation may be answered by an Interview with him. I mean the Declaration which you have enjoined me to make with respect to the March of Colonel Pearse. But if you should think it at all Events necessary that I should find Means of waiting on Chimnajee, to pursue the remaining Objects of my Commission, viz. To persuade him to take an active Part and join us, or to enter into some Engagement to remain passive, it will be necessary to tend me more particular Instructions, because these Propositions will, as you have observed, lead to Demands on his Part that I shall be unable to answer, until I can write to the Board and receive their Orders, which (hemmed in as Chimnajee is at present by the rebellious Rajahs) would be very difficult, and if effected, would be attended with so much Delay, as to render my Negociations with the Marattas, either regarding a Junction or remaining passive, of no Use with respect to Colonel Pearse's Detachment. I beg Leave to submit these Circumstances to your Confideration, and to request your Orders; which as far as I can judge at present, may reach me before it will be in my Power to leave Cuttack.

Ballasore, I have the Honour to be, with the utmost Respect,

2 d January, 1781.

Honourable Sir,

Your faithful, &c.

The Governor General laid these Letters before the Board, and as there appeared so little Probability of Mr. Anderson's being able to effect an Interview with Chimnajee, and that Gentleman's Presence was wanted at the Presidency for the Duties of a very important Station, to which we had lately appointed him, we agreed to direct him to return to the Presidency, and to leave the Subject of his Commission with Rajah Ram Pundit, the Naib of Cuttack. The following Letter was accordingly written to him by the Secretary.

APPEN,DIX,

Mr. David Anderson.

. I am directed to convey to you the Orders of the Honourable Governor General and Council, that you immediately return to the Presidency, delivering the Subject of your Commission to Rajah Ram Pundit, the Naib of Cuttack, to be by him communicated to Chimnajee Baboo. Fort William,

Council Chamber, the 29th January 1781:

I am Sir, Your most obedient humble Servant, (Signed) E. Hay,

Mr. Anderson in the mean Time proceeded on to Cuttack, and during his Stay there wrote the following Letters to the Board.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Council, Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

On my Arrival here Three Days ago, I was informed that Rajah Chimnajee was encamped with his whole Army amongst the Hills, about 24 Coss from this Place; that the Mountaineers were in general up in Arms against the Maratta Government; that they had for some Time entirely cut off the Communication betwirt this Place and the Rajah's Camp, but that it was then again in some Measure opened by the Reduction of the Rajah of Dheckanall, who had been one of the principal and most active Leaders in the Rebellion. I immediately dispatched Letters to Rajah Chimnagee, and his Dewan Bowanny Pundit, informing them of my Deputation from you, and of my Arrival here, and requesting to know if it would be agreeable to them that I should wait on them in Camp. It is with Concern I am obliged to acquaint you that the Hircarrahs who carried the Letters have now returned, and inform me that it is utterly impossible to pass through the Hills; even considerable Bodies of Horse who have attempted to join the main Army being obliged to return. This Information is confirmed by the Voice of all those with whom I have had an Opportunity of con-

As there has been no Intercourse whatever betwixt this Place and the Camp for some Days, it is impossible to say where the Army is at present. All the Inhabitants here conclude from a Variety of Circumstances that it is in Motion. But different Opinions and Reports prevail regarding its Destination; some alledge that it was Chimnajee's Intention to march against the Rajah of Sumbelpore, who had refused to submit to the heavy Exactions imposed by the Maratta Government; whilst others conjecture that he is now actually on his March towards the Western Passes of Bengal. Though this is merely Conjecture, yet the well-known Distresses and Importunities of Chimnajee's Army, and the Impossibility of finding any further Resources in this exhausted Country, give it an Appearance of Probability that will not allow me wholly to reject it.

I think it necessary to inform you that there are few or no Troops at present in this Part of the

I am this Evening to have a Conference with Manoojee, the Dewan of Rajah Chimnajee's Duftun, and Hurdy Ram, the Dewan of Cuttack, which will probably determine me regarding the Measures which are now left for me to purfue. I am, &c.

Cuttack, 31st January, 1781.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I had Yesterday Evening the Honour to receive your Secretary's Letter of the 29th ultimo. Rajah Ram Pundit being at present with Chimnajee Baboo, and it appearing the Intention of your Order that I should communicate the Subject of my Commission to the Persons who for the Time being might be considered as the Representative of the Maratta Government at Cuttack, I this Morning waited on Manoojee Pundit and Hurdy Ram, the former of whom as Phurnovese, possesses great Weight in the Councils of the Berar State, and the latter as Dewan of Cuttack holds the executive Authority of this Soubah in the Absence of Rajah Ram Pundit. I had at a former Interview opened to them the Intention of my Deputation, and I this Morning entered on the Subject more fully, explaining it to them nearly in the Words of my Instructions. During the Course of our Confully, versation, Manoojee and Hurdy Ram at first expressed some Apprehensions, from the Resentment which the Peshwa and his Ministers would entertain at their Masters suffering Colonel Pearle's Detachment to pass. They enlarged much on the steady Attachment shewn by Moodajee to the English, even whilst all the other Nations were at Enmity with us; and observed that he had sent his Son to command the Troops, who, notwithstanding the pressing Instances of the Peshwa and his Ministers, had thus long avoided an Invasion of our Territories, and had even now, under Pretence of reducing some Petty Rajahs, removed his Army to a considerable Distance, on Purpose that our Troops might the more easily pass. This was a Proof of Friendship which had not occurred to them at our First Invasional Language Control and Contr Interview; I was pleased however to find it adduced, and readily admitted it; I pursued the favourable Disposition which is discovered, and I have the Pleasure to inform you, that Manoojee and Hurdy

Ram promised that Orders should be sent to all the Tanadars and Officers on the Road, not only to avoid doing any thing which might be productive of Disputes, but to affist as far as possible in supplying the Detachment with Provisions in their Route. The Performance of this Promise must however, I am sensible, depend on the Intentions of the Maratta Government, and the Orders which may be received from Chimnajee. At the Request of Manooje and Hurdy Ram, I delivered to them the Letters of Introduction which I received from the Governor General for Chimnajec, and fome Dispatches which I had brought from Beneram Pundit to his Brother, and they promised that they would immediately forward them to Camp under a strong Escort, together with a Letter from themselves to Rajah Chimnajee, informing him of the Subject of my Commission.

I learned from Manoojee and Hurdy Ram, that Chimnajee, with almost the Whole of his Arnsy, was at a Place called Khoud, on the Boundaries of the Cunjer Country, about 35 Coss from hence. It lays, as I am informed, nearly N. W. from Cuttack, and no Inference can be drawn regarding Chimnajee's Intentions from the supposed Situation of the Army, as it is said to be almost equally convenient for marching to any of the Places for which Report variously destines it, to Jumbelpore, to Great Naugpore, or to the Western Frontiers of Bengal.

In Obedience to your Orders of the 29th ultimo, I shall set out To-morrow on my Return to Bengal.

5th February 1781.

I am, &c.

Mr. Anderson ascerwards left Cuttack and set out on his Return to the Presidency: On his Arrival at Ballapore he overtook Bissumber Pundit, a Vackeel whom Chimnajee Baboo had sent through the Hills under a strong Escort with Dispatches to the Governor General. Mr. Anderson agreed to travel in Company with Bissumber Pundit to Calcutta; but before he left Balasore, he heard that Chimnajee with all his Army was come down into the open Country, which was confirmed by a Letter which he received from Chimnajee's Minister, Bhowanny Pundit; expressing a great Desire to see him, and requesting him to return from Balasore to Chimnajee's Camp, which was then in the Neighbourhood of Jaagepore: But as the Order of the Board, of the 29th January, was politive, and Mr. Anderson knew not on what Grounds it was issued, he thought he could not take upon himfelf to deviate from it; he excused himself therefore to Bowanny Pundit in the best Manner he could, and having written all the Circumstances to the Governor General, he proceeded by slow Journies towards Calcutta, expecting to receive on the Road further Orders for his Conduct. The Governor General accordingly did write to him Three Letters, directing him to comply with Bowanny Pundit's Defire; but as they were fent by one Road, and Mr. Anderson proceeded by another, they did not reach him till after his Arrival at Calcutta.

In the mean Time Colonel Pearse's Detachment entered the Maratta Territories, and Chimnajee Baboo, whose Army was now within a few Miles of the Road, not only suffered him to pass without Opposition, but directed one of his principal Officers to attend the Colonel, and supply the Detachment with whatever they might want. The Colonel's Letter afforded daily Testimony of the Care with which the Officer executed his Instructions, and the Detachment during the whole of the March through Oriffa had the most plentiful Supplies of Grain and every Kind of Provisions.

Repeated Dispatches were about this Time received from Chimnajce and his. Ministers (Vide Appendix; N° 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9) professing their friendly Disposition towards the English, and declaring their Resolution to afford Colonel Pearse every Assistance during his March through Orista; but all of them complaining at the same Time of the Hardships which their Friendship for the English had brought upon them, and the Difficulty which they found in pacifying their Troops, who complained of their Want of Pay, and loudly called out to be led to Plunder. A Letter was likewife about this Time received from Bowanny Pundit, the Moonshee of Rajah Moodajee Bhoosla, addressed to Beneram Pundit, the Berar Vackeel at Calcutta, which throws some Light on the Views and Policy of the Court of Berar.

The Message which Bissumber Pundit conveyed from Rajah Chimnagee Baboo contained several Propositions of great Importance, and as the Rajah had expressed some Chagrin at not seeing Mr. Anderson on his first Deputation, we agreed to send that Gentleman back to him. The Governor General also sent Bissumber Pundit back at the same Time with Answers to the Rajah's Propositions. As it became necessary to inform Mr. Anderson of the Propositions conveyed by Bissumber Pundit, and to direct him to found the Dispositions of the Rajah and his Ministers, regarding several Objects of a fecret Nature, it was thought advisable to iffue his Instructions from the Governor General only, without minuting the Particulars of them on the usual Records of the Council. The following is a Copy of the Letter which being agreed on by the Board was written to him:

N. B. The Committee have upon due Consideration thought it proper to leave out the Letter of Instructions to Mr. Anderson.

Letter from the Governor General.

Barasser, 1 March 1781. I now fend you my private Instructions; they are such as could not properly or prudently be given in Public Orders, and exposed as of course these would be to our official Records. Mr. Wheler approves them, and authorizes me to declare his Approbation of them. They appear rather longer than the Matter of mere Conversation needs to be; but I should have made them still longer had they been addressed addressed to a Person less informed, or less capable of drawing the probable Conclusions from known or supposed Facts, than you are; for I think much will depend on the Temper and Inclinations of the young Rajah, and therefore I have been so particular in stating the Points which are most likely to influence his Mind, and even to prescribe the Manner in which you may most successfully urge

I recommend to you to take Minutes of every Convertation with him; they will be uf ful not only for Reference, but by connecting the Sentiments of the Rajah expressed at different Times, they will afford you a better Clue to his real Views and Intentions.

Respecting the Connection of the Government of Berar with Nizam Ally Cawn, I would rather refer you to Biffumber Pundit, who can give you the fullest Information concerning it. I will only fay in a few Words, that I consider them as natural Enemies, although they are on Terms of outward Friendship. I can perceive that Moodajee (or rather his Dewan, whose Dictates the Rajah implicitly follows in all political Measures) stands in some Awe of Nizam Ally, and I have sometimes intimated the Possibility of our being driven to the Necessity of courting his Alliance in the Manner in which I have hitherto fought that of the Government of Berar, if the latter should convinue to proceastinate. He was the Projector of the present Confederacy, and is faid to be at this Time detached from it by the Report of Hyder's having obtained a Grant from the King of his Dominions: The Report is certainly true.

Do not fail to make my Acknowledgments to Chimnajee, for the liberal Manner in which he has acted to Colonel Pearle, of which the Colonel writes his daily Testimony. He has a Claim to a grateful Return, and on that Footing I would yield him Advantages which should be withheld from him for ever, if he employed the Means of Hostility or Menace to obtain them.

Rajah Ram Pundit has been very uteful to us by his Influence and Counfels: Let him know that I know it, and am fentible of it. If you shall judge it necessary to ensure either his or Bowarny Pundit's Friendship by Gifts of Money, or to make similar Presents to others, you have my Authority to draw on me for any Sums, and to distribute them according to your Distriction.

It any thing that I have faid should require further Explanation, and such as can only be conveyed effectually by Conversation, as I shall of course return to Town for a Day, in a Day or Two hence, let me know, and I will go earlier to fee you.

employed against us.

I am,
Dear Sir,
Your's affectionately.

Mr. Anderson having expressed some Doubts regarding the Intention of some Parts of the preceding Inflituctions, the Governor General thought it necessary to explain them more fully in the following Letter.

Baraset, 2d March 1781. Dear Sir,

To remove every Ambiguity in the Construction of the Paragraph concerning which you have expressed your Doubts, I desire you will read it with the following Correction:

"You may engage to supply them with Twelve Lacks of Rupees. This is the Sum which I for-" merly promifed my Interest with this Government to grant them, in the Event of the Rajah's (that " is, Moodajee's) Compliance with the Requisition made to him in October last."

This Requisition was, that he should execute the Treaty which was proposed to him, and order his Troops at Cuttack either to return or to join us. The Requisition has not been complied with. I now offer the same Sum to Chimna Baboo, with the Condition only that he will return, or solemnly promise not to employ the Forces under his Command against us. I limit the Condition to no Time, but to the Forces which are actually under the Command of Chimna Baboo. These must never be Here I think it necessary to distinguish between the Motive of this Bounty, or the Condition for which it is granted, and the Condition on which it is granted; and I desire that you will mark the Distinction in all your Discourses upon the Subject. It is this, I consider the Government of Berar as a Susserer by the many Instances which it has given of its Attachment to our's, and therefore entitled to some Retribution from us. To the World, the Appearance of its Forces so near to our Borders, and their protessed Destination against our Provinces, will be construed an Hostility. To me who know the Compulsion under which this Measure was undertaken, and the Pretexts which have been used to elude the Purpose for which it was professedly formed, to whom both its professed Destination and the intended Evasion of it were early notified, and the latter verified by the flow Progress of the Army, its Inactivity, its Distresses, and above all, by its Forbearance with an English Army passing in their Route, and through their own Territory; it is an Evidence of the pacific Dilpolition of the Government of Berar, and its Attachment to ours, equal even to the Holpitality shewn by it to General Goddard's Detachment. We cannot repay the Expence which they have incurred by to long an Employment of to large a Body of Cavalry in In-action, and in a remote and destitute Country; but I deem it incumbent upon our Government to relieve its present Wants, and to afford it the Means of a Retreat. It is a Debt of Honour, Justice, and even Policy, for I doubt whether the Rajah could return with them, unless he could either discharge a Part of their Arrears, or lead them to Plunder. It is therefore as a Compenfation for Losses sustained on our Account, as an Acknowledgment and Return for past Kindness, not the Purchase of future Forbearance, that we consent to grant them the Aid which you are instructed instructed to tender to them. At the same Time we have thought it proper to give it with the obvious Precaution, that it be not employed to our own Hurt, nor the Right forfested on which it was granted by future Hostilities.

You must not exceed the Sum of Two Lacks in private Distributions; even that you will doubtled confider an Excess, unless some very substantial Benefit can be purchased by it.

I am, Dear Sir, Your's affectionately.

P. S. I am not yet satisfied with the preceding Explanations; complete as they may appear, they want their direct and positive Application, which I now add.—If Chimnajee in his Acceptance of the Sum proffered to him shall insist on any Reservation of the Right to employ his Forces against us in the next Season, or at any Period before their Return to Naugpore, you must declare to him, that his Claim to this Supply will become Forseit by such a Reservation, and that it will put it out of our Power to grant it; in a Word, that we will not grant it.

With these Instructions Mr. Anderson proceeded to the Maratta Camp, where he held several long Conferences with the Rajah and his Ministers. The Subject of these Conferences will best appear from the following Papers which were sent by Mr. Anderson to the Governor General. They were originally intended by that Gentleman to have been considered only as private Information, previous to his finding Leisure to deliver in a regular Report of his Proceedings to the Board; but as these Papers were written almost at the Moment in which the several Conferences related in them actually passed, they will afford the best Insight into the Views of the Parties, and probably be more acceptable than a Relation more leisurely and methodically digested.

Honourable Sir, Camp, 13th March, 1781.

On my Arrival Yesterday Evening, I was received in Camp with every Mark of Attention and Respect. I was introduced to the Rajah, and all his principal Officers assembled. I delivered to him and his Dewan Bowanny Pundit the Letters which I received from you. I took Occasion at this Interview to inform the Rajah that you had sent him some Presents of Silks, which together with all my own Baggage had been left at Beercool, the Coolies who carried them having run away terrified at the Reports of the Depredations committed by a Body of Maratta Horse, which had entered the Province of Jellasore. The Rajah affured me that these Outrages on our Territories were committed in Opposition to his Orders, and that the Moment he had heard of them, he had sent to recall the plundering Party, and to punish the Persons who composed it. I deemed it necessary to obtain this Affurance before I entered on the Subject of my Commission.

This Morning I again waited on the Rajah by Appointment, and had a very long Conference with him, or rather with the Dewan Bowanny Pundit in his Presence. Having produced my Credentials, I explained the professed Object of my former and of my present Deputation. Our Conversation afterwards turned on the Propositions which had been made to you through Bissumber Pundit. I was called on for the Answers, as Bissumber Pundie had referred them to me, and had affected an Ignorance of your Sentiments, even on those Points which you have replied to in the clearest Terms. The Dewan in discussing the Preliminary Article of these Propositions, endeavoured to involve under it the Nature of our Situation with respect to the Peshwa, and it was with some Difficulty that I could confine the Question to the Point of View in which you had considered it, and which at the Time of stating it was certainly the Point of View in which it was intended you should consider it, being an Appeal from the Rajah to your Justice. I went through all the Arguments which you have so fully laid down in my Instructions; and as the Dewan seemed inclined to combat every one of them, the Conversation was carried on to a great Length. The Dewan at last in some Measure concurred in the Propriety of the Advice which you had given to the Rajah, but he rested every thing on your Compliance with his Expectations respecting the first Article of the Propositions, namely, the Expence of the Troops. I then proceeded to inform the Rajah of the Offer which you had empowered me to make him, of the Motives which induced you to grant him that Supply, and of the Promise which you had directed me to exact from him. The Rajah, his Dewan, Rajah Ram Pundit, One or Two of the Ministers who were present, and even Bissumber Pundit, affected much Surprise at the Smallness of the Sum: They observed, that near Two Crores of Rupees had been expended on account of their Attachment to the English; they expatiated on their prefent Diffresses, and remarked that the Sum which you had tendered was scarcely adequate to discharge the Arrears of a single Jemautder, and infinuated the Consequences to which they might be driven by Hunger, Disappointment, and Despair. I acknowledged in the fullest Degree the Sense you entertained of their Attachment, and admitted the Reality of their Distresses: I requested, however, that they would consider also the Situation of our Government; that we were engaged in Wars with several powerful States; that although we had indeed latterly been successful, yet that these Successes had been obtained at a vast Expence of Treasure, and that much more might till be necessary; that as these Troops had not come thus far at our Request, nor ever been employed in our Service, it was not to be expected that we could defray the whole of their Expence; all that could be looked for was, that we should assist in relieving them from their present Distresses, of which their Attachment to our Government had partly been the Occasion; and this I affured them you had attended to in as full a Degree as our own Situation could possibly admit: In short, much Argument passed on the Subject, and as the Dewan seemed to reject the Offer with a kind of Slight, ewhich I deemed inconsistent with the Connection which has subsisted betwirt the Two Governments of Berar and Bengal, I thought it my Duty to turn to the Rajah and ask, whether this was a positive and final Answer, or whether it would be agreeable to him before he gave me my Dismission, to take some Days to weigh all that I had said in his own Mind, and then give me an Answer?

PPEN'DIX, Nº 364.

I proceeded to communicate your Answers regarding the remaining Three Propositions. I was permitted to go through those which relate to Ragonaut Row, and the Passage of the Troops through Goyah, without being interrupted or receiving a Reply. When I came to the last Article, and when I questioned whether the Rajah was authorized to treat upon it, the Dewan informed me that he was; and on my telling him, that I should in that Case hear and transinit to you whatever he had to fay, he ruplied, that too much Delay had taken place on that Subject already: He ran through the whole Story of the Manner in which the Chout had been acquired; faid that the Exaction of it had been suspended on account of the Troubles which had happened in the Berar State, but that the Right still remained, and that the Troops who had acquired it were still the same. I satisfied myself with replying, that the Troops of Aliverdy Cawn and those of the English were different; and we foon afterwards imperceptibly passed from this Article without my having an Opportunity of fully founding their Disposition in the Manner which you have enjoined. The Article of the Expences feemed to engross the whole of their Thoughts. They said they were willing to engage hereafter in any of our Views, particularly to unite with us against Hyder Ally, if he had actually tolicited Sunnuds for the Deckan; but the Arrears of their Troops must first be paid, without which it was impossible for them to do any thing: That it was with the utmost Disticulty they could now prevent them from mutinying, by buoying up their Hopes with Promites of Relief from Bengal; and that if a Mutiny should happen, it might prove very fatal to the Rajah and them all; that their Diffresses and Apprehensions were now such, that if I went away without suffling the Expectations of the Troops, the Rajah must go also, from Necessity, and throw himself upon you for Relief at Calcutta. On the whole, you will not imagine that I had much Reason to be satisfied with the expectations shewn by the Dewan in this Day's Conversation: I am not, however, entirely discouraged, as I ascribe it chiefly to the Idea with which Bissumber Pundit has impressed them, of my being possessed with full Powers to settle any Sum which I may think fit, and it is natural for them to try every Method of raising it as high as possible. I am endeavouring to remove this Idea, and I would tam hope, that when this is effected, the Dewan will change his Cpinion regarding the Offer which you we made to the Rajah. You will observe from the Manner in which this Conversation has been carried on, that I have little to expect from an Attention to the particular Disposition of the young Rajah: He shewed a Kind of complacent Indifference during the whole Time, and it was in vain that I endeavoured to engage him in the Discussion by frequent Appeals to him in Points where the Dewans and I differed. I am again to visit him To-morrow Evening to deliver your Presents, which I understand are arrived at Balasore: I shall then confine our Conversation to Subjects of less Importance, and endeavour to obtain a more thorough Infight into his Temper and Character, and to acquire his Good will and favourable Opinion I shall be in no Haste to leave his Camp whilst there remains the smallest Ho ! of my Stay being productive of any Good. Rajah Ram Pundit, who has frequently visited me since the Arrival, has particularly implored me to represent to you their Distresses, and entreat you to sevent them by a more considerable Supply. It is in vain that I have repeated to him, and indes to all the rest who have spoken to me, that you have fixed a Sum, and that I was entreat you to certain that you would on no Account exceed it. Under the present Appearances I have thought it would be to no Purpose and premature to try the Mode which you have authorized of private Distributions. Notwithstanding the Length of this Letter, I have been obliged to omit many Things which I could wish to have mentioned. I must make an Apology for the hasty and inaccurate Manner in which I have written, and request that you will consider it as a private Letter addressed to yourfelf only. I am, &c.

Postscript, 14th in the Morning.

Bissumber Pundit has just now been with me with a Message from the Rajah. He has shewn me your Letter to him, to evince that I have a discretional Power to encrease the Sum tendered as I may think fit. I have explained to him, that although you have referred the Rajah to me, yet you have communicated to me your utmost Intentions, and I must abide by them. He desired, in the Rajah's Name, to know whether he should march forwards To day, and whether he should give me my Dismission? I have told him that I wish him to weigh well the Views which I have suggested Yesterday, and to act accordingly; that it is not my Defire to leave him so soon; that on the contrary it is my Wish to slay some Time with him, that I may obtain a Knowledge of all his Sentiments and Wishes, to that on my Return I may be enabled to explain them to you; but that on both of the above l'oints it must rest with him to determine: That I could not give him any Expectations whatever of a larger Sum. I do not imagine he will give me my Dismission, though possibly he may make a Shew of marching. I am to visit Bowanny Pundit this Morning.

On a further Consideration of my Instructions, some Doubts arise in my Mind, which as they may still have their Application, I beg Leave to state in short Questions.

2d. Shall it either in Writing or verbally be required to be on Oath?

3d. Shall the Word never be positively expressed, or will it be enough if the general Tenor of the Rajah's Discourse shews no Inclination ever to employ his Troops against us; and in his formal Promise will the Word not instead of never be in such Case sufficient?

If you think any of these Points of Consequence, I beg you will be pleased to send me Answers to them, as they are not particularly expressed in my Instructions; and I wish to adhere closely to your Inclinations in every thing.

Minutes of several Conferences on the 14th and 15th March.

14th. I received several cursory Visits in the course of the Day from Bissumber Pundit and Rajali. Ram Pundit; but as little passed excepting Expressions of the Apprehensions which they entertained of the Consequences which would accrue to both Parties, from our not being able to come to an Agreement on the present Occasion, I forbear to minute at full Length the Particulars of our Conversation.

In the Evening I went with them to pay a Visit to the Dewan. The Conversation was begun by his asking me if I had considered the Particulars of Yesterday's Conference, and what Advice I had to offer? I replied that my Advice, in Conformity to that of the Governor, was for them to accept of the Sum, which in regard to their Attachment had been proffered for the Relief of their present Distresses; and either resolve to join us when Circumstances would admit, in carrying on the War against Hyder, or in profecuting the Object which I had pointed out to them, of acquiring the Rauje of the Maratta State for the Bhoofla Family. The Dewan replied, that Supplies were necessary. To this I answered, that when they should resolve to join in the former Object, the Terms of our Union would necessarily be settled; but that if they should embrace the latter Proposal, the Object would be more for their Benefit than for our's, and that I imagined it could be effected without their incurring much Expence; that our Troops alone had already reduced the Government of Poona to the greatest Extremity, but that when joined with theirs, or supported with the Sanction of their Name, they could not fail of Success; that the Rauje was now vacant, insomuch that even the Name of it was scarcely preserved; that (as they themselves must be sensible) it was their known hereditary Right; that there was probably no Power would be inclined, and none I was certain would be capable to oppose their Pretensions; and that on the whole therefore I thought the Acquisition would be easy and infallible. The Dewan replied, That their engaging in this Object was a Matter which must depend on the Councils at Naugpore; that this therefore would require some Delay, and that in the mean Time what were they to do to relieve the Distresses of their Troops which had come thus far, and which had for Sixteen Months depended on their Expectations from our Government. I replied, that for this Purpose the Sum was now tendered them. He answered that the Sum tendered was scarcely a Mouthful; that the Rajah had remarked to him, that the Governor had stiled him in his Letters Yeazaz-az Jiam, dearer than Life; was this a Proof of it? Was this all that he would do for one that was so dear to him? It would appear that he regarded Money as more dear. I informed him, that I had not had an Opportunity of knowing the Subject of all the Conferences which had paffed betwixt the Governor and Beneram Pundit and Bissumber Pundit, or of all the Letters which had been written to and from Naugpore; but that I never had understood that any more than what now proffered had ever been required or promised: That I had seen one Letter from Dewagur Pundit, which, though it mentioned high Expectations in case of a Junction against Hyder Ally, yet it implied no higher Expectations for the Relief of the Troops fent to Cuttac. I asked him, if any higher Promile had ever been made? He acknowledged, that no express Promise had ever been made of a larger Sum, but that the Governor had always promifed his Friendship, and in promiting that had given them Reason to expect a Supply adequate to their Necessity. Rajah Ram Pundit observed, that the Letter to which I alluded from Dewagur Pundit, related to a particular Occasion, when the Supply wanted was only for One or Two Months.—I think it here necessary, to remark, that Rajah Ram Pundit Yesterday observed, at the Conference held in Presence of the Rajah, that the Sum now tendered was only equal to what was in Agitation at the End of the Rains, when the Treaty was first offered to the Poona Government, and that Eight Months Expences had since been incurred. I then replied, that the subsequent Delay could not be ascribed to us but to their own Government, which had returned the Treaty with Propositions which could not easily be acceded to —To return to the Conference of To-day: The Dewan asked, what mighty Matter it would have been if the Governor, considering their hereditary Claims on Bengal, and from a Regard to his Friendship to Chimnajee, as well as to prevent the Consequences which may arise to our own Territories, from their Distress and Despair, had made each of the Zemindars contribute to raise a Sum to relieve Chimnajee, and enable him to return to Naugpore? He laid so much Stress upon this Method of raising a Supply, that I thought it necessary to inform him, that Money paid by a Contribution by our Zemindars, or Money paid from our own Treasury, was to us much the same Thing; or if there was any Difference, the latter was preferable.

Bissumber Pundit having declared to them, that he knew not the Extent of the Governor's Intentions, that he had only told him he would assist them with a Supply in Proportion to his Abilities, and that he had deputed me with full Powers for this Purpose, I thought it necessary to repeat to them again and again, that the Intention of my Deputation was chiefly to afford a public Testimony of the Acknowledgments of our Government for the Friendship shewn by Chimnajee in regard to Colonel

Pearle's

Pearse's Detachment; That the Governor had, however, for my Information, communicated to me the Answers which he had delivered to Bissumber Pundit to the Propositions conveyed to him from the Rajah, and had instructed me, in Conformity to his Answer regarding the Expences, to engage to supply the particular Sum which he expressed; that it was not in my Power to deviate from it; that however, if they chose, I should certainly write to the Governor, and communicate to him all that had passed; but that I could give them no Hopes that this would be productive of a larger Supply. They did not require me to write, but left it to me to do as I pleased. We afterwards mutually regretted the Interruption which from present Appearances was likely to take place in the Friendship which had subsisted betwixt the English and Berar Government, and which, if preserved, we agreed might have tended to the mutual Benefit of both States. This is almost Word for Word all that passed at this Interview. I studiously avoided Argument, because I had observed a Captiousness in the Dewan, which notwithstanding frequent Professions of Friendship gave our Yesterday's Conference more the Appearance of Dispute than I thought consistent with calm and friendly Discussion. Nothing however of this Nature passed at this Interview; every thing was said in a cool and deliberate Tone, and due Attention was paid by each to whatever was said by the other. I afterwards went and paid a Visit to the Rajah, and delivered to him the Governor's Presents, which he accepted with much seeming Complacency. Nothing passed at this Interview relating to Business. I endeavoured to engage the Rajah in ordinary Topics of Conversation; but either owing to a natural Shyness of Disposition, or to the Distillence of a young Man unaccustomed to converse with Strangers, or perhaps to the Restraint imposed upon him by his Ministers, he shewed little Inclination to enter into any Discourse. His Answers were always short, and his Quellions very sew; but his Silence shewed no Want of Affability. Bissumber Pundit came to me afterwards, and informed me, that Rajah Ram Pundit would shortly come to me with a Message from the Rajah, to ask me whether he should march on To-morrow? The Effect of his March we both agreed would be the letting loofe all those plundering Parties who had hitherto with so much Difficulty been restrained; and Bissumber Pundit acknowledged that when a Fire was once kindled, it was not easy afterwards to extinguish it. Bissumber l'undit said, that the Rajah's Expectations were about Fifty Lacks; he has since talked of Thirty or Twenty-five. About Ten at Night Bissumber Pundit came again, and informed me that Rajah Ram Pundit was coming to ask me about the March of the Troops: I desired he would tell Rajah Ram Pundit before hand, that I had no Right to object to the Rajah's marching to any Part of his Territories; but the Manner in which this March was proposed immediately after our Conferences, would to all the World carry the Appearance of a Threat, as it really was; and that as I was instructed to offer a Supply, from Motives of Gratitude and not from Motives of Fear, I should not, if the Rajah marched, think myself authorized to repeat the Offer which I had made to him: That I had now done every thing in a public Capacity that lay in my Power to prevent a Rupture; but that there was indeed one Thing of a private Nature which I could take upon myself to do, and that was to make Presents to the Amount of a Lack, or One and a Half, or thereabouts, to Bowanny Pundit, Rajah Ram Pundit, or any of the Rajah's Ministers, and this he might mention to Rajah Ram Pundit.

The same Night, about Half past Eleven, Bissumber and Rajah Ram Pundit came to me: Rajah Ram Pundit said, that Bissumber Pundit had mentioned to him all that I had told him: He observed, that in settling Farms of Purguanahs, or Business of such a Nature, Presents to the Mutsuddies employed were usual and proper; but that this was a Matter in which the Lives and Happiness of Thoufands were eventually concerned, and that in such a Negociation such Presents could have no Place. I excused myself to him; I reminded him that the Idea had been suggested by himself the Evening before, when he had infinuated to me, that if my Object was to obtain any thing for mylelf, the House of Boosla could easily give it: I repeated to him what I had said to Bissumber Pundit about the March of the Troops, and the Impossibility of my continuing after it the Governor's Offer. He then drew so strong a Picture of the Distresses that the English would thus entail on their Provinces, that, confidering it as a Kind of Menace, I begged he would defift from such Discourse; that it was perhaps improper for me to aniwer it, as I was sent only on the Idea of their pacific Disposition; but that I would once for all repeat to them, that Fear for our own Territories had no Part in the Governor's Intention in fending me; that our Troops were in Possession of all the Gauts, and that we had a Body in the Field which the whole of the Maratta Army could not face; that all that could happen to us (independant of the Loss of distant political Views) would be the spreading Terror amongst the Inhabitants of Midnapore, Jellasore, and perhaps Part of Burdwan. Rajah Ram Pundit then told me, that as I could not be brought to alter my Offer, a Thought had occurred to him, which was, for the Army to go on to Ramchundernapore, and for him and Bissumber Pundit and me to go to the Governor at Calcutta, to see and prevail on him to give a larger Supply, but that I must to go to the Governor at Calcutta, to see and prevail on him to give a larger Supply. promise to use my Endeavours in persuading the Governor; and that we should in the mean Time leave Mr. Redfearn with the Rajah.

I objected to leave Mr. Redfearn after I should go myself; but I said, that I would send Mr. Redfearn with them, and stay with the Rajah myself; that their going however would, I was certain, be to no Purpose, if the Army moved any nearer our Provinces after what had passed, as the Governor would not afterwards confer on the Subject: That as to my persuading the Governor, Bissumvernor would not afterwards confer on the Subject: That as to my persuading the Governor, Bissumvernor would tell him, that the Governor did every thing from himself; that his Reason and ber Pundit could tell him, that the Governor did every thing from himself; that his Reason and Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to Judgment were much superior to mine; that it was my Duty to regulate mine by his, and nor to make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superior make the superi and had a Regard for the Rajah, but all that I could engage was to represent all that I had seen and heard; and concluded with telling him that I could give him no further Assurances or Expectations of better Success with you.

It was agreed by Rajah Ram Pundit and Biffumber Pundit to represent what had passed to the 15th. Early in the Morning Bissumber Pundit came to me, and told me that the Rajah had approved of Rajah Ram Pundit's going with Bissumber Pundit, Mr. Redsearn, and me, to the Governor, and that the Rajah had desired him to apologize to me for any Want of Affability which he might have shewn Yesterday; that I must make Allowance for his Feelings as a Soldier, hurt at being stopped on his March from what I had said in the Morning. Rajah Ram Pundit said, that he was hurt at something that passed betwixt him and some of his Jemmautdars.

Received the following Letter from the Governor General:

Sir, Fort William, 11th March 1781.

A Letter is received from Major McPherson, which reports, that on the 7th Instant a large Party of Marattas crossed the Soubenrekah, and came so near to Fort Knox, that the Officer stationed there fired upon them; and that they moved off, as he supposed, in search of Plunder. He adds, that Dumdarva with a considerable Force was expected in the same Quarter on that Evening, or the next Morning.

I desire that you will remonstrate with Chimnajee Baboo on the Impropriety of this Conduct, and require his instant Orders for the Retreat of his Troops from our Neighbourhood, declaring that we shall consider their passing our Frontier Line, and even their Continuance near it, as a decided Hostility, since neither can be attributed to any other Design. It is also my Order that you forbear to make the Tender to Chimnajee Baboo, directed in my Instructions; or if you have made it, that you formally retract it, until he shall have recalled all his Forces, of every Denomination, to a Man, to the Southward of Ballasore.

Mr. Wheler authorizes me to notify his Concurence in these Orders, which you will therefore regard as equivalent to those of the Board delivered in the customary Form.

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient Servant.

P. S. A Letter since received from Mr. Pearse, consirms the Intelligence of Major McPherson; I herewith send you a Copy of it, by which you will see the Consequences which this indiscreet Act, if it hath not received the Authority of the Rajah, is likely to produce.

I visited afterwards the Rajah, and communicated to him the Purport of the Governor's Letter. He desired me to assure the Governor that he had already issued the Orders which the Governor required. I shall minute the Particulars of this Interview hereafter; suffice it for the present to say, that the Rajah dismissed me, pleased with the Marks of Attention which he shewed to me, and with the good Inclinations which he discovered towards our Government.

Honourable Sir,

As I have not Leisure to send you a regular Detail of my Proceedings in the Form of an Address, I have taken the Liberty to send you enclosed a Copy of the Minutes which I have taken, agreeable to your Direction, of every thing that has passed since my last Letter. They are incorrect, but will perhaps communicate to you a more clear Idea of the State of Opinions here than I could possibly convey to you in a studied and regular Address.

It is now fettled that Rajah Ram Pundit, Biffumber Pundit, and I and Mr. Redfearn, are immediately to proceed to Calcutta; and that in the mean Time the Army is not to move from this Place. I am fensible that Rajah Ram Pundit's Visit, and the Representation which he will make to you of the Distresses of his Army, will put your Feelings as an Individual to a severe Trial: But considered in a political Light, Rajah Ram Pundit's Proposal of visiting you seemed so much to our Advantage, that I could not possibly object to it. It will transfer the Appearance of a submissive Disposition from us to them. It will prevent an immediate Rupture if there was any Danger of it; and will so long protract Negociation, that you will have the Power to dictate Terms, without Regard to any other Confiderations but those of present Compassion or Gratitude, and a View to suture Advantages from an Alliance between the Two States. This Army will then depend almost entirely on your Mercy, for the Season will be too far spent for them afterwards to be able to do any Mischies: A Consideration which I doubt not must have its Weight with you, though I have constantly and invariably in all my Conferences maintained the contrary. It is probable, I think, that Rajah Ram Pundit will be instructed to converse with you on the more important Views which I have suggested, of a Junction against Hyder, or the Acquisition of the Rauje. Their Faith towards the Peshwa, or their Connection with Hyder, has scarcely been mentioned, and I have no Doubt but something of Importance would be struck out betwint you and Rajah Ram Pundit, if the present Emergency could be got over.

I am thoroughly convinced that nothing but Distress will ever induce the Rajah or his Ministers to break with the English. Whatever has passed of a different Tendency since my Arrival here, has pro-

We shall travel by daily Journies to Narainghur, and from thence I have desired Mr. Pearce to relay Bearers to Oolbareah. I have written to my Correspondent at Calcutta to send down a sufficient Number of Boats and Budgerows to Oolbarcah, so that there will be no Occasion for you to take any Trouble about our Journey; but I beg Leave to loggest to you the Propriety of sending down some Gentlemen of your Family to meet Rajah Ram Pundit: This will be a Mark of Respect to which his Rank, and still more his Attachment to the English entitles him; and it will be only a Return for a similar Mark of Respect which was shewn to me.

I have the Honour to be, With the most unfeigned Respect, Honourable Sir,

Your, &c. &c.

P. S. I expect to be at Oolbareah in Five Days.

The Rajah has expressed so much Anxiety for my speedy Return to you, that I have been obliged to receive my Difmission without finding the Opportunity I wished for, of speaking to him in private. It would have given much Suspicion if I had defired that his Ministers and Bissumber Pundit should withdraw, and he has always been furrounded by them.

On receiving the Two first of these Letters, the Governor General wrote the following Answer to Mr. Anderion:

David Anderson, Esq.

Sir, I have received your Letters of the 10th and 11th. Fort William, 18th March 1781.

Inform the Rajah that the Offer which you have been authorized to make him, was purely gratuitous, not intended for Negociation, but Acceptance; and decline any further Discourse upon it as

The Rajah's Promise to return, or not to employ his Troops against us, may be expressed either in Writing or verbally; but the Requisition must be verbal, and not in Writing. It is indifferent whether the Word "nor," be used, or "never."

I am perfectly fatisfied with the Care which the Rajah has taken to repress the licentious Spirit of his People, and to publish his Disapprobation of the late Instance of it, of which I desire you will give him an Affurance.

I am, with Esteem,

Sir, Your most assectionate Friend.

Whilft Mr. Anderson was at Ballasore, Letters were received from Dewagur Pundit, the Minister of Moodajee Bhootla, repeating the Circumstances of the Embarrassiments under which his Connection with the English had drawn him, and strongly urging the Necessity of our supplying the Troops under Chimnajee with Money.

Mr. Anderson on his Return delivered to the Governor General the following Letter:

Vide Appendix

Honourable Sir.

In the Minutes which I had the Honour to fend you from Ballasore, I had only Leisure to mention in a few Words my last Interviews with Rajah Chimnajee; I shall now beg Leave to mention it more circumstantially. The Rajah early in the Morning sent me a Message, That he wished Mr. Redfearn and I would come and dine in his Tent before our Departure. We accordingly went, and found the Rajah sitting with little Ceremony amongst a few of his Officers. He received us with a frank and cheerful Air; all that cold Reserve, that affected Indisference, which I had remarked at our former Meetings, was now changed into an open and animated Behaviour. We talked of indifferent Subjects, such as the Customs of Europe and Asia, with much good Humour; and his Officers, who had at our former Interviews preserved a formal and respectful Silence, now mixed in our Conversation with easy Familiarity. At length our Discourse turned on my Departure for Calcutta: The Rajah then changed his Mien; his Distresses rushed full into his Mind, and he described them with a Degree of Energy that excited Compassion; then taking hold of my Hand, he in a Tone of Supplication begged, that as I had been an Eye-witness of his Distresses, I would repre-fent them to you in their real Colours; that I would put you in mind that they were drawn upon him by his Desire of preserving a Friendship with the English; and that I would, in his Name, implore you to take himself and his Army under your Protection; to consider them as much your own as Colonel Goddard's Army; to make as great Exertions for their Relief, and to enable them only to return to Naugpore, and afterwards command them as you please. He insisted more than once on my promising to represent all those Matters in the strongest Manner, and earnestly entreated me to [n]REP. VI.

become his Advocate with you. I could only repeat to him, that I should faithfully report every thing to you.

When the Servants informed us that the Dinner which the Rajah had ordered to be prepared for Mr. Redfearn and me was ready, we retired to a separate Tent: The Rajah however soon afterwards followed, and standing at a Distance, pressed us to eat, in a Manner that shewed the strongest Desire of pleasing. I mention this Circumstance, though apparently trivial, because it was a kind of Condescension which to me marked the Disposition of the Rajah's Mind more strongly than the most exaggerated Professions.

We afterwards returned to the Rajah's Tent, and passed more than an Hour with him, before he would consent to give us our Dismission. Bowanny Pundit in the mean Time joined us, but he took little Part in the Conversation, being chiefly employed in dictating to the Moonshee Answers to the Letters which I had brought from you.

Before we received our Dismission, the Rajah insisted on our accepting of a Horse, a Turban, and a few Pieces of Cloth; and then having repeated his Request that I would join Rajah Ram Pundit, and intercede in his Behalf with you, he took Leave of us with a Degree of Warmth and Emotion that shewed both how much he was desirous of representing his Conduct in a favourable Light, and how much he considered his suture Welfare as dependent on your Determination.

I have the Honour to be with the greatest Respect,

Fort William, 26th March 1781. Honourable Sir, Your most faithful and obedient humble Servant

Rajah Ram Pundit arrived at Calcutta the 25th March, and the next Day waited on the Governor General.

During the First Two Visits Rajah Ram Pundit drew a strong Picture of the Distresses of Chimnajee's Army; and to prove how incumbent it was on us to relieve them, he expatiated on the Friendship which had been shewn by the Berar Government towards the English. He enumerated a Variety of Instances—their Conduct towards General Goddard's Detachment at Hoshungabad—their delivering up Monsieur Chevalier, who had taken Refuge in their Country—their forbearing to invade our Territories, notwithstanding the Remonstrances of all their Allies; and lastly, the Assistance which they had offered to Colonel Pearse on his March through Orissa. He discussed with great Ability the Interests of the Maratta States, and shewed that he was very sensible how much it would be for the mutual Advantage of the English and Moodajee Boosla to unite cordially in a close Alliance. Still however his Observations were general, and he seemed to avoid any clear or particular Propositions; it was agreed therefore, for the Purpose of bringing the Negociation to a speedy Conclusion, the solowing Propositions should be stated in Writing, and communicated to Rajah Ram Pundit by Mr. Anderson.

"That as a Return for the Proofs of Attachment shewn by the Berar Government to the English, and to relieve the Troops from the Distresses which they at present suffered, and which were in some Measure occasioned by their amicable Inclinations towards this Government, we would give them

Twelve Lacks to complete the Sum which we had formerly promifed to them.

"That we defired to know what was afterwards necessary to be done to essent the desired Union of the Two States. Would Chimnajee resolve immediately to send 3000, or even 1500 of his best Horse to join Colonel Pearle, and act with him against Hyder? Would he return with the rest of his Army to Naugpore? And would he promise to interest himself with his Father to engage in Alliance with us, and to send a Person from Naugpore to settle finally the Terms of a Treaty? That the following might be the Grounds of the Plan: That we should engage to assist them with a Part of our Troops in taking Possession of the Forts of Burhancpore and Assur, and the Country of Khandeish, which had been lately assigned by the Peshwa as an Annexation to the Jagheer already possession by Madajee Scindia: That if it should be advisable to pursue further Conquests, we would assist on a Plan of Participation; and that they on their Parts should engage to unite with us in effecting the total Extirpation of Hyder Ally Cawn: But that if such a Plan could not be settled, we desired to know clearly what they would do on their Part to merit any further Assistance from us."

The next day Rajah Ram Pundit returned an Answer to the following Purport. "The Demands

The next day Rajah Ram Pundit returned an Answer to the following Purport. "The Demands of Chimnajee's Army amount to Two Crores of Rupees; in Part thereof Fifty Lacks have already been paid; let the English pay Fifty Lacks more, the Troops will then have received One-half of their Pay, with which it will be in Chimnajee's Power in some Measure to satisfy them; and in this Case he will send 3000 Men along with Colonel Pearse, and will march the rest to Naugpore. If it is defired that a more close Connection should take Place, let a trusty Person be sent from hence to Naugpore, and a Treaty may there be concerted and settled for the Establishment of a permanent Alliance betwixt the English and the Marattas, and the Extirpation of Hyder Naig; or let Mr. Anderson be sent immediately with Fifty Lacks to Chimnajee to satisfy the Troops, and bring Bowanny Pundit to meet the Governor at the Subenreka, or in either of the English Camps at Dantoon or Naraingur, to settle with him a Treaty containing the Terms of an Alliance. If this is approved, the Sum of 50 Lacks must be sent immediately, because it will not be in Chimnajee's Power to leave the Troops until he has satisfied them. If the Governor will give some Assurances that these Propositions will be shortly taken into Consideration, Rajah Ram Pundit will accept of the Twelve Lacks, tendered for the present as a Part of the Fifty, and will cause the Army immediately to march to a greater Distance from Bengal. But unless some Assurances of the Kind are given, he must decline receiving the Twelve Lacks; will repay the Sum of Three Lacks which was formerly fent to Chimnajee, and de-fires to receive his Dismission immediately."

These Propositions seemed so highly unreasonable, that the Governor General immediately sent Mr. Anderson to Rajah Ram Pundit with a Message; the Substance of which was as follows: "That he would fend the Twelve Lacks if Rajah Ram Pundit would accept of that Sum in the Name of Chimnajee: That no more would be given: That the Rajah, on the Acceptance of this Sum, must return to Naugpore, and not stay any longer at Cuttack: That if he would send 2000 Horse with Colonel Pearse, their Charge should be defrayed by us: That the Governor General must decline a Meeting with the Rajah, unless the Grounds on which they are to meet are previously settled, as he cannot possibly think of meeting to treat about Money: That Rajah Ram Pundit may stay here if he pleases; but that he need not stay in Expectation of more Money, as that Subject must now be

This Message being accordingly communicated to Rajah Ram Pundit, he desired Mr. Anderson would return to the Governor General with the following Answer: " He consents to send 2000 Horse with Colonel Pearse, who may receive the Pay which shall be agreed on : He accepts the Supply now offered as a Return of Kindness; but to prevent a Mutiny of the Troops, requests that a Loan of a further Sum of 25 Lacks may be given, so that he may be enabled to quiet them. It does not fignify, although a Delay of 12 or 15 Days should take place in procuring the Loan; if it is only agreed to by the Governor, he will immediately fend off the 12 Lacks, and cause the Troops to remove towards Naugpore: He proposes that the Loan should be obtained either in his Name, or in that of Syna Behader (Chimnajee) from Merchants, and that the Company should be Security. may afterwards be repaid by Means of Conquests of Countries on a Plan which may be settled. It is requested from Necessity, because Syna Behader has no Means of satisfying his Troops: He defires that this may be accepted as an Apology for his repeating with so much Importunity the Subject of Money: He begs that the Governor General will take Syna Behader under his Protection, and relieve him in his present Distress. If this Loan is not acceded to, Rajah Ram Pundit wishes to be dismissed as soon as the Governor General pleases; and in that Case nothing can be settled, as the Sum tendered cannot be accepted, and a Mutiny must be the Consequence amongst the Troops in Orista.

The above Propositions being laid before the Board, the following Resolution was passed: " It is necessary to bring this Negociation to a Conclusion. We cannot comply with either of the Propositions made by Rajah Ram Pundit; we cannot advance the Money required; we cannot give our Security to the Loan, because we know it to be impracticable at the Rate of Interest allowed by our Bonds, and to allow a higher Rate will destroy our own Credit; besides, that such a Security will be construed, and will be in effect, a Payment. If the Government of Naugpore is willing to concur with our Views for its Aggrandisement, and a Connection of Interests in the Manner which has been held out to it, we are ready to assist them with our Forces. We will endeavour to give them the Possession of Burhanpore and of Assur, which will yield a Revenue of 80 Lacks; and of Gurrah Mundela, of which the Amount is unknown, but valuable. If the Government of Naugpore looks only to the Acquisition of Ready Money, we have it not to give, nor will their Friendship be an Object to us on tuch a Footing. Let this be understood to be our final Answer." Rajah Ram Pundit on being informed of the above Resolution, returned a new Set of Propositions, the Subject of which was as follows:

That the Sum formerly tendered to the Government of Nauppore was 16 Lacks, and that only Three have yet been paid: That he will accept of the remaining 13 Lacks, which he will dispatch to Syna Behader for the Relief of his Army; that he will cause the Army to march immediately to Dhekanaul on the Way to Gurrah Mundelah; that he himself will stay here for some Time longer on this Government's giving him Assurances that they will afterwards assist him in procuring a Loan of 10 or 15 Lacks, to be repaid in Two Years from the Money to be acquired from the Conquest of Gurrah Mundelah, and for which he, as Naib of Cuttack, will be Security. That he will for the present engage to send 2000 Horse to join Colonel Pearse, and to assist in the War against Hyder Ally; and that Dewagur Pundit will afterwards come from Naugpore, and fettle more fully the Terms of an Alliance betwirt the Two States."

These Propositions were declared to be final. The Point on which our Negociations hinged, was now reduced to an Object which appeared of little Magnitude when compared with the vast Importance of turning the Scale of the Powers of Hindostan, by detaching the Berar Government from the Contederacy formed against us, and engaging it on our Side. When the Propositions therefore were laid before the Board, it was immediately refolved to accede to them. Accordingly the Sum of 13 Lacks was advanced to Rajah Ram Pundit; and on the 2d of April he attended us in Council, and laid before us the following Articles of Agreement, which he defired to be confidered as preliminary to a definitive Treaty betwixt the English and Berar Governments.

Account of the Monthly Expence of the Troops to be sent along with Colonel Pearle. 2000 Suars on Horse, at 50,000 Rupees per Month, for each 1000, making altogether One Lack of Rupees per Month.

Dated 8th Rebbe-ul Sanee, in the 22d Year of the Reign.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 365

The faid Allowance shall commence from the Time of the Troops leaving Cuttack, and when they shall have sinished the Service, and (having received their Dismission from the Commander of the English Troops) they shall return to their own Country, their Pay shall be continued according to the Number of Munzels, or Days Journies which there may be from the Place of their Dismission to the City of Cuttack.

Whereas a Friendship is sirmly established betwixt Maha Rajah Moodajee Bhoossa, and the English;

the following Articles are accordingly settled by Syna Behader, through Rajah Ram Pundit.

1st. That Rajah Syna Behader shall send 2000 good and effective Horse along with Colonel Pearse, to assist the English in the War against Hyder Naig; that the Officer commanding them shall act under the Orders of the said Colonel or the Officer who shall command the Bengal Troops in the Carnatic; and that they shall receive from the Officer who shall command the Bengal Troops in the Carnatic, an Allowance for their Support, at the Rate which hath been settled in a separate Paper by the Governor General and Council and Rajah Ram Pundit, Month by Month, in the same Proportion as the English Troops shall receive their Pay.

2d. That the Army of Rajah Syna Behader will immediately leave Oriffa, and march on an Expedition against Gurrah Mundela. Let the Governor General and Council of the English, from a Regard to the Friendship which subsists betwixt the Family of Bhoosla and the English, give Orders that an English Officer, with a Body of the Troops now stationed in Hindostan, may march from that Quarter to assist the Rajah in the abovementioned Expedition, and having reduced Gurrah Munde-lah, establish immediately the Rajah's Garrisons there.

3d. That in order that the Friendship betwixt the Family of Maha Rajah Moodajee Bhoosla and the English may daily be strengthened and augmented, let the Governor General and Council for the present send a trusty Person to Naugpore, and hereaster the Dewan Dewagur Pundit will come from that Place, and have an Interview with the Governor General, when with their mutual Advice and Approbation, the Desires and Demands of both Parties will be adjusted and settled.

4th. That if it should happen from particular Circumstances that an Interview betwixt Dewagur Pundit and the Governor General cannot take place, in that Case the Desires and Demands of both Parties may be settled at Naugpore by the Intervention of a trusty Person, and the Bonds of Friendship shall be so simply established betwixt the Family of Bhoosla and the English, that no In-traction or Injury can ever by any Means happen to them.

These Papers being signed by us and Rajah Ram Pundit, with the Testimony of Beneram Pundit, the Vackeel of Moodajee Bhoosla, Copies of them were mutually interchanged. An Order has since been issued by us to the Sub-Treasurer to advance such Sums, on account of the intended Loan of Ten Lacks, as the State of our Treasury will admit; and Rajah Ram Pundit has delivered to us an Engagement to the following Purport:

Whereas the Governor General and Council of the English have promised, that in order to assist in supplying the Expences of the Troops of Maha Rajah Moodajee Bhoosla, which are arrived with Rajah Syna Behauder in Orissa, they will procure the Sum of Ten Lacks of Sicca Rupees from Merchants of the Province of Bengal, and deliver it as a Loan through the Hands of Beneram Pundit; and accordingly an Order has been delivered to the said Pundit for the said Sum on the English Treasurer: In Consideration thereof, it is stipulated and written on Behalf of the aforesaid Rajah Syna Behauder by Rajah Ram Pundit, that he will discharge the said Sum within the Term of Two Years, and will pay Interest at the Rate of 8 per Cent. per Annum, to be calculated from the Dates of the several Payments, which will be ascertained from the Receipts of Beneram Pundit: In case the said Loan and Interest should not be punctually repaid by Maha Rajah Moodajee Boosla and Rajah Syna Behauder, Rajah Ram Pundit, who is Naib of the Province of Orissa, engages on his own Part that he will pay, in the Term above limited, the said Sum with Interest, at the Rate abovementioned, either from his own private Fortune, or from the Revenues of the Province of Orissa.

Written the 6th April 1781, or 11th of Rebbee-ul-Sance 1170 of the Hegyra."

Rajah Ram Pundit has fince taken his Leave, and is gone to Chimnajee's Camp, to make the ne-ceffary Arrangements for the March of the 2000 Horse, which are to join Colonel Pearse.

We have thus fully given a Narrative of this Negociation, because we think the Issue of it may be productive of an important Change in the political State of Hindostan: We shall now beg Leave to close it with a few Observations. By acceding to Rajah Ram Pundit's Propositions, we have effectually detached one of the most powerful States from the general Confederacy against us, into which it had apparently entered; we shall by this Measure add Strength to ourselves in Proportion as we diminish that of the Confederacy. The Separation of the Berar Government will doubtless excite Distrust amongst the remaining Powers, and probably the Example will be followed. The Nizam who has not yet entered into open Hostilities against us, and the Ministers of Poona, who already tremble for their own Existence, seeing the Confederacy begin to dissolve, will naturally be desirous of securing themselves by an early Peace. The mere Fame of an Alliance betwixt the English and the Government of Berar, will have a great Effect. We shall no longer be considered as sinking under the united Weight of every State in Hindostan, the Scale of Power is evidently turned in our Favour, and this is of more Importance than could be well imagined in Europe, where the Policy of Nations is regulated by Principles the very reverse of those which prevail in Asia. There, in Contests betwixt Nations, the weaker is held up by the Support of its Neighbours, who know how much their own Safety depends on the Preservation of a proper Balance. But in Asia, the Desire of partaking of the Spoils of a falling Nation, and the Dread of incurring the Resentment of the stronger Party are the immediate Motives of Policy, and every State withes to affociate itself with that Power which has a decided Superiority.

It is true, the Alliance which is held out in Rajah Ram Pundit's Propositions, apparently relates to Objects of a very limited Nature. But it is not to be doubted, that when once the Marattas of Naugpore are fairly involved with us in the Profecution of these Objects, it will not long rest with them to fet Bounds to our Connection. The Affiftance which is to be given to us in the War with Hyder, is as full a Declaration of Hostility against that Prince as if they had sent their whole Army. And their employing our Forces to affift them in recovering Gurrah Mundelah from a Tributary of the Peshwah, will probably lead to a complete Junction of their Strength and ours against the Government of Poona, or reduce the latter to the Necessity of becoming a Party with them

We will now confider what would have been the Alternative if we had refused to accede to Propositions which were evidently so desirable. Whatever might have been the real Inclination of Chimnajee, or the Dictates of his Father Moodajee Bhooslah, his unpaid Troops had long been kept quiet only by the Hopes which were held out to them of acquiring Wealth from the Plunder of Bengal; and if no Supply had been granted to them, it is probable that extreme Diffress would have compelled them to feek for Support by an Invalion of our Frontiers. It would be little Consolation to us to know that their own Destruction would be the certain Effect of such a Measure: We know that before they could have been totally deftroyed, or even expelled, much Michief would have been done in the Provinces of Burdwan and Midnapore by their Depredations, and still more by the Alarm which they would have excited amongst the Inhabitants: The Revenues and Investments must have been put to a Stop from the Desertion of the Ryots and Manufacturers: The immediate Lofs would have confiderably exceeded the Sum now requested, and the fatal Confequences of fuch an Irruption would have been felt throughout these Provinces, and particularly in the Manufactures, for many succeeding Years. We can mention on the best Information, that the Defertion of the Manufacturers for only Three Days from the Aurung of Radnagur alone, would have occasioned a Loss of Four Lacks of Rupees, as the Silk Worms must have been wholly destroyed, and their Loss could not have been recovered for many Years. If the Troops of Chimnajee had been driven to this Extremity, a War must inevitably have enfued with the Government of Berar, more dangerous to our Possessions in Bengal than any in which we have ever been engaged fince our Acquifition of the Dewanny.

Nor are the Advantages to be derived from the present Agreement merely speculative or negative: The great and almost the only Defect of the Detachment tent under the Command of Colonel Pearse to the Relief of the Carnatic, is the Want of a Body of Cavalry: The present Offer of 2000 of Chimnajee's Horse will amply supply this Desect; they will be fully sufficient to prevent the Detachment from being harrassed on the March, or suffering from Want of Provisions; and though little can be expected in the Field of Battle from the Discipline of Maratta Horse, yet as much may be expected from them as from the Horse that will be opposed to them by Hyder Ally:

The Junction of this Body will prove therefore of real and immediate Service.

We are aware that Men who are inclined to object will not fail to employ the most specious Arguments to draw Censure on this Negociation: They will avail themselves of Maxims which have already obtained the popular Opinion; they will without Hesitation ascribe our Conduct in supplying Chimnajee with Money to Weakness or Want of Foresight; and they will declaim that the History of all Ages, from the remotest Period down to the present Century, shews, that to purchase the Forbearance of invading Enemies serves only to tempt them to return with increased Numbers. It is in vain to attempt to answer every Objection which Ingenuity may devise: We must rely on your Candour to impute our Conduct to more honourable and judicious Motives. It cannot escape your Attention, that the Negociation for Money began at a Time when we could have little to apprehend, though much to hope from the Government of Naughore; that it was held out as an Inducement to obtain their Assistance in essecting an Accommodation with the Government of Poona, and that the professed Object of it was a Retribution for the heavy Expence which they had incurred from their Defire of preferving Peace with the English. When their An swers from Naugpore affected a higher Style, and indicated a Change of Disposition, Mr. Anderson was sent to Cuttack without any Authority, to treat on Money; Colonel Pearse was ordered to proceed through Oriffa in Defiance of all Opposition; and an Army was assembled under the Command of Colonel Ironfide for the Defence of our Frontiers of Burdwan and Midnapore. During all this Time the Negociation for Money was dropped, nor was it renewed until Colonel Pearle had passed without Opposition close to the Maratta Army, and until new Proofs were given us of an amicable Disposition; the Governor General's Letter of the 2d March to Mr. Anderson, will fully explain to you, that though we thought it in Prudence necessary to stipulate the Return of Chimnajee's Army as a Condition on granting the Supply, yet the Motives or the Conditions for which we were willing to grant it, were different; and the Governor General's Letters of the 11th and 18th March will Rep. VI.

A P P E N D I X, Nº 365, 366.

will shew, that when Motives of Gratitude ceased, and Hostilities were expected, we instantly directed Mr. Anderson to retract our Offer, and to decline any further Discourse on the Subject of Money. At length the affecting Manner in which the Rajah opened his Distresses to Mr. Anderson at his last Interview, and threw himself on our Mercy for Relief, induced us to resume the Subject with Rajah Ram Pundit. *

These Circumstances have not escaped the Attention of the Marattas themselves, and we are satisfied that they, in whose Opinion the Public is perhaps most interested, have not mistaken the Motives of our Conduct. Nor need we apprehend that the Supply which they have received will ever tempt them to return to these Provinces; they best know the extreme Distresses which they have suffered, the heavy Expences which they have incurred, and the Misery which they have entailed by this Expedition on their Province of Orissa; and it is not to be supposed that they will ever again attempt to set out an Army of 30,000 Horse, at an unavoidable Expence of more than a Crore of Rupees, to march a Thousand Miles through a hilly Country, in the Expectation of acquiring a Supply of 12 Lacks of Rupees. On the Whole, whatever the designing or uninformed Part of the World may say, we flatter ourselves that you, in whose Approbation we are most particularly interested, having all these Circumstances fully before you, will be pleased not only to approve of the Motives which have influenced us in this Negociation, but also of the favourable Issue to which we have happily brought it.

It remains only for us to observe, that Letters have lately been received from Chimnajee, confirming every thing that has been settled by Rajah Ram Pundit; and we have the Pleasure to think that he has now engaged fincerely and cordially on our Side.

A P P E N D I X, N° 366.

Instructions from the Governor General and Council to Colonel Grainger Muir, the 21st of April 1781.

Sir,

A S you have been ordered by Colonel Morgan to proceed from the Station at Futtyghur with a Detachment of the Company's Troops, confifting of Two Regiments of Cavalry, Three of Sepoys, and a Company of Artillery, to the Assistance of Lieutenant Colonel Camac, on Application made by the latter for that Purpole; we have supposed, that before this Period the Forces under your Command must have joined those heretofore commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Camac; and under such Supposition, we directed you on the 2d Instant to take the Command of that Detachment, at the same Time ordering Lieutenant Colonel Camac to deliver it up to you.

As the collected Force of Infantry and Cavalry of the Two Detachments when joined must greatly exceed the Service remaining to employ them, and the Artillery certainly so beyond all Proportion, we direct that you dismiss such Part of your Force in Infantry and Artillery as the actual or probable Exigency may not require you to retain, and order their Return to the Doual. We direct also, that you dismiss the 2d Regiment of Cavalry, retaining the 3d.

We direct that you make it your Object to obtain Possession of Oogein and its Dependencies, and for this Purpose we order you to proceed thither, demanding the Assistance of such a Body of the Rana's Troops, as you may think requisite, and the Rana's Presence with them.

If the Rana should refuse or evade Compliance with the Requisition made of him, you are to deliver to him in Writing a Protest against his Conduct, declaring him guilty of an Infraction of his Treaty with this Government; of which a Copy is enclosed.

In the Course of your March you will take such Advantage of the Enemy as Opportunities may offer to you: But for the sake of such Advantage you must not be diverted from the Object which we have prescribed, but keep invariably in Prospect until you have accomplished it.

All Instructions to you are intended to be general, and rather to mark the Objects which we wish to attain by the Operations of the Troops under your Command, than to fix the Means of their Accomplishment. These Means we leave to your own Judgment and to the Exigency of Circumstances, of which we cannot be aware or advised in sufficient Time to instruct you particularly on them; and we have so great Reliance on your Activity and Experience, that we cannot suffer ourselves to hesitate in leaving this Power in your Hands; convinced that you never will adopt a Measure without a full Confideration of its probable Consequences, nor abate from the Protecution of it when once undertaken, unless compelled by urgent and evident Necessity.

We think it necessary to recommend to you in the strongest Manner to keep your Force entire, making no Detachments from it but fuch as are absolutely necessary and unavoidable; and in order to give Effect to this Instruction, and to remove the Necessity of your establishing Garrisons for the Places which may either surrender to our Arms or require our Protection, we direct and empower you to affign them to the Charge or absolute Possession of such of the neighbouring Zemindars as are best qualified to receive them, either by natural Right or by Situation, added to that of Service and approved Attachment; excepting only such as lie contiguous to the Dominons of the Rana of Gohud, and appertain to him in virtue of the Treaty.

With these Explanations we give you a full Discretion for Disposal of all conquered Places and Territories in your Route, hoping that you may be able to make such Stipulations with the Proprietors, as may obtain either a present Aid in Money for the Relief of the Expence of the Expedition, or a future and permanent Income in the way of Tribute.

Fort William,

We are,

21st April 1781.

Extract of Bombay Diary, the 12th May 1781.

Extract of a Letter from Colonel Camac to Mr. Malet, dated near Holaries, the 29th March 1781.

In respect to my Operations, I had penetrated into Malva as far as the Town of Seronge, when being disappointed in the Assistance I had Reason to expect from the Nabob of Bhopaul and the neighbouring Rajahs; being unable for want of Cavalry to prevent the Desolation of the Country, and Scindiah's Army with a Train of Artillery, Field and Battering, arriving at the same Time, I found my Stock of Provisions soon exhausted, and having taken the Opinions of my principal Officers, determined on a Retreat. The Enemy had cannonaded us for Seven Days, thereby attempting to draw us from the Town which was our only Resource for Provisions. It was on the 7th, at Midnight, that we moved off, and with so much Secrecy that the Enemy did not come up with us till near Day-break. They then attacked us from all Quarters, but were as often repulsed. They purfued their Attack on the Second Day, and on the Third I reached a Town called Mohautpore, which I forced to supply me, and then marched out, and in vain attempted to bring on an Engagement. We halted there several Days to refresh our People, and relieve our Wounded, of which we had a great Number. The orderly Retreat that was made before so able a General as Scindiah, and so numerous an Army, does the highest Credit to the Troops; they behaved like Heroes. On arriving at this Place, finding that the Enemy encamped within Three Coss, and kept their Baggage Seven Coss in the Rear, I determined to beat up their Quarters on the Night of the 24th. We accordingly succeeded to Admiration: Surprised and routed their first Camp where Scientish was pursued ingly succeeded to Admiration; surprized and routed their first Camp where Scindiah was, pursued them to their Second, drove them Three Coss further, and across the Sind, where we overtook their Artillery, and by Nine o'Clock were Masters of Ten Pieces of Cannon, all their Tumbrills, Two Elephants, and the greatest Part of their Stores and Ammunition, and Baggage. We took the Guns yoked, otherwise we could not have brought them off. The Enemy are in the utmost Disorder, and I trust that this Success will have the best Influence on our Concerns in every Part, but particularly on your Side of the Continent.

I am, &c.

Additional Secret Letter from Bengal, 15th May 1781.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Sirs.

artt.

THE Dispatch of the Two Ships Neptune and Bellmont, by which we have had the Honour to address you under Date the 27th ultimo, having been unavoidably delayed on account of bad Weather, we do not think it proper to lose the Opportunity which presents itself to us on this Occasion, of transmitting to you such further Advices as we deem necessary for your Information.

It appears in a Letter from Brigadier General Goddard to the President and Select Committee of Bombay, under Date the 9th of February, that having taken Possession of Borc-Ghaut, as we had the Honour to acquaint you in our last Letter, it was his Intention to establish a strong Post at the Head of it, and to continue there until he had collected such a Magazine of Stores and Provisions as would enable him to prosecute his further Operations in such Manner as might be judged most expedient. By a Letter which we have ourselves received lately from Brigadier General Goddard, we find that he was at the same Place on the 6th of March, and One Bill of Exchange which he has lately drawn is dated from it on the 8th ultimo.

During the Continuance of the Army at the Head of the Ghauts, an indirect Intimation appears to have been fent to General Goddard from the Minister, of his Desire to conclude a Peace. The Messenger was a Man named Runsoor Naigue, and brought a Letter to the General from one Byroo Pundit, a Brahmin, said to be much in the Considence of Nana Furnése. The Purport of this Letter, the Particulars of the General's Conference with the Bearer of it, the Event of the Negociation and the subsequent Advances unsuccessfully made by the General to the Minister for a Termination of War on the Conditions stated in our Proposals of the 2d of October, appearing in his Address of the 6th March, which we deem of Importance, we have the Honour to transmit it and its companyments to you a Number in the Packet.

The Unwillingness of the Minister to accept the Offer of our Treaty does not disappoint us; we are rather pleased with it, since it leaves us at Liberty to secure to the Company the important. Possession of Bassein; and the Advantages acquired by your Troops in the West of India since the Time at which our Treaty was written, will warrant us in declaring our Resolution not to part with the valuable Acquisition, unless indeed some great Reverse of Fortune (which God forbid) should attend the Operations of your Arms, and oblige us to submit to the Loss of it. Respecting other Constitutions on which we might be willing to accede to a Peace, the ill Success with which our Advantage have been hitherto attended, and the Presumption which they seem to have given Birth to in the arrogant Condust of the Minister, discourage us in looking to any favourable Termination of the War, but as we have advised you in our last Address, by the most vigorous and successful Prosecution of it.

We have received within these Five Days a Letter from the President and Select Committee of Bombay, under Date the 30th March; in which they inform us that "they have judged it the most advisable Conduct to reduce the War on their Part to a mere System of Desence, and to confine their Military Operations to the Security and Preservation of their own Possessins." Our Answer this Letter is transmitted to you a Number in the Packet, and we trust that it will have the good street which we intend by it, in altering a Plan of Conduct in your Select Committee of Bombay, as opposite to their late Opinions as we deem it hostile to the Obtainment of the Object which we both profess to aim at, an honourable and advantageous Peace.

In the same Letter from Bombay, we are advised of their Resolution to send back all the Fort Saint George Troops serving on the Malabar Coast, and their Hopes of landing them at Anjengo in the course of the last Month. The Measure of sending back the Madras Detachment conforms strictly to the Instructions sent by us to Brigadier General Goddard, so long ago as the 20th April 1780; but we apprehend that it may have an unfavourable Instruction our Affairs at this Time, which may be considered at their Criss, by impressing the Minds of the Public with an Opinion that some Necessity, or a Consciousness of our Inability to prosecute the great Advantages which we have acquired, has compelled us to stop at the Instant of their Completion. Yet in other Respects we have no Reason to be distaissed with it, since the Troops of this Presidency and that of Bombay are sufficient for the Prosecution of the War, and the Desence of our Possessins on the Malabar Coast; as dethe Services of the Madras Detachment in the Carnatic, may be of great Use and Importance to the Success of the War in which you are engaged with Hyder Ally Cawn.

A Letter which we have received from Rear Admiral Sir Edward Hughes, under Date the 23d February, informs us of his Success on the 9th December last, in destroying Two Ships mounting 26 and 28 Nine Pounder Guns, and 4 Ketches mounting each 12 Six and Four Pounder Guns, belonging to Hyder Ally, in Mangalore Road. It being impracticable to remove the Ships and Vessels taken, as they were grounded, Orders were given for them to be burnt.

We

P P E N D I X, N' 367.

We have received Information which we deem authentic, that the Portugueze Government at Goa have entered into a Treaty of Alliance offensive and defensive with Hyder Ally. The Substance of the Treaty appears in a Letter from Mr. Auriol, whom we had appointed our Minister to the Court of Goa, but who fortunately had not proceeded on his Commission when he received Advice of their Alliance with our Enemies; and a Copy of this Letter we think it necessary to transmit to you a Number in the Packet.

We have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that a Garrison of your Troops is in Possession of Kalpy Fort, which they entered without Opposition. The Maratta Chief who held the Kalpy District under the Maratta Government having shewn an Unwillingness to comply with the Requisition made to , him to pay to the Company the same Tribute that he was used to pay to the Marattas, and an Inclination to delay coming to an Accommodation until the present Year is ended, and all the Collections made, with a View of appropriating them to his own Use, we have instructed Colonel Morgan to oblige him to pay into the Company's Treasury the Sum due to his former Master for this whole Year, which is nearly passed. We have approved of a Measure recommended to us by Colonel Morgan, that the whole Districts of Kalpy and Humeerpoor should be taken into the Company's Hands entirely, and an Aumil placed over them; and we have directed him to receive the Proposals of Allmass Ally Cawn, a Man of Property, and Aumil of a large Tract of Country in his Excellency the Vizier's Dominions, for the Rentage of these Districts from the Company: We are in Hopes that they will yield a considerable Revenue.

A large Body of Maratta Horse and Foot, to the Number of 2000, having appeared in the Town of Kalpy since our Possession of it, and attempted to plunder and disturb the People residing there, a Detachment of Six Companies of Grenadiers, with Two Guns and a Tumbrill, was fent to disperse them, and the Marattas were instantly defeated, with Loss on their Part, but with none on ours:

Fort William, the 15th May 1781. We have the Honour to be, Honourable Sirs, Your most faithful humble Servants, Warren Hastings, Edward Wheler.

Letter from J. P. Auriol to the Honourable Warren Hallings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Members of the Supreme Council, Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Understanding that the Portuguese Government at Goa had lately entered into a Treaty of Alliance offenfive and defenfive with the Nabob Hyder Ally, I thought it my Duty to ascertain the Nature and Conditions of such Compact, before I ventured to expose the Honour of the Commission with which I am entrusted to the Risk of any Slight or Indignity, in having the prosfered Honour of a Connection with the Company rejected by the Captain General at Goa; on that Ground I have therefore made it my Business since my Arrival here to enquire into the Particulars of it.

That a Treaty has been concluded, is a Fact established and confirmed by various Authorities; but for the Purport of it I am indebted chiefly to Mr. Lloyd, a Person who lately held a confidential Station in the Service of Hyder Ally. He assured me that he was present at all the Conferences between Hyder and the Portuguese Minister which produced it; and from the ready and unprevaricated Account he gave me of it, in a long Convertation which I held with him upon the Subject, I have no Reason to doubt any Part of his Information.

Mr. Lloyd acquainted me that Colonel Assa, an Officer in the Portuguese Service, arrived at Hyder Ally's Camp about the Beginning of August last, attended by 50 Sepoys, a few Horsemen, and a numerous Suite of Attendants, among whom were a Band of Musicians; that he came publicly deputed from the Captain General at Goa, to negociate a Treaty in the Name of his Sovereign with Hyder Ally, and delivered him a valuable Present on the Occasion, consisting of a Broad Sword hilted with Gold, and very richly ornamented with Diamonds and Rubies, and a kind of Cane fet and adorned in the same Manner, besides various other Articles; that he was treated with great Respect and Attention during his Stay in Hyder's Camp, and that a Treaty was concluded between them to the following Effect:

" That the Friends and Enemies of each Party were to be reciprocally fo confidered by the other Party.

That the Portugueze where to supply Hyder Ally with a Body of Troops, consisting of 500 to he companded by European Officers; and 50 European Officers; and 50 European Officers. Trhings, whether Natives of Europe or Goa, to be commanded by European Officers; and 50 European Artists of different Callings, to serve him in his Arsenal, his Engineer Corps, and Artislery, he paying them according to Rates stipulated:

That all Vacancies in this Supply should be replaced, and the Numbers kept constantly compleat by occasional Recruits from Goa:

"That Hyder Ally was likewife to be supplied by the Portugueze, from Time to Time, with any Quantity of Arms or Military Stores which he should have Occasion for, by Purchase : " That REP. VI.

A P P E N D I X, N° 367, 368.

"That the Portugueze in Return should enjoy all their Establishments on the Malabar Coast in profound Peace; that their Trade should be preserved to them unmolested by Hyder Ally's Dependants, their Privileges maintained in full Force, and a Right granted them to settle any new Factories. on his Coasts, if they should require it."

The above are the Conditions actually agreed upon in the Treaty: It was further demanded by Hyder Ally, that the Portugueze naval Armament should join his Fleet at Mangalore on his Requifition, and thence proceed in Conjunction with it to co-operate in any Hostilities which he might undertake in support of the French, on the Arrival of their Forces in India; and that the Portugueze should further assist him in his Military Operations with a Body of Sepoys, in case he thought sit to call on them for that Purpose, he paying their Expences: But these Two Articles Colonel Assa not having Power to affent to, were omitted, and the Treaty signed, on his Promise that a Reference of them should be made to the King of Portugal.

It appears that the Treaty was not finally fettled and concluded until 8 or 10 Days after the unfortunate Defeat of Colonel Baillie's Detachment in September; and I learn that Colonel Assa, upon taking his Leave shortly after to return to Goa, was complimented with Presents in Jewels, &c. to the Value of about 60,000 Rupees for himself, and something more considerable for the Captain General at Goa.

The Troops furnished by the Portuguese in virtue of the above Treaty are to be on the same Establishment and Regulations as those now commanded by Monsieur Pigmorin, a Frenchman, confifting of 150 Cavalry and about 100 Infantry. These Corps, with their proper Complement of Officers, were appointed by a special Agreement made between Monsieur Law, the late Governor of Pondicherry, and Hyder Ally, to affift the latter in all his Wars, though they were to be confidered as French Troops, and recruited occasionally from Pondicherry.

Mr. Lloyd informs me, that he saw a Letter which Hyder Ally received about 12 Days before he left Arcot from the Captain General of Goa, notifying the March of the Troops which he was engaged to supply, and he believes them to be now actually on the Road towards the Place of Ren-

As these Circumstances would infallibly frustrate the End of my Negociations, I shall not hazard the Credit of Government by proceeding in them until I am honoured with further Orders from you in Reply to my present Letter.

Fort Saint George, 20th March 1781.

I am, with Respect, Honourable Sir, and Sirs, Your most obedient, humble Servant. (Signed) J. P. Auriol.

Examined T. P.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for the Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England, trading to the East Indies; dated 3d February 1781.

Honourable Sirs,

E avail ourselves of an Opportunity of addressing you by the Way of Bussorah, and of communicating to you the principal Facts of Moment which have occurred fince we had the Honour of writing to you by the Ceres. The Channel of Conveyance makes it necessary that these Facts should be related with all possible Brevity and Conciseness.

Letters received from the Rajah of Berar containing such Exceptions to the Treaty with the Marattas refolved on in September last, as amount to a Rejection of the Terms; refolve to confide in our own Strength, and on the Expectation of Succours from Europe, and order Colonel Pearle's Detachment to march direct to Madras.

The Maratta Army quiet at Cuttac; has lately left that Place, and marched to the Westward to reduce some refractory Zemindars-Colonel Pearle's unmolested Passage-thus certain Motions of the Berar Army probably made with this Intention.

Informed by Mr. Hollond, that the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn has taken to himself, the Guntoor Circar, instead of leaving it to the Possession of his Brother: The Measure does not affect us, and we will not interfere.

The Expences of Fort Saint George and Bombay, and these augmented, added to our own; such an Expence, and the Loss of Specie to these Provinces, are our only Distress: We hope to obviate them by an Increase of Revenue and official Economy.—The Means taken to keep the War at a Distance from our own Borders is likely to prove effectual for this Season, which is all we want; we shall be prepared the next, by the Completion of our new Establishment, and by such a Disposition of it as shall be equal to repel any Attempts, however multiplied, of an Enemy: Upon the whole, notwithstanding the dreadful Calamity which has befallen your Interests in the Carnatic, and which has contributed to drain us of our Resources, both of Strength and Money, to retrieve it, we have the best Grounds to hope of being able to overcome all our Difficulties and Dangers, and even to convert them into the Instruments of your future Prosperity; at least, if the Event should not prove answerable to these Expectations, you shall have no Cause to reproach your Administration of the Want of fuch Exertions as were most likely to fulfil them.

We resolved on the 29th, that the Drasts under Captain Popham's Command should be relieved by Four regular Battalions, put under the Command of Major Camac. This Resolution continued and strengthened by an Order that the Four Battalions of Drafts should be appointed to the Establishment, and make Part of Major Camac's Detachment.-Major Camac fince appointed a Lieutenant

New Arrangement passed with respect to the Corps of Cavalry—the Horses made the Property of the Company.

The Vizier's great Distress would not permit him to make complete Payment of the Company's Demand on him for the last Year; and that Distress continuing, we have been obliged to be content with the following Settlement with him for the present Year.

The Amount of the Affignments exceeds the necessary Claims upon the Company for the Services of the Current Year by above Six Lacks-Mr. Purling recalled from Lucknow; and Mr. Nathaniel Middleton, Collector of the Vizier's Assignments to the Company, and Agent for managing his Ex. cellency's pecuniary Engagements with them.

Required from the Rajah of Benares the same Subsidy for the ensuing Year that he paid in the last;

One Lack paid immediately, the remaining Four Lacks not paid until the 18th October.

The Assistance of a Body of Cavalry required from him to be returned at the Conclusion of the War.—Mr. Francis Fowke recalled from Benares, and appointed Agent for the Provision of Boats to the Army, after the Expiration of the present Contract.—Mr. Markham appointed Resident at Benares.—Resolved to take up Money on Loan on the following Scheme:

One Loan for 45 Lacks of Rupees, to be paid on or before the 30th November, for Bonds bearing an Interest at 8 per Cent. Second Loan in favour of the Company's Servants for 20 Lacks; to be subscribed for on or before the 28th of February, for Bonds bearing an Interest of 4 per Cent. from the Day of Subscription. The Interest, together with 20 per Cent. of the Principal, to be paid by Drasts on you, out of the Sum Annually drawn upon you by us, so often as such Drasts are permitted, or that Channel of Remittance remains open, at the Exchange of Two Shillings per Current Rupee. Should we be forbidden to draw upon you, it is at the Option of the Subscribers to receive Payment of the remaining Part of their Principal, with the Interest which shall accrue from the last Payment, at the Rate of 8 per Cent. per Annum; or to let it remain at that Rate of Interest, and receive Notes for the same, according to the Pirst Mode abovementioned.

A-P P E N D I X, N° 368.

Third Loan in favour of the Company's Servants and other European Inhabitants, of 20 Lacks, to be subscribed on or before the 28th February 1781, in Exchange for Annuities, 'payable by Bills on you, out of the Sum usually drawn on you by us: The Particulars have been already transmitted to you in Duplicate. The Annuities are redeemable on or before the 1st of January 1783, if the Plan should not meet with your Approbation.

Fort William, 3d February 1781. We have the Honour to be, Honourable Sirs,

Your most faithful humble Servants, Warren Hastings, Edd. Wheler.

Mr. John Hollond, Resident at the Court of his Highness Nizam-ul-Mulck.

Sir,

We have received the Letter which you have written to us under Date the 15th ultimo, and the Governor General has laid before us those which you have addressed to him on the 5th, 26th, 29th, and 31st ultimo.

The Line and Measures which you inform us the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn has thought proper to adopt respecting the Sircar of Guntoor, do not appear to us to require any new Orders to you or Representation to him: It is to us a Point of mere Indifference, whether the Sircar of Guntoor be in his Highnels's Possession, or in that of his Brother. It was not guaranteed by the Company to the latter, but yielded at the Instance of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn, who had granted it as a Jaghier to him. If the Nabob now thinks proper to resume his own Gift, we see no Cause to warrant us in interfering, particularly when such Interference might involve us in Disferences with him, which at this Time especially we wish to avoid; and as we think his Possession of the Sircar an Event more likely to prove of Service than Prejudice to our Assairs, by embarrassing his Highness with Hyder Ally Cawn, supposing it to be true, as he asserts, that the latter has formed Designs on the Northern Circars, from which it is not probable that an Exemption will be made in favour of that of Guntoor; yet we do not mean, by the Part which we have determined to pursue on this Occasion, either to invalidate the Claim of the Company to the Reversion of the Circar of Guntoor, agreeable to the Treaty of 1768, on the Death of Bassalet Jung, or the Right which they derive to it from the same Authority, when he breaks the Conditions under which this Reservation was originally made by the Treaty in favour of Bassalet Jung.

With respect to the survey Payment of the Arrears of the Peshcush, we give you sull Authority to assure his I lighness that they shall be completely discharged at the Termination of the War, and that the current Demands on this Account be regularly discharged from that Fund: That at present, and during the Continuance of the War, our Resources are all engaged in the Prosecution of it, and that we cannot employ them on other Service. We authorize you also to inform his Highness, that be the present Loss sustained by him from our Inability to discharge the Sums due to him from the Company, what it may, it is imputable to himself only, for that he is the Cause of the War, being the avowed Author of the Confederacy which occasioned it; and that without taking upon us to condemn the Motives of his Conduct, or even to declare that it might not be justified by that of the Presidency of Fort Saint George. We affirm, that at the Moment when we complained of their Injuffice to wards him, when he instigated the other States of India to combine against the Company, he well knew the controlling Powers vested in this Government over all the other Presidencies, and that we were able to do him Justice; yet he made not any Application to us for that Purpose.

His Highness seems to be missinformed of the present Relation which subsists between this Go vernment and Ragonaut Row; and we are induced to believe so from a Part of your Letter to us of the 15th ultimo, wherein you recite a Conversation that had passed, in which he expressed his Readi ness to join us against Hyder on certain Conditions; the First of which is said to be, that the Support of Ragonaut Row mould be for ever abandoned. If by the Word "Support" be meant the Support of his Claims at Poona, we authorize you to declare to his Highness that Ragoba is not supported by us in it in any Manner whatloever, and that at this Moment we are not connected with him, though we should think it dishonourable to deliver him into the Hands of his Enemies.

We are well pleased with the Attention which you have shewn us in the constant and particular Advices which you have transmitted to us of your Transactions at the Nabob's Court, and of his Highness's Designs, and we depend on a Continuance of the same Communications to us in Fort William, 22d January 1781. We are, &c. &c. Governor General and Council.

Extracts from a Copy of a Letter from the President and Select Committee of Fort Saint George to the Court of Directors, dated 17th February 1781.

WE did ourselves the Honour of addressing you by your Ship the Duke of Kingston, that sailed from hence the 15th of last Month, and there in the fullest Manner stated to you the general Situation of military and political Affairs, as immediately or relatively connected with this Prefidency. Duplicates of that Dispatch now waits upon you by Colonel James Capper, who takes his Passage on a Portuguese Ship.

2. Alarmed as you will naturally have been at the very gloomy Prospect which there presented itself; the being enabled in so short a Space of Time to acquaint you of a favourable Turn in your Affairs on this Coast, cannot but afford us the most solid and real Satisfaction. The invariable Language which hath been held to you by this Committee will have convinced your Honours, that in our Opinion nothing but a Peace with the Marattas could possibly extricate us from our Dissiculties, or your other Settlements of Bengal or Bombay, from the accumulating Load of Expence, and confequently Debt, which it was unavoidable to incur. This Opinion was daily increased from the Essects we could perceive of universal Distatisfaction in the Country Powers. Happily indeed the many Resources which have been found in your own Possessions have hitherto empowered the Arms of the Company to penetrate into the most formidable Parts of the Peninsula; but these Resources are in no Respect adequate to the Continuance of such great and such distant Operations. The stepping beyond the Bounds of political Moderation, and of your own and the Territories of your Allies, is fraught with Effects of the most pernicious Tendency. Extension of Dominion hath been uniformly one of the Objects you have commanded us to refrain from: The Reason is clear; that which you have already is as much as you ever can be able to turn to Advantage; more would but load you with Incumbrances, and render your Possessions defenceless and open to the Invasions of every restless Neighbour.

The Maratta War, though it originated perhaps in the one Idea of merely affording Support to the Cause of Ragonaut Row, when that Support could be supposed to be but very inconsiderable, has yet in its Consequences involved a Variety of Mischies and Embarrassments of an alarming Nature to your present and your future Influence. In deliberating on this Subject, it is probable your controlling Government of Bengal have left unexplained no Matter which it would be proper for you to be ing Government of Bengal have left unexplained no Matter which it would be proper for you to be acquainted with: We shall therefore avoid entering in a more dissusse Manner into the Subject, especially as we understand the Dispatches which now wait upon you from Bengal, are full and particular, from its Commencement by the Presidency of Bombay to the present Hour. Accompanying, however, you will receive Copies of Two Letters that were received from Poona about the Middle of last Month. The first is from the Peshwa Mhadoo Row to our President, and the latter is to the Nabob from his Vackeel, who resides at the Peshwa's Court. From both these Letters you will perceive that the Disposition of the Poona Administration is far from being so hostile 35 it naturally might be supposed. We have transmitted Copies of these Letters to the Governor General and Council; and have recommended to the Nabob, in the strongest Terms, the exerting the utmost of his Influence towards the terminating the present Troubles, by a permanent and honourable Peace. The Negociations of the Nabob, at the express Desire of the Governor General, are now going on for the Accomplishment of this wished-for End; and he gives us the strongest Reason to hope he shall be successful in his Mediation. To the like Purport as the above Letters, Sir Eyre Coote has been written to by the Chief Minister, Nanna Furnaveese; but as in the Hurry of taking the Field he forgot to surnish us with a Translate of what he had received, we can only in general Terms inform you, that the Minister expressed himself to General Coote as desirous of putting an End to the War, provided the Advantages were not all to be expected on our Side.

9. In our former Advices we explained to your Honours our Reasons for apprehending: the Soubah's Intentions to be entirely hostile to the Company: His public Declarations were expressive of Abundance of Ill-humour, and he hesitated not to avow himself to the Governor General the Adviser of the Confederacy between Hyder Ally and the Marattas. However willing the Soubah might have been to have availed himself of the embarrassed Situation of our Affairs, he yet hath fortunately refrained from any hostile Attempt. His Complaints indeed have of late assumed a milder Tone, and we have Reason to believe, from our Intelligence from the Decan, that nothing dangerous to our Repose may be immediately expected from that Quarter.

Major Scot's Examination before the Court of Directors, 26th February 1782.

Q. FROM whom did you receive Copy of the Revenue Letter of 5th May 1781, from the Governor General and Council of Bengal to the Court of Directors, with the other Papers relating to the Revenues of Bengal?

Q. When did you receive those Papers?

- Q. What Directions did you receive from the Governor General respecting the above Letter and Papers?
- Q. Were the Papers sealed up and directed to
- Q. Are the Papers produced the Original ones delivered in by him?
- Q. Did you receive any other Papers relating to the Company's Affairs from Mr. Grady?
- Q. When you tendered those Papers which are delivered in, what Reason had you for withholding the others?

- A. They were fent me by Mr. Hastings the Governor General, under the Care of Mr. Grady, from whom I received them.
- A. I think on the 19th Inflant; Mr. Grady was particularly directed to deliver them into my Hands.
- A. They were sent for my Information, and I supposed that the Court of Directors would have received the Revenue Letter by the same Ship. These Papers were put on board the Neptune, on which Ship Mr. Grady had taken his Passage; but she being unable to proceed he embarked on board the Bellmont; wrote to the Governor General to know what he should do with the Papers, but receiving no Answer, he brought them with him on the Bellmont.
- A. Yes; in a Box fealed up, directed to the particular Care of Mr. Grady.
- A. They are not the Original ones, but appear by the Endorsement to be Copies of them.
- A. Yes, several other Papers relating to the Company's Affairs.
- A. I understood that the Revenue Letter and Papers had not been received by the Company; but if there are any other Papers in my Possession, being Copies of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, the Originals of which have not been received by the Company, I will with great Pleasure, and I think it my Duty so to do, lay them before the Honourable the Court of Directors. It is from some Accident which I cannot account for, that Papers of such Consequence have not been received, because I am sure it was Mr. Hastings's Intention to have transmitted

- Q. By what Means can you ascertain that the Papers which you have delivered in, and those others which you received from the Governor General by Mr. Gtady, are true Copies from the Company's Record?

Q. Can you recollect the Purport of the other Papers in your Possession which came by Mr. Grady, and which you have not delivered in?

Q. Were those Papers transmitted by the Governor General for your private Information?

Q. Have you Directions from the Governor General to communicate those Papers or their Contents to any other Person or Persons?

Q. Are any of those Friends in the Direction of the East India Company's Affairs?

Q. How long have you resided in India, at what Settlements, and in what Stations?

Q. When did you leave Bengal?

A. I heard so at this House, and that the Revenue Packet had not been received. I had asked that Question before I had received any Letter inyself.

A. I firmly believe them to be so, because they are endorfed by the Governor General himself, and because he refers me to them very particularly in his private Letters.

A. I cannot recollect them all, but will mention as far as I am able. Copies of many of them were in my Possession before, which Mr. Hastings had forgot.

The proposed Treaty with the Dutch-The Debates relative to Sir Elijah Impey's Appointment-New Regulations for the Courts of Jultice, dated I think the 15th of April 1781-Regulations of the Customs—Mr. Anderson's Negociation with Chimnajee Boosla, including the Governor General's Instructions to that Gentleman -Letter from Dewangur Pundit, Minister of the Rajah of Berar, to the Governor General, received at Calcutta the 10th May 1781-Copy of the Correspondence with Fort Saint George, from August 1780 to February 1781.—I believe these are all the Public Papers; if there are any others I will fend them in. I had forgot to mention the Copy of Mr. Hastings's Minute and Mr. Wheler's, on the Appointment of Mr. Markham to the Residency of Benares.
A. They were.

A. Mr. Hastings has desired me to shew a private Letter to his particular Friends, but the other Papers are left to my Discretion. These Papers are often referred to in that private Letter, and I should have shewn them to those particular Friends who defired to read them.

A. They are not-many of them are Proprietors.

A. I was appointed a Cadet by the Court of Directors 16 Years and a Half ago—Arrived at Bombay in August 1766-Served Seven Months on that Coast, and went with Permission to Bengal, where I came in a Cadet in June 1767-I served the Army till the 7th January 1781, and then refigned the Honourable Company's Service.

It is material to me to make one Observation, that in my Instructions to Major Scott I have particularly provided, that I will suffer no Person whatever to perform any Act in my Name that shall be construed to imply a Resignation of my Authority; protesting against the Exercise of so dangerous a Power, from its having been assumed upon a former Occasion without being warranted by my Consent, or by any previous Instructions that could bear the most distant Tendency to such a Measure.

Translation of a Letter from Dewagur Pundit, Minister to Moodajee Boosla, the Rajah of Berar, to Mr. Hastings. Dated 5th April; received 10th May, 1781.

After the usual Compliments,

PRIOR to this, in the fulness of Friendship and Respect, which God, the Creator of Heaven and Earth, knew to be fincere; I wrote Four Letters concerning the Affairs of this Province, stating the Business in Agitation in all its Points of View; and setting forth the Measures to be taken, and the Confequences attending your Resolution for Peace or War: That if in order to restore your Reputation, which had suffered from the Incapacity of the Bombay Commanders, you were determined upon War, there were such and such Measures necessary to be taken to carry it on with Success: That if you spoke the Language of Peace, and wished that the Garden of the State should preserve its Beauty unviolated by the Thorns of War and Confusion, you should send Proposals for a Treaty, fully and particularly drawn out, respecting every Article, in such and such Form, and to such and such Purport; that the Thorns of Discontent might be removed, and a Foundation laid for our mutual Agreements to last for ever; that the Country might flourish in Tranquillity, the Inhabitants be at Ease, and the General and Soldiers free from the Fatigues of incessant Toil. I conclude that these Letters have been respectively received, and that you must be acquainted with their Contents; and most undoubtedly your extensive Capacity and universal Knowledge have enabled you to comprehend the fecret Meaning of every Hint and Suggestion contained in the Lines which I wrote regarding the Negociation of a Treaty; and will have confidered every Matter, both in its Beginning and its Consequences. But as, contrary to former Custom, when a mutual Correspondence every Month respecting Business subsisted between us, your Answer in the present Instance, although the Welfare of the State depended upon it, has been delayed; my Heart, which is captivated in the Ties of Affection and Good-will towards you, is involuntarily struck with Surprise, and filled with Unea-The Raja himself often calling to Mind the Excellence of your Disposition and Understanding, asks, What can be the Reason, that in Three Months no Letter has been received from Calcutta?—What Reason can I assign?——I replied, That as the Letters from here were all written in the Caule of Peace, through the Favour of the Almighty, their Contents were engraved in your Heart, fince you of yourself had sent the Drasts of a Treaty. But as the daring Ambition of Hyder Naig has filled Arcot with War and Confusion, that you, being unable to bear his daring Insolence, were taken up with the necessary Preparation of sending Troops to chastise him, occasioned this Delay; but that it was no Matter, as your Answer would certainly arrive in a few Days To speak to the Point at once; the Greatness of the Wealth, and the numerous Armies of the State; the Strength and Power of the Purdhan Pundit, and his Generals; the Multitude of Forts and Strong-Holds in their Possession; and the Strength, Valour, and Prowess, which they have difplayed for these Fifty Years past in the Wars carried on in the Decan and Hindostan, are written on the Leaves of the World; and are too well known to need a Repetition. There are few Places in Decan or Hindostan which have not felt the Hoofs of the Maiatta Hoises. Their Armies spread like the Ocean, and are in all Places. But Piaises, a Thousand Praises, to the Excellency of your Measures, your Exertions in War, and your Regard to Honour and Glory; that amidst the Discord which shakes the World, you stand like a Rock on your Ground unmoved; and in Proportion as the Troubles increase beyond the Power of Remedy, your Strength and Prowess rise superior a Hundred-fold; who only, from the Circumstance of a Frenchman's having been admitted to the Presence of the Regency of Poona, observed the Scent of Enmity and Separation, and instantly conceived the Remedy, fent a Force under the Command of Colonel Leslie against this Place, and dispatched Mr. Elliott to negociate the Affair; and when that Gentleman died on the Expedition, Beneram Pundit was furnished with proper Dispatches and Instructions from hence; General Goddard was written to, that at first he should try every Means, and use his utmost Endeavours for Peace; but in case of this failing, he was to proceed to Hostilities. After the Defeat of the Bombay Detachment, General Goddard marched to Surat, feized upon Guzzerat, and gave Affiftance to Futty Sing Guicawar; Letters were sent to the Government of Poona and to me for a Ratification of the Treaty, as laid down by Colonel Upton, which by the unfortunate Chances of Things were not attended to; and by the Advice and Suggestion of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, a Plan was laid out to effect the Business by War. Forces were sent into every Quarter. The Valour and Activity shewn by your Troops, when in the Field, need not be repeated. The Intrepidity and Skill displayed by General Goddard for Six Months, in his Attack upon Scindia, are beyond a Doubt equal to the Labours of Ruftura and Esteadyar; as none before had ever been victorious over Chiefs to mighty and powerful as Scindia and Holkar. In like Manner, in the Provinces of Madias and Arcot, &c. although the English Troops are but few, and those dispersed in many Places; and although Hyder Naig had a numerous Army, and well provided with Stores, yet their Valour and Retolution has not been damped, particularly fince the Arrival of General Coote at Madras. These are the Effects of your Exertions, by which your Forces have gained additional Strength — The whole are now afternbled, and are in the Field against Hyder; perhaps, by this Time there has been a decuive Engagement; as Hyder is in Alliance with the French, and a large Force is on the Way by Sea to assist him, the English have sent out a Fleet properly equipped to intercept it. In the Zellah of Kandeish, dependant on the Province of Berrampore, the English are engaged in a bloody War with Holkar. In the Province of Malva, near Oogeyn, the Contest is wonderful; Scindia, at the Head of Thirty Thousand Horse, attended by all the Rajahs and Zemindars of that Country, making in all near Fifty Thousand Horse, have surrounded the English Troops which had marched from Bopaul and Nawa at Seronge. The English, though their Number is small, are prepared to sight them. General Goddard, in Three Days and Nights, in Desiance of the Forces of Ram Chunder Gunnis, who attempted to oppose his Progress, has taken the Fort of Bassein, which is the first amongst the Forts for Strength; and after settling that strong Fort, and taking some other Places, he is now in the Field against Hurry Pundit and Holkar, who have an Army of Fifty Thousand tried Horse and Native Generals, and many large Cannon at the Ghaut; and has taken Post in Places of difficult Access, and great natural Strength. The Government and Chiefs of Poona have thrown aside their Affection to their Families, and are resolved to devote their Town to the Flames. They only wait 'till they hear of General Godord's marching from his Station at the Ghaut, and then that which is to be will take Place. Although the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlabhas not yet joined the Poona Army, yet he has collected his Forces, and made the necessary Preparations. In short, your good Sense, Valour, and victorious Fortune in every Part, against all Opposition, has lighted up to assonishing a Flame of War, that for 50 or 100 Years back no Power has been so universally successful against every General, and every Power opposed to them. The Rajah is continually finging the Praises of these Exertions; and I, whose Heart and Soul are interested in your Welfare, wish earnestly and sincerely for the Honour of an Interview with you, and that, without waiting for the Permission of the Minister of the Pundit Purdhaun, I may see with my own Eyes the Form of that Greatness, which is the Source of all this Bravery, Conduct, Grandeur, State, Wisdom, and Knowledge of Mankind; that I may explain to you my Ideas, and the Plan which I have for a long Prince and Language of the Prince and Language for the Prince and which I have for a long Time revolved in my Mind for the Benefit of the State, and hear from your own Mouth the Observations which you shall think proper to make; that I may be able to settle the Terms of such a Treaty between the English and the Peshwa, as may be for the Benefit of both; that the Thorns of Discontent, which are in the Breast of the English Nation against Hyder Naig and the French, by Confultation with each other, may be removed with Eafe. Your Name and Reputation is great in the World, and in the Presence of the Royal Majesty of England: But what can I do? I have been Six Months confined by Illness, and at present I am so tortured with Pains in my left Leg and Arms, that I can scarce sit down or rise up: I receive no Benefit from the Medicines I take. As you have with you Gentlemen compleatly skilled in Physic, if any such Gentleman with proper Medicines and Oils can come, it will be regarded by me as the greatest Favour and Kindness; it will be giving a Renewal of Life to this Well-wisher, who is equal to manifold Services; and when I shall be restored to Health, and shall present myself before you, what shall then be done it is superfluous to write. Whatever shall come within the Compass of actual Observation and Experience is Truth itself. But 'till the Completion of my Wishes, which depend upon my Recovery, be pleased to affent to what I write in the Fullness of Friendship and Regard; and believe that what I fay is only from Motives of Truth and Friendship, a Forelight of Consequence, and a Knowledge of the Affairs; and it is this, that as full Revenge has been taken for the Difgrace of the Bombay Detachment, and the English Name is a Hundred Times greater than before, and or the bombay Detachment, and the English Name is a Flundical Times greater than before, and the Dread and Respect of the English so established over all, that if any one shall hereafter be at Enmity with them, the same Consequences will be expected to follow; it is therefore not consonant to Wisdom, to suffer the Flames of War to lay waste and spread the Earth with Desolution. For to Wisdom, to suffer the Flames of War to lay waste and spread the Earth with Desolution. For what you have gained by your Power, Fortune, and the Favour of God, to this Hour be thankful, what so shall a Force has been able to prevail against such numerous Holls in every Part; and you should be all Means open the Door to Peace and Friendship, and use your utmost Power to root out should by all Means open the Door to Peace and Friendship, and use your utmost Power to root out the French and Hyder Naig. If you should say, I myself have formed a Treaty, which if they will not accept, what am I to do? The Answer is this: The Articles inserted in your Proposals respecting Ragonaut Row, the Fort of Gwalior, and Futty Sing Guicawar, contained obvious REP. VI.

Grounds for Objection; and the Affairs of the State, and the Greatness of the Pundit Purdhaun, by his acceding to the above Three Articles, would have been injured; therefore such Answers were returned as were judged necessary and proper: And further, at the Time the proposed Treaty arrived here, the English Forces were employed in subduing the Country of Cokan, and General Goddard was likewise exerting himself with the greatest Activity in the Siege of the Fort of Bassein, and the Flames of Contention were every Day gaining new Star of War, where was there room for Deliberation? And h b; wherefore, amidst this Conflagration Proposals for Peace and Friendship be approved of at fuch a Time? They rather would be . ' - Language of Deceit. If a Man was to seize another by the Head, and attempt to take im, and a Struggle would he receive ensued, and at such a Time any one was to propose to the latter a Recfuch a Proposal? He would First effect his own Deliverance, and then in. Ferms of Accommodation. Your proffered Treaties arrived in the Midst of the Ferment of War and Pattern, and therefore remained in Suspence; nor had any Answers arrived to what had been sent from hence. What is past is past. At this Time in which I am writing, the Scale of Strength between the Forces of both Parties hangs equal. No Time can be better than the present for the Work of Peace; you should look upon this as propitious, and not let it slip, since the Wise never let Opportunity pass, for it is impossible to be recalled: Therefore you should begin a Negociation through the Mediation of the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah, who is one of the most principal Chiefs of the Deckan. He will represent here whatever you shall think proper to write to him, without Diminution or Exaggeration; and in return, by the same Channel, whatever is to be written, will be written; and let the Nabob Mobarez-ul-Mulk be applied to in respect of this Negociation, who is the firm Pillar of the Fortune and Greatness of the Asofean Race, and to whom you have heretofore written; so that the Rajah, the Nabob Mobarez-ul-Mulk, and the Nabob Nizam-ul-Dowlah may join in a Mediation, and obtain from Pundit Purdhaun such a Treaty as may prevent any Disputes in suture, and a Plan laid for extirpating the Power of Hyder and the French.

The above Advice is just, and according to good Sense; you will certainly see the Propriety of it, and soon shew your Approbation publicly; and you will believe what I have written to be the Dictates of my Friendship and good Wishes; but if not, the Matter will be carried to such a Length, that it will be impossible to bring it again in the same Train. For how long will General Goddard remain at the Ghauts? As it will not be proper for him to retreat, he will descend from the Ghaut upon Poona. The Maratta Chiefs with their owg. Hands will set Fire to the Town, level all their Houses with the Dust, and sprinkling their Arms and Feet with the Ashes of their Habitations, and devoting their Families and Possessions to Destruction, will perform Acts beyond the Power of Imagination, which their Opponents will never be able to get the better of. Nizam-ul-Dowlah also will not sit an idle Spectator of the same. Hyder, with so large a Force, and the Affistance of the French, will not remain inactive: And Scindeah, who is a renowned and warlike Chief, and who has a Force of near 50,000 Horse, with Rajahs and Zemindars, and who has of old rendered Services to the Imperial Throne, will exert himself while able to move Hand or Foot. God knows what they may be able to perform, or what Game the deceitful Heavens may play: You should therefore look on what has already been brought to pass as fortunate, and begin the Work of Peace. What I have written is merely from a Regard to the Friendship which you have at all Times displayed towards me. In the Letters with which you formerly honoured me, you wrote, that "On your Comfort and Satisfaction depend the Comfort and Satisfaction of Mankind, and the Peace and Happiness of the People; "let not therefore Sorrow for your deceased Wife prey upon your Heart."

From the Emotions of my Heart therefore, and the Impulse of Friendship which attracts me towards you, I have been induced to write so fully. I have not omitted a single Point in this Letter that could contribute to set Matters in the fullest Light, either in weighing the present Circumstances, or looking forward to future Consequences. I have the strongest Hope that you will examine the whole by yourself, Word by Word, and approve of all that I have said. And after the Foundation of Peace is thus laid, and I am relieved a little from my Disorder, I will certainly do myself the Honour of having one Time an Interview with you.

Par. 19. FROM the invariable Tenor of our Advices to your Honours, you will perceive a strong, and we are forry to believe a just Opinion of the ruinous Consequences which would sooner or later fall upon the Company, from the War which your Servants at the other Presidencies had unnecessarily entered into with the Maratta State.

Bordering/

Bordering upon each other's Dominions, and heated by Jealoufy and a defire of Plunder, Hyder and the Marattas never could have remained upon amicable Terms. Every Year, unless when we Repped in to suspend their Operations, the Country of the one or the other was the Theatre of War. Their Success was various; but the Effect is the English Interest was the same, they reciprocally wasted their Strength, and found a Sufficiency of Employment at Home to hinder their disturbing the Tranquillity of their Neighbours.

20. Whilst these Two Governments, the most powerful in Hindostan, were thus weakening themselves by an inveterate War, which for the known Disposition of the Parties, was never likely to have an End, your Settlements were at Peace, and your Prosperity was making the quickest Advances to its fullest State. Unhappily for your Interests, the Flame of Dissention at length broke forth at Bombay. The Seeds of War which were then sown in Support of the Cause of Ragonaut Row, and which were afterwards nourished in the most unbounded Manner by the Government of Bengal, gave a Respite to these rival Powers. They soon began to slacken in their Opposition: The Pretensions of each became every Day more moderate. At length they combined against us, and from being Enemies cemented the strongest Ties of mutual Assistance and Support, against a Consequence which they had every Reason to consider as too formidable and interfering for the Repose of India.

92. In this Manner did we communicate our Sentiments to the Governor General and Council, on the Subject of the Guntoor Circar. Your Honours will determine whether they accord with the Decision they have been pleased to pass in their Letter of the 10th October 1780, "That we presumed to hold the Circar of Guntoor at all Events, in Designce of a Requisition from the Governor General and Council peremptorily made to return it. That we had refused to withdraw our Troops, and remove our Agents and Collectors from it, knowing as we did that they had formerly pledged the Faith of the Company to the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn for both those Points, thereby de-" grading the Authority, weakening the Energy, and preventing the Efficacy of the Power of their " Government."

93. Involved as your Affairs are in every Quarter of Hindostan, the Accusation of wantonly adding to the Flame, carries in its Consequences a Degree of Criminality which every Government, satisfied with the Rectitude of its Actions, is warranted to clear itself of, and even to retort upon those who are primarily and principally concerned.

94. We have already said, and we again repeat it, the Maratta War is the sole Cause of all the Mischiefs which hitherto have been felt, or hereaster may befal the Interests of England in India. The visionary Pursuit of that Scheme hath plunged you into the most complicated public Calamity. The Country Powers tired of the Yoke, rejoice at the ruinous Measures, which to the Expenditure of all your Treasure in Bengal, and of all that hath been borrowed, hath been offensively carried on against the combined Maratta Empire. Nor shall we hesitate in delaring it our Opinion, that unless 2 Peace is speedily concluded with that Power, the hard earned Supremacy of your Situation will fink under a Blow the most severe that it hath ever yet received.

D I X, E

Minute of Sir Eyre Coote; 121b January 1781.

AT the same Time I put my Signature to the General Letter of the 9th of January 1781, I must, in Condour and Conformity to these Opinions which I have been been proposed to the conformity to these Opinions which I have been been proposed to the conformity to these Opinions which I have been been proposed to the conformity to the confo in Candour and Conformity to those Opinions which I have both held and expressed, except against one Part of it, and which ascribes all our present Missortunes to the Maratta War.

That that Measure may first have given Birth to the Idea of a general Combination of the Powers of Hindostan against us, I will not endeavour to disprove; but that to it alone we owe the formidable Incursion of Hyder Ally into the Carnatic, I cannot admit. First, Because long after we had commenced Hostilities against the Marattas, Hyder himself continued to make Conquests upon them, and which our Operations no doubt facilitated. It was his favourite Object, and which I am confident he would never have quitted, or sought for an Union with the Marattas against us, had not our Negociations with Bazalet Jung about the Guntoor Circar, on which he had also Views, and the Mode in which they were carried on, awakened his Jealousy, and very naturally made him apprehend that our ultimate Intentions were to possels ourselves of some Part of his Country. Whilst it answered his Purpose to make Peace with the Marattas, in order that his Attention or Strength might in no Shape be diverted from providing effectually for the Security of his own Territories, it was entirely suitable to the Marattas in their then Situation, as it enabled them to direct their whole Force against the Operations of our Army under Brigadier General Goddard. We alarmed his Fears for the Safety of his own Country, crossed his Views upon the Guntoor Circar, which he was desirous of obtaining in Farm from Bazalet Jung. That an able Agent might not be wanting to desirous of obtaining in Farm from Bazalet Jung. That an able Agent might not be wanting to foment these Offences, we deliberately gave Umbrage to the Nabob Nizam; first, by seeking and actually subscribing to a Treaty of Friendship with asking his Consent or Approbation; and next, by de or Tribute, which for these Eleven Years and upwa account of the Northern Circars. To prevent any b lequestrated to Payment of the Peshcush, which was owing in the sire to heavy current Expences which were unavoidably incurrent Place, perhaps by Mismanagement, I was induced to recommend the Mission of Mr. Hollond as Ambassado the Peshcush should be paid, and to explain to him the Caute of ther and Subject Bazalet Jung, without ag of him a Remission of the i esticust, have paid him, as in Treaty bound, on equences arising from the Delay in the to a temporary Inability created by the the Siege of Pondicherry; and in the other in my Way to Bengal, to affure him that

The Nizam has in his Letters to this Government, and in his Converwho communicated them to the Governor General and Council, avowed his Dilpiear. of our Behaviour with regard to the Peshcush and the Guntoor Treaty, and has without Scrupeknowledged his having for these Reasons encouraged and connived at a Combination of the Powers against us.

With all these Circumstances before me, and which the Records both here and in Bengal bear Testimony, and surther knowing it as a Thing certain, that at the very Time the Treaty was carrying on with Bazalet Jung, Hyder would have entered into an offensive and desensive Alliance with us, I would do an Injury to myself, and a still greater one to our Superiors, who are to pass their Judgment on Men and Measures by the Documents handed them from their respective Governments in India, did I tacitly subscribe to that Part of the General Letter to the Court of Directors which I have hereby excepted against, and not also elucidate the other Causes, besides the Maratta War, which have assisted to hasten our present Distresses.

I request that this may go a Number in the Packet now under Dispatch.

Extract of Letter from General Sir Eyre Coote to Brigadier General Goddard; dated Camp, New Town, 1st March 1781.

 $\mathbf{W}^{\mathrm{HEN}}$ I wrote you in the Terms I did, the most expressive I could distate, of the distressed Situation of Affairs here, wherein I enumerated the various Difficulties I had to combat against; the Smallness of my Force, and the Impossibility of attacking the Enemy in the strong Holds he was possessed of, unless a Diversion was created in his Country, to oblige him to divide the very formidable Force he had in the Carnatic; I fay, when I stated these Circumstances, and added to them my firm Opinion, that nothing but our united Efforts speedily exerted could possibly retrieve the Misfortunes which had fallen upon our Interests on this Coast, and the consequent Ruin which threatened the whole of the English Possessions in India, I did not mean to enhance any Credit which might arise from my honest Exertions in the Cause of my Country, and my Employers, but that you might be the better convinced of the real Necessity there was for seeking for an Accommodation with the Marattas on any Terms, rather than that by prosecuting a destructive War, Delay should have happened in pursuing such Measures as promised the Accomplishment of the grand national Object, giving an effectual Check to the encreasing Power and Influence of Hyder Ally Cawn. I will not argue how far my Orders as Commander in Chief ought to have weighed with you on the Occasion; but I must say, when, together with them, I stated the imminent Danger which I conceived to impend the British Interests in India, and under the express Authority delegated to me over the Bengal Troops under your Command, pointed out the Mode whereby that Danger might be averted; I experienced a very heavy Disappointment in your not having at least aimed at the Cessation of Flostilities with the Marattas, for which the Resolutions of the Governor General and Council, as well as the Spirit of the proposed Treaty itself, gave a clear Latitude with the Authority you possess over the Bengal Troops independant of the Bombay Administration, and furnished with a just Account of the Situation of Affairs of the most serious Importance, and which stood in need of such speedy Support. I am consident, that had you made it, as it deserved, the first Object in your Deliberations with the Bombay Council, that they would have seen the Propriety of countenancing it; and that had they and you in consequence been solicitous about it in our Communication with the Ministers at Pocna, I have every Reaion to think, from the Situation which the Affairs of the Maratta State were then in, might easily 7 have been effected. I will not be certain tha no Endeavours have been exerted to that End, but 43 you make no Mention of any thing to that Esfect in your Letters, I am justified in drawing the Conclusion I have done; and in adding, that I conceive my Powers as Commander in Chief in India have not been treated with that Attention to which in a Time of Warfare they are entitled to, and more particularly at a Juncture and on an Occasion like the present, which called for their Exercise and Interpolition. I wish nevertheless to rest the Judgment to be formed of my Conduct, and the Conduct of the other Parties, who have had either an executive or deliberative Share in the Management of public Affairs, upon our own evident Necessities, which it must be confessed were too alarming to justify any Measures that could delay the much-wanted Cure of all our Distresses, a Maratta Peace. Although I ver confidered the Policy of warring against the Maratta State a most ruinous one to the Interests both of the Company and the English Nation; still on the Eve of your late Success, if we had no other Power to combat against, I might have subscribed to the Plan you advised me, as laid down for the Operations of your Campaign, as the most likely to procure us honourable Terms of Accommodation; but engaged as we are in a Scene of Contention, I may say with every Power of any Confideration in India, all Steps, the Event of which could not be clearly ascertained as an unfailing Remedy, must be exceptionable. By prosecuting the War our Difficulties must be encreased, and the Prospect of obtaining Peace become daily more distant. Our Resources, anticipated by the current Demands of our Military Establishment, to which they are unequal, and burthened with a heavy Debt, cannot long support the present System. I must therefore impose it upon you as a Duty you owe your King, your Country, and your Employers, to leave no Means which may depend upon you, untried, to effect a Peace with the Marattas, and which may enable you speedily to carry into Execution my Orders for entering and creating a powerful Diversion in Hyder Ally's Country on the Malabar Side.

P. S. I think it necessary to inform you I have received Information, that Hyder Ally Cawn is using every Means in his Power to defeat our Views of Peace with the Marattas, and has even carried his Intrigue so far as to authorize Ragonaut Row to employ his Credit in the Expenditure of whatever Sums he may find necessary to that End.

Extrast of Bombay Diary, the 15th April 1781.

Letter from Sir Eyre Coote to the President and Select Committee of Bombay.

Gentlemen.

By Letters which I have received from Brigadier General Goddard, I have had the Pleasure to be informed of the Surrender of the important Fortress of Bassein to our Arms on the 11th December;

on which Event permit me to congratulate you.

Although I have not been honoured with any Reply to my Letter November, these Letters also sufficiently inform me of your having been made acquainted with my earnest Desire of the Troops under Brigadier General Goddard's Command, being employed against the Possessions of Hyder Ally, of my Reasons for expressing that Desire; and in order that he might do so to the best Advantage, of my anxious Wish to see an Accommodation take Place between the Marattas. By the same Letters it also appears, that you were in Possession of the Treaty offered to them by the Supreme Council, and of their Deliberations thereon, consequently you were possessed of every Material and Authority necessary to affist and fanctify your Councils, which it gives me Concern to find should have terminated in a Resolution to prosecute Hostilities against the Marattas.

What are the Grounds upon which this Resolution was taken, and its Necessity evinced, it is impossible I should know without having seen your Proceedings; of this however I am certain, that if to enable us to direct our whole Force against Hyder Ally it was necessary to make Peace with the Marattas, even upon their own Terms, it would have been according to what I am fully convinced ought not to be put in Competition with the Risk which is now run by prosecuting the War, and would in the present Situation of Affairs, which is truly a desperate one, been a much better Policy, and in the End have terminated more to the Advantage of the Company and the Nation, than that which has been adopted, and which nothing but a Succession of the most fortuitous Circumstances can possibly bring to a happy Conclusion. The Deliberations of the Governor General and Council on the Subject of Peace with the Marattas, gave a Latitude for a Cessation of Hostilities, but I cannot gather from the Letters I have received from Brigadier General Goddard, that any Endeavours have been exerted to that End, which certainly, circumstanced as we are, was an Object at least to have been pursued, if we had failed in the Accomplishment of it.

For your further Information, I enclose you a Copy of my Letter to General Goddard, and least the Original may miscarry, as all Land Conveyances are now become very precarious, I beg you will transmit him a Copy of it.

Camp, Newtown, 2d March 1781.

I have the Honour to be,

Gentlemen,

Your most obedient
humble Servant,

Eyre Coote.

APPENDIX,

APPENDIX Nº 376. A.

Extract of a Letter from the President and Select Committee dated 26th April 1781.

· · · · Eyre Coote, K. B.

IN our Letter of the 15th February, by the Indus, we fully explained our Motives ing to General Goddard a vigorous Profecution of the War against the Marattas, we thought the most probable and rational Method of bringing them to Terms; neither had we in that Case any Room for Deliberation, our Line of Conduct being distinctly marked out by the Goddard Case and vernor General and Council, who, after acquainting us that they had offered Terms to the Maratta Government, direct us, on Receipt of a certain Requisition and Notification from the Peshwa, immediately to suspend all Hostilities and military Operations; but in the mean Time, and until the Receipt of such Requisition or Notification, they earnestly recommended a vigorous Prosecution of the War, so far as our Troops were engaged in it; and acquainted us that a similar Order had been sent to General Goddard.

We are convinced of the Necessity, and sincerely desirous of bringing the Maratta War to a Conclusion; but it is not because we are desirous of Peace, or that Peace is necessary to our Affairs, that will prove Arguments with the Enemy for confenting to an Accommodation; and until that happens it would be as impracticable and as unfate for us to employ the Army against the Possessions of Hyder Ally, as it would be for you to make a Diversion in our Favour against the Marattas: In this Situation we have done the utmost in our Power for the Common Cause. We have reduced the War on our Part as nearly as possible to a mere System of Defence, and determined to send back all the Madras Troops serving on this Coast, in order to make the Army, under your Command more respectable and formidable, and thereby to distress Hyder to the utmost Degree that lay within our Power.

It is not to be doubted but that the Marattas and Hyder are bound by mutual Engagements, Provision must therefore be made to result the Attempts of both these Powers until one or other can be detached from their Engagements, or be effectually depressed; and it now appears to us that we can only expect this Crisis from the Event of your Operations against Hyder, which we have tanguine Hopes will be attended with the most decisive Success, and that Hyder himself will be inclined to Peace now he finds himself disappointed in his Hopes of Assistance from the French. We then might hope to bring the Marattas to Terms, which it has appeared the Offers from Bengal have not been able to effect; though, as we have already mentioned in our Letter, dated the 6th March, General Goddard, in consequence of our Recommendation, sent a Copy of the Articles directly from himself to the Minister, who had affected Ignorance of their Contents.

We have enclosed a Copy of the Answer the General received from the Minister, wherein he evidently alludes to, and acknowledges Engagements with, Hyder Ally, and in direct Terms refuses to accede to the Offers.

We have Advices, which we believe very authentic, of Hyder having sustained a very material Loss by the blowing up of his Magazine and Powder Works at Bednare, on the 2d or 3d of last Month.

The Requests of the Nabob Walla Jah from the Governor General.

- 1. Let a Treaty be firmly established between us, which may last for ever and be subject to no
- 2. I am hereditary Prince of the Carnatic, and of Balla Ghauts under Peanghaut, and am independant of every one, and I have entire Right and Authority over my Country, my Children, my Family, my Servants, and Subjects, and have Power in the political and domestic Administration of my Country. This ought to be altogether dependant on me, and let not my Friends interfere in it.

3. As the Company and English Nation are the Protectors of my Honour and Government, they will act in those Points only where the Advancement of my Interests is concerned.

4. Ten Battalions of well-disciplined Troops are stationed by me with the Company, and are paid by me; let them take nothing from me, except the Pay of them, and let all the Contingent Expences, the Batta for their Marches, and the Repairs of the Forts, be by my Consent; and let the Accounts of every Three Months be punctually delivered to me within the Sixth Month: When Peace shall be restored, I will discharge the Amount regularly, and let the Governor and

Council of Madras give me a full Receipt, and in Time of Peace let them affift me with these Test Battalions, that I may settle the Country subject to me, and derive some Advantage from the Expence.

5. Many Polygars, notwithstanding that they have met with the greatest Favour from me in Time of Peace, have, from their ambitious and relellious Views, joined my Enemy Hyder Ally, and began open War; I can therefore never place any Reliance upon them or look upon them as deterving of Favour. In this Case, my Subjects are to be kept in Awe by the Punishment of these People; for which Assistance is necessary.

6. After Peage and Alliance is made between us and the English Company, the Enemies, the Security. The Dangers of both will be the same; that is to say, whoever of us suffers an Injury it will be felt by both of us. I therefore wish that the English in India, or the King of Great Britain, would make a Treaty of Peace with the King of France; and let the Peace and Security of the Carnatic, and the Rights of my Government, without the Connection of any one, and my Power to appoint a Successor in the Carnatic, be settled in a solid Manner, and included in the Treaty.

7. In the Garrisons of my Forts, Commandants and Pay-masters are sent, who at the Advice of their Dabpash's, with a View to Profit, lend Money to the Ryots at an exorbitant Interest, and afterwards are pressing for the Money, and interfere in the Government and assist one another, by which great Injury is done to my Subjects and to myself: Let it be positively ordered, that without my Perimssion no one lend Money to my Subjects, and that for what is past as well as suture the Interest on all Loans be 12 per Cent. per Anhum, and that if any Person should act contrary to this, and should distress the Ryots, I shall complain against him, and request his Removal; and the Governor and Council of Madras will remove him from his Office, and appoint another Person in his room.

8. My constant Wish has been to discharge the Money due to the Troops stationed by the Company, and I have always exerted myself for this Purpose; from the Commencement of my Connection I have paid very considerable Sums on this Account, and on the Day that Hyder invaded the Carnatic I owed the Governor and Council of Madras less than One Lack of Pagodas, which I was in Hopes of discharging by receiving Bills from the Bankers in the Country, when in the mean while the Attack of our Enemy began, and instead of paying the Balance in Money to the Company, provided in my Country a greater Amount than that in Rice and Bullocks and Sheep for the Army, belides the Stores in my Forts, of which there is a large Supply in Trichinopoly, and a king Quantity in Velore, &c. and what was in those Forts which our Enemy has taken is in his Possession; had not my bad Destiny produced many Obstacles, there is no Doubt but at this Time I should not have been indebted One single Pagoda to the Company. Of several Talooks of the Carnatic, which are still secure from our Enemy, the Collections are included in the Accounts of the Company, but some Talooks are assigned to my Creditors, and some I have received the Paishgall in Advance; for whatever is collected from those Mahls, let it be expended for the Company; but for the Satisfaction of my Creditors, my Friends must be just; as soon as the Enemy shall have less my Country, let the Collections of those Talooks be given to my Creditors in order to pay off their Principals agreeable to my Engagements with them.

9. For feveral Reasons, and from the Invasion of my Enemy, which are not unknown to my Friends, I am greatly distressed, and my Subjects are not in a State to suffer me to have any Hopes from them. With my Exertions and Endeavours alone, it is difficult to adjust my Concerns; it is necessary that my Friends should be just and favourable to me, and should assist me in this Manner, by giving into my Hands, after the Deseat of our Enemy; the Talook of Herpah and Zurghaut, and teveral Mahls in Ballaghaut belonging to Carnatic Peanghaut, which are in my Country, and are my Right; and I will maintain in my Service 5000 well-disciplined Florie for the Collection of it.

my Right; and I will maintain in my Service 5000 well-disciplined Horie for the Collection of it.

10. The Talooks of Tanjore, which are my Right, I, at a considerable Expence, conformably to the Rules and Practice of Hindostan, took Possession of; in this my Friends assisted me, for which I returned them Thanks; since that they have, at the sole Instigation of Self-interested People, taken it from me by Force, which has brought great Damage to me, my Subjects, and Creditors: To this Time such is the Situation. Numbers of my Creditors are Englishmen, which is not unknown to you, as I have repeatedly written to you. From that Time my Right has been given up to a Ryot of mine, but no Advantage has accrued from it to the Company's Concerns; but on the contrary, he has connected himself strictly with Hyder Ally and the Marattas, and has refused to supply Money and Stores, but keeps all his Money in Negapatam, a Dutch Settlement. If my Friends would act justly, and give the Talook to me, great Advantage would be derived to the Company's and my Affairs, and the Views of our Enemies would be counteracted: Otherto the Company's and my Affairs, and the Views of our Enemies would be counteracted: Otherto the Company's and my Affairs, and the Views of our Enemies would be counteracted: Otherto the Company's and my Affairs, and the Views of our Enemies and the Carnatic Army, my wise let the whole Collections of Tanjore be appropriated to the Payment of the Carnatic Army, my wise let the whole Collections of Tanjore be appropriated to the Payment of the Carnatic Army, my wise let a Share of it be assigned to my Creditors, that they may be quieted and pacified in some and let a Share of it be assigned to my Creditors, which is my Right.

Replies from the Honourable the Governor General and Council to the Requests of the Nabob Walla Jah.

1. A temporary Treaty shall be made, subject to the Revision and Approbation of the Company, and it is hoped that this may serve as the Basis of another Treaty, to be concluded under the Orders and Instructions of the Company, and even with the Sanction of the English Parliament, which may endure for ever, and rendered so binding, that it shall not be in the Power of any Individual to break it, or to depart from it.

2. The Right and Authority which the Nabob possesses over his Country, his Children, his Family, his Servants, and Subjects, in all the political and domestic Administration of his Country, we will maintain and support.

3. Certainly.

4. Both the Pay of these Troops, and their Batta and contingent Expences, and even the Repairs of the Forts, if any Repairs are neccifary, ought undoubtedly to be charged to the Nabob's Account, because these are Expences incurred for his own immediate Service; and in the Time of War must depend upon the Commander in Chief of the Forces, under the customary Regulations and The Remainder of this Article is very proper; but it seems strange to us that a Claim Restrictions. should be made of this Kind, or any Doubts implied concerning it.

5. The Nabob is the Master of his own Country, and the Distributer of Justice to his own Subjects. This is to clear that it appears as if something more was meant than is expressed in the Proposition.

6. In whatever Treaty shall be concluded between the Nabob and the Company, it will of course be stipulated, that the Friends or Enemies of either Party should be held as equally the Friends or Enemies of the other, and their Interest, their Safety, and their Danger the same. Such has been the implied Condition of the Alliance hitherto subfisting between the Nabob and the Company, although unsupported by any written Engagements. Respecting the latter Claim of this Article, we are informed by Assam Cawn, the Nabob's Dewan, that the Nabob possesses Letters from the Company, the King's Minister, and the King himself, on the Subject of his Will; and he has produced Copies of those from the King and from the Company, which all express a clear Acknowledgment of the Nabob's Right to appoint a Successor to the Government of the Carnatic. It is therefore unnecessary, and would be unbecoming in this Government, to make any Provision, even in a temporary Treaty for such Event; which we hope is far distant. Such Acknowledgments are equivalent to Treaties, and of the highest possible Authority; and must be binding on all the Servants of the Company, and on all the King's Subjects. 7. We are greatly afflicted that any Occasion should have been afforded for such Complaints as are stated in this Article; they are no less repugnant to Justice, than injurious to the English Reputa-tion. We are willing to engage on the Part of the English Company, and of all their Dependants, that no one under their Authority shall be permitted to lend Money to any of the Nabob's Subjects for the Time to come: That it shall be prohibited in public Orders. And it is equitable, that if any Person shall act contrary to this Prohibition, or shall oppress the Ryots, the Nabob shall have a Right to require his Removal: And that the Governor and Council of Madras shall be bound in such Requisition to remove him, and to bring him to a public Trial, that he may suffer such Sentence as shall be due to the Degree of the Offence, if it shall be established against him. But as we conceive that it will be often difficult in Cases of this Nature to obtain such Evidence of the Facts as the strict Forms of our military Laws require, and must in every Case render the Nabob popularly obnoxious, by standing forth, as he necessarily must, in the Character of a Prosecutor, against the Servants of the Company, to whom he ought never to be known but by Acts of Benevolence; and as the Appointment to military Commands in his Country is intended for his fole Benefit and the Support of his Government and Interests; we proceed yet further to declare, that the Nabob has a just Claim to object to the Appointment of any Person of whom he shall disapprove, to any Command in his Country, or to the Continuance of any Person ir such Command, against whom he shall have Cause of sufficient Validity for his own Conviction to object; and that in every such Case the Governor and Council ought to conform to his Opinions: But the invariable Application of this Rule can only be admitted in a Time of Peace. In a State of actual War it might be productive of dangerous Consequences, and the Principle on which it is constructed must be therefore in such a Scalon left to the Equity of the Governor and Council. and the Discretion of the Commander in Chief of the Forces.

8. This is just. Let the Nabe's consent and engage to assign all the Revenues of his Country during the Wer, without any Exception, to the Company, for the actual Support of the War. Let the Collections and their Affignments be made by his own Aumils, in Conjunction with Perfons appointed by the President and Council of Fort Saint George, and invested with an Authority from him to receive from the Aumils all the Money which shall be collected, and to intercept and seize all Sums of Money which the Aumils or others shall attempt to secrete from the Districts under their Jurisdiction, that the Whole may be applied and exclusively appropriated to the Service of the War, excepting such Sums as the Nabob shall require to be paid immediately to himself for his and the necessary Disbursements of his Country: That he will remove and punish such of his Aumils as shall attempt to elude this Regulation; and that the Persons as above mentioned appointed to receive the Revenues, as the Pledge of their Integrity shall be required to swear that they will be true to the Trust reposed in them, and that they will neither receive nor permit to be taken, either directly or indirectly, any Portion of the Revenues but such as they shall bring to a public Account. I hat of fuch Talooks as have been affigned to the Nabob's Creditors, the nett Sums of the Collections shall be received into the Company's Treasury for the Service of the War, as above provided, but carried to the Credit of the collective Head of the Nabob's Creditors, to whom they have been assigned, to be hereaster distributed amongst them according to their respective Claims. By this Arrangement the Resources of the Carnatic will be applied, as they ought to be, to its immediate Defence and Preservation, and the Nabob's Faith and the Rights of the Creditors will be secured: And this is agreeable to the Request which the Creditors themselves have formerly made.

9. The Recovery of the Carnatic from the Hands of the Enemy must be our first Object; that of its Dependencies will be second: But it will rest upon our Ability. It cannot be made a fixed Article of a Treaty, the Purpose for which the proposed Annexations of Curkapah and Zeer Ghaut Gutti, and the several Mahals in Balaghaut, which belong to Carnatic Payen Ghaut, is professed to be intended, is equally necessary for the Service of the Nabob and of the Company: And the future Security of their common Interests; and therefore must be equally the Desire of both.

the Rajah of Tanjore; these are before a higher and a competent Tribunal. We can only require that as the Zemindary of Tanjore is a Member of the Soubah or Province of Carnatic, its Resources shall in like Manner be primarily, and at this Time of common Danger, be exclusively applied to the Maintenance of the Forces employed in the Desence and Preservation of the Whole: That the Revenues be taken in Assignment and put under a Commission, similar to that proposed for the rest of the Carnatic, and received and applied in the same Manner, and for the same Purposes. This Requisition has been partly made, and shall be repeated in the above Terms to the President and Council at Fort Saint George; but it will rest with them to conform to it, or by rejecting it to take the Responsibility of it upon themselves.

11. Our Advice is this, that a new Adjustment be made of all the Nabob's Debts contracted with British Subjects, without any Distinction of old Debts; of those of a more recent Kind, called his Confolidated Debts; or of others newly contracted, but not yet brought to any public Account or Adjustment: That the Interest upon the whole and each Debt shall be allowed and added to the original Debt, to the 25th November 1781, and thenceforward shall cease: That from such Debts as have been transferred from the original Proprietors, by Purchaie or otherwise, a Deduction shall be made of 25 per Cent. from the whole Amount: And the Remainder be the Sum for which the Nabob shall be finally debited: That the Adjustment being made in this Manner, the Sum adjusted to be respectively due to each Creditor, shall be brought to his separate Credit: That Company's Bonds, with the usual Interest, shall be granted to each who shall be entitled to a Share in the Sums received on Account of the affigned Revenues in the Proportion of his respective Debt: And in like Manner to the Creditors for Advances made on the Security of the public Revenue for the Sums brought to their Account; and that it shall be left to the Nabob, with the Concurrence of the President and Council of Fort Saint George, and the Sanction of the Governor General and Council, to appropriate such a Portion of the Revenues after the Conclusion of the War, or any Period of it, which shall admit of such an Application of them, as an Assignment for the Annual Payment of the Debt, until the Whole shall be discharged: That this Plan is recommended, both to the Nabob, the President and Council of Fort Saint George and the Creditors, and will be submitted to the Company in the first Advices to them from the Presidency.

If an Agreement shall take place according to the above-mentioned Plan, it will be necessary, both for the Purpose of rendering it effectual, and for preventing the like Distresses from falling on the Nabob and Individuals in future, that the Nabob shall solemnly engage that he will never hereaster borrow Money from the Company's Servants, or any other British Subjects: That the most public Rep. 45. The great Disadvantage suffered by the Company in the low Rate of Exchange obtained by General Goddard for his Bills, some of which were drawn at 93, and none higher than 95 Surat Rupees for 100 Calcutta Siccas, induced us to put a Stop to his Power of drawing, and to adopt the Remittance of Bullion, as a present Mode of Supply, which may enable us to bring back the Exchange somewhat nearer to its original Standard.

46. The united Demands upon us from Bombay, General Goldard, and the different Offices here, for the necessary Charges of our own Establishments, added to the total Loss of 5 Lacks in the Stafford, have so far dried up our immediate Resources, that we have been obliged to resule any surther Compliance with the Application of the Presidency of Fort Saint George for Cash, and to excuse ourselves from sending the Balance, being 5 Lacks, which remained to compleat the Supply of 15 Lacks, promised to them in March last Extract of Circular Letter from the Committee of Secrecy to Bengal, Fort Saint George, and Bombay; dated the 24th March 1780.

You have been informed by our Secret Committee of the Designs of the Enemy to attempt the Capture of our Settlements. You will be vigilant to guard against Surprize, and communicate these Particulars to the Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships in India, and to every other President and Council, so soon as possible. The French expect to be joined by the Maiattas or Hyder Ally, at or near Callicut, who are said to be impatient for their Arrival Bombay is probably their Object. We most earnestly desire that Peace may be speedily concluded with the Marattas, on the Terms of excluding the French from that Side of India; and that our Friendship and Connection with Hyder Ally may be strengthened as much and as speedily as possible, on the same Terms.

Circular Letter from the Secret Committee of the Court of Directors to the following Presidencies;
Bengal, Fort Saint George, Bombay, and China.

Enclosed we transmit for your particular Information Copy of His Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 17th of April Instant, declaring that the Subjects of the United Provinces are henceforward to be considered upon the same Footing with those of other neutral States, not privileged by Treaty; and suspending provisionally, and till further Order, all the particular Stipulations respecting the Freedom of Navigation and Commerce, in Time of War, of the Subjects of the States General, contained in the several Treaties now substituting between His Majesty and the Republic.

But although the Situation of the Affairs of this Country is rendered thus critical respecting the States General; and although that Republic, by their Failure in the Execution of their Part in the several Treaties with Great Britain, have justly forfeited, and by His Majesty's Proclamation are declared to have forfeited, all particular Rights and Privileges which they were entitled to under the said Treaties; yet, His Majesty still considers them as in a State of Amity with Great Britain, only reduced by their own Conduct to the Situation of a neutral State, not privileged by Treaty.

Upon this Ground we caution you to avoid becoming Aggressors in any Act of Hostility against the Subjects of the Republic in India, and direct, that your Conduct be such only as shall tend to the Preservation of that good Understanding which still subsists between the Two Countries.

But

APPENDIX, N° 379, 380.

But at the same Time that we recommend to you the most scrupulous Attention to avoid any Offence or Act of Aggression whatever against the Subjects or Possessions of the Republic, you will most vigilantly guard against any Consequences which may eventually arise from the Measures which His Majesty has been under the Necksity of adopting. We do not mean, however, that you shall take any chees Steps, in consequence of this Suggession, but such as shall be warranted by that Line of Prudence and Caution which the Security of the Company's Possessions and Property shall fully justify, and of which the States General shall have no well-grounded Reason of Complaint.

$A_{j}PPENDIX, N^{\circ}$ 380.

Extract of General Letter to Bengal, dated 2d February 1781.

Par. 35. OUR Select Committee at Bombay have transmitted us a Copy of the Treaty which General Goddard has concluded with Futty Sing. By a Letter from our faid Committee, dated the 16th of March 1780, we were led to hope for a favourable and speedy Conclusion to a Negociation which had then been opened with Madjee Scindia; and although the Event has proved otherwise, yet as Scindia has since experienced the Superiority of our Arms, we think it probable that he may again be induced to offer or accept reasonable Terms. If not, we have little Doubt of his being soon compelled thereto by the Force employed on that Service, under so active and able an Officer as General Goddard.

36. In the beforementioned Letter, we find our Select Committee of Bombay had represented to General Goddard the Importance of obtaining Possession of Bassein, and offered it as their Opinion, that no other Object could claim a Preference to the General's Attention, or bring the Campaign to a more honourable and advantageous Conclusion; they also flattered themselves, that General Goddard having been reinforced with Troops from Madras, would be able to protect effectually our Possession in Guzerat, and to undertake the Siege of Bassein; and if this Plan of Operations has been pursued, we hope it has been attended with the defired Success.

37. It feems to be the Opinion of our faid Committee, (provided no Efforts would be made by the French to retrieve their Affairs in India) that the Views of the Company, after establishing ourselves at Bassein and securing our Share of the Guzerat Country, should be merely defensive.

38. No material Objection to this Plan occurs to us at present, provided due Care be taken that our European Enemies are prevented from regaining their Influence, and precluded from settling in the Maratta Dominions. It would however be still more eligible if Provision could be made for reimbursing the heavy Charges incurred by the War; but if this be found impracticable, we think a Relaxation in the Demand for Indemnification, would be more prudent than further Prolongation of the War on that Account.

39. We observe that when you first resolved to fend Military Assistance to Bombay, you understood the Plan of Operation to be confined merely to the Objects of Security to the English Possessions in India, and to the Exclusion of the natural Enemies of the British Government, from any Instruce or Connection with the Marattas, and you made it an express Condition of your Concurrence, that our Servants at Bombay should withdraw their Forces so soon as the End required and defined should be accomplished.

40. These Sentiments are consonant to our own Ideas, agreeable to the general Tenor of our repeated Orders and Instructions, and consistent with the Interest of the Company. And although the want of Success in the Bombay Expedition might render it necessary to carry your Views further than were first intended, and the Honour of the Company, which had been deeply wounced by the disgraceful Convention of Worgaum, called for the strongest Exertions, as well to restore and preserve the Reputation of our Arms, as to reduce the Enemy to the Necessity of listening to reasonable Terms of Accommodation; yet as we trust these Ends have been answered, and as the French are also expelled Powers to conclude a Treaty with Futty Sing were not given to General Goddard till December 1779, which was nearly 11 Months after the Convention of Worgaum.

A P P E N D I X, N° 380, 381.

from India, we enjoin you to convince the Marattas, and all the native Powers around you, that our Troops shall not be employed against our Neighbours, unless they become the Aggressors; and that we utterly disavow all Ideas of disturbing the Public Tranquillity for the Sake of Conquests.

41. Hoping therefore that our Arms have continued successful that the acquired Countries in the

41. Hoping therefore that our Arms have continued fuccessful that the acquired Countries in the Guzerat Province are properly secured, and that Bassein is in our Possession, the Restoration of Peace becomes an Object of our most earnest Desire; and it will give us inexpressible Satisfaction to find it established upon a Footing so advantageous to the Company.

42. The open and avowed Predilection of the Court of Poona in favour of French Agents, was the only Ground upon which we countenanced Hostilities against the Marattas. Upon the Removal of European Influence we repeat our most anxious Solicitude to have a speedy Termination put to the War; and as Conquest is by no Means our Object, we desire no other Benefit from the late Success of our Arms, than a full Compliance with the Stipulations of the Treaty of Poorunder, and the Cession of Bassein, as a necessary Appendage to Salsette.

43. In order therefore to manifest to the ruling Powers of Poona the Sincerity of our Disposition to be at Peace upon honourable Terms, we shall have no Objection, on the above Conditions, to restore the Guzerat Countries, provided the Safety and Honour of Futty Sing be effectually secured, unless better Terms have been or can be soon and easily obtained.

44. But if, contrary to our Expectations, unfortunate Circumstances shall have rendered it impossible to make Peace with the Marattas on the above Conditions; and if supporting the War shall be found impracticable, without reducing our Investments, and depriving us of those Aids which Bengal has usually furnished to our China Trade; in such Case a speedy Accommodation with the Marattas will be necessary upon the best Terms possible, taking Care that the Faith and Honour of the Company be in all Respects inviolably preserved, and that effectual Provision be made for the Security of our Possessions.

45. Our Select Committee entertained Hopes that their Views in Point of Territory might be established in a sew Months; they therefore proposed stating their Sentiments on the Subject to you, and also respecting the great Importance of reducing the Charges of the War to more moderate Bounds than could be expected whilst the Troops of other Presidencies are serving with those of Bombay; and to these important Objects you will not fail to pay early Attention. Indeed we assure ourselves that the Reduction of Expence will appear to you so absolutely necessary, that every Step will be taken which shall have a Tendency to bring it within the most moderate Bounds.

46. You will have been informed, that the Forts of Persick and Bellapore have been surprized by Detachments from Bombay; that a considerable Quantity of Grain had been thereby obtained, of which they were in great Want; and that a Source of suture Supply is opened, which in the present State of Affairs appears of the utmost Consequence.

47. It is with Pleasure we remark, that although our Servants at Bombay seem in some Degree hurt by the independant Powers granted by you to General Goddard, the most perfect Harmony has nevertheless subsisted between the General and our Select Committee at Bombay; and from this Circumstance, and their manifest Disposition to concur heartily in suture Operations, we venture to draw the most favourable Conclusion.

48. It is impossible at this Distance, and without more recent Information before us, to be more particular respecting the Situation of our Affairs on the Western Side of India. We trust every thing in your Power has been done to render the Issue of the War adequate to the vast Expence incurred; the Safety of our Possessina has we hope been effected, and there seems no Doubt of the Reputation of our Arms having been fully restored, by the spirited, judicious, and very gallant Conduct of General Goddard, and the Army under his Command.

APPENDIX, N° 381.

Bengal, Letter from the Court of Directors to the Governor General and Council at Fort William, Political.

| Letter from the Court of Directors to the Governor General and Council at Fort William, in Bengal; dated 11th April 1781.

Par. 1. In our Letter of the 2df Fe b ruary last, we gave you our Sentiments and Instructions on the Posture of Affairs on the Western Side of India, so far as we were able from the Advices then before us. Since that Period, we have received a Letter from our Select Committee at Bombay, dated the 25th of July 1780, and are thereby informed, that though the last Campaign had not produced decisive Advantages, the Superiority of our Arms had been evinced in the most honourable and striking Manner; and it will afford us infinite Satisfaction, if the Consequences have a Tendency to hasten the Conclusion of a safe and honourable Peace.

N° 381. N D I X, E

It is with Concern we acquaint you, that by an intercepted Extract of a Gazette from the Isle of France Information is received of Hyder Ally having in July last crossed the Gauts, through the Pass of Changama, entered the Carnatic with a large Army, defeated a Detachment under the Command of Colonels Baillie and Fletcher, and gained other Advantages. The Action is faid to have happened the 10th of September.

3. We have no official Information from Fort Saint George later than the 3d of April: By Advices of that Date we are acquainted, that the Nizam had, in the strongest Terms, recommended to Bazalet Jung, to give the Guntoor Circar at Rent to Hyder Ally; that Hyder had actually invaded Bazalet Jung's Country, in order to force a Compliance, and threatened entire Conquest, if Bazalet Jung should hesitate to renounce his Engagements with the English: That Bazalet Jung (obliged to submit to Necessity) had desired the March of our Troops to be stopped, and Possession of the Country to be restored to him: That our Select Committee at Fort Saint George had readily agreed to the former, but declined complying with the latter Proposition. It also appears that a special Messenger had been sent by the Select Committee to Hyder's Court; but that Hyder was not desirous of their Friendship, nor did he treat Mr. George Gray, their Messenger on that Occasion, with Respect or Civility.

4. From the abore Particulars, we conclude it possible that Hyder may have entered the Carnatic, and commenced Hostilities with a View to distress Mahomed Ally Khan, who had been put in Possession of the Guntoor Circar, and to compel him to relinquish such Possession.

5 In our last Advices we expressed our Expectation that your conciliatory Letter to Hyder, of the 17th of February 1780, would be productive of falutary Effects; we would fill entertain the Hope of your having been able to fettle Matters amicably with him; and in fuch Case direct that you renew the Affurances given of our Desire to be on Terms of cordial Friendship; but under present Circumstances we can prescribe no positive Rules for your Conduct in this respect.

6. If Hyder has really invaded the Carnatic, though the French Accounts before us are probably much exaggerated, such an Event must nevertheless have produced great and immediate Distress; and in such Case it will require your instant and powerful Exertion to recover Assairs from Disorder in that Quarter. We have no Doubt of your Zeal and Ability, and rely with Confidence upon your best Endeavours being immediately exerted for that Purpole.

7. We also affure ourselves, that Harmony and Unanimity in this Instance will guide your Councils, and give Vigour and Dispatch to your Proceedings; we particularly enjoin it; and the more confidently expect it, because it does not appear to us that you have differed in Sentiment concerning those Transactions on the Coast, which we fear have been the immediate Cause of Troubles in the

8. We have no Doubt but Hyder Ally is in close Connection with the French: His Conduct respecting Mahie, and on other Occasions, affords the clearest Proof of his Attachment to that Nation. The French feem to have no other probable Means of regaining Consequence and Advantage in India, but by Means of Hyder; nor can we be of Opinion that Hyder would venture to attack our Pofsessions, unless assured of speedy and powerful Support from France. One Object unites the French with Hyder: It the English are depressed on the Coast, the French gain their Purpose, and Hyder becomes irresistible in the Carnatic; all the Country Powers, from Cape Comorin to the Kistnah, must fall a Prey to his Ambition; even the Decan would be at his Mercy; the Northern Circars be lost to the Company; and our Troops, without the Means of Sublistence, might be compelled to take Shelter within the Walls of Fort Saint George.

9. It would be very desirable, but perhaps not practicable, to detach Hyder from the Marattas, if a League offensive and defensive has really been formed between them; but we apprehend it would be less dissicult to prevail upon the Marattas to quit their Connection with Hyder: The Alliance, on their Part, is unnatural, except against the English, with whom their Cause of Quarrel is temporary. If Hyder's Force be now troublesome, it may soon become dangerous; and if he has invaded the Country with Success, we fear there will be no Bounds to his Ambition, nor Safety but in his Re-

10. If you flould find this to be the Cafe, and a separate Peace with the Marattas can be made, which on any Terms is preferable to the Alternative of maintaining a War against the combined Force of Hyder and his Dependants united with the Marattas, you may then be at Liberty to draw down General Goddard's Army from the Northward, and, by well-judged and vigorous Exertions, make fuch Impressions upon Hyder's Territories, as may reduce him to Reason, and compel him to quit the Carnatic, in order to provide for the Defence of his own Capital, and thus pave the Way to an equitable and permanent Peace.

11. These are our present Ideas, if War with Hyder shall be found utterly unavoidable: But not knowing what Events may have happened, we must leave it to your Discretion on the Spot, to determine how far they are to be adopted, as confistent with found Policy, and practicable in the Execution; and we must also add, that a safe and immediate Peace, both with Hyder and the Marattas, is to be your primary Object.

12. In order, to the utmost of our Power, to afford speedy Affistance to our Settlement of Fort Saint George, we have applied to His Majesty for a present Reinforcement of Troops and Ships of War; and we have the Satisfaction to acquaint you, that His Majesty has been graciously pleased to grant us an immediate Reinforcement of 1000 British Troops for that Purpose, which we expect to sail for India by by the Middle of next Month. Measures will also be taken to furnish such additional Strength naval and military, as the Exigency of Assairs will permit.

Coast, to take off the Suspension of Brigadier General James Stuart, and to avail our the present Criss, of the Services of so able and experienced an Officer, by restoring him to ms Rank in the Company's Service at Fort Saint George, next below General Munro.

14. In regard to the Political Affairs of your own Presidency, we are externely forry to find that the Vizier's Country has suffered so much from Drought and other Circumstances, as to render it difficult to draw from thence the Refources which your Necessities require.

15. We trust Mr. Bristow who concluded the Treaty with Ausuph-ul-Dowlah in June 1775, would arrive in Bengal soon after the Date of your last Consultations; and as, in consequence of our Orders, he would also proceed immediately to the Vizier's Court, we entertain the most favourable Expectations of his being able to conciliate the Mind of the Vizier, and to assist him effectually in arranging and restoring his Finances to a more flourishing Condition.

16. We notice the Repugnance with which you agree to enforce a Requisition for more than the Amount of the stipulated Subsidy; and we can easily conceive, that in all such Cases, if the Nabob comply, it must be from a Principle of Fear, and with great Reluctance. And for these Reasons, added to our former Observations on the Subject, we particularly renew our Injunction, that every Esfort be used to restore and establish Peace with all your Neighbours, on Terms of the most perfect Moderation, in order to be able to abridge your own insupportable Charges, and to relieve your Friends and Allies from additional Expences incurred on account of the War; and also, that you may be able to exert your whole Force against the national Enemies, if the Continuance of European Troubles shall render it necessary.

Extract of Circular Letter to the Governor General and Council at Bengal, to the Select Committee at Bombay, and to the Select Committee at Fort Saint George; dated the 11th April 1781.

By the Court's Letter of this Date, you will be informed of the Line of Conduct to be observed refpecting Hyder Ally Khan, if Matters cannot be finally adjusted without proceeding to Extremities. We therefore enjoin you to lose no Time in preparing for the Attack of Mangalore, and from that Side of India, for the Reduction of Hyder's Capital in the Mysore Country, as the surest Means of forcing him to accept Terms of Accommodation safe and honourable for the Company.

And as we trust Matters with the Marattas will be settled, and Peace restored between them and the Company immediately upon the Receipt of the Court's present Orders, if not done before, we conclude that the Troops under General Goddard will be totally at Liberty to act against Hyder; and, with such other Force as may be brought to co-operate, be sufficient for every Service that shall be

dated the 31st May 1781.

Par. 1. OUR last Letters were dated the 11th of April, by which you are advised of the Information then before us, respecting the Irruption of Hyder Ally into the Carnatic, and our Sentiments on that alarming Event.

2. By the Trial Schooner we received, the 16th ultimo, several Packets from our Governor General and Council, and from the late Select Committee of Fort Saint George, confirming the Accounts before received of the Invasion of the Carnatic by the Troops of Hyder Ally Khan, with Letters dated as follows, viz.

- 3. The immediate Cause of this unfortunate War; the unprepared State of the Government of Fort Saint George to resist or repel the Invader; the severe Loss sustained by the Deseat and Destruction of Colonel Baillie's Detachment; the Retreat of the Army under General Munro, and the future Success of the Enemy, are Events which have occasioned universal Consternation and Astonishment; and we now inform you, that a Select Committee of Secrecy is appointed by Parliament to enquire into the Causes of the present War that subsists in the Carnatic, and into the present State of our Possessions in those Parts; also to make their Observations thereon, and to report the same to the Honourable the House of Commons.
- 4. At the earnest Request of the Company, in the present alarming Crisis, His Majesty has been most graciously pleased to order that One thousand regular Troops, and Two hundred Recruits for the 73d Regiment, shall embark on the Ships now under Dispatch for India. The Particulars of their Embarkation, and other necessary Circumstances, will be communicated to you by James Mosfatt and Lionell Darell, Esquires, who are now at Portsmouth to superintend and regulate the said Embarkation.
- 5. Respecting suither Succours to be sent to our Settlements, and such Information and Advice as require temporary Secrecy, you will be addressed by Laurence Sulivan, Fsquire, our Chairman, and Sir William James, Baronet, our Deputy Chairman, who have been appointed a Committee of Secrecy, with like Powers to those vested in the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, as advised in the Court's Letter of the 11th of January 1781, and all Orders and Instructions given by our said Chairman and Deputy Chairman relative to Naval or Military Operations, must be obeyed in the same Manner as though they were signed by Thirteen or more of the Court of Directors.
- 6. We much approve and applaud the Attention paid by our Governor General and Council to the Company's Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel: The instant Relief proposed by the Governor General; his Requision to Sir Eyre Coote to proceed and take upon himself the Command of the Army on the Coast; the Terms and Manner in which the Requisition was made; the General's ready Acceptance of a Service, big with Difficulty and Danger; and the Concurrence of the other Members of Council in the wife and active Measures proposed on that most important Occasion, do them much Honour. From their future Exertions, and the hearty Co operation of our other Settlements, we hope the Scene in the Carnatic has been, or soon will be, reversed.

Extract of General Letter from the Court of Directors to the Governor General and Council of Bengal; dated 31st May 1781.

Par. 7. A few Days fince, we received a Letter from our Select Committee of Bombay, dated the 1th of January 1781, by which we are informed of the Reduction of Bassein, with very little Loss, by the Army under the Command of General Goddard. The Conduct of our said Committee appears to have been judicious, and the Behaviour of the Troops highly satisfactory. In regard to the General, we have already given our Sentiments respecting the mentorious Services of that good and gallant Officer, and we are exceedingly happy in the present Opportunity of repeating those Sentiments, and in testifying, as we now do, that we have the greatest Dependance upon his Zeal and Ability if warlike Operations be still unavoidable; and that he will contribute to the utmost of his Power towards removing every Obstacle to a just, speedy, and honourable Peace.

8. As the Fall of Bassein was an Event expected by our Governor General and Council, and by our Select Committee of Bombay, we hope, according to their own Ideas, and agreeable to the Tenor of

of our Instructions of the 2d of February, that upon giving up other Districts lately obtained to the Marattas, Bassein may have been preserved to the Company; but we are nevert.

In on, that it Peace could not be re-established with the Marattas without givin and if their Assistance in repelling the Incursions of Hyder Ally could be obtained by the saccious of that Fortress, in such Case Bassein should be forthwith restored. And indeed the State of Assistant George by the last Advices, is so very different from what we had Reason to expect when we wrote the before-mentioned Letter, that if Peace be purchased by the Restitution of Bassein, and of other Conquests made from the Marattas, Saliette and Caranja excepted, we are convinced that the absolute Necessity of the Measure must have been evident, before it would be adopted, and in such Case it will have our Approbation.

9. Our Advices from Ganjam state the Apptehensions which naturally arose upon the Arrival of an Army in that Quarter from the Rajah of Berai. We have noticed the Sentiments and Proceedings of our Governor General and Council respecting the Designs of Moodajee Boosla, and particularly the Examination of his Vackeel before the Board at Calcutta; and we hope it will prove, that the Rajah has not entertained unfavourable Designs against the Company, but that it is his real Desire and Intention to act the Part of a Mediator between the Company and the Marattas.

10. We remark with peculiar Satisfaction, that our Governor General and Council intend to obtain a proper Provision for the Support of Ragoba during his Life. We earnestly hope this Point will have been duly attended to and properly secured, in case pacific Arrangements may have taken place before the Receipt of these our Instructions.

of the Occurrences of your Prefidency in Detail; we expect before the Dispatch of the October Fleet to be in Possessina of more recent Advices, and shall not fail to give such Orders and Instructions as shall then be necessary. In the mean time, we have the most perfect beliance upon your Wisdom, Zeal, and watchful Attention, to promote the Welfare of the Company, and to guard against and render abortive all Designs formed by the Enemies of Britain to the Prejudice of our Interest in India

Extracts of Circular Letter from the Committee of Secrecy to the Governor General and Council at Bengal, and to the Prefidents and Select Committees of Bombay and Fort Saint George; dated 31ft May 1781.

The Powers delegated to the late Chairman and Deputy Chairman, as advised in the Court's Letter of the 5th of July 1780, having been renewed and vested in us, we address you as a Committee of Secrecy accordingly.

By the Trial Schooner we have received Packets from our Governor General and Council, and from the late Select Committee of Fort St. George, advising us of the Invasion of the Carnatic by Hyder Ally. The immediate Cause of the War; the unprepared State of the late Government of Fort Saint George to refist or repel the Invader; the severe Loss sulfained by the Defeat and Destruction of Colonel Baillie's Detachment; the Retreat of the Army under General Munro; and the stuture Success of the Enemy, are Events which have occasioned universal Consternation and Astonishment.

As we write in Cypher, we enter into no Detail by this Dispatch. We however inform you, that a parliamentary Enquiry into the Cause of Causes of the late Missortunes on the Coast has taken place at the Requisition of Administration.

•We exceedingly approve and applicate the ready Attention paid by our Governor General and Council to the Company's Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel. The instant Relicf afforded, and wise Measures adopted at that most alarming Criss, do them much Honour. From their future Exertions, and the Co-operation of our other Settlements, we hope the Scene in the Carnatic will soon be reversed.

The principal Defign of this Letter is to inform you what Succours may be expected from hence, in addition to those already tent to India.

You will always remember, that our First and grand Object is Peace with the Country Powers of India, upon safe and honourable Terms. Our Governor General and Council must take the lead in all Negociations, and direct or authorize the Plan of Operation for all our Settlements; and all their Instructions and Requisitions must be obeyed.

We rely upon your hearty Co-operation in giving Effect to every Measure adopted for restoring the Public Tranquillity, and for re-establishing the Company's Affairs on a solid Foundation, and shall write you more at large by the first Sea Conveyance.
